Freeman cafeteria still closed

By Renee McDonnell
Staff Writer

The Freeman Hall cafeteria will not be open until Nov. 1 due to a $200,000 remodeling project which will update and expand facilities to serve 226 students. Freeman Hall, which previously served 175 people, needed renovations to modernize dining facilities. This will provide service for a larger campus population following the enactment of MSC’s five year construction plan which will convert Russ and Chapin Halls into dormitories, said Kevin Rakowsky, assistant director of residence life.

The cafeteria was supposed to open on Sept. 24, but due to complications in construction such as the roof leaking and the necessity to remove asbestos, the date was moved back. Rakowsky said the delay is due to the fact that the construction companies can not all work at the same time and one must wait for the other to finish.

Construction that began in August includes painting, wallpapering, installation of ceramic floors and carpeting, new beverage and condiment stations, new ceiling and lighting and new tables and chairs in the dining area, said Rakowsky.

Douglas Cooper, one of the residence life faculty members, said there are four construction companies that are doing the work: P.C. Staedler, G.W. Verzì, Leroy Nunnery and a fourth that has yet to be chosen.

Rakowsky also said that other than the average six minute walk to the cafeterias on the opposite end of campus, the 229 residents living in Freeman Hall are feeling no discomforts due to the close of the cafeteria and that the Student Center and Blanton Hall dining facilities are fully prepared to service the extra people.

The cafeteria will offer the same dining services as the rest of the campus except for the possibility of serving brunch on weekdays in the new cafeteria; an option unavailable anywhere else on campus. A continental breakfast would be served before classes and brunch would be served at 10:45 a.m. Dinner services are fully prepared to service the extra people.

An unfinished Freeman Hall cafeteria. The new date for it's re-opening is Nov. 1. Students of Freeman hall must now walk to the other side of campus to eat.

Anti-CIA lecturer cancelled

By Peter S. Rebovich Jr.
Staff Writer

Philip Agee, an ex-CIA agent, was unable to attend a S.T.A.N.D. sponsored lecture last Tuesday night at MSC. Agee postponed his 20-city lecture tour due to passport difficulties.

According to a spokesman for Agee, Stuart Hutchinson, Agee’s Nicaraguan passport was revoked about two weeks ago. Agee would be allowed into the U.S. without any valid passport, he might not be able to leave. Hutchinson read parts of Agee’s statement but had to leave out most of it. This was done at the advice of Agee’s lawyer who feared it may jeopardize a future case involving Agee’s passport.

In place of Agee, Alexander Cockburn, a columnist for In These Times and The Nation, and Laura Flanders, a broadcaster on radio station WBAI, lectured to 150 people in the Student Center Ballrooms for two and a half hours.

Flanders spoke about the role of women in relation to current events. The U.S. media has overlooked many important aspects in the treatment of women soldiers now in the Middle East, Flanders said. Some of the problems she cited were: the chaperoning of women soldiers by Arab women while shopping, restrictive dress codes requiring women to wear long-sleeved clothing even in hot desert conditions, and the segregation of women soldiers.

The last speaker, Cockburn, spoke briefly about Agee’s past. “He did the covert (U.S.) government a lot of trouble,” Cockburn said. He also referred to Agee’s CIA Diary, which describes the CIA’s procedures in the 1960’s.

Cockburn spent the rest of his lecture speaking about the Middle East crisis. He traced the situation from the origins of the conflict between Iraq and Kuwait to the present.

Cockburn does not support U.S. build-up and stated that the conflict can be resolved without the use of military force. “The rich men start the war, but the poor people fight it,” Cockburn said.
NOTICE TO ALL CURRENTLY ENROLLED STUDENTS WHO WILL BE RETURNING IN THE WINTER OR SPRING 1991 SEMESTERS

Registration for the Winter and Spring 1991 will occur simultaneously between October 16-November 1, 1990

All students who are enrolled for the Fall 1990 and who are eligible to return for the Spring 1991 will have a Registration Appointment Card mailed to their home address during the week of October 1, 1990. STUDENTS LIVING IN THE RESIDENCE LIFE HALLS OR IN THE CLOVE ROAD APARTMENTS SHOULD MAKE ARRANGEMENTS TO OBTAIN THEIR MAIL FROM THEIR HOME ADDRESSES

Undergraduates students who are currently enrolled for 12 or more credits will be assigned an in person registration appointment date and time. Undergraduate students who are currently enrolled for fewer than 12 credits and Graduate students will be assigned a range of dates during which they should submit their registration form and Appointment Card to the Office of Registrar.

Cards will not be generated for students who are on the January 1991 Graduation list. Students who are graduating in January and who wish to register for Winter and Spring 1991 courses should contact the Office of Registrar at 893-4376, for direction.

Students who do not fulfill their Basic Skills requirements and students who have an outstanding financial obligation to the College will not be sent their cards. These students must report to either the Basic Skills Office or the Business Office to obtain their card.

YOU MUST HAVE THIS CARD IN ORDER TO REGISTER.
No one will be permitted into the registration site without a Registration Appointment Card. Registration forms submitted to the office will not be processed without the Registration Appointment Card attached.

PLEASE READ THE SPRING AND WINTER 1991 SCHEDULE OF COURSES BOOK CAREFULLY!!!

It will be available after October 3, 1990, and it will contain the list of Winter and Spring 1991 course offerings.

You should use the registration form that is in the Schedule of Courses book. It is for both Winter and Spring registration. The Registration Appointment Card, together with this form, will serve as your personal registration packet. Advisement should be obtained prior to registration.
Six cars broken into on first day of October

By William C. Hendrixson
Staff Writer

□Break-ins:
-Oct. 1, between 8 a.m. and 7:45 p.m. a 1981 Oldsmobile had its hood ornament stolen.
-Oct. 1, between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. a 1982 Pontiac had its window smashed and stereo stolen.
-Oct. 1, between 9 a.m. and 9:30 p.m. a 1976 Chevy was broken into in lot 30. The door locks were broken and a cup containing loose change and several crystals was missing.
-Oct. 1, between 11:30 a.m. and 3:40 p.m. a 1984 Nissan 300 had its door locks damaged in an attempt to steal it. Nothing was missing.
-Oct. 1, between 11:50 a.m. and 2 p.m. a 1987 Honda Civic parked in lot 30 had its door lock damaged in an attempt to steal it. The door was open.
-Oct. 1, between 12 p.m. and 3 p.m. a 1981 Oldsmobile had its hood ornament stolen.
-Oct. 1 at 2 a.m. two Blanton residents had their clothes stolen from a drier in the 4th floor lounge. They estimated the loss at a $310 value.

□Stolen Property:
-Sept. 29 at 11:25 p.m. a female student, her boyfriend and her father, while returning from a movie, noticed they were being followed by an unidentified vehicle. The father panicked and backed into the vehicle in lot 28, and 2 occupants of that car got out and started a fight with the father. When the girl's boyfriend got out of the car, the occupant of a third car, which was in front of them, got out and assaulted the boyfriend. The assault occurred in their cars before Campus Police arrived. The only description the victims could supply was a make of one of the cars, that being a tan jeep, with a large window "sierra" printed on the back tire cover.
-Sept. 28 between 12:45 and 3 a.m. two female Bohn Hall residents reported being harassed by a then unknown male. One of the females alone in her room sleeping heard someone enter the room. She assumed that it was her roommate and paid no heed. When her roommate returned, a note was found on the floor stating that "he has been watching them through the window." Hours later they heard more noise and discovered a second note under the door similar to the first one. Apparently the note was a love letter of sorts, but was mistakenly sent to the wrong room. The male, a student, was identified and no action was cont. on p.7

□Stolen Cars:
-Between 10 p.m. Oct. 1 and 1:30 p.m. Oct. 2 a 1971 Datsun sport model was stolen.

□Fire Alarms:
-Sept. 25 at 4 a.m. there was a fire alarm in Blanton Hall. The building was evacuated when a smoke alarm in the second floor lounge was triggered by a pot left in the oven.

□Arrests:
-Sept. 28 at 12 a.m. a female student was arrested on the Clove Road bridge for underage possession of alcohol. She was with a group of other students but she was the only one arrested.
-Sept. 30 at 11:30 a.m. a male student in lot 28 was arrested for underage possession of alcohol.

SGA News:

Admistration forgets the furniture

George Olschewski
Staff Writer

Budgets for MSC's Master Plan C renovation project did not include the cost of utilities and furniture, SGA President Anthony Susco announced yesterday.

"Utilities and furniture will cost an extra $6 million, and the project is already over budget," Susco said.

"This is $1.8 million over budget. Where is the money going to come from? It's going to come from us," acting SGA treasurer Abraham Pelc said. "They are cutting out a lot of the spare footage in the buildings, and architects are making cuts. It all amounts to more work for maintenance."

"The last time MSC built on campus, Richardson Hall has three floors, and Partridge Hall has four. Are we going to keep on getting only half buildings?"

The administration has proposed to scratch the access road that would surround the campus and a new receiving building to help cover the cost of utilities and furniture. This will be voted on at the next Board of Trustees meeting.

Legislator Tracey Pino was elected as the SGA treasurer yesterday. "We had a good turnout for the voting, and it was a fairly close election," Attorney General Mary Jane Linnehan said. Pino will replace Abraham Pelc, who had to resign from the post due to personal reasons.

Timothy Neo was appointed as Director of Academic Affairs for the SGA.

Delta Sigma Theta was granted a Class III charter. They made minor changes to their constitution, which was voted on, and passed.

Richardson Hall has three floors, and Partridge Hall has four. Are we going to keep on getting only half buildings?"

Sentencings:

- Sept. 26 the 12 students arrested on Sept. 7 appeared in court for the various alcohol related misdemeanors. Nine of the students pleaded guilty to a merged charge of underage possession and consumption of alcohol and received fines totalling $155 each. One male student, who refused to tell the judge where the alcohol was obtained was sentenced to 1 year probation and fined $255. One case was adjourned until Oct. 31 because the judge instructed a girl involved in the incident to inform the court where the alcohol was obtained as part of her sentencing. One male student who entered a plea of not guilty and hired his own attorney is scheduled to appear in court on Dec. 4. Also, a student arrested on Sept. 4 was fined $230 for underage possession of alcohol. Another student arrested on Sept. 4 was given free counsel and his court date is scheduled for Nov. 13.

Sights and sounds of the 90's: a Homecoming preview

By Ann Daly and Valerie Kalfrin

Next week, MSC will have plenty of laughter, cheers, and banjo music—Homecoming 1990 is coming.

Starting Monday, Oct. 8, and running through Saturday, Oct. 13, the week promises traditional events plus surprises, including having the big game itself held in the afternoon. (For more on the time change, see next week’s Montclarion.)

Students can get a glimpse of life in the National Football League on Monday when Joe Morris, the N.Y. Giants' all-time leading rusher, lectures in the Student Center Ballrooms. Admission is free.

The registration deadline for Thursday's Lip Sync Contest is also on Monday. All applications, plus the $3 entrance fee, must be brought to the CLUB office (Room 112 of the Student Center Annex) by noon, to be followed by a mandatory meeting for all contestants.

Five professional N.Y. comedians will take center stage Tuesday night when CLUB sponsors its second comedy show of the semester. Admission is $3, and the laughs kick off at 9 p.m. in the Student Center Ballrooms.

The annual “Fall Fest” takes place on Wednesday in the Student Center Mall from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Campus organizations will be selling and promoting homecoming paraphernalia at tables set up outside, while featuring games such as a Jello-eating contest and Phi Alpha Phi’s “Splash-a-Senator” game.

While students browse and shop, they can also see themselves on a video button or caricature, and be entertained by a banjo band featuring “Bruce & His Buddy.”

At 7 and 9 p.m. Wednesday, RoboCop II will be shown in the Student Center Ballrooms. Admission is free.

Any student wanting to be a star (or just act like one) will be out in the Student Center Ballrooms Thursday at 8 p.m. for CLUB's Lip Sync Contest. Contestants will be competing for cash prizes of $150, $100, and $75. Admission is $2.

Clove Road will be the center of attention Friday once dusk hits. At 7 p.m., CLUB's bonfire ignites, followed immediately by the selection of the Homecoming King and Queen at the pep rally (sponsored by the athletic department).

Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity, Inc. will also be sponsoring hay rides at 9 p.m., and other "Greeks" will be gathering in parking lots 22 and 23 for float building from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m.

A mix of theme floats (all under wraps until Saturday, of course) from campus fraternities, sororities, and other organizations hits the streets at parade at 11 a.m. President Irvin Reid will serve as Grand Marshall along the route from the Quarry near the field house, through Upper Montclair, and ending at the Alumni House on Valley Road.

The game itself begins at 2:30 p.m., when MSC faces William Paterson College for a crowd of students, alumni, and local residents. Admission is $6 for adults, $3 for students, and free for students with college I.D. The Alumni Association will also be sponsoring hospitality tables for alumni at halftime.

The good old days...

An MSC professor looks back and beyond

By Chris Rohloff

Imagine a campus consisting of four buildings, 35 faculty members, and a student body of 500 to 600 primarily male students, with female students forbidden to wear clothing other than blouses, skirts and dresses.

Dr. Max Sobel, an MSC alumnus-turned-mathematics professor, reminisces about his times as a student here, notes the changes he has seen on campus, and projects where the college may be a few years from now.

"...the men wore jackets and ties, and the women were forbidden to wear pants..."

Each class was held every day, thus giving the student a schedule of nine to four or nine to five. "Basically, the MSC of the 1940's was closer to an extension of high school," said Sobel. "Through the years, we became a college, and today we're close to becoming a university."

Sobel noted that the intimidation and formality once commonplace in the classroom have now been replaced by a more laid-back, personable environment. For example, previously no one would even dream of calling a professor by his or her first name, or consider discussing classwork with a professor over a cup of coffee.

Imagine a campus consisting of four buildings, 35 faculty members, and a student body of 500 to 600 primarily male students, with female students forbidden to wear clothing other than blouses, skirts and dresses.

"Professional attire was the norm," he said. "A majority of the men wore jackets alongside people who had been my professors only a couple of months ago."

and ties, and the women were forbidden to wear pants. Dress code rules were considered important and were strictly enforced.

Yet while Sobel views change as positive and necessary, he does not believe everything can be a change for the better. He expressed concern for the students, dealing with other interests, and for the educational future of the college as well.

“We have to grow and we have to be competitive, but with progress comes problems,” he said. “Students have more diversions today — TV, Spring breaks, financial concerns.” These diversions can take away from the amount of time a student can dedicate to studies, he added. Diversions can take away from the number of teachers devoted to students as well. “With teachers from my time retiring in the 90’s, and with fewer people entering the field, we’re going to have a severe teacher shortage in the next ten years,” he said.

Sobel suggested that the college allocate funds for recruitment and sponsorships in order to combat this potential problem. These sponsorships would provide full scholarships for young, gifted individuals interested in becoming teachers. In return, these students would teach at MSC after graduation.

“Teaching is a desirable goal with considerable value,” Sobel said. “We need to encourage those interested in the field.”

For the individual who does choose this career path, Sobel professes that there are many rewards. “The greatest reward I’ve found, aside from the obvious satisfaction I receive in educating others,” Sobel declared, “has been the home I’ve found here at MSC.”

Looking back

by Chris Panepinto

Ten years ago this week, students shut down the campus for a day, while five years ago, faculty and students came together to protest another issue...

Oct. 2, 1980

□ “Strike shuts down MSC”

Students boycotted their classes campus-wide on Monday, Sept. 29, in response to recent tuition hikes and the state’s attempt to reallocate $5 million for state colleges to the deficit-ridden TAG program. The strike was 95% effective at MSC, and approximately 20,000 other state college students walked out of their classes in a mass effort to get Trenton’s attention.

□ “Strike win spurs talks”

In a related story, approximately 400 students protesting in Trenton for the same reason were on hand when assembly speaker Christopher Jackman (D-Hudson) removed the reallocation bill from consideration. Jackman suggested setting up a forum between two representatives of each state college and the Assembly Education Committee to answer everyone’s questions.

Oct. 3, 1985

□ “Faculty Senate Opposes ‘Gateway Test”

MSC’s faculty senate voted to oppose a proposed statewide exam for college sophomores. This test would measure students’ verbal proficiency and knowledge of course work studied under the General Education Requirements. Any student who failed would be dismissed from the college.

Hear ye, hear ye! the Middle Ages hit MSC

Last Thursday, the “lords and ladies” of MSC gathered around the Student Center Mall for an afternoon joust. Medieval Times, a Florida-based franchise which just opened in Lynhurst in February, came at the request of Nancy Gannon, Kim Manion (seated on horse, lower right), and Tracey Dudziec, their employees and sisters of Sigma Delta Phi. All three served as “wenches” in the entourage, which included an emcee, trumpeter, two squires, three knights, and two horses. After greeting the crowd, which were given paper crowns in the colors of their champions, the Green Knight (above) battled and triumphed over the Red and Yellow Knight (above right), and was paid from the onlookers in applause.

Who's maintaining maintenance?

What did maintenance do all summer? That is the question many Clove Road residents asked themselves when they saw the condition of their apartments the day of check-in. Garbage left behind by former residents lay untouchably on the floors, sinks and toilets remained clogged, and walls cluttered with holes were still unpainted. It was an unfortunate welcome many students received the day they moved in, and now after a month of school, the problems still remain.

Each day the Clove Road office is besieged with maintenance reports submitted by students complaining about their living conditions. Each day maintenance is supposed to come in and pick up the reports and attend to the problems. If that is the case, then how come their are untouched reports dated 9/3/90? It is obvious there is something wrong. Maintenance claims that there just aren't enough men working to handle all the problems created during the semester. But how does that explain the conditions of the apartments after a whole summer has gone by?

It is unrealistic for the administration to believe that it can continue to charge such high rent for what often amounts to unsanitary living conditions. The Clove Road apartments are by no means inexpensive housing, and one of the reasons there is such a demand for them is because it is the only place on campus that alcohol is permitted. If that attraction is taken away, so will the students desire to live there.

The prospect of off-campus housing begins to look better and better the more a student understands how maintenance under Residence Life works. At the end of every semester, residents from both Clove Road and the dorms almost automatically lose their deposit and are often forced to pay additional fees. What makes this an even greater atrocity is that only the major damages get repaired.

The little inconveniences that each resident experiences, and that maintenance deems of less importance, remain unattended. It is unfortunate that students who go an entire year without an air conditioner or with a leaky faucet have to pay the same money as residents whose apartments are in good condition. If these conditions existed in a real apartment complex, the landlord would sue for negligence. It is obvious that the administration does not feel student residents are entitled to the same treatment as tenants of real apartment complexes. By cutting the amount of parts allowed at Clove Road, and threatening to turn MSC into a dry campus, Residence Life is making it impossible for students to continue to pay the same money as residents whose apartments are in good condition.

Student Voice

On behalf of STAND and other anti-war students here at Montclair, I would like to clear up some absurd misconceptions mentioned in last week's Student Voice. First of all, this issue is not about territory or freedom. The people of Kuwait were not free before the invasion, and will not be freed by U.S. intervention.

Second of all, it is ridiculous to equate STAND, the Progressive Labor Party, the Committee for Public Education, or any other progressive coalition with Lyndon LaRouche. All one must do is come to a STAND meeting to see that we don't have a connection with LaRouche and will never support his group or that of any cazy demagogue. Mr. DiLullo, in his column, mistakenly identifies this group as the current political trend when the truth is that this group of madmen are capitalizing on the current anti-war sentiment.

Third of all, I did not hear Mr. Ham's speech, but I know from leaflets which I helped write that Mr. DiLullo is oversimplifying his position. According to statistics in publications as subservive and communist as Time and Newsweek, keeping our troops in Saudi Arabia is costing close to $2 billion a day. I think it's very clear that this can cause budget problems.

Regarding the environment, although there may not be a direct connection, both problems stem from the fact that the Bush (and before it, the Reagan) administration refuses to investigate alternative energy sources. Pulling the troops out will not solve the budget or environment crises, but leaving them in Saudi Arabia will exacerbate both.

Fourth of all, King Fahd does not represent the Saudi people. He may not want us to pull out, but the average Arab citizen could live without the bloodshed a war could bring. I wish I could quote a source on this, but, as usual, the media forgot to ask the (non-American) people what they wanted.

Fifth of all, this is the U.S. vs. Iraq. U.S. businesses have the most to lose from other imperialists (like Hussein, for whom I refuse to be an apologist,) wresting control from them. We may be backed up by western Europe and Japan, but not to stop a Hitler. They rely on the same Mideast oil that we do. As for utopian visions of the East and West uniting against a monster, the Soviet Union has yet to make a military commitment there. Because they are so oil-rich themselves, there is no reason for them to become involved in a costly, useless war.

Sixth of all, I was, I believe, at the same forum as Mr. DiLullo, but did not hear the same thing. Again, this seems to be a case of oversimplification. At no time did anyone say, "All governments are bad." What was said was more along the line of, "Neither the government of the U.S. nor the government of Iraq represents the will of the people." The ideal solution, we concluded, was that the people of both countries should rise up to stop either government from perpetuating this situation. Mr. DiLullo implies that we are ready to take up arms against the government. That may be necessary in Iraq, but I have no desire to urinate on the Oval Office carpet or to firebomb Capitol Hill. I am a reformist, not a revolutionary, and I do not think that the U.S. should be using aggressive military tactics against smaller nations - such as in Vietnam, Cambodia, Nicaragua, El Salvador, Grenada, Libya, and Panama - or that it participated in the assassination of a duly-elected and, by the way, Communist, president in Chile and the military coup which followed. To justify this, the Secretary of State, who later admitted, said that we "don't have to watch a nation come out of the irresponsibility of its own people." isn't that how a democratic society works.)

I thought it was irresponsible of the American people to let Reagan run the country, but I wouldn't advocate killing him. I love America. I love the people, the land, the flag (I fly one in my bedroom), and the freedoms and opportunities it provides me - but do these freedoms and opportunities entitle me to stand by and do nothing about the suffering of others? After all, we didn't suffer the consequences after the other involved nations chip in. (The figures are in last week's Time. All anyone needs is a calculator to justify my definition of "irresponsibility.")

Twelfth of all, it is not our "respon­ sibility" to fight imperialism anywhere. Check the constitution. Should we fight imperialism wherever we see it? Yes, of course. There should be only one world government instead of 192 nations. If we can't do it, we should only be fighting Iraqi imperialism to perpetuate that of the United States. There are militaristic nations conquering smaller nations all over the world, but they aren't costing us. If this is all about freedom and justice, then why aren't we everywhere? Why did we support Guatemala's incursion into Nicaragua's borders rather than protecting Nicaragua's rights as a sovereign nation?

Thirteenth of all, I agree that people are all, to some extent, hypocritical. I am. Mr. DiLullo is at the same time, willing to discuss anti-air war strategies and do with my desire for freedom? I fail to see how anyone, except perhaps the hostages (whom President Bush said have nothing to do with his decision), will be helped by "self-deception." Guns and tanks are the weapons of the oppressors, not of the oppressed.

Fourteenth of all, I wouldn't gripe if gas went to $2.00 a gallon. I think that we should be looking into gasohol, fusion, solar power, and the use of cool instead of looking for ways to choke ourselves and the wildlife with more petroleum.

Fifteenth of all, I've never said that "it's not going to be me." I've tried to make it "be me" for most of my life. I helped organize last year's student marches. I've marched and spoken out against racism and environmental destruction. I am a pacifist, a vegetarian, and a devout Christian. As a matter of fact, when Saddam Hussein gassed our own people, I had to change my alley, for I did do something, or at least thought I did: I contacted my congressman. He replied by saying that he didn't "know of any current situation that requires U.S. government attention." I think that more than qualifies my statement when I say that I don't know of any situation there that requires mine.

Eleventh of all, if the U.S. military budget doesn't increase, how will they pay for this? Their current budget is $44 million a day, and even though this is all the money they won't cover the debt, the interest, after the other involved nations chip in. (The figures are in last week's Time. All anyone needs is a calculator to justify my definition of "irresponsibility.")

Frat defends coach

This is a letter addressing the campus administration as well as the MSC Athletic Department. It is in response to a letter published in the September 20, 1990, issue of the Montclarion. This is what Coach Schleede wrote in his letter, "Coach falsifies track records," was written by Dr. Joan Schleede of the PERLS department.

In this letter, Dr. Schleede accused Coach Blanton of dishonesty when she put it, "rewriting the MSC track record books." She goes on to say that Coach Blanton is dealing with the results of MSC track meets as he sees fit, and at the same time, misleading his athletes into thinking their performances are better than they are.

But in the absence of these accusations, it is necessary that we provide you with some background information, which is very important in this situation, and completely omitted in Dr. Schleede's letter.

The Athletic Department holds in its possession all records and information for every sports program at MSC. These books are important sources for coaches, athletes and others wishing to check the constitution. Should we fight imperialism anywhere? We are glad to see that Coach Blanton has not let these attacks to his reputation hurt the track & field program is passing

This will enable them to be more effective in their questions and in the future. This will allow them to rely more on facts, and not so much on their judgement, as they must now do. At the same time it will prevent those, such as yourself, from making accusations against the coaching staff. Accusations made, we might add, without stating background information that is crucial in this situation.

Basically, what we are saying to you, Dr. Schleede, is stop playing these games and return the missing books to the Athletic Department. It is quite obvious that the missing books are either in your possession, or you know the party who has them.

Finally, we must point out how sad this entire situation is. This is not the first time Coach Blanton has been attacked by some group or person on this campus. The previous two years, it was the student body attacking him, and now the faculty is taking a shot at him. Who is next to take their turn? They have not managed to succeed, and we will not be surprised if this is not the end of this type of happenings.

After the above information, we have come to several conclusions, and also have several questions that need to be answered.

First, to the Athletic Department our question is this: If the results handed in by Coach Blanton and his staff were not "new records," why did you fail to inform coaching staff of the situation? Remember, the coaching staff does not have access to any record books, a fact of which you are well aware.

There has to be someone in your administration that has a basic knowledge of past track & field records, prior to Coach Blanton taking over. And, if such a person does not exist in your department, then we question the awareness of those running the Athletic Department. You can not use the so-called "stolen books" as a crutch. Maybe the coach of the track & field program.

Our second question for the Athletic Department is one that disturbs us greatly, and a question we also ask of the administration. Where is your show of support for Coach Blanton and his staff? Since his appointment, he has done nothing but positive things for this campus. This includes coaching his athletes, advising several campus organization, and being a friend to the students as a friend, and accepting his role as a positive model to all students.

This can not be said about many administration  of faculty members on this campus. Coach Blanton and his staff have built the track & field program from the ground up, and have gained respect from their peers and on the circuit in the process. So, stop sitting back while others take shots at Coach Blanton.

Show some backbone, and give him the same support that we know he would give you in a similar situation. It is most disturbing to see you sit there and let him take all of the heat, knowing that you are well aware of the situation that he must deal with, but would not hesitate to take some credit when the track program excels.

As for Dr. Schleede, if you knew this about past records, why not speak up and inform the coaching staff when these events first occurred? It seems that you lack the initiative of getting your chance to try and tarnish Coach Blanton's reputation. What you should be doing rather than trying to have facts checked, is assuming the knowledge that you have to the coaching staff.

This is a letter addressing the campus administration as well as the MSC Athletic Department. It is in response to a letter published in the September 20, 1990, issue of the Montclarion. Prof. addresses track athletes

Open letter to men and women of the X-country and track teams:

I am taking this opportunity to respond to your letter in the last issue of this paper. My original letter was written and delivered to the paper in May, 1990, along with all necessary documentation. The material provided is factual and honest and all of it is in the public domain. Therefore, slander or libel are terms which are not applicable.

Unless your performances are exceptional, only cursory attention is paid to your efforts. Improvement in your performances is expected as the season progresses and reflects your diligence and dedication to the sport. A more accurate listing of finish positions would also help readers appreciate your successes. For example, when you speak of a “sixth place finish” it is abstract unless we know how many teams competed. Finishing 6th of 12 is very different from finishing 6th of 24.

Our own Dean James Harris, one of MSC’s most reliable and consistently superior runners, overcame great odds to achieve outstanding success as a runner. That same athletic intensity and reflects a person’s dedication to excellence both athletically and academically. I support your efforts and would be happy to talk with you at any time about past performances. I take great pride in my students and expect the same from you. True success, record or not, is legitimate. It is that dedication to excellence that I hope will impact on your desire for personal-best performances. In order to be a champion, you must demonstrate consistency in performance. Everyone has good days and bad, but rarely is the champion off by very much. Be honest with yourself—compete against the best and you will do your best.

By wearing the MSC jersey you have assumed a legacy of quality and a tradition of excellence in performance both athletically and academically. Support your efforts and be happy to talk with you at any time about past performances. I take great pride in my students and expect the same from you. Most teachers take pride in the achievement of their students. In the case of MSC’s track and field and cross country athletes, that pride has great integrity and is woven into the fabric of their lives a dedication to education, community, and the country.
In the movie "Pacific Heights" starring Melanie Griffith, Matthew Modine, and Michael Keaton; and directed by John Schlesinger, explodes with suspenseful action. Modine and Griffith are a couple that decide to invest in a Victorian House that contains three apartments in the Pacific Heights section of San Francisco, California. Everything seems to be going well until they meet Keaton.

Keaton portrays a wealthy businessman that is in need off a place to live. When Modine lets him move into the studio apartment, he trusts Keaton to wire him the first six months of rent. However, this is where the conflicts begin.

Keaton never wires the money. Since he signed the lease Modine can not evict Keaton. But, through California law, he had a right to stay there. Modine becomes enraged by the situation, and violently attacked Keaton. This incident created more problems because Keaton filed a restraining order on Modine. He couldn't stay at his own house.

When Keaton finally leaves the house, the couple discovered that he completely destroyed the apartment. From a picture on the floor, Griffith discovers what Keaton really is, and what he is doing to them and others. All three actors had strong roles in this film, Michael Keaton was excellent. He brought out the true evil in his character, while Modine and Griffith played the helpless and confused landlords.

"Pacific Heights" is a fast-paced movie, that keeps you on the edge of your seat. The viewer can really sense the loss of happiness and ignorance that is replaced with violence and fear.

This column is a continuation of last week's. Due to space limitations, our list of recommended comic books had to be cut short. Yes, it's a strange, sad world we live in when paid advertising gets priority over material of such value. So it goes. Anyway, let's get on with it...

9) "Nexus", written by Mike Baron, various artists. Mike did such a lovely job last week of describing another of his titles, "Badger", that I thought it would be nice to quote him on this one too... "Nexus dreams of mass murderers. And when he wakes, he is compelled to seek them out and assassinate them. His fusion powers, derived from the stars, are almost limitless. But there is a price: he must execute victims chosen by the mysterious "Merc," and the Merc is an alien being with an alien sense of justice." First Publishing, $2.25.

10) "Cerebus", written and drawn by Dave Sim. Mr. Sim is crass, egotistical and, at times, vicious. He is also a brilliant satirist who could give Jonathan Swift a run for his money. This book's central character is an aardvark whose social, sexual, religious, and political involvements serve as a springboard for the events which occur in what is nothing less than a massive graphic novel. Even when resorting to out-and-out caricature, Mr. Sim cuts deeply... "How do you do my dear? I'm Mrs. Thatcher. I'm here to help you." Aardvark - Vanheim, $2.25.

11) "Judge Dredd", various writers and artists. These reprints of a British comic series poke fun at popular culture with the sublety of a serrated knife. Law, order, and political satire are maintained by "Judges", police officers who function as jury and executioner. Dredd, one of the top men, tends to have to deal with more than his share of juveniles... "In minutes flat they'd caught them, every Shark and every Zit. To Dredd it fell to lade out the years... Twenty years apiece for Cindy Spike, Billy Rat and Ghoul." An extra ten left big Frank Zit in tears." Fleetway-Quality, $1.75.

12) "The Spirit", written and drawn by Will Eisner (with frequent assistance from a number of ghosts - no pun intended). These stories from the 1940's and 1950's capture the film noirquality of the era perfectly and still stand among the best ever produced in the medium. Originally, they were inserted in newspapers as supplements to the sunday funnies - ask your folks, they might remember them. The Spirit has no extra ordinary abilities, he's simply a police officer who after being left for dead, decided to work slightly outside the law and set up shop in a cemetary. He never wears socks. Actually one of the best things about the book is the way Eisner worked sound effects into the art. "Click, clak, click, clak..." Amazing, isn't it? Kitchen Sink Comics, $2.00.

13) "Ralph Snart Adventures", written and drawn by Marc Hansen. The humor in this book searches for and finds the lowest common denominator. This may explain why it sells particularly well on college campuses... "Edaga! Ralph is being devoured by ferocious rats! Icky, hairy, stinky, filthy rats, I must keep my revulsion in check and save my future love toy!" Now Comics, $1.75.

14) "Love and Rockets", written and drawn by Jaime and Gilbert Hernandez. No connection to the alleged band, this title has won awards around the world. In the U.S.A. it sells well enough for the Hernandez brothers to eat out at Pizza Hut once a month. Chock full of sex, politics, and feminism among Latinos, it has a limited, but very devoted readership... "Don't get me wrong..." Continued on page 17
"Danny and the Deep Blue Sea," a play by John Patrick Shanley, who also wrote "Joe vs. the Volcano," is currently being staged by Players in the Student Center Annex, Room 126. The play runs October 3, 4, 5, and 6 at 8:00pm and October 5 also at 2:15pm. The play has only two characters: Roberta, played by Marcia Assuncao, and Danny, played by Robert Nissen; and is set in present-day Bronx, at night.

The play opens in a run-down bar in which Roberta and Danny are each sitting at separate tables, eating pretzels, smoking, and drinking beer. Danny has wounds on his face and both of his hands. When Danny asks for a pretzel, Roberta becomes very hostile at first, shouting at him to leave her alone. A long period of silence follows, each staring blankly ahead of themselves. When Roberta eventually decides to assume a more congenial air and offer Danny a pretzel, this time it's Danny's turn to become hostile and he barks at her. Another long period of silence ensues.

The hostility abates, and they engage in small talk, during which it is revealed that Danny is 29-years-old, and never married, although he's just broken off a long-standing relationship with a girlfriend. He tells Roberta that he got his wounds from a street fight. He thinks he might have killed someone. This prompts Roberta to reveal that she had an abused childhood in which she was forced to fellate her father. They both agree that they hate their fathers.

Danny tells Roberta that she is one of the few people who doesn't make him mad. As they continue talking, Roberta seems to want to challenge this notion, and eggs him on with taunts about how she is just as crazy as he is. This leads Danny to a crescendo of anger which Roberta eventually invites Danny back to her apartment. They sleep together and afterwards talk of their respective families and their problems. Danny asks about Roberta's 13-year-old son who is cared for by his grandmother. He notices on a table a small doll dressed as a bride and this inspires him to tell Roberta of a wedding he had seen as a child and how he had been awe-struck by the sight of the bride. He then proposes to Roberta and she gladly accepts. They excitedly begin to make plans for their own stylish wedding and fall asleep dreaming about it.

By next morning, however, reality sets in and Roberta maintains that she wasn't serious about anything the night before. It was the beer they had at the bar and the wine they had before slipping between the sheets. This angers Danny greatly, but Roberta explains that she needs forgiveness for her "sin" with her father. Danny puts her head to his bosom and grants her forgiveness and is, in turn, forgiven by Roberta and is reassured that he most likely did not kill anyone.

The play, as explained by Director Jennifer Biddle is about two lonely people fighting personal demons who, through each other, learn to forgive themselves. The acting was generally very good, although a bit more studying of the art of portraying catharsis might be helpful. Certainly, credit should be given to both Miss Assuncao and Mr. Nissen for learning their copious lines.
An Erotic Masterpiece.

Philip Kaufman has done something remarkable.

He has made a genuinely erotic film that celebrates a woman's sexual awakening with unabashed enthusiasm.

Fred Ward has great humor, Uma Thurman is fascinating, and Maria de Medeiros is ravishing, a major discovery.

fetish can make a person strong in some ways...one can maintain a high level of sexually inspired energy for a lengthy period of time, energy which can be channeled into meaningful labor. But, eventually, in time a fetish usually renders one stupid and feeble..." Fantagraphics Books, $2.50.

15) "Concrete," written and drawn by Paul Chadwick. THE existential comic book. You see, the title character is a former political speechwriter who has had his brain removed by aliens and placed in an artificial body resembling, well, concrete. I know it sounds ridiculous, but the focus of the book is on the character's efforts to make use of his new, nearly indestructible form to experience everything he possibly can... I can see the paint cracks on a house half a mile away...at night. Or swim for two weeks without tiring. I've stood naked on Mount Everest, and on the bottom of a lake in Montana." 16) "Flaming Carrot Comics," Written and drawn by Bob Burden. Our hero, the Flaming Carrot, is your basic amalgam of Zippy the Pinhead and Batman. But, not quite as bright as either..." It's Earth's first contact with these aliens...and all Flaming Carrot can come up with is to annihilate, incinerate, and destroy them!!! "Hey...I'm no Jack Kennedy!" Dark Horse Comics, $2.50. One-pitch softball play concluded this Sunday with the Gamblers going undefeated and winning the championship. Many fine teams played in this tournament. However, the Gamblers were crowned champions.

Gamblers 19 PRP 4

This game was a battle of the high-scoring and undefeated teams in the winners bracket. The bats of PRP never quite got going, however, as a strong defense prevailed for the Gamblers. Leading the Gamblers were Carl Buffalino going 2 for 2 with 2 HR’s and 5 RBI’s. John Fiore also had a strong game going 4 for 4 and scoring 4 runs.

Mid-Digs 15 Banshees 5

The Cinderella Mid-Digs defeated the Banshees to knock the defending champs out of the tournament. Leading the Mid-Dig attack was Scott Viesz. Scott was 2 for 4 with 2 HR’s and 5 RBI’s.

PRP 13 Mid-Digs 9

In a game featuring solid pitching, errors and monsoon-like conditions, PRP defeated the Mid-Digs in a close 4-run game. Joe Jenko gave up 4 earned runs, but was victorious in the 4th inning when the Mid-Digs committed 4 errors leading to 7 runs. Rich Digos hit a first inning 3-run HR to lead PRP.

Championship Game
Gamblers 12 PRP 9

The Gamblers exploded for 8 runs in the 3rd inning as 6 players got hits. This inning gave the Gamblers the lead for good. Steve Mulhearn’s 2-run HR into the wind and Mike Stauss’s 2-run double were the big blows in the inning.

In the 6th, PRP made a strong comeback scoring 6 runs to make the score 10-7.

In the next inning, Ron Clarke’s 2-run double gave the Gamblers insurance runs and a 5 run lead.

In the bottom of the 7th PRP started a comeback led by Scott Parisi’s 2-run HR. The Gambler defense shut down the PRP rally to preserve the championship.

Announcements

Losing to Ramapo was the worst loss we suffered in recent memory. It was a tough loss, but when it came down to it, we did not play as a complete team. Without pointing fingers, we were a one-dimensional team and that’s not how you win.”

TARANTO—BOND

“Kean’s offense is led by running back Rodney Bond, who is one of the finest backs in the conference. He hits the holes well and the defense will see a lot of him on Saturday. He gets the call about 20-25 times a game, so stopping him is our top chore.

If we stop him, that will force their freshmen quarterback Taranto to try to take charge. I believe if we force Taranto into that situation, we can control the tempo of the game.”

Victor Kiam is a phony. You can cover up a slip of the tongue when those annoying "I brought the company" commercials come on, but when he says this is real life, baby, and unfortunately for Kiam, what he said to reporter Lisa Olson didn’t end up on the floor of an editing room.

It’s bad enough that the New England Patriots, along with the Pittsburgh Steelers, are the worst team in professional football. Now Kiam and the Patriots have to deal with this needless distraction brought on by the stupidity and immaturity of several players and Kiam himself.

It seems that Kiam has continued to dig a hole for himself and his team as each day passes. His full page apology which appeared in The Boston Herald and New York Times was simply a token gesture in an attempt to appease both Olson and those considering a boycott of the New England Patriots. Unfortunately, the underlying reason for the public apology was the Almighty Dollar and therefore the signature on the contract.

Kiam denied in the apology that he called Olson a "classic bitch." However, two reporters, Tom Archdeacon and Glen Farley, both said that they would be willing to take polygraph tests to prove that Kiam did indeed utter that now infamous phrase. Both Archdeacon and Farley have absolutely nothing to gain by supporting Olson. There won’t be any commercials or late night talk show appearances either. If this is the case, then does Kiam think he is telling the truth?

Let’s see here. The Mets season is over, Darryl Strawberry may have seen his last days in a Met uniform, and Joe McIlvaine is headed to San Diego to take over as team president and GM. Mr. Bow Tie as well.

Is the Met ship sinking, and if so, is McIlvaine the last of the front office rats to leave? It’s really too bad that a deal couldn’t have been cut to send McIlvaine and Mr. Bow Tie as well.

Yet Joe McIlvaine for leaving because the situation is ideal for him. He worked under the shadows of Cashen who pulled all the strings, made the deals and turned the Mets into a consistent second place ball club.

Make no mistake about it, the Mets have peaked and are on the verge of a major skid. Darryl’s future is uncertain, Kevin McReynolds may be gone, and Ojeda and Darling will probably not be putting deposits down on condos in St. San.

Has Frank Cashen destroyed the Mets? If you really don’t think so, take the following into account. The Mets could have had an outstanding casting of Kevin Mitchell in left, Lenny Dykstra in center, and Strawman in right. It hurts just thinking about it.

Well folks, it’s another long winter of what could have been. Just remember something—you can’t live on 1986 forever.

After a week off via the NFC West bye, Jim Mora’s Saints make a short trip to Atlanta to tangle with Jerry’s Kids. While both teams own the same record (1-2), these are two squads going in very different directions.

Despite beating the Cardinals 28-7, Jim Mora’s Saints will occupy the NFC West basement if his offense continues to stumble and fumble. The Saints can’t win with John Fourcade as their quarterback. Even though Fourcade looked impressive last year, the Saint’s passer has the lowest ranking of any NFL quarterback this year.

Fourcade’s demise and Bobby Hebert’s exile prompted GM Jim Finks to get Steve Walsh from the Cowboys. Considering the fact that Finks gave up three high draft choices to get Walsh, Fourcade will soon be relegated to the bench possibly as soon as this game.

When Walsh does start on a steady basis and gets a feel for the system, the Saint’s quarterback problems will be over. Walsh is a very smart quarterback, but his adjustment to a new offense could take an undetermined amount of time to get used to.

The Saints running game has also been hurt by the team’s lack of running backs. Tailbacks Dalton Hilliard, who scored 16 touchdowns last year, is off to a slow start and has yet to see the endzone. Backfield mates Michael Mccall and Tommy Bell have yet to form and will be forced to pick up the slack with the departure of the entire 1989 season with a knee injury. The former Washington State star hit paydirt three times against the Cards.

The boys in black have an offense that is on the verge of exploding, but Chris Miller hasn’t been able to light the fuse—Miller is a talented passer from Oregon and his receivers are perhaps the brightest young catchers in the game. Andre "Showtime" Rison and Shawn Collins make the nucleus of a passing catching trio that will take them out of last place in the West. The Falcons’ biggest problems in their other division rivals are the Niners and Rams, arguably two of the best teams in the NFL.

When Glavine decides to keep the ball on the ground, rookie Steve Broussord will get the call. Broussard, who injured his knee against the Niners, will start and will be the most important factor in the Atlanta attack.

In the Saints’ opener against the Niners, defensive backs Tol Cook and Robert Massey kept Jerry Rice and John Taylor in check. In addition, the outstanding linebackers of Sam Mills, Pat Swilling, and Ricky Jackson had the Falcons for the score from up close. It stayed 1-0 at the start of the second half, when Glassboro found itself on Red Hawk territory but could not inflict any damage even though they outshot Montclair 11-8. Freshman goalie Lisa Fardella had a solid game with six saves, but it was superb defensive play from players such as Jean Bayley and Kim Kelley that keyed the shutout.

With a 2-1 win over William Paterson on Saturday afternoon, Montclair is over the .500 mark once again with a 4-3 record. Kara Bladwin and Judy DeMarco had the scores against William Paterson.

Field hockey two steps forward, one step back
By Paul Donesky Correspondent

The MSC Field hockey team was successful last week with their two wins against Glassboro State College and William Paterson College, however, they suffered a tough loss to Trenton State College on Tuesday of this week.

Trenton State and MSC played a close game at Sprague Field Tuesday night, but it was TSC, second ranked nationally in division III, who won 2-1. But for the Red Hawks, this was nothing short of a big moral victory. So, while the MSC players were satisfied with their play, the Lions of Trenton could only feel weary and frustrated.

At first look at the statistics, it would seem that Trenton had pretty much discharged the Hawks without too much trouble. TSC had 27 shots on goal, compared with three for Montclair and 15 penalty corners against one for Montclair.

It was only inspired defense by the entire team, rookie goalie Lisa Fardella’s 21 record-breaking saves and her penalty shot score that kept it close. Easily the biggest game of the year, the Red Hawks went to work early to avenge their 7-0 loss earlier this year.

Their aggressive play earned them a stalamente until the 12:21 mark, when Lisa Fardella took penalty shot that caromed off the goakeeper into the net. Fardella’s first goal ever, stood for seven minutes until the Lion’s, Denise Decker tied it late in the first half.

With 13 shots on goal to Montclair’s 2, the Lions were visibly frustrated as the stalamente continued until there were eleven minutes left, then TSC slammed the door on the Hawks. Kerry Kusman was the beneficiary of a loose-ball shot for Fardella’s drowned body and four successive saves. Montclair pressed to tie it, but it was not to be their night.

Coach Ballway was proud and the players were hysterical. “We showed Trenton State what Montclair is made of,” she added to a long list of praises. Less reserved Captain Judy DeMarco exclaimed, “We played with our hearts.”

In the game against, 16th-ranked Glassboro State, GSC could only ponder about how the upset Red Hawks stopped their every attempt to tie the 1-0 deficit. This came from a team that had lost its last three and scored one goal in its last eight periods of play. According to coach Ballway, if the rest of the season goes according to plan, the team will be able to point to this game as the one that turned it around.

Twelve minutes into the game, Judy DeMarco took her own rebound and passed it to Beth Weyman who took it in for the score from up close. It stayed 1-0 at the start of the second half, when Glassboro found itself on Red Hawk territory but could not inflict any damage even though they outshot Montclair 11-8. Freshman goalie Lisa Fardella had a solid game with six saves, but it was superb defensive play from players such as Jean Bayley and Kim Kelley that keyed the shutout.

With a 2-1 win over William Paterson on Saturday afternoon, Montclair is over the .500 mark once again with a 4-3 record. Kara Bladwin and Judy DeMarco had the scores against William Paterson.
Hawks’ wings clipped, 17-14

The Red Hawks no longer stand proudly atop the NJAC. The Ramapo Roadrunners made sure of that as they beat MSC 17-14 in Mahwah for the first time in Ramapo history.

The loss virtually eliminated MSC out of the playoffs, as their record dropped to 2-2 (0-1 in NJAC play). The loss was the team’s second in as many weeks. The last time MSC dropped two straight was in the 1983 season.

Montclair drew first blood on Ramapo’s first possession when linebacker Derrick Williams drilled Ramapo quarterback James Grant as he was about to throw. The pass was picked off by Dennis O’Keefe who dashed 18 yards on the return, giving the Red Hawks the first down.

This golden opportunity for MSC would only result in a 38-yard field goal by Jim Young, to give the Hawks an early 3-0 lead.

The defense, led by Derek Sinisiki, Willie Hubler, Paul Cioffi, and Derrick Williams sparkled, allowing Ramapo only 12 yards of total offense and no first downs during the first half.

Ramapo quarterback James Grant marched the Hawks down the sideline during the first half, driving the ball to the Hawks’ 38 before being forced to punt.

Following the punt, MSC faced a 3rd and 21. Banas threw a poorly thrown pass down the sideline, but Ramapo’s defending back Calvin Bradley intercepted the pass to temporarily stop the bleeding.

This defensive stand led back to the bench fired-up, frustrated with the fact that their offensive counterparts had not yet gotten their wake-up call.

MSC started to drive and pick up momentum as Johnny Walker had five straight carries for a total of 21 yards. Fullback John Fardella also picked in with two fine short catches over the middle, contributing to a well sustained drive.

Quarterback Steve Banas was sacked on the next play, and John Walker lost a yard on a third and goal run. MSC had to settle for a 35-yard field goal by Young, making the score 6-0. MSC’s second field goal would be the last score of the half.

The second half was MSC’s worst nightmare come true. Ramapo’s running game woke up on the opening drive, as the backfield of Mike Brigada, Clinton Spann, and James Grant were slowly starting to find the holes. Ramapo put together their best drive of the game, moving the ball to the Hawks’ 38 before being forced to punt.

The drive ended with a 17-yard score to Erney Harris, who shook off a defender and brought Montclair within two points of the ballgame. Ramapo was successful on the two-point conversion, as Banas stood in the pocket and found Steve Piccininni in the end zone to knot it up at 14.

The drive came to a sudden and dramatic halt three plays later when linebacker Matterson and penguinst Banas, who threw another ill-advised pass as he was falling. The pass fell into Jimmy Williams’ hands and he raced 45 yards untouched, for Ramapo’s second touchdown of the game, to give Ramapo a 14-6 lead with 12:59 remaining in the contest.

Despite the startling turn of events, MSC answered right back on the ensuing kickoff. Banas shook off his second interception and completed 5 of 5 passes. The final pass was a 17-yard score to Enery Harris, who shook off a defender and brought Montclair within two points of tying the ballgame. MSC was successful on the two-point conversion, as Banas stood in the pocket and found Steve Piccininni in the end zone to knot it up at 14.

However, Ramapo would not be denied. James Grant marched the team field with a mixed bag of handoffs and keepers. The big play came on 4th and 6 with 3:07 remaining and the ball on the MSC 39 yard line. Grant rolled right and connected with Gerald Jackson for a first down at the 12 yard line.

With 1:40 left in the ball game, Ramapo coach Joe Micelli sent in kicker John Moyer to attempt an 18 yard field goal. The kick was good and Ramapo led 17-14.

MSC had one last chance to win the ball game, but Banas was intercepted on fourth down by Durrel Stowe to ice the victory for Ramapo.

After the contest, Ramapo players and fans celebrated by pulling down the goalposts. The goalposts were down and so were the heads of ‘Hawks as they wondered what went wrong.

MSC placekicker Jim Young attempts field goal in 17-14 loss to Ramapo.

Men’s soccer continues to roll

The MSC men’s soccer team exploded this week, defeating William Paterson 6-1 and Dowling 7-1. The game against Dowling, a Division II team, featured an impressive come-from-behind effort in which the team scored three goals in two minutes after being down 1-0. The team is now 9-1 overall, 4-0 in the NJAC, and ranked 8th nationally in division III.

The goal scoring this week was provided mostly by Tom Estes, who scored four goals, two against William Patterson and two against Dowling. Guillermo Siles scored two goals against William Patterson and one against Dowling. Gym Moramarco scored one against each. Lewis Ken-Kwoife scored against William Patterson, and Dom Bucci, Vincent Palmiero, and Pedro Auilas scored against Dowling.

Coach Dave Masur said, “We’re playing well because we’re sharing the ball, using our team speed and getting down the field well. We’re also exploiting other team’s weaknesses well.” However, coach Masur still feels the team can do better. “We still need improvement in discipline, decision-making on the field, and organization.”

The team is getting excellent goalkeeping from George Zavala, who gave up only two goals this week. “He’s doing well. George is growing into his position and becoming a leader. He’s getting a better understanding of the game.” His play is very crucial to the team now more than ever because his backup, Mike Rodgers badly fractured his thumb on the 23rd page.
