Former Student Center Director sentenced to four years in State Prison for stealing $186,000. (Patnode, p.3)
SGA E-Board slashes Class One budgets

by George Colle

Eliminated conference budgets and five percent budget cuts for Class I organizations such as WMSC, Latin American Student Organization and College Life Union Board were announced by the Student Government Association Executive Board this summer.

SGA Treasurer, Rick Leto cited a $70,000 initial deficit from the years projected revenuFigures as the cause.

Originally, SGA President Sal Anderton said that he did not know if it was constitutional to change a budget that had been passed by last year’s legislature.

He later defended the changes saying, “The original budget was a mistake. It passed with no information. It was unconstitutional and dangerous to the corporation.” He cited line two of the Summer Responsibilities of the Summer Director which empowers the SGA President to “supervise the running and maintaining of the corporate structure over the summer months.”

Director of Student Center Activities and SGA Financial Advisor, Charles Feiner, said he would look into the details of what transpired. He acknowledged that the executive board could make the changes without legislative approval.

Reactions in Class I Alley were tempered due to a lack of information regarding the changes from most of the organizations absence during the summer months.

WMSC Manager Mike Pacos said that he had not yet received the memo but was “not surprised,” adding, “they shouldn’t be sticking their hands in our pockets like that.”

LaCampana Editor Sam Rock claims that, legally, the SGA Constitution is subordinate to the SGA Articles of Incorporation which name the SGA Executive Board as the sole executors of the corporation.

Leto said that articles could take precedence over the constitution if there is a conflict. He added that, technically, spending does not necessarily have to go through the legislators.

Leto said, “I have no right to override a (legislative) decision,” yet he stands firm in his decision to eliminate Class I conference lines.

SGA Vice President April Steinmertz agreed with the SGA Executive Board decision to cut the conference lines stating that they have the power as summer directors.

Latin American Student Organization President Steve Buendia said “I don’t know how they could change it (the budgets) without bringing it to the legislation in bill form.”

“All of our actions were taken pending legislative approval,” Leto added.

SGA Attorney General Paolo Ciappina was not available to comment.

SGA president petitions for phone registration

by Greg MacSweeney

After witnessing three days of seemingly endless lines with uncomfortable waiting conditions at the “add-drop” session held Aug. 23-25, SGA President Sal Anderton petitioned Provost and Vice President Dr. Richard Lynde to expedite the search and installation of a phone registration system.

Anderton cited several examples from the recent add-drop session which “epitomized the aggravation, inconvenience and inconsideration that the students face here several times a year,” including a Aug. 24 fire drill, that forced the lines “that already stretched out of the annex and into the Student Center quad,” completely outside. Also cited were hot temperatures and hours of waiting in lines that “seemed endless.”

Lynde responded to Anderton on Aug. 25 and stated that although the school has looked into phone registration at several points over the past few years, “the investment required seemed a bit high to justify the change...” Lynde added that this is especially true due to declining state funding.

During the Aug. 24 add-drop, a small child defecated in the annex and the mess was not cleaned up for several hours until the Student Center staff was made aware of the situation.

Many students arrived for the 1 p.m. session on Aug. 23 at 9 a.m. Students who arrived at noon already encountered a line of 100 or more students.

Not all of the terminals were used during the add-drop registration, although there were students waiting on line outside of the registration room.

Anderton wrote, “Ignoring the dissatisfaction of the students leaves many to conclude that the university is indifferent to our most serious concerns.”

Those that live hours away are forced to drive to campus for the session and go home only to return one week later. Weekend and evening students must take off from work to attend their assigned add-drop sessions.

Lynde stated that approximately 3,500 students attended the add-drop session this summer, over 25% of the entire student body.

He suggested that an immediate solution could be a more orderly scheduling pattern during the coming year.

The Registrar, Denise DeBlasio, sent a letter to the Director of Information Services, Assistant Vice President Lynn Truesdell, before the recent add-drop session ended, communicating her interest in re-submitting her proposal for switching to a phone registration process.

Anderton’s letter was also sent to MSU President Irvin Reid, Vice President for Student Development and Campus Life Dr. Lee Wilcox, Vice President for Administration and Finance Tom Auch, Deputy Provost and Acting Vice President for Institutional Advancement Dr. Gregory Waters and Editor-in-Chief of the MONTCLARION Greg MacSweeney.
Former administrators aware of Student Center corruption since 1987

by Sheila Patnode

Certain former administrators suspected the former student center director of stealing from the student center years before his suspension in 1993 and sentencing this summer, the Montclarion has learned.

Robert Gieza was sentenced to four years in state prison for stealing $186,000 worth of personal-use goods and services over a five-year period, through phony purchase orders paid for by MSU. The 1972 MSC graduate was charged with official misconduct and theft by deception in excess of $75,000 by the Official Corruption Unit of the State Division of Criminal Justice.

The Montclarion obtained two memos written in 1988 by former Faculty Student Cooperative Association Inc. President, Jeffrey Shapiro. The first memo, written on Jan. 6, 1988, informed former Vice President of Administration and Finance, William Griffith of suspicious activities by Gieza. The second, printed below, informed the FSCA, Inc. Executive Committee of the matter and included a copy of the memo to Griffith. At the time, the functions of the Faculty Student Cooperative Association included the employment of student workers for campus services such as the game room, the Rathskeller and the campus store.

The memo to Griffith stated that Gieza had been seen taking a large number of butcher block tables from storage in the student center. Shapiro wrote that when questioned about the removal, Gieza lied about his reason for removing the tables.

Shapiro also asked Gieza where the tables were taken and Gieza avoided the question, saying only that the tables would be returned. After further questioning by Shapiro, Gieza said that the tables were simply gotten rid of.

The two memos were written after an investigation of Student Center finances had already occurred. According to MSU Internal Auditor Raye Jean Mastrangelo, an anonymous letter written in early 1987, informed MSU administrators of irregular finances in the Student Center. In response to the letter, an outside consulting engineering firm, A.D. Jilajan and Associates, were hired to conduct an investigation of the student center finances. According to Mastrangelo, the firm found no irregularities.

An anonymous phone call in Feb. 1993, once again implicated Gieza in financial irregularities and prompted another investigation, this time by college officials, which eventually led to his plea-bargain.

Mastrangelo did not know the memos written by Shapiro existed until informed by the Montclarion. At the time the memos were written, she had been reporting to the Griffith, who did not inform her of the matter.

In his memo to Griffith, Shapiro wrote that although the stolen tables were the first instance of something which was "observed, reported, and followed-up directly by me regarding these types of events, it is not the first situation which has been reported to me."

He went on to cite deliveries of unneeded rock salt and concluded his memo to Shapiro by writing, "One need only examine more and more concern which have collected over the years regarding the disappearance of major inventory items at the Student Center such as projection TVs, motors, tools, furniture, etc., to realize that there is some type of difficulty in the Student Center which is not being addressed clearly and in a manner which protects the fiscal and operating integrity of the Student Center."

Since Gieza's sentencing, the FSCA has been assimilated into the university, said Mastrangelo. This results in more checks and balances for student center expenses. The administration feels confident that the changes in the FSCA will prevent such thefts from happening in the future.

TRANSITION DOCUMENTS: ISSUES
CONFIDENTIAL: FSCA, INC. EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

POLICY ISSUE: IMPROPER REMOVAL OF INVENTORY (THEFT)

See the attached memorandum. In the past, the Student Center has lost a wide screen TV, various custodial and maintenance supplies, and merchandise from the College Store (until the alarm system was installed). The field house, an extension of the Student Center operation, has lost a new-mauna unit.

There have been a variety of suspicions centering on a single individual (in fact, this individual was observed by a student some years ago removing merchandise from both the College Store and, it seems, cases of food inventory; the matter was reported properly but the then Director of the Student Center did not pursue the issue). Most recently, this individual was clearly observed directing the removal of butcher block dining tables from the Rathskeller inventory storage (which may well belong to the FSCA). When immediately advised by me that this was improper he told me they would be returned. That was one month ago.

Desired Outcome:
Return of the tables and administrative or criminal actions against the College employee involved.

Process:
As the attached memorandum indicates, this matter has been reported to the Vice President of Administration and Finance but we are unclear as to actions taken other than that the tables have not been returned.
Asbestos in Bohn Hall

by Sheila Patnode

Traces of asbestos were found during Bohn Hall’s A wing renovations this summer, requiring an asbestos removal company, NESCO, Inc., to be called in to dispose of the contaminated material.

The asbestos removal, at $40,000, brought the bill for renovations to approximately half a million dollars, Doug Cooper, Director of Facilities said.

In order to comply with the American Disabilities Act, the renovation included showers and sinks which are accessible to the developmentally challenged. The A wing bathroom renovation is a follow up to last year’s B and C wing bathroom renovations.

The asbestos was found three to four feet inside walls which divided the bathroom from a “tub room,” a room with a bathtub used by resident assistants and developmentally challenged residents. The B and C wings did not have tub rooms and therefore the walls did not contain asbestos.

“The concentration of asbestos was so low that air tests showed up negative, even during the removal,” Cooper said.

“It was a low concentration of Asbestos Contaminated Material (ACM), but changes in EPA standards may have someday resulted in our accountability,” Cooper said.

In 1986 Bohn Hall had a complete test for asbestos which showed up negative.

Residence Life offices were relocated to the student center between May 28 and June 11, while the asbestos was removed.

The Department of Environmental Protection was called in by the renovation contractors who stated that they had not given NESCO permission to authorize removal of asbestos from the campus and consequently suspected that the removal may have been illegal, according to campus police. Waste manifest reports shown to Doug Cooper confirm that the asbestos was disposed of properly.

While the renovations to the A, B and C wing bathrooms were structural changes, future changes will be cosmetic, including painting and recarpeting. There is no set date for those renovations.
Coach Blanton sentenced

by Joan Petrocelli

Former MSU Head Track Coach John Blanton was sentenced to four years in state prison this summer after pleading guilty to a charge of official misconduct in March.

Blanton’s sentence, handed down by the Passaic County Superior Court, consists of five years probation and complete forfeiture of all public employment in state, county and local sectors. In addition, Blanton can not hold any educational position, such as teaching or coaching. He must undergo psychiatric counseling and submit payment for various minor fines.

"We are always saddened when a member of the MSU community is convicted of a wrongdoing," Deputy Provost and Vice President for Institutional Advancement Dr. Gregory Waters said, "but Montclair as an institution acted responsibly and we feel the courts acted appropriately."

Blanton was originally charged with one count of second degree sexual assault and one count of second degree official misconduct before he entered into a plea bargain for events that took place on or about Feb. 24, 1992.

The former coach allegedly attempted to coerce and force a female member of the track team to have sex with him on two separate occasions in both Little Falls and New Brunswick.

As head track coach, Blanton, 39, of Orange, obtained a fourth place finish in the NCAA Division three in cross country. His career, however, has been surrounded by controversy.

When Blanton, an African-American, was hired by the MSU Board of Trustees in April of 1988, another candidate for the position questioned the appointment and the school was charged with reverse discrimination. As a result of the charges, the men’s varsity track team boycotted that season.

In 1990, allegations that track records had been falsified reflected on Blanton. Sufficient information was not obtained to support the allegations.

In another instance that year, Blanton illegally confiscated film from a Montclair reporter and detained her in his office until campus police arrived. He objected to being photographed for a news story. The incident was not officially acted on by the administration.

Waters said that MSU has always run reference checks before hiring employees, including telephone follow-ups.
The SGA Scholarship Fund, Inc. was formed by last year's SGA president, treasurer and director of services with $150,000 worth of SGA unappropriated surplus.

The new SGA Scholarship Fund was formed to make $10,000 to $15,000 worth of scholarship money available to MSU undergraduate students, said SGA Vice President and SGA Scholarship Fund President April Steinmetz.

The fund, formed without legislative approval at the end of the past school year by last year's SGA President James "Appetite" Cotter, Treasurer James Heneghan and Director of Services Ross Peterson, will provide six different scholarships for students.

"For the first time the SGA will be giving back to the students something they have paid for, for years. Dollars back for dollars in," Heneghan said.

The scholarships, each varying in value, are: the child care subsidy scholarship for student-parents, SGA leadership scholarship for any member of a SGA organization, non-traditional scholarship for any undergraduate student over 25, Dr. Ed Martin honorary scholarship, the PRIDE scholarship for multicultural education, and the Art Carved scholarship from Art Carved Jewelers, according to Steinmetz.

"We wanted to leave something to the students of Montclair that meant something," Cotter said.

The scholarships will be funded solely on the interest produced by the $150,000 which was "wisely" invested in companies such as Prudential, Steinmetz said.

The $150,000 came solely from the SGA surplus reserve which is kept in case of an emergency (new radio tower for WMSC-FM, computers, lawsuits, etc.). The corporation can be abolished immediately and at any time by the SGA scholarship fund president if the SGA is in need of cash, Steinmetz said.

Prior to the formation of the new corporation the SGA reserve was approximately $300,000, SGA Treasurer Rick Leto said.

"The constitution says that the legislature must approve spending and the Articles of Incorporation say that the executive board has the responsibility of controlling the finances," said Leto.

The scholarships will be awarded in late March or early April.

"The scholarships are based purely on merit," Steinmetz said. "It would be too difficult to award them by 'financial need' because we are not trained in that area."

Steinmetz added that all the moves made to construct and form the new organization were completely constitutional and within SGA parameters.

The SGA Scholarship Fund, Inc. executive board consists of President Steinmetz, Treasurer Michele Crifasi (current SGA secretary), Yan Perepletchikov (current SGA director of services), SGA legislators Dan Marshall and Elizabeth Russo, a student Anthony Besantis, the Dean of Students Dr. Helen Matusew-Ayros and Director of Student Activities Charles Feiner.
New dean of students appointed after search

by Bonnie Dexter Greenspun

New Dean of Students, Dr. Helen Matusow-Ayres, has been hired after a national search and starts Sept. 1. She has held student life positions for 17 years and was most recently Associate Dean of Students at NJIT.

She will be responsible for student services including: Career Services, Cooperative Education, Health Center, International Services, Campus Ministry, Women’s Center, Orientation, Psychological Services, and Specialized Student Services.

“The reason I am in this business,” Matusow-Ayres said, “is because I really enjoy college students. I would like to have a relationship with the students (at MSU) as an educator and a supporter. My main motivation is to make their college experience a positive one. Even if I make mistakes, I can always get back to that.”

Connie Ford, Acting Student Center Director, recalled working with Matusow-Ayres several years ago on a committee for the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators (NASPA).

“I think she will make a great Dean of Students and a wonderful role model,” Ford said. “She interacts personally with students and tries to understand their problems.”

Matusow-Ayres also participated in re-working a hazing and alcohol policy at NJIT this past summer, said R.J. Hartman, president of the Inter Fraternity and Sorority Council at NJIT, though the policy has not yet become official.

“I am extremely pleased that Dr. Matusow-Ayres has agreed to be our Dean of Students,” said Dr. Lee Wilcox, VP for Student Development and Campus Life. “Students, faculty and staff at NJIT all saw her as a superb student advocate and student development professional.”

Matusow-Ayres, who resides in Bergen County with her husband and two children, is looking forward to the challenge ahead of her.

“This is an exciting time to be at MSU, now that it has gained university status,” she said. “There is a positive attitude and a good team in student development.”

The new dean holds a master’s degree in Student Personnel Administration from Indiana University and a doctorate in Administration and Organization of Higher Education from Teachers College, Columbia University.

DO YOU SEE THESE FACES?

IT'S 7:15 AM THURSDAY MORNING AND THE STAFF OF THE MONTCLARION IS STILL SLAVING HARD TO FINISH THIS ISSUE.

BUT, IT DOESN'T HAVE TO BE THIS WAY. IF YOU HAD JOINED THE MONTCLARION, THIS MIGHT NOT HAVE HAPPENED. IN FACT, IF WOODY HAD GONE STRAIGHT TO THE POLICE, NONE OF THIS WOULD HAVE EVER HAVE HAPPENED.

THE MONTCLARION IS A CLASS ONE ORGANIZATION OF THE SGA, INC.
Welcome back to the new "U"

Summer's over. It's time for good friends, good food and fine wine. Well, you can find one of the three here at MSU. Don't worry, I'm not going to start crying about the food here. I'm just writing this little note to welcome you all back and to welcome the new freshman and transfers that, for some reason, picked this institution of higher learning.

It's time to readjust to college (whoops, that's university) life again. Instead of working a zillion hours a week for peanuts, you go to class a few times a week and hope that the professor doesn't notice that you can barely focus on your paper because you are so hung-over from the night before. Instead of worrying what your boss is going to say, your biggest concern is going to that 8 a.m. class with a mandatory attendance policy. Your second biggest concern is beating your roommate at SEGA (the ultimate GPA killer).

So much has changed since the majority of you left a few months ago. Where shall I start? To make it quick, we have a new Vice President of Student Development and Campus Life, Dr. Lee Wilcox, a new Dean of Students, Dr. Helen Matusow-Ayres, a new SGA (is that good or bad?), and almost every organization in the SGA has new leaders and a new staff anxious to make this year a successful one. They renovated the C-Store. Who the hell wanted a renovation of the C-Store? Didn't we want the prices to go down? It's a good smoke screen so far. They know that they have a captive audience (a.k.a. a monopoly). We have a new owner of the book store (now slickly renamed the "University BookStore"). It's still the same manager and guess what, I don't see any great drop in prices like we were told. Again, didn't we get a new vendor for the bookstore to lower the prices? Smoke screen. Oh, yeah don't forget that this is the first full semester of "university" at Montclair. If U-status is a plus, it remains to be seen.

I really have just one thing to say to the freshman and transfer students. Get involved in this campus. There is something for everyone. Sure, it may be easy to sit in your room all day and watch TV or watch your roommate sleep, but there are other things out there that some students who care enough have set up over the years to give you something to do between classes. The SGA is a prime example. Sure, you probably think that it is some boring organization like the one you had in high school. Sure, it probably would be if it weren't for the $520,000 budget that comes from your student fees. Why not take advantage of some of the services? Most organizations are funded by the SGA, whether the organizations like it or not. So get out there and join the MONTCLARION, Class One Concerts, WMSC or any of the others. There has got to be something for everyone and if there is nothing for you, you got problems! But if you like to watch your roommate sleep......

Greg MacSweeney
Editor-in-Chief
This Monday, I met with Dr. Lee Wilcox, the new Vice President of Student Development and Campus Life to discuss his plans and goals for his first semesters at MSU. Dr. Wilcox appears ready to implement both his own and Dr. Reid’s ideas in his revamped department.

“It’s [the Student Development and Campus Life Division] been changed, divisions have been added,” said Wilcox.

Departments within Student Development and Campus Life now include Admissions, financial aid, Dean of Students, Inter-Collegiate Athletics, Residence Life, and the Student Center.

At a retreat weekend over the summer, a mission statement was created outlining the overall purpose of Student Development and Campus Life.

“The Mission of Student Development and Campus Life is to support and enhance the educational mission of Montclair State University and to assist students in reaching their goals. Division staff will work in a cooperative relationship with the faculty, staff, and students to provide an environment that fosters the intellectual, psychological, physical, social and career development of students.”

Four more specific goals have been set by the division. Implementation on the Academic Success Center, developing a wellness program, improving the new student experience, and increasing retention rates make up this list. The focus of this year’s work seems to be freshmen, leaving upper classmen to wonder what will be done for them.

According to Wilcox, MSU loses 20 percent of the freshmen class every year. This appears to be the reason behind the focus on first year students. Wilcox’s department plans to attempt to increase the freshmen’s school and class spirit at the first annual Freshman Convocation on Sept. 12. The entire freshman class will gather at Memorial Auditorium for programs and a speech by President Reid. The Freshmen Convocation will be “an example of trying to do something new that will tell students that we care about you and we want you to stay here.”

Another program that Wilcox is implementing to increase retention rates is the Academic Success Center, which will be located in Moorehead Hall. It will be a location for all the developmental activities and essential program support services directed toward first year students. According to Wilcox, offices that may be moved to Moorehead Hall are Academic Advising, the Tutorial Center, Orientation, Career Services, Educational Opportunity Fund, Financial Aid, and Psychological Services. Turning this idea into reality appears to be the most important individual plan for the division.

Programs that will not receive a forefront position include student leadership development, multicultural and diversity programs, enrollment management, quality of campus life, service learning, and total quality management.

Dr. Wilcox feels that the primary responsibilities of his job are “to help students succeed academically and grow personally, make sure there are talented individuals working in the various departments, and to represent student concerns in meetings with the administration.”

“Student involvement is the key to everything,” said Wilcox.

According to Wilcox’s master plan, freshmen will receive a lot of help in this area. MSU veterans will benefit from the programs which are being created to help incoming students, but Wilcox’s plans do not include any special programs directed towards upper classmen.

MSU's "Tex-Mex" Connection

by David Nikikhur

It's usually not easy to enjoy a good night "out to eat" when you're living on a college student's budget. That is, until you go to Chili's Grill and Bar on Route 46 in Little Falls. With every entree coming in at under $10, you can feast on a variety of Southwestern specialties and still manage to afford 13 credits worth of books. Just a quick trip by car from MSU, Chili's is the perfect spot for college students. Their menu offers a wide selection at affordable prices. Bring a date and you both can savor a delicious entree (like the marinated grilled chicken breast), dinner salad, drinks and dessert for just under $40; a few dollars more if you indulge in one of their many special mixes from the bar. If you're on your own, Chili's offers a variety of flame-broiled burgers - my favorite being the "Chili's Trip," loaded with chili and covered with melted cheese. Need to lose that extra weight you put on over summer break? Chili's offers a "guiltless" menu with many excellent dishes that are low in fat. Combine all of this with outstanding service in an attractive restaurant with famous "Tex-Mex" decor, and you can see why Chili's Grill and Bar is the perfect after-class place to eat for the MSU student. From MSU, take Valley Road north to Route 46 West and make the U-Turn at Browertown Road. Check it out!

Come party and kick ass with the coolest of all the Class One's
This was the summer if you belong to that ugly demographic known as Generation X. The lineup at Lollapalooza was stellar. The Grunge, probably the best movie ever produced, did so well they're putting it back in theaters. And, of course, Woodstock (or Mudstock, or Greedstock, or whatever the cynics are calling it this week). And where was I during most of this? Trapped. Stuck in an office working my temp job, sending Interoffice Memos in manila envelopes and getting strangled by air conditioning. Does anyone remember when summer vacation meant sleeping till one, watching bad reruns all day and going to the beach every weekend for three months? Suddenly, I had to worry about car payments and insurance premiums—that is, until my car was stolen a couple of weeks ago. Next, I had to think about getting my next temp as— that is, until my car was stolen again. And where was I thinking now? I know that I have to write a retraction for all of this by the end of the semester.—that's just how I am. But I won't regret saying any of it. And I don't want summer to go away forever or anything; admittedly, some of it was pretty good. It's just...well, some of it was too real. I mean, I'll probably want to print a retraction for all of this by the end of the semester—that's just how I am. But I won't regret saying any of it. And I don't want summer to go away forever or anything; admittedly, some of it was pretty good. It's just...well, some people work all year and look forward to a summer vacation. I work for a few months and come here for a vacation from summer. Hell, after this summer, a mid-term exam doesn't sound too threatening.

So my advice is to hang tough: stay undeclared, try a number of different courses, and research occupations to see what is interesting to you. Remember there is a lot to be experienced while you are in college. Don't miss anything by making a decision too soon.

It seems pretty wet...

by Heather Bushby

Part way through the summer, I returned to campus to find an old friend sitting in the rain. He was writing, enthralled with the rain.

"The rain is magnificent!" he exclaimed as his black clothes clung to his body.

"It seems pretty wet to me," I replied. I had just left work and my suit was getting soaked.

"Some people just can't see beyond the wetness."

Maybe I couldn't. Maybe two jobs and thirteen credits of summer classes had taken away my vision...my inspiration. Maybe I had finally sold out to the "real" world. Maybe I had become a realist, leaving behind my idealism as something of my youth. No more anti-establishment thoughts. Hell, I am part of the establishment now.

Later the same day, I ran into my friend again. In his serious, philosophical tone he said, "It's raining now. It won't be raining later."

Okay, I laughed. If that's deep, I just don't know what deep is. Obviously, maybe things seem bad now, but that will pass.

Now, as summer comes to a close and classes are starting and this issue of the MONTCLAIRON needs to get out and I have a million deadlines to make at work, it's still raining, but now I can see that the rain is pretty magnificent. It probably never will stop raining. There will always be new problems, new conflicts to overcome, but it all depends on how you see the rain. I guess I got my idealism back. I have one more year to be young, and hell, I'm going to make the best of it!!!

How My Mother
Pisses Me Off

by J.S. Hamer

She exhales smoky words:
No chemotherapy.

Ice cubes rattle
at the bottom of her wineglass.

I stand before her,
hug my vitality, barely breathe between
words,
cautious of the smoke.

Show your love-she tells me-by understanding.
I can't,
say it is suicide.

She calls me too young,
(forgetting her own youth);
I relent,
ask never to discuss it.

When we kiss goodnight,
I neglect to say I love her,
Because I hate so much her dying.

Awake and...

by J.S. Hamer

I don't know why I haven't really considered the concept that, when you get involved with someone, it involves two autonomous people. I mean-well, I mean just that. I never thought Dave would kiss me first, that it would happen so unexpectedly. (Not that he jumped out of a doorway or anything like that.)

Actually, though, I hadn't seen myself as the one "taking charge", either. With all this thinking, it seems I haven't thought at all.
Only, I have. I pictured it happening, which it did, only I could never have predicted it this way.

Tonight, Dave and I started out shopping. Things went as usual, though usual, lately, has been far from what it once was. We began in the men's department at Macy's. Every time we looked at something, we ended up centimeters apart. When those centimeters became millimeters it was like... sexual static electricity. I swear, if I could've taken all of those molecular things out of my chest, I would've lit up Rockefeller Center.

After the mall we rented a movie. We sat on the same couch, lying in two directions. I was being very careful, or rather, I started out being very careful, not to sit too near Dave. Not that I'm uncomfortable, but I thought, if those molecules kept running through my chest like lost sperm, I'd start gravitating, about the speed of an upright vacuum, towards David.

On top of it all, I was trying to be subtle; (which, yes, I know is just a clever word for phony), only I didn't want to go nuts, and I certainly wasn't planning anything, so I figured, why drive myself crazy?

In the middle of the movie I got up for coffee. I put the tray on the tea table; Dave sat up. Once again, we were millimeters away.
I finished my cup, sat back where I was. David did the same. Our shoulders touched and my heart began conducting this new wave symphony-percussion only.

I wasn't vacuuming the couch yet, so I stayed put.
I don't know why I have such trouble with the sequence of events when I'm trying to remember something. It's like my memory keeps snapshots instead of videos. I relaxed, Dave relaxed, we both relaxed a little more, and then even a little more. At some point Dave's arm found its way to my shoulder, which is kind of funny when you think about it, because men always pull that on women in the movies -not their best friends. Protons and neutrons were holding the Kentucky Derby in my bloodstream, but at least that wasn't visible.

After all that relaxing, which wasn't much relaxing at all, I was kind of in David's arms. I started fuzzing with the ray of his corduroys, since I didn't know what else to do, only that stopped when he took my hand. The subsequent feeling, unfortunately, is absent from my vocabulary. The squeeze I gave his hand, though, covered all of those speeches I mentally recited as transitions from our friendship to "relationship".

It was pretty late by the time we actually kissed, so, we didn't remain like that for hours on end. Dave got up, we slowly reached the door, and finally said goodnight. We didn't talk too much; it was one of those moments you sort of want to be quiet. I'd say the air smelled like relief, but that makes me think of farting. My muscles feel like the resting embers of a fire, and boy, is it great.

To submit your poetry, prose, and/or artwork, contact Arielle or Heather in the Montclarion office, Student Center Annex, Room 113.
The news department of the Montclarion is looking for reporters. Experience is not necessary for entry-level reporting. We will give you all the information and materials you need to begin. Experienced reporters are invited to tackle more complex stories, cover specific news beats or join the Investigative News Unit.

This is an excellent opportunity to gain hands-on experience and compile a library of clips. Journalism minors and English majors are strongly encouraged to come in, but all majors are invited. You decide your hours – work as many or few hours as you want.

Bolster that sagging resume. Meet the campus leadership within the administration, faculty and student body. Prepare yourself for the real-world. Reach an audience of 10,000.

Ok, Mr. Hugh. You want charity? I'll give it to you. I'll take time out of my busy schedule to try to educate you. In your letter from 4/21/94 you expressed that "EOF sucks." For starters, I would hope that a college student would have a better choice of vocabulary. I also believe that we, the future of America, have an obligation to our fellow citizens to be a little more open-minded, and to find out facts before speaking or degrading others.

Let's address the issue at hand. You are bitter because you did not receive EOF aid and therefore pointed your finger and EOF students and proceeded to say that we attend school without effort or money on our part (I take that you assume that EOF pays for my car insurance, clothes on my back, the food I eat, and all other necessities). You continued to say that we are people who never bothered to work in school and attend school without effort. Mr. McHugh, I have a 3.4 gpa, I belong to two honor societies, am a member of who's who in American Universities and Colleges, am active in campus and community activities, and work part-time. I owe all this to EOF. I have stood by EOF, who have stood by me and now I stand for them. You have insulted me along with the rest of the students in the program simply because you did not find out about it before hand. Furthermore, for your information, 67% of the EOF students last year have cumulative averages of 2.0 or better, and eight of last year's who's who were out of EOF. Did you say 20% of EOF students graduate? If it helps one person, it is another person that will make it that otherwise wouldn't have. However did you know that other students that are not EOF also drop out of college?

So here we go with more of my grammatical and logical incoherence. The English Department loves to break in their brand new "I am far superior than you" red Montblanc™ over a cup of java with a new and improved photo for their start-throwing pleasure...

CUBA GET OUT OF MY UTERUS!

(pronounce the following italic bold-faced phrases with your teeth clenched tighter than Martha Stewart's laba-that's plural-G)

But...enough about the English Department...

I must say that Clinton chap is really doing a fine job! Don't you think so? Yeah Right! What a foreign policy void we've stepped into. I suggest we send ol' Willy a scholarship to Hillarious' down 'ome cookin'! I guess I'd smoke pot, lie and cheat if I were him. Come to think of it, if I were his mother I'd have pre-abortion, also. Speaking of stillborn endeavors, how about that SGA, XTC. A slogan or their favorite drug? You be the judge.

Imagine, an SGA President and Treasurer break the Constitution they once long ago swore to uphold! No, not novel but, alas!, disturbing. The executive board's decision to cut Class I budgets by 5% and their unilaterally wicked and absolutely illegal decision to eliminate Class I conference lines during the summer is inferior in its blatant insult to our intelligence only to their subsequent decision to claim that it was only a mere suspension pending legislative approval. C'mon Sal-hoy, Trick-Rick, you know that if the Montclairion hadn't challenged the constitutionality of your actions you wouldn't have bothered. After all Sal, it was that very legislature that made that "mistake with no information" last semester. Why go to them for approval? After all, what if in your infinite wisdom you decide that they make another mistake? Why not just eliminate the legislature? You know eliminate...

The first fall semester at Montclair state UNIVERSITY...welcome! My name is Ron as the little masthead suggests, and I am the editorial page editor for the school year. This is my second fall semester at this college, and so far it's been good. This collection of related words and phrases is my column which will appear periodically, based on availability of time, space, and logical opinion. My interests in this type of communication began in what was my feather-haired kiss-fan youth (where I learned to argue against detractors), was subsequently nutured by girlfriend(!), and is maintained by professionals such as Bob Grant.

Logical opinion, that's a nice phrase. It's what got me involved with the MONTCLARION. It's true. You see, I attended another college, and was involved with their paper extensively. It was a good publication, and provided anyone interested with great experience in journalism and like areas. Except for one editorial. The absence of this section puzzled me somewhat, for I always viewed it as a great soundboard for all to express sentiments on all aspects of a campus community and the world at large. When I came to Montclair and first read this page I was at once surprised and relieved. Each week I saw students expounding on current issues, expending my mind, and distinctly displaying the importance of an editorial. For the most part, articles and letters I read were well-written, and regardless of what side of the fence the opinion was on, they sustained readability, which is the way to get heard. Spurred on by this, I myself eventually penned a column, entitled FREE THOUGHT, which offered my take on the truly ridiculous "Far Side" situation of the time. At this point I would like to say what my goals are as editor. I will strive to have all views presented, and all topics covered. On what subjects? You decide. When opinions are offered, particularly in rebuttal, the best effort should be made to be logical and fact-based. Don't get me wrong, I don't want only poets and pseudo-intellectuals writing, but I want to see the mud-slinging factor to have as small a role as possible. My reasoning is simple. At Montclair State University, this is THE PLACE for mass communication. For students, it's the outlet to express feelings on life, politics, and of course the school itself (always enough fodder here). For everyone else, this is a great way to see what's on the mind of America's future (no, always enough fodder here). For everyone else, this is a great way to see what's on the mind of America's future (no, always enough fodder here).

The preceding was the eleventh in a series of letters stemming from last semester's EOF debate. Like the Stones, it drags on and on... and it's about money!
As everyone was leaving the beach, pulling out the warmer clothes, and attempting to find that misplaced fall schedule, the MONTCLARION was gearing up to tell you about all things Monclair State. In our news-gathering endeavors we've noticed a pattern among some members and organizations of the campus community...questionable behavior! No, it's not the title of a new Madonna song, but it's the rage nonetheless.

First we offer you tales of the SGA! The wolf -in -sheep's clothing is at it again. In late summer, all Class One organizations suddenly found themselves with a five percent budget cut. Now, it's within the purview of the SGA to allocate and subtract monies from stipends, but here's the rub: the budgets were previously approved by the erstwhile legislature. With a last minute change such as this, why should have they even bothered voting ahead of time? Like Ginsu knives, there's more. While all involved were still reeling from the blow and thinking of how to compensate, all fundages for conferences for the class ones were removed, courtesy of the SGA.

The MONTCLARION stresses that these controversial actions may or may not be constitutional; however, they are definitely unconventional and worthy of attention. Will the SGA strike again? It's been said that things happen in sets of three, and given their track record, it may come true.

Another subject in this trend is the saga of Mr. Robert Gieza, former Director of the Student Center, who was convicted in 1993 of "Official Misconduct, and Theft By Deception in excess of $75,000". Now that's bad enough, right? But wait! There's still more! Apparently a request was made as early as 1987 to look into Gieza's affairs. Couple this with the attainment by the MONTCLARION of an anonymous letter from January 1988 referring to "Financial irregularities" on the part of Gieza, one begins to wonder if there's more to this than meets the eye. In any event, happenstances such as these make you wonder what surprises and secrets lie around the corner in the world of MSU. It's not a perfect world, but why should clubs and organizations have to see their itineraries for the next year survive day to day? Why must an urge for an investigation go unheeded? It's going to be an interesting fall.
REVIEW: Anything Goes - ahh, summer love

by Kelly Schab

This summer, TheatreFest wrapped up its season with the classic Cole Porter musical, Anything Goes.

Melba Moore, star of stage and television, as well as MSU alumna and honorary degree recipient, plays Reno Sweeney, the central character in this romance- and fun-filled cruise down lover's lane.

The beginning of the Great Depression is shaping up and dreams of success and love fill the hearts of passengers, and a few stowaways, during their voyage to England.

The central love story involves Billy Mathis (Alton Fitzgerald White), a stowaway, and Hope Harcourt (Rebecca Baxter). Their romance is doomed from the start since Hope’s father killed himself after the stock market crash and the couple is separated.

Billy isn’t rich enough to make Hope’s mother (Judy Frank) happy.

Reno also loves Billy and shows her affection in the song “I Get a Kick out of You.” The choreography, by Louis Johnson is somewhat stiff in this number but the vocal talents of Moore and White save the song from the depths of boredom.

The two lovers sneak away together as much as they can and we learn that they truly love each other and Hope’s pending marriage to Sir Evelyn Oakleigh (Martin Van Treuren) isn’t as inevitable as it seems.

There is also a quirky cast of characters, including a Yale alumna, Elisha J. Whitney (Robert Vincent Smith, who has perfect comedic timing) and a stowaway criminal, Moonface Martin (Stanley Wayne Mathis) with his companion, Bonnie (Dawn M. Ward). This ensemble is the backbone of the production and makes it all the more colorful.

As the first act winds down, the wedding looms ahead and Billy, is caught by the ship’s crew. They mistake him for a waiter and love on Cheers, will never be the same again after this movie endeavor. Harrelson’s role as Mickey is convincing. His sidekick Lewis manages to keep the audience’s attention with her sporadic episodes of aggression. Robert Downey Jr. gets into the picture about halfway through the film. As a T.V. host, Downey’s portrayal of the two killers has the population looking up to them as idols rather than brutal killers. Even the audience wants only the best for these two. A woman sitting next to me in the theater even admitted, “I hope they escape prison.” They are sick killers on the loose! As for most of Oliver Stone’s films, there is an underlying message to be learned. Natural Born Killers is what the public is anxious to see. This film is a mockery of what our society is hungry for viewing. Who do we want to hear about most: wanted felons. Think about it...Manson’s parole review every year, the O.J. Simpson trial, to hear about most: wanted felons. This obsession with fame is a very timely subject because the debate of America’s love affair with celebrity isn’t a new development.

However, Reno performs her evangelism and all are saved from their sins of decadence. Billy, being the nice guy he is, can’t live with the charade any longer and confesses that he’s just an unimportant stowaway.

REVIEW: Natural Born Killers, society’s state

by Kristin Jaagster

Oliver Stone’s latest film Natural Born Killers makes Ted Bundy and John Wayne Gacy seem like Boy Scouts to their profession. Woody Harrelson and Juliette Lewis portray two lunatics madly in love with one another as well as with the sight of blood. The body binges all begins when Mickey (Harrelson) rescues his loved Mallory from the wandering hands of her father. Together they avenge her parents and begin their journey on highway 666 randomly leaving a trail of victims.

Acting in the film is delivered in stunning performances by all in the cast. The man we’ve come to know and love on Cheers, will never be viewed from the same point again after this movie endeavor. Harrelson’s role as Mickey is convincing. His sidekick Lewis manages to keep the audience’s attention with her sporadic episodes of aggression. REVIEW: Forrest Gump

by Kelly Schab

It shouldn’t take much for people to like Forrest Gump, with its impartial recollections of the fifties, sixties and seventies told through the eyes of a slow-witted yet insightful man along with its ingenious visual effects.

This tall-tale tracks the unbelievably eventful life of Forrest (Tom Hanks) who doesn’t know enough to be awe-stricken by the amazing things that has happened to him. This makes him all the more insightful as he can indeed “see the forest for the trees” as the old saying goes.

Throughout his life, Forrest is told that he’s too stupid to be an active part of the real world but time and again, he proves that his pure, free-flowing thoughts are inspirational gifts.

The core of the film is an ill-fated love story. Early on in his childhood, he meets a restless young girl named Jenny (Robin Wright) who prays to be a bird so that she could fly away from the troubles in her short life. Little does Forrest know that the girl he’s fallen in love with will use her wings and run away from him time and again. These appearances and disappearances of Jenny into and out of Forrest’s life are like a ribbon that ties the amazing story of Forrest Gump together.

While basking in his intellectual downfall, Forrest learns that he has great talents. One of these, running, puts him through college and gives him an opportunity to meet a president. This in turn gives him a shot at love, as Forrest says good-bye to Jenny, the simple pain that he feels is transmitted very well by Hanks.

Forrest Gump, this emotion doesn’t seem excessive as in many Hollywood movies. Rather, it feels real and true. For example, every time Forrest says “saying” or “saying” or “saying” or “saying,” Hanks, the character doesn’t realize that his only love will do this to him every time they meet.

Of course, as the Billboard chart shows, the music also intensifies the story. The hot-selling soundtrack is comprised of hits that represent each decade the film is set in. One of the best blend of sight and sound is Forrest’s landing in Viet Nam as Clarence Clearwater Revival’s “Fortunate Son” blares on.

In a summer comprised of blow-ups and car chases, Forrest Gump is a welcome addition to the group. There are enough catch phrases to last appreciative audiences until next summer and the story, while over two hours long, is a wonderful introduction to America’s love of heroes and tall tales.

REVIEW: The Lion King

by Kelly Schab

Disney always attempts to attract adult as well as young audiences and The Lion King is no exception. In fact, with its beautiful artwork and soul lifting music, this film is probably the most attractive to all ages that Disney has made in quite a while.

A the film opens, we see a grand variety of African animals gather for the presentation of their lion king’s first born male cub. Striking giraffes, mighty elephants, elegant zebras, colorful birds and a host of others are brought to life in a wonderful display of animation. This powerful scene is spiritual in its beauty and awe-inspiring in its display of talented Disney artists.

Thus begins the story of a lion’s journey to understand what his place is in the circle of life.

An interesting point about the structure of the story is that it is a rime. This is a circular poem, story or song like William Taylor Coleridge’s “Rime of the Ancient Mariner” or even “Row, Row, Row Your Boat.”

The beginning is marked by the birth of the new prince Simba (Jonathan Taylor Tomlin Poor). The ending is marked with the birth of Simba’s son. The title of the movie itself explodes on the screen in the same manner and both times to wrap up the “circle of life” that is stressed in the story. This prompts continued on page 20

enough, certain segments involve a perspective one might think an acid trip would render: melting faces, hallucinations and flashbacks.

This film is not recommended for children. Just when you’ve become comfortable with these two they can snap. However, for adults, this film isn’t only about violence, it represents visions of what we are capable of becoming due to media misuse. Mickey and Mallory’s journey is a self-healing process that would understand and Olive Stone’s cleverness allows the viewer to fall victim to them.
by Kelly Schab

James Carrey is so outrageously physical in his performance in The Mask that one wonders if money was saved in the special effects budget.

Stanley Ipkiss (Carrey) is one of those “nice guys” who doesn’t get any respect from women. While they find his niceness a refreshing change from the jerks they’ve been dating, he’s just not exciting enough for them.

Boy does that soon change.

In a scene reminiscent of It’s a Wonderful Life, Stanley ponders life on a bridge. But instead of Clarence, the angel, coming to his rescue, Stanley spots a figure in the water and, true to form, jumps in to save the supposedly drowning human.

What Stanley finds is not a person in distress, but a mask waiting for a new owner.

Wet and still downtrodden, Stanley walks home to find solace in his faithful owner. But his special powers to local police, the officers don’t bat an eye and speak to the troublemaker as if he was a regular shmoe.

The vibrant colors of the sets and The Mask’s costumes remind one of a Tex Avery cartoon. Combined with the colors and costumes, it seems as if the movie was lifted right (if that’s at all possible) and when combined with the colors and costumes, it seems as the movie was lifted right from a Tex Avery cartoon.

The Mask is a perfect summer movie, right down to its cartoon qualities.

Voices are just developed a way to make Power Macintosh even more powerful.

(204) 855-3410

The animation is outstanding, especially as the soldiers march stiffed-legged across the screen.

Big hand sounds fill the soundtrack which provide a high energy coolness (if that’s at all possible) and when combined with the colors and costumes, it seems as if the movie was lifted right from a Tex Avery cartoon.

The comic relief that is so important in Disney films is a comedy team made up of Timon (Nathan Lane), a meerkat and Pumbaa (Ernie Sabella), a wild boar. These two sound like two New Yorkers who mysteriously wound up in Africa.

The songs, are much better than Aladdin’s and just as good, if not catchier, than Beauty and the Beast. They are boisterous when both the young Simba and Scar dream of the day they would be king and reverent as when the adult Simba (Matthew Broderick) finally realizes what his place is in the circle of life.

The animation is outstanding, especially the facial expressions. The African plains are absolutely stunning and the elephant graveyard is simply wicked. The stampede scene is so life-like that it will make one forget they are watching a cartoon.

The Lion King is a wonderful, well-rounded addition to the Disney library and hopefully it will signal a new tradition of using original stories for the studio.

The King of the Animal Kingdom continues with a broad canvass of the African plains. The Lion King is a strict, yet playful father who teaches Simba the knowledge of kings.

Of course, there is a catch to this happiness. Mufasa’s brother Scar (Jeremy Irons) is the outcast of the family and is quite jealous of the new prince.

Scar’s chance at becoming king is slight unless something happens to both his brother and Simba. Scar is just devilishly evil enough to do something about it.

There are plenty of references geared to adults such as the scene in which Scar looms over his troops of marching hyena soldiers. This looks mysteriously like a Nazi rally especially as the soldiers march stiff-legged across the screen.

Simba’s life starts out safe enough. His father Mufasa (James Earl Jones) is the outcast of the family and is quite jealous of the new prince.

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr. 19) It's a good thing you like pain, because the eight-week bout you're going to have with a mysterious blistering underarm rash is going to make last month's scabies seem like a picnic with Julie Andrews.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) Don't go off half-cocked, although I doubt that you can help it since the drill-press accidents are growing.

Gemini (May 21-June 21) Drinking all the watery residue in the bottom of the city's dumpsters might cause you to be excessively regular.

Cancer (June 22-July 22) It's hard to admit you're wrong, even to a friend, but it's even harder to bury that so-called friend while he's still alive.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) The upset stomach you have been feeling lately is caused by the fact that you are an earthquake and are experiencing continental drift.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your knowledge of the quadratic equation will help you when your car hits a moose.

Bradley named full-time women's coach

by Brian Falzarano

When Gloria Bradley was hired last year as head coach of the MSU women's basketball program, she knew it was only on a part-time basis.

"It took me (the position) with the intention of knowing it wasn't full-time," said Bradley. "It is extremely hard to do it part-time, but I took it with the intention of doing the best job I can."

Move ahead a year. The O.J. Simpson trial is on every network except The Nashville Network, baseball has a strike, and the MSU Department of Athletics upgrades the women's basketball job to full-time status.

So the Department of Athletics goes on a search to find a full-time coach. And who do they find? You guessed it. Bradley, the former head assistant coach of the Red Hawks, was named the women's basketball team's sixth head coach on June 13. If you were correct in your guess, pat yourself on the back.

Although she is working on a one-year contract, having the job in this enlarged capacity makes it easier to overcome what is going on. Also, it shows that there is more stability to potential recruits.

"Players like to know there is going to be some stability," said the 32-year-old former graduate of Seton Hall. "It makes everything I've tried to put into place easier to accomplish. It's also great to know you have the support behind you."

And Bradley does have support.

"We are delighted to have Gloria with us as a full-time coach this season," said Assistant Director of Athletics Holly Gera. "She did an excellent job in a part-time role last season. We're looking forward to this year."

Last year, the former teacher and head coach at East Orange High School led MSU to a surprising season. Despite losing star center and NJAC Player of the Year Shannon Shaffer, the Red Hawks went 14-11 mark and won the ECAC Metro NY/NJ Women's Basketball title.

What made this even more impressive was that they did this after not even making the NJAC tournament (they finished fifth after a coin flip). Also, they got off to a slow start.

"We're going to try and bring it back to the level they were at," said Bradley of her intention to help recapture past glories at MSU. Entering the 1994-1995 season, the Red Hawks are 406-189 in 25 years of existence. She added that she would like to get back to the NJAC playoffs annually, as well, after not making the playoffs last year.

Other things she seeks to improve on are to get more alumni involved and to improve continuity in the program. MSU has had three head coaches in the past four years.

"It's pretty tough to switch different personnel," said Bradley. "Sounds like she may be here to stay."

A year makes all the difference

Offense fails as Red Hawks fall short in quest to repeat

by Joe Amoroso

The MSU baseball team wrote yet another page for the history books with their performance in 1994.

They wrapped up the year with a 36-11, picking up the NJAC title and their second consecutive Mid-Atlantic Regional crown enroute to the Division III World Series in an unsuccessful attempt to defend the national title.

A year ago, the Red Hawks were shutout, held to just two hits as Wisconsin-Oshkosh touched MSU pitching for nine hits in an 11-0 victory.

To keep their season alive, the Red Hawks faced UC-San Diego. MSU found itself trailing early in the game and could not pull ahead. Despite Ralph Yezza's two home runs, third RBI performance, MSU watched its season end 10-4.

They got that far by earning the first seed in the Mid-Atlantic Regionals and opened against sixth-seeded Eastern Connecticut in the first-round, who they defeated in their last 10 meetings, including two victories during the regular season.

"We have always played well against Eastern," said Schoening, "but you have to wonder when the momentum will shift. They are a good club and capable of winning any region."

For the first game, Schoening gave the ball to Carlson, the sophomore finished fifth after a coin flip. Also, they got off to a slow start.

This year, Bradley only has to contend with the loss of All-NJAC forward Judy Stair while trying to lead the Red Hawks back to the NJAC tournament. Making the tournament at the end of the year is one of her goals and it possible that it just might happen. But what would a coach be without having expectations.

"We're going to try and bring it back to the level they were at," said Bradley of her intention to help recapture past glories at MSU. Entering the 1994-1995 season, the Red Hawks are 406-189 in 25 years of existence. She added that she would like to get back to the NJAC playoffs annually, as well, after not making the playoffs last year.

Other things she seeks to improve on are to get more alumni involved and to improve continuity in the program. MSU has had three head coaches in the past four years.

"It's pretty tough to switch different personnel," said Bradley. Sounds like she may be here to stay.

HATCHLINGS

Details of the three MSU players who concluded their careers as Red Hawks when they signed contracts to play professional baseball. All except John Pallino were underclassmen.

Pallino, a first baseman/outfielder, signed a free-agent contract with the Lethbridge Mounties of the Independent League on June 11. One of the greatest to ever play at MSU, he was the all-time hit (259) RBI (224) leader. Those totals were third and second best, respectively, in Division III history.

A major surprise, Micucci was taken by the Chicago Cubs in the 47th round. He signed with them and is playing at their Short-Season A-Ball team at Williamsport, PA. A solid defensive catcher, he hit a mere .223 last year. As only a junior, he forfeited his eligibility by signing.

Keith Glauber only started pitching in September. But he earned high grades, throwing in the high 80's. Potential such as his got him drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals in the 46th round. Presently, the right-hander, who was 7-3 with a 3.13 ERA is playing for the Single-A New Jersey Cardinals.

Are the Red Hawks ready for prime time?
Questions at running back and defensive line need to be answered
by Glenn Steinberg

For head coach Rick Giancola and his MSU Red Hawks, last year began with a full head of steam only to quickly cool down.
According to Giancola, last year was like playing two different seasons.
“We began 4-0 and we were very pleased because things fell right into place,” said Giancola. “Then we lost three of our next six games. It was a tough year, from being right on top to not on top.”

Football Preview

Ultimately, a loss to Rowan College on the last game of the regular season cost them the New Jersey Athletic Conference (NJAC) championship (which Rowan won) and a bid into the NCAA tournament. With their 6-3 record, however, they were able to play in the ECAC Southwest Championship Game, which they won 17-9 against Dickinson College to finish the season 7-3.
Not only did last year bring an end to the season, but also to the collegiate careers of two talented running backs, Gerry Mattress and John Culver. Now Giancola has a hard task in trying to replace these two.
According to Giancola, fullback is solid with A.J. Wells, Ralph Cinque, Jayshone Coleman and Joe Owens. At tailback they have Neil Ruiz, Mike Johnson, who had 29 tackles. His presence will be missed, but they have other quality players to step in for him.
“Jeff was an outstanding player for us last year, but we weren’t by any means a one-man defensive team,” Giancola said. “We’ll miss his ability, but our supporting cast will step in.”
“But it does hurt,” he added.
On defense, Giancola said that his starting linebackers will be Mark Gatto in the middle and Eric Maclloyd and Jeff Bargiel on the outside. He believes that a big reason why the linebacker corps became such a strength this year is a result of the pickup of Kevin Johnson, who transferred from Penn State.
“These three give us a tremendous amount of speed and athleticism,” said Giancola. He also said that Kerwin is someone to watch on defense, noting, “You could see why he was in a Division I program.”

Another player to watch is defensive back Jermaine Johnson, who had off-season knee surgery. If he remains healthy, he will have an impact. Giancola said his knee is doing fine. They give him the necessary rest he needs, sometimes giving him part or all of practices off to keep him healthy.
The strongest part of the Red Hawks, according to the coach, is the kicking game and secondary. “We have an excellent kicking game, probably the best combination of players, though he does know Jason Williams and Dan Garrett will be two of the starters in MSU’s 4-3 defense.”
Three players that will be vital to the outcome of this season are co-captains Gatto, Karl Roberts and Wimberly. With all of the question marks on both offense and defense, Giancola does not believe there will be much of a difference between this year’s team and last year’s team.

Another change besides his mental preparation this year, more relaxed because he is a senior quarterback helps Giancola.
According to Giancola, Rubinetti is ready to improve on last year’s performance. “Last year I put way too much pressure on myself, but I was on a downswing with a full head of steam and it broke me. I want to have a good year and not worry about anything else,” said Rubinetti.

Rubinetti is ready to improve on last year when he had what he considered an off year.
“Last year I put way too much pressure on myself,” said Rubinetti. Another change besides his mental outlook will be that he will have a new holder, Daryle Pellegrino, the punter. He said that he feels different this year, more relaxed because he is a three-year veteran.

1993 Rubinetti had a good second year, hitting 15-for-18 extra points and had 29 tackles. His presence will be missed, but they have other quality players to step in for him.

“What happened with Scott is that he had such a great season two years ago that he put added pressure on himself last year,” said Giancola.
During last season, Rubinetti’s accuracy on both field goals and extra points dropped. He made seven-for-10 field goals and only 14-for-22 extra points. He acknowledged that his performance was not up to what it should have been.
“I started out good,” said the Lyndhurst native. “I went 6-for-6 on field goals and all three extra points. I ended up strong, but in between (the season) was not so good.”
Rubinetti blamed his lackluster performance on miscommunication between himself and the holder, quarterback Darren Volker, and the mental pressure he placed on himself.

DOUBLE DUTY: He will still serve as the head coach of Red Hawk Men’s Soccer. Now, Rob Chesney will also serve as the pilot of the Women’s Soccer team. The former MSU player replaces Peter Latartara, who left after a four-year stint, to become the second head coach in the program’s five-year history. Look for Brian Falzarano’s feature on Chesney next week.

ON HIS OWN: Charlie Holecker, bullpen coach for the MSU baseball team, has taken the post of head baseball coach of the new program at Caldwell College, an NAIA Division II program. He was once coach at West Caldwell High School, where he coached Red Hawk great John Pallino.

NEW COACH IN TOWN: Noreen Cassidy was named the new head coach of MSU Cross Country. Staff writer Nick Gantafis will have coverage in the next issue.

COMING NEXT WEEK: A special “Players to Watch” segment. We will talk to coaches in Football, Men’s and Women’s Soccer, Volleyball, Cross Country, Field Hockey and Women’s Tennis and find out who should be looked out for and why.

MSU moves on from Blanton sentencing

by Nick Gantafis

The past few months for the MSU Track and Field program have been a long, hard journey for the team members and for the program itself.

During the fall semester of 1993, former head track and field coach John Blanton was accused by an unidentified female athlete of the MSU track team for engaging in sexual misconduct during the course of the season. These allegations were later taken to court and Blanton pleaded guilty to the charges. He received various fines and penalties. He also must recieve five years in probation. In addition, he can no longer hold a state or federal job.

Shortly after MSU suspended Blanton, the track and field program was taken over by assistant coach Charlie Bethoe. Bethoe lead the team to an unprecedented season and the entire indoor season before resigning.

Upon Bethoe’s resignation and with the best interest of the MSU and its athletic department, they searched for an interim coach. The athletic department felt that the best qualified candidate for the interim head coaching position would be former student and standout athlete Leander Knight.

Knight was hired as a part-time coach who will be in charge of the indoor season and the outdoor season. The cross country program will be headed by Knight’s assistant, Noreen Cassidy.

Both Cassidy and Knight feel that this season will be a promising one, although Knight admits that inheriting a squad that was in the middle of turmoil was difficult at first.

“I’m a player’s coach and I can relate to my athletes,” said Knight. However he added, “My athletes have to understand education always comes first, followed by athletics.”

When Cassidy was reached, she did not have much of a reaction.

“I don’t really have much of a reaction because I wasn’t really connected to him,” she said. “I never saw him after John Blanton.”

This season’s outlook doesn’t look bad for MSU with the incoming freshman class hoping to add to the tradition of Red Hawk Track and Field. Knight and Cassidy are very optimistic with the female track athletes, especially Sharaon Lindo, who was named MVP at last season’s conference meet.

When Holly Gera, Assistant Director of Athletics at MSU, was asked about the Blanton case and its results, she responded by saying that she wasn’t truly aware of the outcome and Blanton’s penalties.

Gera did say that MSU wants to see the Track and Field program succeed, and depending on the school’s budget, they would like to see the head coaching job be restored to a full-time position.

“There becomes a problem of continuity when a part-time coach is in charge,” said Gera, something MSU experienced of face. “It becomes difficult to keep up with everything.”

However, Gera could not say for certain what will become of the head coaching position.

“After this season we don’t know,” she said.

From here the MSU Track and Field program kicks off their season with the Cross Country team. With an optimistic coaching staff and hopeful athletic department, MSU track should be back to its winning ways.

Baseball recap, from page 28

by Glenn Steinberg

The 1994 season for the MSU Red Hawks kicks off on Saturday against the Southern Connecticut State University Owls.

The Owls who are coming off a 3-7-1 record from the 1993 season haven’t met the Red Hawks since 1979, with MSU winning 14-13.

For SCSU head coach Rich Cavanaugh there are question marks at quarterback with a solid line and with their inexperienced backfielders.

Last season, starting quarterback Rob Burns completed 82 of 198 passes, throwing for eight touchdowns and a whopping 16 interceptions.

Also returning for the Owls are receivers Chris Ortiz (38 receptions, 677 yards, 10 TD’s), Phil Plummer and junior Mike Accedo (17-230, one TD), all who are good targets for Burns. Running the ball will be tailback Ellis Robinson (84 att., 457 yds., 1 TD) and fullback Scott Rowe (57-246).

One of the more solid areas for the Owls is at offensive line which has both size and experience. Starting on the line will be guards Scott Robinson and Jamie Grobebeck who are joined up front by Brandon Wrin, center, and tackles Tom Madigan and Joe Andruzzi.

Defensively, SCSU is experienced on their 4-man defensive line and in the secondary this season. Their captain, Anthony Idone and Anthony Pattern are solid tackles and the Owls moved OLB Glenn Xavier to one end with Vladmir Jean-Mary at the other end. Returning at the corners are Marcel Dumais and Dwight Clark who are joined by strong safety Tom Caporale and free safety Fran Beauso.

Sloated to start at linebacker where the Owls need to develop consistency are J.R. Ferguson, Mike Teves and Terry Barreau.

On special teams an inexperienced Frank Biancamano, freshman, will be doing the placekicking and punting for the Owls while freshman Rick Poteete will return punts with Caporale and kicks with Sherema Sheppard.
Three Words: End the Strike

From the lush green grass at Yankee Stadium to the new parks in Cleveland and Texas, all the way to Dodger Stadium, it had been an incredible baseball season.

People were talking about the seasons of players such as Frank Thomas, Matt Williams, Jeff Bagwell, Tony Gwynn and Ken Griffey Jr. The Yankees were in first place and were driving towards a pennant. Therein lies the beauty of baseball.

But the baseball strike, the one that happens seemingly every seven or eight years has ruined it. Even coming back now would not replace the damage it already caused.

Why? Well, the owner’s are insisting on a salary cap. Sure, there are one in basketball and football. But you see the problems they cause (i.e. Phil Simms, Horace Grant).

Their reasoning is that smaller market teams (Pittsburgh, Seattle, Milwaukee) cannot compete with larger market teams such as the Yankees and Blue Jays. Teams such as the Mariners pull in a pittance from television rights in comparison to the lucrative 12-year, $100 million contracts the Expos have with the MSG network. Remember that in a city such as Chicago or Los Angeles, endorsements are easier to come by.

George Steinbrenner, owner of the Yankees, made a comment that the Montreal Expos, owning the best record in baseball since the second lowest payroll ($18.5 million), endorses the theory that a team can squeeze the nickel until the bulb... well, you know.

Steinbrenner and his buddies have a point. But the Expos have alot of homegrown talent and made some great trades. It still does not guarantee that the Expos can attract star free-agents or make them want to stay there (Remember Mark Langston?). As one of the aforementioned teams, they are a dual argument for and against a salary cap.

A player should be able to earn his keep. They make a lot of money, but people want to see them hit home runs, strike out batters, and make diving catches. After all, if the almighty dollar is king, why shouldn’t everybody try to sit on the throne?

A solution can be found. Here is two:

1. Make every team pool their money together from TV rights and every team gets 1/28th of the pool. It is simple and gives every team their share.
2. An unlikely alternative. Why not rent say, Skydome, in Toronto. Close it up and put all of the players in the Major Leagues in there and hide $800 million around the dome and guarantee each player the league minimum of $109,000 for playing.

It would be entertaining to watch these players sell their souls to get the money. Make it a game show for prime time. Call it “Money Talks,” sort of art imitating real life. After all, there are only so many times you can watch Urkel trip over a table on Channel 11 when a Yankee game should be on.

It would be great to see a World Series this year. In one of the greater seasons in recent history that has stirred up interest like none recently, there may not even be playoffs, let alone a pennant race.

Right now, the owners have got to figure out a way to get the players, the heroes of so many, back on the field. They are the villains at this point and will be until this gets resolved. With the strike, they put the players up an even higher pedestal than before.

Maybe it is about time the owners have realized this and let us have our game back.

PARTING SHOTS

CHUCK DALY quitting as coach of the NEW JERSEY NETS, or Swamp Dragons, or Mediocre Meadowlanders, was the right decision.

Not having any of your players show up when you are inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame is not exactly a show of gratitude.

Meanwhile, BRENDAN SUHR or PAUL SILAS should be the New Jersey head coach. BUTCHE BEARD was a bad choice.

MIKE KEENAN was trying to go one-up on BENEDICT ARNOLD, right.

After stealing the RANGERS’ spotlight, Keenan sunk to an all new low. His picture should be in the dictionary next to the words backstabber and liar.

I was at the ticker-tape parade for the Stanley Cup Champion Rangers. It was incredible to see a parade many of us never thought would have happened.

Maybe hockey can be a major sport after all.

Here’s hoping DOC GOODEN gets his life in order. In a MARLIN or GIANT uniform.

DAVE BROWN was the right choice as GIANTS quarterback.

But I will have a hard time getting used to not seeing PHIL SIMMS in the pocket. Simms shows why the salary cap is wrong.

DREAM TEAM... nevermind. I don’t have enough space to waste.

Great to see the World Cup was such a success. The U.S. played as well as expected. Still, even though they did not win, admit it. You enjoyed it.

Wasn’t SETON HALL trying to hire a younger, more charismatic coach. GEORGE BLANEY is old and unproven.

The wise choice all along was KEVIN BANNON of RIDER. Bannon is charismatic and young. Qualifies one builds a program around focus upon for potential recruits.

NOTRE DAME will defeat NEBRASKA for the National Championship at the Orange Bowl on Jan. 1.

Remember when WOODY HARRISON was just a naive bartender from Indiana.

Watch out for the HOUSTON OILERS this year.

See you in seven days.
