College Senate approves SGA's alcohol proposal

by Brian Fitzgerald

The College Senate voted in favor of a resolution yesterday that will allow a recommendation be made to the administration in favor of restoring alcohol services to the Rathskeller.

In a heated debate that involved varying opinions on both sides of the issue, the collective voice of the students was heard.

During Student Government Association elections held last year, a referendum to bring alcohol back to the Rat was voted on. Of the 1000 students surveyed, 90% supported the referendum. This gave a signal to the administration to put the issue back on the table. The issue concerning alcohol services in the Rathskeller was reactivated in a matter of hours.

During the College Senate meeting, a motion was presented by the Student Affairs Council to bring the May 1992 resolution concerning alcohol services in the Rat back on the table. The issue was approved for discussion in yesterday's meeting.

According to SGA President Gary Sadhwani, "We are not encouraging the use of alcohol... in adults we should not be denied a right given to us by the state of New Jersey and the federal government. Drinking occurs anyway... how can we prepare students to drink responsibly if alcohol consumption has to be hidden?"

Sadhwani also stated that, "Alcohol awareness will continually be promoted."

Senator Timothy Sullivan of the School of Professional Studies stated that, "I don't believe there is a sense of community on campus without it."

Kay Wilkian, a Senator at Large said, "People should have a choice... it adds to the attraction of the campus community. I feel as if we're back in the era of Prohibition."

The average age of MSC undergraduate students is 22, 53% or 6,478 students are over 21.

Vivian Rodriguez, an SGA representative also stated, "We need a place as a campus community where we can go and socialize. If we treat students like children, they will act like children."

The College Senate, which is made up of administration, professional staff members, faculty, and students, has the sole power to make a recommendation to the administration.

The Senate only has two students that have the power to vote, James Cotter and Rita Guerra. The recommendation to the administration will also include a referendum that states that if the Rat is opened for alcohol consumption, beer and wine only will be served. The Rat will also be evaluated for its effect on the campus one year after its opening.

Setting the tone of the debate, Susan Weston, a Senator at Large stated, "It is a truly emotional issue... but nothing is irrevocable."

Students also complained that they are being overcharged. ACUS offers students a discounted rate on long distance calls, charging them four percent less than it would from a pay phone (15 cents for the first minute and four cents for each additional unit), but ACUS does not charge for local calls. They allow the university or the local phone company to print the charge on their bill. ACUS is only a long-distance service.

Selina Lawson, a resident of Webster Hall, said, "They're not sending us printouts of the bill, and the printouts are wrong." Ed Buscavage, on-campus liaison for ACUS, explained that they are being overcharged. ACUS offers students only a long-distance service. Students that are set up for the local service, their security code can be cut off a student's security code if they exceed their credit limit. According to an AT&T employee, ACUS will only cut off a student's security code if they exceed their credit limit, miss a payment, or if the code or computer system was malfunctioning. If the student calls AT&T's 800 number, their security code can be reactivated in a matter of hours.

Board of Trustees discusses racist and sexist graffiti at MSC

by Edward Curry

Racist, sexist and homophobic graffiti is springing up on many places on campus. In a plea for tolerance at Montclair State, at the November 12 meeting of the Board of Trustees, Dr. Edward Boyno, Faculty Representative, said the problem "requires increasing vigilance" on the part of staff and students alike.

Boyso also said that the College Senate is still asking the administration to sever ties with the ROTC, because of their intolerance of gays in the military. This could change due to U.S. District Judge Terry J. Hatter Jr.'s recent decision in the Meinhold case, which has the Clinton administration's full support.

Faculty morale is at an all time low due to the lack of promotions and new hiring caused by past and future budget deficiencies. Even the most motivated faculty member has a one in forty chance for promotion. Boyso said, "The prevailing attitude is one of resignation."

Seth Leibowitz, student member of the Board, expressed student concerns for the legalization of alcohol consumption.

The United Nations Security Council voted Monday to authorize a naval blockade of the Danube River and Adriatic Coast of Yugoslavia. They also ordered that force may be used to back up the blockade and strengthened economic sanctions on the nation. About 1500 police officers sealed off a military cemetery in Berlin to stop 1000 Neo-Nazis from marching to the site on Germany's Veterans' Day.

Nobel Peace Prize winner Rigoberta Menchu, a Guatemalan native Indian who fled to Mexico after her parents were killed by the U.S. backed government in 1981, said the prize is meaningless unless it brings attention to the plight of the natives in the Western Hemisphere. She plans to return to Guatemala, despite the possibility she will be killed, in December.

Accusations that the U.S. government withheld information on the identity of "Ivan the Terrible" will now be heard in an Israeli court. John Demjanjuk was stripped of his U.S. citizenship and extradited to Israel for trial on charges he was a Death Camp guard at the Treblinka Concentration Camp. Some have said the U.S. government withheld information Demjanjuk was the wrong man. Demjanjuk has claimed his innocence and says he was a prisoner in a different camp. Despite the fact several survivors could not identify Demjanjuk as the guard he was convicted and sentenced to death.

LOCAL

A storm ripped through our area late last week with the heavy rains and gusty winds. Gusts as high as 77 m.p.h. were reported at LaGuardia Airport. Trees and limbs were the only casualties of the wind.

A chemical tanker spilled thousands of gallons of acid on Route 9 near Sayerville. The spill caused traffic delays throughout Northeast New Jersey on Monday night. The truck simply split in half and vapors from the 4200 gallons of hydrochloric acid made several motorists ill.

Passaic Mayor Joseph Lipari’s trial entered its fifth week. Prosecutors claim Lipari took as much as $175,000 in kickbacks from two city businessmen. Lipari faces 14 extortion counts, conspiracy and tax evasion.

New Jersey legislators spent most of Monday trying to hammer out reforms that would help relieve some of the ails that characterize the state’s health crisis. The Assembly voted 72 to 1 in an effort to pass a bill that requires health insurers to subsidize the losses of Blue Cross/Blue Shield in the market.

New Jersey’s efforts to meet the standards of the Clean Air Act will almost certainly include the “California” car. On top of the low emission vehicles, social and business car pooling will be recommended and incentives may be offered to make them more attractive. By 1994, new emission standards will also be required by the state.

Legislators celebrate Ad-Hoc victory
by Kelly J. Schab

In related news, Robert Laratta will be replacing Herbst as the new Ad-Hoc alcohol committee chair. As Leto said, "Rob was the only one crazy enough to take this position." Laratta, the new Ad-Hoc chair, congratulated everyone for their work for the Ratt.

One of the legislators on the Ad-Hoc committee, Rick Leto, added that, "Susie Herbst [the former Ad-Hoc chairperson] drove the alcohol committee for one and a half years. I feel bad that she had to quit so close to the end of the race. She carried it halfway almost by herself."

to ACUS, said, "I get a copy of every bill, and I haven't seen any problems." He encourages any students who have any difficulties to contact AT&T directly. AT&T sends the bills bulk mail to the college, which is then responsible for distributing them. Students can request that AT&T send copies directly to their homes.

Some students also complained about the billing cycle.

11/15/92 A male Bohn resident reported that his car was broken into and that property was stolen while his car was parked in lot 21 over several days.

Burglary - Theft
11/11/92 A male Bohn resident reported the theft of his property from his room in Bohn. His roommate made the original report on 11/8/92.

Theft from Motor Vehicle
11/13/92 A female Blanton resident reported that her car was broken into and that property was stolen while her car was parked over several days in lot 23.
11/13/92 A male Free­man resident reported that his car was broken into and that property was stolen while his car was parked over several days in lot 22.
11/13/92 A female Blanton resident reported that her car was broken into and that property was stolen while her car was parked in lot 21 over several days.
11/13/92 A male Bohn resident reported that his car was broken into and that property was stolen while his car was parked in lot 21 over several days.

Criminal Mischief (Arrest)
11/16/92 Four Bohn Hall residents were involved in the damaging of a glass ventilation pipe in Richardson Hall. The damage was discovered during the search of the building for four trespassers in Richardson by an executive officer. The damage was caused by two of the four males dropping rocks into the pipe. They are facing criminal charges for the damage. The other two males will not be charged with the damage though they were indirectly in­volved.

Possible Stolen Property/ Attempted Tres­s­pass
11/16/92 Shelley Jackson, Director of Blanton Hall, reported that a student attempted to enter Blanton by using the lost or stolen ID of a Blanton resident. Jackson handled the matter administratively. The incident actually occurred on 10/30/92.

Terroristic Threats
11/15/92 A female dis­patcher at police headquarters reported that she received a bomb threat from a female caller which caused the evacuation of Richardson Hall for 25 minutes.

Harassment
11/16/92 A female resi­dent of Blanton reported that her former boyfriend, an MSC student, was harassing her. She owes him some money which she told him that she would pay back when she gets her financial aid. She was trying to tolerate his visits to her dorm and work in the mean time. When he did visit, he would begin to berate her and trashed her room. On another occasion, he was angry because she visited a friend in Stone Hall so he waited outside the building for her. The female is going to speak with Dr. Martin again prior to filing criminal charges against him.

Consuming Alcohol Under Age (Minor)
11/11/92 A female R.A. was dragged into Blanton Hall by an unidentified sorority sister. Officers responded to an executive security call. The R.A. was found semi-conscious, appeared to be intoxicated, and had difficulty responding to questions. According to her sorority sister, the R.A. was at a fraternity party in Belleville and had consumed six 16-ounce glasses of punch made with vodka and grain alcohol. Mont­clair Volunteer Ambulance responded and she was taken to Mountainside Hospital. She is at 17 and 18 years old, before she came to the college. The parents of all three females were called and they picked up their respective daughters.

Concerned Parent
11/15/92 A parent of a student expressed concern about her daughter not hearing from her daughter for several days. The last time she had heard from her was when she told him that she was staying on campus with a friend. Responding officers checked Residence Life guest records but the female's name did not ap­pear. The father was advised and declined any further assistance.

Medical

This is a bad article. So sorry. I'm flipping too.

You're bogged down with work, man. I can dig. Its coming out of your ears: papers, exams, outlines, your Mom screaming, the cat having kittens, your roommate and that satanic cult thing. You're at that breaking point, the space between reality and total acute wiggling out. You can see it on the horizon, you can taste it, you see it in front of you like the flesh attached to your wrist. Picture if you dare:

Your sitting naked in front of your typewriter, sipping coffee directly from the pot, and calmly smoking cigarette butts furiously against the beige shag carpet your head deep into the bowl and pass out with your hair...

Head deep into the bowl and pass out with your hair...

...You moan and scream face down in the bathroom, you rest your hand on any shuttle bus with enough provisions to hold you over for at least 8 or 9 hours. Get in the back seat and harass people when they come on and off.

"Hey buddy! Nice bookbag! Har Har Har!" or "HEY! You got a big booger in your nose! HO HO HO!" You will feel superior towards your fellow peons plus get an engrossing tour of the campus.

If all else fails, buy stuff you don't need, like floral print placemats, or wrap yourself in toilet paper. Above all, don't flip out. Save your energy, it's almost time for finals.
Do you feel President-elect Bill Clinton will do a good job in running the country?

Lester Redrick
Biology, Junior
No way! Bill Clinton will do to our country what he did to Gennifer Flowers.

Alexia Zygier
Early Childhood, Senior
Yes, because I believe he is more interested in helping the poor and the middle-class. He’s also going to set up programs that will improve the education system in our country.

Lori Hatchett
English, Freshman
I believe Bill Clinton can do positive things for our country. It was definitely time for a change. His bills should pass through the Democratic congress easily and hopefully the economic situation will pick up.

Brian Bott
Recreation and Tourism, freshman
I believe that Clinton will do a very much improved job as president compared to Bush. He seems to have a plan or agenda for making things better. Besides, he couldn’t make them any worse than what they are.

Sexual Harassment: The things we do to one another

by Rita Guerra

Holding up two flyers, each of them marred by ugly graffiti, Dr. Joan Ficke introduces a program on sexual harassment recently in the Women’s Center.

Called Sexual Harassment—The Things We Do To One Another, the program featured presentations by Professor Huey Alcaro of the Department of Home Economics and former Director of the Women’s Center; Ms. Jill Greenbaum of the Bergen County Rape Crisis Center, and Dr. Susan Herman, Director of Psychological Services here at MSC.

The flyers, Dr. Ficke said, had been posted on the Women’s Center bulletin board. To provide convincing proof of the need for programs on sexual harassment, she told a large audience that someone had written, “The four F’s for women—find them, feel them, f— them, forget them,” on one flyer. On the other, someone had written “Find them, f— them.”

One of the flyers announced a march protesting violence against women. The other advertised the graduate school fair on campus. Dr. Ficke, Director of the Women’s Center, described the graffiti as “disgusting” and “violent.”

The point, of course, is that hostility toward women exists here at MSC, and that we simply must confront the myth that violence against women is not a common problem or real issue.

The speakers for the program repeatedly stressed the frequency, range and severity of the problem. All three described years of experience with real cases, and provided vivid examples and statistics to illustrate the extent of the problem. The speakers included college campus examples, including some from MSC, in their remarks.

Perhaps the most useful description to emerge from the program is that an entire range of behaviors, falling on a continuum from less severe to most severe, can be and are considered harassing and aggressive. Examples ranged from inappropriate and suggestive comments, to innumerable about sexual expectations, to unwanted touching, to forced sexual experiences, abuse and rape.

It seemed clear from the program that we should be working harder on instilling values like respect and responsibility. Until we do, women will be subject to unacceptable hostility and violence in all its forms.
The nuts and bolts of things

by Sandra Cammilleri

On Friday, November 13, Friday Afternoon Performance Hours featured the "The Nuts and Bolts of Things: Selected Vignettes From Life." Conceived, directed and performed by Rob Hilliard and Mykle Van Dusen, Design Production majors, this performance combined a potpourri of poetry, music, film scenes, playscenes, and improvisational skits. The inclusion of this variety flavored the show with a dramatic appeal. Also, the use of a sundry array of props enhanced the uniqueness of this performance further. This offbeat pair performed together nicely. Although at times they were inaudible and not projecting their voices out towards the audience, they managed to keep the audience focused by the use of their changing props and actions. Two very well constructed scenes consisted of a sword fight and a survival scene. In the sword fight, Hilliard and Van Dusen had a concentrated rhythm which kept the scene suspenseful and pulsating.

The nuts and bolts of things

In the sword fight, Hilliard and Van Dusen had a concentrated rhythm which kept the scene suspenseful and pulsating. The scene which denoted an episode from Patrick Meyer's "K2" was also very dramatically staged. Here, Hilliard and Van Dusen assumed the roles of two men stuck on a mountain in freezing weather who philosophize about the value of life. Both performers imbue their characters with profound emotional depth.

The directors' main goals in doing "The Nuts and Bolts of Things" was to rekindle the ephemeral awe of childhood fantasies and to show a different perspective on life. The upcoming show for the Theatre Series is The Seagull on Dec. 3 through Dec. 13. For ticket information, call 893-5112.

Keeping time with the Tom Tom

An interview with Tina and Bruce of the Tom Tom Club by Chris Miguel

When you come from a successful music group to explore the vast possibilities that the industry has to offer, there is a certain risk involved. However, if you're Tina Weymouth and Chris Frantz, one-half of the legendary Talking Heads, you can pretty much throw caution to the wind and do whatever you want. And they have.

Their group the Tom Tom Club has been making music for almost ten years now without dishonorizing their allegiance to their first group. They've featured various artists on their rosters, including Adrian Belew on guitar, but the band has now settled into their personnel. And with their most recent album, Dark Sneak Love Action... they're on tearing up the dance floors with their own brand of grooves and rhythms.

I had the pleasure of doing a WMSC on-air interview with Tina, who plays bass and sings, and percussionist Bruce Martin, before they took the stage last Monday night at Memorial Auditorium. What I got was an impromptu lesson in music history, and as you'll soon see, you can learn a lot from talking to living legends...

C: Has the music always sounded...dancey Tina? Yeah. We always like to make music that you could dance to, but also that you could appreciate on another level. Bruce: It's sort of the...funkier, lighter side than the Talking Heads might've been doing. It gave Chris and Tina an opportunity to express some other directions musically.

T: We have a new single called "You Sexy Thing." It's a cover of the Hot Chocolate disco classic.

C: Is this a disco revival?
T: Not really. Actually we've cut the track to a go-go beat, which was the original predecessor of the "new jack city" beat.
C: Do you feel that you're stuck in one genre? Do you want to do other types of music?
T: Actually we've expanded quite a lot! Even with Adrian, we always used the guitars to more effect than disco ever did.
B: For me, the nice thing about the Tom Tom Club is that it takes or draws from all sorts of musical styles. We always do it in our own way, but it's not one of those bands that...does just one style.

T: Exactly. We don't use the same instrumentation on every song so there is variety in there. I think we have something that has a stylistic edge to it; something I encourage young bands to do because there's such pressure to sound like everybody else, and if you do you'll just get lost in the pile and nobody knows who you are.
C: Now right the gnorgae scene seems to be the thing to do, and yet the Tom Tom Club sound is just so different.
T: Our influences came from a different aspect, although we do enjoy some of those bands. Some of them, I think, are quite over-inflated...but.
C: Could you name some?
T: No, I don't want to slight anybody right now.
B: But it's...one of those things where once the record company decides this is...something that's going to sell, then they go out and drag anyone making that kind of music and then try to exploit that, so that then all you hear. Some of it's bound to be mediocre and some of it's bound to be really good.
T: Actually, there's a huge rethey're trying to emulate Bob Dylan from the 60's...
B: Or old Iggy Pop.
C: So you think it's the music corporations?
T: Oh, yes. It's the lawyers and accountants. It's not about...

We shall not be ignored

Monday, November 23. Noon. College Hall.

Then, there, a posse of parched and pissed-off students will be heard.

For too long the administration of MSC has ignored the will of the students.

A referendum question from last year’s Student Government Election asked the students if they supported the return of alcohol to the Rat. Ninety percent of the respondents said yes.

Dr. Edward Martin, Dean of Student Affairs, purported to speak for the students when he incredulously claimed that 88% of the student body felt there were enough on-campus activities offered at MSC.

On October 16 of this year, the Student Government Association held open hearings on the Resolution Regarding Alcohol Services. President Irvin Reid, Vice President Thomas Auch of Administration and Finance, Dr. Richard Lynde of Academic Affairs and Dr. Jesse Rosenblum, the men responsible for making the decision regarding alcohol in the Rat, chose not to attend the hearings.

It seems to matter little to the administration that the students are the very reason for the existence of the college. Students come and go, administrators are forever.

According to the Director of Residence Life Margaree Coleman Carter, of the 21% of the student population that are over 21, 90% live at the Clove Road Apartments where alcohol is permitted.

The average age of an MSC student is 22. Fifty-three percent, or 6,478 students, are over the age of 21. Clove Road houses a fraction of that number.

Director of Campus Police and Security Philip Calitre says he does not have the resources to handle the “additional burden” of the reintroduction of alcohol to the Rat.

Calitre has said he would need ten additional officers to handle the situation.

The campus police, oddly enough, are able to handle the chauffeuring of President Reid and the hand-delivery of mail to the Board of Trustees quite adeptly. Furthermore, if one considers the fact that the number of officers on the force has been reduced in order to funnel dollars into other areas, it becomes clear the administration prefers to focus their efforts on projects that do more for their resumes than the people they are obligated to serve.

You, the reader, must not sit at home. Wake up early. Skip your class. Put off your homework. Call in sick to work. Be there.

This is an issue which goes far beyond alcohol. In the final analysis, we will choose this Monday whether or not we will continue to wince silently as the administration fucks us once again.

Not until we demand it, will we be deemed the respect we deserve. Not until we utilize our collective voice, will we be heard.

Monday, November 23. Noon. College Hall. We shall not be ignored.
We often hear about the destruction of the environment, but it is usually about distant places such as the Amazon or Madagascar. This autumn many of our destructive habits right here in New Jersey have come to my attention. It is time we see the absurdity, selfishness and brainwashing that have allowed the abuses, of which I am about to tell you, to exist.

I wonder if I am the only person that has noticed how much like a city it is starting to look around here. The main reason for this is the loss of trees and the spreading blacktop which seems to be growing from the buildings that scar our landscape. From Portsmouth, N.H., to Raleigh-Durham, N.C., one can drive without ever leaving the suburban sprawl so typical of the East Coast.

If that is not bad enough, this type of development is being increased by the loss of trees and the spreading blacktop which seems to be growing from the buildings that scar our landscape. From Portsmouth, N.H., to Raleigh-Durham, N.C., one can drive without ever leaving the suburban sprawl so typical of the East Coast.

The greatest abomination we practice is our infatuation with big, bald, green lawns. The amount of chemicals and the loss of trees to plant grass without weeds is insane.

We should also plant trees in our cemeteries. What? Are we worried the roots will grow through our run under the highway and make our lawns look nice? July is too hot and dry most years to expose grass to the sun in treeless fields without constant care.

We all could fit plenty of high, bald, green lawns. The biggest abomination we practice is our infatuation with big, bald, green lawns. The amount of chemicals and the loss of trees to plant grass without weeds is insane.

The magic touch with women

Congratulations to President-elect Bill Clinton and may he keep on rejecting liberal Democrats and may his policies do good for our wonderful country, the best country in the world! Even though I didn't vote for him, I support him and pray he does a good job. Also, thank you President Bush for twelve great years of service. Even though the liberal media attacks you history will show that the 80's, especially under President Ronald Reagan, was the new Golden Age of America. Yes, President Bush had some problems during his eight years in the White House, but his presidency has left a legacy of freedom and a strong economy.

Women have proven world-wide that they are capable of running countries, take Great Britain, India or Israel for instance. More women are becoming judges, lawyers and doctors and they do their job as well as any of their male counterparts. As the stereotypes are thrown away, women will be involved in a lot more traditionally male jobs such as managerial positions, accountants, executives and even personal nursing positions such as the military, police force, fire department and even sanitation workers.

May I suggest that with your millions of dollars you should invest with Bill Cosby and purchase NBC! I think it would be great for black Americans to own a national TV station. It would show all the doubters in this country that anyone and everyone is capable of making it in this country.

Finally, my view of women in society, I think women are great and I love them. I even consider myself a semi-feminist. I am glad that several women were elected to the Senate, including the first black, American female. Personally, I wish they were more conservative, but it's still about time we had women in such powerful positions in this country.

Women evolved biologically to give birth and that's why they have ovaries, fallopian tubes, etc. For those of you who still believe in God, most religions say we should be fruitful and multiply. Women can also have successful careers, but I believe there is nothing more satisfying in life than raising a family. One of the persons I most admire is my mother. Not only has she raised three successful and good children, but she also keeps the house in shape (I help); she is an excellent cook; she's been married to the same man for 35 years; she's loving and caring; she gives a lot of herself for her family; and she gives me a lot of good advice on life. She even works part-time as a salesperson and a couple of years ago she won the employee of the year award at Sears. I believe more people should be like my mom and our country and world would be better off!

Finally, I suggest that all black people do not take off from school or work to see the opening of Spike Lee's new movie Malcolm X. Everybody should see it if you want to— I will—but not at the risk of losing my job or a day of school. If Spike really wants all black people to see his movie then why doesn't he let them live free and only charge the white folks. I think the reason is because he wants to exploit black people out of their money, but since he's black it's O.K.? I would have asked for his opinion, but he doesn't talk to the white media anymore! Is it just me or does Spike sound like a racist similar to a David Duke?

Lipper has decided to spend a considerable amount of his free time dedicated towards something he really believes in, for that is to be commended. It is the way in which he pursues his goal that I call into question. If Lipper wants to live a life in which he can occasionally smoke a joint of his own home—smoke a little pot or sprinkle a little hashish on his pancakes in the morning, without

It is with clenched fist that I question both the motives and the integrity of NORML and in particular the honesty of its local founder, Daniel Lipper. If Lipper wants to save the environment, why doesn't he just come out and say it? It is his First Amendment right. It is his own home—smoke a little pot or sprinkle a little hashish on his pancakes in the morning, without

It is here I question his honesty. I'm sure he is telling the truth when he says hemp is a good substitute for trees and for the production of paper products. I'm sure he believes hemp is an excellent biomass fuel. ANSWERS TO THIS WEEK’S PUZZLE

The Montclarion

© Edward Julius Collegiate CW8809
MUM WANT ME TO TRY AN EXPERIMENT TONIGHT. SUE SAYS THE MONSTERS UNDER MY BED MAY NEED ME TO TALK TO THEM TO EXIST. HER THEORY IS THAT IF I JUST DON'T THINK ABOUT THEM, THEY'LL GO AWAY. OF COURSE, THAT IDEA OF BEING FEARFUL OF SOMETHING UNDER THE BED AND BEING SCARED BY MONSTERS HAS A WAY OF GRAVITATING HIM. AS SOON AS WE TURN THE LIGHTS OFF, THE MONSTERS COME BACK OUT FROM UNDER THE BED. THEY'RE NOT GOING TO GO AWAY, SO I GUESS WE NEED TO FIND SOME WAY TO LIVE WITH THEM. YUOOO, IT SMELLS AwFUL IN HERE. WHY DOES YOUR ROOM STINK? IT'S BECAUSE OF THE DARN MONSTERS UNDER MY BED. CALVIN, I DON'T BELIEVE A MINUTE THAT YOUR NIGHTTIME MONSTERS ARE CAUSING THIS SMELL. SEE? THESE DON'T EAT ALL THE GARBAGE WE THROW DOWN THERE TO KEEP THEM QUIET.

Swimming's Mitzak strives to be an All-American
by Lisa McCormack

When asked what his primary individual goal for the 1992-93 season was, senior swimming star Andrew Mitzak said, "I want to be an All-American this year." Last season Mitzak placed eight-teeth in the nation as an NCAA qualifier and was only 3/10 of a second from achieving All-America honors. Mitzak's brother John was MSC's first-ever men's swimming All-American.

Mitzak's dedication is what sets him apart from the competition. The team captain spends nearly the whole year working out in the pool. He spends his summers training twice a day at the Berkeley Aquatic Club in Berkeley Heights.

Head coach Brian McLaughlin is appreciative of what the Seton Hall Prep product has given to the MSC swimming program. "He has been with me from the beginning. He's responsible for taking a 2-9 team (1988-89) and turning it into a 5-2 team (1991-92)," said McLaughlin.

The South Orange native has also been impressive in the classroom, carrying a 3.0 GPA as a finance major.

MSC football: A tale of two seasons in one
by Keith A. Idee

After MSC dropped its first two games of 1992, things weren't looking too good. That was MSC's first season.

Then, despite many injuries the Red Hawks reeled off a six-game winning streak. The streak put MSC in a position to win the NJAC title, although the Red Hawks came up short in their bid to upset Rowan College and steal the NJAC crown.

Women's basketball will build on last season's success

DeFazio believes conference title is a strong possibility for Lady Red Hawks

by Keith A. Idee

Women's head basketball coach Alice DeFazio enters her second season with a talented and experienced team that should make a serious run at the NJAC title.

DeFazio, a member of MSC's famed 1978 Final Four team, stresses aggressive defense and continuity to her team that returns eight players from last year's squad.

The 1991-92 season was one to remember for MSC. The Red Hawks finished 16-11 (12-6, NJAC), and earned an invitation to the ECAC Metro Tournament and the NJAC Championship Tournament.

This season the Red Hawks are looking to build upon that success. Four seniors and one junior make up MSC's tough starting five.

The Red Hawks will look for leadership from 6'0" senior center Shannon Shaffer.

The Linwood native provides a physical presence in the paint for MSC. Last season she was the Red Hawks' top scorer (13.6 ppg) and rebounder (13.2 rpg). The Mainland Regional High School alumna averaged 2.7 steals per game.

"She gives us a solid inside threat with her strength and agility," said DeFazio.

For her efforts in 91-92, Shaffer was named First Team All-NJAC and Second Team All-ECAC.

MSC also expects another stellar backcourt performance from 5'7" senior guard Kim Barnes.

Known for her offensive ability, Barnes was the Red Hawks' second leading scorer last season at 13.5 ppg. Barnes, a Mastic Beach, N.Y. native and a team co-captain, also dished out 3.9 assists per game to lead the team.

"Kim worked extremely hard on her shooting in the off season, and should provide us with a consistent long range threat," stated DeFazio.

Leading the team from the point guard position will be 5'4" senior Cindy Poling. The unselfish Poling, who hails from Lakewood, is noted for her excellent defensive play.

Providing Shaffer with help in the frontcourt will be forwards Judy Stair and Jeanine Mullahy.

Stair, a 5'11" junior and the other co-captain, adds another quality scorer and rebounder to the mix for MSC.

The native of Planfield averaged 13 ppg, 7.7 rpg, and 2.5 steals per game in 91-92. She was also the Red Hawks' top scorer from both the field (.529 %) and the free-throw line (.782%).

Stair learned the game while playing at Union Catholic High School (Scotch Plains), which is one of the top girl's basketball programs in the state.

"Judy is a very versatile player with excellent leadership qualities. She's perhaps our most consistent performer game in and game out," stated DeFazio.

Mullahy is a key to MSC's offensive success in '92. The 5'7" senior from Hazlet will take on more scoring responsibility this season after averaging 6.7 ppg and 3.3 rpg last year.

"Jeanine is definately our best defensive player. She's a main cog in our offensive scheme," said DeFazio.

DeFazio is impressed with what she's seen from Kovar thus far. "Kim has been a pleasant surprise. She has a lot of raw talent an will see some minutes in the post," she said.

Shannon Shaffer boxes out an opponent as she awaits a rebound in a game with Glassboro State (now Rowan College) last season.

Freshman Danielle Gilmore could see time at both shooting guard and small forward. At 5'7" she could also provide some help on the boards.

Other possibilities include 5'3" junior guard Stacey McWilliams, 5'2" sophomore guard Tahira Muhammad, 5'7" senior forward Denise Morrow, and 5'7" freshman guard Lisa Vallatta.

Whatever rotation DeFazio chooses will be a quality one, with the starters seeing most of the court time.

The second-year head coach feels that with her team's depth and balance, there is not reason not to expect big things from her Red Hawks.

Now that she is "settled in" as head coach and has put her team together the way she wants it, bringing back MSC's winning reputation might not be too far behind.

Evander Holyfield still doesn't get the respect that a former undisputed Champion of the World deserves.

Ever since his days as a light weigh heavyweight that aspired to beat "Iron" Mike Tyson, Holyfield has been getting dissed by boxing analysts, the media, the fans, and just about everybody else.

They say's he's never beat anyone. He beat a 42 year-old man (George Foreman), a big fat slob (Buster Douglas), a scrub who gave him a good fight (Bert Cooper), and a has been (Pinklon Thomas).

Some people go as far as refusing to pronounce his name properly. It's Holyfield, not Hollyfield.

"The Real Deal" could have proved that he was worthy of his nickname by defeating Riddick Bowe last Friday night.

Instead, he fought Bowe’s fight and got hammered. He had to prove that he was tough and I think he did accomplish that.

He proved that he has the heart of a lion and that he's got a tough chin.

However, he didn't prove to be wise in this instance, because he went toe to toe with a man who had advantages over him in strength, weight, and reach.

By trying to earn the respect that has eluded him over his whole career, Holyfield may have cost himself the title.

Let's forget all of that for a minute and take Evander Holyfield for what is and was.

The man went 28-0 (22 KOs) and defeated everyone that was thrown his way. He's one of the nicest and most respectable champions that ever graced the sport. He is someone who children could actually look up to in a sport that was in desperate need of a hero.

One problem, that image isn't what people expect from boxing.

He's a true class act that was always overshadowed by boxing’s bad boys, who always had something ridiculous going on in their lives. Holyfield just went about his business and got the job done.

However, that was never enough to satisfy anyone.

Now comes the real question: where does Holyfield go from here?

Should he continue his quest for respect and find a way to get his title back?

No. Holyfield has nothing left to prove. He doesn't need the money and he certainly doesn't need the physical pounding that he'll take in a Bowe rematch.

Also, the public seems interested on seeing a Bowe-Lennox Lewis title fight in 1993. Bowe may also take on George Foreman sometime next year, probably before he fights Lewis.

This kind of leaves Holyfield out in the cold. This is another instance that indicates the lack of respect given to Holyfield.

When was the last time an undefeated and undisputed Champion of the World wasn’t even considered for a rematch immediately following his first loss?

If Holyfield’s ego can take it, then he should just retire and live a normal life. He could just sit back and relax for the rest of his life.

He made a fortune during his career, surely enough to provide a comfortable life for him and his family. He should take advantage of this opportunity.

One thing he shouldn’t do is fight his way back up through the rankings and the politics of boxing just to prove he’s worthy of another shot at the title.

That would just play into the hands of the people who have made boxing totally just a business.

Holyfield shouldn’t be known as a slob who never beat anybody as some would like, but as a man who gave boxing a positive image that is certainly refreshing.

Rowan romps Red Hawks, 42-17
Prof's crush MSC's hopes of conference championship
by Michael Frasco

The winning streak put the Red Hawks right in the hunt for an NCAA playoff berth and a conference championship going into its final game last Saturday against Rowan College.

However, Rowan was not just any ordinary opponent. The team was ranked No. 5 in the New Jersey Athletic Conference and was the top team in Division III's Eastern Region going into the contest. The Red Hawks needed all-around perfect effort when the two teams clashed at Sprague Field on Saturday. Instead what they got was a 42-17 win for the visiting Rowan offensive machine, which ripped the MSC defense for a 42-17 victory and a second consecutive New Jersey Athletic Conference loss.

Quarterback Ed Henson connected on two scoring strikes to Garner Fox in the third quarter to give Rowan a 28-17 lead. The Profs put MSC in the catch-up situation could ill-afford to be in, with the team's struggling offense and the Profs stingy defense. As MSC head coach Rick Giancola said, "They wore us down with their depth and talent. They scored so quickly in the third that it took us out of our plan for the second half."

The Red Hawks (6-2, 5-1 NJAC) did have an opportunity after Rowan's first score of the third quarter created a 21-7 lead for the Profs. MSC had a fourth and one situation at the Rowan 37 yard line. However, a Darren Volkoff pass to John Walker failed and two series later Henson hit Fox for a 39-yard score to put the Profs up 28-17.

Another key play came with 13:45 left in the game when Volkoff passed to tight end Thomas Sellers for 22 yards, who fumbled it away at the MSC 35 yard line. Five plays later Rowan's Andy Hyde scored on a three-yard run to move Rowan's lead to 35-17.

The Profs (10-0, 6-0 NJAC) last score came on a 22-yard run by Robert Marshall to cap a five-play 93-yard drive which took just 2:25.

With the 42-17 lead, the Rowan defense, led by linebackers Joe Zow and Jarvis Perry, took over. They held MSC to 264 total yards and just 14 yards rushing in the second half. MSC all-time rushing leader John Walker gained just 19 yards as he was still hampered by an ankle sprain suffered against William Paterson. Walker fell short in his bid to become the Red Hawks first rusher to gain 1,000 yards in three consecutive seasons. He finished the season with 931 yards. After his team fell short of a playoff berth and lost its shot at the NJAC title, Giancola reflected on what could have been for MSC. He said, "We had our chances, we just didn't take advantage of them. We were disappointed we lost. We felt we could bring the NJAC title back to MSC."

Giancola also looked back at the season. He said, "The club came a long way. After we were 0-2 and had many injuries, we still managed to hang in there and have a respectable season."
