The Show Will Go On, Despite Controversy

by Amin Carter

"A Tribe Called Quest" will be appearing in concert at the Memorial Auditorium on October 2 as was originally planned by Class One Concerts. The decision was reached yesterday at the SGA meeting, where C1C was appropriated $5,000 of the $6,600 still needed to produce the concert.

The original bill, written by SGA Legislator John Brost for $6,600 was declared unconstitutional by Attorney General Lauren Pytleski.

Nothing but scandal and controversy has surrounded the issue of whether or not Tribe Called Quest will play at Memorial Auditorium. According to Victor Cirilo, a former cabinet member and legislator, "A lot of these controversies are causing many students to turn away from getting involved in these organizations. It's a shame."

It has been a financial battle between C1C and the SGA. Apparently on August 6, Joann Munoz, executive producer of C1C put in a bid of $20,000 to secure the talents of Tribe Called Quest. The bid was drawn up on paper and signed by Munoz and Julio Marenco, president of the SGA.

On Friday, September 13, Marenco and SGA Treasurer Barry Bernstein, requested to speak to Munoz. Also in attendance were Brendan Whelan, president of C1C. According to Carvalho and Bernstein stating that "Nobody is worth $20,000." Marenco and Bernstein apparently intended to cancel the concert due to the amount of money involved and the fact that they felt the concert would not serve enough of the students on campus.

Nothing was dated August 1st. According to Carvalho, "It was a rather short meeting. We couldn't go too long because it was going to be the most important decision of the night, and the decision was reached yesterday at the SGA meeting, where C1C was appropriated $5,000 of the $6,600 still needed to produce the concert."

 nothing was written by SGA Legislator John Brost for $6,600 was declared unconstitutional by Attorney General Lauren Pytleski.

Nothing but scandal and controversy has surrounded the issue of whether or not Tribe Called Quest will play at Memorial Auditorium. According to Victor Cirilo, a former cabinet member and legislator, "A lot of these controversies are causing many students to turn away from getting involved in these organizations. It's a shame."

It has been a financial battle between C1C and the SGA. Apparently on August 6, Joann Munoz, executive producer of C1C put in a bid of $20,000 to secure the talents of Tribe Called Quest. The bid was drawn up on paper and signed by Munoz and Julio Marenco, president of the SGA.

On Friday, September 13, Marenco and SGA Treasurer Barry Bernstein, requested to speak to Munoz. Also in attendance were Brendan Whelan, president of C1C. According to Carvalho and Bernstein stating that "Nobody is worth $20,000." Marenco and Bernstein apparently intended to cancel the concert due to the amount of money involved and the fact that they felt the concert would not serve enough of the students on campus.

A bid for the concert in the amount of $20,000 was secured with Marenco's signature on August 6 by C1C, which when pressed about at the SGA meeting, Marenco expressed that he, "did not sign it." He could only remember signing a second bid of $15,000, which was faxed from the concert promoters to the SGA office on Monday, September 16. This bid was dated August 1st. According to Carvalho, "that bid ($15,000) was not enough to secure the band."

The normal process for planning an event by a Class One Organization according to the Financial Policies of the SGA is for an organization to hand in a proposal to the University, and extend to the business community, and MSU's continued growth in excellence was done "to provide equity with the amount of money involved and the fact that they felt the concert would not serve enough of the students on campus."

The Show Will Go On, Despite Controversy

Board of Trustees Grants President Reid Two Pay Raises

by Tom Boud

The Board of Trustees (BOT) voted on September 12 to grant MSU President Reid two 5.25 percent raises, effective as of July 1, 1995 and July 1, 1996. Reid's salary increased to $130,095 from $118,000, and he will also be receiving over $6,000 in retroactive pay.

Reid's raise comes in light of a 8.9% tuition hike for the 1996-1997 academic year and a freeze on faculty wages. No comment was available from the faculty at press time.

BOT member George Hintzlik stated that the increases were in response to Reid's successes in fundraising, Reid's outreach to the business community, and MSU's continued growth in excellence under Reid's stewardship. An official BOT document further said Reid's salary increase was done "to provide equity with the amount of money involved and the fact that they felt the concert would not serve enough of the students on campus."

A spokesperson from the Office of the President who insisted on anonymity said the main motive behind Reid's pay hike was concern over the absence of cost of living adjustments since 1995. Former SGA Director of External Affairs Victor Cirilo said Reid's raise was unwarranted in spite of his performance. "President Reid is deserving of much praise and rewards for the many improvements he has brought forth to the campus community. However, a raise of this magnitude is both unfair and unethical, especially if it comes at the expense of such high tuition hikes," Cirilo said.

Freshman Frank Reilly was less diplomatic. "I think Reid's got a hell of a lot of nerve, considering his ambivalence over the teacher's strike last spring, and considering that the university gave the students a tuition increase over the summer when there weren't a lot of students around. I'm quite amazed that the board of trustees didn't vote themselves a raise! Maybe they should give us a retroactive tuition decrease?" Reilly said.

Economics major Vitaly Satanovsky had a different point of view. "He's a fine man doing a great job, and he deserves this show of appreciation," Satanovsky said.

In other affairs, the BOT passed a resolution of appreciation for Father Art Humphrey who left MSU after 14 years of service as Catholic chaplain. The resolution stated, "That the members of the Montclair State University Board of Trustees express their deep appreciation of service as Catholic chaplain...." Satanovsky had a different point of view. "He's a fine man doing a great job, and he deserves this show of appreciation," Satanovsky said.

Economics major Vitaly Satanovsky had a different point of view. "He's a fine man doing a great job, and he deserves this show of appreciation," Satanovsky said.

On the Inside:

News
SGA News............................p. 3
Police Report........................p. 5

Food Focus........................p. 9
Rev. Richie comes to MSU...p. 7

Arts
Entertainment
Gallery 3 1/2 Review.........p. 10
Poetry Reading.................p. 12

Editorial
Food For Thought.............p. 15
Antics............................p. 16

HumOR..........................p. 20

Resuscitae........................p. 22

Classifieds........................p. 23
The Trump plonished 3,500 army soldiers from Ft. Hood, Texas to Kuwait and warned the Iraqi leader of new attacks if he threatens his neighbors or U.S. forces. The State Dept. said this warning will remain in effect indefinitely, and Clinton added that these actions were designed to improve the strategic position of the U.S. and keep Saddam "in a tight box" to limit his ability to threaten his neighbors.

DEBATE COMMISSION CALLS FOR BAR-RING PEROT

The Commission on Presidential Debates, a nonpartisan organization, recommended that Ross Perot be denied a spot in this fall's presidential debates, because he had no "realistic" chance of winning the White House. The recommendation is currently the subject of negotiations between Dole and Clinton campaigns. An angry Perot vowed to sue, and the Democrats continued to argue that he should share the stage.

JUSTICE DEPARTMENT SAYS VIOLENT CRIME FELL BY NINE PERCENT IN 1995

Americans may be fearing violent crime more, but new figures released by the Justice Department on Tuesday show they're experiencing it less. Robbery, rape, and aggravated assault dropped by more than nine percent in 1995 compared with 1994 figures. The survey was based on interviews with crime victims and included some offenses that had not been reported to police. The figures marked the second year in a row that violent crime has shown a decline, reversing a trend of increasing crime that had existed since the mid-1980s. President Clinton welcomed the survey as he trumpets his anti-crime record.

MOVE FOR TOUGHER IMMIGRATION BILL GETS BOGGED DOWN IN POLITICS

Popular legislation to clamp down on illegal immigration became enmired in presidential politics and could be in jeopardy. At issue is a provision that would allow states to deny public education to children of illegal aliens - a concept supported by Republican presidential candidate Bob Dole and opposed by Clinton. The Dole campaign has been pressing lawmakers to include the schooling provisions in the final immigration bill with the expectation that Clinton would veto it and then be blamed for killing the legislation. The current bill would allow states to decide whether to bar kids from school or charge tuition fees to families who can't prove legal residency.

POPE JOHN PAUL VISITS FRANCE

Six thousand police, paramilitary gendarmes, bodyguards and elite sharpshooters will be on duty to protect Pope John Paul this week during his visit to France amid unprecedented controversy over secularism. An attempted bomb attack earlier this month on a church where the pontiff is due to pray and an assault by cream pie-throwing anarchists on priests in a cathedral last week alerted police to possible security risks. In a country of 50 million, 45 million citizens are Roman Catholics, but most feel that the Pope's dogged rejection of birth control, abortion and homosexuality are out of date.

ETHNIC LEADERS WIN BOSNIA VOTE

Bosnia handed power to the existing leaders of the three major ethnic groups, who now must come together in a combined presidency to govern the nation. All three embrace a deep belief in unity in Bosnia despite differing political agendas among the people. They're known for running their parties like old-style Communists, handing out jobs and money to supporters while shunting aside those outside their circle. Now that the elections are over, NATO-led forces are scheduled for withdrawal by December.

U.N. IN FLUX

The U.N. opened a new General Assembly session with crises in finances and leadership, and with an outspoken Assembly leader, Razi Alim of Malaysia, who hopes it will be the end of business as usual. He called on a reform process that should begin with finding a political consensus on what the U.N. should be and what it can do. The organization began its 51st session on Tuesday amid criticism of its ability to respond adequately to international crises.

ZAIRE STRUGGLES TO KEEP NEGLECTED REGION IN FOLD

Africa's third-largest country may be in a state of deterioration, but the province of East Kasai had deftly re-invented itself as an autonomous and stable enclave. Mbayi-Mayi is its capital and is known as the industrial diamond capital of the world producing millions of carats each year. The landlocked region of six million people has quietly maintained its own currency, controlled inflation and taken charge of its own destiny by turning away from Kinshasa, Zaire's capital. This type of regional independence is becoming a trend as other troubled African countries such as Nigeria and the Sudan find their ethnic minorities or residents of remote border regions forging ties with healthier neighbors and overcoming the handicaps of neglectful central governments.

Correction:

In the September 12 edition of the Montclarion, the photo credit was accidentally omitted. The picture was taken by our Photo Editor, Timothy M. Casey.
SGA News

by Victor Cirilo and John Brost

At the Student Government Association meeting last night, Class One Concerts was appropriated $5,000 for a concert by the rap group "A Tribe Called Quest," amidst controversy of a forged signature and bidding practices that violated SGA financial policies.

According to Joann Munoz, President of Class One Concerts (C1C), a bid for $20,000 was put forward on August 6, 1996. This bid was signed by both her and SGA president Julio Marenco. At this point, there was an assumption that $20,000 was available to hold this concert at the Memorial Auditorium, where the seating capacity is approximately 900 people.

Tickets were already printed for this event, and everything seemed to be in order. On Friday, September 13, there was an emergency meeting called to discuss the upcoming concert. Present were Marenco, Munoz, SGA treasurer Barry Bernstein, C1C advisor Dr. Jack Samuels, and C1C vice-president Brendan Whelan. It was decided that the concert could not go on, due to the amount of money that it would cost.

Marenco decided that he did not think this money would best serve the interests of the student body by being spent on this concert. According to Munoz, the concert would cost $27,000 and would offset $9,000 of that with ticket revenue, with each ticket being sold for $15.

A controversial erupted when a second bid, for $15,000, was presented by Marenco, faxed from the concert promoters to the SGA office on Monday, September 16. In reference to the higher bid, Marenco stated, "I do not recall signing this one." SGA Vice-President then inquired, "Did you sign two bids or is there an imposter?" Marenco replied "I wish I knew."

If the SGA were to withdraw this bid, they could face legal penalties of up to $20,000. Spending this money, Munoz said, "doesn't benefit anyone." The reason for the appropriation was, according to Munoz, "to give the students of Montclair State the best possible concert." Backing out of this bid would also cause C1C to have future problems with promotion companies, Munoz concluded.

After a long debate, the bill was passed 16-1-3, despite Marenco's objections. The $5,000 was required to supplement the concert line in the C1C budget, which was inadequate to cover the costs of this concert.

Also during the meeting, Student Intramural Leisure Council (SILC) was given a budget for academic year 1996-1997. The budget totaled $16,950, which is spent to provide intramural sports for the campus community.

In other SGA news, the SGA cabinet was approved by the legislature. Amy Harrington was approved as Director of Academic Affairs, Rudy Andrade as Director of External Affairs, Daniella Staitik as Director of Greek Life, George Rubsam as Director of Public Relations, Mark Lawson as Director of Residence Life, Elizabeth Napoli as Director of Programming, Nicole Sampson as Director of Welfare and Internal Affairs, and Cornelius Brown as Director of Services.

Also, appointments of Justices for the Judicial Branch were approved. According to new justice Lawrence Ramsey, "What's true and what's right: we gotta find out where they come together." Also approved were Kewatya Montgomery and Leonard Wheeler. Nominations for President Pro-Tempore were also taken. Nominated were Legislative John Brost, Tom Tracy, Karen Deming, Dragon Tubonjic, and John Griffin.

Attention All Writers:
Montclarion General Membership Meetings are held at the Montclarion offices every Tuesday at 4:30 p.m. All writers are strongly encouraged to attend.

Father Art Says Goodbye to MSU

by Amanda Konency

On Tuesday, September 17th, a final farewell was bid to Father Arthur Humphrey by a party in his honor. The Student Center ball room was overflowing with students, faculty and community members wishing to embrace, praise, or take one last picture with Father Art.

A controversy erupted when a second bid, for $15,000, was presented by Marenco, faxed from the concert promoters to the SGA office on Monday, September 16. In reference to the higher bid, Marenco stated, "I do not recall signing this one." SGA Vice-President then inquired, "Did you sign two bids or is there an imposter?" Marenco replied "I wish I knew."

If the SGA were to withdraw this bid, they could face legal penalties of up to $20,000. Spending this money, Munoz said, "doesn't benefit anyone." The reason for the appropriation was, according to Munoz, "to give the students of Montclair State the best possible concert." Backing out of this bid would also cause C1C to have future problems with promotion companies, Munoz concluded.

After a long debate, the bill was passed 16-1-3, despite Marenco's objections. The $5,000 was required to supplement the concert line in the C1C budget, which was inadequate to cover the costs of this concert.

Also during the meeting, Student Intramural Leisure Council (SILC) was given a budget for academic year 1996-1997. The budget totaled $16,950, which is spent to provide intramural sports for the campus community.

In other SGA news, the SGA cabinet was approved by the legislature. Amy Harrington was approved as Director of Academic Affairs, Rudy Andrade as Director of External Affairs, Daniella Staitik as Director of Greek Life, George Rubsam as Director of Public Relations, Mark Lawson as Director of Residence Life, Elizabeth Napoli as Director of Programming, Nicole Sampson as Director of Welfare and Internal Affairs, and Cornelius Brown as Director of Services.

Also, appointments of Justices for the Judicial Branch were approved. According to new justice Lawrence Ramsey, "What's true and what's right: we gotta find out where they come together." Also approved were Kewatya Montgomery and Leonard Wheeler. Nominations for President Pro-Tempore were also taken. Nominated were Legislative John Brost, Tom Tracy, Karen Deming, Dragon Tubonjic, and John Griffin.

"He is a role model and will be sadly missed by all."

Father Art was not only a huge part of the Newman Catholic Center, but was also involved in many student activities and organizations, including acting as advisor to many sororities and fraternities.

Tim Voss, a member of Delta Chi, maintained that Father Art would be gone but not forgotten. "There will always be a place for him [Father Art] here at Montclair State," he said. Paola Ciappina, a member of Sigma Delta Phi, described Father Art as a unique person who welcomed all kinds of people to his heart.

"He will be missed," she said.

Mary Lou Vinges, Administrative Assistant to the Newman Catholic Center and party coordinator, was more than pleased with the party's turnout. "We [party coordinators] were all very pleased at the turnout of love," admiration and respect shown for Father Art," she said. "We all thought it would be a sad day for Father Art, but it, in fact, uplifted him," she said. "It was a wonderful farewell tribute to him. He will be very truly missed."

Father Art has been involved in many aspects and organizations at MSU and has earned the praise, respect and admiration from many members of the campus community. "Father Art always greeted you with a big bear hug," said MSU President Dr. Irvin Reid. "He has greatly loved and touched the many lives of students, faculty and community members."

Dr. Lee Wilcox, Vice President of Student Development and Campus Life, also expressed a fond farewell to Father Art. "I wish I had been here for all the 14 years Father Art was here," he said.

Although sad to leave MSU, Father Art will not forget the university as the university will not forget him. "My heart and your heart are joined," he said. "and they will be tied close together forever."

Write for the Montclarion!
University Senate Passes New Admissions Policy

by Mark Aliperti

In the first meeting of the University Senate for the '96-97 school year, the University Senate passed a proposed policy concerning admission of new students. The goal of the policy is to grant admission to all qualified students based on specific requirements, while giving as many other applicants the opportunity for admission through special programs. The policy will offer admission to all New Jersey residents among the top 20 percent of their graduating class and among the top 20 percent of SAT test takers. Admissions policy will follow these guidelines, but will not limit the possibility of admission to students short of these requirements. The Senate also passed a motion designating a “No Rock Painting Zone” that will stretch from the front of Richardson Hall to the south end of campus. The Student Affairs Council proposed the motion which will make rock painting a violation of University policy.

President Reid opened the meeting with some optimistic thoughts and his views on the new admission policy. The new policy should give the public a better understanding of the University’s requirements while at the same time keeping them aware of the flexibility of these requirements. As a state-supported institution, Montclair State will give preference to New Jersey residents for admission, and of course will remain an equal opportunity/affirmative action institution.

In an effort to establish a specific academic sector on campus the Senate will limit rock painting to the north end of campus. An imaginary line running east to west between Mallory and Richardson, between Partridge and the Student Center, and through lot 14 will be the boundary for the “No Rock Painting Zone”. Dr. Lee Wilcox, the Vice President of Student Development and Campus Life, confirmed that both the SGA and the Greek Association gave no objection to the motion.

Partridge Hall Computer Lab Hours Reduced

by Tom Boud

The Partridge Hall computer lab hours have been reduced from 10 p.m. to 8 p.m., due to a depletion of surplus funds, according to Clifford Gillman, Director of Academic Computing.

Although the lab remained open most weeknights until 10 p.m. last semester, Gillman said the change in hours is not really a reduction. “We extended the hours last spring due to the fact that extra dollars were available. Those dollars were available because remodeling in the Student Center, Bohn, Blanton, and Freeman Halls was not completed as scheduled. I originally planned to open new labs there in the spring, but they were not finished. The work will be completed shortly, which means the extra money is no longer there to keep the Partridge Hall lab open until 10 p.m.,” Gillman said.

The computer lab hours will remain consistent throughout campus. “The hours are very much the same. It’s very much a state driven by the budget situation. However, we are trying to improve student computing as much as possible. For example, we now have new printers in all the labs,” Gillman said.

Sophomore Dragan Tubonjic said the change of hours in the Partridge Hall lab will be detrimental. “Wow! I can’t believe it. It’s going to hurt the night students. They have to work during the day and can’t use the computers when they are normally available,” he said.

The Fertility Center of Northern New Jersey in Westwood is currently seeking healthy women between the ages of 21 and 34 to donate eggs for infertile couples. Volunteers receive a free comprehensive medical evaluation and $2,500 for time and effort. Anonymity and confidentiality guaranteed.

For more information please call (201) 666-4200.
MSU Police Report

Compiled by Lorren Magnus

Bomb Threat
9/10 at 3:10 p.m. Campus Police responded to a call about a suspicious package found in the first floor stairwell of Richardson Hall. The building was evacuated and a bomb expert determined that the package was empty.

Suspicious Persons
9/4 at 3 p.m. Campus police received a phone call from a shuttle bus driver reporting seeing a male get off the bus at College Ave with a black revolver in his back waistband. Police investigated, but no suspect was found.

Drug Possession Suspected
9/4 at 8:24 p.m. A Blanton Hall dorm director noticed an odor of marijuana on the third floor. Campus police entered the room with a resident advisor and pass key. No one was found in the room and there were no signs of drugs or drug paraphernalia. The dorm will be looking into the matter.

9/9 at 8:21 p.m. A Resident Assistant noticed an odor of an illegal substance on the fourth floor of Blanton Hall. The RA entered the room and found residents burning incense. All identification cards were taken and a report was filed.

Medical
9/5 at 9:00 a.m. A female stopped an officer from her car on Carlisle Road. She was in tears and unable to drive. She suffered from a headache and was on medication at the time. She was taken to the health center.

9/7 at 12:47 p.m. A female student had fallen into an embankment during a bird watching class and attempted to break her fall with her hand. Montclair police arrived and discovered signs of a broken wrist. She was taken to Mountainside Hospital.

9/7 at 12:49 p.m. During same bird watching class, a male student was walking down a hill, slipped, fell, and experienced pain in his buttocks. He refused medical treatment.

9/8 at 1:17 p.m. Outside Blanton Hall, Campus police responded to a five months pregnant female who felt faint and dizzy. She was taken to Mountainside Hospital for treatment.

9/10 at 12:23 p.m. A female student fainted in the Bookstore while waiting on line. She was revived and transferred to the Health Center.

9/10 at 7:00 p.m. A male employee of the Student Center Activities Office was feeling weak and dizzy. He refused medical attention and was taken home by a colleague.

9/10 at 7:48 p.m. Campus Police responded to a male student who flipped over the handlebars of his bicycle on the Clove Road Bridge. He suffered lacerations to his right eye, hands, arms, and legs. Little Falls Ambulance responded and he was taken to Montclair Community Hospital for treatment.

9/10 at 8:14 p.m. Campus police responded when a female student was injured when the driver's side window of her 1987 Ford shattered as she was driving on Webster Road near Lot 17. Police found that a groundman was cutting grass and must have dislodged a rock. She was treated on the scene for two small cuts.

Fire Alarm
9/8 at 7:47 p.m. A fire alarm was activated on the second floor of Freeman Hall. The alarm was reset.

9/9 at 11:00 p.m. - A fire alarm was activated on the fifth floor of Freeman Hall. There were no signs of smoke or fire. The alarm was reset.

9/9 at 11:25 p.m. A fire alarm was activated in Stone Hall. There was no sign of fire. System trouble was ruled the cause and it was reset.

9/11 at 9:14 p.m. A fire alarm on the seventh floor of Bohn Hall was activated. A slinky hanging from the smoke detector was determined as the cause.
Computer Network Connection Will Be Available to Students in Dorms by End of September

by Mark Aliperti

By the end of September, residents will have their own network connection in their room, which allows for full access to MSU.net and the Internet for residents with their own computers.

Plans have also been made for the construction of computer labs in the three largest residence halls (Bohn, Blanton, and Freeman) which will hopefully be in use by the end of the fall semester, confirmed Douglas Cooper, assistant director of Facilities in Residence Life.

Residents should benefit the most from these upgrades, because they will soon have computers available to them without having to fight for a desk in the already crowded computer labs on campus. The majority of residents questioned were excited about the idea of not having to leave the building to type a paper, a major convenience, especially during finals. Although most residents were indifferent to the idea of having more computer capability in their rooms since only a small percentage of residents have computers in their rooms. “It gives me more incentive to have my computer on campus, since services will be more freely available,” said junior Bohn Hall resident Jen O’Brien.

Dr. Lynn Truesdell, assistant vice-president for Information Services said the seeds for these improvements were planted with the upgrading of the campus fiber optic cable plant two years ago. These improvements now permit the transmission of data at a rate of 100 MBS (million bits per second) as well as the transmission of full motion video. Coupled with the construction of a new video conference center in College Hall, we will soon be provided with the opportunity of long-distance conferencing and the viewing of major cable or broadcast events. All campus buildings will now be fiber optically connected with the access to MSU.net, giving the entire campus the opportunity to become more involved by keeping them up-to-date on campus services, organizations, and events.

“Fearless Forecasts, Page 27

MSU Escort Service Available 24 Hours a Day, Seven Days a Week

by Tom Boud

The Department of Campus Safety and Security (DSS) is continuing the campus escort service this semester, according to Lt. Michael Postaski. The escort service began in the Fall 1995 semester in conjunction with a major security overhaul which instituted improvements in lighting, surveillance cameras, security booths. More recently, DSS has redone their patrol vehicles with blue and yellow visibility stripes and is still investigating the possibility of scooter patrols.

Postaski said the escort service is fully operational, although there have not been many requests for service. “I have coverage seven days a week from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m. The escorts are students who are paid for their service. Of course, our officers will handle escort calls after 2 a.m. Last year, there were 2,500 escorts provided by our student workers and police,” said Postaski.

Postaski said each student escort has been issued a piece of equipment to go along with their orange vests, flashlights, and radios. “We gave our escorts a new item this semester; a safety whistle,” Postaski said. “It is a special type of whistle which emits a sound louder than any competing noise and will draw immediate attention.”

As of press time, tickets have been printed for this event and the show will go on.

“CIC”, Continued From Page 1

Pre Event Expense Sheet (PEES) at least four weeks prior to the event. If the SGA treasurer approves the PEES, then the booking process can begin and all relevant costs with the artists can be negotiated. The PEES for the Tribe Called Quest concert was dated September 9, 1996 and was not approved by Bernstein, who at that point, “told CIC to cancel the concert.” According to Bernstein, CIC did not comply with the Executive Board’s wishes and continued to plan the event. The debate heated up earlier this week, and came to a climax at yesterday’s SGA meeting. After a long debate during the weekly meeting yesterday (see page 3 for more details), emergency legislation appropriating $5,000 was passed by the legislature despite Marenco’s and Bernstein’s objections.

As of press time, tickets have been printed for this event and the show will go on.
Reverend Richie to Come to MSU

by Suzanne Feigle

Starting September 24, a six week discussion series, sponsored by the Montclair Protestant Foundation, will begin entitled “God, Religion, the Church: who needs it?” Reverend W. Temple Richie, Jr. will be leading the program which hopes to enlighten students on the topic of religion and challenge existing beliefs.

Rev. Richie was invited to become a new member of the Campus Ministry Council by Dr. Wayne Bond. When the time came to pick a new member, Dr. Bond immediately thought of Rev. Richie. “I was familiar with his work and knew he was a dynamic speaker and an extremely interesting individual. I thought he would enjoy this kind of work and interacting with the students.” Bond said.

Along with his busy schedule as President of the Montclair Clergy Association, Rev. Richie as many goals for the upcoming program. “I will present the forum for discussions on religion and the church. This is a very important issue which has a very large impact on society. I hope to make it both exciting, interesting, and informative.”

Since Rev. Richie will be speaking to an extremely varied audience, he hopes to find issues that appeal to everyone. “I am very aware that today’s college students fall into various age groups. The younger students are looking for stability in their lives. Now is a time of turmoil and crisis for them. We are hoping for a resurgence of interest in the church by making them more aware of the church and different faiths. Older students are more fixed and stable in their religious beliefs. This forum will challenge, stimulate, and give a better understanding to those of all religions.”

As of now, Rev. Richie will be speaking alone at each forum. As the program continues, he hopes to bring in different speakers to keep things interesting. The first forum will have less structure than the others due to the fact that the audience will decide the topic covered. According to Rev. Richie, “I am not here to force people to believe a new view on religion. The lectures are a way for people to be challenged and grow intellectually. If people want to discuss a topic that was not scheduled, fine. I just want people to come out and learn what is available to them in religion today. I hope people will come out and the interest is there.”

The forum will run through the last Tuesday in October. Reverend Richie is also Pastor of The Union Baptist Church in Montclair and has taken his spot on the Campus Ministry Council on a trial one year basis. Successful turnouts for the forums will hopefully ensure that Reverend Richie will become a permanent fixture on the MSU campus.

Get in on the controversy.
Read the Editorial Section.
The Montclarion Editorial section starts on page 14.

The Greek Weekly

Rush
Theta Xi (θθ)
Thurs., 9/19 - Mixer with GKX
Call Tony @ x5020 for Info.

Alpha Iota Chi (AIX)
Thurs., 9/19 - Mixer
Tues., 9/24 - Mixer with ZBT
Wed., 9/25 - Sister / Rush Night
Call Ceylan @ x5059 or Kristen @ x5089 for Info.

Sigma Delta Phi (&Φ)
Thurs., 9/19 - Mixer with το
Tues., 9/24 - Mixer
Thurs., 9/26 - LAST EVENT - Don't Miss
Call Karyn @ x5059 or Joy @ x5039 for Info.

Sigma Gamma Rho (σΓ)
Sun., 9/22 @ 7:00 p.m. - Interest Meeting in Student Center Room 417.

Sigma Psi Phi (σΨ)
Wed. and Thurs., 9/25-26 @ 7 p.m. - Interest Meeting in Student Center Room 416.

“Greek Weekly” Info is due at the Montclarion the Monday before publication. See Sue Feigle for more information.
Dear Career Services...

Q. I know I want to go to graduate school for a masters in social work, but I need help identifying schools and understanding the application process. Where should I begin?

A. Career Services has a graduate school section in its office library with resources, such as the Index of Majors and Graduate Degrees and Peterson's Guides which will help you identify schools across the nation. There are also financial aid sources as well as books with information about the admissions process, rankings of school programs, and advice on writing an application essay.

Graduate schools offering masters in social work usually require applicants to take the Graduate Record Exam (GRE). Career Services has prepared a test calendar with dates throughout the year when this test will be given. In addition, the office has copies of the GRE test bulletin for you to take and information about test preparation courses you may want to consider.

A new service for students is graduate school information on the Career Services' website. Those interested in understanding the application process, rankings of school programs, and advice on writing an application essay may want to consider.

Q. I hate computers and know nothing about them. However, I'm a little worried because everyone keeps saying that without computer knowledge I will not find a job when I graduate. Is this true?

A. Well, it may not be as drastic as not being able to find any job, but given the way the job market is, the more skills you have the better you compete. It is good to develop the skills that are in demand no matter what your college major is. For example, employers are looking for the following skills in a candidate: Analytical ability, communication (both oral and written), time management, and PC knowledge and experience.

It is not extreme to say that the world is becoming "computerized," so in order to gain good employment, you have to be at least computer literate. This means, learning how to use the hardware and software such as WordPerfect, Word, Lotus and/or Excel, and ClarisWorks. If you think about the basic services in your life such as banking, school registration, etc., you will notice they are all computerized.

So whether or not you hate computers, you must learn how to use them in order to keep up with the demands of the job market. For example, if two applicants for a position are equally qualified, except that only one has computer skills, that person will get the job, since computer technology is prevalent in almost every workplace. Acquiring the necessary skills need not be costly, as the computerized world is becoming "computerized," so in order to gain good employment, you have to be at least computer literate. This means, learning how to use the hardware and software such as WordPerfect, Word, Lotus and/or Excel, and ClarisWorks. If you think about the basic services in your life such as banking, school registration, etc., you will notice they are all computerized.

Bands and Student Groups Team up to Benefit the Environment

by Ellen Steinhauer

The place to be last Wednesday night was the Palm Grill on Park Street in Montclair. Four bands joined forces to raise money for MSU's two environmental groups: Conservation Club, a Class II organization of the SGA and New Jersey Community Water Watch, a Class III organization. The event was organized by WMSC station manager Frank Reilly and co-sponsored by five MSU student groups: Alpha Iota Chi, Lambda Theta Phi, Sigma Delta Phi, Alpha Phi Omega and Lambda Tau Omegas, all Class IV organizations of the SGA. Reilly was extremely pleased with the event, stating, "The night was a huge success and we hope to hold another in the future, probably around Thanksgiving. It's wonderful to see so many people turn out in force for such a good cause."

Two student bands, Fly and Rezin Hits, area favorites Jim Kilby and the Crusade, and headliners The Bush Pilots provided live entertainment while WMSC DJ's provided sounds between bands. A great crowd turned out to enjoy the entertainment and support the environment. The money raised was divided between Conservation Club and New Jersey Community Water Watch, a newly chartered Class III organization of the SGA which will put the money toward organizing their first community cleanup of the year, to be held on October 5 on the Passaic River in Paterson.

The Political Science Club makes understanding the 1996 campaign easier

by Samuel Oro

Politics, Politics, Politics. Many of us are tired of hearing this word being pounded into our heads day after day. What does it all mean? Well, The Office of Student Activities and The Political Science Club have comprised a series of films dedicated to the more curious side of politics. It is an attempt to enlighten the students as to what really happens in the world of politics.

This being an election year, most of us will try to muster up about three and a half years worth of political sound bites to decide who will run the country for the next four years. The series of films is politely entitled "Truth and Deception On The Campaign Trail." Needless to say, this is probably the most interesting and best hidden side of politics.

The deadline for the Campus Calendar is Monday at 5:00 PM. You can either drop off your info in the Montclarion Office or e-mail it to feigels.
The good news is that the Vice President visited MSU last week. The rally was electrifying and exciting! Faculty, staff, and students filled the amphitheater to overflow capacity. Our lives are now complete.

The BAD news is that methods of informing students of the impending campus event were mostly inadequate. On Monday evening, a little after 6 p.m., a notice on the faculty/staff Saturn system regarding Gore’s visit and its implications for parking, security, etc. was posted on the MSU website. I even went so far as to poll (via email and the web, of course) every NJ college to see if they had such a directory. The faculty directory made its debut shortly after that. I have to admit I thought our chances for a student directory would come after hell froze over. But, miracles do happen!

While cruising through the MSU website under Student Life, I stumbled upon Student Email Directory! Many thanks to Information Services for this much-needed feature. They are apparently too modest to announce it, so they quietly put it on line and figured we would find it sooner or later. We did.

The Sprague Library’s on-line catalog, LINC, is already available through the menu on Alpha. Now it’s available on the MSU website. Go to http://www.montclair.edu/pages/library/library.html. At the username prompt type LINC<enter>. Voila! You did it!

To exit, type Stop<enter> to return to the main screen. Then click on Return to leave the system. This is a big help to students and faculty who have online services, such as AOL, AT&T, etc., but not a dialup to MSU. Can’t remember all that long URL address? Just go to the MSU opening page, click on Services I-Z, choose Library and go on from there. It’s easier than doing the macarena.

Are you listed in the phone book? If so, then you and millions of other people are also listed at the Switchboard site, http://www.switchboard.com. They boast 90 million listed households and 10 million businesses in the U.S. Their info comes from the published White Pages plus other publicly available sources. You can even update or delete your listing and even add info, such as your e-mail address.

The Veep’s visit to campus underscored the importance of getting out to vote. Are you registered to vote? No excuses on this one! If you don’t vote, you automatically lose the right to bitch and moan about the government. This little known point of law is in the Constitutional fine print.

How many days left to register? They give you the scoop, state by state, at http://women.com/news/govote. It’s not too early to cast your ballot in the many pre-election polls. At http://www.eclipse.net/%7Edimona/index.html, the Libertarian Party has links to several on-line presidential polls. Inquiring minds want to know your opinion!

Just about now those research paper assignments should be starting to accumulate. Now that we can easily do research online, how do we cite it in our bibliography? Check out Scholarly Citations of Internet Sources at http://garnet.berkeley.edu:4232/ScholarlyCitations.html and Beyond the MLA Handbook, http://falcon.eku.edu/honors/beyond-mla/ A valuable research tool, the Niche Resource Directory, can be found at http://www.tricky.com/ftn/niches.htm.

There are tons of free resources on the web just waiting for you to take advantage of them. The world is at your fingertips and it’s available around the clock. The library may not be open at 3 a.m., but the internet/world wide web never closes.

Now that we have access to email we need to know the proper etiquette (known as Netiquette) for this medium. Take a look at Foolproof Email by Steven Vaughan-Nichols and Rachel Schmutzer at http://www.cciweb.com/iway5/email.html.

Did you realize that using all caps is shouting? I just heard a few “uh-ohs” out there. A trip to this site may keep you from embarrassing yourself online. TTNYW. (Talk To You Next Week).

The Real World
Produced by students of the Cooperative Education Program

-- Donna Luisi
It was 8:30 in the morning when my half asleep, tired arm reached out from under my comforter to answer the phone and hear Reesa Greenwald of the Cooperative Education office offering me great news.

She was calling to announce that I had been offered an interview for the position of Special Events Assistant at the New Jersey State Organization of Cystic Fibrosis. I eagerly accepted, and scheduled an interview. I figured that this was my final opportunity to join the Cooperative Education Program and avoid taking summer classes.

By taking the position, I can easily say that my Cooperative Education experience this summer was one that I will never forget. My position as the Special Events Assistant benefitted both the organization and me. I acquired many new skills, the most important being the use of Microsoft Word 6.0.

I found that my assistance was beneficial to the organization because I raised money through donations for children and adults afflicted with the fatal disease of Cystic Fibrosis.

My position there gradually advanced. Working with the organization gave me a new sense of self. I have become more determined to succeed, and I learned a new set of responsibilities and duties.

I feel as though this experience has encouraged me to work hard and strive for new goals. My summer position opened up a whole new world of opportunities and gave me a new motto: “Nothing is out of my reach.” I owe a great thank you to the department of Cooperative Education for working with me and finding me a great position.
D’Angelo’s Symbolic Interpretations, Visual Labyrinth

by Erin Perry

MSU’s Gallery 3 1/2 opened their Fall 96 semester with Nicholas D’Angelo’s Symbolic Interpretations yesterday. Symbolic Interpretations, composed of six of the artist’s original works, all done in acrylics, are a journey through a visual labyrinth. The paintings portray faceless figures, various objects, numerous checkered patterns and elaborate line designs. Inspired by Diego Rivera’s murals, D’Angelo explained to me, “I had a desire to completely fill the canvas. They are separate pieces but the entire collection is an exploration in style.” And each one of his HUGE paintings are filled to the maximum. D’Angelo continued, “I like to work with acrylics since my paintings are so large. If they were done in oil I’d be afraid they would crack because I transport them.”

“Cheerleader” is the artist’s favorite work because, “I was exploring the use of color and I’m happy with the way it came out.” This abstract painting looks like a football team tackled some paint cans which then exploded into a colored collage. Just try to figure out who has the pose of twisted geometrical shapes and symbols. My favorite was “On The March” which had a musical theme illustrating instruments, music notes and unidentified musicians. I would have like to hear what this band sounds like.

“Carnival” is a montage of architecture, roadways, forms and figures, all done in shades of blues and white. Completing the collection are a black and white painting, simply titled, “Line Painting,” and “Purple Painting.” Each time I looked at these abstract works, different forms seemed to jump off the canvas at me.

D’Angelo has only been painting seriously for two years. In this short time, he has already featured one of his paintings at “West Bev,” a bi-annual exhibit presented by the Fine Arts Department. D’Angelo, a senior at MSU plans to take a trip to Australia after his graduation in January. His works can be viewed at Gallery 3 1/2 until October 3rd in the Calcia Fine Arts building. Get lost in the maze!

Gorky’s Zygotic Mynci, Alternative to “Alternative” Bands

by John J. O’Sullivan

It is impossible to give a simple description of Gorky’s Zygotic Mynci’s new self-titled album. So, I suppose a long, strange one is in order. Take a blender, throw in some Welsh folk music, some R.E.M., and the Beatles. Mix that with some some clarinets, a slide whistle, some droopy acoustic guitar, some high-pitched scatting, and some crazed voices and lyrics. Push the puree button. What you’ll get is this surrealistic, strange sounding album.

This wide-ranged instrumentation isn’t clunky at all, as one might expect. Rather, the different timbres of the instruments seem to blend together, making a pretty interesting album. However, the songs do shift from one style to another. For example, in the first song, “Merched Ya Neud Gwalt Ew Gilydd,” the song started out sounding grungy, then it shifted quickly to a more laid back ballad, then it went back to being grungy, then back to a ballad again, and ended with a grungy electric-guitar power chord. Whatever could be said about this album, it’s certainly not for dancing.

Oh, and did I mention Welsh lyrics? The lyrics work sonically, although I didn’t have a clue what most of the songs were about because most of the songs are written in Welsh. There’s also some scatting, such as on “Kevin Ayers.” This song sounds like something the Ewoks from Star Wars would sing.

But don’t let the language throw you. The songs, especially the folksy songs towards the end of the album, are great. The guitar work is delightful in “Lechyd Da,” where the acoustic guitar lays a nice background to dreamy (and Welsh) acapella singing. “Why Are We Sleeping” sounded like an early Beatles song, with a sensible pop 4/4 beat and with happy pop-ish guitars.

There were a few songs with English lyrics dominating, such as “Miss Trudy,” which told a story about a young girl who destroyed twenty violins during her regular lessons. Another is “The Game of Eyes” which starts off with some Don Pardo rip-off screaming. The song’s English lyrics were hard to understand, but from what I got from the song, it was about a shy man’s attempt to pick up a woman. The song itself is a goof. It sounds at first like an old ad for a Milton Bradley game, until it changes to a standard pop-style song.

Granted, Gorky’s Zygotic Mynci is not going to be known as the greatest rock band that has ever walked the earth. Although they probably won’t ever be known in America, they do have a cult following in the UK. But they certainly give alternative music an alternative, something that you won’t find from about 95% of American “alternative” bands. If you can handle the weirdness, buy this album!
Mr. Happy Go Lucky

by Susie Guervara

When I first heard that technodance producer Junior Vasquez would be co-producing John Mellencamp's newest album, Mr. Happy Go Lucky, I cried out "Oh Noooo!" wall, but after taking the time to listen to the result of this collaboration, I've come to this conclusion...it's not too bad.

Mellencamp's main objective in working with Vasquez was to add something new to his songs. And to make sure his music didn't shift toward something you would hear in a dance club, the album was produced by Little Bastard and co-produced by Mike Wanchic. Little Bastard has production credits on several of Mellencamp's other albums as well as Mike Wanchic, who incidentally has toured and played in the band since 1982.

This album is also different in another respect. Ever since fellow band mate Mike Wanchic, who overdosed on heroin and alcohol, two nights before their scheduled opening night act at Madison Square Garden. Their original drummer, Jimmy Chamberlin, was arrested the same night and charged with possession of heroin.

The band, obviously not wanting to be in the center of the controversy, gave Chamberlin the ax and quickly looked for a replacement on drums. After auditioning a number of drummers who each had to play the same four songs, they hired the guy who used to play for Filter. I don't have a good memory when it comes to names, but can remember "Today,' "Daarm," "Cherub Rock," and the most prestigious award of the night, "Best Video of the Year" with of course, "Tonight, Tonight." As for the concert, I will give a couple of viewpoints. As for the selection of tracks played, I must admit that I was a bit disappointed. Not to take anything away from the Smashing Pumpkins, but out of the fifteen songs performed, ten were from the 2CD set. True Smashing Pumpkins fans know that four songs off Siamese Dream are just not enough. Sure, they played "Best Video of the Year" with of course, "Tonight, Tonight." However, my favorite was "A Night Like This" when the band provided a galaxy of shooting stars on the ceiling. They also played old favorites with CD-sounding quality such as the soulful love ballad "Love Song," "Lullaby," and "Pictures of You" from their 1989 album, Disintegration. From their album Kiss Me, Kiss Me, Kiss Me (1987) they played "Just Like Heaven," and "Why Can't I Be You?" Some crowd pleasers were "If Only Tonight We Could Sleep," and the new "Strange Attraction" which Smith, dressed in a Rangers jersey, described as "trippy songs." Some of the highlights of the show were during the encore when the crazed Smith walked up a carwall which was on the side of the music hall. He then beckoned to a hesitant fan, who was on the first tier, to crawl out to get a hug from the star. I was jealous but comforted when Smith came to my side of the stage where I could practically touch his massive, shaggy mop of hair. Bridge and I were

Let's Go To The Show...

Smashing Pumpkins

by Billy Coccino

It wasn't any ordinary night at the Meadows on Monday. The Smashing Pumpkins were in town, just as promised, to continue the tour of their newest album, Mellon Collie and the Infinite Sadness. Their tour was postponed in late July due to the death of their touring keyboard player, Jonathan Melvoin, who overdosed on heroin and alcohol, two nights before their scheduled opening night act at Madison Square Garden. Their original drummer, Jimmy Chamberlin, was arrested the same night and charged with possession of heroin.

The band, obviously not wanting to be in the center of the controversy, gave Chamberlin the ax and quickly looked for a replacement on drums. After auditioning a number of drummers who each had to play the same four songs, they hired the guy who used to play for Filter. I don't have a good memory when it comes to names, but can remember "Today," "Daarm," "Cherub Rock," and the most prestigious award of the night, "Best Video of the Year" with of course, "Tonight, Tonight." As for the concert, I will give a couple of viewpoints. As for the selection of tracks played, I must admit that I was a bit disappointed. Not to take anything away from the Smashing Pumpkins, but out of the fifteen songs performed, ten were from the 2CD set. True Smashing Pumpkins fans know that four songs off Siamese Dream are just not enough. Sure, they played "Best Video of the Year" with of course, "Tonight, Tonight." However, my favorite was "A Night Like This" when the band provided a galaxy of shooting stars on the ceiling. They also played old favorites with CD-sounding quality such as the soulful love ballad "Love Song," "Lullaby," and "Pictures of You" from their 1989 album, Disintegration. From their album Kiss Me, Kiss Me, Kiss Me (1987) they played "Just Like Heaven," and "Why Can't I Be You?" Some crowd pleasers were "If Only Tonight We Could Sleep," and the new "Strange Attraction" which Smith, dressed in a Rangers jersey, described as "trippy songs." Some of the highlights of the show were during the encore when the crazed Smith walked up a carwall which was on the side of the music hall. He then beckoned to a hesitant fan, who was on the first tier, to crawl out to get a hug from the star. I was jealous but comforted when Smith came to my side of the stage where I could practically touch his massive, shaggy mop of hair. Bridge and I were

The Cure At Radio City

by Erin Ferry

No, it isn't Halloween yet, but all the fiendish ghouls and freaks were out to see The Cure at Radio City Music Hall Tuesday night. And with a little help from my friends at WMSC (90.3 FM) I got the opportunity to join in the emotional turmoil only The Cure can create.

First, I have to comment on my third row, red plush seats, which were incredible. The stage (which was three short rows away) was somewhat like a carnival. There were huge twisted railroad tracks that lit up in multi-colored lights and took the traveler into a loop where the tracks abruptly ended. Staged right, the speakers (which were three short rows away) were so close that the vibrations made my entire body shake. As the lights began to dim, my convulsions grew when the band took the stage.

The Cure opened with the first track, "Wans," off their new album, Wild Mood Swings from Elektra Entertainment. Their new album features the same melancholic sound that was made famous by lead singer Robert Smith's hypnotic vocals. Although I was not entirely familiar with the new album, I was impressed with such songs as "Round & Round & Round," "This Is A Lie," and "Miss Cat." However, my favorite was "A Night Like This" when the band provided a galaxy of shooting stars on the ceiling. They also played old favorites with CD-sounding quality such as the soulful love ballad "Love Song," "Lullaby," and "Pictures of You" from their 1989 album, Disintegration. From their album Kiss Me, Kiss Me, Kiss Me (1987) they played "Just Like Heaven," and "Why Can't I Be You?" Some crowd pleasers were "If Only Tonight We Could Sleep," and the new "Strange Attraction" which Smith, dressed in a Rangers jersey, described as "trippy songs." Some of the highlights of the show were during the encore when the crazed Smith walked up a carwall which was on the side of the music hall. He then beckoned to a hesitant fan, who was on the first tier, to crawl out to get a hug from the star. I was jealous but comforted when Smith came to my side of the stage where I could practically touch his massive, shaggy mop of hair. Bridge and I were 4 Walls, W.O.W. Poetry Reading

by Maria T. Tucci

On Wednesday, September 18, Four Walls and W.O.W. (Wonderfully Outrageous Wednesdays) with Valerie Windsor, produced a feature poetry reading in the Ratt. The readers were Dr. Tom Benedickston, and students, Kerry Roig and Josh Humphrey.

Dr. Tom Benedickston, English Professor and head of the Honors Program at MSU, started the evening by reciting "Ratt Stories." This set the mood for the reading. His dignified appearance and sophisticated style, captured the attention of all listeners. "Natirar," was a clever poem that was inspired by the Raritan River during the fall of October. Along with his intellectual style, his poetic voice carried the performance with a powerful impression of his work and style. MSU is fortunate to have such a talented faculty member.

Our second reader for the evening was Kerry Roig. Her first poem, "Pine Street," established the theme that continued throughout her reading. She awed her listeners and made them scream for more. "My Voice," another poem that she recited, convinced the audience that she is a powerful poet who ignores all boundaries, expressing her true feelings about the many commodities of life that effect her. A strong voice combined with phenomenal poetry made her a word goddess for the evening.

The third and final reader was Josh Humphrey. For those of you who have heard Josh before, his performance goes without saying. His poetry evolves from his previous life experiences. He is blessed as a talented poet. When hearing him read, you are guaranteed to become part of his experiences. He is spectacular!

Hopefully we will see you at the next 4 Walls Open Mike Poetry Reading to be held October 10th to join in an evening of literary enjoyment.

General Membership Meetings:

C.L.U.B., Thursdays, 4 p.m. Student Center Annex rm. 117
4 Walls, Wednesdays, 5 p.m. Student Center Annex rm. 113A
Montclarion, Tuesdays, 4:30 p.m. Student Center Annex rm. 113
Player's, Tuesdays, 6 p.m. Student Center Cafe B
WMSC 90.3 FM, Thursdays, 4:30 p.m. Student Center Annex rm. 110

Hype Around Trainspotting

by Josh Koste

Much hype has surrounded the Miramax movie Trainspotting since its release almost a year ago in England. A movie about heroin addicts in Scotland, its release in the U.S. was riddled with complications due to its extreme images and subject matter.

The movie focuses on the lives of a group of 20-somethings, told through the eyes of Mark Renton, played by Ewan McGregor. Trainspotting, based on a novel by Irvine Welsh, was directed by Danny Boyle and produced by Andrew MacDonald.

Renton describes heroin: "Take the best orgasm you've ever had, times it by 1000, and you've not even close. Critics have complained that this film glorifies drug use but being snapped for hours, not knowing what day it is, contracting HIV, and shitting yourself while passed out is far from glamorous."

Surprisingly enough, though, Trainspotting is pretty damn funny! Spud (Ewen Bremner), who looks like Sloth from The Goonies, goes on a job interview absolutely toasted. He thinks he's really wowing the team of interviewers, but he's completely incoherent. As the interview draws to a close, he leaps across the desk to hug and kiss the stunned interviewers.

Begbie (Robert Carlyle), a middle-aged psychopath, is itching to kill someone throughout the entire film. In a scene at a bar, Begbie swills his mug of beer, burps, and chucks it over his shoulder. It rolls off the balcony behind him, where shrieks of terror can be heard. The camera then pans in on a bloody mess of a blond, reminiscent of Carrie with blood streaming down her face.

"Trainspotting is great. It's a funny, but realistic look at the drug scene. Raw and uncensored, I bet the U.K. version really kicked ass."

"When I get down and my life is logjammed and I need some affirmational action, I go where people dance. I like dancers. Never met a serious dancer who wasn't a pretty fine human being."

-Robert Fulghum

Write for The Artist!
now. What about "Quiet," "Rocket," "Geek," "U.S.A.," and "Mavonnaise!" Or at least one or two of them. Perhaps I'm expecting a bit too much considering the fact that THEY ROCKED THE BUILDING!!

Seriously though, they were massive. Billy Corgan, the mastodonic mammal that he is, outdid himself once again. With his shaved bald head, vintage Zero t-shirt, and shiny silver pants, this melodic machine almost tore the roof of the place with loud, kick ass songs such as "Siva," "Zero," "Bullet with Butterfly Wings," "Fuck You (An Ode to No One)," and "X.Y.U."

Pumpkinheads who were lucky enough to get onto the floor had minor mosh pit activity and bodysurfing due to the fact that there was an announcement by some dork at the beginning of the show stating that any fans involved in the above festivities would be ejected from the arena. There were even these goofy fake cops walking around the parking lot before the show checking for beer. What a buzzkill for me and my friends, two of whom flew in from West Virginia University just for the show. Two words for the "Event Staff" at the Meadowlands: Beat it!

Make no mistake about it, the Smashing Pumpkins are the best alternative band around, whatever that means. Along with D'Arcy getting her swerve on, you've got James Iha grooving in his own little world, the new, highly-talented drummer dade, and of course, Corgan, the maestornid behind the whole deal. What more could one possibly ask for in a band? The Pumpkins are the bomb.

Mellencamp Continued From Page 11

just have to get up and scream, "Yeah! man! That's exactly how I feel!"

The Mellencamp/Vasquez collaboration becomes a handicap with two songs, "This May Not Be the End of the World," and "Emotional Love." The unnecessary tracks, but most will be allowed the pleasure of roaring through my speakers.

With the price of movies growing ridiculously higher, I decided a column dedicated to movie rentals would better suit the budget of college students, like myself. By saving about eight quarters, you can rent the classics, as well as the new releases you missed in the theaters. With the price of movies growing incredibly higher, I decided a column dedicated to movie rentals would better suit the budget of college students, like myself. By saving about eight quarters, you can rent the classics, as well as the new releases you missed in the theaters.

With the price of movies growing ridiculously higher, I decided a column dedicated to movie rentals would better suit the budget of college students, like myself. By saving about eight quarters, you can rent the classics, as well as the new releases you missed in the theaters.
Part-time professor issues a wake-up call to MSU adjunct teachers

I am submitting this letter to you because I wish to state the part-time professors' case. "Adjuncts" at MSU are receiving a sad joke for a salary. For the last few years, I have been teaching at MSU and receiving $1200 per class. Classes have 25 to 35 students and meet for sixteen weeks. Teaching four to five classes at MSU and other schools pays about $4800 a semester, with no contract, benefits, or anything that full-time professors, administrators, secretaries, or janitors receive.

I have a doctorate and publications and I know I deserve more than I am getting. Why does this absurd situation continue? Adjuncts must fight to change this. We must realize by now that there will be no "promised land," no good pay, or benefits unless we do something about it, and administrators act with the values of decency and civility. Why are the administrators and Board of Trustees such bums?

We need a union now. We need higher pay now. Adjuncts should all join the union or obtain a better one that will stand up for our rights and strike. Nothing will ever change, except incrementally, unless we act with courage, strength, and common sense. Rutgers has a union for part-time professors and they receive $2400-$2700 or more per class. That's at least twice the pay that MSU gives. MSU administrators and professors receive, on average, $50-60,000 per year. That's why they don't help us.

Dr. Richard Marranca, Classics

Republicans should expect to be censored

The fact that Jean-Marie Navetta and Joseph Pater- noster received a somewhat chilly reception after entering a highly charged political rally with the opposition's signs in tow is hardly surprising. In fact, predictable is they should attend a Dole rally with some "Clinton/Gore" signs. Then draw some comparisons for us.

Eric Nelsen, English

Montclarion Mailbag

Letter Policy

Have an opinion about what you read in this section? Agree? Disagree? Let us know by writing to the Montclarion Mailbag!

All letters must be submitted by Tuesday at 10:00 a.m. to the Montclarion office or submitted by e-mail to navettaj@alpha.montclair.edu. Correspondence must include the author's name, major, Social Security number, and phone number. Please keep letters to no more than two pages, double spaced in length.
President Reid's List of Things To Do

1. Wake up
2. Give Myself a Raise
3. Raise Tuition By 8.9%
4. Give Myself Another Raise
5. Go to Bed

Isn't it ironic?

At the end of last school year, students at MSU were informed that they would be facing an 8.9 percent tuition hike for the 1996-1997 school year. In less abstract terms, the increase (which was officially passed on June 13) meant that there would be a $7.00 per credit hike for in-state students and an $11.00 per credit increase for out-of-state students. Additionally, a $2.50 per credit facilities fee and a $10.00 increase in parking decals was instituted. These increases were introduced as a result of an anticipated reduction in state aid for fiscal year 96-97. In the first issue of the Montclarion this semester, it was reported that President Reid explained that the tuition increases would not allow any additional funds for new initiatives at MSU.

Perhaps the increase was highly unpleasant for students at MSU, but most seemed to view it as a necessary evil. After all, it means that everyone at MSU is dealing with some sort of funding cutback, and so professors are experiencing a wage freeze.

But in light of these facts, it might make it difficult to appreciate the irony of events at the Board of Trustees meeting this week. It was at this meeting that our own President Reid was granted two 5.25 percent raises, effective July 1, 1995 and July 1, 1996. This made his salary increase from $118,000 to $130,000. He will also be receiving more than $6000 in retroactive pay.

The Board of Trustees justified these raises as a reward for Reid’s success in fundraising. Additionally, they said the salary increase was done to “provide equity with chief executive officers of other institutions of higher education in the state of New Jersey.”

It can be contended that President Reid has done good work with fundraising and does deserve appreciation. However, in the current financial situation at MSU, we need to question if such a raise was appropriate at this time. After all, our professors also do hard work to improve the university, but they weren’t financially rewarded this year. And the question of equity with other professors in the state can also be raised.

So maybe the situation is a bit ironic. Especially considering that President Reid said that the tuition increases would not allow for any new initiatives—apparently, with the exception of his own raises. Unfortunately, it seems probable that most students at MSU will fail to see this irony. They’ll probably be too busy paying off their loans thanks to the new tuition hikes.

Food for Thought

by Rachel Baizian

Bill Clinton has made a habit of saying one thing with an eye towards gaining popular support, but underneath trying to fulfill a totally different agenda. One area where his administration has continually waffled is the abortion issue. Although he made loud fanfares with his desire for abortions to be "safe, legal, and rare," he is directing his administration on a deliberate and radical course pursuing an abortion at all cost philosophy. This is illustrated by the seldom heard story of thirteen Chinese women.

In June of 1993, a Chinese refugee ship, The Golden Venture, ran aground on Long Island shore. Among its passengers were thirteen Chinese women who were fleeing their country to avoid being forced by the Chinese government into having an abortion or being sterilized. Under previous administrations, these women would have been considered victims of political persecution and consequently granted asylum in the United States. The Clinton administration, however, changed the law so that those fleeing from such maltreatment would no longer be candidates for asylum, revealing how indifferently it views these crimes against women.

In 1993, three of these women (in spite of White House opposition) appeared before the House Subcommittee on International Operations and Human Rights. One woman testified about how, because she already had two children, she was dragged from her house to the local abortion clinic. Although already six months pregnant, she was strapped into a chair and administered an involuntary abortion followed by sterilization. Other women told of how, among other things, it was not uncommon for parents to be taken away as hostages, or to have houses ransacked in order to pressure women to undergo “treatment.” Some others aboard the ship who had one child were forced to have an IUD—an unsafe contraceptive device no longer used in the United States—inserted into their uteruses. Unfortunately, these women have fled from one country of injustice to another.

After testifying, these women were again put in handcuffs and leg irons and led back to jail, where they have spent the last two years under the constant threat that they could be deported at any time. While in prison they have been subjected to physical abuse and have been made to pay for their own drinking water, cough medicine, and aspirin. This might seem unbelievable in a country whose leadership refuses to cut benefits worth millions to illegal immigrants, but it’s true. In an attempt to evade scrutiny, the women have often been transferred to prisons, sometimes thousands of miles away, without prior notification to either them or their attorneys. One woman was kept from seeing her husband (who also came over on The Golden Venture) for two years. The two were finally reunited at the House hearing. If this had happened to Nelson Mandela’s supporters or perhaps a French member of Greenpeace, the outcry from the government and media would be deafening. Rather than outcry, though, there has been unbelievable opposition. Although Ecuador has agreed to admit these women as permanent residents if financial assistance is provided for their expenses, all such hopes were foiled by White House resistance.

It is inconsistent for an administration which claims to be pro-choice not to aid these women who wanted to make the choice to keep their children. These Chinese women are living proof that in the eyes of the Clinton administration and the liberal media, if you are a human being, particularly a woman, and pro-life, you simply don’t count.

Queer

by Greg Geiger

For most of our American heritage, the majority has rested comfortably in a deep slumber of ignorance while minority groups toss and turn in the fit of many nights. In the 1960's one part of our country finally woke up to the screams of the other and found themselves to be the cause of these nightmares of inequality and discrimination.

It seems our country requires blood and screams before it is ready to evolve into a society that more closely matches the tenets of equality and fairness which were outlined in the Constitution. Thirty years ago, this evolution called for fire hoses and arson before people realized the indisputable truth of Dr. Martin Luther King’s statement that, “Justice denied anywhere diminishes justice everywhere.”

In 1996, though, the fire hoses are gone, along with the laws that protected those with the hoses. However, with the events of this past summer in the South, which included a number of church burnings, it is obvious that not all of the country is ready to wear rose-colored glasses when viewing the state of human rights in the United States.

It is naive to think that every American will be mature and clear-minded enough to see one another as equal. Our elected government officials play a different role than the average citizen. These leaders shape the momentum of the nation. With the change in outlook of the government over the past thirty years, racial affairs have developed a long way in a positive direction. Racism is not dead. But now, at least, we are able to confront it.

When our political leaders do not stand for these ideals they serve as a dangerous role model for the masses. With all the political gay-bashing that has occurred over the past few years, the incidence of physically violent gay-bashing has increased nationwide by 22 percent according to Network magazine of May 1994. Anti-gay arson, burning gay individuals or their families out of their homes, has increased by 200 percent.

Since history is cursed with the characteristic of repetition, it seems our nation is just in the throws of waking up from yet another nightmare.

Have an opinion about what you just read? E-mail us at navettaj@alpha.montclair.edu.
What a shock that Tupac Shakur succumbed to gunshot wounds last Friday. Duh, not. I'm not the least bit surprised that someone popped a cap in his ass, nor will I mourn a dope who had it all and chose to live his life to such a dangerous extreme. I will neither offer a requiem for a fallen rapper nor issue forth a dis-fest. Rather, I only offer my own observations.

What's "Tupac" spelled backwards? Caput. Kaput he is. Isn't it ironic? Don't ya think?

What's "Tupac" spelled backwards?

by Madam Ant

What's "Tupac" spelled backwards? Caput.

Kaput he is. Isn't it ironic? Don't ya think?

On the lighter side of...the White House

"Freedom is a fragile thing and is never more than one generation from extinction." - Ronald Reagan
For the GOP, First Amendment freedoms are not a partisan issue

Monday, September 16
12:15 p.m. During one of Jean-Marie's political science classes, the professor, who is discussing power in politics, comments, "If you want to know about political power, read Jean-Marie and Joe Paternoster's column. It makes you wonder about some people—if they would do that to people with signs, what would they do if they had the power to point cannons and guns at people?"

Tuesday, September 17
10:45 a.m. We enter the Montclarion office disappointed that we have received no letters from angry Democrats. Jean-Marie checks her e-mail and there is a letter. The author states that what took place during the Gore speech was "predictable" and that we should "attend a Dole rally with some Clinton/Gore signs. Then draw some comparisons..." We look at each other, smile, and start typing.

We hope that this experience will show that the Republicans are the ones who truly respect everyone's right to free speech. We also hope that it will stop the baseless claims from liberals that we should expect both parties to recklessly trample on the First Amendment. Republicans believe that rather than harassing the opposition, the best way to counter them is by ignoring them. Republicans, apparently unlike Democrats, do not have to have fun at someone else's expense. Of course, we would expect nothing less from the party that tells everyone that they can achieve, not by pulling others down, but by lifting themselves up.

The Democrats claim that the Republicans are "intolerant" and "put on a show of inclusion" at their convention, but that's not what experience has shown. For those of you who are Clinton supporters, take a minute to think about the disregard for freedom your party has before you vote. If the American people hold their rights, responsibilities, and freedoms as dear to them as they should, they will look beyond the rhetoric and vote for Bob Dole in November. After all, actions speak louder than words and if the Democrats have their way, their actions will stifle our words.

A lesson in college lingo from reefer to Scooby Snacks

Newweek magazine features a little something called "Buzzwords" where America is introduced to the latest lingo a few words at a time. This past week's list included supposedly common phraseology among college students, and was appropriately called "Doomspeak."

I read the piece and thought, "Oh, no, I'm turning into my mother!" I didn't know what the heck they were talking about. None of the buzzwords sounded even remotely familiar. I asked myself, "What is happening to me?" I've always prided myself on being able to pay attention to stuff like that. Something was definitely amiss.

I consulted with my most reliable source, my teenagers, who smiled and assured me that I had nothing to fear. Of the nine words cited, my son had heard of one. My daughter had heard of none.

Phew. I thought that I was slipping there for a minute. But now I'm curious to find out just how popular these catchphrases actually are. So, I ask you, fellow college students, did you grovel last night with your date? Or did you end up pulling the trigger with your buddies instead? Are you responsible for that nerdpass in front of the Student Center? And are you a Marcia, or what?

Quite frankly, the only term that I could relate to was the updated slang for marijuana. Not that Scooby Snack had any specific meaning, but the street talk for drugs has always been most creative. I've lived through—figuratively speaking, of course—reefer, weed, horse, black beauties, smack, acid, Mary Janes, and a kazillion other stretches of verbal inventiveness for illegal substances, so this new addition doesn't surprise me. What does surprise me is the fact that T-shirts with the cartoon character Scooby Doo are banned at my son's high school because of this 1996 version of the drug dialect. I am not a proponent of substance use, but, the last time I looked, Beavis and Butthead (a mom's answer to a definition of moronic behavior) were still entering schools across America. A large goofy dog with a speech problem hardly seems threatening, even if his moniker refers to smokeable flora.

Every generation has had to contend with its younger counterparts veering off the beaten path and reassessing life through a different set of language rules. They are identifying marks that separate yesterday and tomorrow. Every generation, it seems, must reassess the past.
Disgruntled
by Tom Tracy

Some pretty strange things occurred at yesterday’s SGA meeting. Not that that’s abnormal or anything, I mean weird things happen there all the time. I guess that I was just holding out against all hope that this year would be different than those in the past, but the SGA is the SGA. I should have known there would be problems when I was awakened by about six different phone calls one July morning with people telling me that the SGA President had been arrested for getting into some type of argument with the executive secretary. At that moment, I knew that any hopes for a smooth and easy year had been tossed out the window.

Usually, you don't start having four hour long SGA meetings until October or November, but there we were at 8:30 p.m. last night finally ending the meeting. Guess what? Nothing was accomplished. Sure, Glass One Concerts received the $5,000 they still needed to bring Tribe Called Quest to campus for a concert, but, what was the real cost? There were problems right from the beginning of the debate when SGA President Julio Marenco started talking about a $15,000 bid that he co-signed along with CIC President Joanne Munoz. “Funny,” I thought to myself, the only bid I had heard about was for $20,000.

What I and the rest of the legislature would later find out is that there were actually two bids, both signed by Munoz and Marenco, one for $15,000 and one for $20,000. Or were they both signed by Marenco? He claims that he never signed the $20,000 bid and CIC claims that he did with no reservation. What's going on here?

Both parties cannot be telling the truth because that would be impossible. So what, as the legislature of the Student Government are we to believe? It was like I was watching some new Oliver Stone or John Grisham movie unfold before me.

But it gets better.

The $15,000 bid was actually a copy of a fax received at the SGA office on September 16, 1996 from one of the middle agents negotiating the contract. What does this mean? Is $15,000 the accepted price for Tribe Called Quest to perform at this school, or is it $20,000? Will someone step up and speak the truth – please?

There are many problems with this whole situation. While it is admirable that CIC wants to bring the best bands here to MSU, they should not be permitted to bid over their conference line, which is listed as $14,000 for the 1996-97 fiscal year. Not $1,000 over, and not $6,000 over. Marenco should have checked to see what their line was, something which he admitted that he didn’t do. If the overzealous hid had not been made, a lot of headaches could have been prevented.

Second, the fear of being sued by the agency representing the hand never should have been an issue. As SGA treasurer Barry Bernstein put it, we are a corporation, and corporations get sued often. Marenco and Bernstein both stated repeatedly that the lawyer for the SGA had been consulted and said there was nothing to worry about. So now I ask why didn’t the legislators listen to this testimony? Too much side-chatter perhaps?

Are you confused or annoyed yet? Now you have a little taste of what life as a legislator is like.

Now that the money has been allocated to CIC, I hope the concert is a success. I hope it is a sellout and that a profit is made so that CIC can put on more programming during the year. But, more importantly, I hope that the first meeting does not set a trend for the rest of the year. The Attorney General should not have to make a ruling on the statutes every 30 seconds. I should not have to get sick of hearing the vice president’s voice because every three minutes she has to tell people to shut up and take their conversations outside.

As I got my petition signed this week, I got a lot of questions about what I wanted to do as a legislator. Some were stupid, but some of them were actually serious. One in particular I thought of a lot during the meeting. “Why on earth would you want to join the circus known as SGA?” The answer is simple. Because I have to. I feel a responsibility to represent the other students who don’t know what is going on inside the closed doors and make sure that they are not getting screwed. Those people have trusted us to act responsibly and maturely and, most of all, to do things that are in their best interests. That is why we have to sit through four hour meetings, repeatedly banging our heads against the walls.

The Student Government has to get its act together, and quickly. The rumors have to stop. The childish acts have to stop. It is time to do what we all were elected to do and that is to serve the students. That motto used to mean something. I hope that when this year is through, it will once again be the truth.

Do you have an opinion?

Want to have your opinion read by over 10,000 people every week?

You can.

Write for the Montclarion Editorial section. Spaces for new columnists are still available. For more information, call Jean-Marie at 655-7731 or send e-mail to navettaj@alpha.montclair.edu.
MIND OVER MATTER
 *****************************************
 PSYCHOLOGICAL SERVICES
 FALL 1996
 PERSONAL GROWTH WORKSHOPS
 *****************************************

Over coming Academic Stress:
This workshop is for students who are specially uncomfortable while taking tests, giving presentations, or participating in class room discussions and activities. Several methods will be discussed that can help to reduce this stress.
Time: Thursdays at 1:00 p.m. beginning October 10, 1996

Parenting:
This group is designed to help parents improve their child-rearing skills and to be better able to cope with the demands of parenting in contemporary society.
Time Wednesday at 11:00 a.m. beginning October 9, 1996

Survivors of Abuse: Co-Sponsored by the Women’s Center
Undoing the effects of physical and mental abuse is a very difficult task. Most of the survivors of this kind of trauma have difficulties in holding on to good feelings about themselves and in forming satisfying relationships. Working with a group to share feelings and experiences can have significant beneficial effects in all areas. We invite all interested to participate and share their experiences.
Time: Thursday at 1:00p.m. October 10, 1996

How to Improve Your Achievement Motivation:
Participants will learn psychological methods to improve their achievement motivation, concentrate on their work more effectively, and become more successful in school.
Time: Friday at 12:00 noon, beginning October 11, 1996

Gender Equity in the 90’s:
Issues related to relationships between men an women in our society, such as sexual harassment, sex role identity and stereotyping, non traditional career choices and the equitable classroom will be addressed in this workshop. To be Announced

Living with Cultural Diversity in America
This workshop will focus on the importance of considering cultural diversity and its impact on the individual, group/family, and society. Participants will have their experiences in dealing with differences in race/culture/religion. The focus of the workshop will be on the positive resolution of cultural diversity conflicts and opportunities for promoting healthy, meaningful, and respectful cultural exchanges.
Time: Thursday at 12:00 noon, beginning October 10, 1996

How to Sign Up: To reserve a place in a workshop, call Joan Morrow at the Psychological Services Center, at 201-655-5211
Want to go third party? Can't stand the other two loser parties? Good, that's great! It's about time! Just... 'DOA' 'T 'GO Pef-oxi Actual Picture of H. Ross Perot in his Oreystone cell, displaying his hue i it pie e/iarf.s.

Ross Perot is running for president again. Granted, many people like the whole idea. We don't. Our self-proclaimed "political dirty tricksters" have dug up some serious dirt on the guy. He isn't eccentric. He isn't even a hit loopy. He isn't wacky. MV GOO, THE MAN IS INSANE!

He's been using most of his money to print out pie charts. He wants to do the same with your tax money. His secret ambition is to plaster the whole country with the charts! He wants to sculpt a huge pie chart on Mount Rushinore! He had a secret love-child with Betty White that he named H Pie Chart Perot! There won't be any money left in the budget to defend our dear sacred country (God bless baseball and apple pie). We won't have money to school our children! We won't have ANY MONEY...but we'll be able to see how our money is being wasted by looking at the BIGGEST PIE CHART EVER MADE! Located in Bubbaville, Iowa, and completely funded by tax dollars, Perot will build a 200 story pie chart, with a diameter of 20 MILES! He's got the ears, lie's got the annoying nasal voice, lie's got the charisma, and HE HAS THE INSANITY to do it! He knows it, we know it, and the American people knows it!

His family knew he was insane. They've known that for years! In fact, HE'S LIVING IN GREYSTONE! His main campaign offices are in the basement of the main Psych-o Ward. He lives in a huge cell, with pie charts painted all over the place. He talks to pie charts. He named Ins favorite pie-chart, which shows the chewing gum preferences of the American people. "Al." "Al" is controlling his mind, and yet PEROT WON'T ADMIT IT!

"Fred," on the other hand, will admit that he controls minds. He'll tell everyone that he controls John J. O'Sullivan, his dean campaign manager. O'Sullivan is controlled by "Fred's" PSYCHIC CARRIAGE THOUGHTS". "Fred" has a head, and he'd have it firmly attached to his shoulders, if he had shoulders. "Fred" is the SANEST CARRIAGE EVER! He makes Sam Donaldson look like the Unabomber™! He will rule... err., lead this country into a better, saner future.

THERE AIN'T NO DREAD WITH "FRED!"

Sponsored by the Friends of "Fred" & the Vegetable Cynic's Party
Please don’t make me beg for Personals. There are things I will beg for. Personals are not one of those things. I don’t want to beg for them. Submit them by this Friday. I’m not going to beg. Really, I’m not going to. It’s not going to happen. Ever.

Your “Sort-of” Real Horoscope

by John J. O’Sullivan’s
Stoner Cousin,
Jerry G. O’Sullivan

Aries (March 21 to April 19) Man, this is some good *&^& man. Man, you gotta try this *$@ man, it’ll get ya gone man! Taurs (April 20 to May 20) Man, I’m hungry, you get any food, man!? You got some food, man, yeah man. Gemini (May 21 to June 20) Uh was trippin’ man, and I saw some cats fallin’ on you, man. They were singing “In a Godda da Vita.” Man, it was so cool! Cancer (June 21 to July 22) Woodstock will be groovin’ man, when the aliens come over! They’ll bring Jerry! He ain’t dead, man! Leo (July 23 to August 22) Man, you’ll be walkin’ down the street and you’ll (free bee hee) see some leaves dancein’! Man, it’ll be cool! Virgo (August 23 to September 22) Man, man man man man, man! Man! Dude! Libra (September 23 to October 22) You’ll get the best weed today, man! It’ll get you trashed! Scorpio (October 23 to November 21) Dude, you better watch out. Surf Nazi Crocodiles are lookin’ for you, man.

They’re jonesin’ to eat your head, man! They tried to get me, but I breathed on ‘em and got ‘em stoned, man. They were pretty e o o to talk to! Sagittarius (November 22 to December 21) You got some weed for me man? No! Well man, you’re goin’ down man! A tree is gonna fall on ya, man! Yeah! "Bob" (December 22 at 3:05am) PULL THE WOOL OVER YOUR OWN EYES!

Capricorn (December 22 to January 19) I ate some Per(filename) when I got the munchies! The head of Popeye on my Pez thing told me that you’re gonna get lucky, man! That’s pretty cool, man! Aquarius (January 20 to February 18) Man, I’m sober. Why am I saying ‘man’ all of the time? Are all of these birds staring at me? Why am I saying ‘man’ all of the time? AAAAAAAA! Betty Ford, take my money! Pisces (February 19 to March 20) Man, I’m stoned. Why am I saying ‘man’ for some weed. Your lucky number is: 325878456345734589.45873478347834783478.

WORD SEARCH PUZZLES

MTCEJBUISKHDAXURPMJSJGMDOAXVSNQKIFDIACXLDDVTQOMJHFCRLRAUYWRURPNLJHUFACTPAABDZXKVETEENIRWQIOWMKIHLSFORKARRDBZYTDWNGCTRDHSVTRZQIRWONALDDLFKIUHTOFDMBIECAZPXWVDWUSRHODSON

Find the listed words in the diagram. They run in all directions-forward, backward, up and down and diagonally.
Demented Fairy Tales

by John J. O'Sullivan

Once upon a time, there was a fox named Joe the Fox. Joe the Fox was generally bored with life. He lived in the woods, where nothing happened. Every now and then, some dog would chase him around or something, but that was the most excitement that he would have for months. He'd sit around in his fox den, watch some TV, and maybe rent a movie from the deli over by the mulberry bushes if nothing was on worth watching that night. All of the female foxes lived entirely too far away, so he was generally frustrated most of the time.

One day, Joe decided that it was time to get his lethargic and dragging life into gear. He went, bought some airplane tickets to Rio de Janeiro, and decided to go. But that was the most excitement he would have for months. He'd sit around in his fox den, watch some TV, and really enjoy the feature story on the Internet. He got down to the street, and started dancing to the heavy samba rhythms that were being played all over the town. He danced for a few hours, until a chef came and grabbed him, strangled him, and served him with penne pasta.

He got to the airport, boarded the plane, and sat down. Soon, the plane was in flight and Joe was on his way to the "string of pearls" in the beautiful bay. The clean, white-sanded beach was nearby, just waiting to be pounced on. The Carnaval parades started up, and naked people were dancing all over the place. Since Joe was a fox, he was always naked, so he decided to start the partying.

About halfway on the flight, they served him a lunch. He had a turkey sandwich, and picked up a copy of Time from the flight attendant. He read most of it, and really enjoyed the feature story on the Internet. He then went to sleep for the remainder of the flight.

When he got to Rio, he checked into his hotel and went into his room. His room was magnificent. He saw the "string of pearls" in the beautiful bay. The clean, white-sanded beach was nearby, just waiting to be pounced on. The Carnaval parades started up, and naked people were dancing all over the place. Since Joe was a fox, he was always naked, so he decided to start the partying.

He got down to the street, and started dancing to the heavy samba rhythms that were being played all over. He danced for a few hours, until a chef came and grabbed him, strangled him, and served him with penne pasta. Joe, needless to say, was rather annoyed.

Moral of the Story™: Don't knock TV, it beats being served with penne pasta.
Classifieds...

- Child Care Wanted -

Patient, kind individual wanted to baby-sit a child 1-2 days a week (Tues. & Thursdays) 4:30 to 8:00. Great salary. Call Jodi. 667-4918.

Sitter for occasional after school and weekend care of 10 yr. old girl in Up. Montclair. Must be responsible and reliable. Call 509-7431 after 6 PM.

Babysitter wanted for 2 girls (ages 3 & 4) some mornings or afternoons. Flexible schedule. Must have own transportation. Livingston 994-4180.

After school child care for 8 year old in our Upper Montclair home. Tuesday thru Thursday 4:30 PM - 8:30 PM. Excellent salary. References required, must have car. Call 783-7908.

Babysitter: 2-3 evenings a week, when needed, in Glen Ridge. Three children ages 5 to 9. $7/hr. Babysitting experience necessary. 509-8839.

Great sitter sought for great kids. Mostly Saturday nights but some week nights as well. Call 744-9188 from 7:30 PM - 8:30 PM.

2 students (apply as a pair) needed to share child care position. Hours 6 am - 9 am, 2:30 - 7:30 PM Mon. - Fri. Room & board, use of car & salary. Driver’s license required. Montclair. 783-0142.

Homework helper for 5th grade boy. Monday - Thursday. One hour between 5:00 and 7:00. $10 per hour. Call 783-9842.

Join the Montclarion today!!!!!

Childcare: Glen Ridge family. 3 girls 14, 11 & 4 seeks responsible, caring individual or two individuals for job share. Hours 3 PM - 7 PM daily with flexibility. Responsibilities include simple meal preparation and children’s laundry. Child care references essential. Please call 748-6281.

Looking for after school child care. 3 days per week. Play, help with homework and care for 2 girls ages 6 & 12. Car required. Call Beth at 783-1597.

- Help Wanted -

$1750 weekly possible mailing our circulars. No experience needed. Begin now. For info call 301-306-1207.

Versailles Diner. 516 Rt. 46 Fairfield NJ. (201) 227-0508. Waiter-waitress needed. Experience preferred but not necessary. Good money, flexible hours and immediate openings. Call Nick at 227-0508 or apply in person.

Housework help needed in Montclair home 4-5 afternoons or evenings (15-25 hrs.)/week. Car necessary. Call 783-7966.

- Apartments -

West Paterson. Non-smoking, professional female seeks same to share spacious, renovated two-bedroom apt. Nice area, very convenient to college. Call 9201) 812-6214.

- For Sale -

Typing & secretarial services. Transcription and Dictaphone, letters, reports, resumes, thesis, memos, time slips, time keeping. State of the art equipment including fax, color printer. Reasonable rates and quick turnaround time. 201-403-0591.

1984 Toyota Tercel wagon. 5-speed, AM-FM. 149,000 miles. One owner. Clean, reliable Transportation. Runs well. $895 or best offer. 509-0647. Upper Montclair.

- Spring Break -

Spring Break '97. Sell trips, earn cash, go free. STS is hiring Campus Reps/Group Organizers to promote trips to Cancun, Jamaica and Florida. Call 800-648-4849 for more information.

- Fund Raiser -

Fund Raiser. Motivated groups needed to earn $500+ promoting AT&T, Discover, gas ad retail cards. Since 1969, we’ve helped thousands of groups raise the money they need. Call Gina at (800) 592-2121 ext. 110. Free CD to qualified callers.

- Scholarships Available -

Attention all students! Over $6 Billion in public and private sector grants & scholarships is now available. All students are eligible. Let us help. For more info. call: 1-800-263-6495 ext. F50964.
Great Weekend Escapes for as low as $109 from MasterCard and United Airlines!

Take Off For The Weekend With United Airlines And Return Monday Or Tuesday To Get Substantial Savings When You Use Your MasterCard® Card.

Use Your MasterCard® Card For Great Savings On United Airlines.

To make reservations, call United at 1-800-241-6522 or your travel professional.

Please reference Weekender Zone Fare Certificate AV0096.

Carrier: United Airlines/Shuttle by United/United Express only.
Routing: Roundtrip or Open Jaw within the 48 contiguous United States, excluding travel from/tor to IL/CO.
Ticket Dates: September 1, 1996 through December 31, 1996.

Ticketing: E-Ticketing only (electronic ticketing service).
Taxes/Service Charges: All taxes, fees and surcharges, including passenger facility charges, are the responsibility of the user and must be paid at ticketing.
Certificate Restrictions: Non-refundable. Nontransferable after ticketing. Changes in origin/destination not permitted. Travel dates may be revalidated for $50.00 fee.

Terms and Conditions: Good for roundtript ticket. Promo Code: AV0096

©1996 MasterCard International Incorporated
Chesney’s Strategy: “One game at a time”

By Jeff Uhrich

In last week’s games, the men’s soccer team went 1-1 to bring their record to 2-2. On September 12, the Red Hawks shut out CCNY 4-0 on two goals and an assist by sophomore standout Sebastian DiBello (Dover). The other two goals were scored by senior Julian Roca (Becton) and junior Ian Myles (Dover).

The Red Hawks lost to Elmira College by a score of 2-1 on September 15. The lone goal for the Red Hawks was scored by freshman John Lopez (Englewood) on an assist from DiBello. Coach Rich Chesney said, “I think we feel we could be better, and we let two games slip away from us. We played well enough to win all four games, yet we stand at 2-2, and that’s part of the craziness of the sport.”

This summer the Red Hawks held training camp in Europe. Senior Sven Lilenthal (Butler) says, “It was one of the best experiences I’ve had in soccer. Not just the fact that we get to play international scrimmage and were exposed to a higher level of play, but we came and did everything together. It made the team really close and we’re a tight knit group right now.”

As a long term goal, coach Chesney would like to reach the postseason and win a conference championship. “We must play our game one at a time in order to reach our goal. We set our standards pretty high, but we have simple ones too, and that’s where we’re at right now, one game at a time”, says Chesney. When I asked him if there were any games he was looking forward to playing, he quickly responded, “Just the next one.”

“We have some guys who’ve been in the conference for two-three years now”, says junior Captain Rich Meyer (Don Bosco Prep) “and that’s a lot of experience.” Coach Chesney adds, “So while we have a good group of experience, we also have a lot of young experience, and we’re counting on them to do well.” Chesney continues, expect that, I’m pleasantly surprised that it’s working out that way.” Pat Naughter

MSU Women’s Volleyball Sweeps Rutgers

By Dennis L. DelMecurio

With a 2-2 record, the MSU volleyball team headed into Tuesday’s match against the Rutgers-Newark Red Raiders looking eager to win against one of our best rivals.

The first thing I noticed about the Red Raiders compared to our own Red Hawks was the difference in numbers. Rutgers had ten players while MSU had more than double that. With only three players who would be able to substitute for their team, I expected to see Rutgers tire by the third match. Especially when they came out so strong in the first match.

The starting team consisted of freshman Dana Ramirez (Memorial), sophomores Jill Gastelu (Rutherford) and Lauren Mazukiewicz (Queen of Peace), junior Dolly Koshy (Tenneck) and Edith Lubin ( Irvington), and senior Krista Gastelu (Rutherford).

MSU started early with a block on the other sideouts, Jill Gastelu ended the match, winning the game by scoring the last point (she scored the first, remember) with a devastating spike that went through the hands of several Red Raiders. However, the Raiders' sophomore Taryn Otto and senior Edelika Melendez came back delivering severe spikes of their own. The Raiders soon took a 9-2 lead, despite sensational diving attempts by Koshy and kills by Ramirez. After a MSU time-out, sophomore Christina Burnett substituted and began serving. With impermeable blocking by Koshy, and steady serving by Burnett, the Red Hawks were able to tie the game 9-9.

The Raiders were not going down, as they regained the lead and led 13-11. Otto was serving until she planted one in the net, enabling MSU a chance to come from behind once again. The Red Hawks scored once, and the Raiders went on to extend their lead 14-12. Koshy stepped up again and prevented a sure scoring spike by Melendez by sending it right back in her face with a key block. With the sideline, it was Koshy's turn to serve and, with the rest of the team, brought the Red Hawks into the lead, 15-14. Koshy finished the tense match by serving an ace for the final point.

The second match was more even, as both teams were neck and neck up to 11 points. Solid sets by Lubin gave Krista, Jill, and Ramirez ample time to deliver their kills. Mazukiewicz's efforts on defense paid off as the Red Hawks regained the lead 13-12. Ramirez show exceptional talent in administering a great spike to extend the lead, 14-12. Jill Gastelu, with a soft touch, won the match, this time too, with another ace.

Feeling the pressure and looking weary, the women of the Red Raiders began the third match with an ace, and quickly led 5-0. Perhaps a bit of overconfidence began to seep into the players, but with cheering from the bench, the Red Hawks regained their composure and got on the board. The MSU Cheerleaders came out and fired up the crowd into chanting “M-S-U” and “Let's go Red Hawks.” Inspired by the fans, the Red Hawks took the lead again, 9-7. Mazukiewicz was all over the back court making spectacular dives to keep the volley alive and soon the lead was extended to 13-7. The Red Raiders would not go gently into that good night, and scored 3 points before MSU gained a sideout. After a long series of volleys and sideouts, Jill Gastelu ended the match, winning the game by scoring the last point (she scored the first, remember) with a FOOTBALL:
September 21st at University of Stony Brook 1:00 PM

MEN'S SOCCER:
September 20th at William Paterson 7:00 PM
September 25th at Kean 4:00 PM

WOMEN'S SOCCER:
September 21st at Mt. St. Mary's 4:00 PM
September 23rd at Drew 7:00 PM

VOLLEYBALL:
September 19th at Marywood 7:00 PM
September 21st at Stockton Tournament TBD
September 24th at Ramapo 7:00 PM

FIELD HOCKEY:
September 21st William Paterson 12:00 PM
September 24th The College of New Jersey 8:00 PM

WOMEN'S TENNIS:
September 20th SUNY New Paltz 3:30 PM
September 21st at Springfield 1:00 PM
September 24th Trenton State 3:30 PM
September 25th at Drew 3:30 PM

The trailing Red Hawks were down, but not out. On their next drive, MSU was led by the sticky hands of junior wide receiver Ellis Allen (A.F. Schalick) and precision passing of Cooney who hooked up twice for 72 yards. The key play was on third down and 14 from their own 41. The Red Hawks came back when Cooney hit Allen on a fairly short pass in which Allen’s quick feet enabled him to turn it into a 59 yard, tying the game with a 51 yard scamper into MSU territory, but the Red Hawks stood their ground. On fourth down and nine from the MSU 36 a controversial call from the officials gave the Red Dragons a crucial first down.

With the game heating up, Cortland State’s Ronel Griggs rose to the occasion with a 51 yard scamper into MSU territory, but the Red Hawks stood their ground. On fourth down and nine from the MSU 36, a controversial call from the officials gave the Red Dragons a crucial first down.

It all unfolded as Bargiel leaped high into the air in an attempt to block Matt Vaccarella’s punt. Bargiel, who had come so close to blocking a couple of punts during the course of the game, somehow missed the ball and collided with the punter. Instead of being called for running into the punter, which only would have been five yards, the referee ruled that the act was in fact “roughing the kicker”. The fifteen yard penalty attached to this violation enabled Cortland State kicker Brian Anthony to kick an eventual gamewinning 35 yard field goal.

Hostile fans shouted, “Hey ref, go back to Foot Locker!”

On Montclair State’s final drive of the game, Cooney connected three times with Cinque, and also hooked up with junior wide receiver Tom Muller (Newton) for two important third down conversions. With the clock running out, Cooney looked to complete one more pass to try and move the ball into field goal position, but on fourth and ten from the C.S.U. 36 yard line, Cooney’s pass to John Green at the 20 yard line was ruled incomplete.

Cortland State killed the clock by taking a knee leaving the Red Hawk players stunned on opening day.

Following the defeat coach Giancola made the following comments: “We gave up too many third down conversions on defense, and the offensive line did not play as well as I had hoped. The bottom line is that we couldn’t have won that football game.”

When asked about the 15 yard penalty called against Bargiel, Giancola suggested, “By leaving your feet in an attempt to block a punt, you put yourself in jeopardy of a penalty.” He later added that he didn’t necessarily agree with the call but felt it should only have been a five yard penalty.

Jeff Bargiel claimed that it didn’t seem like the officials were giving them a fair shot at winning the game and the MSU fans agreed.

Red Hawk quarterback Brian Cooney offered this final analysis, “I didn’t play my best, but we’re not going to hang our heads. We’ll get ready for our next game.”

The Red Hawks will try for their first victory of the season when they travel to Stony Brook for a game this Saturday.
Senior Spotlight on...

by Dennis L. DeMercurio

Walk into the Panzer Gym during any given afternoon, and you'll find students shooting hoops, working out, or some athletes getting in a little extra practice. One of these might be Women's Volleyball blocker Krista Gastelu.

Krista, majoring in psychology, would like to become an Elementary Education teacher upon graduating MSU and would love to coach high school volleyball or basketball. For the past four years, she has watched MSU's Women's Volleyball grow from a squad of just eight players (they had to recruit a softball player to suit up so they would have enough players to compete) to a team of nearly three times that number now.

"I think we have the strongest team in four years," says Krista. "Part of it is our attitude. We know we have the potential, and we take our losses as learning experiences rather than set downs."

Positive reinforcement is what Head Coach Sandy Sanchez-Lombeyda has instilled in her team. "Sandy has told us that these are no starters," said Krista. "Anyone of us might be called upon to start, so we all have to be ready. Dania Ramirez is a freshman, and she often.

Another reason she feels that this year's team is so strong: "We try to be as close off the court as we are when we're on it by eating together, hanging out, and things like that."

About the future of the team, Krista said, "Dolly Kody has become physically stronger and smarter about the game. Christina Burnett is excellent defensively. Dania like the will be really great by her senior year. The important thing is that they will grow stronger together, as one."

This is Krista's last year, and if you haven't seen her play, you're missing a truly exciting and captivating player.

Fearless Forecasts

TOM TRACY: EDITOR-IN-CHIEF (5-4)
GIANTS +2 OVER JETS. This game will be pathetic.
GREEN BAY -6 1/2 OVER MINNESOTA. Who can stop the Pack?
BUFFALO +3 OVER DALLAS. Cowboys are reeling.
INDIANAPOLIS -2 1/2 OVER MIAMI. The comeback kid is on the loose.
OHIO STATE -35 1/2 OVER PITTSBURGH. Run up that score.

TIM CASEY: PHOTOGRAPHY EDITOR (1-3)
GREEN BAY -6 1/2 OVER MINNESOTA. Favre is unstoppable.
BUFFALO +3 OVER DALLAS. The Bills never lose at home vs. NFC.
CHICAGO +4 1/2 DETROIT. The Bears are good as underdogs.
INDIANAPOLIS -2 1/2 OVER MIAMI. AFC East is best division in NFL.

GREG MacSWEENEY: EXECUTIVE CONSULTANT TO EDITOR-IN-CHIEF (6-2)
SAN FRAN -9 1/2 OVER CAROLINA. 49ers are Back!!!
KANSAS CITY -5 OVER DENVER. Elway will cool off.
DALLAS -3 OVER BUFFALO. Bills are old and senile.
PHILADELPHIA +2 OVER ATLANTA. Peete is back on track.

JEAN-MARIE NAVETTA: EDITORIAL EDITOR (7-1)
GREEN BAY -6 1/2 OVER MINNESOTA. Packers Rule!!!!
GIANTS +2 OVER JETS. I pity anyone who watches this game.
MIAMI +2 1/2 OVER INDIANAPOLIS. Go Marino Go.
SEATTLE -2 OVER TAMPA BAY. Bucs Suck like Jets suck.

DENNIS L. DeMERCURIO: SPORTS EDITOR (2-2)
JETS -2 OVER GIANTS. Probably ends in a tie.
SAN FRAN -9 1/2 OVER CAROLINA. Young finally hits Rice.
DENVER +5 OVER KANSAS CITY. Terrell Davis & Anthony Miller.
NEW ENGLAND -7 1/2 OVER JACKSONVILLE. Bledsoe has reawakened.

RING SIDE PUB

Knockout Thursdays 9 - TILL

$1 BUD ICE BOTTLES
BUD LIGHT BOTTLES
DRAFTS

LIVE BANDS EVERY SATURDAY

CATCH ALL THE NFL GAMES
ON SATELLITE SUNDAYS

SEPT. 21st
Rock 'N Hard Place
12 TVs!!!
Red Hawks lose season opener to Cortland State, 13-10

By Billy Casalino

It was perfect weather Saturday afternoon at Sprague Field for the first football game of the season. The Montclair State Red Hawks hoped to start off their season on the right foot in front of over 650 anxious fans, but the Cortland State Red Dragons stood in their way.

Most of the contest was a defensive struggle with each team only giving up one touchdown. But in the first quarter, it was Cortland State outdueling the feisty Red Hawks by a final score of 13-10, starting MSU's sophomore defensive back Jason Batcher (Bloomfield) hit Hale with such force that Batcher's helmet came flying off. But Hale shook the cobwebs loose and unloaded on a 35 yard pass to wide receiver James Gambino at the MSU 25 yard line. After two runs by Dan D'Accurzio set up a third and one, two-time All-American senior defensive lineman Jeff Bargiel hit D'Accurzio in the backfield, denying Cortland State a first down and forcing them to try a 35 yard field goal instead of a 33 yard field goal. This time Brian Anthony's kick sailed wide right a la Scott Norwood, formally of the Buffalo Bills. At half-time the score remained tied, 3-3.

I saw the third quarter as nothing more than a punting battle in which MSU punted three times, Cortland State only twice. Both defenses played well throughout the quarter.

On the very first play of the fourth quarter, the Red Dragons took the lead on a 13 yard touchdown pass from Hale to Gambino which capped an impressive scoring drive of ten plays for 70 yards while taking 4:15 off the clock. The extra point gave Cortland State a 10-3 lead.

In their victory over Nichols, senior forward Tammy Wenner (Shore Regional), who was recognized as an All-Tournament player, along with freshman Jillinda Briggs (High Point), came up with two big goals, one assisted by fellow senior forward Kelly Brandbyberry (Union). The other MSU goal was drilled between the pipes by senior midfielder, Andrea Eidmond (Argentina).

The Red Hawks' season continues against William Paterson on Saturday, September 21 at noon.

Field Hockey shows promise at tournament

By Kristin McCullough and Billy Casalino

The Montclair State's Women's Field Hockey team traveled to Poughkeepsie, New York where they participated in the Betty Richey Field Hockey Tournament hosted by Vassar College this past weekend. The Red Hawks finished in third place overall with a 1-1 record. Although they were beaten in their first game of the tournament by Vassar College by a score of 1-0, but the Red Hawks came back on the next day determined to average the loss. They took out their frustrations on the squad from Nichols College of Massachusetts, winning comfortably 3-1.

This victory was the team's first under new head coach Andrea Whitcomb, whose goal was for the team to score in every contest of the season. Although the team was shutout by Vassar, their 3-1 victory over Nichols leads me to believe that this team may have what it takes to improve on their 3-13 record from last season.

In their victory over Nichols, senior forward Tammy Wenner (Shore Regional), who was recognized as an All-Tournament player, along with freshman Jillinda Briggs (High Point), came up with two big goals, one assisted by fellow senior forward Kelly Brandbyberry (Union). The other MSU goal was drilled between the pipes by senior midfielder, Andrea Eidmond (Argentina).

The Red Hawks' season continues against William Paterson on Saturday, September 21 at noon.