3-29-1990

The Montclarion, March 29, 1990

The Montclarion

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/montclarion

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/montclarion/588

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Student Newspapers at Montclair State University Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Montclarion by an authorized administrator of Montclair State University Digital Commons. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@montclair.edu.
Brothers busted in cemetery

Delta Kappa Psi guilty of hazing

By Virginia DelGado
Staff Writer

Five members of the Delta Kappa Psi business fraternity were arrested and pleaded guilty March 15 to the charge of hazing, police said.

Judge Golden Johnson dismissed the charges but gave the fraternity members a stern warning against the happening again, Montclair police said. James Peri, Robert Trazaglini, Mark Powell, Brian Bartel, and Ramon Cabrera each paid a $30 court fee and were dismissed.

The five men were arrested on March 15 as they were leaving Mt. Hebron Cemetery. After setting up for initiation of new members, Powell said.

Police said that at 1:49 a.m. they received a call from a neighbor complaining of suspicious activities in the cemetery. Deputy Chief Corcoran said that the police found shovels, eggs, masks, and three by eight cards with instructions on the sight. Mark Powell said that these objects were there simply for props and no damage was intended.

Police confirmed that there was no damage done to the cemetery.

Edward Martin, dean of students, said that a Greek Counsel is being set up that will consist of representatives from all the fraternities and sororities to review the behavior of the Delta Kappa Psi members. The counsel, which will be in cooperation with the S.G.A., will decide what action will be taken.

There is a possibility that the fraternity will lose its charter, Martin said. The matter is being left in the hands of the student leadership and M.S.C. officials will take action because the college wants to encourage "strong self discipline in the fraternity and sorority system," he said.

"To the best of my knowledge this is the worst hazing incident that has ever been brought to the attention of this college," Martin added.

Since Delta Kappa Psi is a business fraternity and not a social one, the matter was discussed with the dean of the business school. Dean Surechand Desai might withdraw recognition of the fraternity, Martin said.

Powell said that he and the four other arrested men were upset with the way the press handled the incident. He said, "The press that reported (The New Jersey Herald) said we were fined for hazing. That's not true. We paid court fees."

Powell said that the press made it sound worse than what actually happened. He said they were setting up for initiation and the objects that were found were there just to set the atmosphere.

La Campana has little coverage of blacks or hispanics

OSAU blasts yearbook for racial insensitivity

By Dwayne Marshall
Staff Writer

Fifteen members of The Organization of Students for African Unity, joined by advisors, blasted La Campana, the yearbook, for insensitivity to Blacks and other minorities, in OSAU's open campus forum Tuesday night.

Some of the students, assembled in the Student Center Cafe C, said they were disappointed because the yearbook had no pictures of African-American and Latin fraternities and sororities.

Dr. Saundra, director of African-American Studies at MSC, said, "This yearbook is blatantly racist in its coverage of African-American organizations and activities."

Professor Leslie Wilson of the history department said, "This yearbook was a slap in the face to the African-American student body."

He said this is the second year in a row that the yearbook has been insensitive toward African-Americans.

Dean James Harris said the yearbook was a discredit to track coach John Blanton and the track team. He told the audience that his door is open to suggestions on how they would like to see the yearbook put together.

Ezenwa-Inya Agha, captain of the track team, said he was deeply hurt and insulted when he saw there were no pictures of the track team and read the article on coach Blanton in the yearbook. Reprinting the article, a reprint of a Montclarion story, was insensitive in view of the last record-breaking season, which La Campana does not mention, he said.

He made a plea to the members of OSAU to "speak out against the actions of La..." cont. on p. 6

New English honors proposal comes to a tie among faculty

By Richard E. Buckley, Jr.
Assignment Editor

A vote on a proposal for an honors program in the English department was tied 15-15. A second vote was also tied.

Dr. Lawrence Schwartz opposed the proposal. In a rebuttal memo he sent to other English professors, Schwartz said that an honors program would be elitist and racist. "Why segregate the best students into separate sections? To whose benefit?" Schwartz wrote.

Schwartz said that the admission requirements to the program is racist because the requirement to have a combined S.A.T. score of 1150 would exclude Black and Hispanic students. "Why encourage more separatist activities?" said Schwartz in his rebuttal.

Schwartz also criticized what he calls the lack of consideration given to the expansion of the English department. "For more than ten years the English Department has grown and expanded haphazardly. There should be a moratorium on all further program development," said Schwartz.

There have been questions about student interest in the program, Nash said. The committee had nine faculty members pass out a survey to English majors last fall. Of the 105 respondents, 95 were in favor of an honors program; 60 percent of those polled said honors program candidates should be chosen selectively.

Since the vote on the original proposal, there has been a revised proposal drafted by the committee. Under the new proposal any student would be eligible.

The requirements would be to take an existing seminar class and earn a grade of A-minus or better, and an honors option program which would entail the usual course requirements, plus a long paper or special project supervised by an instructor. The candidate would also have to earn a grade of A- or better.

The program was complete. The student would receive a certificate upon graduation, according to the draft of the proposal. cont. on p. 6
ATTENTION SENIORS

Cruise the New York Skyline

Circle Line, Pier 84
Friday, April 20th, 8:30 pm - Midnight

Tickets go on sale:
April 2 - April 18
Student Center Ticket Booth

$10 per person
(2 tickets per senior)

* Cash Bar
* Live DJ
* ID Required

"Forever Young"
at
the Parsippany Hilton

Friday May 11th, 1990
Cocktail Hour: 8-9,
Dinner/Dance: 9-1

Tickets go on sale:
April 23 - May 8, Student Center Booth

$40 per person

*5 hours Open Bar (ID Required)
*Room rates available, reserve in advance

Senior committee of the SGA
Women in the workforce

Businesswomen explore paths and pitfalls of corporate success at panel discussion

By Ann Daly

Women don’t have to dress like men in order to fit in with them, a panel of prominent businesswomen agreed on March 14.

Students, both male and female, packed Kops Lounge in Russ Hall to hear the four women discuss the paths and pitfalls to corporate success.

Ten to 15 years ago it was uncommon for women to be in the workforce. Today, many of them are holding corporate positions.

Deborah Aguiar-Velez, president and owner of Sistemas Corp., began by leading the discussion. She was joined by Marie Dreher, an MSC alumnus, and Madeline Weinstein, firstvice-president and director of human resources and training at Merrill Lynch.

The women agreed that “breaking into the boy’s club” can be difficult, but not impossible.

“Women have come a long way,” said Aguiar-Velez. Her attitude was shared by the other guest speakers.

“In today’s world, where there are a lot of pressures, one of the most difficult attributes a woman can have is a sense of humor,” said Dreher. “That’s the only way to deal with men in the market place.”

“You also have to be realistic,” said Aguiar-Velez. “Know what your limitations are. Once you know what they are, then you can focus on your strengths.”

Many of the women agreed that the most difficult thing for them to overcome was the impressions that men often have concerning women’s leadership qualities.

“Men don’t think that women are as capable and committed to their jobs as men are,” said Dreher. “The only way women can overcome such problems is to have a positive attitude and show initiative.”

Weinstein summed up the discussion by addressing the issue of working women and their families. She said that it’s hard for a woman to juggle a career and a family at the same time.

“We women have a double responsibility when it comes to working and a family,” she said. “Men and women usually work eight hours a day, but when five o’clock comes, the woman heads home to her ‘other’ job.”

Weinstein also said that due to the majority of women in the workforce, the issue of family responsibilities is no longer a women’s problem anymore, but a labor issue.

Weinstein said a bumper sticker that she keeps in her office reads, “Women have to be twice as good as men to be half as capable.” Women have come a long way, but still have far to go, she said.

A point on which unanimously agreed was that career women need a foundation of values.

“Values are what are going to help you have success in your life,” said Toby, who stressed the importance of values in her speech. “Promise-keeping, truth-telling, reparation, gratitude, justice and rare things you should have.”

Toby also cited some important keys to corporate success that will not only enhance, but are essential to women’s performances on the job. These keys — competence, control, choice, courage, competition and confidence — she referred to as “six Cs.”

“Men and women usually work and a family,” she said. “The only way women can overcome such problems is to have a positive attitude and show initiative.”

“We have a double responsibility when it comes to working and a family,” she said. “Men and women usually work eight hours a day, but when five o’clock comes, the woman heads home to her ‘other’ job.”

Weinstein also said that due to the majority of women in the workforce, the issue of family responsibilities is no longer a women’s problem anymore, but a labor issue.

Whether you need information, peer counseling, or just to talk, it is strictly between you and the center. Located on the campus of MSC between Richardson Hall and the Student Center, our trained counselors are ready to listen.

Stop in or call. You are never alone.

If we can’t help you, we know someone who can

893-5217
24 HRS. A DAY
7 DAYS A WEEK
A service of the SGA
BE A LEADER

REPRESENT STUDENTS

Run for an SGA Executive Officer Position

Petitions and information Available: April 2
Due: April 13, 12 Noon

Come by SGA office - Rm 103 S.C.
Helping to create housing for Humanity are, right to left, Paritosh Desai and Arnab Ghose (India), David Lin (Taiwan), a graduate student, and an unidentified International Student Organization member. All are MSC students who volunteered to help out as MSC's Habitat for Humanity group worked on a Newark structure earlier this month.

Easter Break

As a reminder, Friday, April 13 through Sunday, April 15, 1990 is the Good Friday Sunday weekend. The college will be closed during this period, and no classes will be held. Although the information appeared in the 1989-1990 Administrative Calendar, it did not appear in the Spring 1990 Schedule of Courses.

Volunteer Center

Anyone interested in performing volunteer work should contact the Volunteer Center of Greater Essex County at 622-3737. The center acts as a clearing house for volunteer organizations all over Essex county, and can match prospective volunteers' interests with organizations needing specific skills.

Volunteers wanted for long, long dance

Contributed by Residence Life

Organizers hope MSC's 1st annual "Dance Marathon," a twelve-hour dancing endurance test, in the Blanton Hall Atrium, will involve all campus organizations. All proceeds from the May 11 fund-raiser will be donated to the American Red Cross Association.

KAMTAM Productions, owned by MSC students, and the Office of Residence Life, have been inviting support from MSC students. So far an "overwhelming response" from many Class I organizations of the SGA, has materialized, in the form of donations. Faculty and staff have not yet been approached.

Surprise performances by recording artists — salsa, club, pop, rock, reggae, and hip-hop styles — are planned, as well as door prizes and free giveaways.

Interested dancers will record pledges, hourly amounts to be donated for dancing endurance, in advance.

The event begins at 8 p.m., and dancing will continue until 8 a.m. for "pledges" raising money by the hour; once they stop moving, they stop raising money for the Red Cross.

Or just to dance to the music requires a $12 donation and an MSC ID. Only MSC faculty, staff, and students will be

All Around The Campus

"What did you do over the spring break?"

by Peter S. Rebovich Jr.

"I drove out to Florida and my car broke down on the way back in South Carolina. Other than that I had a great spring break."

Michele Santore
junior/communications studies

"I spent it on the beach in sunny Daytona, Florida, hopping from club to club checking out the scene."

Jim Litterio
senior/graphic design

"I worked for all five days and also saw the Anderson, Brufford, Wakeman and Howe concert on Friday night."

Dan Winters
junior/political science

"I went to Miami Beach with a group of 25 other students. I found it very interesting and informative. It widened my perspective of America."

Krishna Aikat
senior/business

"I stayed home and studied for my upcoming midterm. I also just rested and relaxed in peace."

Juliana Karim
senior/business management
MSC recently implemented computerized payroll and check writing systems, which, unlike most state agency check processing procedures, no longer require central approval in Trenton. The new system was implemented as a result of the college’s autonomous status, which the New Jersey legislature approved in 1987. Witnessing the first paychecks issued by the new system under MSC’s autonomous status are, left to right, Ann Turizanni of the college payroll office, Martha Huyler, a consultant hired to implement the computerized system, MSC President Irwin Reid, Marian Whittenburg from the data processing department, and Richard Davis, associate vice-president for administrative services.

English honors

cont. from p. 1
Honors Committee. The new proposal will be voted on in the near future.

Bill Bradley to speak

Democratic Senator Bill Bradley of NJ is scheduled to announce his decision to run for re-election at MSC next Monday at 11 a.m., in a speech outside the Student Center.

Yearbook racism

cont. from p. 1
Blanton was unavailable for comment.

In a telephone interview, Billy Cogan, the editor-in-chief of La Campana, said, “There aren’t any team pictures in the yearbook.” He refused to comment on how the yearbook was put together.

Campus Police Report

Male has fake I.D.

By Seth Liebowitz
Staff Writer

A male was stopped going the wrong way on College Avenue on March 25 at 3:30 a.m. The male presented a false license and birth certificate to campus police. As a result he is being prosecuted for stealing false identification and reckless driving.

There was an attempted theft of a Corvette in lot 24 between 9:00 and 10:30 a.m. on March 28 that resulted in a broken steering column. The thieves disabled the car’s alarm by going under the hood but were stopped in their attempt to steal the automobile when a kill switch located in the carburetor shut down the engine.

Class One Concerts presents

Open Mike Night

Wednesday, April 4
7:00 pm in the Rat

$1.00 admission for students

CIC is a Class One of the SGA
Features

Nintendo Junkies

MSC's playing it again...and again

By Anthony DiPasquale

It's eight o'clock on a Sunday evening. Ross Miller, a college freshman, decides to take a break from studying for his football game.

"It's the greatest game ever invented!" declares Ross as he massages the cramp out of his hands, a condition he has dubbed "Nintendo thumb."

"I'll just wake up early tomorrow and finish studying for my test...after a quick game of Tecmo."

It's an old story — college students looking for anything to distract them from studying. But the recent Nintendo craze borders on a psychological addiction as an alarming number of students have adopted the Japanese-engineered game as their favorite form of escapism.

Dr. Susan Herman, director of Psychological Services at MSC, believes that it is quite possible for someone to become psychologically addicted to anything, especially video games.

"People often lose themselves in things such as television or video games, because they can just turn it on and turn everything else off," said Herman.

The ratio of hours spent playing the games to excess. Thepower of the games to hold the attention of an older age group lies in their design. Cartridges such as Tecmo Bowl, Blades of Steel, and RBI baseball were devilishly designed by masterminds in Japan with the intent to satisfy even the most knowledgeable sports fans.

The teams of each game use the real statistics of pro players in football, hockey, and baseball, which enables each team to have different strengths and weaknesses. This enables fans who have a working knowledge of player statistics to choose the best players to successfully complete a particular play.

"It's the most competitive and realistic game I have ever played," declares Ray Young, a football player and formidable Nintendo opponent. "You're right there in the game controlling all of your heroes. You can't beat it!"

"My parents wouldn't let me bring my Nintendo to college with me because they knew I would never go to class," said Tom, a freshman. "So I can only play it whenever I come across a room with a Nintendo."

Matt and Monti, two fraternity brothers, spent a whole semester looking for a different Nintendo owner every day where they could bring beers and play until it was time to go to a party. "If we had our own Nintendo, there would be no reason to leave the room," said Matt.

The majority of students who play Nintendo are not afraid to admit that their love for the game has had some effect on their studying, but they do not seem concerned with the fact that they may be addicted.

In fact, Ray simply reflected on his eight-hour-a-day habit and said, "I don't know if I'm addicted, but I can't stop playing."

Little Feats

This "featured" information might give you a step in the right direction.

Making a Splash in Sandy Hook

This summer, spend some time on a Caribbean island while improving your education.

The New Jersey Marine Sciences Consortium is getting ready to launch its third decade of summer courses for undergraduate students, graduate students, educators, and the general public.

Course selections range from short-term workshops, covering a variety of general interest, coastal-oriented topics, to a 17-day program exploring comparisons between marine habitats in New Jersey and Bermuda which includes an eight-day stay on the Caribbean island.

A number of four-credit, basic marine science courses and the perennially popular SCUBA, will also be offered at NJMSC's field stations in Sandy Hook and Seaville, in Cape May County. A special five-day workshop for educators is also scheduled for both locations, designed to help develop classroom lessons and activities that can be incorporated into multidisciplinary elementary curricula.

Overnight facilities are available at both locations. Participants may also be eligible for scholarships or financial aid. For a brochure with full course descriptions, tuition fees, room and board rates, and registration requirements contact the NJMSC at (201) 872-1300 in Sandy Hook or (609) 390-3320 in Seaville.

Sophomore Jim Falisi (left) and junior Andy Chudlinski register in Blanton Hall Atrium for a shot at the Clove Road Apartments, usually dominated by seniors. The Atrium will be quite busy during the next month as residents file deposits and select rooms for on-campus housing next year. If you tried for Clove and haven't heard from Residence Life yet, you'll know definitely by this Friday.
Protest is a key force

Back in the sixties and early seventies, young America forced their parents to listen seriously to the opinions they wanted to express. The countless protests and demonstrations staged by courageous students all across America played a major role in transporting our society from the obliquely accepting age of Kennedy to the sometimes painful, sometimes promising, age of Johnson.

Protest is a positive force in our society, and a freedom that we should treasure as a privilege of democracy. Just look at all of the people who jammed the squares of Eastern Europe to protest, once and for all, the Iron Curtain. Protest is a precursor to important, for all, the future. Complacently trusting in the future is a very dangerous thing in this day and age. It could prove more damaging than one might think.

Ignore the state of our future is simply not smart. Sure, it is not include basic anxiety and stress, but the concept of doing nothing is a given in this society. And mind you, we, the broadcasting students, are the ones with the education. This means “the help” was a given in this vanity affair. Needless to say, this does not include basic anxiety and stress. However, it does not prove that people are not taking the time off from either work or classes. Well our reward for all this was zilch except perhaps a valuable lesson.

Being that this show was an AIDS benefit and it was being taped live, you can imagine how high the stress level was. This means “the help” was running around like chickens without heads from 9 a.m.to 2 a.m. (This does not count the two day rehearsal work prior to taping).

Making tea for our “talent” was a given in this vanity charade. And mind you, throughout this entire disaster, I thought to myself that we, the broadcasting students, are the ones with the education. It’s a joke, our society isn’t it?

Well anyway, the show ended about two o’clock in the morning. Radio City did not provide any meals for us and receiving a simple “thanks a lot” was like pulling teeth. So obviously you can see that our nerves were shot and we were very disillusioned at this point. Well here is the grand finale:

It was time to leave and all of us are standing in the foyer waiting for our rides. It was pouring rain outside so we waited inside with the “talent”. This security guard or whoever he thought he was, kicks us out into the rain! He says, “Your work is done, now I want you kids out of here! The ‘talent’ don’t like to bump into people when they walk.” He should have had the “talent” don’t like to bump into peasants when they walk. That was the exact message he was sending us. Well, I should have told this individual off.

Student Voice

A lesson learned in the ‘real’ world

By Adriana Gale

Contributing Columnist

But as the old adage goes, the cat got my tongue. It happens to all of us at one point in time, but it is still getting me mad. You know how you think about something you should have said for days after the fact? Well that is happening to me now.

One last thing. That I didn’t say anything on this occasion really bothers me. The guitarist from the Grateful Dead, Bob Weir, was standing two feet in front of me in a stairwell. (We were smoking cigarettes). If the cat didn’t get my tongue, I would have told him that I admire his efforts to save the rainforest, but that I do not admire the amount of LSD being dropped at his shows.

I know it’s only an opinion, but I think saving a brain is more important than a tree in South America. Do you?

When I was young, millions of people worshipped this guy. Why doesn’t he preach how bad McDonalds is for the rainforest, why doesn’t he preach how bad acid is for the brain?

I don’t know. If I worked for McDonalds, do you know what I would say to persons in the Dead? “People in glass houses shouldn’t throw stones.” And it is funny because the song Bob Weir sung at a benefit show was called, “Throwing Stones.” What a hypocrisy!
Japanese investors buy MSC

By Dickard Suckley
Staff Bard

Japanese investors bought MSC yesterday for $790 million in the latest investment by the SONY corporation.

"This will be a wonderful opportunity for MSC students to experience firsthand how Japan is buying up real estate all over the United States," said MSC President Driving Weed.

There are several changes which will be implemented immediately, Mr. Miagi, a SONY spokesperson, said.

"First and foremost, Montclair State College will now be known as Mitsubishi State College. We feel that the name change is necessary and we don't care who gets pissed at us," Miagi said.

There are also plans to convert Bohn Hall into the world's largest Benihana restaurant, as well as converting the Rat into a sushi bar named The Rising Sun.

Mr. Miagi, a SONY spokesperson, announced his corporation's takeover of Montclair State College yesterday. The college will now be known as Mitsubishi State College and several changes to the campus' structure will take place immediately.

"This wasn't in my plan," says Willy Trojan

MSC yearbook editor copyrights school logo

By Dickard Suckley

In a sudden emotional reaction to the takeover of Montclair State College by the Sony Corporation, Willy Trojan, idol-chief of La Mierda, the student yearbook, announced yesterday that he has copyrighted every Mitsubishi State logo in his own name.

"This wasn't the way it was supposed to go. This wasn't in my plan. Montclair State College was due to become Trojan State College in another week, as soon as I finished using La Mierda funds to compose the letterhead," said a distraught Trojan.

Instead, Trojan has assumed the rights to all Mitsubishi State logos and the college's mascot, the Fighting Shitzus. "At least I'll make some money off of the damn thing. If I can't have the college in my name, I'll settle for some spare cameras and the chance to lure a cute chick to my darkroom with the promise of free film," he explained.

SAG president Mary Jane Leg O'Lamb said that the yearbook editor's ego had gone beyond her control and that she was considering crushing Trojan's self-esteem as a means of restraint. "I know these two really strong treasurers, see, and they'll be more than willing to help out. My treasurer has an even larger ego than Trojan and the other one will just throw curry in his face," she said.

SAG treasurer Timothy Gonad outlined his plan for crushing Trojan's self-esteem. "Really, it's a very simple task. I know how Willy works," he said.

Gonad explained that he had been examining the way the yearbook was organized since early December, and knew its weak spots.

"Willy will only allow males inside his organization who are shorter than he is. This boosts his ego into outer orbit," said Gonad. "If I give up my position as SAG treasurer and begin working for the yearbook, not only will I tower over Willy and deflate his self-esteem, but I'll make my life a hell of a lot easier. Shit, they only do one book a year and Jostens takes care of it anyway. I'm psyched."

Other yearbook members disagreed with Gonad's tactics. "I'll never work," said La Mierda managing editor Rusty Whitehall. "Willy has created The Diminutive Trinity with himself as the father, John Mafioso as the son and David Club as the Holy Spirit. I don't know where I'm supposed to fit in. I'm taller than all three put together."

La Mierda's treasurer, Pris Roome, agreed. "I agree," she said flatly, sticking out her tongue.

Leg O'Lamb's other standby, Mitsubishi treasurer Saul Realsilly, said he had another plan of action to deflate Trojan's ego. "I'm going to dress up as a beautiful Harem chick and flirt like crazy with Willy. Then just when he thinks he's in for a great nudey photo session with me, I'll throw a really hot curry or perhaps a really hot curry in his face," she said.

No cars were stolen, broken into, vandalized, spat on or urinated on this past week. However, traces of spermatozoa were found on a Mustang GT convertible's velour seat covers. The MSC chemistry department has made a match with the residue and samples taken from the library, and the kampus kops are hot on the trail.

The Bimbos From Hell Gang terrorized the game room last Tuesday. They, like, demanded all of the occupant's charge cards, and if they, like, didn't cooperate, they would, like, hair spray everyone into unconsciousness. Upon hearing the MSC football team approaching, they squealed in delight and chased them in the gang leader Gina Linguini's red IROC Z.
CIA will teach students a lesson

Central Idiotic Association protests student involvement

By Ivan Awfulitch
Asst. Creatures Ed.

The Central Idiotic Association was at career services last week in a protest to student involvement in on-campus organizations.

"Usually, we would not be bothered by students on campus, but they have become a nuisance and must be sent to labor camps in Panama to be taught a lesson," a CIA spokesperson said.

The CIA members could be heard all throughout the Stupid Center chanting, "Students suck! They can'tuck! Go to Rutgers and screw a duck!"

John Q. Public, the organizer of the protest, came up with the cheer, and said, "It was about as original as the cheer the students used when last we were here."

Many students were helping out the CIA, and were running rampant through the Stupid Center screaming in support. Some students entered the Stupid Center Bookstore and began burning books of political science, quantum physics, and the novelization of "Bill and Ted's Excellent Adventure," until the Kampus Kops arrived in their state-of-the-art Mitsubishi State 4X4, donated by the Nissan Motor Company. The riot was broken up when the students were fired upon by a high-pressure sweet and sour sauce hose.

Arlo Grossman, stap head of the Mitsubishi, was heard screaming, "I feel like Amy Carter now!" as he was hauled off to the MSC Field House to be tortured by a bunch of musclebound jocks named Tony.

But after all this, not one person on campus knew what the hell the ruckus was about. "It was a lot of fun, though," said protester and SAG Legislator Tony Cesspool.

Governor James Florio announced that communism holds the solution for New Jersey's toughest problems.

By Carl Marks
Staph Communist

In a move that shocked the state, Governor James Florio, son of a Brooklyn shipyard worker, announced this week that he has reversed his political party affiliation to the Communists after being a life-long Democrat.

In explaining why he became a Communist, Florio said that he felt socialism, despite its bad rap in Eastern Europe, has the solutions to New Jersey's toughest problems. Florio claimed his new tax policy is a sign of more socialist things to come, such as free health care for all, and the abolishment of tuition for state colleges, including Mitsubishi.

When asked about Florio's sudden move, one student said, "Who?" while another disgustedly said, "They're all crooks."

Church goers seen moshing at mass

By Ivan Awfulitch and Bob Oldmayo

The fraternity Tappa Kegge Dei 0 organized a celebration with the Students Against Govern­ment, Inc. came up for recharter­ing. The bill passed unanimously as the Legislators began singing Irish songs instead of the norm.

The SAG Constitution was amended last week by including the SAG 10 Commandments written by SAG Legislator Mad Max. The commandments read as follows:

1. Thou shalt never, ever admit you actually are in SAG.
2. Thou shalt never actually give a straight answer, even if you did understand the question.
3. Thou shalt confuse, lose, and abuse those things which are of vital importance to other Legislators.
4. Thou shalt do the MIN­IMUM, no more, no less.
5. Thou shalt be bored during all meetings.
6. Thou shalt discuss non­sense instead of making a point.
7. Thou shalt cover up, lie, cheat, steal, and embezzle, just don't get caught.
8. Thou shalt not kill, no matter how obnoxious a fellow Legislator is.
9. To get elected, promise anything.
10. Thou shalt cavort drun­kenly to rock music with scantily clad Legislators of the opposite sex, just keep it quiet during the meeting.

Max Maddox said the amend­ments by stating, "Do this, and thou shalt be Governor of New Jersey."

Debate over the potential chartering of yet another controversial fraternity made for a heated SAG session yesterday. The new fraternity in question, Omega Mu, is a group of animal lovers who actually want to include students and cows in the same fraternity and social activities.

The group met with vehe­ment opposition from Greek and non-Greek Legislators alike, though some in the SAG argued for the frat.

When questioned by a legis­lator about including cows in a frat, the leader of the group claimed that he and other frat members could communicate and bond better with animals than humans. Other animal lovers in the organization voiced the opinion that "animals have rights and deserve to be treated equally with humans."

Most SAG members, however, did not agree, and in a lopsided vote, the Legislature did not grant the group a charter as a frat.

In other SAG happenings, an emergency appropriation for The Mitsubishian was denied despite desperate urgent pleas by Managing Idiot Dyke Wimples, sports columnist Bat "Long Cold" Winter, and Sports Idiot Mitsubishi Frisco, who asked the SAG to fund a trip to Denver to cover the ACC basketball tournament. After the meeting, Wimples was quoted as saying, "Oh, well."

During announcements, SAG resident Mary Lane Leg O'Lamb said that this spring's Leadership Conference will be held in Hawaii. The conference will begin on April 29 and conclude on May 5. She also announced that she will be appearing in a nude pictorial in Penthouse the month of September issue, but no one paid any attention because everyone was arguing over a co-ed social fraternity's chartering.

Church goers seen moshing at mass

By Arlo Grossman
Asst. Fudpucker

In an astonishing revelation, an anonymous source disclosed yesterday that several students were caught "moshing" and slam-dancing to Ozzy Osbourne's album about a certain all-mighty Lord sentences them to eternal damnation. We believe that God likes Debbie Gibson better than that evil, satanic Osbourne anyway.

"I have seen the light," screamed one enthusiastic church-goer, "I can feel Ozzy's presence in my soul. Ozzy will lead and I will follow. Besides, the chicks in the spandex pants and leather bras were really hot."

John "Blue Jay" O'Connor said, "You know, I really hate to admit it, but Ozzy does have a good beat that I can really bug out to. I give him a 98 for style."

The Mitsubishian

Idiotic Policy Board
Lykes Codeine ........................................... Idiotic-in-Chief
Nagie Sistaic ............................................. Editorial Page Idiot

Idiots Who Do This For Free

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Idiots Who Actually Get Paid</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Buckley's Mutton</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Artless Editor</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Longhair Suckass</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ass.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dickard Suckley</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fudpucker</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Arlo Grossmeout</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ass. Fudpucker</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Slavingery K. Fange</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ass.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cyanide Kaflrin Tartu Creatures</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ivan Aflulish</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ass.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Snake Moccassin</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pornography</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sam Van Friee ........................................</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Condoms</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Production Staff

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Photography Staff</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Priuili Tiny</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Andheas Lizaridlike</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dr. Mike Neemeth</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Faculty Loser</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Prof. Charles Hollandia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Faculty Loser</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Busywork Department

| - Saul Realityly                                     |
| - A Big Fat Whore                                    |
| - Jane Bitch C-cups                                  |
| - An Ignorant Slut                                   |

The Mitsubishian is a yearly publication produced at The Montclairian over spring break. It does not in any way reflect the opinions and/or policies of The Montclairian, a class one of the SGA. Any Mitsubishian character's resemblance to a person, living or dead, is unintentional. Most importantly, if you can't take a joke, turn the goddamn page. No one is forcing you to read this.

---

Exxon Strikes AGAIN!

By Buckley's Mutton

Artless Editor

Sadly, one of America's greatest problems has claimed Mitsubish State College's Student Center Mall as it's latest grave-yard for seashell and other aquatic creatures.

Last Wednesday, March 14, an Exxon truck, while delivering an oil shipment, overturned and spewed 50,000 gallons of black murky fuel into the grassy area located between Calicia Fine Arts Building and Mallory Hall.

It seems the driver, en route to Partridge Hall, was pinned in the head with a heavy sack, fell unconscious, and lost control of the rig. "Kids," said the president of the refining company, "well, these things happen!" When the Mitsubishian inquired about the plans to clean up the mess, suggestions were made to:

A. Have another homecoming bonfire
B. Bring in Rosie with her "Quicker-picker-upper"
C. Let the MSC "Big-hairs" explore new possibilities

While there will be a proper disposal for all the deceased animals, the Mitsubishian suggests that none of the dead fish in the commuter cafeteria for the remainder of the semester.

"Bummer, no more friebee," said a non-pressed student. "No longer are the days of lounging in the sun, unless, of course you wear boots and carry a raft..."

A different approach to the situation came from the Screw All For Cash Club. "Why not enjoy this little 'mishap' and reap the benefits?" asked the president. He suggested fencing in the area and charging admissions for tourists to visit Northern Jersey's only tar pit.

SIT, Students In Turnmoil, want to stop up the mess with MSC's bountiful supply of styrofoam cups, and sell it on the streets to raise money to import the statue of Lenin, which was recently removed from Manna.

The OPEC Club has offered to take the unwanted oil and sell it to local gas stations in hopes to fund more belly-dancers in the cafeteria.

---

Elvis...live in concert at MSC

By Bark Mitten

Artless Editor

Yes, it's true, Elvis, played live at MSC in his coming-back-to-life tour. Elvis, the "King" of rock-n-roll, performed one night and one night only at Mitsubishi State College's Memorium Auditorium.

Opening for this side-burned wonder was the famed 60's throwback band...The Grateful Dead. Only at MSC could you find Cherries Garcia, Bob Weir, and Elvis on stage together.

"It was better than Cats, I'd see it again and again," said one student who was able to witness this remarkable performance at Fudpucker U.

---

Hamsters on Crack

By Longhair Suckass

Artis

Responding to reports that the hamsters the biology department uses in testing are on crack, the head of the biology department, Hare Krishna, said "Lies, lies, all lies!"

According to several sources that wish to remain anonymous because they fear for their lives, such as Dan Grossman, the hamsters are running wild through the halls and "having their way" with the female hamsters.

So far this week, three janitors have been mugged by the drug-smuggling rodents, and one female student had to run for her life when they were out 'wielding' Tuesday night. Fortunately, she was carrying an Uzi.

Sources high up in the administration say there are plans to eradicate the rodent threat by lacing their crack with cyanide. Any connection between this plan and the cyanide-poisoning deaths of 47 students in the last week is denied.

---

Crotch Potatoe Update

By Ivan Aflulish

Ah, so! Welcome back to the most fuel-efficient state college in the United States! Now since the SONY corporation has donated VCR's to the dorms on campus, it would be a shame not to announce the upcoming vidoes!

Back In The Minors Not Rated

The long-awaited sequel to the steamy, sex-laden underground blockbuster, Rob Lowe returns with a rush for a girls rock and roll fantasy. "This is for a girls rock and roll fantasy," says the director. "It's for the girls who love the rock and roll fantasy!"

---

Screen Beans

A multi-million dollar contract has been signed between Lykes Codeine, Idiotic-In-Chief of the Mitsubishian, and Universal Studios for a three-movie series to show the world just what really goes on behind the Mitsubishian's doors on Wednesday nights. This will either confirm or put to rest the stories on what exactly goes on with the pizza and shrimp toast from 5:00 to 2:00 a.m. at 137 Guest stars Jim and Tammy Bakker, Jimmy Swaggart, and Anton LeVay.

---

Elvis...live in concert at MSC

By Bark Mitten

Artless Editor

Yes, it's true, Elvis, played live at MSC in his coming-back-to-life tour. Elvis, the "King" of rock-n-roll, performed one night and one night only at Mitsubishi State College's Memorium Auditorium.

Opening for this side-burned wonder was the famed 60's throwback band...The Grateful Dead. Only at MSC could you find Cherries Garcia, Bob Weir, and Elvis on stage together.

"It was better than Cats, I'd see it again and again," said one student who was able to witness this remarkable performance at Fudpucker U.

---

Elvis...live in concert at MSC

By Bark Mitten

Artless Editor

Yes, it's true, Elvis, played live at MSC in his coming-back-to-life tour. Elvis, the "King" of rock-n-roll, performed one night and one night only at Mitsubishi State College's Memorium Auditorium.

Opening for this side-burned wonder was the famed 60's throwback band...The Grateful Dead. Only at MSC could you find Cherries Garcia, Bob Weir, and Elvis on stage together.

"It was better than Cats, I'd see it again and again," said one student who was able to witness this remarkable performance at Fudpucker U.
Shooting the Shit
To Fill Space

Racquetball and Religion
The annual Shit a Corn Log for Jesus and Bounce it off the Wall contest will be held at 1 p.m. tomorrow in the rear of Pansy gym. Participants should be prepared with bibles, old rackets and a good supply of prunes. A healthy serving of FleaBag Hall creamed corn the night before is recommended. Winners will receive a certificate from Little Falls Trophy to have their weapons bronzed after the contest. Most of the proceeds that aren't skimmed off by the archdiocese will be donated to the Rent-A-John-for-Bums program.

Batting Cage Psychedelia
The National Association for Far Out People has designated Mitsubishi State's batting cages as number three on its Top Ten Psychedelic Places to Trip on Acid. "It's, like, a really vivid place to be when the nets are up for practice. It reminds us of the archetypal hunting net placed over wild beasts and symbolizes all our passions under restraint, especially when the people you trip with begin to melt into a colorful mixture," said T.S. Brokennose and Enrique Herb, co-founders of the association. The first two places on the association's list were Mount Hebron Cemetery and Upper Mountain Avenue.

Annual Pufferfish Eat-a-Thon
Mitsubishi State's athletic department will host a Pufferfish Eat-a-Thon next week to raise funds for the poor and starving athletes subsisting solely on scholarships and administrative bribes. The Eat-A-Thon will span the length of the entire week and participants are expected to supply their own pufferfish and poison control experts. The first five contestants to survive a five-course pufferfish meal are expected to collect close to $5 million in sponsor's fee, or enough to send the baseball team to Florida for spring break next year.

Inside Sports:
There's nothing inside. Go away.

Mickey needs ears reattached
Fighting Shitzus play Disney Destroyers
By Longhair Suckass

Last week, the Mitsubishi State Fighting Shitzus traveled to Florida in their season opener. They played the Disney World Destroyers in a strictly take-no-prisoners game.

From the very beginning, I could see the animosity building up between the two teams. There was even trouble when the national anthem was played, and a compromise had to be reached. The Destroyers played 'It's a Small World After All,' and the Shitzus saluted 'Chopsticks.'

The first three innings were strictly a pitchers' duel, with not one hit on either side. The Donald, the Shitzus' new head coach, said "They must have still been on tripping on acid."

The game was broken wide open in the bottom of the fourth inning when Winnie 'The Pooh' hit a home run off of Shikori Matsumoto, who then committed a glaring error.

On a less joyous note, Tinkerbell was so excited over Winnie's shot that she flew into the scoreboard and immolated herself. "I never did like that little tink twist anyway," said close friend Peter.

At the top of the sixth, the Shitzus made a dramatic comeback after 'The Donald' ordered every fifth player to be castrated "for morale." They scored nine runs that inning, though there was some debate over the validity of all of them since "there were so many balls on the field," said head umpire Peter Uebermann.

Three disemboweled pitchers later, the Fighting Shitzus finally triumphed over the dirty Disney Destroyers by a score of 69-66-6, despite a controversial call by the third base umpire in the top of the ninth.

Mitsubishi State's future wrestling competition?

Mickey needs ears reattached
Fighting Shitzus play Disney Destroyers
By Longhair Suckass

Last week, the Mitsubishi State Fighting Shitzus traveled to Florida in their season opener. They played the Disney World Destroyers in a strictly take-no-prisoners game.

From the very beginning, I could see the animosity building up between the two teams. There was even trouble when the national anthem was played, and a compromise had to be reached. The Destroyers played 'It's a Small World After All,' and the Shitzus saluted 'Chopsticks.'

The first three innings were strictly a pitchers' duel, with not one hit on either side. The Donald, the Shitzus' new head coach, said "They must have still been on tripping on acid."

The game was broken wide open in the bottom of the fourth inning when Winnie 'The Pooh' hit a home run off of Shikori Matsumoto, who then committed a glaring error.

On a less joyous note, Tinkerbell was so excited over Winnie's shot that she flew into the scoreboard and immolated herself. "I never did like that little tink twist anyway," said close friend Peter.

At the top of the sixth, the Shitzus made a dramatic comeback after 'The Donald' ordered every fifth player to be castrated "for morale." They scored nine runs that inning, though there was some debate over the validity of all of them since "there were so many balls on the field," said head umpire Peter Uebermann.

Three disemboweled pitchers later, the Fighting Shitzus finally triumphed over the dirty Disney Destroyers by a score of 69-66-6, despite a controversial call by the third base umpire in the top of the ninth.

Shitzus turn tumblers
by Cyanide Kalfrintarts

What makes jello shine like that? Who invented liquid soap and why? And what the hell are all these questions for?

If you're curious to read any more of this story (thanks to this wildly creative beginning), please do. If you're not, I'm really not getting paid for this, so I don't care one way or the other.

In response to the recent takeover by Japanese investors, several changes will be implemented on the Mitsubishi State campus, particularly in the sports department.

Mr. Miagi, a spokesperson for the SONY corporation, said it best: "Football? Who needs this football, anyway?"

That's right, sports fans. Come this fall, the Mitsubishi State Fighting Shitzus won't be out on the gridiron. They'll be down on the mats in the latest craze, a plan to bring some culture (?) to the college.

Sumo wrestling. According to Miagi, the campus community will benefit from the change of pace. "It is a far better contact sport for the steroid value," he said. "Besides, ring-side spectators get a hell of a view."

The football players have not officially been told yet, he adds. "We plan to tell them slowly, so they fully understand everything. Maybe over the next few months," he added.

Some, though, have gotten wind of the information. (Now for some wildly descriptive fiction technique.)

Concentration furrowed his brow, and for a brief second, a mere flicker of enlightenment shone in the shallows of his eyes. His lips formed a straight line, unmoving, impassive. He snorted, a long, heavy sigh.

"No way, man," said Don Igai, wide receiver. "Football's American, man. We ain't gonna back down. This ain't a takeover of Rockefeller Center we're talkin' here."

One faculty member cocked his head in reply. "Wh-What do you mean, wrestling? This is sports, people."

Miagi added that bonsai trees will be planted along the walkway from Freeman Hall to the soon-to-be-converted-into Pansy wrestling arena.

"Atmosphere is important," he said.

Miagi plans to get the fans psyched for the matches as well by hiring the New Kiddies on the Corner in place of the Mitsubishi State cheerleaders.

"They know how to rock and roll," he said. "We need someone to show the opponent that Mitsubishi really knows how to hang tough."

Kampus Kops sergeant Joe Friday said that since it's a fact that sumo wrestling matches have been known to get out of hand, extra security will be placed around the arena.

This leaves a foot-patrol staff on hand, and against stolen vehicles, Friday said, but those cops around the arena should be able to catch any violent perpetrators.

"We plan to patrol in rick-shaws, to keep with the atmosphere," Friday said.
Oldies don’t get a second chance

To the Editor:

I recently had a very unnerving experience at the hands of WMSC radio that I wish to share with the other students. It all started with a radio show I developed that I wanted to try out on WMSC. I have always loved 50’s and 60’s music, and after collecting records for many years I have realized that some of the best music to come out of that era was not successful, never managing to chart in the “Hot 100.” I also learned that many artists of today, like Bob Seger, and Tina Turner were making music to come out of that era that wasn’t successful, never making it to chart in the “Hot 100.”

Unfortunately, when I went to talk to one of the station managers about it, her only words were, “No oldies!” I pointed out that they already play oldies on their weekend programs, which obviously confused her and motivated her to close the conversation there, but she did press on and inform me that the goal of the station was to expose new artists. When I told her that 90% of the stuff I wanted to play was unknowns, she qualified her previous statement by saying “new unknown artists.” The woman obviously just didn’t like oldies, clearly preferring the sophisticated groups who say, light their guitars on fire or appear half-dressed on stage. Who could blame her?

I talked to other people at the station, who echoed her opinion. Now, everyone on campus is aware of their opinion. So, just to be fair, here’s mine.

I feel that the station is run by aクリックish bunch of conservatives who have obviously been left with a tool that they really don’t know how to play with. They would rather have nothing on the air than an oldies show, as the air time being discussed didn’t even have anything running during it.

Unfortunately, when I went to talk to one of the station managers about it, her only words were, “No oldies!” I pointed out that they already play oldies on their weekend programs, which obviously confused her and motivated her to close the conversation there, but she did press on and inform me that the goal of the station was to expose new artists.

I developed that I wanted to try and nothing else is ever gonna mine who disc jockey at MSC from unsuccessful and now-great, unheard of records back played. Where these unknown classics and Tina Turner were making artists of today, like Bob Seger, aging to chart in the “Hot 100.”

Most of the DJ’s there feel the same way I do but do not want to risk losing their programming or pull by making waves; an understandable dilemma. They routinely speak of the two or three program chiefs there with much more contempt than I am revealing. As for the students, no one at WMSC is overwhelmingly concerned with what they want to hear, either.

It seems unbelievable to me that the college station is run this way, unbelievable but true. The “management” goes around flexing their muscles regarding policy and programming as if the station really did belong to them and them alone! They literally act as if they got together and went out and bought the equipment.

In reality, I own as much of that station as they do, which is not very much. In any event, WMSC was created for only one purpose: to serve the students.

Since the students and disk jockeys have no say in programming this service is not being met. If you have any doubts about it, ask any WMSC DJ.

As for me, I am personally offended by their decision, but am as equally repulsed by their total lack of knowledge as to how to run a radio station. I’m going over to WFMU radio to talk to them about a show, as their reputation is beyond approach. At this point I wouldn’t work for WMSC even if they reconsidered their decision and apologized, not that that is a possibility.

Doug Antreasian
Sophomore/Communications

Sperm Banking Donor Program

Biogenetics Corporation, a national center for sperm banking, is looking for healthy individuals, aged 18-40, to join its anonymous donor program. Qualified donors can earn $450 plus per month. Initial screening and subsequent periodic testing are performed on all donors. Complete confidentiality is assured through contractual agreement.

For information, call the Program Director at 1 (800) 942-4646
Thank you for your consideration.

A personal decision?

To the Editor:

Not long ago a student whose smoking I challenged confronted me by saying that whether she smokes is a “personal decision.” She was articulate and courageous, the kind of person I want on my team. I don’t know her name, but I hope she reads this.

She indicated that she smokes against her parents’ strongly expressed wishes. There are better ways to rebel. Her mother spent nine months in constant care of her, and many other women and men have nurtured her to capable adulthood. Her family, her teachers, her neighbors, her scout leaders and others who have helped make her the fine young woman she is all lose when she engages in suicidal behavior. She jeopardizes their past if she considers smoking merely a “personal decision.”

As a random WMSC faculty member, I regard her as one of this college.

As a myasthenia gravis patient, my entire present is in jeopardy if people put nicotine into the air I breathe. There are many Americans diagnosed to have M.G. as multiple sclerosis, but we are not yet welcome in mainstream society. Ours is a defect of the nicotinic receptors on our muscles that receive messages form the nerves, and when deactivated by nicotine our muscles no longer hold us upright.

A smoker’s “personal decision” to pollute my air means I become a helpless invalid, so I hesitate to undermine the tobacco industry’s right to spend lavishly on lies.

It is not because I believe it is their personal decisions to whether they lie, but because there are very basic considerations such as the right of people and groups of people to speak freely so that our planet may continue to remain fit for human habitation. Even freedom of speech has limitations. I object to someone falsely calling, “Fire!” in a crowded theater.

No, my articulate, courageous young acquaintance. Your decision to smoke, to kill yourself and others and to ruin my career, is not a “personal decision.” Whether you should and/or will be permitted to cause discomfort and incapacity on the MSC campus depends on other criteria. I personally hope that the law and campus rules are obeyed so that I can continue to work here and others can continue to live.

Patricia C. Kenschaf
Professor/Department of Math and Computer Sciences

The Montclarion

Brevity.

Letters

The Montclarion

Policy

All letters must be:
* typed in double spaced
* 12 point font
* submitted in writing before the Thursday issue
* include student ID number, year, major, and telephone number for confirmation.

Letters must be signed, but names will be withheld upon request.

The Montclarion reserves the right to edit letters for style and brevity.
Senior Portraits

Sign up now
Welcome back readers! How was "Lay"-tona? I am back with the ultimate tan. Before I left, I caught the "Queen of the Rhymth Nation" at the Garden on Thursday (15). After her set at the Garden on Thursday (15). After her set, she went on to play at the New Haven Coliseum. Following the show, she attended a party at a local club. Janet Jackson proceeded to put on a show that was perfectly executed and tightly choreographed by her and her six dancers. Her show was divided between two acts. For those who have the album, it's like a gaping hole in the spotlight. The second encore, if you missed this time, catch her on the next go-round.

MINI-NOTES: The Material Girl will unleash Breathless on May 15. The first single, "Vogue," will be directed on many video stations today. Madonna's new album will include songs from the movie Dick Tracy, in which she plays the detective's girlfriend. Breathless made her name. Madonna will be at the Meadowlands in June. Dates are to be announced. On April 6, some of rap's top names can be seen in a pay-per-view concert. Rumphus contains approximately 40 artists. The tour started at the Hollywood Palace and the Apollo in March. 3rd Bass, Ice-T, Tone Loc, Young M.C., and Kool Moe Dee are among some of the performers. Michael Jackson's Decade 1980-90 will be released this fall. It will be a double CD, cassette, or triple-album. "They still make them?" There will also be new songs which, he says, are "some of the best things I ever recorded." Let the buyer beware of a statement like this. The album, Black Vultures, was released this week for the Canadian newcomer. Soul: "All Around the World?" Lisa Stansfield. She's the first White Brit to top the soul chart since George Michael's "One More Try" in the spring of 1988. Album: Forever Your Girl/Paula Abdul. It's her 10th week at #1; her 89th overall.

MINI-NOTES II: Not to be outdone by Bobby Brown or Jody Watley, Paula Abdul is releasing a remix album as well. Shut Up and Dance will be out on April 24. No new album is expected from her before 1991. Paula, hon, I have a problem with this. Yes, Bob and Jody waited until their second album before they pulled a capitalistic publicity stunt like that! Shouldn't you?... The answer to the last trivia question: The Jackson dynasty have amassed 18 #1s. Michael has 11 (one he scored with Paul McCartney), 4 for the Jackson 5, and Janet just got her third. This week's question: Lisa Stansfield was former lead singer of a British group that released an album here that didn't fare too well. It featured a song called "Jackie," which color in dance clubs. What was the name of her ex-girlfriend? Think about it... Until next week.

When Yes reigns, Yes pours

By R. A. Campos
Staff Writer

Sometimes all you need is the rain. Just listening to it beat against the pavement is enough. No reality. Just you, the rain, and tranquility. A good thunder shower clears everything away.

A good band is like the rain. Yes is one such band. They play the last concert of their world tour on Friday, Mar. 23. Much of Yes' music sounds symphonic due to heavy keyboards provided by the overwhelming talent of Rick Wakeman, whose entourage of eight keyboards color in the lines drawn by Jon Anderson's lyrics. Bill Bruford's drums add depth to the music. He brings percussion into a dimension that is very seldom seen, or heard for that matter. His intricate off-beat style is the backbone for the music Yes creates. The classical style of Steve Howe's guitar provides more than depth or color, it adds pure electricity to the show. The concert was well worth the price of admission just to see this man play.

Many bands today are touring with holes in them. Pink Floyd toured without Roger Waters and Peter Gabriel no longer tours with Genesis. Although these bands are still respected, they are missing a vital link. A piece of the band's soul that keeps them from achieving the musical perfection that made them great is gone. They now ride on the wave of success spawned by the band when it was whole. These bands are still producing good music, they are just not reaching the same innovative pinnacle they established in their heyday.

When an incomplete band plays live, it's like a gaping hole in your living room wall. You can try to cover it up with a picture but it usually looks awkward. You can bring in experts to fill in the space, but with all the plaster and the new paint, when the light hits the wall just right, you can see its imperfection. It doesn't blend with the rest of the wall.

The hole in Yes is the absence of Chris Squire, the original bass player for Yes, and the light shone upon this part of the wall many times during the concert. His turbulent bass lines were missed in this performance. Although the replacement bassist was good, he was not the original whose absence could be filled by no one.

Chris Squire has the right to the name Yes, so the remaining four had to tour under their individual names: Anderson, Bruford, Wakeman, and Howe. Each original member of the band had his own solo performance during the show. Anderson sang "Owner of a Lonely Heart" a capella. Howe's solo put the whole audience in a state of nirvana. Wakeman had an incredible solo that displayed his talent as not only a pianist, but a virtuoso of the keyboards. Bruford also had his moment in the spotlight. Together they played songs that everyone expected like "Starship Trooper" and "Roundabout." The big surprise, and highlight of the show, was the entire twenty minutes of "Close to the Edge." Each song played had its own brilliance like "And You and I" and "Heart of the Sunrise." Like most intelligent classic rock bands, they kept their new music to the audience.

Seeing bands like Anderson, Bruford, Wakeman, and Howe, who you may never see live again, always makes you feel hollow when the concert is over. Someone born ten years too late can only receive the leftovers of the careers of these bands. Finding ourselves lost in a barrage of pop and garbage we wind up combing through new music searching for substance. Someone bom ten years too late can only receive the leftovers of the careers of these bands. Finding ourselves lost in a barrage of pop and garbage we wind up combing through new music searching for substance. We can only hope more bands like this one will tour more often.

Members of Yes...Rick Wakeman, Jon Anderson, Bill Bruford, and Steve Howe.

WMSC's Excellent 10

for the week of March 25, 1990

9. 1. Nine Inch Nails..."Head Like a Hole"
7. 2. Lene Lovich..."Wonderland"
3. 3. Midnight Oil..."Blue Sky Mine"
6. 4. Red Hot Chili Peppers...
5. "Show Me Your Soul"
5. 5. Sinead O'Connor..."Jump in the River"
2. 7. Depeche Mode..."Enjoy the Silence"
New 8. Cowboy Junkies..."Sun Comes Up, It's Tuesday Morning"
9. 9. Rave Ups..."Respectfully King of Pain"
New 10. Nitzer Ebb..."Lightning Man"

Concert tickets...

Peter Murphy will be playing at the Ritz in NYC on Wednesday, April 11, with special guests Nine Inch Nails. Tune in to WMSC 101.5 fm to win free tickets to this and other shows.

New 8. Cowboy Junkies..."Sun Comes Up, It's Tuesday Morning"
New 10. Nitzer Ebb..."Lightning Man"
Janata--more than just rock

By Steve Sukala
Asst. Arts Editor

Janata has created an album of incredible strength and soul with their self-titled debut. They have succeeded in blending straight rock & roll with blues to create an innovative mix.

Chris Janata, lead singer and guitarist for the band, has a voice many singers pray for. He combines the rich, bluesy quality of his voice with a powerful rock singing ability. Says Chris of his singing talent, "It's just me. It's what comes from inside. It's rock & roll, really."

In addition to Chris' top-notch voice, he is an excellent songwriter, and he writes all of the material for the band. As a result, everything on the album matches his ability.

Dan Leary, the drummer for Janata, was a high school friend of Chris'. They played together for a number of years, covering favorites from groups like the Stones before the band reached its present line-up.

The other members of Janata are Mike Lustig on guitar and Pat Walsh on bass. According to Chris, "My writing took on another edge when Mike and Pat joined. They were more R&B oriented than I was. So Janata the band took on a whole new dimension, and that's how we got here."

The best rock song on the album, and the most radio-ready, is "The River." While it really is a depressing song, the delivery is very upbeat, which is oddly appropriate.

"The River" is typical of Chris Janata's rich, soulful style. His lyrics cut right to the point. "So I went down to the river to drown my troubles and die. I got down to the river; the river had run dry."

Other standout tunes are "Lock 'Em Up" and "Love in the Shadows." "Youngblood" is another fine song, and, including "The River," that is just the list from side A.

This New York area band has put together one great debut album. If you like a bluesy sort of rock with an edge, then Janata is for you.

C.L.U.B. PRESENTS

FREE!

THE WAR OF THE ROSES

FREE!

Tuesday, April 3
7 & 9 pm
Student Center Ballrooms

CLUB is a Class One of the SCA
Mother Goose and Grimm

By Mike Peters

PAN...IT5
WAIIH T
OF M9 BI6WT5
WISTILLCMÏ
see wseLF
/
THE
mirror

98,99,100.
READY OR
NOT HERE
I COME!

Calvin and Hobbes

By Bill Watterson

Calvin
and Hobbes

Outland

By Berkeley Breathed
The New Jersey Devils have officially qualified for the Stanley Cup Playoffs for the second time in franchise history. With victories over the Philadelphia Flyers and Buffalo Sabres this past weekend, the Devils are going into the post season on a hot streak.

Not since the overtime victory in Chicago in the last game of the season in 1986 have the Devils earned a right to continue into the N.H.L.'s second season, better known as the Stanley Cup Playoffs.

In fact, the Devils, who came out of Colorado to New Jersey in 1982, the Devils have only been to the playoffs this one previous time, thanks to an overtime goal by John Maclean (Mr. Clutch) that carried the Devils to within one victory of the Stanley Cup Finals.

“I couldn’t think of a better owner and family who deserve a winner more than the McMullen family does,” said General Manager Lou Lamoriello when asked about his boss’ patience and dedication throughout the long years of losing.

“Mr. McMullen has been very supportive and understanding and is very active in our organization. We communicate on the team often,” said Lamoriello.

What made the weekend sweep even more satisfying is the fact that both wins came on the road in tough buildings against one desperate opponent (Flyers) and the other extremely talented (Sabres). And you must win on the road to have any extended success in the playoffs.

The clinching game took place on Sunday afternoon in upstate New York. The Devils soundly defeated the third best team in the NHL (Buffalo Sabres) by the score of 4-3. The game wasn’t as close as the score indicated.

This victory, coupled with the impressive win over the falling Flyers on Saturday, in addition to the Devils leading the last three Washington Capitals and against the Devils the post season berth.

“Were we guilty of taking the Devils for granted. I hope we didn’t do that in the playoffs,” said Buffalo coach Rick Dudley.

With the Buffalo victory, the Devils end the long anticipated return to the post season.

“I was thinking as I looked around the room that here we made the playoffs, but it’s not the same old Devils,” said Captain Kirk Muller. “We had a lot of pressure on us. This is the first time this team should be in the playoffs. We have a strong lineup, but you look back over this season and it was a roller coaster ride. It’s nice to feel that we finally came through,” said Muller.

The pressure put on this team to win was immense. The Devils have been expected to win since Lamoriello made all the changes this past off-season. And I’m sure there’s a sight of relief not only in the dressing room, but in the front office as well.

“Last season was a most disappointing season. And the off-season activity was a result of that season,” said Lamoriello.

“All the changes have been for the better. I feel we have the best team ever and are now playing our best hockey of the season,” said Lamoriello via a teleconference I had with him yesterday.

When I asked him about the pressure put on the media, fans, and so-called “hockey expert analysts” (The same pressure, that I feel cost Jim Schoenfeld his job), Lamoriello told me that, “I respect the school of thought. And when at times it’s hard, I feel I stayed in the direction that is best for this team. Not all changes are perfect.”

“Our goals and expectations were and are to take it one step at a time. First, get into the playoffs, with home ice being very important. Then when the playoffs come around be playing the best hockey and build on them and work off of each other,” concluded Lamoriello.

So far so good Devils fans.

The President/General Manager has worked very hard to put together this playoff bound team. He traveled to Russia in the off-season and worked hard to acquire Peter Stastny from Colorado just before the trade deadline.

Lou, John McMullen isn’t the only one who deserves a winner. Sit back and enjoy the ride.
Inside sports...

Devils' Weekly: Playoffs secured

Bottom Line: Final Four
Stories on p. 15

Thursday, March 29, 1990

Sports

Chip Shots

by Michael Frasco

Water Polo

Four teams participated in the Challenge '90 Inner Tube Water Polo event sponsored by Campus Recreation on March 14, 1990. Teams included: The Panzer Killers, led by Michelle Manion, Delta Chi led by Matt, Alpha Kappa Psi captained by Frank Canning, and Eight Ugly Men led by Scott Schneider. Under the excellent officiating of Brian McLauglin, the swim coach, each team played two games.

Panzer Pool was the site of this exciting competition, which featured lots of splashing, and lots of players falling out of their tubes. Alpha Kappa Psi emerged victorious with wins over the Panzer Killers and Delta Chi. Scoring was difficult, with the champion ship game resulting in a 1-0 score. In consolation action, the Panzer Killers defeated Eight Ugly Men. The Department of Campus Recreation plans to hold the event again this spring, and perhaps create a league for next fall.

Lacrosse

The MSC Lacrosse team will play two home games next week. On Monday, April 2-Kutztown and Thursday, April 5—Marist

Track and Field

The MSC Men's and Women's Outdoor Track and Field team kicks off their season this Saturday, March 31, in the Delaware Relays at Delaware State College.

Baseball

The MSC Baseball team opens its home season on Saturday, March 31 at 2:00 p.m.

Lady Red Hawks soccer gains needed experience

by Leslie DeLuca

Correspondent

After only seven months of existence, the MSC women's soccer team has already made itself known. The team, formed in the fall of 1989, had a very rough start, but finished its fall collegiate conference on a high note, with wins against teams the Red Hawks lost to in the first leg of the conference.

“The season ended just a little too soon,” said Coach Latatara. The players then accepted the invitation to an outdoor tournament with eight other college teams, and after their seven games, ended the tournament in second place.

After losing the first game, the players never lost again and ended up in the indoor competition by tying the first place team 1-1 after a brutal, physical one-hour battle. This young MSC soccer team was a bright spot in the tournament: 4-1-2, 18 goals and just nine against, three times coming from behind to win or tie the match.

“The players' patience and attention to the passing game did it. Everyone on the team contributed to the success,” said Coach Latatara.

With the principle that you get better only by playing against better competition, the team is now ready to go outdoors again and take on an even more demanding schedule of matches against six of the best teams in N.J. starting next Sunday for the next five weeks.

Women's softball season begins

By Kevin Barnett

Staff Writer

The MSC women’s softball team has returned from Orlando, Florida with nice tans, bleached hair, and a winning record, too. The team compiled a 6-5 record after their stay in Orlando was completed with wins against Illinois Benedictine (3-1), Allegheny (3-2), and Hope Colleges (4-3) and literally squeezed out an important win against Glassboro (3-2). The Red Hawk softball team, now 8-5, is currently on a three game winning streak after pounding FDU-Madison in a double-header 15-0 and 10-0 on Monday.

Left fielder Kelley Dockx has been hitting the ball. In MSC's first 13 games, Kelley is hitting a very productive .352 with three doubles, a home run, and 14 RBI's. Senior center fielder Donna Brooks is also hitting an equally impressive .429 with 5 RBI and she is hitting a single season stolen base record (18) by stealing six bases in as many attempts. Usually known for her outstanding glove, first baseman Kim Gardner enjoys leading the team in doubles with five and a strong batting average as well at .317.

Defensively, Coach Rucker feels that improvements are necessary since the offense is carrying much of the load. “Too many errors and an occasional wild pitch here or a hit batter there need to be lessened,” says Rucker, but added, “this should subside as individual confidence levels begin to rise.” Pitcher Johanna Tolomeo has displayed her mastery of the mound with an ERA of 1.57 and a 6-2 record through her 7 starts and 11 appearances. Lois Fyfe struggled in Florida but her ERA of 3.45 and record of 2-3 will no doubt be on the upswing as her confidence increases.

In a double-header at home this Friday, weather permitting, MSC will play a notoriously strong Ithaca College team at 4 p.m. Although Ithaca is not nationally ranked, MSC plans to have its hands full against this opponent. Then on Saturday, another home double-header is scheduled against one of MSC’s conference rivals in Kean College. The team then travels to Muhlenberg College for yet another double-header before returning home on April 6 for the MSC Softball Classic which features teams such as Wilkes College, Cortland State and division leader Trenton State.

MSC's laxmen are on the move

By George Obzuchowski

Assistant Features Editor

Although the 1990 MSC lacrosse team has a current one win - four loss record, Red Hawk fans can look for an exciting season with a lot of zone defense and powerful attacks.

While coach Doug Alsosfrom doesn't look to match last year's undefeated record, including a 3-0 playoff record, he looks for a solid performance from his team. “Although we've had a lot of injuries, we are the odds-on favorites to capture our division championship,” Alsosfrom said. “The key players to lead this year's team are captains George Irwin (defense), Kevin Kisch (midfield), and Jack Balinger (goal).”

As far as man-to-man matchups are concerned, they aren't concerned with field standoffs, but will rely mainly on a firm zone defense and teamwork. “We're going to try to get control of the ball with our offense, then give it to the attack players, and take it from there,” Alsosfrom said.

Upcoming games are both at home, versus Kutztown (April 2, 7:30 PM) and Marist (April 5, 3:30 PM).