The Montclarion, April 06, 1995

The Montclarion

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/montclarion

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/montclarion/726

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Student Newspapers at Montclair State University Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Montclarion by an authorized administrator of Montclair State University Digital Commons. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@montclair.edu.
Reid tells all...

...and then some
(Richardson, p. 3)
Bohn Hall Fire

By Craig Weaver

A fire which started on the seventh floor of the Bohn Hall dormitory forced residents out of their rooms late Friday evening.

The fire, described as small by university officials, started when a towel was draped over a hot plate that had been left on. The hot plate was unattended at the time of the incident.

According to Joseph DiMichele, Director of Residence Life, the incident occurred at approximately 10:45 p.m. when Robert McMurray, the Resident Assistant on the tenth floor, smelled smoke. He alerted John O'Brien, Assistant Director of Bohn Hall, who was on duty at that time.

Together, they went to the seventh floor where they saw smoke coming from under a door. At this time, the smoke detector in the room went off. The two men sounded the general alarm for the building, forcing the evacuation of all residents and guests.

Residents waited outside for about half an hour before University police, who extinguished the flames, allowed residents to return to their rooms.

Also responding were fire officials from the township of Clifton, where Bohn Hall is located.

Domenick DiSimone, Jr., Fire Marshall for MSU said that while Residence Life has a lot of leeway in formulating rules for the dorms, the possession of hot plates is strictly prohibited. This holds true for all “open heating surfaces” such as hot pots, popcorn poppers, and double burners. He said that he was in the process of ascertaining the rules for each of the dorms.

DiMichele said that the occupants of the room had apparently gone away for the weekend.

“This is exactly why we have rules against these things” he said, adding that all cooking appliances are prohibited in rooms.

“If they want to, residents can cook in the kitchens that are open and available. It is safer for everyone,” said DiMichele.

He said that possible sanctions for such violations range from community service and fines to probation and termination of housing, but hastened to add that no determination has been made in this case, saying that the incident is still under investigation.

By Adam Barkay and Al Barilla

If a Political Science major or any other MSU student were to go to the Political Science Department to get some help, that student would be met with a locked door and a computer generated sign stating, “The Department of Political Science is for the time being without a secretary. . . . Should you come by when the office is closed, please look around to see if any other faculty member is available and ask for help.”

We apologize for any inconvenience caused by the situation.

If there are no faculty members around and students do not come during the Chair’s Office hours from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays, or Fridays, students would receive no assistance on that day.

Since a majority of the professors have keys to the copy room, some feel that it is the students who suffer the most from this inconvenience.

Professor Aka of the Political Science Department said, “Having no secretary is a problem for our students. If students are looking for a professor and that professor is not available, they cannot get the help they need.”

There has been at least one confirmed case of a professor inconvenience by this situation.

Dr. Bendel, also of the Political Science Department, was unable to give a make-up midterm due to the fact that his department has no secretary. “I had no choice but to give the student a cumulative final,” said Bendel.

A recent Inter-Office Memorandum from the Political Science Department, dated March 29, stated that the department would be getting a secretary, but not until July 1 of this year. Until that time, the students will continue to suffer.

Older outlets pose no threat to Webster Hall residents

by Nancy Thompson

Residents of Webster Hall have wondered if their electrical outlets are up to standards. The electrical receptacles were installed during the initial construction prior to building occupancy in 1962, and do not appear to have the little red cut-off button that the more newly constructed buildings have.

Douglas Cooper, Assistant Director of Facilities, said, “Each building is inspected by the New Jersey Community Affairs Director annually. If there was anything out of order, we would not be issued an active Certificate of Occupancy (CO) by the state.”

According to Cooper, the only benefit that the red button affords is to confine an electrical short to the receptacle rather than shut off electricity on the entire circuit.

"If any renovations were to be done," he explained, "we would need to replace all the receptacles before a new CO could be issued."

The current receptacles do not represent a danger even though they do not have the Ground Fault Interrupt (GFI) feature. "The GFI is more of a convenience than a safety measure" Cooper said. "A CO wouldn't be given if the receptacle wasn't safe. The outlets installed at the time of construction were up to code when the building was built."

Cooper said that the receptacles now in place "are grounded by virtue of the conduit that they're installed in."

Webster Hall residents should not fear that the outlets for their hair dryers represent a danger.
President Reid addresses student concerns in personal interview

A writer for the Montclairian recently held an interview with President Irvin Reid.

To be fair about this opportunity, he decided to ask some other MSU students what type of comments, questions, or suggestions they might have for President Reid. What resulted was almost a mini "state of the university" speech. Our writer got President Reid to address some of the students' major concerns.

Housing

Kurt Richardson: Would you be willing to take a paycut to better the conditions of housing at the university? — Evan Childs

President Reid: First of all, he would have to understand the budget for the Residence Hall is a separate budget entirely. It has nothing to do with the rest of the institution, it is self-supporting. And the funds for housing are paid out of the housing funds. Meaning, what the students pay for rent. We don't transfer those over to the university where there's a surplus, we don't subsidize it when there is a short-fall. So, they aren't really compatible.

The second thing is that salary increases for executives in higher education in the state of New Jersey and nationally have been a little above what the Board of Trustees has provided for me. I actually did ask the Board to delay it the implementation of my salary increase in the past, but I don't think that that is the solution to our problems in the future. Our solution is to make sure that the recommendation that the governor has made for higher education actually gets funded, so I spend my time really talking to legislators and making sure that they support her budget increase. Her budget increase is less than what we asked for, but, it's more than we've gotten in recent years.

So, I understand his question, that he can relate my salary probably to something that is really more important to him on and on something that we would like to improve. I would like to hear some of his suggestions, concrete suggestions, about ways we can make life in the residence halls better, what it is that he is unhappy about, that type of thing I hope that he would make me aware of, and then I could use my position here to improve those problems.

I did incidentally get a letter from a student who was on the residence life committee of the student government association, and I have instructed Dr. Wilcox to look into the concerns that she has expressed in that letter, and to give me a sense of how we are going to talk about it. I absolutely agree we ought to do something and the students should express it when they are unhappy about it.

Equal Opportunity Fund

K.R.: Why is it that the Equal Opportunity Fund might be taken out, and can advising be improved? Andrew McNulty, junior.

Pres. Reid: Let me answer the first question first. First of all, remember, his question has an error in it, EOF is not being cut, no it is not.

The governor actually asked for increases in EOF funding this year. But, all public institutions are required to have a minimum number of EOF slots, and that minimum number is 10 percent. Montclair has fifteen percent, it's consistent to students qualifying for EOF is excellent. If you add past students to that there is an excess of fifteen percent. If you add other kinds of assistant programs it goes up even higher.

The assistance for the students who don't have the funds to pay for tuition, receive assistance through TAG, EOF, PASS, and through other assistance programs is far more than students imagine and it is not being cut.

Now, can we do it forever? I don't know, it's getting rather expensive really to do it, with the kind of attacks being made on special funding for students based on race, or based on gender, or based on anything is relatively under attack right now, and I don't know what's going to happen on a federal level.

But, when you look at what we've been spending on EOF compared to what we are required to spend, Montclair State was given the recognition as the best EOF program in the state of New Jersey last year, we have the certificate of the letter to prove it.

Minority Retention Rate

K.R.: Do we have a set plan to improve the minority retention rate at the university, if so, what is that plan? — A concerned senior.

Pres. Reid: Oh yes, it's a major problem. Let me speak upon retention in general, we have a new vice-president of student development of campus life, Dr. Wilcox... [He] came in, then I said, "There are two things I'd like to see happen, I would like to see us increase the number of students who have been coming in, minority students particularly, who are regular admitted.

He's working on that, and this year I will assure you that figure will be extraordinarily impressive. Regular admitted students period, is going to be way up this year.

Dr. Wilcox also said, "I need something that I can organize my entire division around that they can all be admitted to."

Career fair gives MSU a taste of the "real world"

by Donna Ferloni

Between 750 and 800 students attended MSU's first Career Fair yesterday, said Eileen Bruck, director of Career Services, who called the fair "a wild success."

Seniors and underclassmen from all majors attended the fair, Bruck said.

"Underclassmen came because they want to see what's out there when they graduate. Students come to college because they want a career and everybody is interested in making connections with employers," she said.

Both the students who attended the employers who participated had positive reactions to the fair, Bruck said. "The employers thought it was a great success and some collected stacks of resumes," she said.

A lot of employers were graduates of Montclair State, Bruck said. One MSC graduate said that the Career Fair was a "successful inaugural event and I can't wait until next year."

Other employers commented on the good turnout at the fair, said Bruck. However, she said that several employers complained about the parking. "I think the students found the fair to be very upbeat. The employers were friendly and the students wanted to speak with them," Bruck said. Many students thanked her and Career Services for sponsoring the fair, she said.

Bruck said that follow-up is important. She said that the students who where told to send resumes should send them.

"Whatever the communication was, the student should follow-up. It's always up to the job-seeker and if you don't do it after, nothing happens," she said.

Career Services would like to have another fair next year, Bruck said. In the future, she would consider using a larger facility and providing better parking accommodations.
STUDENTS ARRESTED

Ernest Johnson, a resident of Freeman Hall, was arrested in lot five on March 31 at 1:30 a.m., and charged with possession of burglary tools.

An officer observed a male drop a large duffel bag outside a window of Freeman Hall. That male and another retrieved the bag a few minutes later. Johnson was apprehended, but the other individual ran away.

Campus Police officers gave chase and called the Montclair and Clifton Police Departments for assistance. The other individual is still at large.

Georgie Kiely, a part-time student employee of Sprague Library, was arrested on April 3 at 10:00 a.m. and charged with two counts of theft from the library.

Keily, a resident of Jersey City, has resigned his position at the library.

Edward Bittner, a resident of Bohn Hall, was arrested on April 4 and charged with being under the influence of a controlled substance.

Bittner had seen the school nurse on March 31. She said that he had apparently fallen down and suffered numerous cuts and abrasions. She also said that he was slurring his speech and exhibited other signs of intoxication.

He was taken on March 31 to Mountainside Hospital by ambulance.

THEFT

March 30 between 4:30 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. the driver’s side rear window was smashed and the radio was stolen from a motor vehicle parked in lot 30. The heat controls were also damaged.

April 1 at 3:00 p.m. a book was stolen from under a desk while it was left unattended in Richardson Hall.

Between March 31 and April 1 a computer, printer, monitor and radio were stolen from an office in Russ Hall.

An officer noticed that a glass door and a window were smashed.

Between March 26 and April 2 an AM/FM radio/cassette player was stolen from a ’92 Isuzu Amigo that was parked in lot 23.

CRIMINAL MISCHIEF

March 28 between 12:00 p.m. and 9:20 p.m. in lot three (behind the gym) a male found the driver’s side door of his jeep scratched when he returned from off campus.

Johnson was apprehended, but the other individual ran away.

Campus Police officers gave chase and called the Montclair and Clifton Police Departments for assistance. The other individual is still at large.

FRESHMAN / SOPHOMORES

WHAT, ARE YOU DOING NEXT SUMMER?

Hit the beach

FIND OUT ABOUT THE PLATOON LEADERS CLASS, AN ALTERNATIVE TO ROTC. YOU'LL INTERN WITH THE MARINES FOR SIX WEEKS NEXT SUMMER AND EARN $1650. YOU'LL GET IN GREAT SHAPE, EARN 3 COLLEGE CREDITS AND LEARN WHAT BEING A MARINE OFFICER IS ALL ABOUT. IT'S A GREAT WAY TO EXPERIENCE THE MILITARY WITHOUT INCURRING ANY OBLIGATION. FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL CAPTAIN PITINGOLO OR GUNNER DAVIS AT 1-800-627-8762

OR SEE THEM IN PERSON AT THE STUDENT CENTER TODAY, THU. APR. 6 FROM 10AM TO 2 PM

Montclairion

MEDICAL

March 28 at 2:00 p.m. a female employee suffered acid burns on her nose and cheek while reaching for a high shelf in a laboratory in Richardson Hall. She was taken to Mountainside Hospital by ambulance.

VERBAL DISPUTE

March 31 at 1:35 p.m. a former employee of Aldan/Gourmet entered the Student Center. The current manager did not want him on the premises and called Campus Police. Campus Police informed both parties that the former employee could not be barred from the Student Center, but he was forbidden to go into the kitchen area.

FIRE

March 31 at 11:03 p.m. an electric oven caught fire in a seventh floor room in Bohn Hall. The residents of the room were out at the time. Campus Police extinguished the fire. The Clifton Fire Department responded and ventilated the area.

Clinton vows to veto any student aid cuts

By Marco Buscaglia

College Press Service

WASHINGTON-During a White House press conference with more than 100 college reporters, President Clinton vowed to use "the veto pen" to fight Congressional cuts to student aid.

While Clinton said his first choice "is to try and prevail in the debate in Congress," he criticized Republican proposals that seek to cap the number of students participating in the direct student loan program and to eliminate student loan subsidies while students are still in college.

Clinton told students at the March 23 press conference that "education is even more important to the general welfare of America than when I was your age," and that "I cannot sit by and watch it go backward."

"I wouldn't be standing here today, no way in the world would I be standing here today, if it hadn't been for the opportunities America gave me through education," said Clinton, who added that financial aid allowed him to finance his college education at Georgetown University and law school at Yale University. "My whole generation owes everything we have to the educational opportunities our country gave to us."

The president said he was ready to veto any legislation that decreased funding in "areas of education which are so important to me."

Since winning control of Congress last November, Republican legislators have targeted higher education programs as a way to cut $20 billion out of the federal budget over the next five years. The federal government spent $31 billion last year on work-study programs, grants, and loans. House Speaker Newt Gingrich and other members of the GOP have pro-
SGA, Inc.

Executive Board positions available outside the SGA office.

Positions for the 1995-1996 academic year include:
• President
• Vice President
• Treasurer
• Secretary
• Board of Trustees Representative (alternate)
• Legislators

Petitions are due back no later than 12 noon, Thursday, April 22nd – 26th.

For more information, stop by the SGA office.

Scholarships available until April 14, 1995.
Come to the SGA office for more details!

A Paid advertisement of the SGA.
Pres. Reid from p. 3

EOF program, the pass program, in mentoring programs, minority advising. All of these programs we're putting in a single building and saying when a student wants or needs help, he or she can go to the academic success center and someone there should direct the student to a place to solve his or her problem. That's what we're doing in terms of trying to improve retention among minority students, and in Montclair students in general.

I'm not satisfied that our retention is where it should be, and I'm not satisfied that we're graduating students in the period that I think that they should be graduating four-five-six year periods. And I'm targeting at improving all of that.

The new student experience is another program that we have, which will have the freshmen orientation expanded and a freshmen seminar course. Those are ways we are specifically working on to improve retention. Too many students leave this campus without ever seeking help. Too many seek help and give up in frustration, and then leave. Two-thirds of all the students who leave college, leave not for academic reason, but they leave for other reasons too—social, economic and personal.

Guns for Campus Police?

K.R.: Do you think that campus police should be allowed to carry guns, and do you feel that this will continue to be an issue at this university?

Pres. Reid: I'm opposed to it, my recommendation to the board is that we not arm campus police, I also realize and want to indicate that we should be sensitive to the needs of campus police, because they provide a very valuable service in the community.

That service is a sense of order, a sense of assistance. They're more than likely to be the first people you see when you come on campus. They are here on the holidays while we're gone—protecting our property, as well providing for our personal safety.

However, when one looks at both the level of crime as well as the type of crimes here on campus, there seems to be little that could be addressed by the arming of campus police.

What I think we ought to do is provide more campus police, so that there can be more foot patrols on campus. I think that the campus police need to get out of the cars and walk on the campus and be part of this campus.

Just as you as a student and I as the president are a part of this community, we ought to see them [Campus Police] as a part of this community, not a group of people on the periphery of the community.

Arming campus police is just one alternative, why don't we try to look at ways we can improve. We have a responsibility as individuals to behave differently on campus, to provide for our own safety.

We also have a responsibility to do better on the lighting, I would like to see more electronic surveillance cameras mounted on the poles down in the quad.

These are the things I'd like to see us try to address, the level of crimes and type of crimes we have on campus.

K.R.: Why is it that Stone Hall isn't maintained like the other dormitories? Tom Thompson, sophomore.

Pres. Reid: That should not be true. I know Stone is an old dorm, but then, all of the residence halls are fairly old. We have to renovate them every few years, young people are very hard on residence halls. There should not be any better maintenance at one than there is in the other.

We have recently converted Stone from an all-male residence hall, to a coeducational dorm. This means we only have one single gender dormitory left on campus, and that's Webster. But, I would certainly hope that there is no systematic pattern of neglecting Stone.

I hope that there is in fact the same level of maintenance, and I hope that the overall level of maintenance will improve constantly. We did tremendous renovation, refurbishing every single bathroom, 17 bathrooms as I recall, in that building, provided new furniture in the rooms, and we took out all the old iron beds.

It's a question of funding and we have to build these funds up over time. But, the plan is that we move from one residence hall to another. Before we did Bohn, we did Clove Road apartments—a complete renovation. It is certainly an issue I will raise with Dr. Wilcox.

Residence Life

K.R.: Residence Life needs some major changes, an overall better system to choose RA's. — Stephanie Schroeder & Dianna Violaris, sophomores.

Pres. Reid: I can't tell you that I know the process of how they are particularly chosen, but it is something that I will definitely take up with Dr. Wilcox.

All I know is that if we want to have a sense of community here, we have to have people here that are in a position of power, no matter where that power is, it still has to have a sense of sensitivity and showing concern. And if there's anyone who is abusing that...then those people should not be in that position.

I met with our residence life people, but I don't do it every year, but at our orientation I go and speak to them, and try to get them to understand what an integral part they play in this vital vision of improving campus life. Residence life is very important in that. If the people in residence life didn't do their job, that would make us not achieve our goals.

Dr. Lawrence and the Bell Curve

K.R.: What are your comments on the statement Dr. Lawrence, the president of Rutgers University, made about genetics playing a significant role on one's intelligence, and what position do you take on the Bell Curve? Kurt Richardson.

Pres. Reid: I happen to know Fran Lawrence very well, I spoke to him shortly after the statement was made public. He was very apologetic, he was very much confused about what had happened, what he had said, and how it could be so very inconsistent with what he had practiced everyday.

I think it's very unfortunate, I understand why the students at Rutgers were hurt personally. But, on a lighter note, a student said something that I think captured the moment, "I'm a student here and there's nothing wrong with my genes." I think that's a good point, because this is an attack, and we already have too many stereotypes about minorities—African-Americans, and Latinos.

Even here at Montclair the perception is when you see a minority student, that student's a special admit, increasingly that is not so. We've gone from what were very a few regular admits, to a very steep increase. So many of the students here, whether they're white, black, or Latinos are here because of their ability.

Others who have not met—let's say, what are the standard criteria, are here because we know that given some special attention, given a special program, and absolutely the right environment, I think that in terms of programs and sensitivity on the part of the faculty, that those students will perform extremely well.

One example is the Rosie Allen Noble program in science, where we bring students here with very strong summer tutoring and instruction, and they on the average perform better than the other students who are not in that program, and most of those students are minority students.

So, I think that we have lots of evidence that environmental conditions can make people perform on a test in a way that may not come up to the national average, but that has absolutely nothing to do with their genes, their heredity, or their mental predisposition to perform. It may have something to do with the type of environment from which they came. And I do think what Fran Lawrence has done at Rutgers U is certainly not consistent with the statement that he has made, because he has made a lot of effort. But, I am not here to try to explain what was going through his brain at the time. I mean, I just don't know.
Blanton bathrooms poorly ventilated

by Kerri Mazzoni

The Blanton Hall public bathrooms, located next to the cafeteria, do not have proper ventilation due to the lack of fresh air being circulated in, said Doug Cooper Assistant Director for Residence Hall facilities.

"The bathrooms are in sore need of restoration," Cooper said.

When Blanton Hall was built in the early 1980's, the bathrooms were built in compliance to the building codes, but the new codes require both fresh air and ventilation.

The bathrooms were built with louvers in the doors which allows for air to come through, Cooper said.

The reason for the excessive heat in the bathrooms is because of their location, Cooper said. Heat enters the bathrooms from the kitchen and atrium.

Some students refuse to use the bathroom because it is so hot and stuffy.

"Walking into the bathroom is like walking into a sauna," said Nina Levy, a Bohn Hall resident.

"There is ventilation, it is just not the best kind," Cooper said.

Cooper said that over the summer they want to try to reconfigure the ventilation system. They need to let outside air in and enhance the recirculation of existing air.

The cost of the project is undetermined because, "we don't know exactly what we have to do," Cooper said.

Cooper said that he did not know of any health problems that were related to the situations inside the bathrooms.

---

Tired of watching that damn O.J. trial...
...AGAIN???????

The New Home of Northern New Jersey's Best New Music

Tune Into

90.3

WMSC-FM
Holly Golightly
Mark Pittman is a funny guy, and not only that, he has the amazing ability to hypnotize a room full of people, on one condition: each victim must be ready and willing, no skepticism allowed.

Hypnotism is a natural state of mind, a relaxation of sorts, that most of us wander in and out of daily. You may know of it as "zoning." This state is more relaxing than sleep, Pittman says.

"One hour equals a 5 or 6 hour nap, and more relaxing than sleep, Pittman says. A relaxation of sorts, that most of us can achieve..." he smiled. "But the most amazing ability I have is that I can hypnotize anyone into believing anything." He leaned toward a corner of the stage, his eyes closed, and held up his right hand, holding a small metal ring. "You are a monkey," he said. "And you will do anything I tell you to."

"And you could do anything I tell you to," he pressed, "like climb a tree, or even dance a dance contest...and the winner is, Ximenia! It was quite an interesting show."

More weirdness followed this incident: some laughing, some crying, and even some barking. Let me tell you, this was no joke. Mark Pittman is not a charlatan. He knows what he's doing, and he does it well. Applause, applause for hypnotism, and I hope that the next three weeks are as fabulous as all the victims have been mesmerized to believe.

Clinton from p. 4
posed eliminating campus-based financial aid programs funded by the federal government, including Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants, work-study and Perkins Loans.

House Republicans also have introduced a bill that would cap the Federal Direct Student Loan Program at about 40 percent of all student loan volume. Critics of the direct loan program have said it would create an unwieldy federal bureaucracy and turn the Department of Education into a central bank.

"I don't believe we should cut federal financial programs, certainly not to pay for tax cuts and even to reduce the deficit," said Clinton. "We do not have to cut education to reduce the deficit."

But during his question-and-answer session with student reporters, Clinton defended the direct loan program, saying that it could save the government money "because we take out the middle man." He said.

"Don't have guarantees to banks, we just make the loans directly," said Clinton. "That has actually reduced the deficit and reduced the cost of college loans.

By opening the direct student loan program to all college students, the government would save $2.5 billion in outlays through the year 2009, according to the Clinton administration.

"The Republicans in the Congress want to change all of that. They, first of all, want to put a lid on the number of students who can participate in the direct loan program, which will add to the deficit," said Clinton. "And then, they want to eliminate the student loan subsidy for 4 million college students and charge interest on their loans while they're in college, even if they come from very modest backgrounds."

Clinton argued that Republicans could realize the same reduction in the deficit by leaving student loan subsidies in place and by opening the direct student loan program to all students. "I think it is clear that our decision is a better one than theirs," he added.

Earlier that day, Secretary of Education Richard Riley told the college journalists that any move to decrease education funding, specifically in terms of student loans, was a step in the wrong direction. "The lending program is profitable to a lot of forces out there, so there's a huge push to scrap the program," Riley said. "But direct lending offers a simpler, less bureaucratic approach to student loans. It makes more sense for the future of this country."

Our component of the direct lending program is a streamlined effort to go after students who walk away from their loans, said Clinton. By toughening collection procedures on student borrowers, the president said the federal government reduced loan defaults to $1 billion last year, down from $2.8 billion before he took office.

"When you graduate, it's in no way a help to be saddled with a substantial debt," Riley said. "If the interest subsidy goes through, it would be the largest reduction in financial aid in this country."

Students who take out the full amount they are eligible for under the Family Education Loan Program now owe $17,125 after graduation. That amount would increase to $20,532 if the interest subsidy were eliminated. Students continuing on to two years of graduate school would see their loan debt grow from $34,125 to $43,292.
Caribbean Lit. lecture

by Nancy Thompson

On Tuesday, March 28, in the lounge of the new Humanities Building, the first ever conference on Latina women began. New York University Professor Pamela Smorkalof, the product of a Cuban mother and a Russian father, was the featured speaker at a lecture entitled If I Could Write This in Fire: An Anthology of Literature from the Caribbean. The lecture, one in a series scheduled for Women’s History Month, was well-attended by students and faculty alike.

Smorkalof centered her talk around the making of an anthology, specifically of one called If I Could Write This in Fire, a book she compiled which has been published.

“The Caribbean has been divided by colonialism,” she said, “but bridges have been built by the Caribbeans themselves to overcome the division.”

Smorkalof also spoke of the value of Caribbean literature. “We can learn more about Caribbean history from its literature than we can from reading history books.”

Citing the “legacy of resistance to colonialism” she thinks we can achieve in art what we cannot achieve in politics. “We live in a world that is increasingly globalized” she said “and although we are divide, a lot more commonalties bring us together.”

“All of the authors selected for the anthology share a grounding in a sense of place. ‘To know who you are, you must know where you are,” said Smorkalof.

She read a short story in Spanish and then read excerpts from two others in English. While describing the Island of Guadeloupe, which “floats forsaken in Gulf of Mexico”, the story, Between Two Worlds, likened the island to a place where “if God were to descend, he would wind up like everyone else...up to his neck in rum and women.”

In a story by Marisella Viega, the audience heard about “Puerto Rican tourists in Haiti, living up to the standards of their American passports.”

Ultimately, Smorkalof finds the embodiment of Caribbean Island culture in Shakespeare’s Tempest. She likened the plight of the Caribbean to that of Caliban’s at the hands of the conquerors who colonized his island.

Caliban became a slave on the island where he once was king. So too were the native Caribbean dwellers at the mercy of those who fragmented their culture with the sledgehammer of colonialism.

Nitzila Lewis, a member of MU Sigma Upsilon Sorority, said, “It’s important as a student to see these women breaking the barriers of sex, nationality, etcetera. It’s 1995 and although they’ve opened a lot of doors for us, we still have barriers of our own to break.”

Phi Sigma Sigma participates in March of Dimes Walk this month

Phi Sigma Sigma, the first national sorority at MSU, is doing philanthropic services to help prevent child abuse and neglect throughout the month of April.

For the past seven years, the Epsilon Theta chapter of Phi Sigma Sigma has been very active with philanthropic activities and community services.

During the month of April, the sisters of Phi Sigma Sigma will be collecting children’s pharmaceutical products for Heal the Children, a non-profit organization that collects medicine and money for children who lack medical care in the U.S. and around the world.

The sisters of Phi Sigma Sigma also will participate in the March of Dimes Walk at Montclair State on April 30.

The March of Dimes Walk is an annual walk that the Epsilon Theta chapter participates in every year to help fight birth defects in infants and children.

Phi Sigma Sigma will also be going to the Paterson Orphanage Asylum Association in Paterson on April 11 to make Easter projects and hand out candy to children who do not have homes or loved ones to go to for Easter.
College Life: A Few Things To Know

KNOW: Which off-campus bookstore will buy back your used $45 textbooks for more than $54 each.

KNOW: Which "30-minutes-or-it's-free" pizza place always takes exactly 31 minutes.

KNOW: Which evil, quarter-eating laundromat machines to avoid.

Hey, on college campuses those "in the know" are the ones who rule. And it's not just about being smart in the classroom, it's about being wise with your wallet as well. So if you want a great low price on a collect call, just dial 1 800-CALL-ATT. It always costs less than 1-800-COLLECT. Always.

There are lots of tricky things for you to learn at college, but here's something that's easy: KNOW THE CODE, and save the person on the other end some serious money. You'll be glad you did.

AT&T. Your True Voice.

*Promotions excluded. 1-800-COLLECT is a service mark of MCI.

© 1995 AT&T
Class One Concert's finale packs the Rathskellar

by Victoria Caldes

Class One Concerts finished their free concert series in the Rat last night with Broken Heroes and Inspecter 7.

Broken Heroes, an Oi band, took the stage first. They have a "hardcore style of music of British origin, often involving themes of rebellion." They're punk but not Green Day punk. They appeared to be mad at the world, but in a happy way. The band consisted of four guys: Pete on guitar, Steve on bass, Tim on vocals, and Shawn on drums. A fifth member, Anthony also plays guitar, but he wasn't there.

The "guys" kept referring to the likes and dislikes of skinheads. They like cream soda not beer. Their music was hard and loud, and I couldn't understand any of the lyrics. But the crowd was enjoying themselves. There were actually people moshing in the Ratt.

They covered a Sex Pistols tune, and then, they started playing Nirvana's "Smells Like Teen Spirit", but the singer only moaned and wailed, he didn't actually sing.

The second band was Inspecter 7, a Ska band, which according to the C1C "lesson" is "mid-70's punk style music altered by a strong island influence. Also employs a horn section." Their music was grooving. Almost everyone there was on their feet. Inspecter 7 consists of eleven people, but only nine were there on this night. They are: Guissepe and T. Dog on vocals, Steph on keyboards, Shamus on drums, Brian on guitar, Q-Shadow on bass, Sharkey on trumpet, Scooch on sax, and Matt on tenor horn.

So Class One Concerts conquered all. They got a great turn out. Most of the people weren't from MSU, but at least the place was packed and everyone had a good time.

This was probably the best Rat gig this year with the Sons of Freud concert running a close second.

MARK YOUR CALENDARS

ON CAMPUS...

April 6
Theatre
"The Great Brain" 10 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Mainstage Theatre
Seriescall (212) 420 8202

Meetings
Pride Meeting in the Student Center rm. 416 at 4 p.m.
Alcoholics Anonymous in the Student Center rm. 418 at 6 p.m.

Lecture
Independent filmmaker Emily Breer will discuss her work in the Calca Fine Arts Building from 3-5 p.m.

Fashion
OSA.U. sponsors "A Cultural Journey Through Fashion" in the Student Center Ball Room" show at 7:30 p.m. $4 MSU students $6 general for info. call X4198

April 7
Theatre
"Jekyll and Hyde" 10 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Mainstage Theatre Series
Call (212) 420 8202

April 9
Music
Benefit concert featuring soprano Arden Shelton 8:30 p.m. Weil Recital Hall at Carnegie Hall tickets $75 (includes reception) $40 (concert only) and $15 (concert only, senior citizens and students). Call Linda Davidson at (201) 655-4218 or Rani Jenkins at (201) 655-7000

April 10
Film
"The Rapture" in the School of Humanities and Social Sciences, rm 155 for info. call 655-4267

Conference
"The Business Opportunities in a New South Africa" all-day conference 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Student Center Ballrooms

OFF CAMPUS...

April 12
Music
Mr. J live at Silver Lining 10:30 p.m. 399 Lexington Ave. Clifton, NJ (201) 772-0998

Film

For more Info. regarding events on or off campus, please contact Darla at X5169.
Joy ride: Behind the wheel with Joy Thompson

by Joy Thompson

I love to drive. If I could do only one thing every Saturday night for the rest of my life, it would be to drive. There are many things that increase my driving experience, everything from music, to cigarettes, to the temperature outside.

However, the most important factor to a positive driving experience is the passenger. Unless you are driving alone, the passenger is the most important factor in your car.

I've done quite a bit of driving in my life, with all sorts of passengers, and I think that I have found the perfect passenger for me. This girl doesn't even have her driver's license, but she likes to go for drives. I dragged her over 900 miles in five days during spring break, and last Saturday, I dragged her another seventy or so out to Waterloo Village on Rt. 80 west. She didn't mind one bit. What makes her such a good passenger is that she lets me do what I want to do. She knows it's my car, and that I can handle it better than anyone else, so I can do what I please.

There are a few key ways to tell whether or not the passenger is a good or bad person to drive with. For example:

* If you ask them to put their seat belt on, and they rip it out of your door and throw it out the window...that's a bad passenger.
* If you ask them to pick out some music, and they put in Jane's Addiction over a long haul...that's a good passenger.
* If you ask them to get you 35 cents for a toll, and they give you all pennies...drop that passenger off on the side of the road.
* If they let you drive like a fucking maniac on the Mass Pike and do not say one word about how you are driving...make a shrine for them in your glove compartment.
* If they see a cop and start wigging out, flailing their arms and screaming about how fast you were going, slow down to about 25 mph, and push them out your door.
* A really, really bad passenger will give you noogies while you're driving on a really dangerous road.
* If you get lost and the passenger doesn't mind one bit...chances are you are driving with Victoria.

This column is to all you drivers out there. Everybody always rates the driver on how he drives, but never the passenger. So drivers, take heed! Pay attention to who is in your car, and decide in your head whether or not they get the Joy Thompson Passenger Seat of Approval! If they do, then by God, go for a drive with them.

Remember to change your oil when you get your engine smelling funny! Happy Motoring!

Victoria loses her mind

by Victoria Caldas

Greetings and Salutations, I've been pulling the hair out of my head this week, struggling over decisions about registration. I almost wish I was registering later, so I could have more time to mull over which classes to take, but First Semester Senior has a nice ring to it, so I'll just juggle my schedule around until I get something that is somewhat possible.

I've noticed a growing trend among my on-campus friends. They're leaving, and it's not because they are afraid of Phone-in registration. They are simply fed up with the dorms, the food, the administration, and their respective departments. This is my fourth semester at MSU, and in the past year and a half, I know four people who decided to pack up and "escape", and now, another six who have added to the list, never to return to the bizarre pandemonium at MSU.

My opinion of MSU has changed many times. Last weekend, after a dinner, at lovely Blanton Hall, consisting of cereal and salad, I called my parents and begged them to come and get me. I told them that after four years of higher education I was giving up. My Mom calmed me down, and reminded me that I only have five wonderful weeks until the last day of classes. This made me feel better, but I'm beginning to understand why so many people go home on the weekend. If I didn't have a job on campus, I would be gone on Thursday afternoon.

Well, if you can't tell, I'm not in the best of moods this week, I have writer's block, and I have a lot of schoolwork to do, and I'm hungry and, there's nothing edible, and I'm starting to whine, so I'm going. Maybe, next week I'll be more optimistic. Until then, have fun.

The Couch Potato Update

Fans finally getting to see their sport on TV

Now, hockey fans can die in peace. No, not because the Rangers won the Stanley Cup, but because MSG Network is back on free television. Is SportsChannel passed? Is MSGNetwork passed? Probably not. No big premium-channel subscriptions are needed for Fox, but then again, Fox isn't devoting an entire season to one team, like WPIX does with Yankees baseball. Still, it's a nice change. Monday Night Football, Sunday Hockey. I think hockey's a better sport, to be honest. I mean, football only gets one night. Hockey gets all day! That's got to mean something! All kidding aside, it's about time hockey gets the limelight for awhile. It's the Great Television Experiment. The NBA receives games, but few stations go with one team exclusively (the Atlanta Hawks don't count). Ted Turner owns both the team and the network, WTBS. NBC shows games from across the country. They don't exclusively show Knicks and Nets games. Neither does Fox, nor did its predecessor, CBS, with football. However, both pulled in solid ratings numbers. Hockey was always the forgotten stepchild of professional sports. No network wanted to televise the games, with the exception of cable pay-channels. The fans were there, but no one seemed to give a flying fig whether or not it was on free television. No one, that is, except the die-hard hockey fans.

I, like many other students, have to work. Since I work at night, I can't go to many hockey games. Since I have to pay for things I don't really need, like car insurance, gas, food, I can't afford the tickets. But, if hockey was on television, I could juggle my schedule around so I can watch the Devils play for free, on Fox. Also, in certain markets, hockey is lagging in popularity. Devils fans are already hearing rumors of another relocation (the Devils came to the swamp over a decade ago from Colorado). Televized games might be just the shot in the arm the hockey needs to generate more interest.

Hockey is a great sport. I get into it a hell of a lot more than football, and it's a lot more interesting than baseball. Even though the strike has been resolved, disenchantment baseball fans might start paying less attention to the heat on the mound and focus on the heat on the ice.

Besides, the next Fox hockey telecast is going to be Devils vs. Rangers. We whipped their blue-seat butts before 5-2, we can do it again!

Write for the Arts!

MAINSTAGE THEATRE SERIES
Department of Broadcasting, Speech Communication, Dance & Theatre

PRESENTS

GYPSY

April 20-22 & 27-29, 1995 at 8pm
April 23 & 28, 1995 at 2pm

Memorial Auditorium
Call (201) 655-5112 for Ticket Information

Arts & Entertainment/Thursday, April 6, 1995
1995 Montclarion Reader Poll

I am forfeiting my column this week to create space for this reader poll, which, in turn, will better serve you, dear readers. Responses will be published in the April 20th issue of the Montclarion. (Note: Social Security numbers are for verification purposes only and will be kept confidential.) Darla Bruno

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Social Security #</th>
<th>Major</th>
<th>Class</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

How often do you read the news section?

- Once a week, word for word
- When I'm really bored
- I'm ignorant

Do you read the police blotter?

- Yes
- No

Do you read the sports section?

- Always
- Sometimes
- Never

Do you read the Editorial, letters and columns?

- No
- If yes, From the Left
- Roar from the Right
- The Examined Life
- Positive Controversy
- Bystander
- Pensées
- Native American
- Erica's Beat

How often do you read the Comics?

- Always
- Sometimes
- Never

How often do you read the arts section?

- Once a week, word for word
- When I'm really bored
- What's the arts section

Which columns do you read?

- Post Human
- Couch Potato
- P.O.V.
- Victoria Loses Her Mind
- The Video Underground
- Elements of Style
- Joy's Jazz Jaunt
- Fashion Boutique

Which category would you like to see more coverage of?

- Music
- Art
- Theatre
- Books
- Food
- Dance
- Film
- Lectures
- On-campus
- Off-campus events
- Comics
- News
- Sports
- Editorial
- Safety

Other Comments:

(Please fill out and return to the Montclarion office no later than April 18th. Thank you for your time.)
No Fee

The new Optima® Card
from American Express
has the kind of benefits
every student can appreciate. Like no
annual fee. The option to make payments over time. Big savings on Continental airfares and
MCI long distance calling.
A low introductory interest rate. And the unsurpassed service only American Express can provide. So why settle for an ordinary credit card? Declare yourself
a Cardmember today.
To apply, call
1 800 446-5393

If you use the Card three times a year...
It's a bird...It's a plane...It's...

by Tom Boud

Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound system! Able to leap the 1950's in the present in a single bound! Look! Up on your screen! Faster than a spinning capstan! More powerful than a stereo sound sys...
With all the concern about lowering standards, it’s nice to have a fine example like President Reid to look up to. Students having the good sense to study and emulate Dr. Reid’s diction will find all the vocabulary, rhetorical devices and sheer endurance they will need to succeed as speakers and writers.

President Reid is a guy you can rely on. It’s been rather a long time since he took the time to talk with us, but he served up - as true to form as ever - his masterful style of disarming discourse.

We can’t help but admire his ability to answer a question. Just when you think you’ve snared him in the helpless position of having to give a succinct response, he does a rhetorical head-fake and he’s off to the races. By the time you’ve reeled him in again you will have forgotten half of what he’s said and you’ll be frantically translating the rest.

We hope our fellow students will enjoy his interview in this issue. And we hope they will put it to good use, whether to prepare for thesis writing or to use as fail-safe bedside reading. It’s just a pity this man isn’t paid by the word. -Or is he?
Breaking the silence: story of a transfer student

As I sit on my bed in my dormitory room overlooking a peaceful view of the New York City skyline, I reflect on my first semester and a half at Montclair State University. I remember being optimistic about changing schools, but I was still nervous about starting over. My transition to MSU was rough, but I felt everything would work out fine. That is, until November 29, 1994.

I went to class, as usual, that Tuesday afternoon, looking forward to hearing the answers to those “perennial questions” of political science. That day, however, I was in store for more answers than I wanted.

About a couple of weeks before this day, I remember seeing the front page of the Montclarion with a picture of the Confederate flag on it, with the headline “Delta Kappa Psi Found Guilty of Conduct Unbecoming the Greek Community.” The issue brought a lot of controversy to MSU in the weeks following. So I was surprised when at class I noticed that my professor was wearing a pin with the Confederate flag on it. I was curious as to why he was wearing the pin, given all the controversy it had brought to campus. When class was over, I approached the professor and asked just that.

The professor told me that the controversy was the very reason why he’d worn the pin. He said, “Yes. The controversies that I found somewhat hostile. He said, “The Constitution does not provide for protection of expression. I probed further asking, “The Constitution under freedom of speech regulations that ‘Everyone is doing it’ or ‘This is the trend’ are unworthy of an institution that claims to impart the habits of critical thinking.

Created and designed to foster learning, reflection, and the pursuit of knowledge, the university, through its policies, sought to set the highest possible standards of ethical behavior. If a concern for justice cannot govern the decision making process on a university campus, one might well ask what is to become of this society and the principles on which it was founded.

Professor Joanne Engelbert Spanish/Italian

Privatization depends on “facile rationalizations”

The proposed move to privatize custodial services ought to be challenged and resisted at this and all other state campuses. As members of the university community, the custodial staff has served the institution well in ways that go far beyond their job descriptions. Friends and co-workers at this institution, their efforts over the years to maintain and beautify our campus and buildings have contributed to making the institution what it is today.

The custodial staff as a group embraces a high percentage of the minority citizens of this state whom the university has pledged to support in their educational and social aspirations. Fully 80% of the staff is estimated to be of Latino origin; the remaining 20% are largely members of various other minority groups. Many are new arrivals for whom full time jobs with decent benefits provide the means to give their children access to higher education, a goal we should all applaud.

Virginia reaffirmed as part of age-old ethical system

I would like to make a few points about the line of reasoning used in Jean-Marie Navetta’s column last week, “Virginity pegged as obsolete ideal.”

The proposed move to privatize custodial services ought to be challenged and resisted at this and all other state campuses. As members of the university community, the custodial staff has served the institution well in ways that go far beyond their job descriptions. Friends and co-workers at this institution, their efforts over the years to maintain and beautify our campus and buildings have contributed to making the institution what it is today.

The custodial staff as a group embraces a high percentage of the minority citizens of this state whom the university has pledged to support in their educational and social aspirations. Fully 80% of the staff is estimated to be of Latino origin; the remaining 20% are largely members of various other minority groups. Many are new arrivals for whom full time jobs with decent benefits provide the means to give their children access to higher education, a goal we should all applaud.

Navetta’s column last week, “Virginity reaffirmed as part of a transfer student

As I sit on my bed in my dormitory room overlooking a peaceful view of the New York City skyline, I reflect on my first semester and a half at Montclair State University. I remember being optimistic about changing schools, but I was still nervous about starting over. My transition to MSU was rough, but I felt everything would work out fine. That is, until November 29, 1994.

I went to class, as usual, that Tuesday afternoon, looking forward to hearing the answers to those “perennial questions” of political science. That day, however, I was in store for more answers than I wanted.

About a couple of weeks before this day, I remember seeing the front page of the Montclarion with a picture of the Confederate flag on it, with the headline “Delta Kappa Psi Found Guilty of Conduct Unbecoming the Greek Community.” The issue brought a lot of controversy to MSU in the weeks following. So I was surprised when at class I noticed that my professor was wearing a pin with the Confederate flag on it. I was curious as to why he was wearing the pin, given all the controversy it had brought to campus. When class was over, I approached the professor and asked just that.

The professor told me that the controversy was the very reason why he’d worn the pin. He said, “Yes. The Constitution does not provide for protection of expression. I probed further asking, “The Constitution under freedom of speech regulations that ‘Everyone is doing it’ or ‘This is the trend’ are unworthy of an institution that claims to impart the habits of critical thinking.

Created and designed to foster learning, reflection, and the pursuit of knowledge, the university, through its policies, sought to set the highest possible standards of ethical behavior. If a concern for justice cannot govern the decision making process on a university campus, one might well ask what is to become of this society and the principles on which it was founded.

Professor Joanne Engelbert Spanish/Italian

Privatization depends on “facile rationalizations”

The proposed move to privatize custodial services ought to be challenged and resisted at this and all other state campuses. As members of the university community, the custodial staff has served the institution well in ways that go far beyond their job descriptions. Friends and co-workers at this institution, their efforts over the years to maintain and beautify our campus and buildings have contributed to making the institution what it is today.

The custodial staff as a group embraces a high percentage of the minority citizens of this state whom the university has pledged to support in their educational and social aspirations. Fully 80% of the staff is estimated to be of Latino origin; the remaining 20% are largely members of various other minority groups. Many are new arrivals for whom full time jobs with decent benefits provide the means to give their children access to higher education, a goal we should all applaud.

Virginia reaffirmed as part of age-old ethical system

I would like to make a few points about the line of reasoning used in Jean-Marie Navetta’s column last week, “Virginity pegged as obsolete ideal.”

The marginal ideologies she is projecting are upheld by a minority which doesn’t, in fact, represent the mores of the nation, but rather the values of those who subscribe to the Village Voice. The standards she’s so eager to throw away are part of a larger ethical system that one cannot violate for mere self satisfaction. That larger system happens to be sustained by people and families across the country. These people value sex as having a higher purpose, without which the human race would perish.

Jean-Marie’s rationalistic destruction of reality conforms to the ephemeral codes of MTV ethics and Madonna morals. Sex wasn’t invented in our lifetime. There have been attitudes and behaviors towards it for thousands of years. Certain timeless truths about sex will prevail and will not fall subject to passing trends like some shirt you’d buy and wear twice.

Jean-Marie and thinkers like her try to rationalize behavior that takes chances with unwanted pregnancy, A.I.D.S., emotional distress and sexually transmitted diseases all in the name of “freedom”? Apparently Jean-Marie’s “free-love”-style moral agenda mistakenly equates physical pleasure with freedom. The relativistic mentality she is promoting only fosters spiritual bankruptcy and social disintegration.

However many euphemisms she may use, what she is essentially talking about is a melt down of age-old moral codes. Without these she feels she has the luxury of a rationalization which allows her to justify any action. The “stringent and unequal’ moral” standards” she refers to are not promoting a life of torture and unhappiness, but rather sex as the very act that put us here on earth. She also poses the question, “Do we truly have the right to deny acceptance to a man or woman who marries and has sex for other than procreation?” Well, there she goes again confusing socially granted rights with “what’s truly right. An activist for “social justice” will blindly argue for shallow reasoning by saying, “So basically, I have the right to call you a fucking nigger and nothing can be done about it!” I was stunned, and the fact that he had earlier mentioned a pejorative term for his own religious group didn’t lessen the blow. But the words he shouted at me didn’t hurt half as much as an entire class of students sitting quietly like nothing had been said. I quietly gathered my belongings and left.

About a week later, I was asked to attend a meeting with the professor and another person from the Social Sciences Department to discuss what happened. As the meeting progressed, I sensed that the meeting was merely to give the professor a chance to excuse his actions and to keep me quiet so no more bad publicity would be brought to MSU.

Many of you will probably ask, “Why bring it up now, it was so long ago!” I answer that even after all this time, I still feel burdened with the pain and embarrassment caused by the words the professor chose to use. I feel students should not have to be subjected to this type of speech, especially in a classroom. I was humiliated and I want that to be recognized.

Furthermore, I had to face the fact of having this professor for two classes required for graduation and I was concerned about my grades. It angers me that a professor had the ability to create -willingly or out of callous indifference - an academic hell for a student, instead of helping to provide civilized conditions in which to learn.

By writing this letter, I hope to make everyone aware that incidents like these still happen at institutions of higher learning. In closing, I put out this question: While we may have the right to shout obscenities and hurtful language at one another, in a time when we should be beautifying our campus and buildings have contributed to making the institution what it is today.

The custodial staff as a group embraces a high percentage of the minority citizens of this state whom the university has pledged to support in their educational and social aspirations. Fully 80% of the staff is estimated to be of Latino origin; the remaining 20% are largely members of various other minority groups. Many are new arrivals for whom full time jobs with decent benefits provide the means to give their children access to higher education, a goal we should all applaud.

Stacey Banfield, Political Science

All submissions to the editor must include a phone number.
Native American
by Joseph Paternoster

A couple of weeks ago, one of my esteemed colleagues wrote of his trip to Washington, D.C. He told of how what he saw "increased my faith in true liberalism." Well, this past weekend I had occasion to visit the nation's capital and came away with quite a different picture.

During the bus ride we passed through many different types of areas: rich, poor, city and country. One place struck me the most, and not just me but everyone on the bus. As we rode into Baltimore and the D.C. area I noticed blocks and blocks of condemned buildings and wondered why this was so. With all the money dumped into HUD, one would think that these buildings could be renovated into low-cost housing for the truly needy, or sold to private business at a reduced rate for the same purpose. Not to mention that this would create well-paying jobs too.

It was a hotel that my friends and I stayed at located in the heart of Chinatown, where many enterprising Chinese people had started their own businesses - and most of them were hiring. The first place I visited was the National Archives where I saw the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and the Magna Carta. It was a tremendous thrill see the founding documents of our country; a thrill which I hope everyone is able to share.

After that we went by the White House where we ran into a Secret Service agent. We asked him a few questions about the President and he was surprisingly honest with us. He told us that while he would take a bullet for him (he said he would do the same for us, since he was a policeman), he would never vote for him. And he informed us that the Bushs were much nicer. "They would talk to people off camera," he said, and added that the Clintons never did. Proving once again the point that two liberal elitists are inhabiting the White House.

We then walked across the street to Lafayette Park where two ladies have lived for 15 years. The reason they live there - illegally - is that they are holding a 24 hour, 365 day a year vigil for nuclear disarmament. To me this is just another case of meaningless liberal support for an unrealistic goal. Once again liberals trying to take the high ground, as if they can end war by sleeping outside.

During the bus ride we passed through many different areas: rich, poor, city and country. One place struck me the most, and not just me but everyone on the bus. As we rode into Baltimore and the D.C. area I noticed blocks and blocks of condemned buildings and wondered why this was so. With all the money dumped into HUD, one would think that these buildings could be renovated into low-cost housing for the truly needy, or sold to private business at a reduced rate for the same purpose. Not to mention that this would create well-paying jobs too.

A different view of capital
by Michael Rubino

A quick talk with the communists

Hey, Monclair State University! The socialist and communist pandemonium is back! I just thought that I would let you know that the anti-Americans who hate everything this country stands for recently spent an entire day on our campus, pushing their agenda and supporting radical revolution.

Last October I was astonished to see the communist table outside the Student Center filled with numerous pieces of literature. In response I wrote a letter to the Montclarion stating my disgust. One week later I had a weekly column which I have devoted to political and social issues ever since. I was taken back to that beginning by the reappearance of this loathsome group of communists.

In contrast to last October, when I lost my composure and verbally attacked the propaganda, this time I approached them with a tranquil demeanor and a still tongue. I proceeded to listen as the ringleader tried to convince me that America was cruelly run by a handful of mean and terrible corporate executives and bankers.

Then he showed me their flyer, which is pinned up all over campus, promoting their Cuban-communist guest speaker. This probably amused me more than anything else. The flyer reminded all the prospective guests to come with an "open mind." These people generally assume that if you don't agree or accept their views, positions or ideology, you are therefore narrow-minded, ignorant and naive. I am open-minded enough to know what I believe in and when to tell someone when I disagree. Within the last few years we have witnessed the fall of communism in the former Soviet Union and much of Eastern Europe. As Winston Churchill said, "Democracy is the worst form of government, except for all the others."

Basically, I believe their cause to be nothing more than innocuous chatter. However, when I asked them to explain their goals and tell me what it is they wish to accomplish, the ringleader's response made me want to embrace Frank Fieschenman. He said they yearn for revolution, consisting of radical economic, political and social change in America. This is the same guy who told me he admires the political system of Cuba and that he worships Castro. I finally discarded my attitude of reserve when he encouraged me to purchase some literature.

I replied, "I'm not spending one pretty penny on your stuff. If God forbid, there ever is a revolution such as you speak of, you and I will be staring eye-to-eye, not standing side by side."

I left them with the same thoughts that I conveyed in my letter to the Montclarion last October. Let it be known that it is because of the country we live in and the government we function under that unappreciative radical left-wingers are allowed the opportunity to push their agendas in our faces. What do you think would happen to us if we stood on a Cuban street corner promoting American capitalism and criticizing the Castro regime?
Moral laws and the rules of love: Eros and Agape

What love sees is the intrinsic value of the beloved. If I do not love you, I see you as a mere object in the world; if I love you, I see you as the center of a world that we share, with you as indispensable as myself. Love here means agape - selfless, permanent, unconditional love - not eros, which is the selfish appetite of passion. Agape is gift giving, not need-lose; love of the other, not love of pleasure.

I bring this up because there seems to be confusion concerning my motives in writing about "the perils of 'condom sense'" as the editor put it. This confusion was made clear by Jean-Marie Navetta's column last week (Virginity pegged as obsolete ideal, March 30, 1995). Although she begs the question by assuming that sex outside of marriage can be done responsibly, she raises some important points that should be dealt with concerning love, sex, morality and freedom.

Virginity is about agape. It is like holding a special gift for someone you truly love. This is not to say that sex is only for procreation. Sex is a mystery, a thing whose outer edges seem full of light and meaning, but whose inner core has unsounded depths. It is not simply earthly; not just another of the many material things of the Earth. If marriage is manmade, it can be un-made by man, like a game. But if it has its own inherent essence, structure and laws then we cannot change those laws. Marriage is innate; a natural universal thing that is discovered rather than invented. People who practice sexual promiscuity must realize that they are slaves to selfish pleasure. Without the laws of marriage their relationship could last a lifetime, or end tomorrow. This is the character of eros. Someone may respond by saying that marriage is manmade since it can be changed through divorce. However, you cannot change a law of nature, only fight against it. For instance, you can throw a heavy object upward, but that does not change the law of gravity, and the object will eventually fall. Similarly, if there are laws inherent in marriage, and if one of these is fertility for life, then you cannot abrogate that law.

Navetta says in her column that our moral expectations must change just as our lifestyles have changed. This confusion is caused by the fact that we have been conditioned to talk about moral values instead of moral laws. The word law suggests something objective; we don't speak of "subjective laws". The word values suggests something subjective: "my values" or "Society's values". The choice of words makes a difference. Moses did not receive the Ten Values from God. If morals are objective laws, then they cannot be changed "just as our lifestyle options have changed."

No culture has ever existed which taught a totally unique set of values. For example, honesty, justice, courage, cooperation, wisdom, self-control, and hope were never thought to be evil, and lying, theft, murder, rape, cowardice, folly, addiction, despair and selfishness were never thought to be good. Anthropology does not discover a diversity of values, only value opinions. What is culturally relative is opinions about what is right and wrong, not right and wrong themselves.
The Adventures of Gwed and Borka

By R. Bizjak & J. Alexander

While I was at school, Gwed is the word that I was born to.

Then suddenly...I woke up with a headache.

Achoo!

Bless you!

Thank you.

Welcome.

I'm Borka. I'm a border collie.

Breathe in. Breathe out.

I'm Gwed. I'm a Border Collie.

Breathe in. Breathe out.

I'm a border collie.

I'm Gwed. I'm a border collie.

Breathe in. Breathe out.
THEATRE OF THE ABSURD

The OJ Simpson case has affected all of our lives in one way or another. For some of us, it has made us question the legal system, which dishes out many according to class or social status. For others, it has let us become voyeurs in the “case of the century”. And for many, it has given the chance to make lots of dough (look at Shapiro man; he’s got a thousand dollar chair)! So, I figured that I’d cash in as well...in a much different way of course. To those who are interested, I give you this chance to buy this as your little memento of this glorious, money-making case! Actually, though, I think that this one might sell; if anyone’s interested, I’ll let them in on this little venture that I’m running. Here’s the text for the ad so far:

Having problems with algebra? Can’t seem to handle Calculus? Is Geometry a complete mystery? If you’ve answered “yes” to any of these questions, you’re a loser. Heh heh heh, just kidding! Anyway, what you need is Kato Kaelin’s “Math Made Easy Math-o-Rama” Video Cassettes! You’ll get instruction from perhaps the most clueless human being ever born! Here’s just a sample:

“Man, he’s stupid; I feel like Albert Einstein compared to this guy!”

Kato Kaelin’s “Math Made Easy Math-o-Rama” Video Cassettes: Please buy it, because we need the money. Just send your credit card with signature to:

THE MONCLARION

555 Mockingbird Lane
Wacky Montclair, NJ 857356025323

with the following information.

Name: ______________________________
Address: _____________________________
City/State/Zip: _______________________

Amount enclosed: _____________________

We promise. So send the cards in today!!!!

John J. O’Sullivan is the actual murderer, but just don’t tell anyone.

A PIECE OF WISDOM:

Gasoline is absolutely not an alcoholic beverage.
Part-Time MIS and MARKETING OPPORTUNITIES

Meldisco, a Division of the Melville Corporation with over 1.3 billion dollars in sales, has part-time opportunities in its MIS and Marketing departments. We merchandise and staff more than 2,400 footwear departments located around the world. Opportunities exist in our Corporate Headquarters which is located in Mahwah, New Jersey.

We are offering part-time opportunities for college students (Juniors/Seniors preferred) interested in gaining practical work experience in a corporate environment while attending school and/or during summer break.

As a Network Support Technician, you will test new hardware, load and test pre-configured software, troubleshoot hardware problems and make repairs as required, provide ad-hoc assistance and training for new users in the operation of the system, and install additional software on desktop workstations as necessary. This position is responsible for the timely installation and maintenance of all desktop workstations based on reported incidents from the help desk. This opportunity is available immediately and will last for at least 8-10 months.

Our Marketing Department is looking for a focused student to assist in development and execution of consumer-oriented marketing programs, provide analytical support for program results and develop/execute tracking protocol, develop and review copy and provide input for creative components of promotions, and interact with in-house creative services as necessary.

Meldisco is located in Mahwah just ten minutes north of Paramus off of Route 17. The hours will be determined according to your schedule and average approximately 15-20 hours per week. We offer a competitive hourly rate, an on-site fitness center, and dining facility along with a pleasant work environment. If you are interested in these opportunities at Meldisco, please send your resume to: MELDISCO, Division of Melville Corporation, Dept SC, 933 Macarthur Blvd, Mahwah, NJ 07430. Equal opportunity employer M/F.

Meet The Melville Family

MELDISCO
Division of the Melville Corporation

Meet The Melville Family

MARSHALL’S, KAYBEE TOY AND HOBBY, BOB’S, FOOTACTION, CVS, WILSON’S, AND MELDISCO SHOEMART AT KMART.
Personals-Lite

Layla (D Xi D 36), Congratulations! I'm so proud of you! You’re the best little sister! Love & Sisterhood, Cindy #29

Christina, Tania, and Layla (D Xi D) We’re the best family! Love, Cindy #29

Tania (D Xi D #93) I’m so glad you’re my twin! Welcome to the family! Love, Cindy #29

Muskie (SDT) Thanks for a great weekend! Let me guess...you were just thinking that. Love, Blair

Lynn, You are the love of my life! The past 6 years have been great so far, but the best is yet to come. May we be together forever. -Michael.

Blondeaux (JJO) To the Sisters of Delta Xi Delta

Chrisy #14 (D Xi D) You’re the best little! I love you! Love, Chrisy #20

Amy (D Xi D) We have the best time around! Love, Chrisy #20

Ed (DV) I really am sorry! I didn’t mean it, and I didn’t mean any harm in it! -Chesney

D Xi D Pledge: Congrats on becoming new sisters! Concan!

Meads, I nearly came in my pants when I saw your new pajamas! HOTNESS! -Jen

Kelli, You think you’re cute, and you speak like me so I consider you my N. Bergen little sister. Love, your Pledge Mom & Mistress

John C., Are you ready to receive the Boonester Award? Concan!

Concan (TX), I have a sneaky suspicion it will not be John C. this year. It might very well be me!!! -Mabubahokiaha!

Theta Xi, Semi Formal 95 at Birchwood Manor! Concan, GN 29

Corine (D Xi D), Thanks for being the best big! Love, Michelle (D Xi D #35)

Winks, Crash, Smurfette, Chaos & Coop! You guys are the best! Thanks for everything! Bagger

To the Sisters of D Xi D, Yeah! I love you guys! Michelle (D Xi D #93)

Steve (TX) See if you could send a personal! Michelle (D Xi D)

But did you send him a personal, or just a personal that said you’d send him a personal????????? -JJO’S

4 o’clock or 2 a.m., we get them all...Soup of 408

Put – Want some Mad Dog?”?

Jill (AO) – I think you owe me dinner. – The King

George: You know me. I play football at Rutgers. I’m number 999 – Pyle

Jangle & Pat – Selmer is for it this summer! – Pyle

JJO’S: It was late and I was tired! Love, The Gothic Chymyck

Gladia: Less than 4 weeks left! Bababababash! Love, Stricklund

Phi Sigma Sigma, Congrats to all of the new E-Board Members & Committee heads for fall ’95! IPSL, Rosann

Kaney (SDT): Have no too many skates lately? Don’t worry, I know how you feel! Love, Rose Ann

Nicole (Phi Sig): You’re the best roommate! Thanks for always being there & listening to me! Love, Rose Ann

Caroline and Jennifer (Phi Sig): Let’s try to keep fun tonight, which shouldn’t be hard as long as 3 certain guys don’t kick us out first! IPSL, Rose Ann

Chrisy (D Xi D) Thanks for everything, especially encouraging me to join. You’re the best big! Love your little #34

Angela (D Xi D) How about some pancakes? You’re the best! Love, Your little #34

Cheryl (D Xi D) Chickens are yellow stripes. Go us! Love, Chrisy #24

To the sisters of D Xi D, If I forget to tell you...I’m having a great time! Love you all! Chrisy #94

Chrisy (D Xi D) Have you had your tonnilloctomy lately? Chrisy (D Xi D)

Congratulations to the Xi Class of D Phi E. You made us so proud! Love, your Pledge Man & Mistress

Kelly, Cindy, Sarah (D Phi E) I hope that we not our last mixer together. What are you going to do without me next year? I guess I’ll come back for some late nights! Love, Allison

Lisa D. (D Phi E) Thanks for all of your help. You are awesome! I am going to miss you “protea”. Love, Allison

SDT No Pledge Class: I love you! Love you, “Adonis”

To Jen, Keep up the optimism. I love you! Love, Kim (CSU)

Strawberry, Thanks for the reality check! I love you! Captain Obvious

Christina (SDT): Thanks for NOT giving me a shoulder to cry on. You mean so much to me. I love you BIG! Love, little

Karen (SDT): Big, Thanks for everything, you’ve really helped me through these last few weeks. I love you! Love, your little Jennifer

Exotic Dane – A ept, obvious! Vibes! Vibes! Vibes! Is that Melissa Etheridge?!? Love, the shampoo bottle fanatic

Strawberry, Smirnoff, and Exotic Dance-A-Cuddles keep the economy size party plot! Thanks! Love, PMG queen

Clinger: The silent treatment - I never thought I’d see the day (Kell has fangs on.) You want me to put potato butter where? Love, Rxe

Are the girls of M.S.U. safe after Panama? -Boy? of 408!

Jill (AO) I see the Panama purge, and I don’t! Love, Pyle

Jangle Remember B.C. Pyle

Sigga, Where’s my fern Pyle

Bagger #95, Congratulations! Nothing you’re officially a sister...no matter what crank thought previously. Love you little! Dee #21

Sisters and Sigma Sigma Sigma, Your new looks great, you did a great job! That crazy person who pulled you at your window

Seth, Thanks for the road trip to bumble “...” Ready love cop and love cop. You’re the greatest friend! Love, The Gothic Chipmunk Oh-JJO why did I take this job my hands are going to fall off.

Buster (ARP) Do you know who has your keys? Christians (SDT) and Tomato

To my care sisters (KX): Thanks for your help and prayers. You’re all a blessing in my life and I thank God for this. Love you all, Karen

Schatan Did you ever figure out who Schatam is? Love, Richardson

Sam (DV): I’m really glad that we can talk the way we do. Underneath all that poop you really do have a heart! Kevy

Melissa, Stopy and Modina (Theta) The “stories” we are going to get to tell our children come day! Love, Stephanie

Karen (Phi Sigma Sigma), I’m leaning...two new sentences I’ve incorporated into my vocabulary. You want my phone #? Why would you want that? IPSL Christine F. (Phi Sigma Sigma)

All Phi Sig like Bruce Springsteen.

Saw (DV) What kind of drums do you have on top tonight? Love, Donna

Delta Chi Take it off...at a medium pace thanks for the entertainment. Love, Thata

Caroline (Phi Sigma Sigma), I thought my finger was a freaky toy! I swear! IPSL Christine F. (Phi Sigma Sigma)

Riddereen room 108, time 9:00 p.m. the point of no return.

Jenn L. (Phi Sig), Thank you for driving us to the mall! Love, Nicole

Christine F. (Phi Sigma Sigma), Place shoeshiners at 3 a.m. at McDonalds makes other hungry people MAD! Love, Caroline P.S. Don’t keep the horn.

Nicole (Phi Sig) You notice a lot. Good luck with your new board! Love, Trish

Overuse of exclamation points is a sin!!111111111

Caroline (Phi Sig), This could be the one. Don’t let him get away! Love, your roomie

Karen (Phi Sigma Sigma), I heard you like the number “3”! IPSL Christine F. (Phi Sigma Sigma)

Caroline (Phi Sig), Hopefully our baking experience will include “Strawberry” flame drinks! Love, Trish

To the former E-board of Phi Sig, Thank you for your hard work and dedication. You will be missed. Love, Nicole

Who knows what will look as “the other side of the Wall”?

I did it!Phi Sigma Sigma, I wore my zoot suit two days in a row. Aren’t you happy? Love, Nicole

Nicole, RoseAnn and Caroline, Clone will be kicking next year! Love, Jennifer

Kim (Phi Sigma Sig), Welcome to the family. Love, Trish

Thanks for trying these in Delta and carry to all those people whose personas were omitted, but we ran out of room. Sorry! –JJO’S

Any complaints for your personas not being in this week please submit to Grog MacDougall in Room 113C of the Student Center.
Because stuff* happens.

*Hey this is corporate America. We have to keep it clean.

It's everywhere you want to be.*
Get $160 worth of FREE advertising in the Montclarion.
Distribute the Montclarion around campus on Thursday afternoons and receive a FREE half-page ad in the Montclarion.

Delivery only takes 20 minutes!
This offer open to all MSU students.

Contact the Montclarion A.S.A.P.
The free ads will go quickly!!
Call 655-5169 and leave a message.
EXTRA INCOME FOR '95
Earn $500-$1000 weekly stuffing envelopes. For details - RUSH $1.00 with SASE to: GROUP FIVE 57 Greentree Drive, Suite 307 Dover, DE 19901.

Help wanted on college newspaper. Excellent on resume. Call 655-5169.

Help wanted part-time Health Food store in Cranford, NJ knowledge of nutrition helpful 908-276-4270 Charlie. Flexible hrs.

Classified Ads needed to fill this section! Advertise here for the whole campus to see. Call 655-5237.

Brogan Auto Body of Clifton announces it’s grand reopening! 620 Broad St. Clifton, NJ 07013. Call 201-777-2993. Under new management, repairs on all makes and models, all insurance work welcome, professional auto detailing, bring in this ad for your student discount.

Attention All Students!
Over $6 Billion in private sector grants & scholarships is now available. All students are eligible. Let us help. For more info. call: 1-800-263-6495 ext. F50963.

Model (female) needed by photographer. No experience required, no nudity, part time. $20.00 per hour. (201) 823-8750.

Room with separate entrance (Montclair home) in exchange for child care services (3 yr. & 2 yr.) Hours: 5 p.m.-8p.m. Mon-Fri. Responsibilities are: pick-up children, play, feed and bath. (201) 509-9659 after 6 p.m.

Babysitter needed afternoons plus two evenings, must have own car. Call (201) 509-0988. References required.

Looking for responsible, loving, girl to care for 3 young children - 5 days a week. Please call 890-5926.

Alaska Summer Employment- Students Needed! Fishing Industry. Earn up to $3,000-$6,000+ per month. Room and Board! Transportation! Male or Female. No Experience necessary. Call (206) 545-4155 ext. A50961.

Are you struggling in certain subjects? Are you afraid to ask for help because you don't want to be embarrassed? Don't make the dumbest move of all, ask for help. Call Renaissance Tutoring. Tutors are available in all subjects by competent people. Call 744-5847 for more info.

Join the Montclarion!
Track is back
Runners on road to reemergence under Benson

by Brian Falzarano

It sits in the far corner of the campus. Visible only when you are in the campus parking lot, it is a giant oval covered with a red artificial surface, surrounded by a generous area of green grass.

For over 20 years, there has not been a meet on the track at MSU. Throughout that time, the Red Hawks still maintained a successful program, placing several runners in regional and national championship meets. Now that there was a new track surface laid down, there is a possibility of the MSU track team hosting its first home meet in quite some time in May.

Things are closer to being settled now. At least more so than they have been in the past year-and-a-half. On March 22, Athletic Director Greg Lockard announced the hiring of Gerald "Bennie" Benson. This concluded a month-and-a-half national search for its first full-time head coach in the past 18 months. Though MSU is a school which has had success in track and field, it has only begun to pick up the pieces after what has nearly been a disastrous tumble into oblivion.

But for a while, a return to success and stability that both the university's administration and athletes were able to become accustomed to seemed to be nothing more than a pipe dream.

Go back to October, 1993. Full-time coach John Blanton, the often maligned coach of the Red Hawk track team, was suspended by the university for sexual misconduct. From there, things just got progressively worse. Almost to the point where people on campus began to wonder if the program would return to its past glory.

Blanton, who in his three years as Red Hawk coach, led MSU to a fourth-place finish in the NCAA Division III Track Championships, seemingly had his back to the wall from the moment he got here. But for a while, a return to success and stability that both the university's administration and athletes were able to become accustomed to seemed to be nothing more than a pipe dream.

for a variety of reasons. To begin with, a hold was put on Blanton's position by the university administration. In layman's terms, this meant that whoever stepped in as successor to the embattled coach was basically in an interim position.

Benson, the first full-time coach in 18 months at MSU, comes here after a successful at Robert Morris, his alma mater. Sharon Linda (bottom left) ran under embattled coach John Blanton, will now run under Benson. (All Photos by Al Lagraverde/Montclarion).

continued on page 30

Lacrosse downs
USMMA to win 3rd straight

by Nick Gantaiff

Just when you thought the Red Hawk lacrosse team was falling apart, they suddenly engineered a three-game winning streak capped off by last night's miraculous 12-11 over the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy.

Trailing most of the contest, MSU (4-3) scored three goals in twenty seconds to take the lead. MSU head coach Doug Alsfrom called this the most odd game he has ever coached.

"This was bizarre," said Alsfrom. "This is the strangest game I ever coached. We were very tired and I tried to playing as many players as I could."

Many reserves saw playing time mainly because the starters were exhausted due to last week's busy schedule. The difference in Tuesday's contest was the play of the injured athletes.

"The walking wounded made the difference," said Alsfrom.

MSU was led by sophomore midfielder Frank Morano, who scored four goals in the contest. He was told before the game that he would not be playing in order to recover and heal injuries. Morano was so sure that he wouldn't play he told his father not to bother coming. With a change of game plans, Alsfrom decided to play Morano and the results were prosperous for the Red Hawks.

Senior attacker Matt Klank scored once and had five assists. The tying and go ahead goals were scored by sophomore goalkeeper Dan VanNess off feeds from Klank and sophomore midfielder Mike Como.

On Saturday, the Red Hawks hosted Stockton in an impressive 10-5 MSU victory. VanNess had 15 saves and Klank scored three goals and assisted on one. MSU took an early 3-0 lead in the first quarter and at the half lead 6-2.

Last Thursday, MSU outscored SUNY-Potsdam 14-11 in front of their home crowd. Morano continued to impress, as he scored six goals and collected one assist. Teammates Klank, Alexei Bobrowsky and Jim Nugent all contributed with two goals to help the Red Hawks in the winning effort. VanNess had 12 saves, while midfielder Como was 18-8 on face-offs. For Potsdam, Jamie Monroe had four goals to lead his team in defeat.
Off the mark

Pitching and defense have been shaky

by Brian Falsakaramo

MSU coach Norm Schoenig doesn't have reason to panic. But he certainly has reason to be concerned.

"To put it bluntly, the pitching and the defense have not been at the level the Red Hawks need it to be to get back to the level they have been out in recent years.

First, let's look at the pitching. MSU (8-6-1) had a 4.90 ERA going into yesterday's game against Elizabethtown which, although it is third-best in the New Jersey Athletic Conference (NJAC), it is still subpar.

Yesterday's game against Elizabethtown was another example of this. Leading 10-9 going into the bottom of the ninth, momentum was on the Red Hawks' side.

However, Todd Sak had a difficult time closing things once again. The junior right-hander let another lead fall by the wayside. Pinch-runner Todd Krieder scored the game tying run with two outs after an MSU error to let the Blue Jays (16-5-1) tie the game.

Eventually, the Red Hawks settled for a 10-10 tie after 10 innings.

In 134 innings, the opposition has hit 148 hits and scored 122 runs. Compare the latter total to the one against Western Connecticut. Their pitching has gained much recognition over the years. So have shortstop Tony Martinez (.347, 17 runs scored) and others.

So the problem lies within the pitching. Whoever said pitching and defense were most of the game were not kidding.

Mainly, the problem lies in the starting pitching—John Carlson, T.J. Costello, and Brian Cordeiro are a combined 5-4. But they have yielded 77 hits and 42 earned runs in 69 innings. Those are not numbers that win championships.

Costello only lasted two-thirds of an inning on Tuesday, letting up three runs in the process.

"We just have to work harder," said Schoenig. "We have to look in the mirror and go back to the basics. We have to work on this to right ourselves."

Also, the relief pitching has been spotty. Take last Saturday's loss to Wilmington. Yezza singles home a run in the top of the ninth to give the Red Hawks a 7-6 lead. With junior stopper Todd Sak coming into the game, this game should have been locked up.

Instead, Sak gave up a single to Wilmington's cleanup hitter. After getting the next two batters out, the junior gave up a double to the number seven hitter, which went over freshman left fielder Mike Hastings head, hitting the fence on one hop to score the game-tying run from third.

"With Mike's inexperience, he was tentative," said Schoenig. "Once the ball dropped, we had no shot at throwing the guy out at the plate."

Soft hit parade

MSU bats quited in doubleheader split

by Michael Goumen

After generating enough offense to produce 25 runs during last weekend's tournament, the No. 7 Red Hawks were forced into playing a defensive struggle against Western Connecticut. Their doubleheader on Tuesday resulted in a win for each team, with MSU winning the second game 2-0.

When the Red Hawks (16-4) have struggled this season, it has been because of their inability to score in clutch situations. That was the situation in the first game of the doubleheader that MSU lost 2-1.

"Again we couldn't get a run across the plate when we needed to," said a disappointed Kubicka.

Game two was very similar, but this time found Western Connecticut (7-9) on the short end. MSU would hold Western Connecticut scoreless as freshman left-hander Sharon Ormsbee (9-1) pitched her third shutout. Ormsbee was outstanding in the game allowing only one runner to reach second base.

Senior All-American Jenn Flinn scored an error in the third inning to put the Red Hawks up 1-0. Then, senior Fran Bellapianta scored another error in the fifth capping off all the scoring in the game.

Last Friday, the MSU hosted the 1995 MSU/Kean Softball Classic. The tournament has gained much recognition over the years. Continued on page 30.
program. Results were never reported to newspapers. When something like this occurs, there is no way of deciphering the progress of a program. Therefore, there are only two things which can be assumed: Either the program is doing poorly, or it just doesn't exist any longer.

"It was difficult from the get-go because of some of the nature of being a part-time coach," said Al Langer, the MSU Director of Sports Information and Marketing. "I guess we ran as a team, but we never had that many team members at the meets."

Wasn't that the truth. There were times when MSU went to a meet with as little as 10 runners. With participation being only one word to some of these runners, it could be said with some argument, that if the program didn't hit rock bottom, then it was at least scraping the ground.

"A lot of people left because if you go from being a good team, and then you've got this new guy who you don't know anything about, it's kind of tough (to adjust)," said senior Sharon L indo, a sprinter at 200 and 400 meters who ran under John Blanton. "That's how you get to see who the real athletes are, who really likes the sport if they stick around. You've got to stick around through the tough times and the good times."

---

Baseball continued from page 28

Sak could have exited the inning and sent the Red Hawks on to an extra stanza. But a pop-up he could have called a "No-hitter" was hit by the batter. The lucky thing for MSU is that there were no basemans on deck. The pitcher, well, he was at least scraping the ground. The Red Hawks were up 8-6.

"We're headed down a new path, which is great for the campus."

- MSU Athletic Director Greg Lockard

"We're fortunate to be 8-6-1. We could probably be 5-9 very easily."

- MSU baseball coach Norm Schoenig

Look, we'll level with you.
Sports needs writers - and badly.
It doesn't take much time, money or energy to cover a sport.
Or even to write a couple of features. So if you are willing, we would certainly be able to use you. Come down to the MONTCLARION'S general membership meeting next Wednesday at 4 p.m in Student Center Room 113 and join.

---

<no image>
On the Ball
by Brian Falzarano

Due to happenings beyond his control, Brian will not be putting out - get your mind out of the gutter. He will not be putting out On the Ball this week. But don't worry. It will be back again next week.

Point/Counterpoint

Are women's athletics inferior to men's?

Rebecca Lobo is a great college player. But she is never going to play the NBA.

With that said, it can be said that men are better athletes than women.
In that most of them can jump higher, dunk a basketball and run faster than their female counterparts, this is true.

But they are not inferior. The UConn-Tennessee matchup was an example of women's basketball being not only competitive, but also engaging and exciting.

Even on the high school level, a good girls basketball game can be a pleasure to watch.

The women deserve their own league; they are talented enough to have one. On many campuses, women's basketball draws several fans.
It should be more accepted, and this may happen before you know it.

No, the point of an athletic contest is to have individuals or teams on a playing field giving 100 percent of their energy and enjoying what they are doing. In this era of college athletics, women are clearly overshadowed by the men's athletics.

I do not feel that they are any less exciting to watch. Anyone who watched the UConn-Tennessee championship basketball game will attest to this. The game featured the top two teams in the nation, yet you got the feeling that it was just something for CBS to broadcast until the golf leaders hit the back nine in their tournament.

It is time for women's college athletics to get the recognition that they deserve.
They play just as hard and put in just as many hours as the men. And they do this without much financial support from college boosters and the chance to play professionally. They deserve some credit.

Softball continued from page 29

the year's and may receive sponsorship starting next year.

MSU, along with 11 other teams, three of which are NJAC rivals - Trenton St.,
Kean and William Paterson - battled over the weekend. In the end, Allegheny College won the tournament beating the defending champion Lions, 8-2.

"I thought the tournament went very well," said MSU head coach Anita Kubicka, who coached her team to the semifinals.

Early on the Red Hawks looked impressive. In their first three games they outscored their opponents 23-7. In the semifinals, though, the Red Hawks ran into the No. 1 team in the nation in Trenton St., with a trip to the finals on the line for the winner.

MSU held the Lions scoreless for all but one inning. It was that one inning which put the game out of reach.

Trailing 1-0 early, the Lions (18-2)
erupted in the fourth inning to score all of their eight runs. Pinch-hitter Debbie Klecz doubled home a pair of runs, and junior right-hander Karen Stefanowicz (11-1) shut down the usually productive MSU offense.

"We played six good innings against Trenton," said Kubicka. "But you need to play a full seven innings against this team to have a chance." Eastern Connecticut was MSU's first opponent of the weekend. A 13-1 victory was a good start to things, with Flinn going 3-for-3 and scoring three times in the contest. Sophomore shortstop Ro Guzzi was 3-for-4, while knocking home a pair of runs.

After jumping out to a 5-0 lead, MSU scored seven more runs in the third and paved the way for junior right-hander Robyn Baron to improve to 7-1. Baron allowed just one hit and an unearned run, while striking out three and walking two.

Next up was Cortland St. With their backs against the wall, MSU trailed 4-3 in the fifth. With two outs, junior left-fielder Jessica Gondek doubled home two runs and MSU took the 5-4 lead. Senior third baseman Amy Edinger and freshman catcher Jerilyn Avezado secured the win,
each driving in a run in the seventh inning
to make the score 8-2.

Ormsbee pitched the first four innings to notch the win. She struck out one and walked none, while giving up six hits and four runs. Baron replaced Ormsbee in the fifth to earn her first save of the season.

According to Kubicka, "This tournament couldn't have been complete without a showdown with conference rival William Paterson. WPC is known to have a powerful team every year. A 3-2 MSU victory was highlighted by Ormsbee's clutch win.

"This is always a big game," explained Kubicka. "Sharon pitched well and she should feel good about beating a quality club."

Red Hawks Sports Week

Baseball:
Today, April 6
Richard Stockton at MSU $ 3:30 p.m.
Saturday, April 8
MSU at Rutgers-Camden (DH) $ 12 noon
Tuesday, April 11
Jersey City St. at MSU $ 3:30 p.m.

Softball:
Saturday, April 8
MSU at Rowan $ 1 p.m.
Tuesday, April 11
Trenton St. at MSU (DH) $ 3:30 p.m.

Lacrosse:
Tuesday, April 11
NY Maritime at MSU $ 8 p.m.

Men's Tennis:
Saturday, April 8
MSU at Rutgers-Camden $ 12 noon
Monday, April 10
MSU at NYU $ 3:30 p.m.

To find out results on the latest happenings in MSU
sports, call the Red Hawks
Sports Hotline at 655-7645
today!
MSU is seeking to solidify its track program. After 18 months of instability, the hiring of former Robert Morris coach Gerald "Bennie" Benson may do just that (Falzarano p. 28).