SGA News:

President Reid speaks on tuition increase

By Robert Wintermute

President Irvin Reid discussed the future of tuition increases in his welcome address to the SGA legislature on Wednesday, Sept. 18. "Normally there is bad news, but I have begun to see signs that some things will look better."

Reid praised the administration’s efforts to keep tuition expenses one-third of the total cost of attending MSC, but blamed the state for not fulfilling its obligations to the college. Regarding a tuition hike for the next semester, he said that "unless a drastic bottom drops out of the state economy, the tuition hike will be kept to $1 to $2 per credit this year."

Reid also made a plea to the legislature to help "create a greater sense of community at MSC." Reid described the new Campus Life Task Force that has been created by the administration, and added that the committee has already come up with the idea of establishing a "campus clean-up day," which will take place "sometime in the spring."

Reid said that even though the committee is in place, there is always need for "ideas that will benefit the environment and sense of community," at MSC. "All should be interested in a better sense of community and variety of enrichment outside of class." Reid pointed to last spring’s concert in the amphitheatre as an example of things that could help promote this.

Dr. James Harris, dean of Student Activities, supported the concerns of President Reid on the issue of the economic future of MSC. He reminded students that this year is a state-wide legislative election. "All of you have the right and responsibility to vote. I highly recommend that the SGA of MSC take the lead in voting on the legislature and the budget."

In describing the short-term future of education in New Jersey, Harris said: "I think we are spending money on the wrong things. The budget." I think it would be better to keep the money on the right things."

People will become upset when students, particularly poor students, are unable to obtain an education in a system that promotes money over intelligence."

Class I organizations over-spend budget

Rob Tranter, SGA Treasurer, gave his initial report of the semester. In his report he described the Class I organization budgets and the overspending. He also mentioned the need for better planning and budgeting for future semesters.

Board appoints Armstrong to faculty

By E. Mun

Jean Armstrong, vice president of Student Affairs, was officially appointed a professor of the English department by the Board of Trustees last Thursday, despite objections made by the teachers’ union over failure to follow affirmative action procedures.

The vote by the Board was unanimous except for an abstention by Student Trustee Paul Prior.

Faculty appointments are normally made only after contractual procedures passed by the board have been followed. The teacher’s union, AFT Local 1904, contentions is Armstrong is not a faculty member but an administrator and must follow procedures accordingly.

"How can anyone at Montclair believe that affirmative action procedures are anything but window-dressing for an Administration and Board that seem to believe in their implementation, when to do so would be inconvenient," said Joan Ficke, vice president of AFT Local 1904, to the Board of Trustees.
Sheik Abbas Musani of Hezboullah said that last week's release by Israel of 81 Shiites and return of the bodies of nine guerrillas was not enough for his group to release the United Nations, Perez DeCuellar is trying to negotiate a swap of Arab prisoners held by Israel for 11 western hostages and Israeli servicemen, held by several different Arab groups.

Total war seems imminent in the Republic of Croatia in Yugoslavia. Federal troops announced an offensive to free several Army garrisons under siege by the Croats. Air raids were sounded in Zagreb, Croatia for the second day in a row. Damage from a missile attack was reported. The Croats accuse the Serbs, who control the federal government, of trying to expand its territory. Serbian officials say they will not let Croatia take Serb-dominated areas with them if they secede from Yugoslavia.

Philippine President Corazon Aquino vowed to call a public referendum to over­turn the Philippine Senate's vote against renewing the U.S. lease on the Subic Bay Naval Base. The current lease expired on the 16th of September. The 12-11 Senate vote could end a 93 year military presence by the United States in the Philippines. The Navy will halt its departure until the referendum. The other U.S. base in the country was de­will halt its departure until the referendum.

Robert Gates' confirmation hearings started Monday. Gates was nominated to be Bush's head of the C.I.A. The nominee said he made "misjudgments" and "should have asked more questions" in pertinence to his role in the Iran Contra Affair. Some senators accused Gates of willful ignorance. Senator Metzenbaum of Ohio said, "You were absolutely surrounded by the truth. How could you possibly not know? As No. 2 man at the agency such willful ignorance is inexcusable."

Clarence Thomas held firm in his confirmation hearings. Thomas, nominated to the Supreme Court by President Bush, with­stood badgering from Senator Joseph Biden of Delaware and Senator Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio. Thomas refused to answer how he would vote on such controversial cases as Roe v. Wade. He maintained that answering the questions would inhibit his abilities to act impartially.

The Space Shuttle Discovery, which was visible in our area a few minutes after take off, had to change orbit in a near miss with Soviet space debris. The debris was a piece of a Soviet rocket. The incident is the first in the shuttle program. Astronauts also assembled a practice erector set in preparation to building the proposed space station.

The Board of Trustees unanimously passed a proposal to authorize a contract for the construction of a 40,000 sq. ft. addition to Sprague Library last Thursday.

The contract, actually five separate contracts, totals $4.99 million, which is agreeable to Chairperson Robert A. Altman because "the original estimate was for $6.4 million." The project is split up among five separate contractors, with the largest part, more than half of the total of the five contracts, going to Controlled Constructon, Inc. The other four contractors in descending order of contract size are, Davidson and Howard, Inc., Electro-Es, Inc., P&G Mechanical Corporation and Weir Welding Company, Inc. According to the Board of Trustees agenda for last Thursday's meeting, "The firms recommended are the lowest qualified bidders."

The project is scheduled to begin this semester and is expected to last at least two years.

The Board also passed a contract to Power Electric Co., Inc. for $316,000 to change MSC's Electric Distribution Systems.

The Board passed a planning document to expand the Child Care Center which is estimated to cost $216,000. The plan is now awaiting approval from the Department of Higher Education.

The Board also passed the appointments of nine persons to faculty positions and one person to a staff position. Among the faculty appointments was the soon to be ex-administrator Vice President Jean Armstrong (see pg. 1). The appointments went unopposed; however, Student Trustee Paul Prior abstained from the vote. Passed with the appointments was also an approval for Jean Armstrong to take a leave of absence with pay from January 1, 1992 to August 31, 1992.

Other matters passed by the Board last Thursday were a Corporate Resolution for Comerica Bank; approval for a new Masters of Arts in Applied Linguistics (see next issue), and approval of the capital budget requests for Fiscal Year 1993 (see next issue).

The Organization of Students for African Unity's (OSAU) Gospel Explosion and Color Explosion events also ran into money problems, running some $1,800 over budget. Since these events were for the purpose of a scholarship for a student in an African-American Studies Minor, Tranter said, the SGA felt that it was worthwhile to transfer the amount of overrun to OSAU.

The Montclarion was discovered to have been $6,000 over budget last year. Additional funds to cover the overrun was transferred to The Montclarion. Tranter said that he would be personally tracking the newspaper's budget, and "would make adjustments as necessary." Tranter said that he felt the overrun was due to the policy of giving free advertising out last year. He added that there shouldn't be such a problem this year. To help solve the problem, Tranter said that he would propose cutting operating expenses such as reducing the size of the paper or reducing the size of the publication runs.

Players was described as "a fiasco" by Tranter. While most outstanding bills have been paid, he said that over $670 is still owed from last year. As a result, Players' budget for spring has been frozen.

Finally, he said that the Class II organization budget process has been changed. Handbooks for the process of appropriating funds for the Class II's will be forthcoming.

SGA up to 26 legislators

Additional legislators were sworn in during the meeting, helping to address the problem of lack of participation mentioned in earlier meetings. The student legislative body now stands at 26 legislators and four executive board members.

This number is still short of last year's legislature, which consisted of 45 people. President Tony Susco said that there are still a number of petitions still outstanding, but cautioned the legislature that the deadline for petitions is Friday, Sept. 20.

He said that he still anticipates a full legislature for the year.

The SGA voted unanimously to appoint the following people to positions in the cabinet: James Cotter, director of external affairs; Ruth Gonega, director of services; Carl Zeitz, director of Greek affairs; and Mildred Pellot, SGA clerk. In a separate vote, Gouri Sudhwni was elected president pro-tempore.

For the coming year and addressed some issues that were discovered recently pertaining to the previous year. Class I organizations were appropriated $557,359 this year. He explained that the college received approximately $533,000 from students' SGA fee of three dollars per credit, leaving a deficit of $4,359. The deficit will be covered by the surplus funds from fiscal year 1991, which was approximately $25,000.

Tranter also explained that the 1991 audit of appropriations has been completed. Several organizations were discovered to have experienced expense overruns in the past year. Student Intra­mural and Leisure Council (SILC) made several illegal purchases totaling approximately $2,500 beginning in November last year. None of those participating in these illegal purchases are on the current executive board of that organization. Since the misappropriations were minor, "we're going to make policy violations," Tranter said that no legal action was taken.

These are some of the countries where MONTCLAIR STATE students have spent a semester or a year of study in the past few years. Studying abroad will give you the chance of experiencing a different country and culture. Your perspective will be broader!

All MONTCLAIR STATE students in good standing are entitled to the services of the Study Abroad program administered by the International Studies office. The program operates many low-cost opportunities abroad, including very affordable exchanges with students from other countries. Courses are generally taught in English by an International faculty.

Financial aid is applicable to study abroad and, in many cases, covers the entire cost.

YOU OWE IT TO YOURSELF!!! Come to a Study Abroad Information meeting and learn how you can use these services, where in the world you can go, how much it will cost, how you can transfer a semester's or a year's worth of credits towards your graduation from MONTCLAIR STATE.

For the benefit of our students not yet fluent in English, The Montclarion prints an article in Spanish weekly. Beginning next week, an article in Spanish will appear side-by-side with it's English translation.

Al regresar a clases este semestre hemos encontrado varios cambios en el colegio. El más significativo es el plan de remodelación que las autoridades de MSC llevan a cabo en el plantel, el cual ha ocasionado ciertos contratiempos, donde desafortunadamente los más afectados somos los estudiantes.

El semestre pasado afrontamos un aumento en el costo de la matrícula. En el semestre actual sufrimos un aumento en el costo de la matrícula. En el último de los casos caminar hasta el salón de clases, lo cual toma aproximadamente 15 minutos.

Afortunadamente este problema no ha afectado aún a los estudiantes del colegio de fin de semana, ya que el estacionamiento para los profesores se encuentra abierto los viernes, sábados y domingos para servicio de dichos estudiantes. Esperemos que esto continúe durante todo el semestre, ya que de lo contrario el programa del colegio de fin de semana se vería seriamente afectado, debido a que los sábados y domingos la escuela se encuentra prácticamente vacía y con muy poca vigilancia, por lo tanto sería bastante peligroso caminar dentro de la escuela, pero al parecer no existe un control sobre esto.

Es una auténtica pesadilla tratar de encontrar un lugar para estacionar dentro del plantel entre semana, ya que el lote 13 ha sido cerrado a los estudiantes. Dicho lote es el más cercano a los edificios en los cuales se imparten la mayor parte de las clases. Ahora, los estudiantes tienen forzosamente que estacionarse a considerable distancia de ellos y esperar el autobús de transporte interno, o en el último de los casos caminar hasta el salón de clases, lo cual toma aproximadamente 15 minutos.

De los problemas que afectan a los estudiantes de MSC, es el precio exagerado de los libros, algunos de los cuales alcanzan cantidades estratosféricas de 70 dólares o más. Si tomamos en cuenta que no es solo una materia para la cual hay que comprar libros y que muchas veces los libros varían de uno hasta cuatro por materia, el resultado es catastrófico para la economía de los estudiantes. Y si a esto aumentamos que existen profesores que piden libros y no los usan durante todo el semestre. Es injusto el invertir en un libro que no será usado. Claro que también hay profesores que utilizan el libro, y si no se compran los esperanzas de aprobar esa materia son mínimas. Pero es difícil reconocer al principio del semestre quién es quién, por lo tanto estamos obligados a comprar todos los libros requeridos.

Es ya una tradición tratar de conseguir los libros con personas que hayan tomado determinada materia en semestres anteriores, las cuales quieran vender sus libros de precios moderados, tal vez prestárselos y hay quienes los regalan.

Por lo que se refiere a los libros requeridos cambia de un semestre a otro por diferentes razones. Una de ellas puede ser que al jefe del departamento de alguna materia, le pareció más completo un libro que el anterior o bien porque el profesor que imparte la materia escribió el libro y quiere convertirlo en un auténtico "best-seller", esto hace imposible conseguir el libro en otro lado que no sea la librería de la escuela.

Un ejemplo más de arbitrariedad, es el de la clase de boliche, ya que MSC no cuenta con las instalaciones necesarias para impartir esta clase. Los estudiantes tienen que transportarse hasta un local ubicado en la avenida "Bloomfield" al final de "Valley Road", en donde hay que pagar 2 dólares por juego, y son dos juegos por clase. Si lo multiplicamos por quince, que es el número de estudiantes, somos muchos los estudiantes que pagan 30 dólares extra. Si consideramos que al pagar la matrícula estamos pagando por el derecho de usar las instalaciones de la escuela, tales como el gimnasio, la alberca, etc., es sencillamente intolerable que se imparta una materia en la que se tiene que pagar nuevamente. Solo falta que los profesores hagan obligatorio el comprar la bola de boliche, ya que MSC no cuenta con un local donde se pueda guardar la bola, y así los nuevos estudiantes no la puedan conseguir con los anteriores. Esto suena increíble, pero todo puede suceder dentro de este gran negocio llamado educación.
Permanent Part-time Package Handlers

United Parcel Service knows how difficult it is these days to get through school, academically and financially. While we can't help you get better grades, we can help you by offering one of the most generous tuition reimbursement packages around.

By working 3-5 hours a day, 5 days a week on selected shifts, you can be eligible for educational loans of up to $25,000 a year and tuition reimbursement of up to $2,000 a semester. You'll also start at $8 an hour, be able to pick a schedule that works around your classes, get paid holidays and vacations, receive company benefits and be eligible for promotions.

UPS also knows that free time is important. As a part-time package handler, you'll get weekends off! That's plenty of time to study or recharge.

No wonder we say UPS delivers more than a great job...UPS Delivers Education.

Seniors in overtime: what’s their plight?

I walked around campus these first couple of weeks, gazing into the eyes of confused and dazed students, who wondered why they were no longer sitting in some beach house in Belmar, sipping beer in their underwear amidst the 90 degree heat. Like premature fetuses, they had been thrust out of the womb of the dog days of summer and dropped, kicking and screaming, onto this mountain of mystery, MSC. Who are you guys anyway? Students? Administrators? Greeks? Geeks? MSC. Who are you guys anyway? Students? Administrators? Greeks? Geeks? Faculty? New Kids on the Black? White? Purple? I want to know and dammit, Janet, I’m going to find out. I want to know what you do, see, taste and barf about; what you feel, hate, dig and wonder about. This is my mission, so if you are a peculiar person or a wiggling wonder, step carefully because I will find you. And believe me, my hungry urchins, you will be sorry.

This week, I went on a quest for the creature known as Procrastinous Seniorium, more commonly referred to as the five-year senior. You can recognize this being by the aged wrinkles criss-crossing the face, the distinct lack of excitement for the new school year and the distaste for doe-eyed freshmen spotted while walking across campus. The five-, six- or even seven-year senior is a student that should be regarded with the highest admiration. This person has managed to stay in school past due with 11,000 other members of his or her own peer group. Four-year graduates lack the foresight to realize that the “real” world is filled with people way over 30 who have mortgages, kids, wives and are generally not to be trusted.

In the words of one five-year senior, “I don’t get along well with employment.” He finds that being a five-year senior has its advantages. “You can’t be educated by going through the mill… I have a lot more by being able to take the classes I wanted, without the pressure of getting out in four years.”

Mike Penner, a five-year senior who recently graduated from MSC, tends to hold a different view. “I didn’t get out in four years because of all those keggers we had in the residence halls. It’s not like I took longer to get out because I wanted to enlighten myself.”

“They make it impossible to get out in four years,” says Jeremy Wallace, in his fifth year. “You can’t hold a job, pay rent, have a girlfriend and have a credit course load…it might be a conspiracy.”

Tony Susco, SGA president, agrees. “The bottom line is that I cannot manage the position of the presidency and a full undergraduate course load. I might have been out in four or five years had I not been so involved.”

After six years at MSC, does President Susco notice a mini generation gap between older and younger students? “Not really,” he says. “It’s not like these people who have been here for six years didn’t have a VCR when growing up. It’s more like the Atari 2600 generation vs. the Nintendo generation.”

Wallace, however, does find it difficult to relate to younger students, although he “doesn’t relate to most kids anyway.”

After five years anywhere, you usually discover certain tricks of the trade to make life easier on yourself, like how to get into a class that’s closed, knowing interesting places for sex, where to and where not to smoke oregano and how to get out of dreaded library fines. Above and beyond campus life, five-year seniors have usually seen more than their fair share of wiggling weird wonders during their stay. “It’s a toss up between Senate’s celebration of Bob Marley’s Birthday in the quad, or catching two people having sex in the elevator,” reminisces Pres. Susco.

Wallace remembers the library masturbator. “It was a nuisance. Keep it in your pants or go into the bathroom, I mean, geez…”

Any last minute advice for freshmen, transfer students or those who have spent their time at MSC in a blur? Says one, “Get involved in a productive organization and meet people.”

“Stay out of trouble and don’t put too much pressure on yourself,” says Mike Penner.

Wallace sums up his advice distinctly and to the point: “Transfer.”

All Around the Campus: The Community Speaks

Is graduating in four years a reality or a dream?

Compiled by Kim Ford

“If you come for school and only school, and don’t join any activities, it’s a reality. But you need activities for your resume, and it’s important to be involved.”

Rich Cruz
Five-year Senior, sociology

“It’s a dream because there are too many requirements and credits needed for graduation. Besides, I want to get as much out of this institution as possible!”

Angelina Chillemi
Freshman, law

“It’s definitely a dream. I’ve never heard of anyone graduating in four years, and I don’t think I will either. Who do you think I am, God? If I was, I wouldn’t be at this school!”

Sheila Grywalski
Sophomore, fine arts

“It’s insane to even think of graduating in four years because life doesn’t work that way. The bureaucracy makes it kind of hard, too.”

No, I insist: Take my spot!

By Audrey Regan

You’re driving through lots and lots of parking lots, circling around cars, people, construction machines, when out of the corner of your eye appears – behold – an empty space. You thank the Great Parking God for this gift and…

Wait! What the? Hey! Who’s this bimbo in the white Mustang who just stole my spot? Just invaded what was destined to be mine? I saw it first! What do you do? Get out and belittle her? Do you ram her car? Do you roll down the window and curse her out? Wait for her to leave and let the air out of her tires? Or do you politely step out of your car, gently approach her and say, “Hello. I realize this parking situation is a bit overwhelming and we are all a tad late for class, but we can work this out…”

That would seem to be the most civilized way to behave, and that is the kind of behavior Chuck Coronato, a professional trainer, tried to encourage at last night’s “Parking Dilemma Workshop” sponsored by the Human Relations Organization (HRO) in Student Center Ballroom C. Unfortunately, only 12 people showed up – 10 of whom were already members of HRO.

“This was not a workshop for parking, although it was a vehicle for members to interact and learn negotiating skills,” said Coronato, who graduated from MSC in 1988 with a masters degree in counseling and human resources, and who has stayed in contact with HRO as a guest speaker since he was a member 15 years ago.

Through a series of exercises, role playing and discussions, Coronato led the group to deal with what he sees as a situation “no different than it was 15 years ago when I was an undergrad.”

Glenn Laniewski, president of HRO, admitted the turnout was disappointing. “It could have been better. We did a lot of publicity and there was a lot of interest. Unfortunately, only 12 people showed up – 10 of whom were already members of HRO.

The 12 who attended learned the “win-win” strategy of negotiating, in which both parties gain from the conflict – whether it be in the business world, home or classroom (although this is hard to imagine in the parking lots). Nevertheless, there will be 12 less angry commuters this semester, and one HRO president who learned proper workshop placing. “I guess parking wasn’t as hard to find as our workshop was,” he said.

An unforgettable lecture: There is hope for improving memory skills

By Jeanine Rybeck

Have you ever embarrassed yourself by calling someone by the wrong name? Did you ever pull an all-nighter only to find that your mind went blank as soon as you were given the test in the morning? Each of us can undoubtedly relate to either of these situations. However, there is hope. According to nationally known memory expert Jon Keith, “There is no such thing as a bad memory.” He proved it on Sept. 17 in his “Where Did I Put My Keys?” seminar in front of a crowded audience in the Student Center Ballrooms.

Keith, author of Executive Memory Techniques, which sold 25,000 copies in the first month of publication, is a graduate of Pace University. He has demonstrated his techniques on national TV with Regis Philbin, and teaches script memorization at major television networks ABC, CBS and NBC. Keith also holds seminars for IBM, National Westminster Bancorp and International Paper Co., as well as many other corporations.

Yes, but can he type? He didn’t say, but he can memorize an issue of Time magazine, page for page, in one hour. He once remembered the names of 664 people who attended one of his seminars. Maybe Keith doesn’t need typing skills after all.

“Remembering a name and a face is the number one tool in both the corporate and the outside world,” said Keith, a Belmar resident. He then went on to teach his technique for remembering names.

“Remember to really hear the name, then note a specific feature on his or her face. Next, make a picture out of the name, and associate that picture with the face.”

Keith stressed the concepts of association and mental picturing throughout the seminar, stating that picture memory is 200 times better than verbal memory. These strategies, he said, are especially effective for retaining scholastic material and are also simple to learn.

For most of us who can’t remember what we ate for breakfast, Keith demonstrated quite humorously that memory can be improved, quite an encouraging thought for those late-night study marathons.

A ROMANTIC COMEDY WITH THE WORKS.
H₂O, Oh: A Guide to Campus Fountains

As two seniors on the verge of graduation, we feel we owe it to the students here to explore the unexplored. Students have enough to worry about: school work, car troubles, parents, bills, etc. This bi-weekly feature, we hope, will acquaint the new student as well as the grizzled college veteran to facets of college life not explained in the trusty college catalogue. For example, which academic buildings have water fountains that shoot up your nose? We took a hard nosed look into this very question and uncovered a sea of fountain facts. Read on.

In today’s world of the so-called purified waters – Evian, Poland Spring, Spa, and Deer Park – only one water source is still free: the good old fashioned water fountain. Even more alarming, three percent of the campus’ fountains do indeed shoot so high as to reach up your nose. The TV Center and the third floor of Partridge Hall shoot the highest. All we can say is, be prepared to wipe your chin.

The Key to the Campus Fountains:

| C - Cold | W - Warm | DTG - Doesn’t taste good |
| SP - Suck pipe | JR - Just right | DNW - Doesn’t work |
| UN - Up nose | SCUM - Scum |

This leads us to a burning question about the fountain next to the locker rooms downstairs in Panzer Gym. What is the P? Is it plumbing? The fountain is fine if you need an emergency shampoo, but a drink of water is out of the question! There’s a shower head within the fountain.

McEachern Hall houses a problematic fountain also. On the first floor, there is a large tri-fountain resembling a baptismal pool. Get a friend to take a drink at the middle fountain while you take a swig from the left, and see if you are still friends afterwards.

Overall, we found that almost one-third of the campus’ water fountains do not have good tasting water, and that most buildings are inconsistently endowed with water works, some varying from floor to floor. However, there are two buildings worth mentioning. Mallory Hall and Finley Hall house the highest number of good-tasting water fountains (four each in each).

Here is our list of the best fountains on campus:

- Speech Building (only fountain)
- Mallory Hall (library side, 1st floor)
- Student Center (downstairs by the 2nd Floor Cafeteria)
- College Hall (main entrance)
- Russ Hall (only fountain. It even looks good!)
More and more PhDs across the country are recommending Hewlett-Packard financial and scientific calculators to their students. And for some very strong reasons.

“The HP 48SX Scientific Expandable has powerful graphics tools that are remarkably helpful to students learning mathematical concepts. And with the equation solver feature, it’s excellent for applying mathematics to engineering,” according to Dr. William Rahmeyer, a professor of civil and environmental engineering at Utah State University.

“The HP Business Consultant II has an equation solver and extensive math functions. These free the students from computational tedium so they can think and interact on a higher level!” says Dr. Lee V. Stiff, a professor of math education at North Carolina State University.

So go check out the HP calculator line at your college bookstore or HP retailer. You’ll agree, there’s no faster relief from the pain of tough problems.

HP calculators. The best for your success.

You live on campus. As you walk in to your room you trip over an empty bottle of Wild Turkey and find your roommate turning blue from choking on his own vomit. You ponder, "Should I ignore this and hope that rumor of getting a 4.0 for the semester if your roommate dies is true, or call someone?" You choose the latter remembering he owes you money. You now rush to the phone to summon help. You get...a busy signal.

Well, maybe this hasn't happened to you, but in the back of your head you know it could. You could get that mysterious busy signal that drives you mad. That busy signal which now has invaded your sleep.

"Hello. My name is ACUS. I'm a super digital multi-service phone network system. I cost your school over a million dollars. And because I'm smarter than you are...Well, I'll do whatever I like.

"I get a real kick out of watching you miss that nineteenth digit with your clumsy finger when you dial out of the 201 area code. And when you finally do get it right I slip you the BUSY SIGNAL. Ha, ha, ha. It would be too easy to install additional lines so all your calls can get through on your first try. Today I think I'll let the campus use, hum...ten lines. Boy, ain't this fun?"

"Gee, I hope it wasn't an emergency. Oh, well.

"Actually I'm not all bad. After all I am the deviant computer of 2001: A Space Odyssey, soft yet disturbing..."

"You're lucky to have me at all. I was installed for the students as an afterthought by the administration. So count your blessings, and hope nothing goes wrong." (Evil, uncontrollable laughter follows.)

You wake in a pool of sweat. You shudder and think this would all go away if you switched to New Jersey Bell, which is an option you have. It is more expensive but reliable. You write yourself a note on a Post-It to make the switch tomorrow and sleep like a baby.

Oh, When the Dead Come Marching In

I hate the Grateful Dead. I just can't stand them. My friends listen to them all the time and it drives me up the wall. There is the occasional song or two that I can tolerate, but for the most part, I just can't stand them. My friends think I'm ridiculous. They like when you're friends with people like the Dead, you're always listening to them, they're always talking about them, and you know, it just drives me up the wall. They don't understand why I can't stand them.

But let me explain. Some of you may have already experienced the Dead week camp outs that take place at your house. They come in from everywhere, places like Boston, Philly, and D.C. and they spend a few days at a time, and they know how to party! They dance around and act all goofy, but they're really nice people.

When all your friends are Deadheads there are certain advantages when the Dead is in town. Let me explain. Some of you may have already experienced the Dead week camp outs that take place at your house. They come in from everywhere, places like Boston, Philly, and D.C. and they stay over so they don't have to pay outrageous prices for some cheesey hotel room. Of course they always return the favor when your friends go to their place when the Dead is playing in their town. Anyway, there are lots of people over, there are lots of good vibes in the air, the atmosphere is good (except for the music), and someone is usually stir-frying in the wok so there is plenty of good food to munch on. After dinner they all pile in the VW bus and it's off to the show everywhere, places like Boston, Philly, and D.C. and they spend a few days at a time, and they know how to party!

It's like a religion. But as much as I hate the Dead, I love when they're in town.

Some folks make friends in frats, while others hang out in the library to make friends. But I have this uncanny knack for making friends with Deadheads. I like Deadheads. I just can't stand the music they're always listening to. They dance around and act all goofy, but they're really nice people.

They come in from everywhere, places like Boston, Philly, and D.C. and they stay over so they don't have to pay outrageous prices for some cheesey hotel room. Of course they always return the favor when your friends go to their place when the Dead is playing in their town. Anyway, there are lots of people over, there are lots of good vibes in the air, the atmosphere is good (except for the music), and someone is usually stir-frying in the wok so there is plenty of good food to munch on. After dinner they all pile in the VW bus and it's off to the show everywhere, places like Boston, Philly, and D.C. and they spend a few days at a time, and they know how to party!

It's like the calm after the storm when they all leave. You can sit back, change the music, relax and do some studying (hah!). Sometimes they even disappear for a few days, following the Dead to the next town. You get the whole house to yourself!

So, if you're like me and can't stand the music of the Dead, don't hold it against the Deadheads, they're a nice bunch of folks. They like to have fun, they disappear for a few days at a time, and they know how to party!

A Modest Proposal

I'm annoyed. As I read through our beloved MSC Handbook, I noticed a contradiction (I know I could not believe it myself). On page 30 the book states: "Parties at Clove (Rd apartments) must be registered and approved and will be permitted only on Friday and Saturday nights." BUT, the next paragraph states that we are not allowed to have any parties at any time and if we are found to be in violation of this rule we will have our housing contracts terminated along with any social security benefits and something that has to do with our Student Center bathroom rights. Anyway, if anyone remembers what Clove used to be like then they can understand the difficulty there is currently to have a good time with more than ten people in their apartment. The previous rules in the handbook (1987,88,89) had a limit of 30-40 people. Granted, this rule was violated on several occasions. But now it is absolutely ridiculous to even consider the fact of having more than five people in your apartment because of all the allocations that can be brought against you. Moreover, anyone who hung around for graduation week-end remembers what a blast it was at Clove because all of the seniors were leaving and it really didn't matter as much then to be drinking in your apartment or someone else's apartment or even outside for that matter.

So now I come to my point and proposal to the Board of Trustees and anyone who has any say in our esteemed institution: In a given month, (a four week period) why can't we have a Clove Road block party on one of those weekends or every other weekend. And during the other two week-ends, the current rule for Clove parties (whichever it may be) would be in effect. And just to be fair, if any resident violates the party policy during the "off party weekend" then the "party weekend" would be in jeopardy. This way residents would respect the policy more because one part of every month would be the time to have a party with more than ten people and not have to worry about being written up or something to that effect.

Most of us are not thrilled with going off campus to party and drive back. We would like to think that we are more responsible than that and with this unique opportunity to stay in or about our apartments would relieve many people of being even remotely tempted to drink and drive.

By the way, this 'party weekend' consists of a 'normal' party weekend—Friday night to Sunday morning. I think that this is fair and I would feel extreme relief from the administration if they would reply to this request promptly. Clove Road residents are more than willing to work out something fair. I mean we 'pay' to have our rights/privi-leges not manipulated without our say or input, right? Well, I suppose as it is not possible for some other week.

Administration — Hear our prayer. Thank You.

Two scoops of Spoon River Anthology

By Beth Mangini

In the Studio Theater from September 17-22 is a serious drama that one must have a good ear to understand, "Spoon River Anthology," a play written by Edgar Lee Masters, is set in a forgotten place in time that only the people which once flourished there can remember.

This MSC production is directed by Sarah Ryan. The cast consists of an ensemble of ten characters. Each one plays many parts as they reveal their tragedies in life now told by their ghost-like spirits.

The setting and lighting, supervised by stage manager Dana Damato, gives a realness to these non-existent people. In a yard setting, then you must come visit the ensemble of ten characters. Each one plays many parts as they reveal their tragedies in life now told by their ghost-like spirits. Each one plays many parts as they reveal their tragedies in life now told by their ghost-like spirits.

During a section of soliloquies, singing performed by Carolyn Kowalski and Brian Vanderhoof enhances the characters' moods. Their deep, melodic voices are a good accent to the overall mood. Since the whole cast gave equal effort to this successful play, I would like to name the rest of the cast to give them the credit they deserve. The ensemble includes: Jill Applebaum, Andrea Caskey, Bernadette Cerami, James Connolly, Scott Friedman, John Koeppi, Nancy Pawlack and David Zita.

If you like story-telling in a graveyard setting, then you must come visit the tenants of Spoon River, and listen while they tell you their tragedies that still haunt them. For more info check out the ad on page 22.

Players portrays a Foreigner

By Kerri Kochanski

"I'm having quite an adventure here," states Charlie Baker. And an adventure it was, when Players presented "The Foreigner" in the Student Center Annex. Even the ill wishes of opening night (Friday the 13th) failed to subdue the side-splitting success of this Larry Shue comedy which was directed by Melissa A. Bentley, assisted by Jason Grote.

The play takes place in Tiltons, Georgia where Charlie (Matthew Horohoe) and Froggy (Philip M. Cirincione) arrive to lodge with Froggy's older friend Betty (Diane DeFonza). While Betty yearns to meet interesting outsiders, Charlie fears to engage in conversation. Being the good friend he is, Froggy says he'll attend to Charlie's speaking matters - and handle them he does when Froggy introduces ever-so-boring, neurotic Charlie as "the foreigner." Though reluctant to play along, Charlie temporarily bises his articulate English tongue and feigns incommunicability. However, Charlie opts to prolong the foreigner guise after witnessing private confessions which concern the kinfolk of the house.

On target with comedic timing, Diane DeFonza gave a quipping portrayal of granny-like Betty, and newcomer Eric Shmitz provided a rip-roaring rendition of gruff southern racist, Owen Musser. Garbled jokes marked the presence of Philip M. Cirincione (Froggy) whose lines became lost in a fire of rapid speech. His tremendous accent, besides being distracting, hindered audience comprehension at times.

John H. Rew III furnished a generous interpretation of Ellard, the young boy. His wealth of facial expressions were deliciously convincing, yet hardly surpassed by his fluent, childlike mannerisms.

However, Matthew Horohoe was far from "remarkable." An acting tour de force, Horohoe was genuine. Establishing himself as both a versatile and fine performer, he graced the college stage with untouchable talent.

The moments between DeFonza, Rew and Horohoe were creatively directed and playfully entertaining.

While the stage was well-lit (Scott C. Nelson) and the costumes (Tanya Guercy) served their purpose, the set (Julie Chrobak) was stiff, as it failed to re-create the comfortable look of a lived-in home.

Michael Finn appeared as Rev. David Marshall Lee and Madelyn Chiusano portrayed Catherine Simms. Tom Monica and Kim Manion (Klan Members) completed the cast.

Rutgers unusual prints at Montclair Art Museum

By Maria Russo

Now appearing at the Montclair Art Museum is "Rutgers Archives Prints." This exhibit is a collage of experimental work created at the Rutgers Center for Innovative Printmaking in New Brunswick. This center, founded in the mid-1980's, is the central core where artists can experiment with new ideas and associate with many other renowned artists. It displays to the viewer the imaginative and surrealistic pieces of work by such important figures in the art world. These include April Gornik, John Beerman, Eve Sonnerman, Steve Holl and Milton Reisch.

The exhibit is a mixture of diverse prints, each with its own identity. Technically these artists have centered around etchings and lithographs. John Beerman's 1986 colored etching, "The Stones Silent Witness" is a breathtaking sight of a magnificent lake with reflections of the stones and forest off the water. Along the horizon is a brilliant value of yellows and oranges which surrounds the region.

Steve Holl's 1986 lithograph of the "Whale House" is a depiction of a long sandy beach, accompanied by a drawn-out, geometrical house for the viewer to watch out for any oncoming whales in the distance. This picture, for many who see it, may bring back memories of quiet moments walking along the beach at night (it did for me!).

I know what you're thinking, that's it! Don't fret my friendly, faithful Montclarion reader, there are many more prints to see. Each contain their own uniqueness, such as Eve Sonnerman's 1987 color lithograph, "Runner and Fish." It depicts a blue background of sea and fish, a black silhouette of a man running against it (very abstract...Huh!). The exhibit is running now through February 9, 1992, so don't worry -- it isn't going anywhere!

Funnymen

The fall season is once again upon us, and once again the networks bombard the airwaves with new series. Twenty-eight new shows debut within the next few weeks. Which will survive? Which will crash and burn? Here are my picks for some of the better shows beaming your way.

One of the best new “concept” shows to come along in a long time is Herman’s Head (Sunday, 9-10 p.m., Fox). Herman, played by William Ragsdale, is a young magazine facts checker whose personal crises are kept in check by four different aspects of his personality. There’s Genius (Peter MacKenzie), a neo-yuppie sort of dude; Wimp (Rick Lawless), whose name speaks for itself; Angel (Molly Hagen), his feminine side and very idealistic; and Animal (Ken Hudson Campbell), the lusty, beer-guzzling testosterone-filled part. This show is funny! It’s a very premise, I admit, but for some reason, the show holds together well. The interaction between the different aspects of Herman’s personality makes the show. In the pilot, Genius, Angel and Wimp had to tie down Herman’s skull one Sunday. It looks good.

Next in line is The Fanelli Boys (Sunday, 7:30-8 p.m., NBC). No, it’s not a Raiders spinoff. Marshall, a 13-year-old New Jerseyan, gets transplanted into Indiana corn country, and discovers there’s a whole lot of weird stuff going on in this quiet little town. Trouble is, he’s the only one who sees any of it. Can he get a little Rod Selinger-ish for this traditionally quality family time slot, but it just might catch on. NBC is gearing this as a family show, but check it out if you’re in your dorm room alone and bored out of your skull one Sunday. It looks good.

New Show Number Two is Eerie, Indiana (Sunday, 7:30-8 p.m., NBC). No, it’s not a Raiders spinoff. Marshall, a 13-year-old New Jerseyan, gets transplanted into Indiana corn country, and discovers there’s a whole lot of weird stuff going on in this quiet little town. Trouble is, he’s the only one who sees any of it. Can he get a little Rod Selinger-ish for this traditionally quality family time slot, but it just might catch on. NBC is gearing this as a family show, but check it out if you’re in your dorm room alone and bored out of your skull one Sunday. It looks good.

In line is Pacific Station (Sunday, 8:30-9 p.m., NBC). Robert Guillaume (Benson) and Richard Libertini (The Fanelli Boys) are partners in the Venice Beach community. Guillaume’s character, detective Bob Ballard, is a cross-witty and witty. Libertini, as Richard Capparelli, is a nutty New Age-type who drinks herbal tea and just got back from medical leave. Their boss is the totally un-suck. Okay, now I indulge myself. I’ve always watched the Saturday morning cartoons, from Bugs Bunny on through. Here are a few some of you older kids might want to check out: Darkwing Duck (ABC, 9 a.m.), will be worth getting up for. One note: these episodes are exclusive to ABC and won’t air on the Disney Afternoon on Channel 11.

The last of my big picks is The Ultimate Challenge (Friday, 9-10 p.m., Fox). This one is one of those reality shows, featuring stunts, adventurers wrestling crocodiles, kayaking down treacherous rivers and skiing down the west face of the Matterhorn. Yes, I admit, it’s a new concept and it’s reeking of masculinity and male hormones, but other reality shows like America’s Most Wanted and Rescue 911! have done well, so who knows? Besides, it’s more fun to watch other people risk their necks, right?

I’ve started to watch a little of the new Disney stuff, so I hope Darkwing Duck (ABC, 9 a.m.), will be worth getting up for. One note: these episodes are exclusive to ABC and won’t air on the Disney Afternoon on Channel 11.

The Montclarion / Thursday, September 19, 1991
And now, for your reading pleasure, we present two opposing views on the band Rush, in light of their newly released LP Roll the Bones.

Rush Reborn

By R. A. Campos

Roll the Bones has become a decaying old woman being kept alive by a respirator in the "dying bands" wing of Atlantic Records. The only reason no one has pulled the plug yet is because the new stuff, and even some retentionists keep feeding the record company enough money to keep it worth their while to pretend the band is still alive.

The band has not released an actual "Rush album" since 1982 with the release of Signals. In 1984, Rush released Grace Under Pressure. Since then, the band has slipped deeper and deeper into an artistic coma. With the release of Power Windows and Hold Your Fire, most Rush fans gave up any hope of the band regaining consciousness.

In 1989, Rush released Presto and any true fanatic, anyone who really understood and enjoyed Rush's music, sent roses or carnations and let the band know. But with any wheeze or cough from the group, which Atlantic records chose to call a new album, those who have no concept of Rush's music, those who think their new music is the same or just as good as their older stuff, send enough money to keep the fat cats at Atlantic Records on their filet mignon and shrimp diet.

The latest pheg-m-bail that Rush has coughed on the white linen sheets is called Roll the Bones. The music has "send us more money to keep us alive" written all over it. Atlantic Records has also interpreted this wheeze as a revitalization of the band.

Rush has regressed from what was once a band of anti-conformity theme of 2112, which ran for over 10 minutes. The price of a once great band gone reduced to spitting up at least another three albums. It would be better if one of the band members actually died. We would be forced to remember the band for what it was instead of watching it decay and rot, watching the music die as the band lives on - instead of the band trading in their talent for a new Ferrari.

The best that said Rush: A skeleton of its Former Self

By Paul Donefsky

Roll the Bones is a miserable album. There is no connection between music and the guitar work on this album and it is not nearly reminiscent of previous work. Although Geddy Lee's bass guitar hasn't changed much, his voice is getting deeper and deeper. His days of screaming have been cast aside for a more mellow approach to the music. Neil Peart's drums sound nearly like electronic drums at times. For that matter, the whole albums sounds mechanical, like a computer program was written to create a pop Rush album.

Perhaps it would be better to have the other band members actually died. We would be forced to remember the band for what it was instead of watching it decay and rot, watching the music die as the band lines on - instead of the band trading in their talent for a new Ferrari.

If we keep our pride
And victory denied
A summit too lofty
River a little too wide

If we burn our wings
Flying to close to the sun
If the moment of glory
Is over before it's begun
We will pay the price
But we will not count the cost

If the music stops
Neither the sound of the rain
All the hope and glory
All the sacrifice in vain
If love remains
Though everything is lost
We will pay the price
But we will not count the cost

Rush has burnt their wings flying too close to the sun, but we are paying the price. The price of a once great band gone reduced to spitting-up fluffy pop music. "Bravado" could be said to be the gem on this album. But a tin can with the fading remnant of Andy Warhol on the peeling cover is also a gem in a mound of garbage.

There is only one solution to this problem: eutanasia. Pull the plug, turn off the machine, let it rest. The band is still breathing, but has long since died.

Big Audio Dynamite II The Globe - Columbia

Once upon a time Mick Jones, one half of the songwriting duo which put The Clash on the map, was kicked from the band only to form the un-punk B.A.D. Sev- eral albums later, the band has a whole new line-up (hence, the II) and a striking diversity to boot. The Globe contains some of Jones' best material to date, and it seems he has finally come to terms with his musical past. The title track contains sampling of "I Should Stay Or Should I Go" and rap from Gobbles' while the single "Rush" is a mixture of pop and dance catchability with the lyrics reflecting his problematic youth. Also included are the cruising ballads "Innocent Child" and "When The Time Comes." By Kris C. 60's Throwback band Trips to Shakespeare

By Maria Russo

History has always tended to repeat itself. For example, the revival of the 60's. This nostalgic era has invaded just about everything we take part in these days. This includes fashion and, dare I say, TV. The original mini-dress, eye-catching T-shirts and peace symbols as accessories; attitudes (No war, World Peace and Earth Day) and lastly, music. Yes, many new bands have that slight, if not totally 60's, overtone to their music. So why shouldn't we add one more new 60's sounding (but in reality 90's) band to the list. Their new album is entitled LuLu and they call themselves Trips Shakespeare.

Trips Shakespeare is made up of brother Dan and Matt Wilson, both on the guitar and piano, Elaine Harris on percussion and drums and John Munson on bass. Vocals are shared between Matt, Dan and John. It's exactly like having your parents videotape what you can't. Can't keep a VCR on campus, y'know. For more information, call (201) 893-5112 and ask for more information on the local band Trips Shakespeare.

Couch Potato

Hi Land of the Lost isn't your thing, check out Mother Goose & Grimm (CBS, 8:30 a.m.). Yes, it's just like the comic strip. Hell, if Garfield can have his own show, why can't?

Back to the Future (CBS, 11 am) looks iffy. Bill & Ted's Excellent Adventures flew because it had an interesting ongoing mission, and nothing ever got screwed up by their time travelling. Remember all the problems Doc and Marty had in Future II and III? How will they manage to figure out time travel and explain it to the Cocoa Puffs crowd who will just as soon as play Nintendo instead?

Taz-Mania (Fox, 9:30 a.m.) is about guess who? Finally, the Tasmanian Devil, one of Warner Bros. classic characters, gets his own series.

There are also a whole bunch of other shows to look forward to (the season premiere of Star Trek-The Next Generation, hopefully those going on conferences that weekend will get to see, Fred Savage losing his virginity on The Wonder Years, Pro Wrestling to grow up), and a lot of other things to watch, so see what you can, and have your parents videotape what you can't.

Can't keep a VCR on campus, y'know. Remember what happened in Bohn Hall last year...

By Dawn Avagliano

"Admission of Failure" by Jonathan LeVine, a sculptural piece that was exhibited in the Calcia Arts Lounge Sept. 11 to Sept. 18, was an impressive beginning to the new school year's works of art. It consisted of seven free standing paper-mache-like boxes with spikes protruding at every angle, little crafted dolls and sand. The piece was moved around each day so that its visual presentation was completely different each time you came to look at it.

The idea behind it seems to be one of restoration and aggression of the male being. More specifically, it reads as the frustrations and hard workings of ideas of a male artist. There is a tribal feel to it -- the red, spiked boxes have formed a dance in their placement around the sand, and on the walls as they've been moved about during the week. The little crafted men made of clay and gauze look vulnerable in their outstretched shapes with awe-like expressions on their faces. The piece as a whole works well in its placement each day, and the statement behind it is cloudy, but paradoxically obvious. I cannot help feeling a sense of anguish about male issues coming through so strongly within the red colored spikes, and the written passages inside each box. I'm sorry one cannot see it now because it's being taken down today, but look for future pieces exhibited in the Calcia Arts building lounge.

Volleyball just can't dig it

By Al Iannazzone

The MSC women's volleyball team is off to another slow start after dropping three of its first four matches. The 1990 version finished the season 4-25, but second-year coach Anita Kubicka believes this year's team will be more competitive. "I expect more consistent play than last year," she said.

MSC opened the season at the Stockton Tournament and finished 1-2. The Lady Hawks lost their first match to the College of Notre Dame of Maryland 15-13, 5-15 and 8-15 with the third game going to rally point scoring. In this type of scoring whether you serve or not you can get points. In the second match they fell to St. Mary's College, also of Maryland, 9-15, 12-15 and 10-15. MSC won its third match by beating Ramapo 15-13 and 15-4.

In the tourney, MSC was led by three players: Tracy Meehan, Denise Chouinard, one of only three returning players, and Tony Muller. This trio combined for 22 aces and 19 kills.

Tuesday night, MSC's record fell to 1-3 after losing to Kean in three straight games 15-4, 15-3 and 15-7. The Red Hawks continue their road trip as they travel to St. Thomas and FDU Madison before coming home to play Jersey City on the 24th.

13th Annual Pride Bowl
MSC vs. Ramapo Oct. 5th at 7:30 pm. Advanced tickets go on sale Monday in the Student Center, Cafeterias and the Athletic Department. If you buy tickets in advance they are $1 or $10 at the gate.

Women's Soccer rebounds from two tough losses by upsetting Drew

By Craig Herbert

Although it's only the second year of NCAA competition for the Lady Red Hawks soccer team, things are progressing slowly.

The team started off the year with two losses, both to nationally ranked teams. Against Stockton State, MSC was leading at halftime, but wound up dropping the contest 5-1. The same thing happened in the next game against Georgian Court- a lead was blown and MSC lost again, 2-1.

"The girls are young and have yet to learn how to stay disciplined for a full ninety minutes, not just half of a game. With time will come the knowledge of how to control the game by killing time and by containing their opponents," says head coach Peter Latartara.

The third game was an away trip against Drew University, a heavy favorite to beat MSC. After trailing 1-0 at the half, the Lady Hawks fought back and held on for a 3-1 victory. Not only was it an upset, but also an enormous confidence booster as well.

Confidence is the one thing MSC will need to improve upon, after its 5-17 record a year ago. Just like last year's schedule, this year's will be just as tough. "I believe in scheduling games against strong opponents. It may not produce a great record at first, but, in the long run the girls will benefit from the competition," says Latartara.

With practically all the players back from last year's team, coach Latartara is shooting for a .500 record. Injuries to five players have set the team back some, but there are other eager players willing to step in.

One of the team's leaders, Linda Hadshinow, is a very enthusiastic and skilled player. The half-back already has two assists and one goal in three games.

Two transfers will be contributing talented efforts as well. Kimberly Drager, a goalie out of Mercer County College and Karen Voorhees, a mid-fielder out of Rochester University, will be looked upon to have an immediate impact.

MSC Assistant Director of Athletics, Oliver Gelston...

"College athletics has gotten into the entertainment business and out of the education business."

"...in reaction to the depths college sports has gone to beat the rules in order to win."
The National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) is an association of member colleges that make certain rules governing eligibility and financial aid. The NCAA organizes championships and sets the rules to govern the manner in which institutions compete with one another both on and off the field. Did you ever consider how the rules are made or just who finalizes those rules? Most likely, the average sports fan doesn’t know or simply thinks that a few NCAA big-shots casually make the rules that decide the boundaries by which the nation’s sports programs must adhere to. The fact of the matter is, the NCAA is a self-governing body, meaning that each of its nearly 1,000 institutions among three divisions, has a vote when it comes to deciding on proposed legislation. Now it is especially important to address how the proposed legislation process works in respect to the new reform movement taking place in college athletics. As reported last week, there has been a rash of scattered abuses rising to the surface of college athletics of late. Through the media, the abuses have become more visible, especially in the big-time sports programs (Division I) where the stakes of winning are much higher than that of Divisions II and III. The process of proposing legislation is as follows: Any member institution can propose legislation, such as coaches, athletic directors, school presidents, as well as the NCAA President’s Commission and the NCAA executive council itself. The proposed amendments are then reviewed upon the given deadline of July 1, by the NCAA Legislative Review Committee and are ultimately voted on at the NCAA’s Annual Convention, which will be held from January 7-10, 1992. Finally, after the membership votes in a proposed amendment, it must be abided by all three divisions, unless specified under the amendment’s constitution. It is heartening to know that there is a legal system that forms a structure of rules and regulations by which member institutions can contribute to and abide by. This is the beauty of American democracy. However, when taking the subject of proposed legislation and combining it with the new reform movement, these two serious questions must be asked:

1) Are the reform proposals actually addressing the real problem of cleaning up college sports?

2) Is some of this voted-in legislation restricting areas which it shouldn’t be?

1) Are the reform proposals actually addressing the real problem of cleaning up college sports?

2) Is some of this voted-in legislation restricting areas which it shouldn’t be?

MSC Director of Athletics Greg Lockard, although in favor of reform, has his doubts. He says, “Those who are proposing the legislation should be careful how they are directing it.”

Lockard feels that in other schools, par
dicularly in Division III, which MSC belongs, there is a “leveling of the playing field” effect. For example, Ithaca College, a Division III program, has five full time football coaches compared to MSC’s two. For argument’s sake, if Lockard wanted to “level the playing field,” feeling that Ithaca has too much of an edge, he would propose perhaps that all Division III schools should be limited to two full-time football coaches.

Lockard’s intent would be to give his football program a better shot at winning the trophy by seeing to it that all Division III teams were as equal as possible, when it came to his specific proposal. In reality, Lockard feels that if Ithaca wants to have that number of coaches, then that’s fine. However, he maintains, “We should all be playing under the same rules, but they (the rules) shouldn’t be restrictive though.”

When tackling the subject of restrictive legislation, the problem develops threefold:

1) A sport is affected, which shouldn’t necessarily be

2) The student-athlete pays a significant price

3) Coaches become restrained as to how much control they have over their team.

Concerning this delicate topic, Lockard says, “Reform is not simple, it is complex. Damage is being done because some who propose the legislation are uninformed ....”

Greg Lockard

In recent years the NCAA has passed legislation which has continually decreased the amount of time a student-athlete can practice, train or even be trained in their particular sport. The fallout of such restrictions may be best told about the fate of former Evans who, according to MSC head swimming coach Brian McLaughlin, was a 17 year old junior and gold medal winner in swimming at the 1988 Olympic games. Two years later Evans chose to further her academic and athletic careers by going to Stanford University. Evans, who aspires to be in the 1992 Olympics, was told to cut short her training hours because they conflicted with the NCAA rules. Evans backed out dropping out of Stanford to continue her training for the Olympics. Although it was the athlete’s choice to stay in school or give up swimming, it did not have to come to this.

Lockard admits that a situation such as this is serious. He says, “Essentially, the legislation is restricting areas which it shouldn’t be. It (restriction) should be done in big sports like football and basketball where it is needed. Don’t hurt the other sports.”

Whereas innocent sports and athletes are affected by restriction, so are the coaches, who sometimes can be almost “paralyzed” as to how much they have regarding practice, training and of course recruiting. Recruiting has traditionally been a nightmare for college athletics in that so many rules are often broken. And because of this, the reform movement has literally backfired to a point. Assistant Athletic Director Oliver Gelston says, “Sure legislation hurts honorable programs, but coaches always operate from the premise, how can I beat the rule? They look for the edge in financial aid, academic eligibility and recruiting.”

As the reform movement continues, so do the abuses. Whether it be injustices done to certain athletes, the wrongdoings of coaches, or the fate of the athletes themselves, college athletics must be cleaned up to improve its tarnished image. Therefore, those who propose and approve legislation must collectively take a stand to serve the common interests of the reform movement, rather than support their own personal interests.
Men's Soccer surges to 4-0

LIU and St. Rose of NY are latest victims

By Keith A. Idec

The senior forward from Lyndhurst scored two goals in the first half. His second goal broke a 1-1 tie and gave MSC the lead for good. For his effort, Rubinetti was named the tournament’s offensive MVP. Junior midfielder Guillermo Arboleda. Both goals were set up by

Men's Soccer surges to 4-0

SCA strugled offensively and dropped an 18-7 decision to Division II Mansfield in its season opener Saturday night at Sprague Field.

The Red Hawks could not seem to get on track as their offense could only muster 163 total yards, 47 on the ground and 116 in the air. MSC also struggled mentally as it was hurt by penalties, missed blocks and a missed field goal.

MSC's defense opened the game strong, causing a fumble on the Mountaineers second possession. Larry Thompson recovered the fumble on the MSC 35 but 13 plays and 44 yards later, MSC's Tom Parmaby's 38 yard field goal attempt went wide left. Mansfield took advantage of the missed three-pointer and went 66 yards on 10 plays before Matt Stehan booted a 30 yard field goal, giving the Mountaineers a 3-0 second quarter lead.

On MSC's next possession the Red Hawks were on the Mountaineers 24-yard line when they were penalized five yards for motion. Two plays later MSC was hit with 10 yards for holding and had to punt. Coach Rick Giancola was not pleased with this blown scoring opportunity. "Our consistency is lacking," he said. "We must execute better."

The next half started with MU quarterback Bill Bair scoring on a 1-yard run, but the extra point was missed. FIRST HALF SCORES: MU 7 MSC 0

The second half started the same as the first as MSC's Keith Davis recovered a fumble on the Mountaineer's 10-yard line. MSC tailback John Walker took over from there and scored on a 1-yard run up the middle. Parmaby's extra point was good, closing the MU lead to 9-7. MSC QB Steve Banas started the second half with six straight incomplete passes. After Rob Funicello recovered a fumble for the Red Hawks on the MSC 2-yard line, Banas was called for a safety, giving Mansfield another deuce. Giancola then replaced Banas with

"I was upset with the loss," Giancola said, "but the guys really played hard. We had an opportunity to score two times and came away with nothing. Our consistency is lacking."

Mansfield was led by Daryl Gladden who gave the MSC defense fits as he rushed for 137 yards on 26 carries. Bair, in addition to his scoring run, was 13 for 25 for 135 yards.

The Red Hawks are ready to put the loss behind them as they prepare for their eight-hour journey to Buffalo to face the U of B Bulls. "We’re going to make sure our approach is correct," Giancola said. "I was displeased with our consistency and execution, but they can be practiced and corrected. It’s critical to execute and be sound and if we can do that, we can win the game."
