3-9-1995

The Montclarion, March 09, 1995

The Montclarion

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/montclarion

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/montclarion/723

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Student Newspapers at Montclair State University Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Montclarion by an authorized administrator of Montclair State University Digital Commons. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@montclair.edu.
Banker's Hours?

Students find it difficult to conduct their business on campus with such limited office hours (DeWitt, p.2)
Campus offices closed for lunch: students frustrated with inconvenient hours

By Jack Devitt

The operating hours of many offices on campus are insufficient according to MSU students. Many are closed from 12:00 p.m. to 1:00 p.m. for lunch. The lunch hour is one of the few times that students have a break and can try to get some help from these offices. Also most offices are only open one evening per week. Students with night classes find it difficult to arrange their busy schedules around these operating hours.

Senior Charlie Korch said, "If they even open, the departments never seem to be able to help you with the problem you have. They just send you to another office."

The financial aid office is one of the offices that is closed from 12:00 p.m. to 1:00 p.m. Dr. Randall Richards, Director of the Financial Aid Office, said that they close for three reasons. The office is experiencing a reduction in staff, full offices. They just send you to another office."

The financial aid office is one of the offices that is closed from 12:00 p.m. to 1:00 p.m. Dr. Randall Richards, Director of the Financial Aid Office, said that they close for three reasons. The office is experiencing a reduction in staff, full offices. They just send you to another office.

"When we are open...we try and provide all services. The result is better service for the vast majority who need attention," Dr. Richards said.

"The only free time I have is at lunch. It's like I can never get to solve the problems I have. It just gets me frustrated that I can never get the help when I need it," said Jennifer Falce, a freshman.

"It's good to know that there is always someone I can turn to if a problem arises," one student said.

Other offices that do not close for lunch are the Office of the Registrar, Undergraduate Admissions, and Student Accounts & Cash Control.

President Reid said that offices are probably closed because of a lack of staff. "Students on campus want to go to the offices during lunch, and are surprised to find them closed. We do not want offices closing for the convenience of the offices. If it is happening, I wish to know why. If it isn't justified then it will be changed. I will raise the issue with the departments to look into the hours for the convenience of the students."

All of the offices, however, offer a special convenience to students during holidays. They stay open and operate on a skeleton staff so that students have extra time when classes are not running.

SGA news

by Victor Carilo

A two and one-half hour discussion on whether the legislature should appropriate $7,500 dollars for a computer from the Capital Equipment line to 4-Walls, a class one of the SGA prolonged last night's SGA meeting.

4-Walls publishes a student magazine with poetic and artistic works of different students at MSU, and they felt that they were entitled to this equipment due to the nature of their work.

In the past, they reported that they have had several malfunctions with their current computer system causing them to postpone their publication. They explained that during the layout of the magazine, all of their three drives broke, leaving them with no way of saving the magazine that they publish. Representatives of the organization felt that it would make more sense economically, if they purchased a new computer instead of fixing the old broken one.

The legislature at one point felt that that was too big of an amount to spend for a computer and 4-Walls kept explaining that a system of this magnitude is needed to publish such a magazine.

Due to the debate, legislator Lawrence Ramsey proposed a formal amendment to take the monitor and the printer out of the package so $3,781 could be saved. His amendment was turned down by the legislature.

After 150 minutes of back and forth arguments, the chair called bill #S95046 for a vote and it passed 12-4-3.

In another topic of importance, Dr. Steven Koepp of the Mathematics and Sciences Department, Dr. Robert E. Gilbert of the School of Professional Studies and Dr. Wilson of the Humanities and Social Sciences Departments were presented with Excellence in Education Awards. These awards show students' appreciation for their teachers.

In other SGA news, the College Life Union Board (CLUB) was awarded a Class One charter by a vote of 17-0-2. Caribso, a Class Three of the SGA was appropriated

continued on p. 6

Join the Montclarion writers, photographers and production asst. needed

call 655-5169
Legal Studies Dept. announces new MA

by Victor Girsh

The Department of Legal Studies at MSU announced last week that the first Master of Arts Degree in Legal Studies in New Jersey, and one of the few in the United States, will be instituted in September, 1995. Dr. Marilyn Tavler, Chair of the Department of Legal Studies, said, "This is the first new program to be approved since the creation of the University [receiving university status] and since the abolishing of the Department of Higher Education."

This degree will provide opportunities for career enhancement for legal professionals. It also provides graduate instruction in Legal Studies through a broad range of subjects which develop a student's critical understanding of the law.

According to the announcement released this past week, this MA in Legal Arts is highly recommended for paralegals, human resource personnel, teachers of law-related education, dispute resolution providers and other legal professionals for whom advanced education in the legal field is beneficial.

"It is a chance for people to do advance study in the legal field, when law school is not the right choice for them," Tavler said.

The Department of Legal Studies reported that currently there are four highly qualified full-time faculty members in the Department of Legal Studies to support the Master of Arts program, with a fifth faculty member to be hired in September as Legal Research Coordinator.

Barbara A. Nagle, Graduate Advisor and a faculty member for the Masters program, said, "This program will give Montclair State broad recognition in the field of law at the graduate level." According to Mrs. Taylor there has already been a positive response to the program from faculty and students.

If you have any questions about the offerings, you can call the Legal Studies Department at (201)655-4152. If you wish to apply, contact Graduate Admissions at (201)655-5147.

Delta Kappa Psi found not guilty

by Teri Ryan

The Greek Council judicial court found Delta Kappa Psi not guilty of conduct unbecoming the Greek community, after a hearing held last Thursday. Dean Harris, Associate Dean of Students charged the fraternity after a student's neck was cut during a party held off-campus.

The vote was 15-13, but three of the jurors left before casting their votes. The jury was light to begin with, having only 31 members as opposed to the traditional 35.

The prosecution charged that Delta Kappa Psi neglected to provide adequate security at their party. They also stated that the fraternity violated New Jersey law by charging money for alcohol without a liquor license, and by serving alcohol to minors.

The defense said that they took all the precautions they could for an off-campus party. Delta Kappa Psi contended that since students have to rent houses in their own names, they are the ones who are liable, not the university.

Mike Costa, President of the Greek Council, said that he "can't fault Delta Kappa Psi for doing off campus what it couldn't do on campus." He also does not "agree with the administration putting in a hand to negatively effect any organization."

Dean Harris said that the situation at the fraternity house was dangerous and that he was worried about students' safety. In his closing argument, according to several anonymous SGA jurors, Harris stated that the only thing MSU is known for is the Confederate flag that Delta Kappa Psi brought to campus.

Greg MacSweeney, a member of Delta Kappa Psi, said, "I'm shocked that Dean Harris would build his entire case around student safety, but then in his closing argument, dredge up the Confederate flag issue. It makes one wonder why Delta Kappa Psi was really on trial. Luckily something positive should come of this with the Greeks taking a good hard look at this farce that some call a judicial court."

"The Greek Community is responsible for monitoring its own conduct. The SGA executive board, the Dean of Students, and the Associate Dean of Students can also bring charges against a Greek organization."

"There has been some confusion as to what "conduct unbecoming the Greek community" means. Delta Kappa Psi was charged with the same infractions during the Confederate Flag incident last fall. According to an anonymous SGA juror for the current case, "We need to outline rules stating what conduct unbecoming the Greek Community is. As it stands now, almost anything can be construed as conduct unbecoming."

Costa agreed that it was important to review the current guidelines saying that he is "happy it [the trial] started a dialogue without punishing anyone as an example."
Campus Police report

UPDATE

Maurice Perry, the MSU maintenance worker who was charged with stealing sodium chloride, went to court on March 2. He changed his plea from not guilty to guilty. He was fined. He is paying his fine on an installment plan.

ASSIST OTHER AGENCY

Feb. 28 at 2:00 p.m. the Clifton Police Department picked up an MSU student at the Campus Police Station. There had been a bench warrant issued for his arrest.

THEFT

Feb. 28 between 12:00 p.m. and 3:00 p.m. in the library a student left her purse briefly unattended, and her wallet was stolen from it.

The wallet was found in the train station parking lot on Normal Avenue at 3:05 p.m. and returned to the owner.

March 6 in the Blanton Hall cafeteria a female employee put her wallet in her coat pocket and hung up her coat. When she returned, the pocket and the wallet were missing.

March 2 between 11:00 a.m. and 12:00 p.m. at the Field House money was stolen from a jacket pocket.

March 2 between 4:00 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. a wallet was stolen from the library.

HARASSMENT

Feb. 28 at 5:30 p.m. a female student, standing in the metered parking lot at College Hall, reported that a man drove into the lot and told her to get into the f—ing car. She refused and he continued cursing at her. When her husband arrived, to pick her up, the other man drove away. She was able to describe the driver and his car, but she could not provide the license plate number.

CRIMINAL MISCHIEF

March 5 at 12:50 a.m. a glass door in the Student Center Ballroom was broken and blood was found on the ground.

March 5 at 10:15 a.m. in lot 28 the rear window of an '85 Chevrolet Blazer was broken and the contents of the vehicle were thrown on the ground.

March 6 between 12:30 a.m. and 4:30 a.m. in Memorial Auditorium a campus emergency phone was found on the ground. It had apparently been ripped off the wall.

SUSPICIOUS ACTIVITY

Feb. 28 at 7:30 p.m. a student reported that a male student was following her in the auditorium during the Battle of the Bands concert. He approached her and asked her if she had a knife. He said that she probably wanted to cut him, and that if she did he would bite her.

Campus Police escorted him out of the auditorium and identified him. The victim said she did not want to pursue the incident any further at that time.

She reported that the same man had followed her in the past, but that she had not been that concerned until he made the comments. The dean of students was notified of the incident.

March 4 between 4:00 p.m. and 4:20 p.m. a female student in the library put her raincoat across a chair. She later noticed a male student touching the coat.

She asked him to accompany her to the Campus Police station. He agreed and reported that he was a library assistant. He said that he was leaning over to pick up some change he had dropped, when he accidentally touched the coat.

ASSAULT/FIGHT

March 6 at 6:25 p.m. two residents of Blanton hall were fighting in the lobby of that building. One man accused the other of stealing money and property.

The two exchanged harsh words. One man displayed a razor blade and the other's jacket was cut.

One man was punched in the face and suffered an abrasion and swelling. He refused medical attention.

The two had been friends for some time. Neither wanted to file criminal charges against the other.

The dorm director asked one of the men to leave for the night. A discussion was scheduled for the next day.

MEDICAL

March 6 at 11:08 a.m. a male maintenance worker was climbing a ladder when it unlocked and collapsed. He injured his elbow, ankle, and both hands.

ALARMS

Feb. 28 at 11:09 p.m. a motion detector in the bookstore set off the intrusion alarm.

March 5 at 10:46 a.m. in Bohn Hall, several residents reported smelling the odor of electrical burning.

It was discovered that the smoke was coming from the elevator room in the basement.

One of the elevator motors or a bearing had burned out. The Clifton Fire Department was called.

The elevator company and campus maintenance were informed.

MISCELLANEOUS

March 3 an MSU student was arrested by the Montclair Police Department. An investigation is underway.

---

Rape stats. shock students

by Candler Meyer

Recently another woman was attacked on campus. Since we live in a culture of violence against women, a self-defense course should be a mandatory part of our education.

It would be more practical than a large majority of the required GERs.

A film shown in Women's Worlds classes at MSU, Dreamworlds: Desire/Sex/Power in Rock Video examined people's attitudes about rape and gender roles. The director of film studies, Linh, a determined and ambitious student, reported in this country every six minutes.

Sixty percent of the men surveyed agreed that the women provoked it if dressed "suggestively" or if the guy paid for a date. Forty percent of surveyed women also agreed with that statement. Thirty percent of men surveyed said that, "rape would do some women some good." A rape is reported in this country every six minutes. One in four women were raped in a lifetime in the U.S.

---

Asian organization coming back to MSU

by Terri Ryan

There will be an Asian organization at MSU again. A constitution is being written up and is in the process of getting approved by the SGA.

The percentage of Asian students at MSU has been a rising figure in recent years and does not appear to be slowing down. Since the club representing this population at MSU dissolved years ago, Linh, a determined and ambitious student at MSU, is working hard to organize interested students and set up meetings once again.

The Asian Organization will be updated in several ways. The organization will welcome anyone interested in joining or attending functions, without discrimination of their race. Social activities will be held, as well as charity fundraisers. Tutoring will also be made available to members.

The objective of the new society is to promote cultural awareness and a sense of community between the diverse races on campus. The group aims to open opportunities for foreign exchange students or newcomers of the country. Organizers hope it will make meeting and socializing with Americans and other exchange students easier.

Other ideas are still under consideration. If you are interested, have suggestions, or just curious, stop by a meeting or call 667-2231 for more information.
LAST CHANCE!!!
The last Senior Portrait sitting will be MARCH 20 - 24, 1995
in Student Center Cafeteria B.
Sign-up Sheets are at the Student Center Information Desk. Spaces will go quickly, so sign up ASAP.

If you're a Senior and you can't make it to this Senior Sitting, and you still want to be in the yearbook, you must go to Lorstan Studios in Union.

First time sittings are FREE. Retakes are $10.

Any Questions, call the La Campana office at 655-4346.
$285 dollars from the MTA account for a trip to the Caribbean Music Awards to be held in the Apollo Theater in Harlem, NY.

A bill containing ideas for improvement in Residence Life was passed by a vote 14-0-0.

There were two possible forums announced. Tara McCaffrey, the Director of External Affairs, announced that there are plans for an open forum on tuition hikes, to be held on March 28, 1995 in the Student Center Ballrooms. The Director of Academic Affairs, Lauren Pytleski announced that an open forum on Hate Crimes is in the works.

NO COVER
ONE BIG PARTY
LADIES NIGHT WED & SUN
$1.00 DRINKS ALL NIGHT
THURS. $1.00 DOMESTIC TILL 11PM
DOORS OPEN AT 8:30PM
991-6969
337 KENNY AVE. KENNY, NJ

FREE ADM w/College I.D.
ONE BIG PARTY
WEDNESDAYS
75¢ DRAFT $2.00 SOL + JAGER
ALTERNATIVE, REGGAE, TECHNO, TRANCE ETC.
DANCE CLUB
DIRECTIONS: JUST 10 MINUTES FROM CAMPUS. TAKE RT. 3 EAST TO PASSAIC AVE. EXIT. GO RIGHT OFF RAMP. GO TO THIRD TRAFFIC LIGHT AND MAKE LEFT ONTO VAN HOUTEN AVE. GO TO FIRST TRAFFIC LIGHT AND MAKE RIGHT ONTO B’WAY. LOOP IS ONE BLOCK ON RIGHT SIDE.
373 BROADWAY, PASSAIC PARK, NJ
201-365-0807

STUDY IN IRELAND
Fall 1995

St. Patrick’s College
Maynooth, Ireland
- Liberal Arts Program
- 30 Student Maximum
- 3.0 G.P.A. Required

University of Limerick
Limerick, Ireland
- Business Program Option
- International Student Village
- 3.0 G.P.A. Required

SPONSORING COLLEGES
St. Bonaventure University-Three Rivers College

For more information, contact:
Dr. Benjamin Hadis
Montclair State College
International Studies - Russ Hall
Upper Montclair, NJ 07043
(201) 655-7574

Other CCIS Programs: Italy, England, Scotland, Sweden, Germany, Portugal, Greece, Israel, Spain, France, Mexico, Ecuador, Colombia, China, Switzerland, Japan.

The College Consortium for International Studies Bookstore getting a face lift

by Anne Johansen

The campus bookstore is currently undergoing renovations so it can improve services to students and make the bookstore easier to use, said Richard Ammerman, bookstore manager.

There will be a wide array of cosmetic changes to bring the university bookstore up-to-date. Because there will be an increase in retail space, an area will be set aside for returns.

Some of other improvements include the re-introduction of more general reading books, magazines, and the increase of the trade book department.

There will also be a textbook customer service representative on the floor to assist students.

MSU is not paying for the renovations. They are being paid by Follett, the Chicago-based company that leases and runs the bookstore.

"It's part of the original proposal that Follett submitted to the college," said Ammerman. Follett also runs the bookstores at Seton Hall and Bloomfield College.

Many students feel that prices are too high. "There should be more used books," said Kim Nucera, an English major, "and I like the clothing that they sell but I'm a college student and can't afford to pay those prices."

"The publisher controls the prices of the new textbooks," said Ammerman. "We prefer to buy back books and sell them used so that we don't have to pay the publisher for new books or for the freight."

The bookstore tries to have as many used books as possible for resale, said Ammerman. As for the price of clothing, Ammerman said that the bookstore has a "higher quality product that we've ever had in the store."

Students have complained about the low prices paid for book buybacks or that the bookstore won't buy their books at all.

"I bought $80 and $60 textbooks and they wouldn't buy them back," said Doreen Kruk, a political science major. Ammerman said that when students sell their books back that many students get back 50 percent of what they originally paid.

In Dec. 1994 the bookstore paid a total of $115,000 to students who received half of their original purchase price.

If the book edition has been changed there is no market value for the previous edition. "Publishers are constantly bringing in new editions because they want to block the used book market," said Ammerman.

The condition of the book is also important. For example, if a student has written in a lab book or the cover is missing the bookstore cannot buy those books back.

Professors must also get their book orders in on time. If the professor runs the book order in late the bookstore won't be buying back books from students, said Ammerman.

Some students have complained that the used textbooks are still too expensive.

"We work on the margin that has been the industry standard for the past nine years," Ammerman said.

Follett has customer service cards located at the main registers. Students with complaints about prices or products should fill out these cards. "We read the cards and what students say," said Sue Wiggins, a representative for Follett.

Ammerman said that he maintains an open-door policy for students, and if they have any complaints they can go and talk to him.

The renovations are scheduled to be finished by mid-April, but the first phase is running ahead of schedule, Ammerman said.

Republicans and Democrats battle over education

by Dave Richards

Do you know about the contract with America? If your answer is no, then don't feel bad because fewer than 30 percent of Americans had even heard of it when they voted for a Republican sweep of Congress in November. The contract is a 10-point plan which includes proposals to balance the budget, reform welfare, restrict congressional term limits, and incorporate a series of personal and corporate tax cuts. But what does this mean to the average college student?

Middle class college loans appear to be the most vulnerable in the wake of the Contract with America. Currently, the government affords students a grace period on loan interest while they are in school.

Republicans plan to do two things: eliminate that grace period, as well as cut nearly $20 billion in student aid. If approved, loan interest would begin accruing immediately and the largest increase in the cost of college in the nation's history would occur.

These student aid proposals appear on a list of "possible offsets" to help pay for the GOP plan.

"The publisher controls the prices of the new textbooks," said Ammerman. "We prefer to buy back books and sell them used so that we don't have to pay the publisher for new books or for the freight."

The bookstore tries to have as many used books as possible for resale, said Ammerman. As for the price of clothing, Ammerman said that the bookstore has a "higher quality product that we've ever had in the store."

Students have complained about the low prices paid for book buybacks or that the bookstore won't buy their books at all.

"I bought $80 and $60 textbooks and they wouldn't buy them back," said Doreen Kruk, a political science major. Ammerman said that when students sell their books back that many students get back 50 percent of what they originally paid.

In Dec. 1994 the bookstore paid a total of $115,000 to students who received half of their original purchase price.

If the book edition has been changed there is no market value for the previous edition. "Publishers are constantly bringing in new editions because they want to block the used book market," said Ammerman.

The condition of the book is also important. For example, if a student has written in a lab book or the cover is missing the bookstore cannot buy those books back.

Professors must also get their book orders in on time. If the professor runs the book order in late the bookstore won't be buying back books from students, said Ammerman.

Some students have complained that the used textbooks are still too expensive.

"We work on the margin that has been the industry standard for the past nine years," Ammerman said.

Follett has customer service cards located at the main registers. Students with complaints about prices or products should fill out these cards. "We read the cards and what students say," said Sue Wiggins, a representative for Follett.

Ammerman said that he maintains an open-door policy for students, and if they have any complaints they can go and talk to him.

The renovations are scheduled to be finished by mid-April, but the first phase is running ahead of schedule, Ammerman said.
Rothenberg speaks on Gender and Race

by Kristina Mathison and Erica Duncan

On Monday, Paula Rothenberg, Director of the New Jersey Project and professor of Philosophy and Women’s Studies at William Paterson College, gave a lecture entitled “Gender, Race and Class in the 1990’s: Is the Personal Still Political?”

Rothenberg stated in one of her books that only white Americans, especially white males, can be racist due to the American history of slavery. She also stated that all men and only men can be sexist in our current society.

Rothenberg wrote in her book entitled, Racism and Sexism: an integrated study, “While an individual person of color may discriminate against white people or even hate them, his or her behavior can not be called racist.”

Rothenberg spoke of the impossibilities of making sense of the past, present and future without the concern and use of one’s gender, race and/or class.

She gave examples from the New York Times of how women are portrayed in today’s American society. She showed the audience ads of scantily clad women which appeared next to the major business news of the world.

Rothenberg also mentioned the philosophy of John Stuart Mill who believes that there is a distinction between the public and the private. For example, if a man beats his wife in the street, he can be arrested, but if that man abuses his wife inside his home, it is a matter that is supposed to remain behind closed doors.

Rothenberg reached the climax of her lecture when she discussed the differences in our education and how that ultimately effects our insights. She theorized that our schooling has taught us to see the world through the eyes of white, upper class, Christian males.

Rothenberg said that we tend to notice what interests us. For example, she said that when a person buys a new car she sees that make and model everywhere she goes even though she may never have noticed that type of car before.

If one does not have the knowledge, then one does not have the ability to notice the difference between one’s race, sex and class.

SGA Class I-IV make ASO “Culture Night ’95” a great success

By Anthony O’Donnell

On Sunday, March 5 the Arab Student Organization presented “Culture Night ’95,” a campus-wide event involving the participation of all Class I and II organizations, and several Class III and IV groups. Held in the Student Center Ballrooms, the event featured readings, theatrical sketches, traditional dances and a live band playing popular and traditional Arabian music.

A spirit of “unity in diversity” prevailed as the various organizations made enthusiastically received presentations. Their subject matter varied widely. Among the offerings were African tribal dances performed by members of the O.S.A.U. A comical sketch describing the “pick-up” techniques of Frenchmen by Le Cercle Francais, Caribbean dancing by LASO, and numbers from the musical Hair by players performers.

While the acts proceeded, guests were invited to help themselves to an abundant supply of food provided by the sponsors, the group and Le Cercle Francais. Hors d’oeuvres, croissant sandwiches, pizza and soda were followed by various desserts and coffee, and a large cake made to commemorate the event.
One Step Through Our Doors and You Know This Is No Ordinary Book and Music Store

* Over 100,000 Titles
* Over 50,000 Music Titles
* Live Music every Friday at 8pm featuring some of the best blues, folk and jazz musicians in the country
* Open Poetry Nights the last Thursday of the month beginning at 7:30 PM
* Cafe Espresso features gourmet coffee and dessert, espresso and capuccino

For more information on upcoming events please contact (201) 785-9105

BORDERS
BOOKS AND MUSIC
80 Wayne Towne Center, Rt. 23, S.
Books (201) 785-0037 Music (201) 785-0175

HEY, LISTEN UP JERKY! WE'RE MOVING!

101.5 WMSC can now be found at 90.3 on the FM dial.

WE PLAY THE BEST NEW MUSIC IN NORTHERN NEW JERSEY!
Dr. Hess’ lecture on “assault on Mars”

by Kurt Richardson

Dr. Fred Hess gave a very eloquent and charismatic speech, which was sponsored by the North Jersey Astronomical Group. He opened with a classical Greek quote from the king of the gods, Zeus, “Ares ranged the battlefield, striking deadly blows on all sides, his two squires, Deimos (fear) and Phobos (panic) accompanied him together with other sombre divinities eager to drink the black blood of the dying.” Ares was disliked not only for his thirst for blood and slaughter, but for his brutality and blind violence, yet Ares rarely emerged victorious from combat either with immortal Gods nor with minor ones, in his love affairs he was also unhappy, being laughed to scorn by the other Gods during his adulterous affair with Aphrodite, the Goddess of love and beauty (Venus).

Mars is the Roman name for the Greek god Ares. The ancients associated the planet Mars with negativity because of its reddish color.

Current interest in Mars is generated by the simple fact of its being so accessible to mankind. Mars is only eight-thousand miles away from the Earth and it would take approximately two months to travel there. Mars rotates on its axis every twenty-four and a half hours. It’s day is only slightly longer than Earth’s.

Newt Gingrich has recommended the colonization of Mars and would allow those who went to live tax free.

Nine mariner satellites have been sent to Mars for expositions and photographs to map out every square inch of this planet’s surface.

The craters on Mars’ surface are not impressive because of Mars’ atmosphere. Sand storms can last from three to seven months. Cirrus Major is the greatest sand pile on Mars.

The next time Earth and Mars will be in perfect opposition will be June 13, 2001. This will lessen the time for the Mars destination. Beams will be shot down from ships to examine the surface of Mars and to detect the radiation of the sun’s atomic frequencies. Minerals will be scanned for their consistency to determine the safety in biological experiments with the soil. Mars is the target for tomorrow.

When the colonization of Mars is complete it is a must that the natural satellites will also have to be visited, to better understand the relationship of the two orbiting celestial bodies, Phobos and Deimos.
Whoever said "the best things in life are free" probably had a trust fund.

It's everywhere you want to be.
For fast relief from the nagging ache of taxes, we recommend TIAA-CREF SRAs. SRAs are tax-deferred annuities designed to help build additional assets—money that can help make the difference between living and living well after your working years are over.

Contributions to your SRAs are deducted from your salary on a pre-tax basis. That lowers your current taxable income, so you start saving on taxes right away. What’s more, any earnings on your SRAs are also tax-deferred until you receive them as income. That can make a big difference in how painful your tax bill is every year.

As the nation’s largest retirement system, we offer a wide range of allocation choices—from TIAA’s traditional annuity, with its guarantees of principal and interest, to the seven diversified investment accounts of CREF’s variable annuity. What’s more, our expenses are very low, which means more of your money goes toward improving your future financial health.

To find out more, call our planning specialists at 1 800 842-2888. We’ll send you a complete SRA information kit, plus a free slide-calculator that shows you how much SRAs can lower your taxes.

Call today—it couldn’t hurt.
Wednesday Night

is College Night

After 9 PM

$1.00

- Coors Extra Gold Mugs
- Coors Light Mugs
- Wings
- Rings
- Fries
- Nachos

Only $1.00 Each All Night Long!!

No Cover

$5.00 Pitchers

$2.00 Goldschlager & Jagermeister Shots

At

Franklin Steakhouse & Tavern

8 TVs

Good Food

21 & Over

Darts

Cold Beer

522 Franklin Ave. Nutley, NJ (201) 667-1755 Call for Directions Interview: An anatomical perusal of Flesh

by Darla Bruno

Why Flesh? Drummer, Gonga gives an earnest answer in a heavy Boston accent, "it comes from the Bible. It tries to put aside differences. Flesh, everybody has that in common." Hmmm, a more introspective answer than I expected. I thought maybe a tribute to Jeffery Dahmer or some sexual reference.

DB: Recently someone described your album Flesh to me as "funk metal" how would you describe your music?

G: It's not really a category. We vary our music as much as we can. The main thing is we put emotion into everything we can. Each song has a story behind it. Mark writes all the lyrics. For example, "Almighty Man" is about God. No one can be like him. So don't try.

DB: Oh, doubting my original suspicions so you guys are religious?

G: Well, we are some Christian band but Mark is really religious. A lot of his inspiration comes from the Bible. He's not into preaching, the bible is just a source for his inspiration.

DB: Aside from your obvious religious influences, what are some of your musical influences?

G: Me personally? Anything. Extreme has always been a big influence. We're all field players (he mentions how all of the band members are instrumentally versatile). I'm influenced by my other band mates, the same goes for them. Everything, Cheap Trick, The Beatles, AC/DC.

Flesh has been together for eight years. Gonga was previously a roadie for them but auditioned as a drummer two years ago and has been playing with them ever since. Flesh are from Boston and mostly play in and around the New England area. They recently started a tour with Extreme in Florida and are working their way up the east coast. They'll be coming to The Academy in Manhattan March tenth. When asked about the experience of touring with Extreme, Gonga announced, "it's great. We love it!"

G: This is our first album. We had 400,000 demos but one real album. The record's on it's way down south. It may not be out in stores yet. We're trying to get national distribution.

I ask my favorite question.

DB: If you could redo the soundtrack of a movie, which would it be?

G: We got asked to do a track for the Highlander III film. It didn't work out, though. I don't know. Jesus Christ Superstar. That works. It would be a great challenge.

My last question of the interview is pretty generic but Gonga's answer lends insight into the mechanics behind an ambitious band bulldozing their way to stardom.

DB: Describe your overall experience with the band.

"Our shows are based on a lot of energy. It's very physically demanding. There's nothing else I'd rather be doing right now."

G: It's very educational. You learn a lot about everything. It's a lot of work mentally. On stage it's like working an eight hour day in that set. Our shows are based on a lot of energy. It's very physically demanding, but there's nothing else I'd rather be doing now.

Flesh is Gonga on drums. Marcus on guitar. Steven Powell on bass and vocalist, Paul Bettencourt. Flesh will be playing with Extreme at the Academy March 10.

MARK YOUR CALENDARS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Event</th>
<th>Location</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Mar. 11</td>
<td>Illustrated Lecture “The Early Buildings of New York City: The Problem of the Numismatic Evidence” by John Klebergh of the American Numismatic Society, 815pm, School of Humanities and Social Sciences, Rm. 177 Free. Call 4419.</td>
<td>Art Forum Lecture Series Art building Auditorium Free</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mar. 12</td>
<td>Mass</td>
<td>11am Newman Catholic Center</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mar. 13</td>
<td>Film “Inherit the Wind” 7pm School of Humanities and Social Sciences, Rm. 155 Free</td>
<td>Call Audrey Leef at 4267</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mar. 14</td>
<td>Computer Training “Intro to Word” 10 am - noon, College Hall, Room 317 call Faith Roberson to reserve a seat X5449.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mar. 16</td>
<td>Meeting Alcoholics Anonymous every Thursday 1pm Student Center Rm 418</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mar. 17</td>
<td>Theatre Treeworks USA “Curious George” 10 am and 12:30 pm For tix call Theatre Works at (201) 420-82-2</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mar. 14</td>
<td>Conference 1995 New Jersey Governor’s Conference on Tourism “Celebrating Our Diversity, Charting A Course For The Future” Gov. Christie Todd Whitman, Guest Speaker 12:30 pm - 2 pm, luncheon Press conference following luncheon. Ocean Place Hilton Long Branch, NJ for info call Joy Farber (609) 633-7287 or Beth Harris (201) 539-0300</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mar. 12</td>
<td>Film “The Singing Fool” (1928 Musical) sponsored by the Montclair Film Society in the Conference room at Montclair Public Library for Info call 744-0500 Free</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

For more Info, regarding events on or off campus, please contact Darla at X5169.
The Fashion Boutique
by Deanna Mazza

Within the next few days I'm sure many of you will be gearing up for Spring Break '95. If you're looking forward to sun, fun, and relaxation, one item will surely be needed: that's right, a bathing suit. I know...some cringe at this horrid word but this season is all about diversity. So, don't fret. If you're one who dares to bear it all or likes to leave a little to the imagination there's something stylish out there for you.

First off, you should consider the specific activities you intend to participate in while you're away. With this information you will make educated decisions based on your needs. For instance, if you plan on basking in the sun all week lean towards something with thin straps. However, if you know you're going jet-skiing, snorkeling, waterskiing, etc. you should consider an athletic suit that will enable you to compete while looking feminine.

It appears that the colors ushering in the season at Macy's (Willowbrook) are the standard navy, white, and black. Juxtaposed to these traditional cruise wear suits, Vernessa Hodges, store manager of Water Wear in the Short Hills Mall, said "Soft colors will be in this season. A lot of pastels: pink, light blue, neutral colors and yellow." The material suits are being constructed from the same fabric - nylon/lycra - and delve into the cotton blend realm. To spice up the flat material often used in suits Hodges said the new ribbed, crochet and poplin textured fabrics add subtle detail to otherwise simple suits. It seemed to me that one piece suits are making a comeback this season after the "next to nothing" phase died down. However, Hodges explained "one pieces have always been in" with older consumers and Sweet's fresh, spontaneous charm. Calvin Klein's black and white retro inspired suit is practical for outdoor activity because it has a shore tennis-like skirt attached to briefs and is paired with a tank top. Speedo suits are becoming the rage since utilizing different prints and color schemes in their athletic cut bathing suits. Similarly, tie dyed suits by Cole are also in the spotlight this season as being a great update to the 90's.

For those of you who aren't interested in spending $60-$100 for suits you might want to look in Marshalls or other discount stores. They have great selections at significantly lower prices that department stores.

Sarongs are also important because they add to the overall appearance of a suit. According to Hodges, the sarong is cut in a half moon shape and fastens around the waist. Another great accessory for dressing up suit is a pareo. Hodges explained this as a large piece of rectangular fabric that is usually constructed from the same pattern in the bathing suit. The pareo can be worn as a jacket, skirt, or dress because the cotton, chiffon, or lycra fabric is not pre-cut in any way. Hodges said this specific style is available from the manufacturers Gottex. As for bikinis there are many shapes and sizes to choose from. However, this season is littered with significantly more suits with trunks, briefs, and skirt bottoms than in years past. The overall sense is that the teeny bikini is getting a more athletic shape. So as the skirt lengths get shorter bathing suits seem to be getting more material.

Don't be a big dork write for the Arts section X5169

C'mon feel The Noise
by Sydney Greenberg

When I first got assigned to review the band The Noise, I thought it would just be another crappy college band. I thought it would be very raw and rough. I was thrown for a loop. It's more professional than I thought it would be.

The opening reprise to the tape "Swing Party," is woven into a great opening with a killer bass, and a funky guitar thing. It then goes on into vocals of the song, I can't really understand his voice, but they have this cool echoing effect going on. It kinda reminds me of "Jester's Dance" the way he's all echoey like being in a canyon.

What I did understand of the vocals had to do with icy cold and hot. It reminds me of the time when my roommate got caught in the Pathmark trying all the Icey-Hot. The Noise is very rock 'n roll, no new wave whatsoever. It's pretty alternative, in a very rock 'n roll way. Do you understand what I'm saying?

It's a very short tape, only a couple of songs, but it's enough to give you a good idea of the band. From what I gather from the press releases, this is more than a cheesy college band, these men are mature. That's probably the reason why they sound pretty good. They seem to be aware of their instruments enough to collaborate with each strength that they possess.

The song "Ramona" starts out like something I'd hear from L7, but when the vocals kick in it isn't like that anymore. I really dig the instrumentals in this piece, it's very Riot Grrrl at a point except the band is all guys. The only thing I don't like about the song is that they fuck around with the tempo, one minute it's fast, the next it's slow. It kind of jumps around a little to much with the beat and tempo.

The last song "Car Crash" is about as rock 'n roll you can get in the 90's without being dubbed as 80's glam rock. I still can't understand the vocals, but there's nothing I can do about that. The singer seems to have a good voice, me and my roommate like it. And I really like the bassist, he can play.

The band is in all, pretty good. It isn't really my type of music, but it's still good. For example, I won't cringe or cover my ears when I hear it. As a matter of fact, I might even see them play live if I could, just to see how good they really are...and maybe then I could understand the vocals.
Hey kids! I'm really broke, so I didn't do anything cool this past week, which is why you are all being treated to a fabulous CD review. The CD we will check out is the second one, "Lester Leaps In." Lester first recorded his tune with Count Basie's Kansas City Seven on September 9, 1939; ten years and eight days later on September 18, 1939, he re-recorded it with Charlie Parker. It's like a wine that ages well over time, the older, the better. This track is a very good example of Young breaking the rules and going his own way. He plays his horn so lightly that it seems like it's a alto, but it still holds tenor qualities.

"Lester Leaps In" is actually based on George Gershwin's "I Got Rhythm," if you listen you will hear. This is not the only track that is based on Gershwin's original score. Although some of the music is borrowed from other artists, it makes no difference because all these artists add more than they have taken, This Jazz is not Blues or Dixieland or Rag, it's Jazz—pure and simple. No strings attached, no papers to sign to make it, unadulterated jazz.

Now go and buy the CD, I bet you love it, because Ella will lull you, Rich will keep your heart rate steady, Bird will astound you, and Lester Young will excite you.

So here's an idea for next week, why don't you all stop by and give me a nice, shiny quarter so I can go to a jazz club in Boston over Spring Break. I'm really broke. I'll see you all in two weeks!

P.S. Since registration is coming up soon, you all should try to sign up for Dr. Ongela's "Introduction to Jazz" course...you will not be sorry.
Battle of the bands: A hodgepodge of musical talent

by Tami Morgan

Great. Here we have five, all original bands who have come to perform for our raging crowd of about fifty people, which by MSU standards is what we’d call a huge gathering, but it was good to see you there.

The first band onstage was Curious Works who consisted of Marissa Von Bargen on lead vocals, Ted Boyer on lead guitar, Rich Coccoli on keyboards, bass player Bob Von Bargen (lead singer Marissa’s husband), and Roy Gionian on drums. They weren’t too bad, but they sounded like they listened to a lot of Rush in the early 80’s which is cool if you’re ... well, Rush. Lead singer Marissa had a great voice when you could hear it, but at times the band completely drowned her out. If you heard and liked them, all that would like to hear more, write to the band at: Curious Works 28 South Gateway Toms River, NJ 08753

Paul Jones on drums. Very hard sounding band who flies Mother Love Bone and The Red Hot Chili Peppers as two of their musical influences. I wasn’t crazy about them, but to be honest and fair, I usually listen to stuff like Hootie and the Blowfish. If you like your music hard and heavy, this band is for you. They wanted the Montclarion to thank their stage crew for them all of their help (they did have an excellent stage crew that night) and extend a warm middle finger to security for refusing to allow the audience to stand up and cheer for the band. Feel free to write to them at: Passion Green 477 Kinderkamack Road Westwood, NJ 07671

Next up was the Inbred. This duo consisted of Shikhee on lead vocals and Marshall on guitar and keyboard. They were interesting. Marshall attends MSU. Both wore black clothes, played on an intense music, a haunted castle with secret passageways, hair-raising shrills and a wind-up monkey wielding an ax.

John, Louise’s husband (as I mentioned earlier) died in the opening shot. John’s mom, Lady Maloran, had some problems of her own... She was diagnosed insane by the good family doctor who was more of a lunatic than a physician. Richard was the hard-working son who was engaged to Kane, the dippy fiancée. Overall, I recommend this film but only if you’re willing to climb into the depths of Dementia 13.

The Inbred 49 Finnigan Ave, # D37 Saddle Brook, NJ 07663

Myrtle Strange went on last, but I’ll mention them here before I mention the next to last band. Myrtle Strange was Dave Alcott on bass guitar and backing vocals, Tony Condrina on guitar and lead vocals, Brian Dougherty on guitar and backing vocals, and Dave Collegrove on drums. They don’t go to school here, they are architectural interns, they are working on a CD and say “We don’t like to classify our music.” You want to hear more, write to: Myrtle Strange 27 West Campbell Ave. West Long Branch NJ 07764

The crowd yelled for more when they finished. ‘Nuff said. They don’t go to school here, but I wish they did. Stone blue asked for The Montclarion to thank whoever did the write up on them when the band played the Rat. They say “We are not grunge” (nope, they’re not!) Write to the very cool Stone Blue at: Stone Blue 253 Handy Street New Brunswick, NJ 08901

Which one is the insane killer? Dementia 13 (1963, B&W, 81 min.)

Contrary to popular belief this is not Copolla’s first film. Regardless, it’s worth watching if you’re a fan of horror classics. Influenced by William Castle’s Homicidal, Coppola wrote and directed Dementia 13 with financial help from Roger Corman, the producer. The film had a simple but bizarre storyline, hence the title, Dementia 13.

The film is set around a haunted castle in Ireland. With the use of crooked credit captions and music similar to Psycho the viewer immediately knows they’re in for an eccentric tale. The opening scene mysteriously defies the laws of logic. Louise (Luana Anders) dumps her husband’s body into a lake along with a radio that continues playing even under water. The film contained all the necessary elements to make a good horror story, occasionally goes into trances singing, “Fishy, fishy, in the brook, daddy caught you by the hook.” I’m not sure where the fish is but there were a lot of missing links in this murder mystery. For instance, Lady Maloran falls into a fatal shock in the middle of the film and is seemingly forgotten about by the others. Louise is missing and nobody cares. And there is no further mention of the will that was the original focus of the plot.

A comedic balance is maintained throughout the film thanks to the absent-minded dialogue of Richard’s fiancée, Kane. Overall, I recommend this film but only if you’re willing to climb into the depths of Dementia 13.

There will be no issue next week but stay tuned. The following week I will take you through a bizarre journey into the life of Ed Wood.

Film Foolish of the Week: (Taken from Film Fools, More Memorable Movie Mistakes by Bill Givens) In Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan (1982), when told that Spock is dying, Kirk runs to the engine room with his jacket buttoned all the way up. But when he reaches the engine room, it’s opened all the way back with the white flaps showing. Then when he gets to the glass, one lapel shows with the red side of the other jacket buttoned across it. When, he slides to the floor, both white jacket flaps show again.

When some important task of business has to be done, the busy student asks not when he or she would like to do it, but when he or she can do it. This often means either during their allotted lunch time, or following their afternoon classes. Unfortunately, during these times students may find the appropriate office closed.

The managers of these offices give reasonable-sounding accounts of their supposed necessity to close. But students must wonder why other important offices continue to function throughout the day. If the offices of the Registrar, Undergraduate Admissions and the Business Office can remain open, then why can’t the others?

President Reid has said, “we do not want offices closing for the convenience of the offices. If it is happening, I wish to know why. If it isn’t justified, then it will be changed.”

We thank President Reid, and we note his careful wording. We do not suggest that any office is being closed to suit any manager’s convenience. But we do insist that any claimed necessity to close be thoroughly examined. Perhaps some solutions could be found if they were more arduously sought. We trust President Reid will see that they are.

A request for such solutions would not be frivolous at any university. The fact that at this university many of our students work and/or commute makes the request all the more appropriate.
Joyous festivals. It is also a day of great events of man, the more we discover that we detect the unmistakable hand of Divine Providence. The closer we look into the intrigue, we do not find the name of G-d throughout this carefully woven story of evil ambition and palace espionage and suspense than sacred scripture. In fact, throughout this carefully woven tale, we do not find the name of G-d.

Purim, seems more like an epic tale of civilized world, an evil chamberlain, a diabolical plot to annihilate the Jewish population. The incident of Feb. 21 is only the most recent in a series of attacks that have occurred on our campus, and it raises a variety of questions including the following:

1. How many attacks have occurred on campus this year/this semester?
2. How many security officers are employed by MSU? What is the ratio of officers to staff, faculty and students?
3. What is the Campus Crime Watch Program? What does it do?
4. What is the Security Survey Program? Did it investigate the areas in which attacks have occurred? If so, what were its conclusions?
5. Does the SGA have a security committee or cabinet department? If so, what actions has it taken in light of the recent attacks?
6. Who is responsible for evaluating and maintaining campus lighting conditions? What criteria are used to determine what is "sufficient lighting?"
7. Why aren't regular foot patrols undertaken across campus in order to secure the areas between buildings?
8. Why aren't escorts available to those who need to be escorted between buildings after dark?

As tuition and fee paying students, as the ones who fill the parking lots and classrooms, we have a right to ask these questions, demand answers, and work to improve campus security.

Christine Dicistina, President, Women Students' Organization

Rabbi extends Purim greeting to campus

More than twenty-three centuries ago, when the Persian Empire dominated the civilized world, an evil chamberlain, Haman, devised a diabolical plot to annihilate the Jewish population. But on the thirteenth day of the month of Adar, they were delivered from the wicked Haman's decree. Each year on Purim we celebrate our victory and amortize our losses, remembering that Purim is not only one of our most joyous festivals. It is also a day of great significance, a day whose lessons remain relevant for all times.

At first reading, the Megilla (Scroll of Esther) which recounts the miracle of Purim, seems more like an epic tale of espionage and suspense than sacred scripture. In fact, throughout this carefully woven story of evil ambition and palace intrigue, we do not find the name of G-d mentioned even once! Yet within the intricate details of the Megilla, we can detect the unmistakable hand of Divine Providence. The closer we look into the events of man, the more we discover that every "coincidence," every seemingly insignificant event is precisely arranged by the hand of the Almighty.

The overturning of this evil decree was accomplished through unity and prayer. The power of unity and of prayer are equally accessible today. Jews worldwide will be joining together this March 16 and calling out to G-d to bring about a better world, a world of goodness and kindness. Who doesn't want a better, kinder world? All of humanity joining together to ask G-d for this is a voice that can't be ignored. Take a moment on this day and reflect on how much our world needs Divine assistance and how Purim is the day to accomplish this.

In addition, there are several wonderful mitzvot that need to be done on Purim such as giving to the poor, giving gifts of food to friends, and giving charity to the poor. There will be a major celebration on the night of Wednesday, March 15 with thousands of people in attendance.

For more information please call your Jewish chaplain on campus, Rabbi Benjamin Bressinger at (201) 267-8970. Let us all rejoice when good prevails over evil and understand that Jewish holidays are not just nice stories that happened once upon a time. Their lessons are for our time also, and their victories can be accomplished today.

Rabbi Benjamin Bressinger, Campus Ministry

Montclair readers may have noticed the figure of Socrates appearing in the editorial section lately. The following is a dialogue which the Montclairer Socrates might prefer had not been recorded.

Myself: Excuse me, Socrates! I wonder if I could have a word with you about the discussion you had with former Surgeon General Jocelynn Elders.

Socrates: Realy? About what precisely?

Myself: Well, I found that the discussion wasn't taken to it's full conclusion. You argued with Mrs. Elders that she was encouraging people to have sex by distributing condoms in schools and ended up with the supposition that it would be better to encourage abstinence because abstinence is 100 percent effective. Correct?

Socrates: Correct.

Myself: Well, granted, abstinence is 100 percent effective in preventing the spread of AIDS through intercourse. But is it 100 percent practical to advocate condoms? Socrates: Of course. If people are having sexual intercourse unnecessarily, and the distribution of condoms encourages this, then by advocating abstinence then you reduce the amount of unnecessary intercourse.

Myself: Socrates, are you actually advocating a specific opinion?

Socrates: Yes. I think it is important to promote abstinence as the only means of preventing the spread of AIDS through sexual intercourse. Does this mean that condoms should be distributed?

Myself: I doubt that you could be reasonably sure about that, but let's say you're correct. Let's say that 10 percent of the population of America has unsafe sex. If abstinence as the only means of preventing AIDS is advocated, then 10 percent of the population runs the risk of catching, and dying from, AIDS. Now, let's say that condom distribution is recommended as a means of protection along with abstinence. And let's say that of the amount of people having sex reduces from 10 to 20 percent. Granted, more people are having sex, but 20 percent of the population is having unprotected intercourse as opposed to the previous 10 percent having unprotected intercourse. Does this mean that more lives can be saved by including the distribution of condoms? This would overshadow the concern of encouraging intercourse? Or would you rather sacrifice people for the sake of morality?

Socrates: I, er, um....

Myself: I thought you would say that, Socrates. Or should I say (Craig steps forward and rips the latex mask of "Socrates") Nelson Alonso?

Alonso: How... how did you know?

Myself: Your first mistake was actually taking one side of the issue. The authentically Socrates didn't tend to do that. Plus, the real Socrates would have followed the discussion further than you did with Ms. Elders. I can't be sure if he would have endorsed my position, but he would at least have met with arguments acknowledging that lives were at stake.

Craig Klein, English major

Piqued by paper paucity

Recently I was reminded of a terrible situation that exists on our beautiful campus. While sitting in class, I was informed by my professor that he would like to have given us a study guide for a test, but could not because there was no copy paper available.

Can someone please give me an explanation? Is this not the new state university? Is there a wood shortage that I failed to hear about in the news? I find it hard to believe that with all the equipment this institution goes out to buy - with our tuition money - they can't buy a few thousand more reams of paper so I can get a stinking handout from my professor.

I hope Convocation Day comes soon so I can be reminded that we were really made a university. With problems like this we are a laughing stock to the whole university system. We better watch out or the university system will go out of business.

Anthony S. Gaetano, History major

Montclairian Mailbag

Campus security questioned

The most recent attack on a female student of MSU has reopened the debate concerning safety on campus. This tragic event has provided the opportunity to reevaluate the responsibilities we as students have for our own safety, as well as the responsibility of the university to provide a safe academic and living environment.

The incident of Feb. 21 is only the most recent in a series of attacks that have occurred on our campus, and it raises a variety of questions including the following:

1. How many attacks have occurred on campus this year/this semester?
2. How many security officers are employed by MSU? What is the ratio of officers to staff, faculty and students?
3. What is the Campus Crime Watch Program? What does it do?
4. What is the Security Survey Program? Did it investigate the areas in which attacks have occurred? If so, what were its conclusions?
5. Does the SGA have a security committee or cabinet department? If so, what actions has it taken in light of the recent attacks?
6. Who is responsible for evaluating and maintaining campus lighting conditions? What criteria are used to determine what is "sufficient lighting?"
7. Why aren't regular foot patrols undertaken across campus in order to secure the areas between buildings?
8. Why aren't escorts available to those who need to be escorted between buildings after dark?

As tuition and fee paying students, as the ones who fill the parking lots and classrooms, we have a right to ask these questions, demand answers, and work to improve campus security.

Christine Dicistina, President, Women Students' Organization

MSU Socrates unmasked

Montclair readers may have noticed the figure of Socrates appearing in the editorial section lately. The following is a dialogue which the Montclairer Socrates might prefer had not been recorded.

Myself: Excuse me, Socrates! I wonder if I could have a word with you about the discussion you had with former Surgeon General Jocelynn Elders.

Socrates: Realy? About what precisely?

Myself: Well, I found that the discussion wasn't taken to it's full conclusion. You argued with Mrs. Elders that she was encouraging people to have sex by distributing condoms in schools and ended up with the supposition that it would be better to encourage abstinence because abstinence is 100 percent effective. Correct?

Socrates: Correct.

Myself: Well, granted, abstinence is 100 percent effective in preventing the spread of AIDS through intercourse. But is it 100 percent practical to advocate condoms? Socrates: Of course. If people are having sexual intercourse unnecessarily, and the distribution of condoms encourages this, then by advocating abstinence then you reduce the amount of unnecessary intercourse.

Myself: Socrates, are you actually advocating a specific opinion?

Socrates: Yes. I think it is important to promote abstinence as the only means of preventing the spread of AIDS through sexual intercourse. Does this mean that condoms should be distributed?

Myself: I doubt that you could be reasonably sure about that, but let's say you're correct. Let's say that 10 percent of the population of America has unsafe sex. If abstinence as the only means of preventing AIDS is advocated, then 10 percent of the population runs the risk of catching, and dying from, AIDS. Now, let's say that condom distribution is recommended as a means of protection along with abstinence. And let's say that of the amount of people having sex reduces from 10 to 20 percent. Granted, more people are having sex, but 20 percent of the population is having unprotected intercourse as opposed to the previous 10 percent having unprotected intercourse. Does this mean that more lives can be saved by including the distribution of condoms? This would overshadow the concern of encouraging intercourse? Or would you rather sacrifice people for the sake of morality?

Socrates: I, er, um....

Myself: I thought you would say that, Socrates. Or should I say (Craig steps forward and rips the latex mask of "Socrates") Nelson Alonso?

Alonso: How... how did you know?

Myself: Your first mistake was actually taking one side of the issue. The authentically Socrates didn't tend to do that. Plus, the real Socrates would have followed the discussion further than you did with Ms. Elders. I can't be sure if he would have endorsed my position, but he would at least have met with arguments acknowledging that lives were at stake.

Craig Klein, English major

Opinion/Thursday, March 9, 1995

All letters to the editor must include a phone number.
Cannon fodder welcome, gay or straight:
Columnist questions usefulness of military

Recently, a TV movie entitled "Serving in Silence: The Margarethe Cammermeyer Story," starring Glenn Close in the title role, aired on NBC. It's somewhat strange that I should mention this, seeing that, admittedly, I didn't watch it. Nevertheless, I gathered enough information from NBC's promo to discover that it was based on the true story of a female combat veteran who was released from her high ranking post in the army when it became known that she was a lesbian. This movie appeared in a timely manner, considering the heated debate centering around this issue, particularly during the Clinton presidency. In my view, however, people on both sides are overlooking the real issue.

I find that few people on either side bother to consider the merits, or lack thereof, of the military in the first place. Moreover, I disagree with those who say that this is beside the point.

Few would argue that the military is one of the most idealized and glorified institutions in society, be it in this country or abroad. We're bombarded with propaganda urging people to enlist. These ads are generally targeted at young men in their late teens or early twenties, and appeal to a sense of adventure and machismo. Slogans such as, "Be all that you can be", "Full Speed Ahead," and, "We're looking for a few good men" are typical examples. In the case of television or magazine ads, romanticized images are used, showing men congratulating one another after having scaled a steep cliff, generally with a magnificent sunset in the background. Radio ads use dramatic, "Go get 'em boys!" music to entice the young listener. Likewise, for as long as anyone can remember, miniature soldiers, in one form or another, have been the toys of choice for many young boys.

Several minor details are omitted from these ads. For instance, the question, "Are you prepared to take another person's life if one of your 'superiors' deems it necessary?" is never asked. Other questions not posed include: "Do you have faith in Joe Senator's or Corporate Big Shot's ability to establish whether or not you belong at the scene of the conflict in the first place? Are you ready to reconcile yourself with the fact that your opinion on these two questions becomes irrelevant the moment you enlist? Do you realize that many soldiers become desensitized to violence, and are left emotionally scarred once they return? Do you know that the very government officials sending you to "restore democracy" in some third world country are often the same ones who put the country's dictator at the helm in the first place?"

Having read these questions some of you might respond, "Yes, but enlistment in the military is an effective way for those who lack money to get their share of the pie. It also offers the possibility of promotion to more prestigious posts." It seems to me, however, that the same can be said about organized crime. Though I know many will disagree with me, I feel that the distinction between the two is much more subtle that people would care to admit.

All things considered, can the homosexual community play an effective role in the military? The answer is yes. This is also the case with women and children, as shown by Iran during its recent war with Iraq. Yes, they too can be exploited for military purposes. You'll forgive me if I find nothing worth celebrating in any of these facts.

Likewise, when faced with the question, "should gays and lesbians be banned from the military?", I choose to answer it on different terms: people throughout the world would be better off if they avoided self-defeating "Us and Them" cliches. Human life is not expendable. You say you want to serve you country? There are crises such as inadequate health care, homelessness, and the decay of the public school system, to name but a few. All need and deserve more than the lip service that they've been given. "nuke the bastards!" heroes are not likely to make a dent in them any time soon.

Replacements' attitude inspires nostalgic fan

May I toss an unsolicited point of view into the proverbial ring re the baseball strike? Not all of us understand the intricacies of this strike. As a matter of fact, the only thing that is mentioned is the financial "this and that" of what is going on.

I, like so many others, was brought up on baseball. We played it, we talked it, we flipped it and traded it, we watched it and we read it. We knew the stats because we are them for breakfast with our Wheaties. We treasured it, not because the cards were an investment, but because the game was part of our lives.

I'm sad for the players that now have a chance to stand at the plate of a real stadium. They are being scorned and laughed at and called names that they don't deserve. Haven't they stuck with the game all these years without six-or-seven-figure salaries and product endorsements? They personify baseball's spirit of old. What principles are they undermining by crossing this picket line? Are they compromising their values by wanting to play ball?

I would much rather watch baseball being played by men who love the game rather than by some "superstar" who's been in and out of drug rehab or who habitually cries about his contract. And if I'm the only one that feels that way, then so be it. I'm not afraid to say that I'm looking forward to watching some baseball this year, even if I have to keep referring to the boxscores for the players' names.

Erica's Beat, p. 22

OPINION/THURSDAY, MARCH 9, 1995

GOP reptiles attack mammals on welfare

Watch out! Jurassic Park, Part II is in Congress and the GOP reptiles are attacking indigent welfare recipients, particularly children. In the Republicans' punitive welfare provisions AFDC and food programs, such as school lunches and WIC will be cut so the GOP can subsidize a tax cut and capital gain tax that will primarily benefit the rich. The welfare system must be overhauled to stimulate welfare recipients to become economically independent, but not to draw them further into poverty. Many people agree, though, that welfare should be completely eradicated. However, these programs rely on the mythical belief that most of the taxes we pay are allotted to welfare. In reality, only 1% of the Federal budget is appropriated for the welfare program.

The Republicans' draconian proposal to cut welfare and food programs will adversely affect 9.7 million children who depend on Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), the main Federal welfare program. The GOP proposes that the Federal government render states a lump sum of money (which they call a block grant) so state legislators can design their own welfare program. The proposal also ALSO sets a limit on future spending. I don't see a problem with states being more autonomous, but I fear that states might divert the money to other state programs and forsake the poor. The most disturbing fact is that block grants will not be increased by the Federal government in times of recession. The welfare recipients who reside in states that are governed by Republicans, such as New York and New Jersey, will be hurt twice since Republican governors also plan to cut their state share for welfare. We must reform welfare, but we cannot penalize the millions of children who benefit from AFDC.

Gingrich's welfare reform bill will require states to eliminate welfare benefits and the work programs to recipients after two years, even if they do not find a private job. Conversely, Clinton's plan does not chastise recipients for not finding a job in the private market. His proposal provides that recipients can work for the government if they do not find a private job in two years. Most important is Clinton's offer that if a welfare recipient's salary can only cover rent and miscellaneous needs, the mother will still be eligible for food stamps. We have to be realistic that most welfare recipients are uneducated single mothers, the majority of whom have been abandoned by their husbands. It is difficult for a single mother to earn enough money to support her children and pay rent and medicine alone. If we want single mothers to work and her salary is not sufficient to cover medical care, we must guarantee health insurance for children and aid her with child care. Unfortunately, a provision by Democrats that would guarantee childcare for welfare recipients who work was defeated in the House Ways and Means Subcommittee last week. Republican representative Jim Nussle's callous response to Democrats was, "Child care is not the government's responsibility."

The GOP also proposes to make $40 billion in cuts on other programs which include housing, WIC, and most importantly, school lunches and breakfast programs. The school lunch is not part of welfare, but it is worth mentioning it because it also strikes at disadvantaged children. It is just too disheartening to sacrifice these children's meal and then propose more expenditure in the military and a tax break for businesses.

POSITIVE CONTROVERSY

By Eridania Perez-Jaquez

Comics, p. 24

MONTCLAIRION

Pensées

By David Bordeau

Erica's Beat, p. 22

Montclairion

MONTCLAIRION
Dutch wisdom may apply to American woes

Like many film makers in the 1980's, Jonathan Blank was disturbed by what he perceived as Reagan's emphasis on economic freedom at the expense of civil liberties. Blank left the United States in search of a society that was more tolerant of problems, a society which had an almost religious view of civil liberties and the right to privacy. He found it in Holland, and made Dutch society the subject of his documentary, Sex, Drugs, and Democracy.

Holland is a civil libertarian's dream, and its totally uninhibited view of drugs, sex, crime, and privacy would probably give Newt Gingrich a heart attack. According to Blank, the Dutch view the United States as a negative test case to their ideas. Interestingly, Holland has fewer social problems and a much lower crime rate than almost any other industrialized nation.

Sex is treated as it should be: a natural human function, with different variations for individual tastes. Pornography, with the exception of child pornography, is completely legal, as is prostitution. Adult theaters abound, and sex manuals covering every topic, from AIDS prevention to tips on how to masturbate, are readily available.

As with sex, drug use is completely legal. Marijuana is sold everywhere, from the street corner to gourmet marijuana shops. There are Drug Advice Bureaus to tell holders how potent the marijuana is and to remind them of the risks and responsibilities of any particular drug. Holland was also the first country to implement a government-run clean needle exchange program for IV-drug users in order to stem the spread of AIDS - and it has worked. Holland has the lowest instances of AIDS of any country.

Holland also has a different way of dealing with crime, a way that would have William Bennett pulling his hair out. Capital punishment has been abolished in Holland, and sentences for violent criminals are short. The jails they stay in are like country clubs compared to prisons in other countries. Holland's crime rate is also very low.

The wealthy in Holland pay their fair share in taxes. Holland has a very progressive tax system, and the revenue that is gained, instead of being spent on a wasteful criminal justice system, is invested in social problems.

Can Americans learn something from the Dutch? We can, but we won't, unless there is a change of mind from the old Judeo-Christian idea of punishing sin and delaying pleasure. I believe that it would be a good idea just to study Dutch society. After all, with the lowest AIDS, drug abuse, and crime rates, the Dutch must be doing something right. Some will ask if we should adopt such policies in our country. Should we allow people to indulge in their own excessive and potentially self-destructive behavior? To quote the poet Blake, "The road of excess leads to the palace of wisdom."
Affirmative action advocate cites personal success story

There is a movement across America to put an end to Affirmative Action. It is troubling that these elements are so close to home, as in the case of those students who for the past several weeks have written letters to the Montclarion supporting the annihilation of Affirmative Action. It is not surprising that the ones who are vehemently opposed to it are "angry white males," as Joe Paternoster (Mailbag, 2-23-95) puts it.

Affirmative Action opponents argue that it is both racist and sexist. Jason Alders (Mailbag, 3-2-95) calls it "ethically and constitutionally wrong." Is Mr. Alders referring to the Constitution of the United States of America, which states that "all men are created equal"? America, which has for over 400 years oppressed blacks, various minority groups and women alike? The American plutocracy of a white-male elite, who has always denied these groups of civil, economic, political and basic human rights? Affirmative Action was installed to watch over this institutional racism/sexist, and ensure that it could no longer be practiced. It is not surprising then that, according to Mr. Paternoster, the "angry white males" are the ones against Affirmative Action.

The sentiment is that they are being discriminated against. They feel that their jobs and opportunities are going to minorities and women. I do not deny that Affirmative Action has its flaws, and that it is in some isolated cases, used as a discriminatory tool. However, the percentage of minorities and women who do attain jobs through Affirmative Action is very small. We all it should not be very difficult for you gentlemen to understand how disgusting it is to be forced to fight so hard, and in many cases, die to gain some level of freedom and equality, which is still not fully reached. And how disgusting it is to have to instill and vigorously enforce laws that protect such simple freedom and equality; laws such as Affirmative Action. Laws that ensure that blacks and women get equal treatment. Because morally and ethically plutocratic America was never very keen on equality.

In my opinion, America is not yet racially mature enough that it can afford to abolish Affirmative Action. If we did so, we would simply revert back to the pre-civil rights mentality, and institutional racism/sexist would be reincarnated. Because one cannot be naive enough to think that racism/sexist no longer exists. Twenty-five years of post-civil rights America is not enough time to reconcile 400-plus years of brutal oppression and economic/educational inequality.

In retrospect to the racial problems in America, I feel that doing away with Affirmative Action would be a heavy blow to the fragile racial stability of America. Because of civil rights, minorities and women were allowed to place a foot in the door, now some elements in our society want to slam that door before they get their entire leg in. Affirmative action is not discriminating against white males. It is merely serving as a watchdog, ensuring that minorities and women are no longer denied the equality that they have earned and deserve.

To prove the effectiveness of Affirmative Action, I also have a true story to share. Unlike the story by Jason Alders, mine is based on factual information, not paranoid assumptions.

On February 21 a female student was assaulted on campus between 9:14 p.m. and 9:24 p.m. near the amphitheater. The simple fact of the incident was enough to provoke debate. The time and location of the attack made the debate especially heated. Many students, especially women, have been wondering just how unsafe our campus has become if an assault can take place so early in the evening only a short distance from the campus police station. The question on many students minds is "what must be done?" My question this week turns to the problem of the students.

What suggestions do you have for Campus Police and SGA to better security for students at night?

The following students had this to say:

Diana Violaris
Sophomore
Sociology
"Campus needs to have better lighting and the poles should be more elevated. Campus Police also needs to patrol the parking lots to ensure the safety of the students leaving at late hours."

Name Withheld
Freshman
Sociology
"The residence halls should have more than one security guard roaming the buildings. The guard at the front desk should not be the only one in the hall. They also need to make their presence known at night. I have only seen campus police in the day when there are more students on campus."

Santa Lluberes
Sophomore
Undecided
"There should be no limitations on a time to get an escort. Campus Police must be under the impression that freaks only come out after 8 p.m."

Brian "Philie" Clyburn
Junior
Early Childhood Education
"Campus police needs to be more visible at night. It is also my opinion that security at the parking lots needs to be tighter. Regarding the escort service, the police should pick up both men and women. It should not be only for the women on campus."

Joan Coleman
Sophomore
Psychology
"The escorts should be allowed to take more than one female. They feel that if it is more than two women that we can walk even if it is at an obscene hour in the morning."

Tom Tracy
Sophomore
Business Administration
"Escorts by Campus police should be provided whenever a student deems it necessary, not just when the shuttle buses stop running."

Is there a question that you would like answered? If so then please drop off your suggestions for future columns in the box labeled "Erica's Beat" in the Montclarion office.

I was admitted to MSU through the Educational Opportunity Fund (EOF), which is a product of Affirmative Action. My SAT scores were 750. My GPA in High School was around a 2.0. I was not involved in any school organizations (other than gangs), and did not community service. I was ranked among the lowest in my class and barely graduated. According to Charles Fraser (Mailbag, 3-2-95), I am one of those "students who lack the academic background needed to survive in a University."

And indeed, under the regular admissions criteria, I would never have been admitted to MSU. However, thanks to EOF, who gave me the equal opportunity to a good education that as an American, as a human being, I deserve.

Since being a student at MSU, I have been actively involved in several organization on off campus. I have been awarded numerous academic awards, was honorably inducted into Epsilon Omega Phi (an honors fraternity), been on the Dean's list several times, studied abroad in England and at NYU, maintained a GPA of 3.5 or better, and am now about to graduate in just three-and-a-half years.

Do you think that Affirmative Action failed in my case? There are so many other students exactly like myself, who only need the equal opportunity to succeed. There are students who need the chance that the inner-city fails to offer. If we were to do away with EOF and Affirmative Action, we may never find these students; they will be lost in the streets, in gangs, in jails and cemeteries.

My friends, Affirmative Action is a crucial policy that we must not abandon. It is a necessary investment in the future of America.

On February 21 a female student was assaulted on campus between 9:14 p.m. and 9:24 p.m. near the amphitheater. The simple fact of the incident was enough to provoke debate. The time and location of the attack made the debate especially heated. Many students, especially women, have been wondering just how unsafe our campus has become if an assault can take place so early in the evening only a short distance from the campus police station. The question on many students minds is "what must be done?" My question this week turns to the problem of the students.

What suggestions do you have for Campus Police and SGA to better security for students at night?

The following students had this to say:

Diana Violaris
Sophomore
Sociology
"Campus needs to have better lighting and the poles should be more elevated. Campus Police also needs to patrol the parking lots to ensure the safety of the students leaving at late hours."

Name Withheld
Freshman
Sociology
"The residence halls should have more than one security guard roaming the buildings. The guard at the front desk should not be the only one in the hall. They also need to make their presence known at night. I have only seen campus police in the day when there are more students on campus."

Santa Lluberes
Sophomore
Undecided
"There should be no limitations on a time to get an escort. Campus Police must be under the impression that freaks only come out after 8 p.m."

Brian "Philie" Clyburn
Junior
Early Childhood Education
"Campus police needs to be more visible at night. It is also my opinion that security at the parking lots needs to be tighter. Regarding the escort service, the police should pick up both men and women. It should not be only for the women on campus."

Joan Coleman
Sophomore
Psychology
"The escorts should be allowed to take more than one female. They feel that if it is more than two women that we can walk even if it is at an obscene hour in the morning."

Tom Tracy
Sophomore
Business Administration
"Escorts by Campus police should be provided whenever a student deems it necessary, not just when the shuttle buses stop running."

Is there a question that you would like answered? If so then please drop off your suggestions for future columns in the box labeled "Erica's Beat" in the Montclarion office.
Travesties will only cease with institution of SGA Judicial Branch

Last Thursday, MSU was again treated to another legal comedy. The Greek Council Judicial “Court” was called back into session by the Associate Dean of Students James Harris.

One may recall that Delta Kappa Psi was charged last Fall by Greek Council President Mike Costa with “Conduct Unbecoming the Greek Community” for possessing a Confederate Flag.

Last week, Delta Kappa Psi was again brought up on charges of “Conduct Unbecoming the Greek Community,” but this time for having a party.

This time, although there was no flag involved, Delta Kappa Psi held a party where some students were injured during a fight and were charged with the same identical charge that landed them in “court” last semester.

This raises some serious questions about the process of a “court” that can charge an organization with the same charge for two entirely different actions. For instance, under the Greek Council’s system of justice, people were still ready to adopt the old stereotype: the “gay plague” stigma had reappeared.

I’ve been talking to people about their feelings towards Greg Louganis’ announcement that he has AIDS. While I listened to the different opinions, I couldn’t help but realize that the things I was hearing were strikingly different from what I remember people saying when they found out four years ago that Magic Johnson was HIV positive.

The most frequent observation that people have made is that the shock isn’t as intense because Louganis, unlike Johnson, is a homosexual. Once again, the extent of my naiveté became clear. Even though the disease had forced itself into mainstream awareness so that it could no longer be marginalized as an exclusively homosexual phenomenon, people were still ready to adopt the old stereotype: the “gay plague” stigma had reappeared. This assumption made by so many people that it is to be somehow expected that Louganis would develop AIDS - sadly proves that the revelations and work of the “normalized” face of AIDS by individuals such as the late Elizabeth Glazer and Magic Johnson have changed very little.

Another response to the announcement has been a sense of resignation. The Village Voice ran an article a few weeks ago which revealed that the AIDS rate, particularly among gay men, is increasing due to a sudden outbreak of unsafe sex. The column suggested that many people are suffering from hopelessness, no end seems to be in sight and the overwhelming loss that many of these people have suffered is in some way driven them to find unsafe sex a kind of outlet for this hopelessness.

When I originally read the column, my initial response was complete understanding. I too have seen a staggering number of friends, acquaintances and heroes die of AIDS. I’ve seen too many people receive their “honorary” section on the AIDS quilt, and I’ve seen too little progress in finding a cure. I couldn’t help feeling sympathy for the desperation that many must have felt.

But on reflection, I couldn’t sanction this reckless response from anyone, gay or straight. The reality is that AIDS remains one of the most prevenable diseases in existence. Not knowing how to prevent it - for heterosexuals or homosexuals - is no longer an acceptable excuse. Neither is hopelessness or resignation.

I continue to feel the deepest sympathy and support for individuals who are suffering from the disease. The fight for increased research and education will continue to revive my support until the day a cure is discovered. But I refuse to accept any resignation or hopelessness. To reach the cure, we have to keep ourselves safe, healthy, and most importantly, alive.

A friend of mine recently lost his brother to AIDS. We’ve often discussed the subject, and I asked him what he thought about this situation. We agreed that everyone must rediscover their hope, courage, and action that marked the AIDS activism and awareness movement at its onset. He summarized it perfectly: “If we let ourselves become numb to these deaths, then they might as well not happen at all. We can’t let this once again become a ‘not me’ phenomenon. You know, it’s the old saying - silence equals death.”

Despair and denial must be resisted in the struggle with AIDS

I’ve been talking to people about their feelings towards Greg Louganis’ announcement that he has AIDS. While I listened to the different opinions, I couldn’t help but realize that the things I was hearing were strikingly different from what I remember people saying when they found out four years ago that Magic Johnson was HIV positive.

The most frequent observation that people have made in that the shock isn’t as intense because Louganis, unlike Johnson, is a homosexual. Once again, the extent of my naiveté became clear. Even though the disease had forced itself into mainstream awareness so that it could no longer be marginalized as an exclusively homosexual phenomenon, people were still ready to adopt the old stereotype: the “gay plague” stigma had reappeared. This assumption made by so many people that it is to be somehow expected that Louganis would develop AIDS - sadly proves that the revelations and work of the “normalized” face of AIDS by individuals such as the late Elizabeth Glazer and Magic Johnson have changed very little.

Another response to the announcement has been a sense of resignation. The Village Voice ran an article a few weeks ago which revealed that the AIDS rate, particularly among gay men, is increasing due to a sudden outbreak of unsafe sex. The column suggested that many people are suffering from hopelessness, no end seems to be in sight and the overwhelming loss that many of these people have suffered is in some way driven them to find unsafe sex a kind of outlet for this hopelessness.

When I originally read the column, my initial response was complete understanding. I too have seen a staggering number of friends, acquaintances and heroes die of AIDS. I’ve seen too many people receive their “honorary” section on the AIDS quilt, and I’ve seen too little progress in finding a cure. I couldn’t help feeling sympathy for the desperation that many must have felt.

But on reflection, I couldn’t sanction this reckless response from anyone, gay or straight. The reality is that AIDS remains one of the most preventable diseases in existence. Not knowing how to prevent it - for heterosexuals or homosexuals - is no longer an acceptable excuse. Neither is hopelessness or resignation.

I continue to feel the deepest sympathy and support for individuals who are suffering from the disease. The fight for increased research and education will continue to revive my support until the day a cure is discovered. But I refuse to accept any resignation or hopelessness. To reach the cure, we have to keep ourselves safe, healthy, and most importantly, alive.

A friend of mine recently lost his brother to AIDS. We’ve often discussed the subject, and I asked him what he thought about this situation. We agreed that everyone must rediscover their hope, courage, and action that marked the AIDS activism and awareness movement at its onset. He summarized it perfectly: “If we let ourselves become numb to these deaths, then they might as well not happen at all. We can’t let this once again become a ‘not me’ phenomenon. You know, it’s the old saying - silence equals death.”

The Examined Life

by Jean-Marie Navetta

Chiefly Speaking

By Greg MacSweeney
Top to Cool Things Our School Doesn't Have!

By Candice Meyer
(Special thanks to Tara "Bazooka" McCaffrey, Anthony, & Jaime.)

10. All dormitories as high rises with a running track and tennis court on the roofs.
9. A Planetarium next to Bohn Hall which had laser light shows.
8. Test tube babies being born in the Biology department for all the students that sell their eggs & sperm for money.
7. Beach parties in the quarry with a Tiki bar.
6. Jazz bands that play in the outdoor cafe.
5. A gazebo overlook of the city with a waitstaff and wine with a selection of aged cheese.
4. Outdoor cement chess tables away from the Student Center.
3. Tanning salon in the viewing rooms of the non-print department in the library.
2. Psychedelic music playing 24/7 in the amphitheater.
1. An underground casino, with cock-fighting!

"The most disturbingly cheerful fighting game ever made just got better!" - Joe Shimoe "The Sega Losers' Monthly"

Postcards From the Ledge

By Kurt Richardson

Kablooey by Blue

No, don't even bother looking over here. Believe me, there is absolutely nothing in this space. It's just a huge waste of time to even bother to glance at this.
Global Processing Alliance in Totowa has P/T jobs encoding banking transactions. Monday-Friday 5 pm until finish. $6.00 hourly; 10% shift differential; incentive program. 50% tuition reimbursement. Call (201) 389-4932.

Babysitter to pick up son and to be in my North Caldwell home when daughter gets off school bus. M-F 3:00-6:00. Call Carol 228-5957.

EXTRA INCOME FOR '95 Earn $500-$1000 weekly stuffing envelopes. For details - RUSH $1.00 with SASE to: GROUP FIVE 57 Greentree Drive, Suite 307 Dover, DE 19901.

P/T female or male, $8 hr. Data entry and light shipping in office atmosphere. Hrs. 11 am-Spm flexible. Cedar Grove, call Laura at (201) 239-4050.

Immediate positions available. Ideal for student. Aggressive People needed to promote credit cards in the Willowbrook Mall. For local interview call: 1-718-984-7949.

“The Mike & Tony Show” is looking for you! Taped live for cable TV. Aired statewide on CTN. For further information, call Mike at 201-439-1136.

VOICE LESSONS Learn to sing with an active International Opera Singer living in Montclair. All styles from classical to Broadway. Call tenor Bradley Williams (B.M., M.M.) at 201-509-8582.

Furnished Room - Separate entrance, 2 blocks from College. Female preferred, $75/wk. Call 783-3584.

Typesetters and Copy Editors wanted. Call 655-5169 for more info.

Sincere music lessons in saxophone, flute and arranging! Over 20 yrs. professional experience in studio, jazz and classical playing and writing! Enjoy all levels. Call Gary at 201-836-7450. (Berklee Grad.)

Help wanted part-time Health Food store in Cranford, NJ knowledge of nutrition helpful 908-276-4270 Charlie. Flexible hrs.

Help wanted - Telemarketer, part-time days Mon-Fri, great opportunity for highly motivated person. Call 201-783-7303.

Roommate wanted - Male (w/dog) seeks male to share large 2 bedroom apartment in Bloomfield 20 minutes from MSU - modern kitchen, bath, dishwasher, washer/dryer. $375 a month plus utilities. & sec.

Needed: careful driver to carpool four 7th-grade Montclair girls after school once or twice/week. $15 per trip taking less than an hour. Please call 201-744-3943.

NJ based tour operator/travel company seeks campus reps. Earn commissions/fixed trips. Call 800-700-0790.

Babysitter for our 3 year old son. Mature, reliable, experienced, enjoys children, excellent references, Education major preferred. Car required. Weekdays, pickup at school after 5:00, and weekends. 509-7514.

Write for the Montclarion today!!!

RESUMES - Professionally typeset and printed on Laser. Next day service and fax available. For all your printing needs stop by BUDGET PRINTING CENTER OF CLIFTON 117 Lakeview Ave., Clifton. Please call 340-7330.

Brogan Auto Body of Clifton announces it's grand reopening! 620 Broad St. Clifton, NJ 07013. Call 201-777-2993. Under new management, repairs on all makes and models, all insurance work welcome, professional auto detailing, bring in this ad for your student discount.

STUDENT GROUP have fun earning $500-$1500 in one week! Student organizations needed for marketing project on campus. Must be motivated and organized. Call Lisa at (800) 592-2121, ext. 152.

CRUISE SHIPS HIRING - Earn up to $2,000+month. World travel. Seasonal & full-time positions. No exp. necessary. For info Call 1-206-634-0468 ext.C50961.

ROOMS FOR SPRING/SUMMER Attractive rooms in Bloomfield 20 minutes from MSU - modern kitchen, bath, dishwasher, washer/dryer, 375 a month plus utilities. & sec.

Are you struggling in certain subjects? Are you afraid to ask for help? Fear no more. Tutoring is available in all subjects by competent tutors. For more info, call Renaissance Tutoring at 744-5847.

At-Home HIV Test Kit

FUTURE HEALTHCARE IS SEEKING HEALTHY VolUNTEERS TO PARTICIPATE IN A LANDMARK RESEARCH STUDY EVALUATING AN INVESTIGATIONAL HIV TEST KIT BEING DEVELOPED FOR USE BY THE PUBLIC IN THE PRIVACY OF THEIR HOMES. PARTICIPANTS MUST BE ABLE TO READ AND FOLLOW DIRECTIONS IN ENGLISH OR SPANISH. QUALIFIED PARTICIPANTS WILL RECEIVE $20 FOR TIME AND TRAVEL.

CALL IN CONFIDENCE FOR MORE INFORMATION.

(201) 731-7484
Outside of local call area: 1-800-949-0922
West Orange 101 Old Short Hills Road

Montclair

Montclair

Montclair
Mmm, I love jalapeno peppers! What is that red thing?

You girls did great your first week. Good luck!

PS I want a jalapeno pepper.

Let's go food sniffing, I mean food shopping.

It that's one of the best butts on campus, than I'm

Kaiser (D Phi E)

Mitch, of Rivarvala, NJI

Phi Sigs,

You're the bast big a little could havel I'm relaxing!

Ang (D Xi D)

Drug-free/Brn Hair/Eyes, Medium Frame, Pretty, down to

ARE YOU MY KNIGHT IN SHINING ARMOR? IF SO...

PS Immature need not apply. (SWF 22, Disease-free, relationship. I'm a nice person. I'm tired of being lied

If you're interested, please reply through the Personals.

Bam Barn's - Thursday Night!

spring break time!

Jan 0. (Sigma),

I luv you Pookl Than* for sharing! What a woman!

Love, Lauren S.

Lauren S.

Love, Lauren S. #156

Love, Pickford -Waterson

Benny

Apt 303a,

Seth (TX),

It's your turn to get wet!

Serenades are so sexy

Angela, Cheryl, Leyda & Alison,

THAAAAAAAAAAANK YOUUUUUUUUUU!

TX-

Thanks for Friday night's mixer at Clove. Maybe next

Caroline - Help me they made me funnel, I swear!!

Fatso's, Houlihan's, Plum Crazy - What a night!

Caroline - What time is it? IT'S HOWDY DOODY tlM E II

Slowpoke,

of.

Sigmas,

I want to hear some good stories when you get back from Pomme City. Show everyone what real women are made of.

Love, Gina

Caylen & Curious,

What is it? IT'S HOWDY DOODY TIME!!

Love, Curious

Page #2 of the D XI D Chronicles:

Chary (D XI D #80)

You have a really high tolerance to alcohol. Want some punch?

Love, Cindy, D XI D #29

Michelle,

Remember what I said? Go for it!

Love, Cindy, D XI D #29

Alison & Angela (D XI D)

You girls are the best! I love you back.

Love, Cindy, D XI D #29

Sark, Angela, & Alisone,

You're out of control! No more writing on each other!

Dave M. (T Phi E)

Thank you for always being there for me. Just do me one favor...no more GUNSLING!! love you!

Christies

Dive #7,

You sail. PMS strikes again. Call me!

Dive #2

Michelle

Rhobunoke, have a great week away from this place. Look for gladly and attached wherever you go.

Love, Robunoke Sr.

Jennifer,

You are the light that makes me shine. You are my love, my everything.

Forever, Jack

You are the writer which makes me wish to pulse. The sappy, syrupy sweet that makes me wretch.

Caroline - Help me they made me funnel, I swear!!

Gina, Kim & Rebecca (D Phi E)

I can't wait until next semester. Our suite is going to be eazy - mad eazy!

Love, AH 140

Nancy,

Futo's, Houlihan's, Plum Crazy - What a night! Love you,

Constance

.lbl cl.

Silly (Sigma)

You're the best! Even though I'm not at OPH we still have to hang.

Luv your sister Bark (Sigma)

Emily (Tri-Sig)

Have a great time in Cancun!

Angela (D XI D)

To the sisters of Delta Xi Delta,

Anniversary Banquet was great, can't wait until next year!

Angela #23

Cortesi (D XI D)

I'm so happy you're finally coming out with us. The old

Cortesi is back!

Angela #23

Michelle, Cheryl, Allison, Cortesi, Lori O, Cindy, Christine,

Sat. night was a blast! Can't wait to relive it on Fri.

I don't want to talk about it! I’m jokes or comments

Love, Gina & Rebecca (D Phi E)

I need to fix this now!

THAAAAAAAAAAANK YOUUUUUUUUUU!

TX-

Thanks for Friday night's mixer at Clove. Maybe next

Caroline - Help me they made me funnel, I swear!!

Gina, Kim & Rebecca (D Phi E)

I can't wait until next semester. Our suite is going to be eazy - mad eazy!

Love, AH 140

Nancy,

Futo's, Houlihan's, Plum Crazy - What a night! Love you,

Constance

.lbl cl.

Silly (Sigma)

You're the best! Even though I'm not at OPH we still have to hang.

Luv your sister Bark (Sigma)

Emily (Tri-Sig)

Have a great time in Cancun!

Angela (D XI D)

To the sisters of Delta Xi Delta,

Anniversary Banquet was great, can't wait until next year!

Angela #23

Cortesi (D XI D)

I'm so happy you're finally coming out with us. The old

Cortesi is back!

Angela #23

Michelle, Cheryl, Allison, Cortesi, Lori O, Cindy, Christine,

Sat. night was a blast! Can't wait to relive it on Fri.

I don't want to talk about it! I’m jokes or comments

Love, Gina & Rebecca (D Phi E)

I need to fix this now!

THAAAAAAAAAAANK YOUUUUUUUUUU!

TX-

Thanks for Friday night's mixer at Clove. Maybe next

Caroline - Help me they made me funnel, I swear!!

Gina, Kim & Rebecca (D Phi E)

I can't wait until next semester. Our suite is going to be eazy - mad eazy!

Love, AH 140

Nancy,

Futo's, Houlihan's, Plum Crazy - What a night! Love you,

Constance

.lbl cl.

Silly (Sigma)

You're the best! Even though I'm not at OPH we still have to hang.

Luv your sister Bark (Sigma)

Emily (Tri-Sig)

Have a great time in Cancun!

Angela (D XI D)

To the sisters of Delta Xi Delta,

Anniversary Banquet was great, can't wait until next year!

Angela #23

Cortesi (D XI D)

I'm so happy you're finally coming out with us. The old

Cortesi is back!

Angela #23

Michelle, Cheryl, Allison, Cortesi, Lori O, Cindy, Christine,

Sat. night was a blast! Can't wait to relive it on Fri.

I don't want to talk about it! I’m jokes or comments

Love, Gina & Rebecca (D Phi E)
More Personalals

please. I WAS DRUNK!
Big Idle (AH 198)
To the Lambda and Me; Chosen of Sigma Delta Tau,
We were the hit of Camelot. Nope anybody was injured due to falling food!
Love,
Sarge (Gamma Xi 118)

Anthony,
I guess we have an audience.
Love,
Nicole (SDT)

Casey (SDT)
Finding it interesting!!
Love,
Nicole (SDT)

Michelle (SDT)
Where is the omelet?
Love,
SDT

Lisa (Phi Sig)
Let’s try not to have anymore fires in our kitchen.
Okay?
Love,
T.

To my sisters of Phi Sigma Sigma,
I’m glad to see how hard you are all working. I really miss you guys. Have a good Spring Break.
Love,
Lisa (Epsilon Theta 68)

Melissa (Sigma)
No more shots at Planet! I couldn’t find my way home.
Sorry about the parking job!
Kim (Phi E)

Mick- Ma, you, NYU, what a schenanigan again!
-Mal

All 117,
Thanks for the personal and for always being there for me. I love you!
Luc, your little AH 140

Maria & Marc,
Can’t wait to see them tomorrow in South Beach!
Jaime P.

J. She wears combat boots! Want to go out to dinner soon?
G.

Kathy (Sigma)
Let’s get out!
-from you hang buddy

Someone got me the hell out of New Jersey for Spring Break.

Mark,
Did you mail the letter yet?
Cla (D Xi)
Just remember, never let me drink again! I’m sorry, I’m so sorry!
Love ya, The Drunkie One

Dave (TX)
The legend of my name shall live on!
Nina

Angela (D Xi D #23) - We have seen our future this weekend. I’m not happy about it (sigh).
Love, AL #22

Caroline (D Xi #22) - Next time, you’ll be the one who gets wet.
Love, Theta Xi

Theta Xi, Thanks for the mixtape this weekend...can’t wait for the real one.
Love, Delta Xi Delta

Angela - I’m soooo jealous! Big, the things we talk about at that bar...
Love, A. #22

Chrisy (D Xi D #30) - BLAH! BLAH! BLAH!
Allison #22

Is it just me, or do some of the personnel this week make absolutely no sense?
Fagwit, you’re up on me!
My money’s on Rick Lets in this bar!

To the White Queen - There is a sensitive side to the King. Don’t give up your innocent guest!
Seth (TX) - Maybe you should get a job as a tattoo artist...NOT!
Allison

Michelle - Are these things real?...I mean the tattoos?
Love, your roommate...

Delta Xi Delta - Theta Xi - Water = Well, you know...
AKP,
I miss you guys! Come and visit me soon!
Love, Tam (SDT)

Caylee (AIK), Sensors -
You see the blood dancing, funneling, katfu-like blast? Oh, what a night!
Love,
Caroline (Phi Sig)

Craig (Sigma)
Ooh, it feels so good.
Love, AO

Stop (Phi E)
Keep up the great work - keep smiling and don’t get discouraged!
Love your Big, Constance

Janie (SDT)
You red-headed hothead!
Love, Cyphaya

Holly,
He’s on my horn, he’s in my safe place.
SIM

How can you be so sweetheart when you haven’t done anything?
Groovy

Robanne (Phi E)
I feel the need to CREEP! Are you down?
Kim (Phi E)

Karen (Phi Sig) How about that 2:00 class we have on Wed? Isn’t it great.
Love, Trish

AH 140 (Phi E)
Did you say number 47?
AH 142

Tara M (Phi Sig)
Here’s to a long friendship!
F50, #109

Phi Sig + TEP Mixtape - 1 Big headache for the President. Here to love ya’ guys!
F50, AnnMaria

Twister, Darnell & Dinner. I can’t wait for next one.
Love, Krista

Marc,
Oh shit! I’m all wet!
Love, Maria

Alien,
Hey Baby! I miss you!
Love, Pookie

CAT,
Why don’t you want me. Even Glass the bartender. It must be the beer.
CL

Well, I’m back from my torture Ed Poepe class. Here
I am, back to the torture personas.
JJO’S

Dana (TX)
Can I still be in the club if I don’t work at OPH?
Beth (Sigma)

Jan O (Sigma)
You’re cool love you lots.
Divine (Sigma)

Dona (New member of Phi Sig)
Welcome to the family!
F50, your Big Sir, Justin

Phi Sigma Sigma in #1!
Gliss (Phi E)
Let’s go to weky menu next week, you can wear the shirt:
Kim (Phi E)

To Myron W.
You are a very special individual whose style and personality sparkles greater than the Hope Diamond.
-JL smooth.

Caylee,
This weekend is going to be THE BEST!
Love, Caroline

Grenda (DOE)
This timer better be good - or else its invasion of the Troll!
Tracy, Gina, Kim, Rebecca (Phi E)

To Slosh - "Happy Birthday"
Love, the Sorority Girl.

Kim and Justin (Phi Sig)
Good luck, you are both great, welcome to the pyramid.
-JL 985

To Deanna B. (Tri Sigma)
We really will do ANYTHING for a buck!
Love, Beth, ZK #70

Dawn Marie (Tri Sigma)
That was the most action I’ve had in a long time!
Love, ZK #70

Mom (Sigma)
Where are you? And who’s a 5 1/2 year old cat named Mikey? Duh!
Beth (Sigma)

Michelle G (AIK)
Spring Break - it’s never going to be 3 for!!!
Bryonna

Bath, I love your “Hoo-hoo”!
Allison

Casey (SDT)
 you little Love, Tam

Jettica (Phi Sig)

To everyone,
I am, back to the torture persona.

Hiya Baby! I’m itt you!

IPSL, your Big Sit,
Deanna (New member of Phi Sigma)

Can you say Moooo!
Love, your roommate.

Love, Tarn (SDT)
Love, Chucky
Love your baby, Contessa

Love, your little little Gina!
Love, the Sorority Girl.

To the Phi Sig E-Board:
This is looking great. I think we are going to be a mom. Keep up the good work!
Love, your little little Gina!

Ming (Phi E)
You’re huge! You’re doing great at a mom. Keep up the good work.
Love, the Phi Sig E-Board

Gracie Rulis MSUI!! Let’s keep it together.

Brian K. (Sigma)
I’m surprised you didn’t see me stirring at you!
As Admire

Jenny (Phi Sig)
I’m getting palin in my chest! I think it’s because he was squeezing me!
Love (Phi Sig)

“A Clockwork Orange Flashback”, sponsored by John J.
O’Connell and Michael J. Rezmer.

How art thou, thou fat thinkin bottle of chip oil!
Come and get me in the alleyway, if you want a bottle of jello thaw!

Angelica AH 83: You’re the best big big - thanks for everything.

You better some back and visit me!
Love your big, big #140

Nora,
Remember that. The shrimp that skips gets carried over by the current! Arichu!
Love, Maria

Jay (Delta)
I want to turn your bolly button ring.
A secret admirer

Spacky and Sunshine:
You guys are making me very proud. Don’t wait till we can get back to the “plan”. Don’t give up and remember
I love you!
-The enforcer

To my girl Big E = The Best Roommate ever...heifer!
Shals

To my Bubba...you know who you are Shals

I don’t know; I just type them in.
JJO’S

To everyone,
Even more Personals

Hope your Spring Break stinks like mine.
Love, Skyla

Puddin’ Head Jr.,
Let’s play their game with our rules!
Puddin’ Head Jr.

Libby (Sigma)
WHY?
Beth (Sigma)

Nicole (Sigma)
You really are a Small Wonder.
Love, Anthony

Kim (Sigma)
One to me! Just kiddin’!
Beth (Sigma)

Gina, AH 142 | D Phi E)
I heard you gave out a bid - lotsa Nu Class, Part 2!
Luv ya AH 140

Sigma,
If I could do it again I would have pledged you!
A Greek

Gregg (D Chi Pledge)
Good luck pledging, if you need anything don’t hesitate to ask!
Love, Michelle

Caylene,
Wiggie it! (Just a little flirt)
Love, Caroline

PHJR...
So do you think you’ll win the bet? Can it be a cha-cha?
PHSR.

I LOVE THE COOKIE MONSTER!!!!

Hello Kim Brown!
Nicole (Phi Sig)
Hope you’re happy with your rule! TPSL, AveMaria

Nicole DeBenedicto?
No, wait, DeBenedicto?
No...that’s not it, DeBenedictoid? That’s it!!!!

DeBenedictoid, wow, what a huge name!
Laure (AO) - Don’t you hate those dishpan hands?
Kim (AO)

Phi Sig,
I’m having a ritual beetle sacrifice ceremony. All are welcome.
LISA

Senate,
How about a game of sexual, raunchy thumper?
Iris, Laura & Sue (AO)

We are family!
Pam (Sigma)
Give me that lighter!!!
Kristi (Sigma)

SDT...The legend continues...
Jason (LTP)
Hope you have a wonderful birthday and may all your wishes come true!
A friend.

Brian,
I know things haven’t been great between us, but I love you too much to give up.
Can’t we try just a little bit harder?
Love, your little shipmate

Good luck Zeta lots Class of Alpha Omega!

Alli (Sigma)
I love you Big! Thanks for the treat!
Beth (Sigma)

Kim (AO): Any late night visitors this week? 105B
Sue (AO): Where did you stay Thurs. night?
Laura (AO)

Gina (D Phi E), AH 142
I can’t seem to find myself. Can you help me?
Kim (AH 138)

Christine
Welcome to the family!
Love - Tom, Ave Marie, Christine, Maritina, Casey & Lauren

Kim (AO) - I’m going to Finish, as long as we leave by 12, maybe that might happen.
-Sue (AO)

Mich - Do we have to use a cow?
-Mel

Only 3 more to go...
To Rho Rhoses,
Check yourself before you talk about others...

2...
Tawnda (Sigma)
Way to shake it!

1...
Mark Schious (OK)
You took my breath away!!!!

MARTINI TIME!!!!! HAHAHAHAHAHAHAHA!!!!
YAY!!!!!

That JJO’S kid saved is a freak, just don’t tell him that I said that.

Kathy (KD)
It is about time that you are back where you belong.
Hopefully I’ll keep my food down this time. Yum. I wish we could go away for Spring Break, but just being together is all that matters. I love you now and forever, even if you are a freak...

Weirdo

373 BROADWAY, PASSAIC PK, N.J. 201-365-0807

Loop Lounge

Love, your Big

Delta Chi
What would you do for a buck?
Love, Alpha Omega

Jill (AO)
Cheer up! I love ya!
Laura (AO)

Mich - So who will be our first toast in Cancun? I can guess who we won’t.
-Mel

Only 3 more to go...
To Rho Rhoses,
Check yourself before you talk about others...

2...
Tawnda (Sigma)
Way to shake it!

1...
Mark Schious (OK)
You took my breath away!!!!

MARTINI TIME!!!!! HAHAHAHAHAHAHA!!!!
YAY!!!!!

That JJO’S kid saved is a freak, just don’t tell him that I said that.

Kathy (KD)
It is about time that you are back where you belong.
Hopefully I’ll keep my food down this time. Yum. I wish we could go away for Spring Break, but just being together is all that matters. I love you now and forever, even if you are a freak...

Weirdo

373 BROADWAY, PASSAIC PK, N.J. 201-365-0807

Loop Lounge

Love, your Big

Delta Chi
What would you do for a buck?
Love, Alpha Omega

Jill (AO)
Cheer up! I love ya!
Laura (AO)

Mich - So who will be our first toast in Cancun? I can guess who we won’t.
-Mel

Only 3 more to go...
To Rho Rhoses,
Check yourself before you talk about others...

2...
Tawnda (Sigma)
Way to shake it!

1...
Mark Schious (OK)
You took my breath away!!!!

MARTINI TIME!!!!! HAHAHAHAHAHAHA!!!!
YAY!!!!!

That JJO’S kid saved is a freak, just don’t tell him that I said that.

Kathy (KD)
It is about time that you are back where you belong.
Hopefully I’ll keep my food down this time. Yum. I wish we could go away for Spring Break, but just being together is all that matters. I love you now and forever, even if you are a freak...

Weirdo

373 BROADWAY, PASSAIC PK, N.J. 201-365-0807
Dreaming of being in the Islands, but . . .

. . . your ship is stuck at home port.

Stop by

Forever Tan Plus
"The Art of Tanning and Nails" (Next to CVS)

and visit one of our Islands!

SPECIAL OFFER

Tips and Acrylic $45
Tips and Wraps $40
Full set of Wraps $20
15 Sessions $20

Kick off your shoes and relax in our powerful state of the art tanning beds. Each of our beds are fully equipped with a 400-watt built in facial, body fan and radio for your listening pleasure. We have the only tanning beds in the area with “Body Contour Acrylics”. All for your complete and total tanning pleasure. Stop by, check us out and . . .

Maybe your dream will come true . . .

Guess What?

There will be no issue of the Montclarion next week because the staff will be enjoying Spring Break in Hawaii . . .

or maybe we’ll just be sitting in our backyards waiting for the sun to come out.

Either way, see ya in two weeks!
Learning a lesson the hard way

Men's hoops schooled in NCAA first round by Rowan, 70-45

by Michael Conger

In the NJAC Playoffs two weeks ago, MSU upset Rowan to advance to the finals of the conference tournament. But its hopes of a second-straight upset were crushed last Thursday as the Profs soundly defeated the Red Hawks, 70-45, in the first round of the NCAA Division III Tournament before 692 fans at Esby Gym in Glassboro.

Early in the season, which finished the 1994-95 season at 17-10, jumped out to a 6-0 lead by scoring on its first three possessions of the game.

The Profs, ranked No. 4 in the nation and the No. 2 seed in the NCAA's Atlantic Region, recovered back with a 14-4 run of their own to take a 14-10 on a Charles Grasty layup from Andrew Kennedy with 13:23 to go. Grasty, one of the top players in the NJAC, had a game-high 21 points, 16 of them in the first half.

"They shot the ball extremely well," said MSU senior guard Dean Spinogatti of Rowan, which shot 47.9 percent (23-for-48) compared to a 39.2 percent clip (20-for-51) for the Red Hawks.

However, MSU was able to hang in for a few more minutes before the Profs went on a 15-6 run to go into halftime with a 31-22 advantage.

Rowan dominated the second half, shooting a blistering 55 percent from the floor. It began the half with a 10-4 run to up 41-26 with 16:54 remaining in the game following NJAC Player of the Year Terrence Stewart's 3-pointer.

However, a 14-4 run by Rowan officially put the game out of reach. This made the Profs' lead 55-38 with 4:02 left when Grasty hit one of his three three bombs from downtown.

"It wasn't until we were in the locker room after the game that I realized it was over," said Spinogatti, who was a part of the team in some of the lean years.

"It wasn't until we were in the locker room after the game that I realized it was all over."

"In my four years here, this team has become a national contender."

RED HAWK NOTES: How much has Fowler meant to the Red Hawks. Sure he is their leading scorer (13.8 ppg), and rebounder (6.7 rpg), but he is also the only MSU player averaging in double figures in scoring.

In the 27 games he played in, he led the team or tied for the lead in points scored in a game 14 times, putting up a season-high of 28 from Trenton St. Also, he led the team in rebounding nine times, including a season high of 14 versus Rutgers-Newark on Jan. 11.

The junior swingman from Plainfield also led the Red Hawks in minutes (367, 23rd in the nation) and assists (4), blocked shots (15).

One tell-tale stat for MSU: they shot a measly 62.4 percent from the free throw line (335-for-537). In the final Rowan game, the Red Hawks were only 4-of-8 from the charity stripe. Conversely, the Profs were 17-20.

On the season, MSU shot 44.9 percent compared to a 39.2 percent clip for Rowan in the NJAC.

Over the season semmed that as the Red Hawks went as junior forward Greg Fowler went. However, Rowan found a way to stifle the All-NJAC junior forward, holding him to 10 points in the Profs' easy 70-45 win over MSU in the first round of the NCAA Tournament.

NCAA Tournament First Round:
Rowan 70, MSU 45

MSU (17-10) Mins FG-Att FT-Att Rebs Ass Stls Pts
Fowler 27 5-13 0-2 3 1 2 10
Reilly 24 0-1 0-0 2 0 0 0
Jackson 24 2-6 2-2 2 0 0 0
Ordino 24 1-3 0-0 3 1 1 2
Carlson 39 3-10 2-2 9 0 0 0
Pipercic 3 0-0 0-0 0 0 0 0
Geleski 3 0-0 0-0 0 0 0 0
Smith 2 0-0 0-0 0 0 0 0
Spinogatti 27 6-10 0-2 4 1 1 12

Rowan (24-3)
Grasty 39 8-12 2-3 4 5 4 21
Stewart 38 4-12 5-6 4 1 3 15
Harvin 25 3-5 0-0 2 1 2 6
Foote 36 1-7 4-4 4 4 2 7
Scott 31 5-8 3-3 8 0 0 13
Kennedy 17 2-3 3-4 0 3 0 8
Tinelli 27 0-0 0-0 0 0 0 0
Justice 6 0-0 0-0 0 0 0 0
Williams 3 0-0 0-0 2 0 0 0

At Esby Gym in Glassboro. Halftime: Rowan 31, MSU 22. A: 692
Second-half run squashes Red Hawks, 75-58

by Brian Falurom

This year was certainly a good one. Unfortunately for the Red Hawks, this season is over.

Seeded seventh in the NCAA Women’s Basketball Tournament, MSU pulled off an “upset” by defeating Elizabethtown in the first round, 77-68. But time caught up with the Red Hawks as they succumbed to No. 3 seed Johns Hopkins, 75-58, in Baltimore this past Saturday.

Senior guard Amy Dodrill poured in a game-high 24 points, 13 of them coming in the decisive second half for the Blue Jays (22-6), who move on to the “Sweet-16” against defending national champion Capital (Ohio).

In the Red Hawks defense, travelling back and forth to games and a string of tough contests finally caught up with them. Fatigue set in, causing at least six players, including guards Lisa Villalta, Robin Berrios and Aidill Borrero, Berrios suffered worse than her teammates, though. “Robin was so bad that she didn’t come down (to Baltimore) with us the day before, she came down the day of the game,” said MSU coach Gloria Bradley, keeping Berrios away from her healthy teammates.

Unfortunately for MSU, this was the only thing which enabled them to be ranked in the NCAA’s Atlantic Region - a 10-game winning streak was the only thing which enabled them to be ranked in the NCAA’s Atlantic Region - the Red Hawks may have succeeded in opening the eyes of many Division III women’s basketball observers.

Unless you listen to Bradley, that is. “I really don’t (think we’ll get more respect next year), because we went to the second round and you could almost look at it as they upset Elizabethtown and then after that... I don’t think that they’ll look at that.”

In spite of injuries and the lack of respect they received throughout the season, a 10-game winning streak was the only thing which enabled them to be ranked in the NCAA’s Atlantic Region - the Red Hawks may have succeeded in opening the eyes of many Division III women’s basketball observers.

Men’s Basketball

| Player          | GP-GS | FG-Att | FG%  | Rebs | Avg. | FT-Att | A | Slt | Avg. |
|-----------------|-------|--------|------|------|------|--------| | |     |
| Greg Fowler     | 27-26 | 151-330| 45.8 | 180  | 67   | 53-79  | 64| 55 | 13.8 |
| Travis Pettiford| 27-3  | 88-201 | 43.8 | 116  | 43   | 35-57  | 25| 40 | 9.7  |
| Evan Carlson     | 22-16 | 83-170 | 48.8 | 144  | 65   | 47-76  | 39| 31 | 9.7  |
| Dena Spierger    | 27-17 | 72-178 | 40.4 | 77   | 29   | 42-65  | 109| 93 | 5.3  |
| Kajlyn Duck      | 27-17 | 66-147 | 44.9 | 65   | 24   | 44-55  | 122| 57 | 7.4  |
| Chris Jackson    | 24-13 | 64-145 | 44.1 | 120  | 50   | 28-56  | 15| 17 | 6.5  |
| Adam Misiejuk    | 13-10 | 35-73  | 45.2 | 43   | 3.3  | 12-21  | 3 | 12 | 5.8  |
| Todd Ondreo      | 26-10 | 60-122 | 40.2 | 85   | 26   | 26-40  | 26| 16 | 5.6  |
| Chris Smith      | 19-9  | 31-82  | 37.8 | 28   | 1.5  | 28-50  | 21| 5   | 5.4  |
| Jason Gelesi     | 21-4  | 33-69  | 47.8 | 31   | 1.5  | 14-30  | 10| 11 | 2.8  |
| Mike Pipersic    | 25-13 | 26-56  | 50.0 | 77   | 3.1  | 14-30  | 10| 11 | 2.8  |
| Jose Oris        | 10-1  | 7-23   | 30.4 | 9    | 0.3  | 5-10   | 8 | 1  | 2.3  |
| Tyrone Rolls     | 3-0   | 0-0    | 0.0  | 0    | 0    | 0      | 0 | 0  | 0.0  |
| Total            | 27-27 | 719-1596| 44.9 | 1083 | 40.1 | 335-537 | 486| 296| 71.0 |

Women’s Basketball

| Player          | GP-GS | FG-Att | FG%  | Rebs | Avg. | FT-Att | A | Slt | Avg. |
|-----------------|-------|--------|------|------|------|--------| | |     |
| Aidill Borrero  | 25-17 | 130-290 | 44.0 | 134  | 5.4  | 126-182 | 119| 82 | 15.7 |
| Heidi Klingert  | 27-26 | 118-338 | 34.9 | 138  | 5.1  | 98-150  | 105| 57 | 13.0 |
| Maggie Misiejuk | 24-22 | 122-230 | 53.0 | 204  | 11.0 | 41-66   | 51| 28 | 11.9 |
| Tara Perez      | 23-13 | 73-192  | 38.0 | 96   | 4.2  | 17-38   | 10| 25 | 7.6  |
| Kim Kowar       | 27-27 | 77-213  | 33.2 | 267  | 9.9  | 28-53   | 18| 50 | 6.7  |
| Lisa Villalta   | 26-11 | 49-150  | 32.7 | 86   | 3.3  | 47-75   | 92| 89 | 5.8  |
| Robyn Berrios   | 23-14 | 33-106  | 31.1 | 73   | 3.5  | 14-21   | 15| 15 | 5.8  |
| Jill Schultz    | 26-4 | 34-88   | 39.6 | 42   | 1.6  | 27-43   | 13| 21 | 3.7  |
| Jennifer Owens  | 24-1 | 30-83   | 36.1 | 28   | 1.2  | 17-21   | 15| 15 | 3.5  |
| Susana Nogueira | 20-0  | 8-24    | 33.3 | 6    | 0.0  | 4-12    | 1 | 1  | 3.5  |
| Lauren Woods    | 12-0  | 4-15    | 26.7 | 24   | 2.0  | 1-5     | 1 | 1  | 0.8  |
| Yvonne Watson   | 12-2  | 2-15    | 13.3 | 12   | 1.0  | 0-1     | 1 | 1  | 0.3  |
| Total           | 27-27 | 681-1754| 38.8 | 1338 | 50.3 | 420-664 | 442| 396| 67.8 |

By Brian Falaom

This year was certainly a good one. Unfortunately for the Red Hawks, this season is over.

Seeded seventh in the NCAA Women’s Basketball Tournament, MSU pulled off an “upset” by defeating Elizabethtown in the first round, 77-68. But time caught up with the Red Hawks as they succumbed to No. 3 seed Johns Hopkins, 75-58, in Baltimore this past Saturday.

Senior guard Amy Dodrill poured in a game-high 24 points, 13 of them coming in the decisive second half for the Blue Jays (22-6), who move on to the “Sweet-16” against defending national champion Capital (Ohio).

In the Red Hawks defense, travelling back and forth to games and a string of tough contests finally caught up with them. Fatigue set in, causing at least six players, including guards Lisa Villalta, Robin Berrios and Aidill Borrero, Berrios suffered worse than her teammates, though. “Robin was so bad that she didn’t come down (to Baltimore) with us the day before, she came down the day of the game,” said MSU coach Gloria Bradley, keeping Berrios away from her healthy teammates.

Unfortunately for MSU, this was the only thing which enabled them to be ranked in the NCAA’s Atlantic Region - a 10-game winning streak was the only thing which enabled them to be ranked in the NCAA’s Atlantic Region - the Red Hawks may have succeeded in opening the eyes of many Division III women’s basketball observers.

Unless you listen to Bradley, that is. “I really don’t (think we’ll get more respect next year), because we went to the second round and you could almost look at it as they upset Elizabethtown and then after that... I don’t think that they’ll look at that.”

In spite of injuries and the lack of respect they received throughout the season, a 10-game winning streak was the only thing which enabled them to be ranked in the NCAA’s Atlantic Region - the Red Hawks may have succeeded in opening the eyes of many Division III women’s basketball observers.

Unless you listen to Bradley, that is. “I really don’t (think we’ll get more respect next year), because we went to the second round and you could almost look at it as they upset Elizabethtown and then after that... I don’t think that they’ll look at that.”
Sports/Thursday, March 9, 1995

Point/Counterpoint

Sports Editor Brian Falzarano
Treasurer Tom Tracy

Brian and Tom pick the Final Four

Brian: Even I have not seen the brackets yet. But I know who will be in the Final Four. Here they are:

1. Kansas. I think they’ll win it all. Roy Williams produces winners, and with that frontline and some solid play from his guards, you’re looking at the National Champion.

2. Kentucky. Always a dangerous squad under Rick Pitino. If they’re hitting their 3’s, the Wildcats will be able to outgun many teams.

3. North Carolina. Dean Smith will lead Stackhouse and Wallace to the promised land in their final NCAA Tournament before going pro.

4. UCLA. Perennial NCAA choke-artists primed for a run. Ed O’Bannon is having a nice season for Jim Harrick’s Bruins.

Virginia is my dark horse, followed by Villanova and Penn.

Tom: It is hard to pick a final four and a dark horse team without seeing the brackets. But that is a sacrifice I have to make in order to go on Spring Break next week. My Final Four is as follows:

1. North Carolina. With Jerry Stackhouse and Rasheed Wallace, this team looks to go deep into the tournament. And Dean Smith is a great coach.

2. Arkansas. They did not have a great year, but this team has something other teams don’t - experience.

3. Connecticut. The Huskies will not disappoint Big East fans who look to finally put a team back into the Final Four.

4. Kansas. Aren’t they there every other year? Despite a lack of recognition, the Jayhawks are a safe bet to get to Seattle.

Wake Forest, Memphis, and Xavier are my dark horses. Happy betting.

If, in 50 words or less, you can tell Tom or Brian why you should be able to be a guest columnist for Point-Counterpoint, you can earn the right to be our guest.

If interested, come down to Student Center Room 113 and drop off your reason!

Which of these famous quotes does not belong?

a. “Carpe diem”

b. “Be all that you can be”

c. “Write for sports”

d. “I think, therefore I am”

Obviously, the quote that is out of place is c. But that is because you have not come down to write for this esteemed section. There are several positions available: feature writing, copy editing, and the opportunity to cover a sport on a “beat” basis. Also, we could use a dependable assistant sports editor.

Call Brian Falzarano at 655-5241 or come down to Student Center room 113 for more details.
On the Ball
by Brian Falzarano

LT should be “Saved by the Bell” from the WWF

At one point in time, there was no one like Lawrence Taylor. The big blue behemoth known as “LT” used to run full steam across a football field, stalking a poor, unsuspecting running back or quarterback. For Giants fans, those were days were comparable to a sort of football utopia. With LT on the field there was reason to feel that victory was always a possibility for the Giants.

However, sometimes the mighty can sink as swiftly as a rock. Sports celebrities can often be put in such a positive light that anything they do which is not seen as “part of their personality” is wrong. LT was never seen in quite a positive light - you know of his problems with drugs, etc.

Things can not get much worse for LT from a publicity standpoint. Apparently, his finances are not going as well, either. After signing on with Vince McMahon and the World Wrestling Federation for a one match, $500,000 deal to go up against Bam Bam Bigelow, it would not be hard to conclude that a loss of dignity seems to be the least of his problems.

These days, LT seems to be more about being a gimmick than a football legend. No, he should not have faded into oblivion and played golf until he wore out the greens on every course in the United States. And he should not worry what others think of him to the point that it controls anything he wants to do. But volunteering to go on cruises with go-go girls and jello is extremely gimmicky.

Becoming a professional wrestler is absurd. He says this is a one match deal, but one time is enough to make him turn into one of McMahon’s typical WWF cartoon characters. He could become a clown like a character known as “Doink”. Or he could become a giant rap-star wanna-be like “Mabel”. Maybe he could even become “LT, WWF superhero for all that is good.”

Honestly, wrestling Bam Bam Bigelow isn’t a wise career move. It is not a matter of Bam Bam, a 400-pound guy who has a head with tattooed flames on it, being bigger or more experienced. What the problem is - and this is not a knock on professional wrestlers, I’ve watched and I am friends with one - is LT should not be going out of his way to seek publicity.

He probably ventured into the world of professional wrestling is because of financial problems. He had a restaurant on Route 17 that was initially successful. Without unnecessary speculation, the reason why LT is stepping into the ring at Wrestlemania is because of a six-figure paycheck. Maybe this is McMahon’s way of trying to compete with rival World Championship Wrestling, who now have virtually every 1980’s WWF star, including legends Hulk Hogan and “Macho Man” Randy Savage.

Another thing wrong about all of this is he is dragging some of his former rivals into this idiocy with him. Why would Reggie White, Steve McMichael, Chris Spielman and other NFL players with more than an ounce of credibility risk their dignity by taking part of this exercise in WWF futility?

Most of all, he could get over living his second childhood. Stepping into a cartoon role is ludicrous. At one time he said becoming an actor was a goal of his. Here’s a question for you LT: Couldn’t you have been happy with a recurring role on “Saved by the Bell”? Then you would at least have some credibility left.

S.I.L.C.
Student Intramural and Leisure Council

Def Squad outduels X-Men, 83-78

In the final of the S.I.L.C. basketball league, the Def Squad emerged victorious over the X-Men by a 83-78 margin.

Keith Hines, an All-NJAC first-team player last season for the MSU men’s basketball team, poured in 19 points, and Marty led all scorers with 22 for the Def Squad.

This was a close game, which actually saw the X-Men jump out to a 44-43 lead at halftime. However, the Def Squad was able to get more scoring from more of its players. Tyrone Rolls, a wide receiver for the football team and a reserve guard for the men’s team, dumped in another 11 for the victors. Also, MSU freshman sensation Brian Goleen poured in 10, as did tight end Rob Cole.

In defeat, Brian McNair, a former wide receiver for the Red Hawks, dropped in a game-high 26 points for the X-Men.

S.I.L.C. NOTES: Did you know that softball season starts on March 26? If you didn’t and are interested in obtaining information on any of the softball leagues, please call S.I.L.C. President Leanna Guido at 655-4716.

To find out results on the latest happenings in MSU sports, call the Red Hawks Sports Hotline at 655-7645 today!
MSU's men’s team gets bounced from the NCAA Tournament in the first round, 70-45, by NJAC rival Rowan (Cower, p. 32).