C. Everett Koop addresses U.S. health care crisis in Memorial Auditorium

by Cliff Annicelli

Former U.S. Surgeon General C. Everett Koop kicked off the inaugural event of Montclair State's new Nicholas Martin Center for Public Policy on Wednesday night with an address on the state of the nation's health care system.

Koop, who served as surgeon general from 1981 to 1989, titled his speech "Warning: The American Health Care System Could Be Dangerous to Your Health!" but soon dove headlong into outlining his ideas for solving America's "health care crisis".

"There is no panacea, no single magic bullet to solve this crisis but at least the health care issue has reached the public agenda," Koop said.

The problem, said Koop, has in large part been a result of the public's unreasonably high demands on the medical system for immediate access to care, ultra high-tech facilities and low cost.

We expect miracles to happen even when the medical profession can't meet them," he said.

The rest of the problem has to do with runaway insurance costs Koop said.

"You don't have to be a prophet to figure out that our insurance coverage is a national disgrace," Koop said.

The insurance coverage problem has to do with disparities in the quality of care Americans receive.

According to Koop, the 160 million Americans who are insured through their employers or who purchase their own private insurance receive the best quality of care.

The best insured receive the best care but are also held hostage by those insurance companies or to their jobs in fear of losing it," Koop said.

Many though, are left without any medical insurance at all. Thirty-five million people, or 12 percent of the population, are either too old or too poor for private insurance and do not qualify for government programs like Medicaid or Medicare. Many of the "working poor" earn too little to live off of but too much to qualify for Medicaid Koop said.

"These people with no insurance are three times as likely to die in the hospital as those who are privately insured," Koop said.

Koop feels that government mandates are necessary to force companies to insure the "uninsurable".

All of these insurance problems have lead to skyrocketing health care costs, and there are problems within the medical profession as well. Pressure to compete with other hospitals for state-of-the-art equipment and services, physician and health-care worker wages, drug prices, throw-away medical equipment mandates are necessary to compete with other hospitals for state-of-the-art equipment and services, physician and health-care worker wages, drug prices, throw-away medical equipment.

Greek Council nominates Director

by Christopher Maigne

After a week of debate, a new Director of Greek Life was nominated last Tuesday by the Greek Council.

Susan Herbst, vice president of the Greek Council and SGA legislator, said that Joan Petrocelli was nominated unanimously by the Council, and that if voted in by the SGA, will serve a direct liaison between the Council and the SGA.

"The debate ended last week," said Herbst, "and that if the person could not fulfill the responsibilities, someone else could be sworn in as a replacement. Petrocelli, a member of the Sigma Delta Phi sorority, could not be reached for comment. Petrocelli has served in the SGA previously as a legislator the last fall and as a cabinet member in charge of publicity last semester. She requested to be nominated for the director's position last summer.
Players will be holding auditions for their Comedy Improv Show on Thursday, Sept. 24, 1992 in Kops Lounge in Russ Hall. The meeting is expected to run from 12:00 p.m. - 1:30 p.m. All are welcome to attend.

There will be a mandatory meeting for all interested contestants of the Homecoming King and Queen contest. The meeting will be held on Monday, September 28, 1992, in room 417 of the Student Center at 5:00 p.m. Deadline for audits for May date is Friday, Sept. 25, 1992.

Dr. Barry Cohen, vice president of finance, announced last Tuesday that the Rat will reopen no later than November 1, 1992.

The focus of these sessions is how to bring alcohol back to the Rat.

INTERNATIONAL

Syria's chief negotiator at the Middle East Peace Talks said Israel's complete withdrawal from the Golan Heights, an area seized by Israel from Syria in the 1967 Middle East War, was the only acceptable offer. Israel gave Syria a document that referred to the Golan Heights but did not even mention partial withdrawal. Syria said that is definitely not acceptable.

Several of the islands of the Maldives chain in the Indian Ocean had to be evacuated. These smaller islands were sinking in the rising ocean. Storms could have easily risen the tide high enough to wipe out anything on the islands.

The United Nations Security Council voted 12-0 to approve 5300 new United Nations troops to go to Bosnia-Herzegovina. The troops would be expected to protect humanitarian convoys into the region and to watch the safety of Muslims and Croats recently released from Serbian detention camps.

Lima, the capital of Peru, braced for revenge attacks by the Revolutionary Shining Path after the arrest of its leader Abimael Guzman. Peru's president, Albert Fujimori, said that they would possibly press for Guzman's execution despite a ban on capital punishment.

Germany cut the interest rates for the first time in five years. The Dow Jones and the dollar rallied in response to the move.

NATIONAL

George Bush said environmental laws should be changed to "Make people more important than owls," while campaigning in Washington State. Bush voted not to sign an extension of the Endangered Species Act unless it gave priority to economics and timber harvesting.

Bush has reversed his support for one billion dollars in farm subsidies, as well as called for complete coverage of the cost of Hurricane Andrew, authorized the sale of nearly 100 military planes to Saudi Arabia, and angered China with the reversal of his opposition to a ten-year plan for selling 150 F- 16s to Taiwan. A statement from the Chinese said, "The Chinese side is shocked and outraged by this decision."

Bush also made a statement regarding his tax policy. "We do not need to raise taxes in this country. I found out the hard way: I went along with one Democratic tax increase and I'm not going to do it again. Ever. Ever." Martin Fitzwater, a presidential spokesman, said this "Wasn't a pledge."

As of Tuesday, 19 members have been voted out of the House of Representatives, a new record.

Alaska has been hit with record September snowfalls. Temperatures dipped below the freezing mark over most of the state despite most areas having average temperatures that should be in the mid to upper 50s.

Corrections

Due to oversights, there were several mistakes in the September 11, edition of The Montclarion. In the article on Sigma Sigma Sigma on page 9, panhellenic was misspelled, giving it a different meaning.

Nicolle Pisano was not listed in the masthead as the Arts Editor, Joe Seroka was.

The Montclarion apologizes for any confusion this may have caused.

KOOP outlined four possible means of helping to alleviate the situation.

1. Increase self-regulation within the medical community to decrease "over treatment".
2. Prohibit exclusions on insurance previously provided less. The situation is unacceptable. The medical community is nearly impoverished by the medical system every year," Koop said.

And the winner is... That phrase is uttered once every year at the Homecoming Football game. It announces to everyone present who the King and Queen are going to be out of the 10 anxious finalists. This year's Homecoming King and Queen will be decided on Saturday, October 17, 1992.

King and Queen competition is fervently anticipated by many people. By far the fraternities and sororities at MSC are the biggest supporters. The competition opens to any one and is a great opportunity to meet new people.

Rules for applying for Homecoming King or Queen

♦Applicants for Homecoming King must be males.
♦Applicants for Homecoming Queen must be females.
♦Applicants must have a GPA of at least 2.5, and have at least 48 academic credits.
♦Applicants must have credits from SGA, CLUB, dorm floors, or other college organization) or obtain 50 signatures of currently registered MSC students.

Each organization may nominate only one person for King and one person for Queen.

♦Applicants must be members of their nominating organizations.
♦Applicants must submit a photograph with their application.

Applications are due in the CLUB office no later than 12 p.m. on Friday, October 2, 1992.

The Martini Center's next guest lecturer will be Nadine Strossen of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Whatever your political orientation, whatever your ethnic or religious background- You’ve got to vote on Nov. 3! Dig? What didn’t you understand? Vote November 3! Vote for whatever candidate that floats boat or vote for whatever candidate that disgusts you least. Whatever happened to Democracy? Only forty percent of America voted in the last Presidential election. That’s fucked up. Whatever happened to civic duty? So many people in our country fought and gave their lives for the right to vote! Some apathetic bastard told me he wasn’t going to vote because politicians are liars and both candidates suck, so I said, "Whatever! " I asked him if he paid taxes. Do you care what happens to that money? Do you want a job once you graduate? Do you care if your sister or daughter or girlfriend has the right to choose what to do with her body? Do you want to get drafted and go fight a war for the political whim and personal finances for that president? Whatever pathetic excuse you have against voting, your wrong. Don’t let yourself be dead wrong. Try to slow the berzerk white trash momentum of the bombs and Jesus freaks. Please come party with the Spin Doctors, The wall Flowers, Mainline Planet Tread. Make sure your registered to vote. Be kind to your brothers and sisters and think about ensuring a tomorrow for the children we will be bringing into the world!

Delta Chi recognized as outstanding by Karen Lee Stradford

Delta Chi attended its 48th International Convention last month in Irvine, California and received three awards. The convention included all national chapters.

Three delegates from MSC, Father Art, Tom Franz and Leon Kowalski, attended the convention. First, the chapter was presented an award for outstanding campus leadership. The second award was presented for outstanding intramural programs which recognized the Greek Week champions for three years in a row. The third award was presented to Father Art for meritorious service to the chapter as an advisor.

Class One Concerts rocks the vote by Greg Mac Sweeney

Call your local preacher and tell him to ring up the substitute altar boy. Have your folks tape the Spin Doctors and Ren & Stimpy for you. This Sunday is a day, not of rest, but of rock as Class One Concerts, in association with MTV's Choose or Lose and Rock the Vote, presents The Whatever Festival.

The Whatever Festival consists of an interesting mix of music and politics crammed into the campus Amphitheatre. The shows start at noon and feature artists including the Spin Doctors, Wall Flower, Mainline and Planet Dread.

Oh, by the way, try to look your best because ABC Television is going to be there recording the show for their concert series, In Concert.

Rock the Vote was founded in 1980 when musicians realized that their listening audience was not involved and not participating in politics. A recent survey stated that people between the ages of 18-24 are the least likely to vote. That is where Rock the Vote gets involved.

The independent, non-profit organization is not backed by either of the two major political parties. It also helps promote concerts in the hope that they will be able to register more voters and get more young people interested in politics.

Class One Concerts, the organization whose mission is to bring live acts to the campus community for the diversion and entertainment of the student body, is the chief sponsor of all of the concerts featured at MSC. Funded by the Student Government Association, C1C not only attracts national acts, but its members act as roadies, helping with the stagework, lighting and sound.

What do you think of the new food service?

I think that the food prices are out of control. They are extremely high for a quality of food that is not that much better than Wood's Food Service. The only thing that is better is the management of Aldan Food Services. They are willing to work with the students and have made themselves more available to talk to students about the opinions.

Suzie Herbst
Senior, English

Overall, the appearance of the food is better, but the quality still leaves a lot to be desired. They should stop trying to invent new dishes and have normal food. Then, it might be better.

Shannon McGayhey
Senior, Psychology

Fortunately, I eat at Clove, so I really haven't checked out the food service yet. I know my friends think it tastes the same as it always did, but it's just more expensive.

CAMPUS: The Community Speaks
There's an empty hollow feeling in the pit of your body; growing, swirling, whirling in a frenzy of nausea. Your sweaty palms clutch your stomach tightly, as tiny beads of salty water tumble down your forehead. Whimpering uncontrollably now, a frothy white mass of foam begins to build in your mouth. Drool-o-rama. Your twitching body finally becomes an exploding zit, vomiting pus and technicolor liquid across the stratosphere and beyond...

What could possibly be going on? What sicko, twisted situation could possibly render a humanoid so completely helpless? Some terrible disease that afflicts the unwary? Some horrendous torture measure devised to break the unwary? Some evil bedtrot into the parallel universe created to wipe out the entire human race!?!

No. No, my fellow urchins, you have a totally cool MIXER!!

Among the drawn faces and contorted bodies that wait patiently for grub in the cafeteria, there has been a significant outbreak of famine and general wiggling out. The food lines have stretched so far, in fact, that President Reid has considered filing for federal disaster relief. An airlift of sorts could be initiated, where various campus organizations could collect non-perishable food items for the poor starving people in the cafeteria. You know, those dreaded cans of cauliflower and green beans that would make even an Ethiopian gag. The flyers might read as follows:

DELTA DELTA DELTA!!!

Like WOW! Oh ma God! DDD is having a totally cool(kul) food drive for the starving people of Montclair! Bring your yummy happy canned goods to the student center and afterwards... We'll like have a totally cool MIXER!!!

DELTA DELTA DELTA!!!

We're here to HELP YA HELP YA HELP YA. Or something along those lines...

The capitalist opportunities are endless. Perhaps if we could get Channel 2 News here, with Dan (T'd) Rather (not) reporting, wearing a ISURVIVEDTHEGREAT MSC FAMINE OF '92- and all I got was this lousy T-Shirt, the national coverage would create a great surge in funding. "Hello this is Dan Rather reporting. I'm standing here in lovely and affluent Montclair, where there seems to be an acute shortage of cheap bagels and pizza where there was once an abundance. Frankly, I haven't seen anything this bad since Dade County, Florida, several weeks ago..... Let's talk a moment with this Joe average student to find out what really happened?" "Huh?"

"Sir, can you relate to our television audience what has happened in the Student Center Cafeteria over the past two weeks?"

"I don't know man, but this school SUCKS!! Do you know what I paid for lunch? DO YOU KNOW WHAT I PAID FOR MY R-ING LUNCH? $86!! R-ING $86!!"

"Yes siree, this is Dan Rather, coming to you live from MSC..."

Economics is a funny thing really. People think nothing of dropping three bucks for a pack of smokes but they completely flip their wigs if they have to drop a dime for the privilege of sneaking an unauthorized empty cup from the check out girl. In all reality things could be so much worse.

There was serious consideration in employing the services of the Joe Bacagaloop Fine Dining Service of Walla Walla Washington. The food was a considerable amount cheaper, granted, but the quality was, shall we say, less than perfect...

Seems Joe Bacagaloop was indicted in the early 1970's for using more than the recommended amount of ferret, feline and both organic and inorganic substances in the highly popular hamburger meat. Sure they were full of savory exotic juices and flavor, but once the scam was exposed, quite a number of students went on month long barfing sprees. Not to mention the ensuing emotional stress of mourning kitty without the luxury of a undegusted corpse.

So I suppose we should be thanking our lucky stars that Aisdan has graciously come to our campus so we may fill out tummies with their glorious food when the pangs of hunger become too much to bear. Eat well and keep a toilet open for me.

Vote, Damnit!

Every four years, before the presidential election, is when all of the voter registration drives are all over the television, the radio, on campuses, or wherever. Here at MSC, the Bush-Quayle and Clinton-Gore student campaign groups as well as Latin American Student Organization have been diligently fueling a fierce voter registration campaign. Even this Sunday, Class One Concerts, in association with MTV’s “Rock The Vote”, is presenting the Whatever Festival at the campus Amphitheater to increase voter awareness.

Yet it seems year after year, eligible voters aged 18 to 24 act dismally with the lowest voter turnout amongst all other age groups. And to think that many of us are college students, the supposed pupils of higher learning and advanced thought. Let’s face it, our generation is a sad bunch of people.

There’s zillions of reasons why we MSC students should vote. One of which is that hundreds of thousands of brave servicemen died in several wars throughout America’s history to ensure our right as citizens to choose our political officials.

That, compounded with the fact that literally billions of foreigners envy our nation, because we can actually select our leaders. At the same time, many of them live under the horrors of brute military and authoritarian regimes. This alone should be quite enough to convince any American to vote.

Sure, some of the people we elect are crooked and dishonest, but to argue that you’re not voting because of corruption or of lack of faith in the system is self-defeating. Apathy only convinces any American to vote.

We’ve given you plenty of reasons to vote in November. We simply have too much at stake to abstain from probably the most important presidential election in recent times. Here’s another reason why we students should vote in much larger numbers: if we don’t, we’re allowing our elders to decide the destiny of our future. This goes to the heart of what’s wrong with student apathy, we should care more about government policies and become more involved in politics. Don’t you think we should have more of a say regarding the political path this country takes? After all, it will be us that will have to deal with the consequences of this election long after older generations are gone.

We’ve given you plenty of reasons to vote in November. We simply have too much at stake to abstain from probably the most important presidential election in recent times. However, if you have stupidly and stubbornly decided that you not going to the polls this fall, then we give up. You’re hopeless.

"You don't have to be a prophet to figure out that our insurance coverage is a national disgrace"...C. Everett Koop, on the U.S. health care system.

Not voting only helps prolong the Reagan-Bush era

Katy's Comments
by Katy McClure

On November 3, 1992, we must challenge the precedent that has been set in this country and vote! Typically, students in the ages of 18 to 24 are the most apathetic group of voters among all groups. This is ridiculous and irresponsible! If we don't vote, we are letting other people choose the leaders who are creating our future. The Reagan and Bush Administrations have certainly done serious damage to our futures already, but if we register and vote Democratic in 1992, we still have a chance to turn the country around.

We are in an economic recession that is 26 months old. The division between the poor and the rich is ever-widening at the middle class all but disappears. Bush nominated Clarence Thomas to the Supreme Court, a man whose positions on women's rights is more than questionable. He continues to pack the federal court system with conservative, controversial justices. Just last week Bush nominated Edward E. Caram, Assistant Attorney General in Alabama, to seat on the United States Court of Appeals for the 11th Circuit. Carter has won the admiration of the Bush Administration due to his skill and good record on prosecuting death penalty cases, especially when there is evidence that black people have been unquestionably excluded from the jury.

George Bush actually used to argue for a woman's right to choose until he became Ronald Reagan's running mate in 1980. Now he not only courts extreme right-wing thinking, but he follows it. Bush approved a Republican platform that would outlaw all abortions, even those that are the result of rape or incest and this is the view of the most extreme right-to-lifers in this country.

By the way, sister feminists, the Republican Party brought out some of its "finest" for the Republican Convention in August. One in particular, Pat Robertson, says feminism "encourages women to leave their husbands, kill their children, practice witchcraft, destroy capitalism and become lesbians." I must have been attending that superb series "Communist Leaders: Marx to Castro" on the day we discussed feminism in Women's Worlds.

Last week, George Bush promised constituents in New Jersey that he would never allow the Democratic Congress to force him to sign another tax increase "ever, ever!" Bush has nothing to lose by lying to the American public to get re-elected. And after all, he lied once before, so what's to stop him from doing it again?

Bush has nothing to lose by lying to the American public to get re-elected. And after all, he lied once before, so what's to stop him from doing it again?

I really don't care if you agree with me or not

What gives us the right to think that each of us are correct in our thought, our lifestyles, to judge other people's value systems. Constantly, people think that they know best, that they know the systems. People think that they know the essence to be honest with themselves. Yes! It exists. Go ahead and follow along, nose to ass with the evidence that black people have been questionably excluded from the jury.

On November 3, 1992, we must see to believe them. Remember, Hitler thrived on mass ignorance. There once lived this great poet named Thoreau who really lived life. He went into the woods and lived solitarily there for a year so that he could connect with himself. He lived a great life. He wrote, "I went to the woods so that I may live deliberately...so that I may live and suck the marrow of life...and not when I come to die find that I had not lived." Make your life count.
A Shayna Maidel Opens

by CW Springfield

A small Polish village circa 1876 is the opening scenario for a young woman giving birth to a child in A Shayna Maidel. This particular scene has no real significance until you’re well into the play, and all the puzzling and maneuvering starts to take place. The scenery quickly changes to a small Manhattan apartment for a child in A Shayna Maidel. This performance features Gershwin’s works, created by idealists. It is no accident that Mordechai did not send for his wife when he had the chance to.

Lusia, a survivor of the German concentration camp in Auschwitz, finally comes to America and slowly adapts to a new life but is still affected by the horrors of a former life in hell. She has faith that her husband, David, has also survived the concentration camps and patiently waits every day for a letter. There is something that everyone can learn from in this play, whether it be an enjoyable dramatic experience or educational. And although it does have some minor loopholes, it is definitely an achievement of a young writer. Bring a tissue...it’s a tear-jerker.

Chamber Music Society Kicks Off 92/93 Season

The New Jersey Chamber Music Society hosts an array of performances in Montclair this October with “The Beast of New York,” which will feature works by George Gershwin and Ned Eraz Laderman. The concert series will highlight the music of various cities.

October’s concert features Gershwin’s “An Lullaby” and Lowell Leiberman’s “Prophecy.” This concert will feature the talents of Artistic Directors Joey D’Silva and Ethan Sigel.

February contains a duo of excitement. The first show will include the “Two” Quintet of Franz Schubert. The second concert will showcase the Spokyn String Quartet and will feature works of Prokofiev, Shostakovich, Schnitzel, Mozart, Haydn and Dvorak.

April highlights London and displays the styles of Purcell and Handel while featuring Sir William Walton’s “Facade: An Entertainment, with poems by Edith Sitwell.” Subscriptions to the entire concert series are $83 while single tickets are $15-$20, with student tickets available for $6.

The Movement breaks new ground with its ragga-funk techno influenced selections. From the opening techno rave anthem “Jump” to “B.I.N.G.O.”, this version totally kicks ass ass as rapper Haze tears up the microphone with lines such as: "Ya all sumpin’ motherfuckers..."

Class One Cafe Promotes Creative Expression

by Chris Miguel

In the tradition of the beatnik coffeehouses of the 1950’s, Class One Concerts put on the “Class One Cafe Open Mike Night” Tuesday at 8:00 p.m. in the Student Center. The event offered a mixture of poetry and music, both original and well-known works, performed by MSC students, alumni, and local artists.

The event featured poetry readings of both a deep and comical nature, starting with “The Tree of Life,” a short poem written and performed by Heather Bushby. Following this was a performance piece by Rick Johnson called “Silent Poetry” wherein he stood at the podium with a microphone in hand, reading poems to an audience from the audience’s own selections. Other memorable pieces included Baer’s “Crab Lick,” and freshman Robert Siek’s “Perverse.”

Class One Cafe also featured a plethora of musical acts, mostly guitarists and singers. Freshman David Burke gave renditions of the Eagles’ “Desperado” with Mike Martino on piano, and Bed Company’s “Feel Like Makin’ Love,” accompanied by Judy Aron on drums. John Oasted performed an acoustic version of the David Bowie classic “Heroes.” Gerry Perlinski, who has appeared in previous Open Mike Nights, played some original guitar instrumentals, as did performer Jim Somma.

Three “family acts” also appeared that night. Brother Vincent P. and Peter Rossi, and cousin Brian Stella, collaborated for a set filled with guitars and vocal harmony. Afterwards, Vincent, accompanied by “human beat box” Steve Davidson, performed a couple of self-written rap songs, including “Cabbage” and “No More,” a melancholy song about a jilted lover and his unrequited emotions. (NOT) Another “family” group, the Raffenstein, featured Jim Aquavia on acoustic bass and Frank Patrouch playing rhythm guitar.

The third “family act,” famous for their shows at Charlie Brown’s in Montclair, surprisingly played solo that night. Stu and Mc, the McEarly Brothers, performed their brand of folk guitar separately, under their real aliases, respectively Gordon Rezzonico and Jeremy Wallace.

Response from the audience was favorable for all of the acts. Many Schiroff, a sophomore, said “It’s good to hear new talent. Who knows? Some of these people might make it big. Kim Ford, a junior, said that there were “...great people up there...” I didn’t think this quality of talent could be found at MSC.” Paris Parkaveva added “I liked the whole one.”

However, some of the audience members were not pleased with the event’s locale, like Rosemary Olivera, president of the International Student Organization, who said, “It’s good, but the environment lacks ambiance. The Rat was much better, but I understand.” Others, like senior Peter Quilla, thought the prevalence of the folk music genre that night was “too much of one thing,” though he admitted that “it takes a lot of balls to go up there and perform.”

In all all, the Class One Cafe was “highly successful,” said CIC Vice President Karen Levy. She also added, “Everyone did a very good job, and I’m sure the Spin Doctors show will do even better.”

As Batman returns to the batcave (probably not for long), Geena Davis and Madonna lay down their gloves and Whoopi nests her vocal chords, a mediocre summer movie season starts to cool down while the fall season shows signs of heating up. Scores of films are scheduled to be released between now and Christmas. But which of these flicks will be worth spending $7 a ticket for? Here are my predictions of what this season’s hits will be. Release dates are subject to change.

1. "Mr. Saturday Night"- Billy Crystal co-wrote, directed and stars as a stand-up comic through-out his 50 year career. With Crystal’s popularity and humor, this film would have a chance to be this season’s champ. Opens September 25.

2. "Home Alone 2: Lost In New York"- This time around, Macaulay Culkin gets lost in the Big Apple. And who conveniently joins him? None other than Joe Pesci and Daniel Stern, reprising their roles as a pair of bumbling thugs. It should beat the other flick with a chance at being a season champ. Opens in November.

3. "Bram Stoker’s Dracula"- Directed by Francis Coppola, this Dracula looks like it may take a bite out of Greed’s area. The strong cast includes Gary Oldman, Winona Rider and Anthony Hopkins. Opens in November.

4. "Passenger 57"- Could Wesley Snipes be the next Bruce Willis? Snipes plays an airline security agent who takes on a terrorist holding a plane full of hostages. Opens in November.

5. "Malcolm X"- Spike Lee’s long awaited tribute, which he "urges blacks to skip work or school on opening day." With Denzel Washington as the X man, the film shows signs of living up to its expectations. Opens November 20.

6. "Singles"- Bridget Fonda, Matt Dillon and Campbell Scott are among the co-stars in this film about six twenty-something residents of a Seattle apartment falling in and out of love. Opens September 18.

7. "Bodyguard"- Whitney Houston stars as a singer who is receiving threats and Kevin Costner plays the former secret service agent hired to protect her. Opens in December.

Money begets glut. Okay, so I might have messed up. Money begets more money, money begets evil, money begets drugs, whatever. In this case, money begets glut. Take the fall season, for example.

What do we have to look forward to this fall on the boob tube? If you can pout, bitch and moan about any little thing, and live on your own, you can probably support your own TV show. In the beginning (insert God-like thunder here), there was Beverly Hills, 90210. That was a hit with the bubble-gum teenybopper crowd, then it grew into a soap opera that everyone, adults, college students, teens, and your little sister watched. After we awm(e)ed GAWD’s over Luke Perry’s sideburns, the powers that be at Fox said, “Let there be a twenty-something show” (More God-like thunder,) and Melrose Place dawned. Fox said it was good, saw it was good, and it was good.

Then the evil ones, they being the Big Three (ABC, NBC, CBS) decided to get into the fray with their own shows. Freshman Dorm is just one of many new shows that will skirt the airways in the fall. The Heights on Fox is another new show that is loaded with angst, woe, and “It’ll all be all right, because we have our music...and each other.” Please excuse me whilst I yack profusely.

Reality shows are another fall growth area. It’s one thing to grow as in develop, but it’s entirely another thing to grow like cancer. More cop, rescue, first aid, and secret service shows are coming on, and I will bet that more than half will die a merciless death. They are on for two reasons: 1- people watch them, more than half will die a merciless death. They are on for two reasons: 1- people watch them and 2- they are outrageously cheap to make. However, from what I have seen of the new reality shows, cheap does not necessarily mean low-cost.

These shows are thrown together and thrown to the TV set. With the pout/angst crowd, expect the new “real life” shows to be killed, only to be replaced by new ones, unfortunately.

One shining star I had the pleasure to watch is CBS’ Covington Cross, which will probably be cancelled by Winter Break. Not because it’s a bad show, mind you. Quite the contrary it’s well-written and well-acted, has excellent scenery, and an excellent cast. Meaning: it’s too good to be on the air. Let’s cancel it like all the other good shows (China Beach, Alien Nation on Fox, etc.) and put in some more reality shows and 90210 wannabes.

Welcome to the fall season.

ANSWERS TO LAST WEEK'S PUZZLE
Field Hockey starts season with 5-1 loss to C.W. Post

by Mark Alan Belnay

Murphy's Law states that everything that can go wrong will go wrong. For the MSC field hockey team this has taken on just a bit too much real meaning at the start of the season. Coach Barbara Brown is faced with the dilemma of having to field only nine players at a time, according to the amount of time left on the clock. However, due to injuries, a variety of mishaps and bad luck, they have been in this season.

This past week the team opened at C.W. Post with a 5-1 defeat that was actually much closer than the score indicates. Freshman goalie Lori Ostrowski was brilliant in goal, stopping 30 of 35 shots. Overall, the Red Hawks held the fully manned C.W. Post team scoreless for 43 of the game’s 70 minutes. Two of the goals were highly questionable and did not help MSC that there was only one referee calling the game. MSC scored its lone goal with less than one second remaining in the game. According to Brown, scoring a goal was, "like winning an Olympic gold" because of the situation the team has been in this season.

The 10th-year head coach predicted that his young and talented team will be on the right track this season in Ithaca. "This might sound like a bold statement, but if we continue to improve this week we'll do very well up at Ithaca. In fact, if we play like we did last Saturday we're going to beat them," he said. The prediction could be a tall one for the Red Hawks to fulfill, but Giancola has his reasons. "Motivation can always be used when you play a team ranked number-one. We improved tremendously as a team from the week before and we need to step it up another notch," he said.

Giancola will look to add another victory to his impressive 71-24-2 career record on Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

MSC Head football coach Rick Giancola has a great deal of confidence in his football team. He decided to let the media in on an idea that confidence on Tuesday, September 15 at the Metropolitan Collegiate Football Writers’ Luncheon at Giants Stadium.

Despite some fine play against Cortland State on Saturday, MSC could not deliver the knockout punch needed to defeat the Division III heavyweights.

Instead, before an opening-game crowd of 2,919 at Sprague Field, the Red Hawks were delivering a body blow, losing 23-17. The pivotal play came with Cortland trailing 17-7 with 9:22 to play. Brian Wild scrambled out of the pocket and found receiver Kevin Hartman over the middle for a 56-yard, first-down play. Walker, who also scored on a two-yard pass from quarterback Steve Banas for MSC's first score, finished with 148 yards in 31 carries.

The senior tailback, in his pursuit to become MSC's all-time leading rusher, needs just 123 yards to surpass Larry Horn's record of 2,942 (see box below).

One of the main reasons MSC couldn't get the job done was because of penalties. The Red Hawks were tagged with 13 penalties for 104 yards, including a costly holding penalty in the third that negated a 48-yard TD pass from Banas to receiver Tyrone Rolls.

Another factor contributing to the loss was Cortland's big-play defense, which was led by senior linebacker Jason McCand's three sacks, including two in the fourth quarter, for a total loss of 25 yards. Banas finished with just 10 completions in 22 attempts for 131 yards and a TD, as he was often forced out of the pocket and made to scramble. Head coach Rick Giancola backed Banas' performance. He said, "Steve played a good game and handled the pressure well."

Defensively for MSC, linebacker Duane Grade led the way with 14 tackles. For his efforts, Grade earned a body blow, losing 23-17.

Chris Banas finished with just 10 completions in 30 attempts for 177 yards and one TD, as he was often forced out of the pocket and made to scramble. Head coach Rick Giancola backed Banas' performance. He said, "Steve played a good game and handled the pressure well."

Defensively for MSC, linebacker Duane Grade led the way with 14 tackles. For his efforts, Grade earned the All-American honor.

MSC's Hand helps steal Steven's Tech a loss in women's tennis

by Karen Plumstead

The MSC women's tennis team's season is in full swing. The Red Hawks dropped their first two contests, the first being a loss to Rutgers-Newark 8-1 on September 4. The second loss came at Trenton State 9-0 on September 12.

The Red Hawks picked up their first victory of the season on September 9, defeating Stevens Tech 6-3. The Red Hawks staged an impressive comeback to win this one. Head coach Brian McLaughlin stated, "The Stevens game was a real confidence builder." The match allowed inexperienced players to gain valuable court time. The real highlight of the game was sophomore Lisa Hand. She won in straight sets against Lisa Babcock, who had defeated Hand in the '91 season.

McLaughlin feels that with his two tough games behind him, the MSC women can really start winning matches.

Upcoming matches include a road contest against Monmouth College on September 18 at 3:00 p.m. On September 22, the Red Hawks will host Rider College at 3:00 p.m.
