Congressman Pascrell addresses education in campus visit

BY SUZANNE FEIGLE
CAMPUS LIFE EDITOR

Education and the need for a balanced budget were two of the issues addressed by United States Congressman Bill Pascrell as he lectured to a small gathering of students in the Student Center last Thursday.

"If there is any investment that we have to protect, it is in the area of education. The Federal Government has to understand its place in the partnership for education," Pascrell said in the SGA-sponsored event.

Pascrell explained that in order for today's students to have successful careers after graduation, a quality education is necessary. It is critical to make higher education available to everyone. "By the year 2005, 65 percent of jobs are going to require some college education. In the last five years, we have had more inventions and creativity than in the past 500 years. The opportunities are huge! Four years from now, 20 - 25 percent of jobs don't even exist now. These are exciting times for all of us," Pascrell said.

Pascrell explained that many families cannot afford to finance a college education in today's economy. Currently, the median family income is up one percent in ten years. However, the cost of a private education is up 33 percent and public education is not far behind. Fourteen percent of a family's income is spent on education. The average family spends 14 percent of its income on education and a majority of students graduate with a sizable debt, he said.

"I have worked to get tax credits for families with students in school. President Clinton has also proposed the Hope Scholarship to give everyone a $1,500 stipend for at least two years of college," Pascrell explained.

"Today, over half of the students attending college are in some sort of federal program. In New Jersey, there are 16,000 students in 84 schools taking part in the Federal Support Education Opportunity Grant, 364 of these students are at Montclair State. For the Federal Work Study Program, there are 13,000 students in 59 schools who have earned over 14 billion dollars. However, of the 370 students taking part in work study at Montclair State, many are dissatisfied with the program.

According to MSU sophomore Timothy Casey, "There aren't enough hours available. If am only granted $300 a semester and I work twenty hours a week, I'd be done in three weeks."

Pascrell informed the audience that their voices make a difference. "You drive the system and have a responsibility to complain. Many of the people who make the decisions are not sitting in your shoes and don't know what you are going through. Right now, the banks are not even exciting the possibilities."

Continued on p. 4

Campus services being streamlined to cut costs

BY PAULA LAICSA
STAFF WRITER

In an effort to compensate for the reduced aid from the state, the university has reorganized several campus services and programs and cut two million dollars from its operating budget for FY 1997, President Irvin Reid said.

Reid has realigned several campus services and programs, among five senior administrative officers, in order to reduce cost, increase productivity, and improve the efficiency of the university.

The areas being affected include, computing and telecommunication services, offices of the Registrar, athletics, and campus-wide maintenance.

Harry Schuckel, Executive Director of Budget and Planning, will assume responsibility for all academic and administrative computing and telecommunication services. Schuckel is currently carrying out the final phases of completely cabling the university for computer and cable TV access. He is also working on giving students access from the dorms to CD ROM's that bring up the catalog of the library.

Computer training for faculty and students, upgrading existing computers, and buying new computers are also high priorities on his list.

"We need more support in the computing area," Schuckel said. "The vision that we're having is - computing is a lot more important now to faculty and students and very important to the researchers."

Schuckel plans to engage students in his long-range planning efforts. "We hope to...

Continued on p. 4

BOT to hear Reid's tuition proposal today

BY JESSICA SANTORO
STAFF WRITER

The Board of Trustees (BOT) will be presented with President Irvin Reid's proposal for student tuition and fees at their meeting today at 4:30 in the Student Center Annex, room 419. SGA President Amy Fisher will be there to speak on the student's behalf.

The tuition increase depends mostly upon the state's ability to supply salary funds. Reid proposed a 5% increase if the state can supply the funding. If you are a full-time undergraduate student (32 credits per year) you will pay $182.45 more for the 1998 academic year. Graduate students will pay $8.60 more per credit.

If the state cannot supply the funding, the proposed increase is 9.3%, amounting to $355.44 per year for tuition and fees for undergraduates.

Graduate students will pay $16.00 more per credit.

"I'm graduating but I'm still telling the entire student body what to do about it. It's something that our student body needs to do something about," said Jill Levine, Director of Public Relations for the SGA.

Reid was not available to comment.

In his letter responding to Fisher's demand for an increase of no more than 4%, Reid says he is "sympathetic to affordable education for all students" but "we cannot remain static if we wish to maintain excellence". Reid encouraged MSU students to contact their elected officials in Trenton.

Reid's proposal to the BOT notes that almost $3 million is needed to fill the budget gap, and reducing budgets and increasing tuition and fees are

Continued on p. 4
International

Three dead, as rioting breaks out in the West Bank

A Jewish settler armed with a submachine gun shot dead a Palestinian in the divided West Bank town of Hebron on Tuesday. Rioting broke out and Israeli forces killed two more Palestinians.

Firing tear gas, rubber bullets and then live ammunition, soldiers injured more than 100 Palestinians. One rubber bullet struck the head of a teenager, who later died in surgery; another pierced the eye and brain of a man, who died after hours in a coma, hospital workers said.

The violence followed Monday's Washington summit between U.S. President Bill Clinton and Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, which made no apparent headway in easing tensions or resolving an impasse in Mideast peace.

UN report: Zairian rebels guilty of thousands of civilian deaths

As Tutsi-led Zairian rebels pounded Zaire's second largest city Tuesday, a U.N. human rights investigator said they were responsible for the deaths of thousands of civilians and Rwandan Hutu refugees during their fight to take over the country.

Forces led by Laurent Kabila were a few miles outside Lubumbashi, capital of the mineral-rich Shaba region, Tuesday morning. Government radio predicted Lubumbashi's imminent fall. With the capture of diamond capital Mbuji-Mayi on Friday, the rebels would control the basis of Zaire's economy.

But as the rebels pressed toward Zaire's capital Kinshasa, U.N. investigator Roberto Garreton submitted a report alleging that Kabila's troops have committed at least 40 mass murders in Northern and Southern Kivu provinces since their rebellion began last fall.

Rwandan trials are unfair, says Amnesty International

Most genocide trials in Rwanda are unfair, with defendants being presumed guilty unless proved innocent and confessions being obtained through torture, Amnesty International said Monday.

The London-based human rights group said judges failed to investigate defendants and the government should direct officials to exclude any confession obtained through torture.

Visit us on the web! http://www.campuspress.com
Open forum on GER proposals held

BY KEVIN P. HANCOCK
NEWS EDITOR

An open forum in front of the General Education Requirement Committee was held in the Student Center on Monday April 7, where faculty members got a chance voice their suggestions and concerns over the committee’s proposed GER models.

Representatives from several academic departments attended and spoke in the open forum, which was also open to students. However, no students attended the meeting.

“We heard” valuable points that the committee needs to evaluate and take a look at,” said Dr. Helen Roberts, Chair of the GER Committee. “We are going to evaluate this (open forum), and talk about the next step.”

The open forum was the second in two weeks for the committee. It was mainly advertised to faculty, administrators, librarians, and advisors through e-mail, and newsletters, said Roberts.

Dr. Joan Ficke, a representative from the College of Education and Human Services on the GER Committee, commented on the open forum.

“We were pleased that people were able to come and share their opinions, all of that will be factored into the process as we go forward,” she said.

Dr. Jack Samuels, of Health Professions, Physical Education, Recreation, and Leisure Studies (HIPPERLS), was one of several faculty members to speak before the committee. He expressed the concerns of students he had been in contact with on the issue.

“Overall I have found that students would like to at least have general education courses offered to them that are not redundant to prior learning. I don’t think they necessarily have a problem with taking many GER courses although I find that they think there are too many required Gen Ed classes,” said Samuels.

Roberts explained that the open forum was not advertised heavily towards students because of lack of interest. “We in the past have been involved with the SGA, at one point there were two student representatives on the committee but they are no longer attending by their own choice,” she said. “We have had sessions for students to come to, and to be very honest, the response has not been very good. We would have liked more student input, but the interest hasn’t been there.”

Ficke also expressed Roberts thoughts on the lack of student interest in the process.

The commission hopes that this report will serve as a living document to guide the future development and improvement of Greek Life at Montclair State University.

Dean of Students James Harris

The commission hopes that this report will serve as a living document to guide the future development and improvement of Greek Life at Montclair State University.

Chi Alpha, a Class Two Organization, was granted $325 to subsidize half the cost of purchasing audio equipment to be used at many of their events and meetings. The equipment will be used once or twice weekly for playing music and will be brought on conference attended by the organization.

The Hellenic Student Organization and the Turkish Students Association, Class Three Organizations, and the International Students Organization, a Class Two organization, were granted a total of $1600 for a Spring Festival. The festival will promote the cultures of the respective organizations, and will be free for all students. It is scheduled for April 24, and will take place in the Student Center mall.

The Psychology Club was granted $50 in order to host a speaker on autism. The event will be held on April 14, at 3:30 PM in Dickson Hall.

The legislature also passed a bill which grants money to the MSU Accounting Society. The organization was granted $1000 to cover some of the costs for a symposium and the money will be used to cover some of the costs for invitations, the hall and dinner, and awards. The event will be held April 17 at the Robin Hood Inn on Valley Road.

Finally, the legislature voted to put a fourth and final referendum question on the ballot in the elections which will begin on Wednesday, April 16. The proposal, if passed, will open the ability to appoint justices for the Judicial Branch to the President Pro Tempore of the Legislature, should the President fail to act within 14 days. The President will also have the ability to appoint, but will no longer have the exclusive ability to do so. The change will enable the Judicial branch to be functional even if the president does not act and there are vacant positions available, as outlined in the SGA Constitution.

Also discussed at the meeting were the student protest on Tuesday, April 15, and the elections starting the day after. All students are encouraged to be involved in both. Students interested in helping organize the protest may contact Jill Levine, Director of Public Relations, in the SGA office.

In Memory of..., Yvonne Charmion Collins

"Yvonne, Charmi, was a loving person who tried to bring love into the lives over everyone she touched. She gave the greatest gift, LOVE. Her radiance will be surely missed on earth; but God will surely enhance her radiance in Heaven."
get students doing work-study or those on a scholarship to help train the rest of computers in the learning process so the campus in the computing area,” he said.

Additionally, Schuckel will be asking the leadership of student organizations to find out from the students how the university can further incorporate computers in the learning process so they can fully use these resources.

The Office of the Registrar will be transferred to the division of Student Development and Campus Life. “This will provide a more seamless set of services for our students, and better integrate our work in enrollment planning and management by including Admissions and Financial Aid along with the Office of the Registrar in the same division,” Reid said.

The staff of this department will not be greatly affected. Denise De Blasio, head of the Registrar said, “I do not expect much change except for direct reporting.”

Dr. Gregory Waters, Deputy Provost and Acting Vice President for Institutional Advancement, will assume responsibility for all athletic and recreation programs. Reid said he will be responsible for integrating athletic outreach with alumni programs as well as expanding to other people. He will also be responsible for integrating summer camp and facilities rental programs into the Center for Continuing Education.

Most of the faculty involved think this is a good change,” said SGA Vice President, Lauren Pytleski is not certain. “I hope these administrative officers have the time to add these responsibilities (to their existing duties) and to properly administer them, if not it defeats the purpose.”

The Student Center, residence halls, and grounds maintenance will be combined into one department which will be headed by Patricia Hewitt, Vice President for Business and Finance.

“We anticipate that students will see a good return on their investment... at least in the maintenance areas. Things will be picked up because we will be focusing on that exclusively to make our statement,” Hewitt said. “Through combing these departments the university will save money by buying supplies through one area instead of a lot of little areas.”

Hewitt said, “the students will save aggravation, they will see a faster response time and have a clear way to report maintenance problems. If they don’t get a response from facilities maintenance they can e-mail or call me and I will make sure something gets done.”

“Frankly, I don’t think we will be saving money in the short run, it takes a while to identify savings,” Schuckel said. “The reorganization was not initiated as a budget saver process but instead a way to become more efficient.”

No faculty are being laid-off at this time due to this reorganization, but the hiring of new staff will be slowed down, Reid said.

In addition to this reorganization of campus services and programs, the university will cut two million dollars from their operating budget in order to minimize the tuition increase.

The administration does not know exactly where these cuts will come from yet. Schuckel said the administration is sending out reduction targets to the Vice Presidents of departments so they can look at their own areas and do the best job they can to protect the core activities and programs of the university.

Reid proposed an increase in student housing fees. The cost of a double room may increase $313.00 per semester. Almost half of this increase is a result of a cable system installed so students can have computer access and cable television.

Those on the 19 Meal/Week Plan may be paying $31.00 more per semester. However, the plan will offer 217 meal days instead of 216, and in response to student demands, the board is looking into extending meal hours.

The tuition hike will have a significant effect on many students. “I’m reconsidering living on campus for the coming fall semester specifically because of rising tuition and dormitory fees,” said Ronald Lee, junior, Fine Arts.

The elections are over but editor positions are still available! Come down to Student Center Annex Room113 and let us know if you are interested!
SUSPICIOUS PERSONS/ACTIVITIES

4/3 - A middle-aged man was spotted near Freeman Hall, peering into dorm windows, as well as parked cars in the area. The suspect fled prior to campus police arriving. Officers searched the campus for the suspect, but were unable to find him.

4/6 - An officer patrolling Clove Road at 1 a.m. saw three males flee the 300 building. They started a grill fire, which is in violation of Residence Life policy. The Unit Manager was notified, and the fire was extinguished.

CRIMINAL MISCHIEF

4/5 - A person unknown kicked and cracked a large pane glass window at the Student Center while outside waiting on line to enter a party held in the Student Center ballrooms.

4/6 - A Blanton Hall resident went to his parked car in lot 17, and found his windshield cracked.

FALSE PUBLIC ALARM

4/4 - A fire alarm was sounded in Bohn Hall. When the police arrived, they found a pulled 16th floor pull station. There were no signs of smoke or fire. The Clifton Fire Department responded to the alarm.

4/5 - A fire alarm was sounded in Bohn Hall. When the police arrived, they found a pulled 5th floor pull station. There were no signs of smoke or fire. The Clifton Fire Department responded to the alarm.

4/7 - A fire alarm was sounded in Blanton Hall. When the police arrived, they found a pulled 4th floor pull station. There were no signs of smoke or fire. The Little Falls Fire Department responded to the alarm.

THEFT

4/4 - A student left a laptop computer and a diskette box unattended in the library. When he turned, everything was gone.

4/7 - A Stone Hall resident reported a missing paycheck, which disappeared between February 4 through February 7.

HARASSMENT

4/7 - A woman reported receiving harassing phone calls for several months.

4/7 - A Clove Road resident reported receiving many unsigned cards and romantic letters.

ARREST/CONTROLLED DANGEROUS SUBSTANCE

4/5 - James M. Williams and a juvenile, both of East Orange, were arrested when they emptied their pockets while passing through a metal detector at a fraternity sponsored party at the Student Center ballroom. Both were charged with possession of CDS. Williams was additionally charged with resisting arrest. Williams was incarcerated in the Passaic County Jail after failing to make bail. The juvenile was released to his parents.

PROPERTY DAMAGE

4/7 - A light pole was knocked down between the Fine Arts building and Partridge Hall. Maintenance was contacted.

N.Y. Yankees vs. Anaheim Angels

Tuesday, April 15
Box Seats & Transportation for only $25.00!!
Bus leaves school at 5:30 pm.
Game time: 7:35 pm.
Tickets available at:
MSU Box Office- x5112
Student Activities Office 4th Floor SC- x4206.
now,” she said with a sigh. "Senioritis is when the brain is nowhere but on the glorious day outside, the future ahead, not on what needs to be done here and now," she said with a sigh. With spring break over and the count-
Multicultural Fashion Show raises funds for charity

Students united to benefit the Sickle Cell Anemia Foundation at the first Multicultural Unity Fashion Show on Tuesday night in the Student Center Ballroom. The show titled “Faces of Unity” was designed by James E. Harris, Dean of Students, to bring together MSU students of all backgrounds. Dean Harris put together a committee, comprised of Kelly Martin, Christina Piedra, Elizabeth Jiminian, Alice Hanoe, Wendy Salcedo and Bernice Duran, in charge of getting the show together.

The emcee of the event was Adele Wilson. The six women, along with 20 other models, came out dressed in everything from lingerie to formal wear. Nocturnal Productions supplied everyone with their entertaining variety of music, ranging from tribal house to old school hip-hop.

The show began with “All About You” which was intended to express the models’ individuality. The models wore clothing of their choice and style, yet at the same time they showed their unity as they all modeled in black.

The second scene was entitled Spring Fever and for this the models wore clothes from Banana Republic, Lerner, Structure and Eddie Bauer. Climbing the Corporate Ladder came next; Lafayette 148 and Ann Taylor supplied the females with their suits.

A lingerie scene energized the crowd as the models came out dressed in a professional designer’s creations. Sexual Healing was an unexpected twist that spiced up the show. Some cultures were represented in keeping with the theme in Uniting Diversity, the multicultural scene. The models proudly wore clothes of their native cultures, such as Africa, Columbia, El Salvador, Dominican Republic and India.

The crowd was kept entertained during the intermission by a group of talented ladies who sang acapella. Following the intermission was the Swimwear Scene. A Heatwave overcame the room as models walked the runway to reggae music wearing swimsuits from California Sunshine. The models then went Back to Basics wearing casual clothes from Oaktree, Lerners, and Banana Republic. It then came time for Midnight Magic, an elegant formal scene, for which the males were sponsored by A. J. Quails International.

The surprise of the night was when a wedding scene, “I Finally Found Someone,” completed the formal wear. David Leon was dressed in a tuxedo from Deluxe Tuxedos. He was followed by six female models wearing dresses from La Faye, by Angelica Fashions. The bride, Christina Piedra, wore a beautiful satin gown and veil, also provided by Angelica Fashions.

Finally, the crowd was hit with the essential impact of the club scene. All of the models were sponsored by Hot Topic and the stores sponsoring the event are located in Willowbrook, Garden State Plaza, and Newport Center Malls.

Craig lecture informs students on eating disorders

There are three main criteria, defined in 1980, that must be met in order to be diagnosed with Anorexia Nervosa: body weight that is 15 percent below the standard for that height, menstruation ceases for two months or longer and an overcoming fear of being fat. People literally “starve themselves to death.” After a long period of starvation the body begins to show both physiological and psychological signs of erosion. Physical affects include cessation of menstruation, slowing of heart beat, lowering of blood pressure, bones become brittle, constipation, joints swell, and anemia; if left untreated eventually death. Although they do not eat, there becomes an obsession with food; cooking elaborate meals and reading cookbooks are just some of the activities anorexics engage in. This may seem strange, but it is the body’s way of trying to get the person to eat by flooding their thoughts with food. Once this has been going on for long periods of time the feelings of hunger and being full start to blend together. People with Anorexia Nervosa may also exhibit obsessive/compulsive behavior such as: cutting food into tiny pieces and counting how many times a day/meal they chew. Anorexia Nervosa can also be divided into two separate subtypes: restrictor type and the bulimic type. As it sounds, people who fit the restrictor type starve themselves, eating as little as possible. Even though people with the bulimic type starve themselves, they also go for periods of binging and then purging.

Binging, purging and a fear of fatness are all criteria of Bulimia, as defined in 1986. Binging is defined as eating unusually large servings of food that exceed the amounts for normal people. Bulimics then purge themselves by inducing vomiting or overuse of laxatives and/or diuretics. Another common activity is to have a eating binge followed by excessive exercise to burn the calories. “Often people don’t know...,” said Craig.

Continued on p. 9
Healthy Living

by Rob Kenney Staff Writer

How can you say you are stressed out all the time? Very easily. Just don’t do anything about it like most people do.

Are you ready to make your life a lot better? I think you are. You just have to do it. It’s not easy to do but the rewards are tremendous.

Just eating the right foods does not mean you are healthy. Most healthy people are happy. Here is a list to get you started feeling better about yourself:

- If you have a million things going on write them down on paper.
- Take methodical approaches to remember things.
- Set a time to see a tutor for your worst class.
- Make an effort to get to places on time.
- Try to compliment at least three people a day.
- Be nice to people who are mean. Anyone can be nice to nice people!
- If you hate your job—get a new one. You only live once.
- Settle any grudges you have. What good is it to carry a grudge?
- Start putting money, that you would spend on things other than necessities, aside. Then pay your outstanding debts.
- Go to a gym. Panzer (here on campus) is an excellent choice because it’s free.
- Start putting money, that you would spend on things other than necessities, aside. Then pay your outstanding debts.
- Drink a lot of water.
- Throw someone’s paper closer to their doorstep.
- Don’t ramble on about something.
- Leave the last cookie for someone else.
- Don’t waste time getting down. Get up.

The Real World

by the students of the Cooperative Education Program

I started this semester as a co-op student with many dreams and aspirations; that it would be exciting to work, to learn, and to move forward with my career. I married 9 years ago, had three children, and with the support of my family I continued my studies. My co-op is at UMDNJ, in the Extended Care Program of the University Behavioral Health Care Department. I am a counselor and I work directly with members.

I realized that it takes more than just hard work to be a co-op student, a wife, and mother of three. I have to be a superwoman, everyday asking myself questions like: Can the laundry wait one more day? Who will cook dinner? Who will be there to pick up the kids from school? Who will stay home from work today because the three year old has fever? How do I make time to study? Decisions like these have to be made everyday.

I see that co-op is a great opportunity. It is a chance to get a taste of what I want to do with my career. Through this program I am getting experience and learning about my field in the social service area on the job with well trained co-workers. I am being taught directly and hands on about the job. This co-op will help me decide whether I would like to work with mentally ill adults, with children, or in a different area altogether.

Working with mentally ill adults is fulfilling. What I enjoy most about co-op placement is counseling and educating mentally ill adults, seeing how they improve and become part of society again. Also, giving them a sense of belonging, giving them skills to survive in this difficult society. So far in the three months that I’ve been working in this co-op I learned so much about my career, about myself, about how important it is to look at family life and establish what is important to you. Meeting the needs of my job and family is hard because at some point one or the other will have to be set aside. Making the right choice in those situations must help all who are involved.

I have also learned how wonderful it is to have a companion that helps in the most difficult times, that gives support where and when I need it most. I know that what I am doing is important to my family and I. I am an example to my children that with hard work anything can be accomplished.

Co-op is for anyone, if I, a wife and mother of three can fulfill my duties at home and take this valuable chance to gain knowledge and experience through a co-op program, you can. Don’t pass up this great opportunity. I’m glad I didn’t.

Did you know?

by Garry Doxy Staff Writer

It is no secret by now that the tobacco industry is under heavy pressure brought on by class action suits all over the country. The lawsuits have their basis on the assumption that the tobacco industry knowingly sells and markets their products even though they know that the latter cause injuries and deadly diseases.

Last July, CNNfn reported that in a secret report R. J. Reynolds, a leader in the tobacco industry, admitted it was targeting young adults for their products.

The column ran for nine years, starting in 1953, and was called “On Campus”. It was written by Max Shulman, who wrote comic stories such as I was a Teenage Dwarf and The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis. In bold letters at the bottom of each entry, R. J. Reynolds said: The makers of Marlboro will bring you this uncensored free style column 26 times during the school year.

The column, of course, was not void of any advertisements. “I think Marlboro’s flavor represents the pinnacle of the tobacco constituent’s art. I think Marlboro’s filter represents the pinnacle of the filter-maker’s art. I think Marlboro’s blend and style represent the pinnacle of the package’s art,” said Max Shulman in a October 1962 entry.

Though his article was emphasized the need to be paid for any job well done, he said nonetheless: “I think Marlboro is a pleasure and a treasure, and I fairly burst with pride that I have been chosen to speak for Marlboro on your campus.”

These were innocent times for little did he know and for that matter our consumer society know that the tobacco industry, perhaps as early as 1953, was targeting young adults for their products.

CAMPUS CALENDAR

April 10

Pick up another copy of the Montclarion for your parents to read!!!

April 11

Conference on the Americans with Disabilities Act. SC Players’ Theatre 1 p.m.

April 12

Saturday - Pride in Paterson Day, Raceway Cleanup, 9:30 a.m. call x 5230.

April 13

Sunday - Mass. 11 a.m. Dickson Hall, room 178.

April 14

Amnesty International Meeting. 2 p.m., Student Center rm 408.

April 15

Tuition Increase Walkout “Strike the Hike” SC Quad. noon.

April 16

Comedy Show. Ratt. 8 p.m.

April 17

Salsa Meringue Workshop, 5p.m. SC Annex 100.

April 18

PRIDE meeting 5:30 p.m. SC rm 418.

April 19

Class One Concerts general membership meetings. SC Cafe C. 4 p.m.

April 20

Chi Alpha Christian Fellowship. 7:30 p.m. SC rm. 412.
Log On MSU

by Rita Bronnenkant

April 19th is the second anniversary of the OKC bombing. Gleason Sackman, moderator of the Net-Happenings mailing list, has put up a memorial graphic (gif) for the 168 men, women and children who perished in the bombing of the Murrah Federal Building. Find it at http://rnet.com/~gleason/kl2.html. If you have a website, feel free to copy the gif file and add it to your site. If you do so, please email gleason@rnet.com to let him know about it.

April is Child Abuse Prevention Month. See Mike Schelling's site for info on child abuse, missing children, etc., at http://www.radix.net/~mschelling/. Don't miss his link to the Gates Gate group is still a hot news item.

Think you might have known any of them, they were talented in this field. Think you might have known any of these people? There's a list of their names at http://www.woe.com/stories/cgi/story.cgi?id=32215563-207. LA Times columnist Lawrence Magid has an online article about the cult, http://www.larrysworld.com/darkside.htm. We all know who Bill Gates is, right? If it wasn't for him, many of us might not be using a computer right now. We know he's rich, filthy rich. But how does one comprehend the magnitude of Gates' wealth? This very puzzle kept Phil Shapiro of the Community Technology Centers' Network awake nights! Phil calculated that Bill's net worth of $20 billion would be 200 tons of $100 bills! Or you could think of it as 18.9 miles of $100 bills. Help

We don't have a writer for next year's Log on @ MSU column. If you know anything about computers, or even just how to turn one on - Call Sue, x5216, and make history!!

---

Dear Career Services... Q&A

I like math, but I don't want to teach. What else can I do with a math major? Because you enjoy working with numbers, you have a great many choices about the forum you choose to work in: private business and industry, the public sector (local, state or federal government), and nonprofit organizations.

Almost every bureau and branch of the federal government employs mathematicians in some capacity. Mathematicians, statisticians, operations researchers, and actuaries work in such agencies as the Department of Health and Human Services, the Department of Defense and the National Security Agency.

The increasing use of mathematical ideas in many disciplines has blurred somewhat the distinction between pure and applied mathematics. Many recent advances in physics, chemistry and astronomy rely heavily upon mathematical ideas, and the biological sciences increasingly use mathematical models.

DISORDERS, Cont. from p. 7

"bulimics are often normal weight..." People who suffer from this disorder are very secretive, they feel guilty and ashamed that they are doing it, but can not stop.

Eating Disorder Not Otherwise Specified is a recent distinction that was developed because their were so many people showing signs of the other two problems, but did not meet all the criteria. It covers binge eating without purging, obesity, people who show signs of anorexia but they don't meet the weight criteria or still have their periods and people who put food in their mouth , chew it and then spit it out.

All disorders are characterized by a negative self image that depends heavily on weight. There are many misconceptions about food and calories; one is that eating anything causes weight gain. Depression and substance abuse are also connected with this disorder. There are also control issues, anorexics tend to feel that they are very in control of their actions while just the opposite is true for those that binge eat.

Dieting is different from having an eating disorder but to be sure that an obsession is not developing the Eating Disorder Inventory, a scale measurement, can be used: 1. a want to be thin, 2. body dissatisfaction, 3. bulimic behaviors, 4. perfectionist, 5. fear of maturing, 6. sense of inefficacy and 7. awareness of internal sensation (hungry, full). If the score is high for any of these, especially the last four, then a doctor might advise further evaluation. The difference is in the degree to which the dieter is concerned with these issues and a person with an eating disorder is.

"The sooner the treatment is the better," said Sharon Craig. Start with a medical examination including blood tests to check the nutrition levels and other physical side affects. If someone is extremely overweight, constantly binges and purges and cannot stop or if there is a risk of suicide the person should be hospitalized. Medical, psychological and nutritional treatment is needed to help a person with an eating disorder.

Not only must the physical side effects be taken care of but the underlying causes of the problem must be addressed before a person can get better. Ms. Craig suggested keeping a diary that can give a clue to the triggers of the action. Once the triggers are identified then an alternate behavior pattern must be decided on. Individual therapy and group therapy can prove to be very helpful, also family therapy.

There is a lot we still do not know about these disorders; "Its come to a point where we have a long way to go," she said. If you know anyone who may be at risk do not let it go untreated, it could be a matter of life or death.
Battle of the Bands proves to be musically diverse

BY JODI KASTEL
ASSISTANT ARTS EDITOR

Class One Concerts’ Battle of the Bands last Thursday night in the Ratt proved that the music scene at MSU is alive and kicking. Twelve bands competed in all, four of which won honors.

First place and a spot in Sunday’s Outdoor Jam lineup with Buffalo Tom and G Love and Special Sauce was Jah Pickney, a reggae-spiked seven-member groove-fest. Right Turn Eddie and Mo’ Funk tied for second, while the campus staple Ply garnered third place accolades.

For Sale kicked off the competition, featuring the talents of Sue Remus (lead guitar), Jay Clark (drums), and Dave Hilton (bass), followed by Free Food, a high-energy quartet. First alternate Treason played an interesting contrast—a ballad, followed by a hardcore scream-a-thon.

Ply had the crowd laughing and singing along with their a cappella stylings and high-class wardrobe. Judy Aron, Andrew Harding, John Mazzarella, and the charismatic Dan Patak woke the crowd up and had the judges chuckling.

Mo’ Funk picked up where Ply left off and rocked the Ratt with “Mustang Sally,” and “Try A Little Tenderness,” Otis Redding’s hit made infamous in Pretty in Pink when Ducky (John Cryer) strutted around Andi’s (Molly Ringwald) record shop. Toby Mutter, featuring a left-handed drummer, performed next, succeeded by the ever-entertaining Family Jewels. They played my favorite Jewels’ tune, “Chickenman From Atlantis,” complete with costumed chickenman. The Family Jewels are Brian Barry (vocals), John Underwood (guitar, MIDI sequenced sound), Mike Miller (keyboards), Mike Underwood (drums), and Brian Rafferty (bass).

The evening’s victors, Jah Pickney, mellowed things out a bit with their smooth percussion funk/hip hop. Singing “Search,” “Just Us,” and “What Is Love,” they clinched their first place spot with professionalism and talent. Jah Pickney is Exodus (lead vocals), Noel (lyricist, spoken-word artist), Ed (bass), Luhs I Nue’C T ’ Unue.

Unity binds MSU’s International Talent Expo II

BY NAOKI WHITE
STAFF WRITER

As I entered the Ratt in the Student Center, I was greeted by rhythmic sounds of Latin music, compliments of MSU’s own Dave Lalla. The sisters of Sigma Psi Phi sorority, were hosting, the Second Annual International Talent Expo.

The talent expo started with a presentation by Winifred Quinn of the Wellspring program. Quinn discussed addiction, how it affected her family and what it took to get through it. Quinn stated, “For addictive behavior to stop, the addict must want to stop.” She ended by saying that wellness is a physical, cultural, spiritual, and intellectual state of well-being.

The international expo included a variety of performers, with a vast array of talents. These MSU students expressed their talents through song, dance, instrument, and poetry.

MSU students were asked what they thought about the show. Aramis Gutierrez said, “The show was very entertaining. I’m glad that we have something cultural on campus that everyone could enjoy.” Joshua Stalsworth said, “I enjoyed the show. I like seeing my peers get up and show talent and appreciation for their culture.” Alissa Lennon commented by saying, “I think it’s nice that we are able to have a multicultural affair that enables us to express our talents. Everyone should take the time to realize the vast diversity on campus, and the benefits which can be obtained through that diversity.” Earl Leach stated, “The show was a great cultural affair,” he appreciated the fact that the performers, as well as the audience, was diverse.

It is not too often that I’m able to attend campus affairs and I was glad that I attended this event. The International Talent Expo was an excellent display of the multi-cultural environment that MSU has, and the unity that is sometimes a rarity on other campuses.
Adam Boyette’s “At Random,” gamesome spirit

BY ANDREW TEHERAN
STAFF WRITER

Adam Boyette’s 14-piece collection, “At Random,” of random figures in random situations is, in the end, not so random after all.

The current show at Gallery 3 1/2 which features his work is unified by common handling of the figure. It is an approach that is influenced by his illustration background. It is a practice in a hip contemporary mentality, fun to see and to participate. You can imagine these figures in an animated short film set to an abstract techno-music sprawl. There is a carefree humor to this work which communicates a conscious effort to not take oneself too seriously.

“My work is ultimately about inciting a curiosity or (even a) partial storytelling of a situation.”

This narrative aspect of Adam Boyette’s work unfolds in each piece as random vignettes of individuals in situations. In Terrible Toucan, a hanged man, who is still conscious, is about to be saved by a bird which pecks away at the branch from which he is swinging. There, his storytelling ends. That tension is meant to manifest itself as curiosity in the viewer. What can also be seen in this work is the artist’s concern for pushing the work into different mediums. Alternate types of paper are woven to a ramshackle frame in the piece. The precarious situation is mimicked in the off-kilter frame. It is painting, sculpture, illustration, and paper making at the same time.

Other works in the show have a color scheme influenced by Paul Klee. Backgrounds of geometric shapes provide a formal structure to the central figures. The colorful and gamesome spirit of this show is a splendid contrast to art’s more dour circles. This art belongs to the current year, not only in date, but in character. Adam Boyette’s “At Random” will run until April 17.

Inventing the Abbotts, a movie for true romantics

BY FRANCA DI MARIO
STAFF WRITER

T wentieth Century Fox’s latest release, Inventing the Abbotts, is a movie about the relationship between the wealthy Abbotts and the working-class Holts, and the problems that arise between them. It’s also about the love that develops between Doug Holt and Pam Abbott, despite their families’ wishes.

The main actors give very admirable and interesting performances. Liv Tyler plays Pam Abbott, Joaquin Phoenix plays Doug Holt, Billy Crudup plays Jacey Holt, and Kathy Baker, plays Helen Holt, to name a few.

Crudup is very charming and convincing as the handsome, strong-willed J.C. He is a womanizer, and an opportunistic, but he is just so convincing that you tend to overlook it. He wants a piece of the Abbott family, and the one way he feels he can do so is by seducing the Abbott girls, beginning with Eleanor (Jennifer Connelly).

He seems too preoccupied with what happened between his father and Lloyd Abbott (Will Patton). He feels the Abbotts owe him something, because the Abbotts are now the owners of his father’s patent. J.C. feels he and his brother are the rightful owners of the patent.

Phoenix, who plays Doug Holt, couldn’t be more different. His character is shy, naive, and is not really fascinated by the Abbotts as his brother J.C. Doug is just as handsome as J.C., but provides a good contrast to him. Despite his lack of self-confidence, Doug has a charm all his own. He and Pam, the youngest Abbott girl, become friends and don’t seem to care about each other’s social status.

Liv Tyler is very interesting as the youngest Abbott. She brings about a certain innocence to her character, that makes her fascinating. She and Doug grow closer the more time goes by and she even declares her love to him. But despite this, she is still torn between her love for Doug and her love for her father. In the end, her loyalty to her father that brings a temporary end to her relationship with Doug. That loyalty is displaced by her telling her father about J.C.’s involvement with Alice (Joanna Going), the eldest Abbott daughter. Once again J.C. has seduced another Abbott girl, and once again Lloyd Abbott puts an end to it.

Then, three years later, we see

Doug in college. He and Pam run into each other and are reunited. It seems that perhaps their friendship has been restored, until we learn that J.C. has made another conquest and this time it’s Pam. It’s very touching to see Doug’s reaction to this, and one can only empathize.

The thing that makes this movie memorable is the relationship between Pam and Doug, which overcomes all the obstacles. Their love for one another blossoms and doesn’t wither away. It is that love that makes this film heart warming. It wouldn’t be fair to tell the ending of the movie, but it’s reasonable to say that it’s a happy one. Though it takes a while to understand why things happen the way they do, this movie gets its point across. I don’t think Inventing the Abbotts is a movie for just anyone. This movie is for true romantics.
Women in Reggae stir it up: two album reviews

BY RICK ANDERSON
COLLEGE PRESS SERVICE

Bringing to light the long-ignored talents of women in reggae has become something of a marketing trend lately, resulting in several fine recent compilations. Two of the best are Roots Daughters, a reissued collection of English singers originally produced in 1988 by the inimitable Mad Professor, and the similarly titled Women in Reggae: Roots Daughters, a generous anthology of roots anthems by women both famous (Judy Mowatt, Sister Carol) and obscure (Senya, Shan-I Benjamen) on the Shanachie label.

Gray, a.k.a. “The Grizza,” (guitar), Claude (saxophone), Vidio (drums), and MSU’s alumnus Bernie (percussion).

Together for about two years, Jah Pickney has toured the area, concentrating their efforts in the NYC area. They haven’t toured for the last two months, choosing to concentrate their time on penning new songs. After Sunday’s show, their next gig will be at Maxwell’s in Hoboken on May 10.

West Milford’s Milwaukeeans performed a dichotomy of sorts, a song about falling in love, and a song about getting dumped! Suns of Babs followed, pleasing the crowd with original songs, “Not the One” and “My Way.” Brothers Steve (lead vocals, guitar), and Dave (guitar, vocals) Piperno, Chris Ball (drums) and Dave Hilton, a bass triple-threat, competing in three different bands throughout the night, comprise the campus favorite.

Ending the evening with a bang was Right Turn Eddie, a brass-laden ska outfit that turned the nearly dormant crowd into skanking fools! They kept the tempo going, playing more than the allotted two songs, though no one seemed to mind. Right Turn Eddie even had the judges dancing and toe-tapping in their seats.

Right Turn Eddie, Mo’ Funk, and Ply will be playing at the Walkout Strike.

The Ariwa set has the edge in terms of freshness. Mad Professor is one of the finest living reggae producers, his signature sound is crisp and digitally clean, but still grounded in the heavy, one-drop rhythm that distinguishes “roots” or “cultural” reggae from the modern, dancehall sound. The women featured on this collection are not especially well known in the United States, though reggae fans will probably recognize Sandra Cross and Kofi’s names. The album’s weakness is in the sameness of the singers-Mad Professor has an uncanny ability to make all women sound alike. But it’s a good sound, and several tracks stand out, including the haunting “Fire,” (sung by Fabienne) and Sister Audrey’s “English Girl!” (“Don’t call me no English girl! Just call me by my name”). A number of songs are appended by the Professor’s dub mixes, which are always welcome.

The Shanachie album is longer and more varied, with a focus on tracks from the late 1970s, reggae’s classical period. These fifteen tracks round up the usual suspects- Rita Marley’s ganja classic “One Draw,” Marcia Griffiths’ “Steppin’ out of Babylon,” just to name two- but they also include a few obscure gems. “International Style” is a charming deejay track from early in the distinguished career of Sister Carol, and Marcia Aitken does a commendable job of responding to the Meditations’ misogynist classic “Woman Is Like A Shadow” by altering its lyrics and rendering it “Narrow-Minded Man.” I think her version may even be better than the original. Shan-I Benjamen (of the Ariwa posse) makes an appearance with the nutritional ode “Look After Your Structure” and brings along the Mad Professor for a dub appearance. Overall, this may be the more satisfying of the two albums, but there’s no reason not to get both.

Write for the arts... hell, read the arts!

contact Erin or Jodi, x5169

THEATRE SERIES
Department of Theatre and Dance
presents

PIPPIN
the magical musical
April 3, 4, 5, 10, 11, 12 at 8 pm
April 6 & 11 at 2 pm

STUDIO THEATRE
call (201) 655-5112 for reservations

If you are sick and tired of being sick and tired, stop getting buffeted by time and tide, learn how to control the reins of your own horse by starting your journey to self discovery.

A consultation should provide a new perspective and insight regarding choice or change of career, personal relationships, and pending changes in your lifestyle.

SERAH
Wisdom Of The Ages
Call For An Apppt.
1-888-248-7667
Feminism hits the road: Lilith Fair this summer

by Jodi Kastel
Assistant Arts Editor

This summer, Sarah McLachlan is taking her feminist convictions on the road. A festival tour celebrating women in music, the Lilith Fair boasts some of the biggest names in the music industry today, who also happen to be women.

Jewel, Paula Cole, Neneh Cherry, Lisa Loeb, Mary Chapin Carpenter, Aimee Mann, Autour de Lucie, Wild Colonials, Victoria Williams, and Kelly Willis have confirmed their spots on the bill. Contacted, but unconfirmed, are Tori Amos, the Indigo Girls, Suzanne Vega, Joni Mitchell, Emmylou Harris, Natalie Merchant, Tracy Chapman, Annie Lennox, Veruca Salt, and Ani DiFranco.

McLachlan explains the genesis of the tour: "Three years ago, promoters were really scared to put two women on the same bill. Now, the climate has changed dramatically. We've proved it can be done. This tour is a huge step in the right direction for women's rights, but it isn't a soapbox for extremist feminism. It isn't about disdaining men, it's about quality in every aspect of life between men and women-so that's part feminist, part humanist. I just think everybody is equal. It doesn't exclude men, it simply celebrates women."

Lilith is historically believed to be the world's first feminist. Legend has it she was Adam's first wife, but Adam cast her aside because she was too headstrong. He enlisted God's help and had Lilith banished from the Garden of Eden, and replaced her with the more complacent Eve.

Before God banished her, he sent three angels to try to reason with Lilith, who had fallen in with the demon crowd. The intervention didn't work and Lilith remained outside of Eden, joining forces with the dark side and causing mayhem and destruction. A more positive take on the legend of Lilith asserts that her actions were all in the name of the fight for women's rights.

Can the Lilith Fair compete with established summer touring monsters like HORDE and Lollapalooza? Perhaps it appeals to a different music segment than the majority of the acts on HORDE (Blues and Folk) and Lollapalooza (Alternative and Electronica). Tickets go on sale as the summer draws closer, and touring begins in July.

Sound reasoning: Hand It Over, Dinosaur Jr ain't extinct yet

by Keith Harrison
College Press Service

Old off on that obituary. Legendary loner and guitar hero J Mascis has new life pumping through the bones of his longtime project, Dinosaur Jr.

Hand It Over features a few unexpected instrumental flourishes—particularly the banjo (!) that leads the understated "Gettin Rough." But at its heart, this disc retains the same basic Mascis elements that have marked Dino Jr efforts for years: lonesome misfit lyrics; fuzzy, Neil Young-is-god guitar work, and pinched, fragile vocals.

This time out, though, Mascis keeps his tendency to meander in check, and he's unveiling a remarkably sharp set of songs.

"I Don't Think" opens with martial riffing and then slides into a sprawling chorus, with Mascis' distinctive croon floating above the ruckus, while "I'm Insane" rides a heady, buzzing hook from start to finish. Elsewhere, "Never Bought It" and "Can't We Move This" exemplify the two extremes of Dino Jr's addictive sound, with the former offering a gentle respite, and the latter buffeting listeners with a series of guitar squalls.

"Alone" do Mascis' lonely guy lyrics threaten to collapse into a truly annoying whine, but he saves himself with regular bursts that blast away notions of self-pity.

In a business where most bands have a creative lifespan of five years max, Mascis has his Dinosaur on the move once again.

Read the Arts Section on the Internet at http://www.campuspress.com
A response to Gibbs’ “personal attacks”

In debating whether or not to write a rebuttal to Will Gibbs’ article, I thought about the source of the criticism. As a new legislator, Will seems to be a little confused. The SGA may sometimes be hostile, as any heated debate can be, but one needs to realize that business is separate from personal feelings. Maybe only a seasoned veteran or a certain type of person can make the distinction between the two. As for saying the SGA is full of politics and rhetoric, I would tend to agree. It is the president, he would not embarrass himself at the SGA dedication. I suggest he rides his bike on down to the SGA office on any given night to see our president.

Regarding the strike on April 15, it seems that Mr. Gibbs has not been paying attention at the meetings, which would also explain his lack of understanding of Robert’s Rules. It has been consistently asserted that this is a non-partisan strike. I don’t really care who is in the Governor’s office, I just want to see an emphasis on educating the children of this country. Never once have I bashed Governor Whitman, as a matter of fact I like her. Even though I may disagree with her budget, since when does that constitute bashing? Maybe my definition of bashing is different than Mr. Gibbs.

Bashing is exactly what Mr. Gibbs attempted to do in his article. I noticed not only did he criticize anyone that has ever had a different opinion that he does, but he chose to personally attack me and the SGA President. I have no problem, and neither does our president, with being criticized when it is done constructively and with tact and respect that is shown by Mr. Gibbs’ colleagues at the Montclarion. I was well aware when I took this position that it would open me up to public criticism. I have also been extremely impressed by the fact that every critique of my office has been constructive and never personal... until now.

My major problem with Mr. Gibbs’ column and what prompted me to write a rebuttal, is the parallel he drew to the intensity of my voice to that of a “truck stop waitress”. Not only was it uncalled for, but the stereotype of such people shows obvious ignorance on the part of Mr. Gibbs. In his column he has continually referred to God and I believe him to be a religious person. Does “love thy neighbor” ring a bell to him or was he not paying attention that day in Sunday School? Who is he to judge the intensity of a truck stop waitress’ voice, or make conclusions about their character? Also, why a truck stop waitress, why not a truck driver or a truck stop owner? Is Mr. Gibbs so caught up in stereotypes that he pigeon hole’s an authoritative female into a traditionally women’s profession? Do women in power make him so nervous that he must place them into a 1950’s gender role?

Before he throws those stones out of his glass house, maybe Mr. Gibbs should educate himself. I truly hope that if Mr. Gibbs has any further concerns, he addresses them to me personally. I’d be more than happy to discuss anything he wishes. I hope I am wrong in assuming that Mr. Gibbs is the type of person who would rather bash the people trying to make a difference, than to take responsibility and make change, but I doubt that I am.

Lauren Pytlewski, SGA Executive Vice President

Reflections of another first-year MSU legislator – but in defense of the SGA

I am writing in reference to the reflections of Will Gibbs on his first few months as an SGA legislator. I, like Mr. Gibbs, have been a legislator for only a few months and have seen what goes on both during the meetings and behind the scenes of the SGA, and though Mr. Gibbs and I are in the same room on Wednesdays at 4:00, I have not yet seen the picture of this horrid SGA that he attempts to paint.

First, Mr. Gibbs attacked the veteran legislators by saying that they “abuse parliamentary procedure” and constantly interrupt people during the meetings. This is coming from a legislator who, last Wednesday, needed the vice president or “truck stop waitress” to explain to him what the President Pro Tempore position was. How can Mr. Gibbs dare to comment on parliamentary procedure when he himself is ignorant of our rules?

Second, Mr. Gibbs has the nerve to attack our executive board. From my first day as a legislator I was welcomed and encouraged by our president of the SGA and since that time she has always listened to my concerns and answered questions I have had on various topics. If Mr. Gibbs doubts our president’s dedication I suggest he rides his bike on down to the SGA Office on any given night to see our president hard at work for those students who have already gone home. Perhaps if Mr. Gibbs did go in to talk with our president, he would not embarrass himself at the SGA meetings or in the Montclarion.

Third, as far as the vice president is concerned, it is true that she tends to raise her voice, though I find it very disrespectful to refer to her as a “truck stop waitress”. It is only when students become disrespectful by doing something like violently swirling at the legislators, that she will raise her voice over the confusion. Our vice president maintains order during these meetings, which is not an easy job to do.

Lastly, Mr. Gibbs criticizes legislators for asking organizations where the money they are asking for is going. I again need to point out to the uninformed Mr. Gibbs that this semester the legislature has not voted down a single request from an organization for money. But besides this point, it is every legislators responsibility to see that the money they are giving out is serving the greater good for the students. Perhaps Mr. Gibbs would like to see the SGA hand out money to every student on campus without knowing or caring what they do with it, but that is not the way one handle a corporation with a $600,000 budget.

In the last few months I have seen an organization of students turn itself around. There are still a few problems but it is time people start taking responsibility rather than blame the people who are carrying the entire burden themselves. Mr. Gibbs is right, bad legislators. I keep the SGA from fully cleaning up its act. I can think of one off the top of my head.

Bill Guardino, Ecology

Montclarion Mailbag

The time for MSU students to act is now. There are two opportunities for you to do this. However, in order for either of these opportunities to work, all of us must get involved.

The first chance to have your voice heard is today at 4:30. The BOT will be meeting then and SGA President Amy has been granted the opportunity to speak to the BOT and President Reid on behalf of the MSU students. Your attendance there is vital.

If you don’t have class (or don’t feel like going to class), or just want to come out and support your SGA, you should be at the BOT meeting tomorrow. Your presence at the meeting will send a louder message and be more supportive of the “strike the hike” philosophy then most can fathom. Again, if you have the time, come out today at 4:30.

Your second chance is on April 15th. You’ve been hearing about this strike, but on Tuesday it will become a reality. And there will be bands, free food, and prizes – which may make it seem like party – but it is not. The message of the strike is deadly serious. President Reid has proposed to raise tuition as much as 9.8 percent. The rally has been organized to send a message and ask him not to raise tuition more than 4 percent. This request is serious, important, and well thought out.

The SGA and MSU students realize the costs go up from year to year and therefore, they are not asking for no tuition increase – rather a more reasonable one. The SGA has studied this issue and come up with several ways to cut costs and generate revenue from sources other than increasing tuition. The administration has not acted on these suggestions.

The SGA also understands that, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the cost of living increase in New Jersey is 2.9 percent, and that MSU must pay almost $3 million in professors’ salary increases. That is why they are requesting that tuition not be raised more than 4 percent.

The proposal by the SGA is both realistic and reasonable. Each year President Reid and the BOT raise tuition more and more. It is time that they show some fiscal restraint and make cuts or increase fees wherever possible. This year MSU students and the SGA are telling President Reid, “No more than 4 percent.” We are realistic, President Reid should be too! A 10 percent increase is too much and there are places that he can cut costs. So...On April 15 you should “Strike the hike.”
The Montclarion Mailbag

MSU’s security improvements are a waste

Congratulations on another complete waste of MSU’s resources, both human and financial. Just another useless expenditure of students fees on a token gesture of concern. The recent increase in security has only resulted in a decrease of accessibility to campus for legitimate students.

MSU has been a target for crime for a long time. Few students have attended the university without being affected by a car theft, assault, sexual assault, harassment or petty theft. Even without being a victim, just the knowledge of crime on campus has caused many students to become unnecessarily paranoid. The university’s solution to this problem was to spend additional money on security guards, manned security booths at the entrances, and gates at the secondary campus entrances.

The campus security guards serve as someone to wave at as we drive through the gates. The security booths provide shelter from the rain for the security staff. The gates that are locked after hours provide Clove residents a scenic drive through Upper Montclair. None of these measures has provided a significant obstacle to deter criminals. An unauthorized individual can gain entry to the campus by walking passed the security booths or one of the unguarded accesses, taking the New Jersey Transit bus onto campus, or just getting a ride with an MSU student. Once the individual gains access, exiting the campus is even easier.

Trying to guard a perimeter that cannot be guarded is a waste. These booths and gates serve as an inconvenience to the student body and the faculty. Instead, we could relocate the security booths to strategic locations throughout the campus. These locations would include the quarry parking lot and areas between campus buildings. Together with dormitory security, we would cover the campus both inside and out, and provide security against crimes committed by students that have already gained campus access.

Wasting university dollars on token displays of security is not only inconvenient, but insulting. Greater measures must be taken to affect crime where and when it occurs. An increased budget for campus police, more surveillance cameras, greater presence on campus of security, and not trying to perform impossible acts, such as keeping the criminals off campus are the key factors for campus security. Let’s not make the students victims of crime prevention.

Joe Iacullo
Mathematics

A professor’s warning to students:

Like me, you probably use Microsoft’s Word for Windows program for word processing. I use all of the programs in the MS office, but am particularly dependent upon MS Word because I am now finishing my eighth book, A Nation of Numbers: The Development of Marketing Research in America, which will be published in 1998. I hate to spoil your day, but I managed to find a deficit in Word for Windows. Just goes to show you that even a sophisticated software company like MS isn’t perfect! I am sharing this information with the campus community so that hopefully you can avoid the software problems I have experienced.

MSU’s faulty programming code has set my writing schedule back a whole month, necessitating 40+ hours of typing. Avoid using MS Word for Windows on any documents that are 10 or more pages long and that can have 15 or more footnotes or end notes. Under these circumstances, your Word document can “freeze up.” You will not be able to save it, print it out, or even use the internal “cut (or copy) and paste” buffer. The MS programmers just plain screwed up. They have now assigned several programmers to rewrite the foot and end note subroutine, but make no promises about when this will be accomplished. Hopefully this change will be reflected in the latest version of Word we will have at MSU when we make the switch to Windows 95 for the Fall 1997 semester.

My solution isn’t fancy, but it works. I have two documents for each chapter of my book, one for text and another for end notes. Once I have inserted a reference number at the appropriate point in the text, I then have to manually switch over to the notes document and type out the end note. Since I don’t necessarily write my chapters linearly, this is a major pain when I insert even one new end note amongst previous notes. But at least it works.

Dr. Paul Scipione
Professor of Marketing

Would you like to have your opinion read by over 10,000 people each week? Then write to the Montclarion Mailbag.

(But before you write, be sure to read the Mailbag policy on page 17!)
The Examined Life
by Jean-Marie Navetta

While sitting in the SGA meeting today, I had a thought about the strike that’s planned for April 15th. What if President Reid proposed a tuition hike and no one paid it? Or more specifically for MSU students, what if he proposed a hike over 4 percent and no one paid it?

This just happens to be what the SGA and the students of MSU are saying. Any tuition increase over 4 percent is unacceptable. And on Tuesday April 15th, the students are going to illustrate that point for everyone by “striking the hike.”

But before we grab our picket signs in one hand and a hot dog in the other, let’s just go over a few more facts that students need to have on hand, should anyone ask them about why they’re taking up the activist lifestyle.

First, there is no cut in state aid to MSU. We’re getting the same amount that we did last year. Anyone who tells you otherwise at this point is simply not telling the truth.

Second, we recognize that what the MSU administration is calling “unfunded mandates” from the state exist. These alleged mandates are in the form of teachers’ salary increases. But even including the increases to teachers on the highest step and all the incremental increase for professors on their way there, it still doesn’t equal 10 percent in tuition increases.

Additionally, the cost of living increase in New Jersey was only 2.9 percent last year. So I still don’t think that students are seeing the justification for a 10 percent increase. And despite what some administrators have told the SGA, the increasing cost of paper clips and pens still doesn’t equal 10 percent.

So where is this increase going? As I mentioned last week, support staff at MSU receives more money than teachers for their salaries. And student services are even taking a small cut, despite the fact that we’re the ones footing the bill.

There’s no room for compromise here. It looks like students are tired of being told that the issue is too complex to explain and that we need to blindly trust the good judgment of administrators at MSU.

Perhaps this is because students are starting to learn the facts about this proposed increase and find it completely unacceptable.

I’m sure that the administration wants to improve education for the students. But we have offered input on how this could be done without choking us, and it has been entirely ignored. And now we want our demands met, and met honestly. Offers from the administration need to be realistic. I heard a rumor today that a 5 percent increase in summer tuition might be offered, with a 9 percent increase pending for the Fall 1997 semester. I genuinely hope that this is just a rumor, since this would have to be one of the most insulting offers ever made to MSU’s students. And here’s the reason: when I spoke with President Reid last week, he mentioned how summer school was mostly comprised of non-MSU students and was a good source of revenue for the school. So it looks like if this rumor were true, the break would be for students who don’t even go here, while the rest of us – the ones who Reid should be helping – would still suffer in the Fall.

So there’s the facts. Anyone who still has questions about the strike should ask them and get ready to join us on Tuesday. Call the SGA office, contact me via e-mail, talk to someone. Understand what’s going to happen unless we get serious about this now. Here’s your big chance to have a real hand in shaping your fate. Don’t blow it.

See you on Tuesday.

Some final facts and figures before students strike the hike on Tuesday

“What if President Reid proposed a tuition hike and no one paid it?”

A short message to the students of MSU: Get a spine! Walk out on April 15th!

With only a few issues left to express myself in, it’s becoming increasingly difficult to choose what to write about. After much internal deliberation and stammering, I decided to go with the big issue of the week. On April 15th at 12 noon, the Student Government Association is urging all students to walk out of class and meet at the Student Center to protest the proposed tuition hikes for the Fall semester.

At first, I was skeptical, because I have seen many protests of this type fail miserably. At this same time last year, the SGA was urging student to attend the April Board of Trustees meeting to protest the proposed tuition increase that was later passed and resulted in increased tuition costs this year. Approximately 10 people showed up. Not exactly what you would consider an impressive total.

So, when January of this year came around, rumors of a tuition increase were again running rampant through the Student Center. Again, I could hear the cries from the SGA office, “We’re gonna protest! They can’t do this to us!”

This year, things started out differently, they made flyers! What a great idea! Enough sarcasm, after a rough beginning, it appears that the SGA has gotten their act together with this whole protest thing. There’s going to be food, music, informational speakers, what more could you ask for on this campus? A lot of work has gone into putting this event together, and all that anyone asks is that you, Joe Student come out for at least a few minutes and listen to what is

E-mail the editorial section at navettaj@alpha.montclair.edu.

State of the World
by Tom Tracy

With only a few issues left to express myself in, it’s becoming increasingly difficult to choose what to write about. After much internal deliberation and stammering, I decided to go with the big issue of the week. On April 15th at 12 noon, the Student Government Association is urging all students to walk out of class and meet at the Student Center to protest the proposed tuition hikes for the Fall semester.

At first, I was skeptical, because I have seen many protests of this type fail miserably. At this same time last year, the SGA was urging student to attend the April Board of Trustees meeting to protest the proposed tuition increase that was later passed and resulted in increased tuition costs this year. Approximately 10 people showed up. Not exactly what you would consider an impressive total.

So, when January of this year came around, rumors of a tuition increase were again running rampant through the Student Center. Again, I could hear the cries from the SGA office, “We’re gonna protest! They can’t do this to us!”

This year, things started out differently, they made flyers! What a great idea! Enough sarcasm, after a rough beginning, it appears that the SGA has gotten their act together with this whole protest thing. There’s going to be food, music, informational speakers, what more could you ask for on this campus? A lot of work has gone into putting this event together, and all that anyone asks is that you, Joe Student come out for at least a few minutes and listen to what is

E-mail the editorial section at navettaj@alpha.montclair.edu.
Recently, my company held a breakfast meeting to unveil the newest addition to our fragrance line. We are not a cosmetic company and fragrances are not what we’re primarily known for, but our name is synonymous with quality, upmarket, and yes, very expensive merchandise.

After our fragrance maven finished telling us how wonderful this new product is, there were a few questions asked, but none of any substance. I raised my hand to ask a question of great importance to me - do we test our fragrance line on animals? Wow, if looks could kill, I’d have joined the choir invisible right then and there. She gave me her best phony smile and quite matter-of-factly answered that yes, we do. Then she quickly added, “We have to, it’s required by law!” I said, “Oh, is it?” and she assured me that it is indeed.

Well, I know better than that. There is no such law, but I immediately felt the eyes of my superiors upon me, so I let the matter drop. However, I spoke to her afterwards and informed her that while I did not wish to challenge and contradict her in front of everyone, animal testing is not required by law and that line is capriciously thrown out by vivisectors and cosmetic companies to justify the pointless torturing and maiming of millions of animals every year.

If it is required by law, then why have companies such as Revlon, Avon, Estee Lauder, and several others either banned outright or declared moratoriums against animal testing? How can they skirt the law if we are held to it?

The poor woman was perplexed. She said she had read that article. “If there is such a law, he’ll be able to cite it and pressure, and there’s no way they’ll allow any aspect of their empire to bring them any adverse publicity. Whatever! As long as we’re not perpetuating the unnecessary torture of innocent animals, I’m satisfied.”

On the subject of animals, I recently met with the student who rescued “Braveheart,” or the “three-legged cat,” who was abandoned on campus last year, and met him for myself. Not only is Braveheart alive, well, and out of his cage, he is gorgeous! He was emaciated and nearly dead from malnutrition when he was trapped, but now he is a chubby boy with the fattest cheeks! He’s a real miracle.

The muscles of his hind legs are still a little underdeveloped and the right leg (the one that was hit by the car) wobbles a little bit when he trots away. But his ability to jump on the furniture and run around after her other cats is not impeded in the least and he is a sweet, affectionate lap cat who loves to be petted and fuzzed over. Ah, a happy ending to what be...
CLUB PRESENTS:

"ABSOLUTE MONTCLAIR"
Spring Week '97

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SUNDAY</th>
<th>MONDAY</th>
<th>TUESDAY</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>C1C PRESENTS:</td>
<td>Games 12 - 3 p.m.</td>
<td>Barbeque</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jah Pickney</td>
<td>Student Center Quad</td>
<td>12 - 2 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Buffalo Tom</td>
<td>Casino Night</td>
<td>Student Center Quad</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>G Love and Special Sauce</td>
<td>Student Center Ballrooms</td>
<td>Comedy Show</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2 p.m. in the Ampitheatre</td>
<td>8 p.m. - 12 a.m.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>WEDNESDAY</th>
<th>THURSDAY</th>
<th>FRIDAY</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>SGA Tables</td>
<td>Photo Imaging</td>
<td>Medieval Times</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12 - 3 p.m.</td>
<td>12 - 3 p.m.</td>
<td>Bus leaves</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Student Center Quad</td>
<td>Student Center Quad</td>
<td>6:45 p.m.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Drive-In Movies</td>
<td>Video Dance Party</td>
<td>Tickets $15 per person</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clove Road</td>
<td>8 p.m. - 12 a.m.</td>
<td>Call x5232</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9 p.m. - 1 a.m.</td>
<td>Student Center Ballrooms</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CLUB is a Class I of the SGA, Inc.
I like to think that I live a happy and productive life. But as delusional as I may be, I still am conscious enough to realize that my life could use an improvement or three here or there. Who couldn’t? Could? What? Huh? At least I know that my life would be a little better if I could just find a way to silence some of the voices in my head.

In an attempt to make myself a happier person, here are a few suggested plans that I think I will put to use at some point in my life.

First and foremost, I am going to save up all of my money from working at the Live-Lube Corporation. (This is the first ever manufacturer of sexual lubricant for farm animals that is 100% organic because it is made from the excess parts of dead farm animals. It is important to have a meaningful job that serves the public’s needs.) Then I will purchase a ten pound bag of salt. I will jump in the tub naked and start dumping salt all over the slugs. I know that it sounds a little bit gross, but I theorize that it will turn out to be the best massage ever experienced.

I think spirituality is something that everyone should invest some time in. However, I find that there is no Church right now that satisfies my needs. In order to take care of this problem and advance my personal well-being, I am going to found the First United Church of Tim Casey. If I offended you with that last sentence, GOOD!

I’m in no need of a major life change to make me happy right now. I have a very good relationship with the woman of my dreams, I am getting good grades, I have a lot of great ideas, but my back is kind of tense and my slugs are here. Merry Christmas.
The horo, the horo

Written by Charlie, the psychic baker.

Pisces (February 19 to March 20)
Wait, wait wait a moment here. I bake cakes, I don't know a damn thing about being psychic.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Serious.
If you want to try my cookies, they're the best you'll ever taste, but fortunes? I don't want to do fortunes! Some O'Sullivan kid with a nipple ring bought an apple turnover, and kidded me by gun-point, and told me to come up with witty fortunes, or he'd flash his nipple ring at me. Yeah! That's just weird! What's wrong with him? That's sick! Gemini (May 21 to June 20) All right, let me try out this crystal ball, and see if it can help me crack this out. I have to make bagels before the breakfast rush tomorrow. (ZZZZZZZZAP) O.W! The ball zapped me! The ball zapped me. Cancer (June 21 to July 22) O.W! I have no eyebrows left...but I foresee money, fame, happiness, and Crest Tartar-fighting gel in your future. Cool. Leo (July 23 to August 22) This summer, don't step on some kid's sandcastle. The kid's packin' heat. Libra (September 23 to October 21) If you drink a lot of coffee, you will become possessed with the notion that a nipple ring is not a bad thing. Scorpio (October 22 to November 21) I had munificent onions and my oven, and killed you. Sagittarius (November 22 to December 21) The US Department of Transportation will build an interstate highway through your backyard. Don't get bummed—rejoice! You can interact with the Mack truck drivers! Just put your arm out the window, make a pulling motion with your arm, they'll honk their air horn at you! Capricorn (December 22 to January 19) If you drink a lot of coffee, you will become possessed with the notion that a nipple ring is not a bad thing.

Aquarius (January 20 to February 18) Okay, I made a lot of fortunes, I gotta get going! I have bagels to bake and muffins to create. Put away the nipple ring! I CAN'T TAKE IT! THE HORROR! THE HORROR! OKAZAKI, I'LL DO ANOTHER FORTUNE!! Pisces (March 21 to April 19) If you make pies, make sure that you use real apples. The plastic apples that are in Fisher-Price™ toy food sets are not real, and they taste terrible...you gink.
TIPS FOR STRIKING
ON APRIL 15, 1997

STEP 1: LOOK AT YOUR WATCH.

STEP 2: WHEN BOTH HANDS ARE ON THE 12, PROCEED WITH CAUTION TO THE STUDENT CENTER.

STEP 3: GRAB A BURGER AND A ROOT-BEER.

STEP 4: STRIKE THE HIKE!

SGA ELECTIONS: DATE, PLACES & TIMES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Date</th>
<th>Places</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>WEDNESDAY APRIL 16th:</td>
<td>SC LOBBY- 8 am - 12:30 pm.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>DICKSON LOBBY- 1 pm - 4:30 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>THURSDAY APRIL 17th:</td>
<td>SC LOBBY- 1 am - 4:30 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>DICKSON LOBBY- 1 am - 4:30 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FRIDAY APRIL 18th:</td>
<td>POLLS CLOSED</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SATURDAY APRIL 19th:</td>
<td>DICKSON LOBBY- 1 am - 1 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SUNDAY APRIL 20th:</td>
<td>BLANTON HALL- 5- 8:30 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MONDAY APRIL 21st:</td>
<td>BLANTON HALL- 8 am - 12:30 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>SC LOBBY- 1 am - 4:30 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>DICKSON HALL- 5:30 - 8 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TUESDAY APRIL 22nd:</td>
<td>POLLS CLOSED ALL DAY</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>WEDNESDAY APRIL 23rd:</td>
<td>DICKSON LOBBY- 8 am - 12 pm</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>SC LOBBY- 12:30 pm - 3 pm</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
THE GRADUATES OF THE CLASS OF ‘97 AND THEIR PARENTS ARE CORDIALLY INVITED TO ATTEND A BACCALAUREATE MASS WITH ‘BLESSING OF GRADUATES’ FATHER ART HUMPHREY IS GUEST HOMILIST AND WILL CONCELEBRATE THE NEWMAN CATHOLIC CENTER APRIL 27 - 3:00 P.M.

RSVP BY APRIL 23 X7240 746-2323 (REFRESHMENTS WILL FOLLOW)
FRATERNITY

would like to welcome their five newest Brothers to the Bonds of Theta Xi:

Dave Benyoka, GM 76
Eddie Daniels, GM 77
Anthony Marsico, GM 78
Delroy Meredith, GM 79
Jim Murphy, GM 80

Congratulations--the best times of your life are soon to be made. See you all at the LEGENDARY Semi-Formal this weekend!

Theta Xi is a Class IV Org. of the SGA. All photos by Timothy Casey. Layout by John J. O'Sullivan. Paper courtesy of trees™.
Hey Everyone:

We Want You*

*To work for the MONTCLARION!
It's easy & fun. Impress the heck out of your parents! Buff up that super resume!
Get thousands of people to READ YOUR THOUGHTS!
don't delay, call 655-5169 for more information!
Classifieds...

- Help Wanted -

Quality Day Camp in Morris County looking for applicants in the following areas: General Counselors, Swim - LGT or WSI, Music, Drama, Photography, Sports, High Ropes, Roller Hockey, Mountain Bikes, Newspaper. Please call 201-895-3200 for more information.

- Child Care Wanted -

Wanted.... Energetic, kind, patient individual to care for 2 young boys every Thursday from 11:00 to 3:00 P.M...Great Salary...Call Jodi...667-4918.

P/T baby-sitter wanted: energetic, responsible local college/grad student for 2-3 afternoons/wk. for 3 yr and 1 yr old. Days/hour flex. Ref. req’d. 744-3945.

- Apartment for Rent -

- Fund raisers -

FREE T-SHIRT + $1000
Credit Card fund-raisers for fraternities, sororities & groups. Any campus organization can raise up to $1000 by earning a whopping $5.00/ VISA application. Call 1-800-932-0528 ext. 65. Qualified callers receive FREE T-SHIRT.

Advertise in the Classifieds.

It is a great way to reach thousands of people...and it costs so little! The cost per insertion is $10 for up to 30 words and $20 for 31-40 words. For more information about advertising, call Kevin at 655-5237.

EVER WONDER WHAT THE LITTLE HOUSE BETWEEN THE STUDENT CENTER AND RICHARDSON HALL IS?

IT’S THE DROP-IN CENTER!

AT THE CENTER, WE HAVE A LARGE VARIETY OF PAMPHLETS ON SUCH ISSUES AS DRUG AND ALCOHOL ADDICTION, DATE RAPE, HIV AND AIDS, EATING DISORDERS, AND PREGNANCY AND CONTRACEPTION TO NAME A FEW.

WE ALSO HAVE NJ TRANSIT BUS AND TRAIN SCHEDULES AS WELL AS ON AND OFF CAMPUS ACTIVITY INFORMATION. WE ALSO OFFER PEER COUNSELING AT THE DROP-IN CENTER AND ARE ALWAYS HERE IF YOU NEED TO TALK.

GIVE US A CALL OR DROP IN!

655-5271

SERVICE OF THE SGA, INC.
Hey Everyone:

We Want You*

*To work for the MONTCLARION!

It’s easy & fun. Impress the heck out of your parents! Buff up that super resume! Get thousands of people to READ YOUR THOUGHTS! don’t delay, call 655-5169 for more information!
as the Cougars scored four more times in the top of the eighth for the 11-3 Kean College triumph.

Senior left-hander Mike Orth (Linden) was pinned with the loss as he lasted four innings and gave up five earned runs. His record is now 2-2.

The Red Hawks tried to earn the split
by winning the second game, but the Cougars had other plans. They ate up starting pitcher
A.J. Economou (Howell) by scoring five runs off him, aided by a grand slam by senior left-fielder Tony Monagas (Elizabeth) in the first inning. Monagas finished two for five with five RBIs and was named co-NJAC player-of-the-week.

MSU could not get anything started as the Cougars scored four more in the third inning and added two more in the eighth.
MSU scored their only run in the bottom of the sixth on a fielder's-choice RBI by Leon.
The final was 11-1, and a shocking doubleheader sweep by the visiting Cougars.

Following their four games in only three days, the Red Hawks had their first opportunity to get back on the winning track against the Division II Adelphi University Panthers. This was a tremendously better played game, but Adelphi's pitching staff and prowess in the field proved too strong for MSU to overcome. The Red Hawks lost 6-3, and just 5 hits scattered through the batting order.

With the Red Hawks trailing 3-1 in the bottom of the sixth, Leon hit a sacrifice fly to right with the bases loaded that brought home a run. Then, in the top of the seventh after recording two quick outs, the Panthers hit three straight singles that brought home one more run. Through six-and-a-half innings the score was 4-2, Adelphi.

Next, in the bottom of the seventh inning, after a leadoff double by Bosch,
Sebelle cracked an RBI single, scoring Bosce.
But that was all the scoring for the Red Hawks,
in fact the Panthers added two more in the top of the ninth off a two RBi single to make the final score 6-3, and give the Panthers their 16th win and hand the Red Hawks their 12th loss.

At 7-12-1 the Red Hawks find themselves in the deepest hole they have been in for quite some time. They are tied for sixth place in the conference with Rutgers-Newark, while Kean College leads the conference at 4-1.

They next play on Thursday, April 10
at 3:30 against the Ramapo College
Roadrunners at Pittser Field before they play yet another doubleheader on Saturday. This time they will be at Rutgers-Camden. Game one is scheduled for a 12:00 start in Camden.
They will return home on Tuesday to take on York College of Pennsylvania.
Inconsistency leads MSU to a 1-3-1 week
Frustrated Red Hawks now 7-12-1 overall

BY JEFF EHRLICH
ASS'T, SPORTS EDITOR

The MSU baseball team is in the midst of a three game losing streak in which they have given up 28 runs and scored just seven. After tying the Rutgers-Newark Raiders on Thursday, April 3, 8-8, they defeated the Jersey City Gothic Knights, 7-4 in a solidly played baseball game on Friday. But inconsistency reared its ugly head, because on Saturday the Red Hawks got embarrassed by the Kean College Cougars in a doubleheader sweep, 11-3 and 11-1. Finally, with the Red Hawks anxious to show that their performance on Saturday was uncommonly bad, they battled Division II Adelphi University and looked for the upset win. Unfortunately, the win proved elusive as the Red Hawks lost 6-3 and had five hits.

In the 8-8 tie versus the Raiders, the Red Hawks gave up seven runs in the first three innings on timely hitting by the Raiders. The Red Hawks scored five runs in the bottom of the fifth inning as two Red Hawks hit the ball out of the park. Trailing the entire way, the Red Hawks only managed to score two runs in the bottom of the sixth, the Red Hawks tied the game with two runs in the bottom half of the inning. Sebelle hit a two run line-drive home run to right that made the score 7-7. Coach Schoenig proceeded to steady the ship. Brennan proceeded to record a big strikeout followed by a ground-out to end the threat. He said, “I got (the strikeout) on three good sliders.” When asked how he felt about being brought in such a tight situation, he calmly said, “I wasn’t exactly nervous, because I got more confident with every pitch I threw. The adrenaline was certainly flowing.”

The Red Hawks couldn’t score in the bottom of the inning, but in the top of the eighth the Raiders took the lead, 8-7 on a solo home run to lead off the inning. The game would certainly be called because of darkness after the bottom of the eighth, so the Red Hawks had to score twice in the inning if they were to win the game. But, as luck would have it, the Red Hawks only managed to get one runner home on a bases loaded walk by Mullane to make the final score 8-8.

Coach Schoenig was obviously extremely displeased with his team’s performance. He said, “We gave up seven runs to start the game off. We made a good effort by battling back and not giving up any more [until the eighth inning]. But we didn’t execute well at all.”

Next up for the Red Hawks was the 7-5 Jersey City State Gothic Knights at Jersey City on Friday. After playing two games in two days, the Red Hawks would have been anxious to get any easier because the next day a doubleheader was scheduled against the Kean College Cougars at Pittser Field. The result was disastrous, because the Red Hawks were swept as the Cougars scored 22 runs and the Red Hawks just 4 in the two games. In game one, an 11-3 debacle, the Red Hawks actually out-hit the Cougars 10-8. But three errors and 10 men left on base caused the loss. The Cougars, on the other hand, committed just one error and left only one runner on base. Fundamentally bad baseball did the Red Hawks in for this game. In game two, the Red Hawks scored twice in the top of the seventh inning as they scored two runs in the top of the second inning as MSU saw two errors allow Kean base-runners to advance an extra base. Kean then scored three more times in the top of the fourth off a three run home-run by junior catcher Chris Orsogna (Edison). After three-and-half innings the score was 5-0, Kean.

Tennis has a 1-1 week, fall to NYU, 7-2 and defeat Stevens, 6-3

BY JEFF EHRLICH
ASS'T, SPORTS EDITOR

The men’s tennis team was defeated by New York University, 7-2 last Sunday, April 6. Winning their matches were Robert Jelinek and James Smith. Jelinek, the number two singles player won 6-4, 6-4 while Smith won 7-6, 6-4, 6-4 at number six singles.

Then on Monday, April 7, the Red Hawks played Stevens Institute of Technology and won 6-3. Pete Beckus, Jelinek, Keith Suchodolsky, and Mike Moore all won their singles matches. Beckus and Mark Lawson won their doubles match, 8-6 and Jelinek and Moore won, 8-1. In singles, Beckus won 7-5, 6-1; Jelinek won 6-1, 6-1; and Suchodolsky won 6-3, 6-1.

On Saturday, April 12 the Red Hawks take on Hunter College at 1 pm. followed by East Stroudberg at 4 pm. on Monday, April 14. Both matches are at the MSU courts.