Union workers protest p. 3
From the editor’s desk...

Howdy pardners! This heah is ma las lettah before I and the rest of the editorial board head west for our newspaper convention in Dallas and boy am I psyched! I hope the Cowboys are in town that week!

Since there will be no Montclarion next week, I felt it would be appropriate to mention someone who will be honored next Wednesday on campus for 20 years of service. His name is Dr. Thomas Casilly, an adjunct professor in the Political Science Department.

I first met Dr. Casilly in my freshman year in the fall of 1991. The class was International Relations. At first I felt a little awkward. I was a History major and I didn’t really know anyone in the class, but it seemed that everyone including the professor (Dr. Casilly) knew each other. Soon, I felt like a part of that class. (Dr. Casilly has a way of making you feel at home.)

Five more classes with Dr. Casilly, and I can honestly tell you that he is one professor who, as a career diplomat for the State Department, can speak not only from book knowledge, but from experience also. This real-life, first-hand experience that he brings to his classes every morning is an exhilarating experience for any sudent of life.

Outside of the classroom, Dr. Casilly will never walk by a past or present student of his without a kind word or two of sincere concern relating to some part of that student’s life. MSC has been enriched by his very presence.

On Wednesday, October 27, those of us who have had the opportunity to get to know him will be able to show Dr. Casilly how much he means to us. Come on down to the celebration and show your appreciation for what he’s done here or just visit him during his office hours. You’ll quickly be made to feel at home and he might even share one of his foreign adventures with you. Get to know him. He’s a class act, a great teacher and a friend.

See you when the cows come home,
(No offense to the horizontally challenged)

Corrections

Congratulations to Sigma Delta Phi for their winning float in the Homecoming Parade. (The Montclarion printed only one personal that dealt with Homecoming which failed to include them with TKE on the victory. The oversight was unintentional.)

Professor to be honored at ceremony
by Rosanna Maggio

Dr. Thomas A. Cassilly, an adjunct professor of the Political Science Department, will be honored at a ceremony for his outstanding services of the past 20 years at MSC.

Cassilly is a professor whose dedication to teaching stems from his love for students whom his wife refers to as “his surrogate children.” He said he finds it very rewarding and exciting to see students learn. He describes teaching as “a pleasant way of life.”

Cassilly served in World War II and was so moved by the war that he joined the foreign services where he hoped to prevent war through diplomacy. As an officer, he served overseas in such places as Martinique, Korea, Iran, France, and Africa.

After a brief illness while stationed in Africa, he took a short leave of absence. He later went on to receive his doctorate in Colombia.

After retiring from the foreign services he thought it was only natural to teach something he’s been doing his whole life. He came to teach at Montclair where he has been teaching as an adjunct professor for the past twenty years.

One change he has seen in his career here is Montclair’s multiculturalism on campus. He feels this approach with students and teachers of differing backgrounds has created a broader outlook.

False alarms in Blanton due to faulty system
by Brian Mersbach

A malfunctioning module in a pull station was the cause of two fire alarms at Blanton Hall last Wednesday, MSC Fire Marshall Domenick DiSimone Jr., said.

The alarm went off approximately 1:00 p.m. and again at 4:00 p.m., causing students to evacuate the building for approximately an hour each time.

Doug Cooper, Assistant Director for Residence Hall Facilities, said that a loose wire inside the pull station was popped out to evacuate the building for approximately 15 years. He works with about 1,000 high school students and finds the experience very rewarding.

In regard to the ceremony in his honor he was surprised as well as touched and flattered. This event represents the first time the contributions of an adjunct professor will be so recognized.

The ceremony will take place Wednesday, October 27 at 4:00 p.m. in the first floor lounge of the new Humanities and Social Sciences building.

Labor union protests use of non-union workers at MSC
by Greg MacSweeney

A local labor union picketed the renovation of Chapin Hall this week because of the hiring of a company that used non-union laborers.

Labor union Local No. 694 picketed the Chapin Hall renovation because of the contracting of CBC Industries, an out of state non-union company, said Local 694 shop steward, Steve Daily.

Local 694 also felt that the college was in violation of Governor Jim Florio’s Executive Order No. 99 which stated that all state agencies should hire local trade unions whenever possible, said Daily.

“Executive Order No. 99 does not mandate that trade unions should be used in every circumstance as long as the contracted company meets the prevailing wages,” said Nancy Kearney from the State Attorney General’s Office.

“The prevailing wage is approximately $18.50 per hour plus benefits,” said Daily. “Some of us don’t feel that CBC is meeting the wage requirements.”

“We just want to make an honest day’s pay,” said a picketer. “I pay tuition for my daughter to go to this school and this is the thanks that I get.”

CBC Industries did not comment on their workers’ pay.

“CBC bid $339,900 for the job which was lower than all other bidders,” said Vice President of Administration and Finance, Thomas Auh.

“State law mandates that we award the contract to the lowest responsible bidder,” Auh said.

MSC to host state’s annual Law Day
by Brian Falasaro

MSC will host the 11th annual New Jersey Law Admissions Day in the Student Center Ballrooms on November 3, from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The event is supported by the Student Government Association (SGA) and the Student Paralegal Association, an organization of the SGA, which has petitioned for the SGA to help support the event.

New Jersey Law Admissions Day is coordinated by the Department of Legal Studies, working in sync with the Student Paralegal Association and Phi Alpha Delta, the pre-law fraternity.

The event gathers law school admissions officers from law schools throughout the country so that MSC students, as well as students from the other state colleges can ascertain information from over 35 law schools they would like to attend, such as Seton Hall, Tulane, Villanova, Rutgers-Newark, Rutgers-Camden and Arizona State.

For some students, it is the best way of getting information about the type of law school they would like to attend.

“This event permits students to take the first step in realizing their aspirations (in law),” said Dr. Marilyn Tayler, chairperson of the legal studies department at MSC and the college pre-law advisor.

Evelyn Ramos, President of the Student Paralegal Association, agreed that this event is great for helping a law student find the right school.

“This is a good opportunity for me to look into them (law schools) and how to pay for them. I think Law Day is great,” she said.

The beginning of this event is formatted differently from a typical career fair. There are five admissions officers from different law schools all over the country who will tell of admissions procedures, financial aid and other intangibles the schools have to offer. A student is able to go around and speak individually with many other representatives from other law schools, as well. Students will also be able to speak with representatives from a half-dozen LSAT prep courses, which nearly every student takes, Taylor said.

It is known as one of the best events of its kind in the country, Taylor said, and it gives MSC a prominent place nationally when discussing this event.

“Our name is known much more than a typical state college would be known,” she said.

She also said that it is rare for a state college, such as MSC, to host an event this big.

False alarms in Blanton due to faulty system
by Brian Mersbach

A malfunctioning module in a pull station was the cause of two fire alarms at Blanton Hall last Wednesday, MSC Fire Marshall Domenick DiSimone Jr., said.

The alarm went off approximately 1:00 p.m. and again at 4:00 p.m., causing students to evacuate the building for approximately an hour each time.

Doug Cooper, Assistant Director for Residence Hall Facilities, said that a loose wire inside the pull station was popped out after somebody hit or knocked into the pull station. The wire then shorted out the module.

Cooper said that the fire system is a 24 volt system, which is low and means there wouldn’t have been any sparks or visible evidence of the shortage.

DiSimone said Wednesday’s malfunction should not cause students to worry about their safety. He said the Blanton fire system includes pull stations, heat detectors, smoke detectors and a sprinkler system. The fire system is required to be inspected once a year but DiSimone said he also makes periodic checks on the system himself.

He added that when dealing with situations which affect peoples’ lives, residence life “does their utmost to correct the problem.”

Fire and Security Specialists of Union, who handle problems with the fire alarm systems in the dormitories on campus, were able to silence the alarm on Wednesday and installed a new module on Thursday. The repair was authorized immediately by residence life, said Charles Minton of Fire and Security Specialists.

The two year old system in Blanton, which cost thousands to purchase and install, is “the most sophisticated system on campus,” Minton said.

The system is computerized and set up so that when there is a malfunction, the alarm goes off, DiSimone said. This way the problem gets noticed and can be attended to right away.

A local labor union picketed the renovation of Chapin Hall this week because of the hiring of a company that used non-union laborers.

The Montclarion's Investigative News Unit debuts November 4th
U.S. News & World Report ranks MSC among top 25 buys
by Linda McLaughlin

Montclair State is providing a quality education at an affordable price, according to a national magazine that recently named MSC one of the best college values in the northeast.

In recent issues, U.S. News & World Report rated colleges and universities in two critical areas: quality and cost. MSC did well on both lists.

In the magazine’s October 4, 1993 issue, MSC was ranked among the top 25 quality schools in the northeast. To be considered for inclusion in the magazine’s best-value listings, an institution had to finish near the top of its category in the academic quality rankings. MSC was ranked in the first quartile for quality in its region.

In the October 11, 1993 issue, U.S. News & World Report listed MSC among the top 10 institutions in the northern region in two price categories. The magazine evaluated schools on two areas of affordability, “sticker price” and “discount price.” The “sticker price” is the sum of a school’s annual tuition, fees, and room and board rates. MSC ranked first in the northern region as the best college value with a sticker price of $8,710. Some of the other area institutions in MSC’s group were Trenton State College, Rutgers-The State University at Camden, and New York’s Pace University.

Because many of today’s college students receive some form of financial aid, the magazine created a new category that takes such grants into consideration. An institution’s “discount price” refers to its total cost of tuition, fees, room and board, books, and estimated personal expenses minus the average of its need-based grants. MSC ranked second in this category with a $3,150 discount price.

MSC President Irvin Reid feels the college’s high marks are the result of its innovative programs and outstanding faculty. As the INSIGHT newsletter reported, Reid said it is “good news for the citizens of New Jersey that not only does Montclair rank high in quality, but in these tough economic times, we also place very favorably on two economic factors.”

Dean of Students Edward Martin said the ratings are also a “credit to the financial aid office and to the sage college system.” He added that “MSC is a bargain according to the magazine, but it can be an even bigger bargain if you commute. One thing that wasn’t mentioned in the article is that we have a gigantic number of students who commute, so you can knock the price down even further. I think we may be one of the few schools in the country where you can still work your way through if you live at home.”

Defendant in Denny case acquitted as federal prosecutors consider civil rights indictments
by George Calle

Damian Williams, 20, one of three defendants in the Reginald Denny beating case, was acquitted of attempted murder in a Los Angeles court yesterday.

Henry Watson, another defendant in the case, was released from custody today when a hung jury, which was both gender and ethnically diverse, failed to reach a verdict therefore rendering it a mistrial.

Federal prosecutors are hesitant to say whether or not civil rights charges will be filed against Williams and Watson. They do confirm, however, that they are reviewing the case.

Denny, who was pulled from his 18-wheel rig in last year's riots in Los Angeles, suffered severe injuries as an angry mob beat him.

The incident was captured on live national television in the midst of the social unrest that ensued on April 29, 1992 after a state jury acquitted the police officers in the Rodney King trial.

The two officers were subsequently convicted of civil rights violations after being acquitted of state charges.

One of the jurors in the Denny case had expressed fear for herself and her family at Tuesday's proceedings.

It is not certain what effect this had on the verdicts.

Prophet chats with the F.U. host

by Kevin Schaezel

Welcome, loyal readers, to the return of the well rested and relieved Prophet. This coming Monday in Life Hall, a pilot for a new proposed television show will be shot. How exciting! Anyway, I had a chance to speak with the host of that new show, Paul Venier.

Question- Paul, what is it all about?

Paul Venier- Well, Prophet, it's called Fun University. And it's more than just a comedy, it's more like the Ed Sullivan of the '90s. Lots of off-the-wall stuff, contests where someone can win up to $1,000 during the show. We taped a lot of practical jokes here on campus and we'll roll that stuff live. We'll have three comedians, but not your normal stand up monologists. More off-the-wall acts like musical or ventriloquists. Anything different will be on the show. Ya know, there be some circus people, midgets (laughs).

Q- And you are the host of all this?

P.V.- I'm the host and executive producer.

Q- You have one of those faces that says to me, "I've seen you in lots of places, haven't I?"

P.V.- I've done a lot of TV. In fact, Rob Penna, who's producing and directing F.U. and I did a show called Rascal's Comedy Hour for quite a while. Also I've been on MTV, HBO and Johnny Carson. I've played this college graduate, a ventriloquist and a guy that does parodies. And they grab as much as they can up to 1,000 bucks. Q- Will this new show run on MTV?

P.V.- Well, we pitched the idea to MTV, who really liked it, but they wanted to see a pilot first and see what we wanted to retain ownership of the show. So, we looked around at some target colleges for the pilot and we just loved the auditorium here. The Student Activities Director, Chuck Finer was very gracious to us. So, we decided to do it here. But the premise of this first show is to get it sold. If MTV decides that they want control, or don't want it at all, we're gonna go to Fox. But I'd rather go with MTV. And then we can go to colleges all over the country and shoot. Basically, the idea is we go to a college and it be like the circus is in town. That's the feel we want.

Q- Who's lined up for the first show?

P.V.- We have an impressionist who is an MSC graduate, a ventriloquist and a guy that does parodies. We will also have three contestants during that show and the finalist will enter the Blizzard of Bucks, which is like a giant bowl with all this money flying around in it and they grab as much as they can up to 1,000 bucks.

Q- And the students can get in on this?

P.V.- It's free admission, but its limited seating. So, once these seats are full, that's it. So I'd say get there early.

Coming up...

REVIEW: Peace Together for a worthy cause

by Kelly Schab

In a world that is made up of good and evil seemingly winning out much of the time, there is one spark of hope that might ignite the rest of the world. Peace Together, a new compilation album that will benefit the youth of Northern Ireland features some talented artists who have come together for a worthy cause.

The Peace Together initiative, as it is called, is the baby of two musicians from the North and South of Ireland: Ali McIndoe of the Belfast band, Stiff Little Fingers and Robert Hamilton of the Dublin band, The Fast Lady Sing. The two know that the healing power of music is great, especially on young people, and have brought together some of the best musicians from both Ireland and Britain.

The album itself is very eclectic but they all relate to the effect of war on young people everywhere. The line-up includes U2, Lou Reed, Peter Gabriel, Billy Bragg, Sinead O'Conner, Young Disciples, My Bloody Valentine, Pop Will Eat Itself and many more.

Kicking off the album is the haunting "Breath which is sung by a group of artists who call themselves Peace Together. They include, Peter Gabriel, Sinead O'Conner and Nanci Griffiths among others. It is an anthem that tells the children that "time gets hard and gets harder still."

The next few songs are good to OK with U2's version of Lou Reed's "Satellite of Love" featuring Reed standing out among them. One gets the feeling that these artists are up-and-coming acts that, if given a chance over here in the unsympathetic environment of the States, will become successful. But first, American radio must give them that chance.

All in all, Peace Together is a worthy album for a worthy cause.

REVIEW: Billy Idol, same old rocker suffering from future shock

by Rick Anderson

Special to College Press Service

Young William discovers virtual reality and becomes the Mad Max of computer geeks.

Actually, this album isn't as much of a departure from Billy's pop-punk roots as you might expect. All the computer psychedelia of the cover art notwithstanding, the music itself is basically straight-ahead rock 'n' roll of the type that has always been Idol's stock-in-trade, "Shock to the System" sounds enough like "Rebel Yell" and "White Wedding" to reassure his old fans, while the rest of the disc gallops along like "Rebel Yell" and "White Wedding" to reassure his old fans, while the rest of the disc gallops along

What really has changed is his subject matter. This disc is a paean to the apocalypse, and song titles like "Concrete City," "Neuroromancer" and "Wasteland" seem to indicate that Billy is suffering from rock 'n' roll future shock and loving every minute of it. An acid house version of Lou Reed's "Heroin" is an interesting touch, and the "more, more, more" refrain in "Venus" (which also boasts an adapted reggae basline) is an obvious self-reference. Aside from the two revolving lines in the "Power Junkie" chorus, Idol's lyrics tread relatively high ground this time out, observing a world gone baren, crazy and cold. He's no Walt Whitman, but this disc is a move in the right direction.
Coming soon to a cable carrier near you—Moron TV! Yes, the only network devoted to the absolutely moronic shows that you grew up with, with the best of today’s morons!

Of course no self-respecting network will call itself that openly, but moron television is definitely here to stay. However, the television that dares to insult your intelligence has been making the news of late, and parental groups, fire prevention agencies, and the Moral Majority have once again taken aim at the television that dares to insult you—Moron TV! Yes, the only network devoted to the absolutely moronic shows you grew up with, with the best of those things? David Letterman deserves a tip of the hat here, too. I will admit that he manages to mention every talk show freak thereof is, these “experts” should take a good, hard look at just what junk they were laughing theirasses off at Lucy munching her way through a candy factory (some call it her greatest episode ever, though I admit that some of his Top Ten lists are funny, but even put up with her through the 1970s.

The Three Stooges should also rank up there with the Masters of Moronic Madness. For that matter, throw in just about every soap opera in the history of mankind. Does anything cheerful happen in those things? David Letterman deserves a tip of the hat here, too. I will admit that some of his Top Ten lists are funny, but come on. Stupid Pet Tricks! At least it’s named correctly.

What else can we add to the list? Three’s Company! The Brady Bunch wasn’t too horrible, but it definitely deserves a place. The daytime talk shows definitely deserve a spot on the list, and the leader of the pack has got to be The Richard Bey Show. Some of the shows have credible topics, but the ones outside of the Big Two (Oprah Winfrey and Phil Donahue, the Phantom of the Oprah) have their own stupid pet tricks, usually their “guests” and “experts.” Transsexual Nazi Eskimos, on the next Gusalo. . .

Sure, moron television is here to stay, and I don’t deny it. I also admit to watching all of it at one time or another (except Three’s Company . . . HATED IT!) But before “adults” go questioning just what moronic television is and what the impact thereof is, these “experts” should take a good look just what junk they were watching. See you next week.

Weird Al

Alapalooza, “Weird Al” Yankovic’s latest release since Off the Deep End which featured the hit “Smells Like Nirvana,” is a crazy, wacky, kooky kind of an album, but hey, aren’t all of his albums like that?

The album starts off with a parody called “Jurassic Park” (the cover features a parody of the movie’s poster) that is sung to the tune of Jimmy Webb’s “MacArthur Park.” You know. “Someone left the cake out in the rain?” Anyway...

The second song is a Weird Al original titled “Young, Dumb and Ugly.” The subjects of this track think that they’re rebellious and cool but their only first-class idiots.

The next song is “Bedrock Anthem,” a song all of our favorite TV cavelen, which follows the tunes of the Red Hot Chili Pepper’s “Under the Bridge” and “Give It Away Now.” This one has to be heard to be believed.

Next up is another original titled “Frank’s 2000 TV” which is about a neighbor who gets a 2000 inch TV.

For all of you Billy Ray Cyrus fans, boy does Weird Al have a surprise for you (note sarcasm)! Yes, it’s “Achy Breaky Song!” This is a true gem as Yankovic goes through the most terrible music he can think of such as Alisa, Barry Manilow and the Bee Gees, that he’d rather hear before listening to Billy Ray. Oh, sweet revenge!

“Traffic Jam,” the next tune, is an original about being stuck for hours on the Parkway. I think we can all relate to this in some form or another.

Next is the theme song to E! Entertainment Television’s “Talk Soup.” Yankovic manages to mention every talk show freak one can think of in this original song.

Truly the highlight of the album, “Livin’ in the Fridge” is a song that anyone can appreciate. This parody is perfect Aerosmith should be proud.

The next song, an original, is titled “She Never Told Me She was a Mime.” ‘Nuff said.

“Harvey the Wonder Hamster,” a tribute to all of the squeaky little pets of the world and “Waffle King,” about a guy who makes the “best darn waffles in this stinkin’ town” are two originals that aren’t up to the Yankovic par. Oh well, no one’s perfect.

If you’re wondering where the polka is, look no further. “Bohemian Polka,” a parody of Queen’s legendary “Bohemian Rhapsody,” rounds out the album and makes up for the not-so-good tracks.

Believe me, you will not be disappointed.

Good Grief

By Drop-In Center Staff

Most often the word grief is associated with death. However, authors like Wayne Oates see grief as the aftermath of any deeply felt loss—whether it be from the end of a relationship, a mental or physical disability, retirement, passing birthday, moving away from home, the beginning or end of school and a loss of a pet can also cause feeling of grief.

Author and counselor Ira Tanner continues further believing that even the loss of "things" such as a wallet for example, or the breaking of a favorite object, even the loss from giving up cigarettes can trigger common emotions linked to grief. He defines grieving as basically mourning the lost parts of ourselves we've invested in the person, place or object we have lost. Although grief is a personal experience unique to each individual, the characteristics sometimes described differently, are basically universal. Some of these characteristics and shared emotions can be denial, shock, anger, depression, guilt, frustration, a feeling of being "lost", panic, anxiety, confusion, loneliness as well as physical symptoms like sleeplessness, loss of appetite, nervousness and fatigue. Since grief is internalized personally by the individual, you may or may not feel some of these descriptions and there is not a particular or "right" time to experience these feelings. Grief is a process in which we find ourselves moving from one stage to another with no clear-cut line separating the stages.

Tanner also suggests each of us grieves uniquely as well. Our feelings about ourselves, our sense of humor, familiar grief patterns, religion and attitudes towards change are a few personal traits which shape our abilities to cope with loss and experiences with grief.

Just as our experience with grief is individual so is our recovery or healing from grief individual. Judith Viorst, author of Necessary Losses states, we live by losing and leaving and letting go...

To the Editor,

This is a quote from John’s letter: “For example when my ancestors (who are Irish) came to America they were spit at, were not allowed to vote and were not given jobs that paid little money. African American were whipped, you state Irish Americans were spit at, were not allowed to vote and were not given jobs that paid little money. The closest Irish Americans have come to (American) slavery is being wage slaves; meaning they were slaves to factory owners who had them working in disease infested, overcrowded, hot, life threatening, working conditions for little money. Though working in these factories was strenuous, the Irish Americans had a choice and they were free. This is an argument I cannot make for African Americans.

African Americans and Irish Americans. The two groups often lived side by side in the teeming slums of American cities in the 1880’s. They both did hard work, especially in domestic service and the transportation industry. Both groups were poor and often vilified. Both had experienced oppression and been wracked from a homeland. But not in any shape, form or fashion can you compare oppression of African Americans in America to that of Irish Americans. “Why?” you ask. Because African Americans were slaves in America; they were property with absolutely no rights. In your article you state African Americans were spit at, African American were whipped, you state Irish American oppression is too deep of a topic to give such a shallow comparison. “Let me enlighten you!”

You had good reasons, environmental and historical, for comparing African Americans with Irish Americans. To the Editor,

I am writing this letter to hopefully end all of the chaos that the Sept. 30 issue of the Montclarion started. I am not writing to tell anyone that they are wrong or right, but to hopefully bring peace to the “letters” section of the paper.

If The Far Side cartoon or the article telling of the investigation of Coach Blanton in the issue on Sept. 30 offended any readers of the paper, it is probably because they are reading into things too much. These “offended” people need to take a step back and ask themselves exactly what is offensive about these articles. I guess what is offensive about Coach Blanton’s article is the fact that he is an African American who could potentially be in trouble. Well let me pose this question: what if Coach Blanton was White? Would all of these same people be offended? I doubt it. When something of this nature is reported, shouldn’t we concern ourselves with the man and the issue rather then his color?

The Far Side cartoon was intended to be funny, nothing more. Gary Larson has been drawing his comics for quite some time now. I kind of doubt that if he designed his cartoons with an idea of prejudice toward African Americans that they would continue to be seen in this newspaper, or for that matter, any other newspaper carrying the cartoon. “Offended” people, please, take a look at the whole picture.

I am against racial prejudice as much as the next person, but I have learned something. We all need to relax. If you are an African American, White, Asian, Hispanic or of any other race, and something racially offends you, confront the problem before making a public issue out of it. You might see you misjudged the problem. For if you do address the public first, you might be offending someone yourself. Peace.

Paul Zeller

In the Spirit of All Halloows Eve the topic of racism directly related to the Coach Blanton story and the Far Side has been officially laid to rest. Please write to us about a topic not already beaten to death. Thank you.

Letter to the Editor,

This letter is in response to Tim Dawg's accusation (in a letter printed last week) that the "vanguard" brothers that "run the yard" are doing nothing for their community. Mr. Dawg, in the time that I've attended MSC I have gathered every flyer and newspaper article that I could from the events that these brothers have sponsored.

It seems evident to me and others that you did not do your research. I must add that I've seen you at a few of those meetings or conferences, yet I always seem to run into you at the parties. Maybe you were gathering information to preempt the worsening academic retention at MSC. I refuse to sit here and belittle your organization like you attempted to do last week to the other organization. On the other hand I would like to compliment you and your fraternity on entertaining us yearly with the "lip sync" competition and this semester with Uptown Comedy Club. I am sure that there is a very good charity that is awaiting the donations from your profits.

To the Editor,

To the Editor,

This letter is in response to Tim Dawg's accusation (in a letter printed last week) that the "vanguard" brothers that "run the yard" are doing nothing for their community. Mr. Dawg, in the time that I've attended MSC I have gathered every flyer and newspaper article that I could from the events that these brothers have sponsored.

It seems evident to me and others that you did not do your research. I must add that I've seen you at a few of those meetings or conferences, yet I always seem to run into you at the parties. Maybe you were gathering information to preempt the worsening academic retention at MSC. I refuse to sit here and belittle your organization like you attempted to do last week to the other organization. On the other hand I would like to compliment you and your fraternity on entertaining us yearly with the "lip sync" competition and this semester with Uptown Comedy Club. I am sure that there is a very good charity that is awaiting the donations from your profits.

I am assuming that this is the case because if it is not then you must be a flat out hypocrite that believes in the do-as-I-say-not-as-I-do concept. I am truly disappointed with the fact that you would downgrade a "minority fraternity," especially in a predominantly white school's newspaper, when you belong to a brotherhood yourself.

A word from the wise, after you have obtained your degree in Political Science I suggest that you not forget that you are a black man before anything else, and that downgrading your own people does not pay. And when you get the urge to help out or give constructive criticism to the men that you addressed, do they have a mailbox. I am sure they are awaiting your input.

"The man who rows the boat generally does not have time to rock it." If you want to help, row the boat don't rock it.

P.S. Did you stop to think what a desolate place MSC would be without these brothers? Reflect on that.

N. Suzy E.V.C.

Somalian coverage defended

Letter to the Editor,

I commend the Montclarion for its coverage of current events, and in particular for the front page photo of the American soldier being dragged through the streets of Somalia. And I would like to address the readers who wrote in commenting on the picture and on the Montclarion's coverage of the Somalia situation in general.

First and foremost, the Montclarion is a newspaper. It has a responsibility and an obligation as a newspaper to report on all events relevant to any student at MSC. In 20 years, if someone were to look back at an copy of last week's Montclarion and there was no mention of Somalia, shouldn't that seem a little strange, since it's such an important issue? However, I do agree that Homecoming, Rush Hall renovations and N.J.N. broadcasts are important and newsworthy, but so are American servicemen and women dying in a foreign country. Sorry if your trip from under your rock and out of your cave wasn't greeted by an excerpt from "Bill the Bricklayer's antics during the reconstruction of MSC" (a best seller, I'm sure) or an interview with the Lambda Lambda Lambda recording secretary on just how much time, effort and beer money they spent to make their float. If you can do better, join the Montclarion.

And to those who think that the front page picture of the dead (murdered) American soldier was too graphic, I say "too fucking bad." What the hell do you think is going on over there? Are you living under the same rock as that other cave-dwelling fool? I'm just thankful that the press is even allowed to publicize its coverage of Somalia. Remember how wonderfully patriotic the images of Desert Storm were? Let's forget, Americans died there too, but no one was allowed to take pictures of that. And I give you the distinct privilege of telling my uncle, a Vietnam Veteran, that the permanent, untreatable rash on his body caused by Agent Orange exposure is too "atrocious to be newsworthy." Also, to quote the letter writer from last week, "...now every time [this soldier's] parent, mother, sister, wife, child, or friend thinks of him [the Montclarion's] wonderful front page will be their only memory." Reality check - I know this man was a soldier, but did his life only begin after basic training? Are there no other pictures of his existence?

How dare you appoint yourself spokesman for people you don't know and will probably never meet? You have no idea what they are feeling, and I hope you never will.

Maybe repeated coverage of events like Somalia by institutions like the Montclarion will help make the abundant number of people on this campus and on this planet wake up and see what the hell is going on around them. If you want sugar-coated articles only about MSC campus life, then don't pick up the Montclarion this week - it might just bore you out of your cave into the reality in which the rest of us live.

Pioneers ground Red Hawks, 26-23
WPC gains record breaking 442 rushing yards to hand MSC first loss

by Brian Falzarano

It wasn't supposed to be this way. The Red Hawks are supposed to shut down the opposing offense and score enough points to win.

Neither happened Saturday. William Paterson College ran over, around, and through the MSC defense for 442 yards, paced by A1 White's 179 yards, in a big way. MSC (4-2, 2-1 NJAC) gave up its all-time high in rushing yards, surpassing the 410 yards it simply puts our backs to the wall.”

And in a big way. MSC (4-1, 1-1 NJAC) gave up its all-time high in rushing yards, surpassing the 410 yards given up to Ithaca last season, while and started the second half as quickly and efficiently as they would finish the game.

A sloppy first half expired with Scott Rubinetti converting a 23-yard field goal with 1:26 left to give WPC a 3-0 lead at Wightman Field in Wayne.

MSC senior wide receiver Brian McNair scores one of his two touchdowns on a pass from quarterback Darren Volker in last Saturday's 26-23 loss to William Paterson.

Football

"I hope it's a wake-up call," MSC head coach Rick Giancola said. "We dodged the bullet for the past two weeks and it caught up with us. What it does, is it simply puts our backs to the wall."

And in a big way. MSC (4-1, 1-1 NJAC) gave up its all-time high in rushing yards, surpassing the 410 yards given up to Ithaca last season, while WPC (4-2, 2-1) set a record for rushing yards, surpassing the record of 420 yards versus Siena in 1991.

"We tried different things," said Giancola, of how his defense tried to stop the Pioneers. "To their credit, they picked up on what we threw at them."

The fact is, MSC ran into a machine otherwise known as the Wing-T, the Pioneer offense. When not handing off to White, Andre Taylor (15 carries, 59 yards) or Andre Evans (12 carries, 53 yards), quarterback Rich Smith was rolling out and had the option of either running (15 carries, 89 yards) or hitting an open receiver (10 of 19, 139 yards, three interceptions). And the offense didn't have enough points to win.

"It's been a tough year for us, so we're happy to still have a chance at this point." Giancola said. "People forget that he played four years for us and has started."

Fullback John Culver trucked in from four yards out on the very next play. Despite Rubinetti missing his fifth extra point of the game, a kick which should have been a chip shot for someone who kicks 40 yards with ease, MSC was still 9-6.

MSC had yet another chance on the very next drive, when freshman defensive back Ernest Drake picked off his first career pass at the MSC 38-yard line.

"It was here that WPC took control of the game. When not handing off to White, Andre Taylor (15 carries, 59 yards) or Andre Evans (12 carries, 53 yards), quarterback Rich Smith plunged in from three feet away to give WPC a 6-3 lead. Moyer missed the first of his two extra points, having previously missed his two field goal attempts in the first half."

Give the Red Hawks credit, though. They fight until they have given everything they have. On the next drive, they found the end zone in only two plays.

Darren Volker (18 of 30, 276 yards, two touchdowns, two interceptions) hit his new favorite target, Brian McNair (nine catches, 181 yards, two touchdowns) for a 72-yard completion over the middle before being brought down at the WPC 4-yard line. Despite the injury to Tremaine Wimberly, McNair has always been a major contributor to the MSC receiving corps.

"Brian McNair is an outstanding athlete," Giancola said. "People forget that he played four years for us and has started."

 MSC splits pair; NCAA hopes still alive

by Keith A. Idec

This season has been a rocky one for the MSC men's soccer team.

But it's also one that can be salvaged, and in a big way.

The Red Hawks (8-5-1, 4-2-1 NJAC) have four games left on their regular season schedule and have to win at least three of them to get a bid for the NCAA tournament.

The three regional games with, Trenton State, Upsala and William Paterson are the must-win games for MSC.

The Red Hawks also played a regional game against Stony Brook last night at Sprague Field, but the results were not available at press time.

If the Red Hawks lose any of these games, the chances of them getting an NCAA bid rests solely on the play of other teams that have a chance at a bid.

Men's soccer

It's simple, MSC can only beat itself out of a tournament bid. The NCAA announces the seedings for the Division III tournament on Sunday, Oct. 31.

Head coach Rob Chesney is glad his team is still in contention for a bid after losing five games.

"We control our own destiny, so it's up to us now," said the third-year coach. "It's been a tough year for us, so we're happy to still have a chance at this point."

MSC enters this important stretch with a healthy team for the first time this season.

Junior forward Ricardo Jaramillo, sophomore back Melken Noriega and sophomore midfielder Alex Zapata have all missed extended periods due to injuries and now is the perfect time for them to be physically sound at the same time.

This has been something that Chesney has been eagerly anticipating for the entire season.

"We haven't had our whole team together for the whole year," said Chesney. "So it should be real interesting to see what we're capable of."

MSC went 1-0-1 in games played last week. On Saturday night the Red Hawks played to a scoreless tie against NJAC rival Stockton College in Pomona. MSC outshot the surprising Ospreys 28-7, but couldn't find the back of the net. Stockton came into the game at 13-1 including a 2-1 overtime win over defending Division III national champion, Kean College....In previous action, MSC edged Ramapo, 2-1 last Wednesday.

Good things come to those who wait.

When women's head tennis coach Brian McLaughlin took over the program in 1989, he was well aware of that. Now it has all paid off.

After going 9-20 in his first three seasons, McLaughlin has turned things around. After going 6-5 last season, the Red Hawks picked it up another notch this year.

This past week, MSC finished the 1993 season at 9-4-1 (1-3 NJAC). It marked the first time since 1983-84 that the Red Hawks have had consecutive winning seasons.

The nine wins also tied the MSC record for the most victories in a season, originally set in 1977.

McLaughlin is proud of what his team has accomplished. "We accomplished everything we wanted to and beyond," he said. "Our number one goal of having back-to-back seasons was accomplished."

McLaughlin is also happy with the reputation that his team is developing in this area. "We've gained the respectability we deserve in the metro area," he said.

He is confident that the program's recent success will help in recruiting some quality tennis players for next year and beyond.

Leading the way for MSC this season were juniors Leanna Guido and Laurie Hoffman, who both tied the MSC record for wins in a season with 10 apiece. The two now share the record with Donela Weber (1977) and Kelly Carroll (1983).

Guido, a Toms River native, went 10-3 at the third singles spot. Her season was capped off by being named the NJAC Player of the Week this past week.

Hoffman, a Little Falls native, finished the season with a 10-4 mark.

MSC also got strong contributions from first singles player Elise Lubertazzo, who finished the season at 3-9.

"Elise's record is very deceiving because her contribution to this team was tremendous," said McLaughlin. "She allowed us to move some veterans down the line to a more comfortable spot at which they could play at a more competitive level."

McLaughlin was also pleased with the play of Lisa Hand at second singles. "She did a great job as captain and played some excellent tennis at her spot."

After the impressive showing this season, the views are obviously optimistic for the mini season in the spring and for the 1994 campaign.

"Everyone is returning for us," said McLaughlin. "This year put us in a great position to possibly move into contention with the other quality Division III programs in the area."

RED HAWK NOTES.....MSC finished the season with a two-match winning streak. Both victories were over Division I programs. The Red Hawks defeated FDU-Teaneck 8-1 on Oct. 13. Jen Kolodziej and Hoffman both came back to win singles matches after losing their first sets respectively. Traci Szymanski also won her singles match in the win.....Two days later on Oct. 15, MSC knocked off Rider College, 7-2. This win was highlighted by the doubles tandem of Hoffman and Kelly Vott.

McLaughlin likes the way this pair plays together and is optimistic about their future. "These two really gelled together and I'm looking forward to watching them in the spring," he said.

A landmark season for the MSC women's volleyball team continued along its course in a season which has become one to remember.

Volleyball

This past Tuesday, MSC (12-6, 1-3 NJAC) won their first NJAC match by defeating Ramapo College in three sets, 15-5, 15-11, 15-11 at Panzer Gym.

In the preseason, head coach Anita Kubicka was very optimistic coming into this season. "The 1993 Red Hawk volleyball team has all the ingredients necessary to be a winner," she said.

Despite having many newcomers whose contributions were unknown, three of these newcomers, whom Kubicka called "welcomed additions," have definitely come through this season.

In the Ramapo match, these three "welcomed additions" were junior Anneliese Fejan, and freshmen Krista Gastelu and Tianna Agathos.

Fejan, one of the top offensive hitters in the NJAC, had five kills and two aces. Gastelu, a native of Rutherford, continued to impress with five kills of her own. Finally, Agathos, a native of Secaucus who played against Gastelu in high school, added two kills and four aces.

However, a very important part of this win was a player who has been playing at MSC for three years. Yocasta Garcia, a junior setter from Passaic, added to her single season assist record with 18 assists. She now has an amazing 274 assists, an average of five per game.

This team has shown a lot of ability and heart this season, as the win over the Roadrunners would testify to. For this season to be a success, they must be able to consistently beat NJAC teams.

All that the Red Hawks wanted this season was respect. Now they have their chance to earn it.

Red Hawks blow chance to play top dog in NJAC

Prior to last Saturday's conference game against William Paterson, the MSC football team laid the foundation for what could still be a memorable season for the Red Hawk an their fans.

MSC had surprised many and silenced the so-called experts by beginning the season by easily handling Cortland State (17-7) and Ithaca (29-0), the No. 21 and No. 3 teams respectively in the preseason Division III national rankings.

The Red Hawks then struggled past FDU-Madison in the Pride Bowl (22-12) and Kean (16-14) at the annual Homecoming. Yet, a win is a win.

But there was a breakdown on Saturday, as WPC took it to MSC and upset the team that was tied for No. 1 in the NCAA's Eastern Regional poll.

The unexpected loss to the Pioneers puts MSC in a must-win situation in order to assure itself an invitation to the game that is a month away. MSC head coach Rick Giancola is no exception. However, Rowan (4-1) has to be in the back of the minds of many Red Hawk players and coaches.

Last season, Rowan went 12-1, while winning the NCAA's Eastern Region. The Profs also drilled MSC, 42-17 in the season's final game that decided the NJAC championship.

Thus, this year's game becomes all the more intriguing, but only if MSC doesn't overlook any of its three remaining opponents before the Rowan game.

Calling the shots.....

Shouldn't we all just pity poor Derrick Coleman? How could the Nets insult Sir Derrick with an eight-year, $69 million contract that would make him the NBA's highest paid player over that period? Let's get real here. That's more than enough of a commitment to a player who has yet to make an All-Star team and hasn't brought the Nets to another level.

In fairness to D.C., he is one of the top five forwards in the game, and deserves to be paid accordingly. But all he ever said he wanted from the Nets was a committment to keep him in New Jersey. Well, the Nets brass has lived up to its promise for once, and now it's time for Coleman to live up to his, no matter what his agent thinks.

the game, scoring two touchdowns in 32 seconds to take the stench out of the NJAC's number one defense coming into the game.

The first touchdown drive was a 17-play, 77-yard concoction which ate 6:37 off of the clock, with White diving over a pile with 13:33 remaining to put the Pioneers ahead for good, 12-9.

After starting on the MSC 41, Volker began and ended the ensuing drive in one fell swoop. He was flushed out of the pocket, and as he ran, the ball slipped out of his hands, which line­backer Garven Hadden scooped up at the MSC 38 yard line.

Evans scooted through the middle two plays later, and Moyer made the extra point to put them up, 19-9, with 13:01 remaining.

MSC scored the next touchdown to seemingly put them back in the game, as Volker hit McNair on a quick toss from 10 yards away to pull MSC within 19-16 after the extra point.

McNair had a 38-yard reception past WPC defense back Craig Paskas, who intercepted a Volker pass in the second quarter to give him the new Pioneer career interception mark with 21, to help set up the score.

Paskas's play (seven tackles, one fumble recovery) did not go unnoticed by Giancola. "Craig Paskas is a fine football player. You don't do things he did and not be a great player," he said of the All-American defensive back.

WPC, working against a determined but fatigued defense, marched down the field on 10 plays, culminating in Evans' 1-yard run to give WPC a 26-16 lead, holding the ball for 4:58.

To no avail, MSC made things interesting. Volker, after being intercepted by Drew Close, got the ball back after Evans fumbled at the WPC 39 yard line with 3:35 left. Volker hit an open McNair in the end zone from 16 yards away to pull MSC to within 26-23, after Runzbini's extra point.

MSC tried an onside kick. After a mad scramble to recover it, it appeared that MSC had the ball. Yet, when the pile came undone, WPC had the ball.

Giancola was convinced his team would have another shot at redemption. "If we recovered the onside kick, which I think we did, we had the ball with 1:30 left (actually 1:49),"

"The Red Hawks played well at the end and could have won. However, they were grounded by a hard charging football team. You don't do things he did and not be a great player," he said of the All-American defensive back.
