5-12-1994

The Montclarion, May 12, 1994

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/montclarion

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/montclarion/701

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Student Newspapers at Montclair State University Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Montclarion by an authorized administrator of Montclair State University Digital Commons. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@montclair.edu.
Senior Bashed!

...and he bashes back at the yearbook!
Has Mr. Groovy gone too far?

Are SGA financial records public?
Your E-board doesn't think so...

-SGA President James “Appetite” Cotter
Calle-in-Chief

Six late term papers, 30 sleepless Wednesday nights, 30 Thursday absences, 2 death threats, 1 faculty request for my resignation 11 months, 11 days, 18 hours, 33 minutes.

That's how I measure my time spent as Editor-in-Chief.

My reign of terror is grinding down to its climax as my successor's journey begins. Only 19 days, five hours, 19 minutes and 1, YES ONE, UNO 1 more Montclarion left.

Gotta act quick.

As my year supply of No-Doz nears its end, I glance over at my pile of unused Withdrawal slips which I swear was much larger at the beginning of the year, I can't help but reminisce...

"Calle?" the voice rang out from the outer office, "Calle, are you in there?"

"Yes," I replied.

It was Keith Idee, our Sports editor who had stopped by during the summer to say hello.

"You ready for the big year Big-Guy?" he asked.

"I can't wait," I said.

Months went by and Keith called to see how things were going...

"Calle?...You still there Big-Guy?"

"Yeah."

"Are you gonna get out of that office before summer is over, or what?" he queried.

"Yeah, once I get things under control around here," I replied.

Nineteen days, four hours, 56 minutes and ONE MONTCLARION left.

June 1 I will finally have things under control.

Keith and I are going to have one monster beer on that day.

I'll have a monster beer with anyone on that day!

Happy Hour!

Happy Day!

Hell, Happy Millenia!

Free at last!

Before I conclude my last Calle-in-Chief column, I must thank everyone who helped make this year one I'll never forget:

Connie Ford, Dean Ed Martin, Appetite, James, Liz, the SGA legislators and even Natalie. The Prophet, Conservation Club Carol, Lisa Capitti, Dr. Cailey, Dr. Barkay, Amy Korotkin, Mike Hyde, the Student Center Staff, Glenny-Glenn, my ever-faithful Mag, Editor Amy Fost, Chris Hinck without whose help I could've never happened, Mick, my favorite Aussie, Kevin Colligan whose humongous shoes I had to fill and whose guidance I never really thanked for, and countless others that I've probably forgotten in my moment of melancholy.

There is, of course, a list of people who really loused up everything this year. I won't even give you all the satisfaction of seeing your name in print, just remember I take solace in the fact that prostate cancer strikes one in every two men. At least one of you will pay.

Most of all, I'd like to thank all of the wonderful staff here at the Montclarion for their never-ending support and friendship they gave tirelessly.

To the returning staff and our newly elected board I await the opportunity to serve with you and for you.

To the graduating seniors, my undying appreciation for a wonderful year.

To my successor, Greg MacSweeney:

I covet the newness of your journey but I do not wish to make it again...

I welcome you to the brother/sisterhood of the scant few who have served as Editor-in-Chief...

I admire your fervent desire to undertake the task and I wish you the very best.

If you ever need to call me at 3 am on a Wednesday night.............FORGET IT!

I'm not one for good-byes. I'll miss it...

Nineteen days, three hours...47 minutes...

To my successor, Greg MacSweeney: Editor-in-Chief

To the graduating seniors, my undying appreciation for a wonderful year.

To the returning staff and our newly elected board I await the opportunity to serve with you and for you.

To the graduating seniors, my undying appreciation for a wonderful year.

To my successor, Greg MacSweeney:

I covet the newness of your journey but I do not wish to make it again...

I welcome you to the brother/sisterhood of the scant few who have served as Editor-in-Chief...

I admire your fervent desire to undertake the task and I wish you the very best.

If you ever need to call me at 3 am on a Wednesday night.............FORGET IT!

I'm not one for good-byes. I'll miss it...

Nineteen days, three hours...47 minutes...

Before I conclude my last Calle-in-Chief column, I must thank everyone who helped make this year

Calle-in-Chief

Six late term papers, 30 sleepless Wednesday nights, 30 Thursday absences, 2 death threats, 1 faculty request for my resignation 11 months, 11 days, 18 hours, 33 minutes.

That's how I measure my time spent as Editor-in-Chief.

My reign of terror is grinding down to its climax as my successor's journey begins. Only 19 days, five hours, 19 minutes and 1, YES ONE, UNO 1 more Montclarion left.

Gotta act quick.

As my year supply of No-Doz nears its end, I glance over at my pile of unused Withdrawal slips which I swear was much larger at the beginning of the year, I can't help but reminisce...

"Calle?" the voice rang out from the outer office, "Calle, are you in there?"

"Yes," I replied.

It was Keith Idee, our Sports editor who had stopped by during the summer to say hello.

"You ready for the big year Big-Guy?" he asked.

"I can't wait," I said.

Months went by and Keith called to see how things were going...

"Calle?...You still there Big-Guy?"

"Yeah."

"Are you gonna get out of that office before summer is over, or what?" he queried.

"Yeah, once I get things under control around here," I replied.

Nineteen days, four hours, 56 minutes and ONE MONTCLARION left.

June 1 I will finally have things under control.

Keith and I are going to have one monster beer on that day.

I'll have a monster beer with anyone on that day!

Happy Hour!

Happy Day!

Hell, Happy Millenia!

Free at last!

Before I conclude my last Calle-in-Chief column, I must thank everyone who helped make this year one I'll never forget:

Connie Ford, Dean Ed Martin, Appetite, James, Liz, the SGA legislators and even Natalie. The Prophet, Conservation Club Carol, Lisa Capitti, Dr. Cailey, Dr. Barkay, Amy Korotkin, Mike Hyde, the Student Center Staff, Glenny-Glenn, my ever-faithful Mag, Editor Amy Fost, Chris Hinck without whose help I could've never happened, Mick, my favorite Aussie, Kevin Colligan whose humongous shoes I had to fill and whose guidance I never really thanked for, and countless others that I've probably forgotten in my moment of melancholy.

There is, of course, a list of people who really loused up everything this year. I won't even give you all the satisfaction of seeing your name in print, just remember I take solace in the fact that prostate cancer strikes one in every two men. At least one of you will pay.

Most of all, I'd like to thank all of the wonderful staff here at the Montclarion for their never-ending support and friendship they gave tirelessly.

To the returning staff and our newly elected board I await the opportunity to serve with you and for you.

To the graduating seniors, my undying appreciation for a wonderful year.

To my successor, Greg MacSweeney:

I covet the newness of your journey but I do not wish to make it again...

I welcome you to the brother/sisterhood of the scant few who have served as Editor-in-Chief...

I admire your fervent desire to undertake the task and I wish you the very best.

If you ever need to call me at 3 am on a Wednesday night.............FORGET IT!

I'm not one for good-byes. I'll miss it...

Nineteen days, three hours...47 minutes...

Before I conclude my last Calle-in-Chief column, I must thank everyone who helped make this year one I'll never forget:

Connie Ford, Dean Ed Martin, Appetite, James, Liz, the SGA legislators and even Natalie. The Prophet, Conservation Club Carol, Lisa Capitti, Dr. Cailey, Dr. Barkay, Amy Korotkin, Mike Hyde, the Student Center Staff, Glenny-Glenn, my ever-faithful Mag, Editor Amy Fost, Chris Hinck without whose help I could've never happened, Mick, my favorite Aussie, Kevin Colligan whose humongous shoes I had to fill and whose guidance I never really thanked for, and countless others that I've probably forgotten in my moment of melancholy.

There is, of course, a list of people who really loused up everything this year. I won't even give you all the satisfaction of seeing your name in print, just remember I take solace in the fact that prostate cancer strikes one in every two men. At least one of you will pay.

Most of all, I'd like to thank all of the wonderful staff here at the Montclarion for their never-ending support and friendship they gave tirelessly.

To the returning staff and our newly elected board I await the opportunity to serve with you and for you.

To the graduating seniors, my undying appreciation for a wonderful year.

To my successor, Greg MacSweeney:

I covet the newness of your journey but I do not wish to make it again...

I welcome you to the brother/sisterhood of the scant few who have served as Editor-in-Chief...

I admire your fervent desire to undertake the task and I wish you the very best.

If you ever need to call me at 3 am on a Wednesday night.............FORGET IT!

I'm not one for good-byes. I'll miss it...

Nineteen days, three hours...47 minutes...

Before I conclude my last Calle-in-Chief column, I must thank everyone who helped make this year one I'll never forget:

Connie Ford, Dean Ed Martin, Appetite, James, Liz, the SGA legislators and even Natalie. The Prophet, Conservation Club Carol, Lisa Capitti, Dr. Cailey, Dr. Barkay, Amy Korotkin, Mike Hyde, the Student Center Staff, Glenny-Glenn, my ever-faithful Mag, Editor Amy Fost, Chris Hinck without whose help I could've never happened, Mick, my favorite Aussie, Kevin Colligan whose humongous shoes I had to fill and whose guidance I never really thanked for, and countless others that I've probably forgotten in my moment of melancholy.

There is, of course, a list of people who really loused up everything this year. I won't even give you all the satisfaction of seeing your name in print, just remember I take solace in the fact that prostate cancer strikes one in every two men. At least one of you will pay.

Most of all, I'd like to thank all of the wonderful staff here at the Montclarion for their never-ending support and friendship they gave tirelessly.

To the returning staff and our newly elected board I await the opportunity to serve with you and for you.

To the graduating seniors, my undying appreciation for a wonderful year.

To my successor, Greg MacSweeney:

I covet the newness of your journey but I do not wish to make it again...

I welcome you to the brother/sisterhood of the scant few who have served as Editor-in-Chief...

I admire your fervent desire to undertake the task and I wish you the very best.

If you ever need to call me at 3 am on a Wednesday night.............FORGET IT!

I'm not one for good-byes. I'll miss it...

Nineteen days, three hours...47 minutes...
Student charged at Senior Bash

by Greg MacSweeney

An MSU student was charged with assault last Thursday after the “Senior Bash” at the West Mount Country Club when he became upset over two lost cameras.

MSU student William DeLuca allegedly “tore apart” the country club while looking for lost cameras at approximately 12:15 a.m., said SGA President James “Appetite” Cotter.

DeLuca was arrested by the West Paterson Police Department after an altercation with the country club’s building manager.

DeLuca was released on his own recognizance with his family and due to a shortage of police officers.

Cotter also said that SGA Legislator Mike Crudell, who attended the bash, is not to blame.

Crudell stated that he and DeLuca agreed to leave the bash because the Blanton Hall cafeteria was already preparing for the event and because the Blanton Hall cafeteria closed for lunch when I lemler received a call that his daughter was in the hospital.

I lemler said that only one worker was on duty in the cafeteria and that it would not have been a salad bar or other cooked foods that could not be brought from Blanton.

The cafeteria was open for breakfast and dinner on Monday but had to be closed for lunch when Hemler received a call that his daughter was in the hospital after swallowing a “Lego”, said Leistman.

Hemler refused to give his last name or comment further on the situation when asked by the Montclarion.

Hemler said that Kevin Rakowsky from Residence Life “okayed” the decision to close Freeman Hall.

Rakowsky did not return numerous calls from the Montclarion.

SGA E-board denies access to financial records

by Chris Hinck

The SGA president and treasurer refused to acknowledge accepting a letter from the Montclarion requesting access to all SGA financial records.

Montclarion News Editor, Greg MacSweeney delivered the letters, early Tuesday, to the SGA office for SGA President James “Appetite” Cotter and Treasurer James Henaghan.

Henaghan said that he knew of no such letter and when MacSweeney presented another copy he refused to look at it and said, “I don’t want to know about it, I don’t want to see any letters.”

The Montclarion is requesting the information on the basis that SGA money comes partially from student fees and that students should have the access to financial records at any time and for any reason. Since some students are on financial aid, some of the SGA money is from the state and the Montclarion contends that as with all other state funded organizations the financial records are, in fact, public record.

“SGA is simply trying to uphold the rights of all the students so that many have access to information concerning how their money is being spent,” said Montclarion Editor-in-Chief George Calle.

“Quite simply, if the SGA Financial house is in order, President Cotter should have nothing to hide,” said SGA coordinator Kevin Colligan.

The SGA contends that since they are incorporated their books are not public record because of the “right of privacy” to the money vendors that the SGA deals with, said Henaghan.

Henaghan stated that SGA lawyer Joe Mecca advised him of the laws.

On Tuesday night both Cotter and Henaghan came to the Montclarion office to discuss the situation with Calle, MacSweeney, Montclarion Treasurer Chris Hinck and the news team.

Cotter stated that he was willing to give all records to the Montclarion but Henaghan said that he would not allow any such action to take place.

The Montclarion went to yesterday’s SGA meeting, which was held in the quad in front of the Student Center and informed the SGA legislature of the steps that have been taken with the SGA president and treasurer.
Campus police report

by Linda Cerkvenik

MEDICAL
-On May 4 in Finley Hall, a female tripped over a rubber mat, fell down and hit her head on the lower panel of a door. She also hit her elbow on the metal door frame. She was transported by a classmate to receive medical treatment.
-On May 5 in Blanton Hall, a female experienced trouble breathing and was transported by the Montclair Volunteer Ambulance Squad and Medici 7 to Mountainside Hospital.
-On May 6 in Bohn Hall, a female experienced an asthmatic attack and was transported to Mountainside Hospital.
-On May 7 in the Amphitheater, a female experienced chest pains. The Montclair Ambulance Squad responded, but the victim refused treatment. She was transported to her room.

FOUND PROPERTY
-On May 3 in lot 22, a wallet was found by a maintenance worker and was returned to the owner.
-On May 5 in lot 24, a wallet was found.

THEFT
-On May 2 in the Student Center, a student reported leaving his backpack unattended on April 28 and when he returned it was gone.
-On May 3 in lot 21, a spare tire cover was stolen.
-On May 3 a female worker put her wallet on her desk. She was then distracted and it was stolen.
-On May 4 in the Student Center, a male reported his book bag gone upon his return twenty minutes later.
-On May 5 in the library, a female reported leaving a table to go to the restroom and use the phone. Upon her return thirty minutes later, her book bag was open and her purse was missing.
-On May 6 in lot 22, a male reported his vehicle stolen. It was recovered in Newark on May 8 and the victim was notified.
-On May 7 in the TV Center, a female reported her wallet stolen from her purse.

CRIMINAL MISCHIEF
-On May 7 and 8 in lot 24 two vehicles had their driver's side windows smashed. Rocks were discovered in both vehicles.

Students use EOF, PASS to fulfill goals

by J. Linares

The Weekend College Program (WCP), along with Equal Opportunity Fund (EOF) and the Program for Academic and Student Support (PASS) at MSU, is another special admission program where minorities find their way to be admitted in a Higher Education and fulfill their goals.

Courses in the WCP are scheduled three days a week for full time and/or one or two days for part-time students. The Program holds its classes on Friday evening until 11 p.m. Saturday and Sunday until 3 p.m. Every class is held in a period of three hour sections which is the equivalent of a full regular attendant during week days.

Approximately 500 students are taking advantage of this program at the moment. Of which, 300 of them were officially admitted to the university from this WCP.

Many students are adults and have family responsibilities and because of their job schedules it is almost impossible for them to attend school on week days. Being "weekend program" their unique alternative to gain a career.

The WPC "means a lot to me," replied Gonzalo Marquez, a business major who is a full-time worker and a full-time student. "I thank MSU administration for having me majoring in the field I love the most through the WCP and also take evening courses," Marquez said.

-I am not a WCP registered students at MSU but I am taking a Saturday morning class because it fit in my other schedule," said Don Coz, a Sociology major at Thomas Edison College in Trenton.

WCP students are a group of students of various ages with around 75-80 percent being Hispanic. Many of them attend school to learn and improve their English taking English as a second language or the ESL Program that is only offered during the weekend and directed by the Linguistic Department. The ESL program is divided into sections. ESL I, II, III and IV. Each section has an accumulative of six credits per semester, which include writing, reading, speaking and listening, helping them to develop a strong command over the language.

Not all of the students reach the same skill level at the same time. Sixty percent of the class can successfully maintain a good grade in others advanced English courses, 30 percent can fairly pass the class and the last 10 percent should repeat the course twice, said Anne-May, a ESL IV teacher.

The Weekend College Program "creates the perfect atmosphere for a well relationship between students and teachers enrolled in the program. It is a community that cares for its inhabitants," said Mauricio Baz, President of the Weekend College Student Association.

Blanton resident dies

by Joan Petrocelli

Twenty three year old Blanton Resident Laura Bryzchcy died Friday morning of kidney failure after being taken to Mountainside Hospital on Thursday with complaints of shortness of breath.

Bryzchcy was an English major at MSU and actively involved with such organizations as Sigma Alpha Iota Music Fraternity and WMSC. She was also one of the last members of the Medieval Society. In addition, Bryzchcy was a talented singer and musician. She was a member of her church choir and was proficient on the piano, flute and violin.

"She was a one in a billion person that would go out of her way just to cheer you up," said Samantha Shortino, an MSU alumni. "She was like a saint. She suffered her whole life and would never complain. Her death was such a waste of talent."

Bryzchcy had been born with only one kidney which had to be removed thirteen years ago and replaced. She was supposed to undergo dialysis treatment in the near future and eventually receive another new kidney.

Bryzchcy was from Fords, NJ and aspired to go to graduate school to get a degree in Library Sciences hoping someday to work in a corporate Library. She was also in the midst of writing a novel and her own version of Phantom of the Opera. Bryzchcy was laid to rest in Rahway and is survived by her mother and sister.
La Campana loses charter, Class I status

By Karl Lombok

La Campana, the student run Class I organization that puts out the yearbook may be neither student run nor a Class I next year if the current SGA Executive Board has their way.

“As of right now, La Campana basically doesn’t exist for next year,” said Sam Rock, the unopposed Editor-in-Chief candidate for La Campana, (La Campana not have a charter or a budget.)

SGA President James “Appetite” Cotter would like to see La Campana become a service agency of the SGA in order to ensure the timeliness and quality of the yearbook, said the current Editor-in-Chief John O’Brien.

Cotter would like to see a professional publisher be responsible for the yearbook so that it could be penalized if the yearbook doesn’t come out on time. “It will take away the intrinsic value of the job,” said O’Brien. In a meeting Appetite explained his plan to him and told him that he couldn’t go up for his charter. O’Brien said Cotter “kept evading the issue,” and was very condescending to him.

O’Brien didn’t know whether or not to hold organizational elections. He has decided to hold them, but results will be held in a sealed envelope until La Campana’s fate is decided. O’Brien did not run for a position saying, “I don’t want to deal with the SGA on an executive level again.”

The 1993 Yearbook is due in on May 25 or 26 and the 1994 yearbook should be in in October. “If I have to do all 304 pages personally, it will be out on time,” said O’Brien.

Rock also was very upset with Cotter’s plan. “As much as I’d like to, violence is not the answer.”
CASH IN YOUR BOOKS

We buy all books with current market value.

THE COLLEGE STORE

MAY 11 - 24

MONDAY THRU THURSDAY
8:30 AM - 7:30 PM

FRIDAY
8:30 AM - 4:00 PM

SATURDAY (5/21)
9:00 AM - 1:00 PM

(I.D.REQUIRED)

BOOKS ARE CASH - GUARD AGAINST THEFT
The Alumni Association recognized their 1994-95 undergraduate and graduate scholarship and award winners last Thursday.

Every year the Alumni Association encourages and acknowledges students for their academic success and their service to the community through scholarships and grants. Thirty-four students were recognized at the awards ceremony which was held in Kops Lounge in Russ Hall.

Undergraduate students received one of four different scholarships offered this year. Aynat Libman of Business Administration, Lydia E. Alvarido of Humanities and Social Sciences, Robert Pagano Jr. of Mathematical and Natural Sciences and Melva M. Brown of Professional Studies received the Undergraduate Citation Award. This award was created in 1988 to recognize and encourage excellence at the undergraduate level. It acknowledges one student from each school whose unusually outstanding academic achievement, activity in campus and/or community service and other prestigious awards and honors set her/him apart from the average student. Each of the recipients received a certificate and $1000 for their accomplishments.

The second award for undergraduates was the Carpe Diem Award. Nicole Gilmore and Ericka F. Bradley received this award which was created in 1993 to acknowledge undergraduate students who have had to overcome difficult circumstances and adversity during the pursuit of their educational goal. Nicole Gilmore was awarded $1000 and Ericka F. Bradley was given $500.

Two other awards which were presented were the Alumni Association Scholarship and the Undergraduate Service Award. Reynaldo Acevedo, Heather L. Bushby, Susana Carella, Gasner Coreus, Anthony S. Garrow, Laura Geneva Given, Dennyse R. Guevara, Renee L. Harraka, Gary Anthony O. Lawson, Richard A. Leto, Maureen K. McLeer, Candice B. Meyer, Sean R. Murray, Danielle Elsie O'Neil, Gary V. Pankiewicz, Keisha L. Pridgen, Albert Reising, Samuel D. Rock, Danielle Sonye, Susan L. Tarpey, Beth M. Trollan, Christopher Ware and Andrew B. Watson received one of these awards.

Two other awards which were presented were the Alumni Association Scholarship and the Undergraduate Service Award. Reynaldo Acevedo, Heather L. Bushby, Susana Carella, Gasner Coreus, Anthony S. Garrow, Laura Geneva Given, Dennyse R. Guevara, Renee L. Harraka, Gary Anthony O. Lawson, Richard A. Leto, Maureen K. McLeer, Candice B. Meyer, Sean R. Murray, Danielle Elsie O'Neil, Gary V. Pankiewicz, Keisha L. Pridgen, Albert Reising, Samuel D. Rock, Danielle Sonye, Susan L. Tarpey, Beth M. Trollan, Christopher Ware and Andrew B. Watson received one of these awards.

The Alumni Association recognized their 1994-95 undergraduate and graduate scholarship and award winners last Thursday.

Every year the Alumni Association encourages and acknowledges students for their academic success and their service to the community through scholarships and grants. Thirty-four students were recognized at the awards ceremony which was held in Kops Lounge in Russ Hall.

Undergraduate students received one of four different scholarships offered this year. Aynat Libman of Business Administration, Lydia E. Alvarido of Humanities and Social Sciences, Robert Pagano Jr. of Mathematical and Natural Sciences and Melva M. Brown of Professional Studies received the Undergraduate Citation Award. This award was created in 1988 to recognize and encourage excellence at the undergraduate level. It acknowledges one student from each school whose unusually outstanding academic achievement, activity in campus and/or community service and other prestigious awards and honors set her/him apart from the average student. Each of the recipients received a certificate and $1000 for their accomplishments.

The second award for undergraduates was the Carpe Diem Award. Nicole Gilmore and Ericka F. Bradley received this award which was created in 1993 to acknowledge undergraduate students who have had to overcome difficult circumstances and adversity during the pursuit of their educational goal. Nicole Gilmore was awarded $1000 and Ericka F. Bradley was given $500.

Two other awards which were presented were the Alumni Association Scholarship and the Undergraduate Service Award. Reynaldo Acevedo, Heather L. Bushby, Susana Carella, Gasner Coreus, Anthony S. Garrow, Laura Geneva Given, Dennyse R. Guevara, Renee L. Harraka, Gary Anthony O. Lawson, Richard A. Leto, Maureen K. McLeer, Candice B. Meyer, Sean R. Murray, Danielle Elsie O'Neil, Gary V. Pankiewicz, Keisha L. Pridgen, Albert Reising, Samuel D. Rock, Danielle Sonye, Susan L. Tarpey, Beth M. Trollan, Christopher Ware and Andrew B. Watson received one of these awards.

The two awards recognize students who have maintained high academic standards while actively involved in college and community activities. The Service award stresses service to the community, while the scholarship stresses academic achievements. Each recipient was awarded the cost of approximately one semester's tuition to be divided over the next two semesters.

Graduate students Michelle Meier of Business Administration, Mary McGuffie of Fine and Performing Arts, James Nicosia of Humanities and Social Sciences, Charles Guerra of Mathematics and Natural Sciences and Steven Alan Behrens of Professional Studies were awarded the Graduate Student Citation Award. This award recognizes a graduate student from each school whose original or unique contribution to her/his discipline and high academic achievement has set her/him apart from the average student. Each recipient received a certificate and a check for $500.

The scholarships and grants promoted by the Alumni Association are funded directly by the contributions of alumni and friends of MSU.

The MSU Alumni Association was created in 1911 to "unify the efforts of alumni in promoting the general welfare of the MSU community, maintain a liaison between the alumni and the institution and advance the spirit of fellowship and loyalty among its alumni." Today, the Alumni Association serves the college, students, faculty and alumni through publications, service projects, educational programs and scholarships and grants.

Leonard Hughes is very happy with his job as a MSU shuttle bus driver.

"Round and round he goes. Where he stops? Well, everybody knows.

Why? Because that's his job. From 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Mondays through Fridays, he transports students from one place to another on the MSU campus.

His name is Leonard Hughes.

Hughes, 30, a Newark native and resident, takes his responsibilities very seriously. "Safety is always my highest priority when I'm working," he said with a serious look. "This job requires you to do several things at one time, so I have to remain focused at all times. Besides driving, I have to communicate with the other drivers, answer the questions of passengers and sometimes even direct traffic when people don't know where they're going."

This past winter was especially tough on Hughes and the other shuttle drivers due to the abundance of poor weather that made driving around MSU extremely difficult at times.

Hughes, who has been at MSU since 1989, is known for his courteous approach and willingness to help others that get on and off his bus all day long.

Although literally driving around in circles in a long, red and white shuttle bus five days a week may seem tedious to some people, Hughes is very happy with his job. He attributes his love for his job to his life-long fascination with driving and cars. "I've always enjoyed driving," he said. "I just used to watch my mother drive when I was young and I've been intrigued by it ever since."

Still, how does he drive around in circles all day without going more than 25 miles per hour?

"I get by with the radios," he said. "The other drivers and I are like family, so we spend a lot of time on the walkie-talkies. I also listen to FM radio a lot. The day actually goes by fast and I get some time to think."

Before coming to work at Montclair State four years ago, Hughes drove charter buses on long runs to Atlantic City and other resorts for several years. However, he feels that this is the best job he's ever had. "It works out better because I have steady hours and I get home at a good time," said Hughes.

When he's not behind the wheel at Montclair State, Hughes spends most of his time with his wife, Sherni and their seven-year-old daughter Nicole. "She's what he enjoys most in life."

"Those times you spend with the ones you love are the most precious. I'm a little kid at heart, so I have a lot of fun playing with my daughter," said Hughes, a 1982 graduate of Newark's Eastside High School.

The pleasant disposition that Hughes is known for by the students at MSU is a result of his upbringing. His father, a tractor-trailer driver and a Baptist pastor, instilled in him the values that he's kept those values with him. In a low tone he explained what he thinks getting through life happily is all about.

"To achieve your goals you must stick it out through the bad times, no matter how hard it may get," he said. "It all pays off."

He knows—he's been through it.
The Outstanding

by Heather Bushby, Ariel Gronner, Chris Hinck and David Nikithser

For the past three weeks the Montclarion has offered the student body a chance to express their opinions on the faculty within their major. This week, we bring to you the final results.

The survey originally asked for the best and the worst faculty, but due to a limited of response, we did not feel comfortable condemning a professor on the opinion of a few, and I mean few, students. We did feel comfortable in recognizing those teachers who were consistently chosen as the best, so now before you lies the Outstanding Faculty who you, the student body, chose. You might not know who to avoid next year, but you will know what faculty you want to come to registration five hours early for.

The survey was hampered by the fact that those votes which were placed in the drop box in Building "B" and Morehead suddenly disappeared this past week. Yes, MY DROP BOX WAS STOLEN!!! Or maybe someone misplaced it. Honest mistake or not, it was gone and so was your vote.

If you're graduating, I'm sorry that you didn't get that final hit in against the faculty that almost destroyed your career. If you'll be here next semester, you will have your chance again. Next semester, we are planning to offer you a chance to rate all of the faculty within your major. So watch out for us next year, because all the boxes may disappear.

The students chose Dr. Daniel Bronson as the Best in Faculty for the English Department. Dr. Bronson holds a Bachelor's in English from Harvard as well as a Master's from U. Penn., also in English. He has taught at Montclair State for 18 years and is currently teaching Editing, Modern British Literature, Baseball Literature and Film, and is an advisor to the Co-Op program. Dr. Bronson is "very flattered" by the outcome, and adds: "I'd like to accept this to partly honor my late college professor Murray Prosky, who cared as much about students as anyone I've met and made me want to do the same."

"Bronson is an excellent teacher and he is seriously concerned with his students." Another student commented that "Bronson adds wit and interest to all of the classes he teaches." A third wrote, "He's knows what he's teaching and he conveys that knowledge in a way that makes it easy to understand."

"Dr. Bronson is one of the best teachers I've had throughout my 19 years of education" and complimented his "structured, organized, clear presentation of information."

"Bronson is an excellent teacher and he is seriously concerned with his students." Another student commented that "Bronson adds wit and interest to all of the classes he teaches." A third wrote, "He's knows what he's teaching and he conveys that knowledge in a way that makes it easy to understand."

Kudos to Dr. Seidler, who came out on top with the students in the Broadcasting/Speech department. After finishing her undergraduate study at Smith College as a theater major, she received a Master's degree and a PhD in speech correction, both from NYU. She has taught at MSU for the past 27 years, and now teaches the voice and speech practicum courses, heads up the basic speech program, and runs the speech laboratory. Dr. Seidler is "very gratified and overwhelmed" with the students' opinion of her. As one student summed up, "She teaches...in a way that enables the students to remember [the material]."

"Dr. Seidler was the first professor that really made me glad that I chose Montclair State. She helped me express my ideas and showed me their good points and their flaws without being offensive. She made me learn."
The Psychology department's honors went to Dr. Luis Montesinos, who is in his fifth year of teaching at MSU. He received his degree in Psychology at the Universidad Católica in Chile. Dr. Montesinos also studied at Southern Illinois University and holds an MA degree in Behavior Analysis Theory and a Doctorate in Rehabilitation. He currently teaches Social Psychology, Psychology of Human Sexuality, Health Psychology, General Psychology, and Behavior Modification. When told of his victory in the survey, Dr. Montesinos said he is “privileged to teach—I am always learning from the students, and I am privileged to work with students like those at MSC. I am deeply touched and thankful.”

“Although his workload is tough,” admits one student, “he explains himself thoroughly. He also goes out of his way to assist his students in any way, shape or form.”

Professor Phillip Cohen of the Sociology department spent 41 years teaching at MSU before his retirement in 1992. He received his PhD in History at NYU, and also studied at the University of Paris where he was awarded the degree superior. By the end of his career, he had taught Middle Eastern History, Peoples of the Soviet Union, and the prestigious Honors Program. Professor Cohen felt “very flattered and honored” with the students’ decision, and added: “It’s wonderful being remembered even after retirement.”

One of Dr. Taylor’s student’s explained, “I took a required course with her and she taught me everything I know about the law. She’s also and outstanding faculty advisor and has an open door policy whenever she’s available.”

The students were more than willing to voice their praises for Dr. Leslie Wilson, winner of the survey for the History department. One student commented,” Dr. Wilson has an excellent way of allowing or forcing students to think critically. The issues discussed during his classes are both thought-provoking and insightful. Another offered that he was “always willing to help. [He is] very knowledgeable about subject matter and [he] makes class interesting.” Still another said “[Dr. Wilson’s] main concern is you learn something.”
The Mathematics' department's honors went to Dr. Anthony Piccolino. Dr. Piccolino received his bachelor degree in Math at Iona College. He went on to secure his Master's in Math Education at Yeshiva in New York, as well as his Master's in Administration and Supervision at Fordham. He received his doctorate from Columbia University. He taught at the high school level at one time, and has been teaching at MSU for three years. He is very excited and surprised, and appreciates "students having confidence in me. I'm glad they are enjoying what's going on in the classroom. The students here at MSU are very easy to teach." Dr. Piccolino is currently teaching Foundations of Modern Algebra, as well as Construction in Mathematics, a graduate course. Students complimented Dr. Piccolino on his "interest in [the] material and students," and that he is "very prepared, enthusiastic, knowledgeable, [and] friendly," and "always helpful with questions."

"Piccolino works with his students and while he is demanding he is understanding of the student's needs."

Dr. Harold Flint came out on top in our survey for the Business department. His studied as an undergraduate at Western Kentucky University, and received his Masters and PhD at Southern Illinois University. Dr. Flint has spent 23 years teaching at MSC, but adds: "time flies when you're having fun!" He enjoys the mix of teaching both the introductory Principles of Economics as well as the Graduate courses, and admits: "I genuinely enjoy teaching. Maybe it shows in the classroom."

"Dr. Flint was always there with a concise answer to every student's question. He really made you feel at the end of each class that you had learned something."

As one student puts it, Dr. Deremer is "tough but fair. She is one of the few teacher who actually makes sure you understand the lesson."

"Ting is very good at teaching the practical aspects of music," says one student. "He is also hysterically funny!"
Prof. Joanne Cote-Bonanno took the survey in the Home Economics department. Prof. Cote-Bonanno received her Bachelor's and Master's degrees in Home Economics and Family Studies from MSU. She received her PhD in Counseling Psychology from Seton Hall University. She has been an adjunct here since 1979, and has been full time on the MSU faculty for 2 years. In addition, she has been assistant director of the Life Skills center since 1988, and the Project Director of the Career Equity Assistance Center for 8 years.

She is currently teaching Child Development I and Interpersonal Relations. She also teaches Progressive Development and Family Life Education, which is a graduate course.

Prof. Cote-Bonanno hopes to make an impact on her students, as well as assist and motivate them in their career decisions. She is pleased to see that she has succeeded in doing this, made obvious by compliments that she “is a very approachable person” and “makes class interesting.” (Incidentally, she has also worked on the Montclarion.)

Dr. John Korky’s Biology student were also generous with their praise, awarding him with the Best in Faculty honor for his respective department. One student clarifies his vote by calling Dr. Korky “a cool guy and a great teacher.” Another says he “cares about his students, making sure they grasp the material before moving on to more difficult topics.”

Best in Faculty for the Technology department went to Dr. Robert Dorner, a 26-year teaching veteran at MSU. After completing his undergraduate work at Trenton State College, Dr. Dorner did his Graduate study at NYU. He is currently teaching Principles of Technology and other computer and electronics courses, and serves as student advisor for his department. Dr. Dorner believes that “one of the most important things is spending time individually with the students,” and feels “it is important to do something more than just going through the footwork of teaching a class.” It’s easy to see why Dr. Dorner came out on top in this race.

"Dr. Dorner really knows his material and can help students understand the topics. He really cares."

In Physical Education, Dr. John Kinsey’s name is synonymous with “great educator” and “outstanding personality” to the students who voted him Best in Faculty for that department. One student noted, “Dr. Kinsey takes a professional approach to his students. He lets them enjoy what they do and learn something at the same time.” “He treats his students as equals, never putting them down or making them feel bad,” said another of Dr. Kinsey’s fans.

"Dr. Casily is by far one of the most thoroughly exciting professors on campus. His experience as a foreign diplomat really adds a different dimension to his lectures."
"In memory"
by Jasmine Sawa

"It was 9:25 when her body arrived And by noon she was down in the ground. And we all fell down..."
I've had that song stuck in my head since Monday. It's not the world's greatest song and I can't even remember who wrote it, but I do know why it's in my head. It's because of Laura.
Laura Bryzchcy. In case you didn't hear, she was the girl who lived in Blanton and died Friday. Tuesday was her funeral and I was there. Laura was one of my good friends.
If you knew her, there was no forgetting her. If you didn't you missed out on knowing a pretty great friend. Laura was like anyone else, she had a sense of humor (a really sick one at that), she liked to have fun and she was forever joking about wanting a boyfriend. She was in the Medieval Society, back when there was one here at MSU. Laura used to be a vocal music major, but she changed to library sciences. Laura used to joke that she wanted to be the world's most demented librarian.
A few weeks ago, she stopped by my dorm room to say Hi. I hadn't seen her for almost a year because she had taken a year off from school. Her hair had gone from red to black, but other than that, she was the same old Laura. She and I talked about her nephew, my boyfriend and got caught up on all the bullshit they had planned in the past year. Later, she drove me over to the theater so I could meet with my new ex-boyfriend. In the car ride she told me that the kidney transplant she had had so long ago was starting to fail and she knew it. That didn't seem to bother her as much as the knowledge that she would have to go back on dialysis. Laura didn't want to have to go through that again. I understood, as much as a healthy person could, but I didn't say much. I didn't really want to think about it. I mean she's only about 23 and I'm not much younger than she is. That whole mortality thing was the last thing I wanted to think about. I mean, she was Laura...she was my friend and she wasn't going to die ever.
But she did die, suddenly. I don't think that she was even expecting it to happen. I don't think she gave up, either. Laura wasn't like that. The viewing was...well, a viewing, and it was under those unfortunate circumstances that I met Laura's mom and sister. They were exactly as Laura had described them. She loved them all, especially her nephew and was eagerly awaiting the arrival of another niece or nephew.
Then, yesterday, was the funeral. I'd never done the Roman Catholic funeral thing. While we were in the funeral home, before they reached their destination.

Theater of the Absurd
by John J. O'Sullivan
When I first got out of High School one year ago, I was optimistic about life, happiness and college. When I attended Montclair State Coll...err... University, I thought I would be happy and that the world would be filled with glee. When I got here and went through the system for a year, all of those lofty inspirational goals got eaten, chewed, excreted and used as fertilizer. Since this is the last article I will be writing before this wonderful fun-filled semester comes to a close, I figured that I, John J. O'Sullivan, would give you the faithful readers of our beloved Montclarion a list on a college, state and national level of THINGS THAT PISSED ME OFF, THE SEMESTER IN REVIEW.

1) the fact that all of my "Montclair State College" stickers will have to be torn off my car's windows, the fact that my "Montclair State College" T-shirt will no longer be viable, plus the fact that most people will say, "Huh?" when I tell them I go to MSU. For example:

"I go to MSU."
"You go to Michigan State!"
"No, MONTCLAIR STATE!!"
"Oh. Where the hell is that?"
One word: ARGH.

2) The fact that the "New Kids on the Block" have a new album out. Of course, they now go by the trendy "NKTOB" rather than the whole name, trying to compare themselves to the revered combination of "ABWH" (Anderson Bruford Wakeman and Howe). I have one thing to say to them morons: YOU STILL SUCK! GET OUT OF THE BUSINESS AND GO BACK TO GUAM TO PLAY FOR ALL OF THE BOY CRAZY FOUR YEAR OLD GIRLS THERE. "Duh duh deh duh duh. Duh duh duh duh. Duh duh deh duh duh. Bad song."

3) Carniflop '94. Gee, let's go shell out five dollars so that we can STAND ALL OF THE FOUR CRAPPY RIDES THAT WERE THERE! My fucking parking spot was wide the dirty, knappily-looking "Salt and dirt" shakers were; I had to park FIVE DAMN MILES AWAY and be late to most of my classes, cause the shuttle was always leaving when I was coming. Wonderful.

4) And speaking about parking... The parking is just terrible here at our beloved MSU! I know that this is a very hard problem to try to fix, but it is just ABSOLUTELY WRETCHED! Most commuters decompose into skeletons before they reach their destination. When they built the "B" building, they sacrificed a huge plot of land to plant four or five trees. They could have paved it to create more parking for the commuters, but that would be too bloody easy. Plus, if you park close to school, in a place where "good students shouldn't park," you'll get a ticket. Welcome to Montclair State High School. Next thing we know, they'll be giving out detentions for smoking. Fun.

5) Christine Todd Whitman. "Hm, what to do with that...I know, LET'S SCREW OVER EVERYSTATE COLLEGE STUDENT IN NEW JERSEY! Hell, I'm rich. My daddy could afford to send me to an expensive school. Everyone can afford an expensive school. FUCK EVERYONE!!!! Don't blame me, I voted for JIM FLORIO! (Hahahahaha! I love using a Republican slogan against the Republicans! Call me evil, but it's FUN!!! Muahahaaha.)

6) All of this trash that was floating around all over campus. One word: fucking trashcans OKAY? My God, we're not pigs, I do believe that our advanced complex blocks of grey matter in our heads can figure out how to use a TRASHBIN!

7) That guy "Cliff" from IHOP. When I first saw that fat, pancake-eating fool on the television, I could swear that he would be as dead as a doornail this year. He hasn't died yet. His annoying habit to stuff breakfast food down his face has enraged me; people from other countries must think we're all THAT stupid when they turn on the Boob-tube and see this idiot say "Rooty tooty fresh-and-fruitly." He must die.

8) 2165 year-old women with huge names who shop at Pathmark and hold up the line with their idiotic confusions. (See "The Wonderful World of John J. O'Sullivan: Spring Break: Bah. Humbug.")
Two Generations at MSU

by Greg MacSweeney

It’s not off for a mother to support her daughter in whatever events that may come up in her life. What is odd is when the mother and daughter go to the same school at the same time.

This is the case for Susan Valandingham and her daughter, Liz, who both are currently enrolled at MSU. When Liz ran for SGA secretary, Susan was not only able to support Liz verbally, but physically as well, since they went to the same school together. This also held true when Liz was a Homecoming Queen finalist last fall.

Susan is an Early Childhood for Teaching major and will start her student teaching next fall, where she will be teaching at Paramus Early Childhood Center for 6-8 weeks and another location unknown at this time for another 6-8 weeks.

She started school in the fall of ’91, one year after Liz started. In her three years at MSU, she has accumulated 143 credits, making the Dean’s list each semester.

Being the mother of three children (Liz and a 12 and 14 year old) and a wife, she still found the time to go back to get her degree so she could teach anywhere from a nursery school to third grade. She said that the reason she went back to school was because she wanted to pursue a career and get a degree. She also said that she had the time and opportunity to do it.

“If 18 year olds can do it, why can’t I,” said Valandingham.

Susan said that because she is going to school with Liz, she feels more welcome because of Liz and her friends and she has gotten involved on campus because of Liz.

“I got active in her (Liz’s) campaign. I understood what student government was and I wouldn’t have gotten involved if it weren’t for Liz,” said Susan.

Susan realizes that it’s never too late to start a new career and she likes going to school with younger people because they’re more open-minded.

“When I was her (Liz’s) age, I went to night school will old people and now I go to day school with younger kids and I like this better,” said Susan.

Liz, on the other hand, is a Political Science major and minor in Pre-law and Paralegal.

She’ll be taking three classes next fall while applying to law schools and taking the LSAT’s.

Susan realizes that it’s never too late to start a new career and she likes going to school with younger people because they’re more open-minded.

“Maybe in the future,” said Sansone though he has no immediate plans. As a Hawthorne commuter during his five years as an undergraduate student, Sansone took advantage of Greek life on campus. In 1991 Sansone became a brother of Delta Kappa Psi Business Fraternity. His brothers affectionately call him “sideshow” Bob. He was also a member of the golf team from 1989-91.

Sansone said, “I take a lot of abuse from being in the major.” Friends, family and his fraternity brothers jokingly make snide comments from time to time. However, this mocking has not diminished his persistence. How many other males would have labored through two years of classes surrounded by women? Elyssa Sanyder, a friend in his major said, “I give Bob a lot of credit for not being so intimidated,” and goes on to say, “Having Bob in the major breaks up the monotony of having girls in the classes.” Relatively speaking, Sansone brings a new dimension into classroom discussions which would otherwise consist of all women.

He gets along with all his teachers illustrating that there are no biased opinions within the department against males.

Sansone thinks people should know that the “classes are not geared towards women.” Dr. Linda Reilly, Sansone’s former professor, also believes the classes are “equally suitable for males and females.” Males are “not aware that they could get into the fashion industry by fashion studies through the Home Economic department,” said Reilly. “It seems like everyone makes fun of (the people in his major),” Sansone stated. Perhaps, this “hustling of chaps” by other students stems from the confusion surrounding what the Home Economics department offers.

Sansone started taking general electives classes because he was undeclared. At this time, Sansone was employed by A&S, Paramus Park Mall where he worked in stock for all brands of cosmetics and fragrances. His job led him to realize that cosmetics and fashion go hand in hand. Sansone recognized his interest but didn’t know what steps to take that would insure his career goal.

Sansone recalls, “Huey Alcaro (Professor of the Home Economics Department) talked me into going into the fashion program,” during his enrollment in her Women in Contemporary Society class. Alcaro’s explanation of the major developed his interest. He began to see the major as an opportunity to get into his field, the cosmetics industry.

Sansone is focused on the corporate end of the fashion and cosmetics industry. For example, marketing, sales, production and account organizing. In the future, Sansone’s dream is “to work for Chanel,” and his “ultimate goal is to be a buyer.” Like every college graduate, he would “be willing to start anywhere to get (his) foot in door,” to start his career. Presently he is satisfying his internship requirement by working in the marketing department at Letraset, a graphic art supplier. The company sells graphic art products to businesses like Pearle Paints and Flax Stores.

Liz and Susan Valandingham excel at MSU together.

Fashion’s not just for women

by Dena Massa

Bob Sansone, 22, is the only male graduating from the Home Economics department. “For the last two years I’ve been the only guy (in the Home Economics major),” said Sansone during our conversation in the Rathskeller. He believes stereotypes held by students fail to accurately portray the courses offered by the Home Economics department which discourages possible male recruits.

Sansone is a graduating senior at MSU with a Home Economics major and a concentration in fashion studies. A student since 1989, Sansone will receive his degree on May 25. Graduate school? “Maybe in the future,” said Sansone though he has no immediate plans. As a Hawthorne commuter during his five years as an undergraduate student, Sansone took advantage of Greek life on campus. In 1991 Sansone became a brother of Delta Kappa Psi Business Fraternity. His brothers affectionately call him “sideshow” Bob. He was also a member of the golf team from 1989-91.

Sansone said, “I take a lot of abuse from being in the major.” Friends, family and his fraternity brothers jokingly make snide comments from time to time. However, this mocking has not diminished his persistence. How many other males would have labored through two years of classes surrounded by women? Elyssa Sanyder, a friend in his major said, “I give Bob a lot of credit for not being so intimidated,” and goes on to say, “Having Bob in the major breaks up the monotony of having girls in the classes.” Relatively speaking, Sansone brings a new dimension into classroom discussions which would otherwise consist of all women.

He gets along with all his teachers illustrating that there are no biased opinions within the department against males.

Sansone thinks people should know that the “classes are not geared towards women.” Dr. Linda Reilly, Sansone’s former professor, also believes the classes are “equally suitable for males and females.” Males are “not aware that they could get into the fashion industry by fashion studies through the Home Economic department,” said Reilly. “It seems like everyone makes fun of (the people in his major),” Sansone stated. Perhaps, this “hustling of chaps” by other students stems from the confusion surrounding what the Home Economics department offers.

Sansone started taking general electives classes because he was undeclared. At this time, Sansone was employed by A&S, Paramus Park Mall where he worked in stock for all brands of cosmetics and fragrances. His job led him to realize that cosmetics and fashion go hand in hand. Sansone recognized his interest but didn’t know what steps to take that would insure his career goal. Sansone recalls, “Huey Alcaro (Professor of the Home Economics Department) talked me into going into the fashion program,” during his enrollment in her Women in Contemporary Society class. Alcaro’s explanation of the major developed his interest. He began to see the major as an opportunity to get into his field, the cosmetics industry.

Sansone is focused on the corporate end of the fashion and cosmetics industry. For example, marketing, sales, production and account organizing. In the future, Sansone’s dream is “to work for Chanel,” and his “ultimate goal is to be a buyer.” Like every college graduate, he would “be willing to start anywhere to get (his) foot in door,” to start his career. Presently he is satisfying his internship requirement by working in the marketing department at Letraset, a graphic art supplier. The company sells graphic art products to businesses like Pearle Paints and Flax Stores.

Campus Life needs writers for next semester!! Stop by the Montclarion, Student Center room 113 Ask for Heather.
9) Bill Clinton's constant waffling of opinions. Now, don't get me wrong. I'm a registered Democrat, but I am absolutely sick and tired of him saying, "Uh, well, that statement that I made last week, well I was smoking mari...oops I didn't do that...um...well I just didn't mean what I said in the statement THAT WAY..." I'd hate to go to a restaurant with this guy; he'd take forever to decide on an entree. "Um, I'd like the filet of sole. WAIT! No, I'd like the steak...uhh...NO! I'd like the filet of sole...wait...well...um...STEAK! NO! SOLE NO!

ARRRRGGGGGH!

10) Political Correctness. Excuse me, but when someone is "short" they are not "vertically challenged." Stupid people are not "Intelligently challenged." That thing in the street that covers an access opening is a "manhole" cover, not a "personhole" cover, thank you so very much. "History" is not "Personstory." When I am cleaning dishes, I am not "performing underwater ceramic technology." I know that PC didn't just happen this semester, but the whole PC thing has pissed me off. I have to agree with "Politically-incorrect-man," Superhero of all that's simple and terse: Political correctness will be the death of the English language. Besides, it will take twice as long to say anything.

Well, since most good lists end at 10, I will close this list of "things that piss me off." On a little more serious (and emotional) note I'd just like to say it has been spiffy (sniff) to write for this paper this semester, recounting (sob) all of the really goofy things that have happened this summer. I look forward to pleasing my (sob sob) fans and pissing off my detractors next semester!

(WAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAAA!!!

Have a happy,
John J. O'Sullivan

John J. O'Sullivan is a creeping menace, creeping menace, CREEPING MENACE..... would like to thank all of those who helped and participated in our Spring Week.

Next year will be

“Even better than before”

Thank you:

Lynne, Chaz, Michelle, Anthony, Joe, Walter, Darrin, Jack Samuels, Chuck, Father Art, Class 1s, Pinky, Mike Cridele, Jack Levine, Sexy Divas, Delta Chi, Kimyetta, Yan and Tania, Eli, The Lords, Dr. Snipes, Dean Harris Dr. Desi, Vinni, Brian Cosgrove, Joe Chirdon, Quest, Senate, SGA Ex. Board, Tri Sigma, Theta Xi, Phi Chi Beta, Sigma Delta Tau, Delta Xi Delta, Sigma Psi Phi, Kappa Alpha Psi, Zeta Beta Tau, Alpha Chi Rho, Tau Phi Beta, Lambda Tau Omega, Sigma Delta Phi, Theta Kappa Chi, Campus Police, Kramer Agency, CTI, Gene Mater, Rich Voss, Greg Morton, Rob Magnotti, People Pleasures, Aldan Dining, Moore United Shows, MSU Students, Faculty and Staff.

Thanks for all of your support.

If you gave it, we got it!

CLUB Executive Board

Sam - President
Jaime - Vice President
Melissa - Secretary
Selina - Treasurer
Mick would like to say "thanks" to the following people for making his stay in America a great one!

In no particular order: Angie and the Porter family, my grandparents and my family. Jack Clancy, Mick Conahan, Debra Perry, Tracy Hogan, Dr. Zapata. Eileen, Maralyn, Lauren and the rest from Career Services. Gene Lotito, Brian (a great person), Toni (another one), Shaun, Mat, Mike, Joe, Jasmin, Mike, David, Tarelle and the rest from Mem Aud. Dr. Jenkens, Ronnie and Newman, Thom, Larry Lundino. the good stories), Dr. Seth, John O', Sketer and the Claire and the O'Connel family. Petra, Alisson, Joe, Lisa (sorry), and the rest from CIC. George, Christine, Heather, KEITH, (can they be separated?????) Sean, Angela (one of my Nicole. Alissa, Cris, Beth (my Linda and George, Mo, Miki, April, Appetite and the SGA and her friend. John and Linda. Mirjam, Hose, Anna, Hatish and the rest of the ISO. The Tarheels and the other boys I played basket ball with (and against). the Coopers. Mike and all the WMSC people who played my songs. And to the people I've stupidly forgotten (totally by accident) THANKS.

Remember: write and visit.

You can get keep in contact via the Montclarion (C/O Chris Hinck 655 5230)
To these kids, "DRAFT" doesn't mean beer.

HAIR

May 12, 13, & 14
at 8 PM
in the Amphitheatre
Free

Sponsored by Players and the SGA

Players is a ClassOne organization of the SGA Letters...

CLUB’bed President responds

Wow! Two articles and a “Main Editorial” about CLUB and the events of Spring Week! We’re getting more famous every day!

In all seriousness, I would like to clear up some of the misconceptions about how Springfest/Carnival was run this year.

First of all, I would like to discuss why CLUB, (College Life Union Board), charged $5 admission ($2 for people who wanted to enter without tickets) at the gate, and didn’t allow people in for free. The admission charge served a twofold purpose: first, it allowed the members of CLUB and the security force to keep the crowd under control. If the price was set too low, the increase in the number of people attending the carnival might have resulted in safety problems for everyone like the full blown riot that happened at the last carnival.

Second, we charged admission up front because it was the only way we could allow people to play the games at the carnival. Since the SGA does not own a raffle license, we are not allowed to charge money for each individual game. Therefore, we had to charge an admission price at the gate to give people complimentary tickets with which they could play the games. At past carnivals, we were allowed to charge money for games because the SGA used the Alumni Association’s raffle license. Since that time, the Alumni Association’s raffle license has expired, so there was no way that the carnival games could be run like they were at the “old” carnivals. This lack of a raffle license also prohibited us from having games of chance, such as spinning wheels. Due to other legal technicalities concerning this issue, we had no choice but to charge an admission price and give the tickets in blocks of 20. The admission charge was in no way related to the fiscal needs of CLUB.

I would also like to clarify why people from the surrounding communities “didn’t bother to peek in at the few festivities.” CLUB was prohibited from doing any advertising off campus for this year’s Springfest/Carnival, due to concerns from the administration, the campus police and the police departments from Little Falls, Montclair and Clifton. The idea of a “family day” during the daytime on Saturday, April 30, was implemented primarily for non-students of MSU, such as faculty and administration and their families, although everyone was welcome during the “family day” period. CLUB had an adequate amount of publicity on campus for Spring Week, including a full page Montclarion ad, specially designed posters, flyers, table tents and separate flyers for each individual event of Spring Week.

Almost six months’ worth of planning went into bringing Carnival back to MSU and it is unfair for the Montclarion or the campus community to bash CLUB for putting on a “mediocre” event. We did the best job we could under some very restrictive rules, which were put into effect for no other reason than to provide the public in attendance at the carnival with a safe environment. The “baby step” that CLUB took this year in bringing the carnival back to MSU will facilitate the process of once again making the carnival an annual event which will be looked forward to by the large majority of MSU students. It isn’t going to happen overnight, but I am confident that by bringing the carnival back this year, “mediocre” as it was, CLUB has helped to start the process of rebuilding the carnival into a safe, successful event for the students of MSU.

---

Class of ’94 takes a gem from MSU

Dear Editor:

This letter is an effort to express my appreciation to Montclair State, its faculty and its students for the wonderful experience I have just completed and for the fulfillment of a dream that did not seem possible ten years ago.

I am talking about my graduation from college! Now that may seem pretty mundane to many of your readers, but to me, a 77 year-old grandmother, it borders on miraculous.

More than 60 years ago, I graduated from high school and college was out of the question. Then along came marriage, children and the myriad problems accompanying them. Who could think of college? Certainly not me.

In 1986, more than 50 years after my high school graduation, my children grown and having children of their own, the opportunity to take advantage of the senior citizen financial aid to attend college was too good to ignore. I enrolled as a part-time student at Montclair State under the guidance of Dr. Savage, who asked facetiously, “Are you looking for a second career?” At her suggestion, I decided to major in General Humanities and it was a good choice.

Exposure to art, mythology, philosophy, music and literature opened up doors that will remain open for the rest of my life. Certain professors stand out in my memory: particularly Dr. David Kelly, my counselor, Dr. Ted Price and Dr. Jack Sacher. Kudos to them for their sustained enthusiasm in presenting their subjects clearly and interestingly. If I follow up on my copious notes taken in their classes, I will have the equivalent of a Master’s Degree! I will.

Finally, not to leave out the pleasant surprise I had discovered that students are great people too. I struck up acquaintances with many classmates and found them all to be gracious, intelligent, caring and a lot of fun to be with.

Thank you, one and all, for the experience of my lifetime!

Pat Banker
College Life Union Board President

---

The new deadline is September, 1994. Please, try to get them in on time. You have all summer to decide what you want to say. Any questions? The Editorial editor and the famed Kevin Colligan will be surfing down in Manasquan for the season. We’re over to the left, past the jetty.

---

Oh no, the SGA thinks it has power

Unfortunately our esteemed SGA President, Appetite Cotter, and Henaghan have forgotten that they work for the students, not the other way around.

It seems Cotter approached La Campana, the MSU yearbook, explained that he would like to see a professional publisher because he could be penalized if it does not come out on time. This is both wrong from the yearbook staff and according to John O’Brian, Editor in Chief, it would take away the intrinsic value of the job. La Campana has threatened to sue Appetite Cotter if they think it is not their property. Cotter, the SGA President, thinks that if they can’t hire their own publisher they will have to let La Campana work it out in-house and not take it away from them.

This poses an interesting question about the SGA. Does La Campana have the right to take over La Campana and let La Campana work it out in-house? This is a very interesting question about the SGA. Does La Campana have the right to hire their own publisher? How much power does the SGA think it has?

A good calculation of this could be their own suppression of La Campana. Henaghan has forgotten that they work for the students, not the other way around. Cotter and Henaghan have forgotten that they work for the press and hence the rest of the campus community.

What is going through Cotter’s and Henaghan’s mind?蒙clair will be going to court over the summer.

Montclair will be going to court over the summer.

Next time you see Appetite Cotter, (refer to latter for photos) maybe you can get him to explain himself. Until then, both Cotter and Henaghan will be going to court over the summer.

---

Put your money on the press.
SGA thinks it has power

President, Appetite Cotter and SGA treasurer, James Tischio, went to Cotter’s La Campana’s, the MSU yearbook, before their charter and executive publisher is responsible for the yearbook so that he can object. This idea is not met with much enthusiasm to John O’Brien, Editor in Chief of La Campana, "It will do." La Campana has therefore been held waiting until the end of the regular school year. The end of the regular school year. The more recent work by two educational statisticians, James Cruze and Dale Trusheim, The Case Against the SAT (University of Chicago Press, 1988) comes to similar conclusions: the SATs are biased against blacks and lower-income, i.e. working-class students generally. Strongly recommend these two studies for anyone who wants to appreciate the racism and elitism of the SATs.

The Princeton Review Co. runs a leading "SAT prep" in the SGA election. That's disappointing. Voting is the fundamental practice in a democracy. You vote for the measures that you want passed when they come up in a referendum. You vote for the candidates that you will vote for individuals. The SGA may not seem important to you, but it is. What's more, voting for SGA officers gives you practice and experience for politics in the outside world. And I am not sure that you will all vote.

Which leads me to my second point. I am not to pay attention to the development of the U.S. Senate races that are coming soon. I am paying particular attention to the Virginia race, where our favorite super-patriot Oliver North is running against Chuck Robb for the Senate seat. It may not seem like it affects us, but once someone wins, they get a vote on federal policy, which affects everybody.

From the Left

By Frank Fleishman

Well, it's almost here. The end of the regular school year. Many of us will now plunge into summer, going to the beach and looking for summer jobs. Of course, I couldn't let all of my readers go without some final thoughts for the student population in the last issue of the Montclarion for the regular school year.

From the Left, be back in September

Finally, some advice and words of wisdom from me until we meet again in September. Question authority; it keeps them on their toes. Smile a lot; it makes people wonder what you've been up to. Finally, be tolerant of others and accept them for who they are, not what you might like them to be. That's all, the heart of many of our problems. Do your part to help alleviate the problem.

One more thing, I need to thank George Calle for being instrumental to my success as a columnist. Without him, there would be nobody who I could piss off and have arguments with over my ideas. On a more serious note, I would like to thank Kevin Colligan and Christina Tischio, who are graduating, for making sure that my columns got in whenever possible. Good luck in whatever your part to help alleviate the problem.
A word from Calle-in-Chief

Alas! The return of the Anti-Christ.

Over the past few months, I have sat back and allowed all of Grover Furr’s rhetoric to settle like the nuclear fallout at Chernobyl. Like the deadly cancer that continues to fester in the Eurasian continent, so too do Furr’s ideas continue to fester in the heart of Building “B.” In the time I stayed away, I have seen him exposed for the misguided false prophet ideologue he truly is. Overwhelmingly, the students have spoken. His views are neither accepted nor respected by the students of MSU.

Mr. Furr will try to say that the Montclarion only printed letters that were critical of him; and that, doubtless, there must have been hundreds, maybe thousands of letters supporting him.

Okay Grover, you got us. The capitalist instrument of propaganda that we all hold in our hands at this very moment is run by 12 wealthy Jewish moguls whose only desire is to discredit a genius of your caliber.

So much for sanity! But sanity is not what Mr. Furr’s business is anyway.

The following is an excerpt from a letter about the Gulf War which appeared on page 10 in the January 10, 1991 issue of the Montclarion in which MR. Furr writes: “Remind them (U.S. soldiers in the Gulf) You have the guns. In Vietnam, many American soldiers ‘fragged’ (killed) the officers and ‘lifers’ who tried to get them killed by forcing them to fight. We must organize until the protests become massive. This will inspire anti-war soldiers: they will know they have support back home.” To which Peter Fridel Sergent, then-MSC student and Army National Guard serviceman replied in the following issue on page 16 of the February 8, 1991 Montclarion: “...I am shocked by one of his ideas on how to protest the war.”

I speak of his encouragement for people to write to service-members stationed in Saudi Arabia and suggesting to them that they kill those officers and soldiers who try to get them killed by forcing them to fight.” How can a teacher encourage the use of one criminal act to prevent another? What is next? If the violent views are solely those of Professor Furr then it is an even sadder comment. He may have the knowledge garnered from a B.A. from McGill University and both an M.A. and a Ph.D. from Princeton University, but it would appear that he has neither the wisdom nor the intelligence to use that knowledge in a manner to peacefully bring about his goals.

Think about it.

Could Paul Arthur, in his letter to the Montclarion on page 14 of the April 21, 1994 issue suggest that my inviting Grover to come see me personally to discuss our differences face-to-face was a grievous affront? Are we talking about the same Grover Furr?

Are we talking about the same Grover Furr who called for U.S. soldiers to kill their superiors who, coincidentally, are also our fellow Americans—our brothers and sisters, our mothers and fathers, our neighbors—maybe even some of us? Can’t be!

No, I’m sure Paul Arthur, Fawzia Afzal-Khan, Janet Cutler, Theodora Jankowski, Sanford Radner, Larry Schwartz, Art Simon and Sharon Spencer are referring to some other Grover Furr.

As for the above-mentioned English professors, their call for my resignation or the resignation of any other elected student leader was completely unwarranted. It is without precedence. It is without legal or moral ground, especially for Mr. Arthur—whose office hours all semester have not even been close to the required three-to ask any student leader who, without pay, puts in an infinitely greater amount of time working for this campus than he does, to step down from anything!

The co-signers of that letter in labeling my writing as “grammatical and logical incoherence” have exposed themselves for the elitist academics they truly are. Granted, I don’t possess a Ph.D. from Princeton, but I also don’t go around advocating the “fragging” of my fellow countrymen.

Arthur and his crew also claim to know something about the First Amendment. Here, your logical incoherence becomes quite apparent.

I agree with them on one thing. There is no place for this behavior in our community. It is time for Furr, Arthur and all the other co-signers to “do the right thing” and step down. Let those who are interested in educating, educate.

Kevin Colligan's Last Word

My biggest regret after three years on the Montclarion is that everyone still spells the Rat with two’s. It only has one t. We’re talking about the abbreviation of the word “Rathskeller,” not a mediocre mid-eighties metal band. Each and every reference to the Rat in the Montclarion since I’ve been here has had one t. One. When I was editor in chief in Spring, ’92 I thought I had the problem licked when the Montclarion coined the term “Rat-burgers.” Soon thereafter the Rat began advertising “Ratt-burgers.” Their version stuck. I guess that’s because the Montclarion has never been the final authority on spelling.

Sure there’s a few more regrets. I regret we didn’t sue the SGA more often. I regret we didn’t yet have a full-cover photo when we ran the “TKE accused of hazing” story in ’92. I regret not having photographers at the Spring Carnival—the real carnival that is. You know, the one with the riots. I regret not publishing the inane comment then-Acting Vice President of Student Affairs Dr. Desiderioscoli made when I told her a cartoonist she was accusing of racism was black (she pointed to her face and asked, “Is he visibly black?”).

I could probably scrape together a couple more incidents, but why bother? They wouldn’t compare to the benefits of being on the Montclarion. I’m not talking about my phone line or desk or even early registration (but I really did like that). The benefits are subtler, more substantial. Every year, one or two sentimental seniors write about the camaraderie that develops amongst a handful of individuals working to meet deadline, sleepily staring into a 21-inch computer screen or pasting ads onto a page at 4 o’clock in the morning. And believe me, despite that description, those times are among the best I’ve had here at MSU.

But thinking back, I remember something else as well. Thursday afternoons, after production night, groggily walking across a nearly-deserted campus and seeing someone sitting on a bench, reading the Montclarion. That’s what being on the Montclarion means. That’s what it’s all about. Being read.

A few of you reading this will come in here and find out what I mean. Okay. If you don’t know me, you can stop reading now.

Christina, you’re the one I walked through campus with, holding your small, sweet hand. I can’t wait to get out of school, move in and move on. I love you.

Editors, I almost wish I had another class to take in the fall. Burger, pass along the traditions. Mac, good luck man. Schab, treat your book well. Prophet, keep making me proud. Lomberek, keep up the proud tradition. Hinck, plaster the new jacks with pizza. Brian, good luck with your bowl column. Heather, don’t let the paper get in the way of your perfect attendance. Sammy, don’t take any more shit from the SGA. Sheila, Nicole, John Jay, and everyone else, good luck. Helen, good luck with the books. Mary, sorry about the mess. And to my fellow graduates: Keith, have a nice week. You don’t really need me to wish you luck.

Mics, thanks for the help. Be sure to boomerang over to this side of the globe again.

That’s it.

See ya Montclarion.
This year I was privileged through the impoverished yet benevolent Residence Life to attain a double room all to myself in the wonderful Webster dormitory. (Webster is the hidden secret on the campus.) Because of this opportunity in rm. 317 and hence a successful love life, this year has been the climax of my time spent at Montclair. Not even walks to the diner could touch this year in comparison. Living alone is the best experience I have ever had. Because of the freedom involved with this option, I have added yoga, oil painting, Chinese poetry, and Karma Sutra to my life, ultimately changing me into a completely different and content person.

Through these changes, I have realized a few things and want to now, publicly, say and leave them behind at MSU.

One item I have realized is humility. I realize I have hurt people without meaning to. Actually, I never had them in mind; I was very self absorbed. Insecurity and selfishness can whittle down common sense and make unneeded enemies. I want to apologize to those people who I could have avoided hurting had a thought before I acted. Balance is needed when walking and I will extend this into my actions as I continue to live my life.

There have been a few teachers I owe a thank-you to. Dr. Moore from the History department gave me the only piece of advice I am choosing to take with me. "There aren't any good writers, only good re-writers." I got a 'C' when I deserved it instead of my usual 'A'. I was lazy and no one bothered to tell me. The best advice is the one that is going to help you, not coddle your ego. Thank you Dr. Moore for teaching me.

Another teacher I owe a great deal to is Dr. Dell from the English department. When I approached him for an independent study, I did not realize how much he was giving up to do so. He gave me so much of his time, and taught me an enormous understanding of poetry. Most of all, he taught me discipline, focus, the integrity of language, and the value in respecting myself and my ideas. Underneath a very stoic and rigid exterior is a teacher who really cares enough not to make learning an easy process but rather, an arduous one. Only uphill are you forced to open your eyes and 'see' where you are going. A word to all incoming, bubble gum-sweet students-don't take Dell if you want to, 'sit around in a circle and hold hands and talk about how you feel about poetry'. Because he'll 'nail you to the wall'. However, if you do get caught in his classroom, you'll never be sorry. Thank you, thank you, thank you, Dr. Dell for being a teacher at MSU. I still would be bullshitting in a corner and not trying to even try to 'go through the wall' if it wasn't for you.

Kevin- your the one I love. You are my first love. Here's going into the future together.

To the Montclarion staff, you guys are a lot of fun. Good luck and kick ass to always get it right.

As far as everything else I have learned, I have nothing else to say that the dead can not say better.

"Two roads diverged and I, I took the one less traveled by / and that has made all the difference."-Frost

"To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."-Thoreau

"...I resound my BARBARIC YAWP..."-Whitman

"At the station of the metro / The apparition of the faces in the crowd / petals on a wet black bough."-Pound

"Sometimes I go about pitying myself while the wind carries me across the sky"-Chippewa REVIEW: Hair lets the love shine in

by Paul Dowd

Player’s production of Hair, to be presented May 12, 13 and 14 in the Amphitheater, should live up to its expectations. The musical features the talents of Andrea Caskey, Andrea Sprague, Arie Greenberg, Russell Maitland and a four-piece band consisting of Mark Sorrillo on guitar, Jason DePope on bass, Dan Pena on drums and Monica Lomax on keyboards.

The sixties musical has a very contemporary feel, with the songs that have messages and topics such as environmental concerns as in “Air,” war and true love in “I Believe in Love,” society’s norms and values in “Hair,” the promise of better things to come in “Aquarius” and the use of drugs in “LBJ” — all very relevant in today’s world.

The strength of the voices of Caskey and Sprague bring the entire production up even more. All the vocalists who take leads show good vocal range with the tight four-piece band. It takes a lot to duplicate a rock musical outdoors, but Players has managed to pull it off.

REVIEW: Chance Encounter rocks the Rat

by Kelly Schab

If you ever happen to spot Chance Encounter playing at the Rat or at a club near you, go in. Take a seat and listen. This local band plays rock ‘n’ roll and nothing but.

The band, comprised of guitarist John Mazzarella, drummer Mike McDermott and bassist John Willner are a threesome who play off each other so well that it seems as if they played together all their lives. This compatibility makes them a tight, well-rounded rock band.

In a small gig at the Rathskellar, Chance Encounter delighted their audience with mostly original songs, the only cover being “Mighty Turtle Head” by Joe Satriani.

Some of the standouts of the evening included “Inner Peace,” a faster than average ballad with an intertwining melody. The drum and bass duet was also good technically and McDermott’s drum solo was the highlight of the evening with the exception of the use of electronic drum pads that played sound effects. It seemed to be included because it was a “neat” toy to play with.

Mazzarella’s guitar work was well done, he has his basics down and knows how to take them to another level.

Chance Encounter’s influences include such rock staples as Rush, Yes, Joe Satriani and Steve Morse so one can imagine the guitar-powered music this band performs.

All in all, if you like music that lifts the spirit and makes you want to take a nice, long drive on an open road, Chance Encounter is the band for you.
Welcome, loyal readers, to the final installment of PROPHET B I G G for spring 1994! I'd like to thank all of my loyal readers for their continued support of the column.

I had planned on giving you readers a special treat as the final installment - a double interview with Jeremy Piven of the new film PCU and an interview with the Violent Femmes. But, due to technical difficulties beyond my control, nothing came out very well. So, you get one picture and some news. See ya in the fall!

The Crow will finally open tomorrow nation-wide. It stars the late Brandon Lee (Rapid Fire) and the popular Ernie Hudson (Ghostbusters, The Hand that Rocks the Cradle). After all the controversy involved with the death of Lee, the filmmakers insist they have a hit on their hands. That would be a fitting epitaph for such an up-and-coming star, like Brandon Lee.

In the same vein, actor Jim Carrey (Ace Ventura: Pet Detective) will portray the insane comic book character, The Mask, in a major film due at the end of July. It's the
continued on page 22

Lord of Raven's Peak
Catherine Coulter

I've never been an advocate of the "genre" and yet that is how most art and entertainment is sold to the public. Music, movies and books are all grouped in categories, their producers and publishers (and sometimes even their authors) never assuming that genres overlap. Catherine Coulter's Lord of Raven's Peak, a paperback currently in the top ten, is a case in point.

The type of book Coulter writes has been called "historical romance," but there are shades of other genres as well. Most prevalent of these other influences would have to be mystery. The book unfolds like a puzzle, a massive enigma which is both spellbinding and complex and yet gentle enough for the reader to completely grasp.

The story takes place in the 10th century in Norway. These are Viking times and the story centers on these men of long ago who we often stereotype as ruthless, vicious savages. In her novel, however, Coulter has attempted to show another side to these explorers - an intense, attractive, alluring, romantic side. This is done through the male protagonist Merrik, a Viking with heart. The story opens at a slave market where Merrik sees two young brothers being separated when one has been sold. The other clings to his brother, in complete and utter anguish over the possibility of continuing without him. Only that one brother isn't a boy, nor so young.

In the tradition of her strong female protagonists, Coulter creates Laren, an 18-year-old girl who protected her brother Tahy for two years partly by disguising herself as a boy. She did this mainly to prevent herself from being raped. All this occurs in the first 40 pages of a nearly 400 page book.

As the book winds on many more things are discovered, but many questions develop as well. Eventually Merrik and Laren fall in love with each other. Laren becomes a skald, the Viking equivalent of a troubadour. There is a murder. A seedy youth becomes the book's center-piece. Romance comprises about a dozen torrid love scenes. In this novel Coulter shows that what seems obvious to the eye often isn't. The wisdom of this truth makes it apparent when one considers some events in perspective.

-Cathy Wald

Cosmopolitan Greetings
Alan Ginsberg

Poet Allen Ginsberg has lived, to say the least, a full life. From his Jewish childhood in Paterson, New Jersey to his lifetime friendship with Jack Kerouac, William S. Burroughs and other forefathers of the Beat Generation, to being the acknowledged patron saint of the hippies and sexual outlaw, to his spiritual commitment as a Buddhist, Ginsberg has lived many lives.

Cosmopolitan Greetings is his latest collection of poems, spanning the years 1986 to 1992. These poems are some of his most powerful. I heard quite a few of these poems performed by Ginsberg when he did a reading at Essex County College in 1992.

Many of the poems included in this collection are very political. "Just Say No Calypso" expresses Ginsberg's anger toward the Persian Gulf War and the patriotic fervor of the time. The poem ends, "When they wave a yellow ribbon & an oily flag/Just say yes or they'll call you a fag."

"The Fifth International" is a parody of an old Communist Party song where Ginsberg writes such words as "Arise, ye prisoners of your mind-set/Arise ye Neurotics of the Earth/ For Ignorance Thunders Liberation/A sacred word's in birth."

continued on page 22

Have a great summer!
-from everyone at A&E
Another "Hair"-raising picture

This is it. I mean it this time. I’m really only going to stay one more year. Last year at this time, I said that this was my fifth and last year, but since the registrar’s office threw me a curveball, I’m coming back for one more year.

Yes, kiddies, that means another year of The Couch Potato Update.

I have to say that the past five years have been great, both at MSC/MSU and the Montclarion. Five years is a long time to do anything—date a girl, go to college, write a column—and it amazes me and makes me feel good that so many Montclarion readers recognize my unpronounceable last name and tell me that they enjoy my column. To every one of my readers I’ve seen in a mall, on campus, or in a bar, thanks. You make it worth it.

Also, I would like to thank all my editors, the Arts & Entertainment section and editors-in-chief that have put up with me—Lynn Cowan, Mike Walmsley, John Tibbetts, Kevin Colligan, George Calle, Barclay Minton, Eric Erb, Kelly Schab, and the rest of the newspaper staffs from 1989 to present. From the ACP Conventions in Washington, Denver, and Dallas to screaming bouts with the SGA over budgets, it’s been fun.

The load of life has also been made a little lighter by former MSC (it was MSC then) student and SGA Legislator Rob Silbernagel, now in his third year in the U.S. Army (God help us), George Wheelher, Sue Luckman, the former night crew of Adamo Medical Services, Paul Naklicki, Pat Dougherty, Kristen Marcusen, Audrey Regan, Jarrett Nolan, Keith Idec, Mike Frasco, Carl Chase, Jessica Bieri, Rich Kunze, Bev Masterson, Rob Campos, Luisa Carrizo, Helen Nebesni, Sam Rock, Walter Kulick, Vin Toscano, Tony Concepcion, Maggie & Agnes Kurzyla, Dano Olawski and the 1989-90 SGA Intramural Basketball Teams, everyone at CLUB and WMSC, the Englewood Volunteer Ambulance Corps, Traci Cummings (just for poking in and saying hi—I love that), Andrea Cuskey, Prophet Bigg, and Mary from Maintenance for listening to me rant and rave when I’m passed off.

Also, I want to thank all my parents, Crystal and George Olschewski for subsidizing my education and for just plain being my parents.

If I forgot anyone, don’t be mad. If you meant something to me, you know who you are!

So, this is what MSU looks like. I’d better get used to it, because I’m coming back for Round Six. I hope everyone can put up with me—Lynd Cowan, Mike Walmsley, John Tibbetts, Kevin Colligan, George Calle, Barclay Minton, Eric Erb, Kelly Schab, and the rest of the newspaper staffs from 1989 to present. From the ACP Conventions in Washington, Denver, and Dallas to screaming bouts with the SGA over budgets, it’s been fun.

The load of life has also been made a little lighter by former MSC (it was MSC then) student and SGA Legislator Rob Silbernagel, now in his third year in the U.S. Army (God help us), George Wheelher, Sue Luckman, the former night crew of Adamo Medical Services, Paul Naklicki, Pat Dougherty, Kristen Marcusen, Audrey Regan, Jarrett Nolan, Keith Idec, Mike Frasco, Carl Chase, Jessica Bieri, Rich Kunze, Bev Masterson, Rob Campos, Luisa Carrizo, Helen Nebesni, Sam Rock, Walter Kulick, Vin Toscano, Tony Concepcion, Maggie & Agnes Kurzyla, Dano Olawski and the 1989-90 SGA Intramural Basketball Teams, everyone at CLUB and WMSC, the Englewood Volunteer Ambulance Corps, Traci Cummings (just for poking in and saying hi—I love that), Andrea Cuskey, Prophet Bigg, and Mary from Maintenance for listening to me rant and rave when I’m passed off.

Also, I want to thank all my parents, Crystal and George Olschewski for subsidizing my education and for just plain being my parents.

If I forgot anyone, don’t be mad. If you meant something to me, you know who you are!

So, this is what MSU looks like. I’d better get used to it, because I’m coming back for Round Six. I hope everyone can put up with my ranting about Star Trek for one more year.

See you next semester.
"QUICK FAST CASH THIS FALL?"
With the high cost of college it paid to become a Nail Technician. I completed the manicuring course last summer. Now I attend college and work part time. Who would have thought I could do both.

"CAPRI DID, THEY BELIEVED IN ME!"
200 Hour MANICURE COURSE $995.00
registration fee included
Not valid with other offers or rebates
Classes Begin Mondays June 6th, July 11th, August 1st

Call the CAPRI HOTLINE 1-800 BE CAPRI
Clifton (201) 772-4610
Kenilworth (908) 964-1330
Bricstown (908) 920-3000
Paramus (201) 599-0880
Raritan (908) 526-4992

Tell Me More!
Name ___________________________
Address ___________________________
City __________________ State ______ Zip ______
Phone ___________________________
Mail to: Capri Institute • 615 Winters Ave. • Paramus, NJ 07652
To all the graduating editorial staff,
Take me with you! Seriously, congratulations, good luck and remember only the good times - who cares about all this stress now that it's over with? Take me with you!!!

Fingers

Chrysler, Thanks for all the good times and you will visit me next year!
Love, Kelly

Cruisty, I had a great time. Thanks for the invite.
Lady in Red

Jody,
Summer '94, Point Pleasant, Parties, etc. We are there. I want to go home!! I Love You
Mama

Michelle, We still need to talk more and we better get together over the summer. I Love U Man!!

Mara (101),
You freakin' I Love U Man! I'll miss all your on-target impersonations and sarcastic faces. You better get together over the summer. I Love U

Steph (AIX),
Good luck I'll miss you. You're simply the best!!! I Love U!!!

Steph (AIX),

Good luck! I'll miss you. You're simply the best!!! I Love U!!!

Keith,
I'll miss all our on-target impersonations and sarcastic faces. You better visit so you can laugh at all of us fool!!!

Love, Kelly

Jen D. (Sigma), I told you I would hook you up! Have faith in me! I love you
Stacy

Sue,
Even though I never see you, you're a great roommate! I'll keep in touch, keep busy and keep smiling. I expect many letters from you this summer, or else
Love, Kelly

Jen D. (Sigma), Let's do it again! How about Saturday?
Love, Stacy

Cheyenne,
Stop kisssing the pink and green butt. You really want to be a pink and green bubbly don't you?
From, I hate pink and green

Kevin,
Look, Cooligan, don't forget all your loyal subjects when you become Emperor! I'll see you in Ireland. Maybe I'll live in a castle in your neighborhood.
Love, Kelly

We didn't even drink it and we won -SDT

Ain't nuttin' wrong with a lil' bump n grind. It ain't yours, she ain't mine, but fool I gotta mine and I don't care if u get yours.
It's all good.
The Dog Pound

To "Snappin'"

Shonda,
I wonder can I see you if I turn off all the lights.
From, Midnight

Kalaaha,
How does it feel to have Mr. Ed's cousin for a roommate?
From, the stable

John (TKE),
Thank for a great weekend! Sorry again about Friday night. I'll have to make it up to you!
Love, Lisa

Tootsee Pop,
I need my wookie back to keep me warm when I look for that star at night.
-Tootsee Roll

Brian,
Tell the person that wrote you the personal from last week to kiss your --- I Love, Friend

Jen D. (Sigma),
Anything goes in the Village! When you have the will and desire, you can do ANYTHING!

Direct,
This is it! One last marguerita before you're gone?
-Rende

Jenabu,
Thanks for last night but don't be disappointed because it's not the size of the gun but how well you shoot it.
Robin Charisse,
You two are not the double mint twins. It's more like Pinky and the Brain from Warner Bros. cartoons.
Love, Frank

Nisa,
You go girl! Don't let what people say bother you!
Secret Admirer

Dan & Nooch,
Stop smoking so much weed.
M&M

Emily (Tri Sig),
I'm thinking you need some tequila...wait a minute, I thought you already had some
-Negative Times
Love, Lynn (D Phi E)

Reagan,
It's almost time for what you been waiting for. Wait no more.
Love, Heatled Passion

Cha Cha (AKPsi),
You are a wonderful person! Thanks for always listening to me. We will definitely have to hang out this summer!
Love, Bits

To the new E-Board of AKPsi,
Good luck next year! You guys will do a great job.
Love, The brothers of AKPsi

Steve Khalaf,
You did a great job with the banquet and SGA - Good luck to you in the future!

Sam Batraki,
We will miss seeing you around! Good luck to you in everything you do!

Jeff,
Here's your personal: Next time don't worry about your girlfriend.
-Merri

Goodbye MSUI
Class of '94

Perry: Hmmmml-
You are hot and the hottest in the building. -The Fan Club

Ouch (AKPsi),
It's been a long time since I called you that - but thanks for being one of my bestest friends!
Love, Guess Who

Carol (105C),
Although you won't be my neighbor - you'll still be close, so you better keep in touch! I'm glad you're getting better and I always remember the fun we had in 105C!
Love, your ex-roomie

Sasha (AKPsi),
You'll regret the day I ever learned that!
Love, You-know-who!

Cappucino (AKPsi),
I love you! I think this year has brought us even closer - I hope we always stay this way!
Love, Bits

Maud Hatter (AKPsi),
You are a great friend and I love you! Thanks for all our talks!
Love, your grateful Big

Bert and Ernie (AKPsi),
I expect my brownies on or about May 25th!

Goodwrench (AKPsi), Congratulations and good luck as VP external - you'll do a great job!
Love, your Big
WHAT I WOULD REALLY LOVE FOR GRADUATION IS...

CLASSIFIEDS

THURSDAY, MAY 12, 1994

SALES TRAINEES

As a leader in the telephone and computer industry, Computel has been providing its customers with innovative voice and data solutions for more than 15 years. We are seeking ambitious, enthusiastic full-time sales trainees who want to become seasoned sales professionals.

The ideal candidate has a BS or BA degree with business experience in sales or marketing. A GPA of 3.0 or greater is preferred. Experience with DOS, Windows, MS Word, Lotus 1-2-3, and DataEase is an added bonus. You must be assertive, confident in your relationship building skills, and have a good sense of humor.

This entry level position has a solid career path along with a comprehensive training program. You will earn a substantial base salary plus quarterly bonuses with excellent benefits. Please fax (201-575-8723) or send your resume which must include salary requirements to:

COMPUTEL COMMUNICATIONS SYSTEMS, INC.

ATTN: Human Resources

170 Changebridge Road, Unit D5-1

Montville, New Jersey 07045

An equal opportunity employer.

WANTED: COLLEGE STUDENTS

PART-TIME to FULL-TIME

PUT MONEY IN YOUR POCKET NEXT WEEK, NEXT MONTH, NEXT YEAR AND EVERY YEAR

NetMark International is looking for people who can start part-time immediately and full-time in the summer. Successful candidates can return to part-time next fall and full-time next summer. You may never need to look for a job when you graduate!

- Earn Bonuses and a Trip for Two!
  - NetMark International award programs are available to every individual, not just a select few. Awards range from monthly bonus checks to a Trip for Two.
  - Income and bonuses commensurate with performance!

Part-time hours are available to fit your present schedule. Interviews can be arranged at a location near campus. For an appointment, call:

NETMARK INTERNATIONAL

(201) 882-0048
Amira,
By the way you move you can be knocking down buildings...you knock me down.
-A fanatic

Dennis,
What a workout. It really shows! Keep it up.
-Your wild dreamer

Columbian Dave,
Take off that cap and let the air run through your sexy hair.
-A Rat admirer

Walko,
I'm glad you took that advice. Now that you have a life, get ready for a great time this weekend. It's gonna be your best formal yet!
-Love, Cheetah

Reggie (SIGMA),
Let's unite our fire together and burn Blanton Hall down.
-Love, Heated Passion

Paola,
You're just as wonderful as your sister! Thanks for listening when I needed someone!
-Love, Chantelle

Jodi (AKPSP),
Thank you for all your help! I promise to go to class next week... Thanks for all the smiles you have given me - I love you and I'll miss you!
-Love, Chantelle

Calle,
I'll always love you.
-Meno

Caruso (SIGMA),
I'm watching over you! Nobody messes with my tree or they'll have to deal with me! I love you.
-Your little, Jen

Kelly,
It's been a lot of fun. You know I'll come back to visit. Keep up the awesome A&E section.
-Keith

Mick,
Send me some kiwi when you get back to Australia. Take care.
-Keith

JJO'S,
You are the best F*$$ing humor columnist that the 'Montclairon' has ever seen. You are God.
-JJO'S

To Theta Xi:
When I make the pancakes, I hereby invite all of you to dance with them.
Y.I.T.B: Spock.

Hey Don Fagioli, start my car! -Ahab

Oh I heard you're going to the semi-formal with Costa...you know you're going to get screwed tonight...don't you??

Caruso, you know I'm not one for mushy stuff, but it's been a long road, and overall a pleasurable and memorable one. I'm glad we've gone through it together.
-Skeeter

Kevin and Christina,
Where would I have been without the cheerfulness and wit of my favorite couple?
Good Luck,
Keith

Hinck,
Keep your head up. Your effort hasn't gone unnoticed nor unappreciated. Next year could be huge and you should be a major part of it. Hope you stick with it.
Brian,
I've taught you well. Kick ass.
-Keith

Where would I have been without the cheerfulness and wit of my favorite couple?
Good Luck,
Keith

Where would I have been without the cheerfulness and wit of my favorite couple?
Good Luck,
Keith

Dear Missy,
I'm sorry I can't be with you. If the right person comes along I might miss her.
Love, AM

Alicia,
Sunday B-B-Q's! When? Anyway, take a cold shower...Steve will be there tomorrow! Unfortunately, so will Nanette and Mikel.
Love, Pam

George,
I bet your camera is not the only thing you know how to handle. I'll be interested in more!
-Your secret "A"dmirer

Tamara (Webster Hall),
Mad Thursday in the house. Let's get together again for a water fight with Tia.
Love, Wet M

Stacy (Sigma),
Hmmm....The stars or mice? I want mice! Anything goes in the village, especially when you have to go to the bathroom. Thanks for an awesome Friday! I love ya, Jen (Sigma)

Rumpleminze-
I can't say I didn't try...maybe in another life?
-the champ.

Jilly (Sigma),
I owe you one. Congratulations (NOT) Love, Jen (Sigma)

Jana (Sigma),
Your the best little sister, you girly, girl
Love, "Big"

Alicia (Big),
Hey roomie! I can't wait for this summer. We are gonna have a blast! I love you.
Love, your Little, Lisa

Vonya (Sigma Gamma Rho),
You need to stop worrying about my business. Don't your sorry butt have anything else better to do?
Love, E

To the brother of Kappa Alpha Psi,
Keep the crimson and cream family alive.
Love, K-Diamond

Tia/Abul (Blanton Hall),

What do you guys think? It is funny or what?
Love, Leo

Jen V. (Tri Sig),
Good luck on Tuesday Littles! I know you'll do great!
Love, your Big, Kne ZX63

Creeping menace...creeping menace...creeping menace...Creeping MENACE!!! Followed by:

Crippled menace...crippled menace...crippled menace...CRIPPLED MENACE!!! Followed by:

Puking menace...puking menace...puking menace...PUKING MENACE!!! Followed by:

Sleeping menace...sleeping menace...sleeping menace...SLEEPING MENACE!!! - GM 45

"In my day, I smoked a looooooooot of poooooooooot"

Michele
maybe a scam or two wouldn't hurt...Too intense

Who stole my bowl from the apitheatre??????

Vikki dear,
It's been far to long in hell. Time to go to the beach.
Alicia

Big Mick,
It's been fun. Don't forget how to spell
my name,
Me

A great big personal to the Montclarion staff, helpers and readers. Thanks for a really good year, best wishes to the next generation, and remember-- don't complain if you don't like the paper, contribute!
The Montclarion team, 1994

Boo-Boo-
No more late nite Wednesdays...I swear this time it's true!
Pee-pee head

Sigma,
Here's to a great year this year! Next year is going to be even better! I love you guys. Have a great summer!
Love ya, Lisa

Kevin and Keith,
I'll miss you two old goats... And then there was one.
-Calle

Chris and Mick,
You truly were the glue that held it all together.
-Calle

To the 1993-94 Montclarion staff,
See y'all in New Orleans!
Love Always "the Chief"

It's 10 PM. You've crammed for finals all week. Took two today. And now you've got to pack an entire semester's worth of Philosophy into one take-home exam, in one night.
But how do you stay awake when you're totally wiped? Revive with Vivarin. Safe as coffee, Vivarin helps keep you awake and mentally alert for hours.
So when you have pen in hand, but sleep on the brain, make it a Vivarin night!
Right now, our personal word processors come with extra characters.

For a limited time, when you buy a Canon StarWriter™ personal word processor, you get three free clip disks filled with more than 200 clip art illustrations, holiday art and borders which you can use for all your very serious projects (yeah, right).

But, the StarWriter is perfect for producing more impressive class assignments, too. It has 5 built-in fonts. And with Canon's patented non-impact BubbleJet™ printing, the StarWriter prints on plain paper with laser-like quality while hardly making a sound.

What's more, the StarWriter 85 and 70 even import DOS documents from a PC computer.

Check into Canon's StarWriter today. And take advantage of the free clip art offer by using this coupon. For more information, call 1-800-421-HOP.

Sheet feeder standard on StarWriter 85, optional on StarWriter 70 and StarWriter 60.

FREE clip art disks worth $40.

In get three free StarWriter clip art disks, complete all the information below and mail the completed form along with the original StarWriter sales receipt for the StarWriter models 60, 70 or 85 dated between March 1, 1994 and May 31, 1994 and the UPC code from the top of the box to: Canon StarWriter Clip Art Giveaway, PO Box 946, Farmingdale, NY 11735-9466.

Form must be postmarked and received no later than June 14, 1994. Forms void only when accompanied by required documentation. Please allow 8-10 weeks for delivery. For location nearest you, call 1-800-421-HOP.

Canon

FREE room and board with private bathroom in Montclair home in exchange for 20 hours of housework/babysitting per week. Flexible hours - evenings, weekends. Call 783-5966.

Looking for non-smoking female to share a room, $55/week (all utilities included). Walking distance from MSU. Call Beatrice 509-1925.

Apt. Rental - 5 mns, 2bdr, end. porch. Semi storage, inky hook-ups, driveway and yard, quiet dead end only 3+ miles to MSU. $850/mo plus utls. Avail June 1. West Paterson. 778-8342.

RESUMES - $25 w/10 copies. Professionally typed on computer. Writing and editing assistance available. Cover letter/faxing extra charge. (201) 779-5196.

TYPING - Professionally done on computer. $3/page. Title page/bibliography NO CHARGE. (201) 779-5169.

MAC LC Computer and Laser Printer combo (4MB RAM/80 MB MDI 300 DPI). MS DOS compatible and expandable. All hardware, books, software incl. (Quark, Mac D, Pagemaker, Freehand, Photoshop, Superpaint, Word, Works, 250 Fonts...) Exc. cond. $1600. 429-8932 or 743-9255.

Young lady to care for retarded adult in my home - Cedar Grove. 4 hours per day. June 20 - July 4 @ $7.00 per hour. Own transportation. 763-4870.

Babysitter needed 2 mornings per week in my Verona home. Hours and days are flexible. Assistance needed immediately and continuing through the summer. $5/hour. Please call 857-1204.

Babysitter wanted to help out with our six year old. Part-time work this summer and/or fall. Driver's license. Please call Susan (212) 677-8895.

EXPERIENCED SITTER WANTED PART-TIME - For 1yr old boy. Sat. nights; some Sundays, weeknights, and days, as needed. Refs required. Call 744-3856.

Summer Work. Driver/delivery for Party Rental store. Full or part time. Call 575-8356.
It came from left field

Sean Daily

The official piñata of the Senior Bash

Backroom Society

Snapshots

Parag Joshi

The Perils of Cafeteria Food

Mike O'Leary

those who can't do anything work for Residents Life

What to do in case of Nuclear Attack

Another near apocalyptic piece of advice by John J. O'Sullivan

"Whhhhhhhhhhhhh..." The sirens scream their cautionary tale, the radio and the TV are playing that annoying "Emergency Broadcast System" tone, along with official news and instructions. Face it bub, you're about to become human toast and you're starting to feel those survival instincts kick in. But, as soon as those survival instincts hit, so do those fear instincts. You're excreting not bricks but the whole bloody buildings! As all of these emotions hit you, your brain screams as it tries to figure out the obvious question:

"WHAT THE HELL AM I GOING TO DO?????"

Don't worry, fair warrior! Since I am such a great and wonderful person, as well as a "Certified Apocalyptic Counselor," I will give you a... (surprise!)... list of things you can do to make your life slightly better during these dire hours that have hit you like the odor of a 5-week-old egg sandwich!

1) Call up your favorite 900 number. Call Santa, your "psychic friend," a party-line, or your favorite Playboy Bunny. Of course you may tie up the already busy phone lines, but HEY; you won't have to pay your phone bill. Chances are that there won't even be any phone lines left after the big one hits!

2) IMPORTANT! If you are going into your underground shelter, here is a list (yes, another list) of things you should bring:

   a) 3,594,589,435 packages of Pez.
   b) Lots and lots of batteries for all of those hand-held video games.
   c) Canned food... wait... I take that back; go to Mario's Pizzeria and get some take out! Might as well eat some good Italian food while you're still alive.
   d) Clean underwear.
   e) All of your old. (Insert ego-trip here.)
   f) A TV, so you can watch the Animaniacs as the H-Bomb explodes.
   g) A whole bunch of other stuff.
   h) Another important tip: Don't even try to escape from the explosion. It will look embarrassing when scavengers see your skeleton in your car. Just imagine: Mutant Radiactive Scavengers laughing at your bony remains; how embarrassing! Embarrassment can be worse than death sometimes.
   i) Tell your boss to go to Hell; there's no way that you're going to come in for work TODAY! If he/she starts to complain, remind him/her that you are in the middle of a DAMN NUCLEAR HOLOCAUST!!!!!!! Maybe they'll understand.
   j) Kneel under a table, put your head between your legs and KISS YOUR ASS GOOD-BYE!!!

So remember, there's no excuse for not being prepared in the case of a nuclear holocaust. As this article closes, remember this final tip: it could save your life; if it glows, for God's sake DON'T EAT IT!!

Rowan ousts MSU from NJAC tourney on iffy call

by Keith A. Idee

As they boarded the team bus and proceeded to head home from Glassboro this past Saturday, the MSU Red Hawks couldn't help but feel slighted.

Softball

And it wasn't that they lost the two of their three games in the NJAC tournament, it was the way they lost the last one.

The game that left MSU (28-17, 2-6 NJAC) smarting was the one in which it was bounced from the double-elimination tournament by host Rowan College (33-7, 7-1), 2-1. The Red Hawks had defeated Kean College, 23-7, and Lebanon (33-7, 7-1), 2-1. The Red Hawks started the season at 1-5.

The tough loss left the Red Hawks wondering what they would have to do to beat Rowan, which had defeated MSU in all three head-to-head meetings this season.

"For a batter, it was a pitch that was too close to take," said Red Hawks' head coach Anita Kubicka. "For an umpire it was a pitch that was too close home the winning run. Baron had struck Musey out in their four previous meetings this year. The tough loss left the Red Hawks wondering what they would have to do to beat Rowan, which has defeated MSU in all three head-to-head meetings this season.

"For a batter, it was a pitch that was too close to take," said Red Hawks' head coach Anita Kubicka. "For an umpire it was a pitch that was too close home the winning run. Baron had struck Musey out in their four previous meetings this year. The tough loss left the Red Hawks wondering what they would have to do to beat Rowan, which has defeated MSU in all three head-to-head meetings this season.

Softball primed to make noise in NCAA's

It's simply described as what they put in all of the hard work for. And it starts this Friday at Rowan College in Glassboro for the MSU softball team.

"It" is the NCAA Division III softball tournament, the one that the Red Hawks would love to ultimately be crowned kings of. They'll get their chance when they take on NJAC rival William Paterson in the first round of the Mid-Atlantic Regional at 10 a.m.

Rowan, the No. 5 team in the most recent Longstreth/NCSA Division III Top 25, knocked MSU out of the conference tournament and went on to win it and received the top seed in the region. MSU - ranked 11th nationally - was awarded the second seed, resulting in its matchup with the third-seeded Pioneers, ranked No. 16. The Profs will play 18th-ranked Buffalo State at noon.

I'm feeling cautiously optimistic about the Regionals," said MSU head coach Anita Kubicka. "I've waited a whole year to get back here after we lost last season. Personally, I'm pumped up for it.

MSU hopes to get another crack at Rowan, but knows that William Paterson will not go away quietly.

"(William Paterson) has been able to beat some teams that we haven't been able to beat," Kubicka said, "so we can't look ahead."

Junior second baseman Jenn Flinn, who has been swinging one of the hottest bats in Division III, likes MSU's chances in the NCAA's.

"I think we have a good chance to win the Regionals," Flinn said. "We have a better shot than last year. And I think getting Trenton out of our region will help."

The Lions, top-ranked in Division III, were placed in the Central Region and will face No. 10 Messiah at 11 a.m. on Friday in Meadville, Pa. The losers of Games 1 and 2 in the Mid-Atlantic will meet at 2 p.m. and the winners of the two games are scheduled to clash at 4 p.m.

Overall, 24 teams make the tournament (divided into six four-team regions), with the survivors advancing to the Championship Series at the James I. Moyer Sports Complex in Salem, Va.

Inexperienced Red Hawks make the grade in rebuilding season

by Glenn Steinberg

For the MSU men's tennis team, this was a season of rebuilding.

Equipped with a new head coach and only three returning players from last season, this year was one to start anew while trying to build for the future.

Men's Tennis

First year head coach Robin Curcuru, currently a graduate student at MSU and also a graduate of the University of Richmond where she played Division I tennis, guided the Red Hawks to a 6-7 record this year.

"I was very happy with the chemistry of this team," said Curcuru. "Next year should be good because everyone will come back with a year's experience and they'll only get better."

MSU's record was more impressive than it appears, considering the team started the season at 1-5.

"Everyone was very supportive of one another and that was important because we started the year the way we did," added Curcuru.

One of this year's star players was freshman Pete Beckus (10-5). Beckus, who won the NJAC Men's third singles championship, believes that things went well considering all of the new players on the roster and a new coach.

"Considering it being her first year as a coach, the kids on the team showed great respect and admiration towards her," said Beckus.

His freshman teammate, Michael Pisano (6-7), agreed that the transition was a smooth one for MSU.

"I think our coach did a great job, considering she came into a tough position with only three players returning from last year," Pisano said.

The three returning players were Dan Kanowith (7-8), Doug Fede (4-9) and Craig O'Connell (8-7).

According to Beckus, who paced the team with 154 games won and 20 sets won, he was pleased with his overall performance as well as the team's, though he thinks next year should be better because they are not losing any players to graduation.

"Winning first place at the NJAC tournament was a very nice way to cap off my freshman year," said Beckus.

And now they've got something to build upon.
Pitching, Red Hawks peaking at the perfect time

Winners of eight straight ride hot streak into conference tournament

by Brian Falzarano

They're ready to make their run - their post-season run, that is.

And MSU could not have picked a better time to be playing some of their best baseball of the season. After winning eight in a row, they are justifiably optimistic upon entering the NJAC Playoffs beginning Friday at Pittser Field.

Baseball

against William Paterson at 3:30 p.m.

MSU's (26-8, 13-3 NJAC) pitching was especially effective, recording several quality outings during the past week. Most recently, the Red Hawks sent 11 batters to the plate in the first inning, scoring six runs on their way to a 16-7 thashing of the College of Staten Island on Tuesday.

Ralph Yezza had a fine game for MSU, going 3-for-5 with four RBI, including his ninth going 3-for-5 with two triples, a double and an home run, his third in as many games.

Junior Keith Glauber (5-2) pitched well, going into the eighth inning in a 14-9 win over Eastern Connecticut on Sunday. Every MSU starter had at least one hit. Mike Micucci had three hits and three RBI for the Red Hawks, while John Pallino hit a three-run homer in the sixth, giving the No. 14-ranked Red Hawks the lead for good.

On the previous day, T.J. Costello (4-0) turned in a prime-time outing, going 7 and 2/3 innings in downing the Warner Hawks.

MSU to face nemesis WPC in first round of NJAC's

The journey to the NJAC title must go through Trenton State. However, the Red Hawks will encounter a familiar foe - block en route to their conference championship quest - William Paterson.

These long-time foes will go toe-to-toe with one another yet again at Pittser Field on Friday at 3:30 p.m.

Although they have swept the Pioneers twice, the Red Hawks are confident. They are led by Keith Van Ness, who is fourth in the NJAC with a .419 batting average. He is also the NJAC leader with 52 RBI and is tied for third with eight home runs. Outfielders Paul Bumbaco and Brian Kelly also add offensive clout the conference's No. 2 hitting team.

On the mound, the Pioneers will rely on the arms of Beh Slomkowski and Matt Ramagl. Slomkowski, a freshman, is 5-2 with a 3.56 ERA in seven starts.

Winning in the first round is crucial for the Red Hawks. Last year, they lost to Rowan (3-2 in 11 innings). By losing, they put themselves in the loser's bracket of the tournament, forcing them to win three games just to get to the conference championship game. Thus, it increased the amount of work needed to win the NJAC championship and an automatic NCAA bid.

"You've got to win the first round game so you can advance in the tournament," Schoenig said. "If you don't, it makes it very difficult."

Sophomore John Carlon, who Schoenig has dubbed his number one guy, will get the ball.

Ralph Yezza, who has done well at second base, offered his opinion on the playoffs. "If I were a bettor, I would put my money on us," said Yezza. "It's a good bet."

Van Ness ends MSU career as Knickerbocker Player of the Year

by Maureen K. McLeer

Keith Van Ness was named the Knickerbocker Conference Player of the Year and to the NJSSA Men's Lacrosse All-Star Team on Monday, capping off a stellar four-year career as a Red Hawk.

Lacrosse

Van Ness finished his career at MSU by leading a solid team effort as the Red Hawks beat the University of Scranton in a make-up game on Tuesday, 17-9, for their 12th win in a row.

"I'm obviously upset to see my career at MSU come to an end, but to look back on the last four years, I'm very happy to have been part of such a great team," said the Montville native.

Up only 9-6 at halftime, the Red Hawks outscored Scranton 8-3 in the second half to take control of the game.

Freshman Frank Moran sparked MSU (12-1, 10-0 Knickerbocker Conference) with four goals and an assist, while Matt Klank and Neil Blaney each added a hat trick.

But the afternoon belonged to the Van Ness brothers. Freshman Dan had one of his finest games yet, showing the form that helped him earn a spot on the NJSSA Men's Lacrosse All-Star team, by coming up with several clutch saves throughout the game.

"The average family has one-and-a-half kids in the U.S. I'm glad Mr. and Mrs. Van Ness didn't stop until they hit three," said MSU coach Doug Alsforsom, in reference to Keith, Dan and Bill, who graduated two years ago.

"I'm proud of the job we did this year and the last three years," said Keith. "I just love to play and I'll miss playing at Montclair."

You get the feeling that MSU lacrosse will miss him even more.
Yezza’s return to roots boosts MSU

by Brian Falzarano

One could call it a return to what is familiar. A return as suitable and comfortable as a warm blanket after getting soaked in the rain.

For Ralph Yezza, there was nothing wet about him moving from the outfield back to his high school position of third base. On the other hand, it has helped make the Red Hawks red hot, as they have won 15 of their last 16 games.

"Without him moving to third base, we’re not 26-8 right now," said Norm Schoenig, MSU coach.

That just might be true. After Ryan Bowe, a freshman third baseman, went down with an injury, Yezza decided to try and play the hot corner again.

"I remember playing third base back in high school and how much fun it was," said Yezza, who played the position at Indian Hills High School in his hometown of Oakland. "I wanted to give it another shot and see if I still had it in me."

It is a common perception by many that adjusting to a new position should deter an individual’s progress. In Yezza’s case, it may have helped him. Last week he was hitting .500. This year, he is at or near the top in nearly all of the categories.

Not only that, but he has not played badly at his old position, although he said with a laugh, "High school hitters and college hitters are a lot different.”

He has taken his lumps at his “new” position, making his share of errors, including one which enabled Rutgers-Camden to eventually defeat the Red Hawks.

However, one can gain more insight into what kind of a person Yezza is by listening to his attitude and approach to things.

“Personally, as an individual, you’ve got to want every ground ball,” said the junior Physical Education major. “You can’t play scared. You’ve got to play any sport, not just baseball, aggressively or you’re not going to make it. That goes for life, too.”

He is an even keel, yet plays with a determination and intensity that is admired by even the closest of viewers.

“The big part of Ralph’s success,” said roommate and teammate Chris Rampone, “is he could get five hits, hit two home runs, have seven RBI, and he would go home and it doesn’t bother him. He’s probably the most level-headed kid I’ve seen.”

Yezza agrees that his mentality has helped him succeed in baseball. “In baseball, you can’t think about what you’ve done, you’ve got to think about what you’re going to do.”

MSU coach Norm Schoenig credits Yezza’s move to the hot corner for their 26-8 record.

The big part of Ralph’s success,

For him, that should not be a problem.

Flinn, Kuchinski, O’Meara named to All-NJAC softball

For the second straight season, three MSU softball players were named to the NJAC Division A All-Conference team.

Jenn Flinn and Kristi Kuchinski were both repeat performers, while Keri O’Meara made the squad for the first time.

Flinn, a junior second baseman from Leonia, was a key to MSU’s success, knocking home 49 runs, belting three home runs and hitting at a .438 clip.

MSU head coach Anita Kubicka was not surprised by the results that the three players produced.

“In the beginning of the season, we projected those three players as the ones who would get the job done offensively for us,” said Kubicka. “After starting slow, Jenn came around. Kristi and Keri have been steady all year.”

— Keith A. Idec

Yezza’s return to roots boosts MSU

by Brian Falzarano

One could call it a return to what is familiar. A return as suitable and comfortable as a warm blanket after getting soaked in the rain.

For Ralph Yezza, there was nothing wet about him moving from the outfield back to his high school position of third base. On the other hand, it has helped make the Red Hawks red hot, as they have won 15 of their last 16 games.

"Without him moving to third base, we’re not 26-8 right now," said Norm Schoenig, MSU coach.

That just might be true. After Ryan Bowe, a freshman third baseman, went down with an injury, Yezza decided to try and play the hot corner again.

"I remember playing third base back in high school and how much fun it was," said Yezza, who played the position at Indian Hills High School in his hometown of Oakland. "I wanted to give it another shot and see if I still had it in me."

It is a common perception by many that adjusting to a new position should deter an individual’s progress. In Yezza’s case, it may have helped him. Last week he was hitting .500. This year, he is at or near the top in nearly all of the categories.

Not only that, but he has not played badly at his old position, although he said with a laugh, "High school hitters and college hitters are a lot different.”

He has taken his lumps at his “new” position, making his share of errors, including one which enabled Rutgers-Camden to eventually defeat the Red Hawks.

However, one can gain more insight into what kind of a person Yezza is by listening to his attitude and approach to things.

“Personally, as an individual, you’ve got to want every ground ball,” said the junior Physical Education major. “You can’t play scared. You’ve got to play any sport, not just baseball, aggressively or you’re not going to make it. That goes for life, too.”

He is an even keel, yet plays with a determination and intensity that is admired by even the closest of viewers.

“The big part of Ralph’s success,” said roommate and teammate Chris Rampone, “is he could get five hits, hit two home runs, have seven RBI, and he would go home and it doesn’t bother him. He’s probably the most level-headed kid I’ve seen.”

Yezza agrees that his mentality has helped him succeed in baseball. “In baseball, you can’t think about what you’ve done, you’ve got to think about what you’re going to do.”

MSU coach Norm Schoenig credits Yezza’s move to the hot corner for their 26-8 record.

The big part of Ralph’s success,

For him, that should not be a problem.

Flinn, Kuchinski, O’Meara named to All-NJAC softball

For the second straight season, three MSU softball players were named to the NJAC Division A All-Conference team.

Jenn Flinn and Kristi Kuchinski were both repeat performers, while Keri O’Meara made the squad for the first time.

Flinn, a junior second baseman from Leonia, was a key to MSU’s success, knocking home 49 runs, belting three home runs and hitting at a .438 clip.

MSU head coach Anita Kubicka was not surprised by the results that the three players produced.

“In the beginning of the season, we projected those three players as the ones who would get the job done offensively for us,” said Kubicka. “After starting slow, Jenn came around. Kristi and Keri have been steady all year.”

— Keith A. Idec

Flinn, Kuchinski, O’Meara named to All-NJAC softball

For the second straight season, three MSU softball players were named to the NJAC Division A All-Conference team.

Jenn Flinn and Kristi Kuchinski were both repeat performers, while Keri O’Meara made the squad for the first time.

Flinn, a junior second baseman from Leonia, was a key to MSU’s success, knocking home 49 runs, belting three home runs and hitting at a .438 clip.

MSU head coach Anita Kubicka was not surprised by the results that the three players produced.

“In the beginning of the season, we projected those three players as the ones who would get the job done offensively for us,” said Kubicka. “After starting slow, Jenn came around. Kristi and Keri have been steady all year.”

— Keith A. Idec

Yezza’s return to roots boosts MSU

by Brian Falzarano

One could call it a return to what is familiar. A return as suitable and comfortable as a warm blanket after getting soaked in the rain.

For Ralph Yezza, there was nothing wet about him moving from the outfield back to his high school position of third base. On the other hand, it has helped make the Red Hawks red hot, as they have won 15 of their last 16 games.

"Without him moving to third base, we’re not 26-8 right now," said Norm Schoenig, MSU coach.

That just might be true. After Ryan Bowe, a freshman third baseman, went down with an injury, Yezza decided to try and play the hot corner again.

"I remember playing third base back in high school and how much fun it was," said Yezza, who played the position at Indian Hills High School in his hometown of Oakland. "I wanted to give it another shot and see if I still had it in me."

It is a common perception by many that adjusting to a new position should deter an individual’s progress. In Yezza’s case, it may have helped him. Last week he was hitting .500. This year, he is at or near the top in nearly all of the categories.

Not only that, but he has not played badly at his old position, although he said with a laugh, "High school hitters and college hitters are a lot different.”

He has taken his lumps at his “new” position, making his share of errors, including one which enabled Rutgers-Camden to eventually defeat the Red Hawks.

However, one can gain more insight into what kind of a person Yezza is by listening to his attitude and approach to things.

“Personally, as an individual, you’ve got to want every ground ball,” said the junior Physical Education major. “You can’t play scared. You’ve got to play any sport, not just baseball, aggressively or you’re not going to make it. That goes for life, too.”

He is an even keel, yet plays with a determination and intensity that is admired by even the closest of viewers.

“The big part of Ralph’s success,” said roommate and teammate Chris Rampone, “is he could get five hits, hit two home runs, have seven RBI, and he would go home and it doesn’t bother him. He’s probably the most level-headed kid I’ve seen.”

Yezza agrees that his mentality has helped him succeed in baseball. “In baseball, you can’t think about what you’ve done, you’ve got to think about what you’re going to do.”

MSU coach Norm Schoenig credits Yezza’s move to the hot corner for their 26-8 record.

The big part of Ralph’s success,

For him, that should not be a problem.

Flinn, Kuchinski, O’Meara named to All-NJAC softball

For the second straight season, three MSU softball players were named to the NJAC Division A All-Conference team.

Jenn Flinn and Kristi Kuchinski were both repeat performers, while Keri O’Meara made the squad for the first time.

Flinn, a junior second baseman from Leonia, was a key to MSU’s success, knocking home 49 runs, belting three home runs and hitting at a .438 clip.

MSU head coach Anita Kubicka was not surprised by the results that the three players produced.

“In the beginning of the season, we projected those three players as the ones who would get the job done offensively for us,” said Kubicka. “After starting slow, Jenn came around. Kristi and Keri have been steady all year.”

— Keith A. Idec
Now that he’s got three strikes against him, it’s time for Julio Cesar Chavez to step out of the batter’s box.

No more $40 pay-per-views. No more hype. He’s officially a fraud, and now he’s been to boot.

The first strike was a sharp curve ball in the form of his questionable (at the very least) win over Meldrick Taylor three years ago. Call it a coincidence that referee Richard Steele stepped in to stop the fight with Taylor ahead and just a few ticks left in the final round. His justifiable reputation at the time as the “best fighter pound-for-pound in the world” carried Chavez through that round and it resulted in Chavez regaining his WBC junior welterweight title.

Ringside physician Flip Homansky said Chavez could have continued fighting. The cut he sustained was bad, but not that bad. Chavez decided he didn’t want pursue what he started and what Randall was about to finish. Sounds like someone who deserved a loss.

Not in the twisted world of boxing, though. He conveniently won again via an absurd judgement.

Although it was a tough call due to the selection, this was the biggest miscarriage of justice (ode to Gorilla Monsoon) to involve Chavez yet.

He missed so bad, Chavez flung the bat into the opposing team’s dugout on this one, a la Dave Winfield.

A recognizable legend that had won more fights without a loss than any other, Chavez will now be remembered as an above-average fighter that compiled his lofty numbers primarily against Mexican and other fighters that weren’t fit for most crowds (with a few exceptions) and one who was aided immensely by the politics of boxing.

It’s a shame, because at one point Chavez was worthy of the accolades bestowed upon him. He was a quality boxer despite his padded record. He was a bull that refused to go down.

In the end, all he wanted to do was to walk away (hopefully) with a tarnished reputation, a shattered legacy.

Can he thank Don King and Jose Sulaiman for that.

Call the Red Hawks Sports Hotline for all of the latest and up-to-date information on your favorite MSU athletic team: (201) 655-7645.

Red Hawk Sports Briefs

ON THE RUN: The MSU women’s track team collected 31 points and placed ninth at the 1994 Collegiate Track and Field this weekend at Trenton State. Trenton State won the competition with 128 points. The MSU men’s team placed 10th at the meet with 23 points. SUNY-Albany took the men’s competition.

THE WINNERS ARE: Two MSU team members were named to the 1994 NJSSAA Track and Field All-Star Team. Sharon Lindo, a senior from Brooklyn, N.Y., was named to the women’s sprint team. Junior Jason Williams, a native of Morganville, was recognized on the field events team.

AND FURTHERMORE: The Montclarion Sports Staff would like to wish the students, faculty, employees and administrators of MSU a happy, healthy, fun-filled and prosperous summer. Until September, peace.

– Compiled by Karl Lomberk

Softball – Rowan loss, from page 36

to call a ball. If the pitch was legitimately ball four, you live with it. But, I don’t think it was.

Senior catcher Kristi Kuchinski was bothered by more than just the final call.

“We had a lot of opportunities throughout the game,” Kuchinski said. “I think that frustration set in at the end because we knew that we should have put the game away earlier.”

MSU managed seven hits and two walks off Rowan lefty Peggyann Coker (20-1, 1.43 ERA), but left seven runners on base, enabling the Pros to literally walk away victorious.

“We hit Koker very well,” added Kubicka. “But we weren’t able to put the game away. We just didn’t get the job done.”

Sophomore right-hander Denise Warnock (12-8) tossed 6 and 2/3 innings of four-hit ball for MSU, but walked six batters in suffering the loss. Coker walked just one MSU hitter in the game.

Junior second baseman Jenn Flinn was 3-for-3 with an RBI for the Red Hawks, while sophomore first baseman Shana Caufield was 1-for-3 with a run scored.

RED HAWK NOTES....Rowan went on to win the tournament by defeating William paterson, 9-1, on Sunday....Flinn finished the regular season sixth in the NJAC batting race at .510. Kuchinski placed 11th at a .462 average with 17 homers and 77 RBI. Trenton State’s Michelle Carlson was a lock for the Player of the Year. She now has a .568 average with 17 homers and 77 RBI. Those numbers are not misprints and were compiled over just a 45-game schedule.

Call the shots....

The DENVER NUGGETS exemplify what the NBA is all about. Those who still claim that the excitement of the pros doesn’t rival that of the college ranks are missing the point. The SUPERSONICS, on the other hand, will need quite some time to dislodge that apple from their collective throat. Oops, too late, they already chocked on it....Who would you rather have, PAUL O’NEIL or ROBERTO “BOBBY ABDUL-RAUF” KELLY?....The DEVILS have got a lot of heart. At least by playing the RANGERS in the Eastern Conference Final, they won’t have to suffer the embarrassment of a playing in a half-empty arena. All those Ranger fans will make sure of that....PHIL JACKSON is the Anti-Christ....Anyone that doesn’t check out DENNIS MILLER is missing out on a true comedic genius. Perhaps he’s too smart for his own good sometimes—his reference library is larger than MADONNA’S collection of documented conquests— but he’s hilarious nonetheless.....It’s only May, but the YANKEES and first place sound very good together.....The PACERS are for real. And with a makeshift lineup at that. HAYWOOD WORKEMAN’S impact has been immeasurable in the MADONNA’s collection of documented conquests— but he’s hilarious nonetheless....."Have a nice week," the usual ending to this column, hardly seems appropriate for the last-ever PRESSBOX. Without getting overly sentimental, it’s been quite an experience expressing and venting in this forum every week for the past two years. It’s surely been pleasurable on this end. Thanks for sharing your time.
DID HE CALL THAT A BALL?

The MSU softball team was bounced from the NJAC tournament by Rowan on a questionable call to end the game. (Idec, p. 36)