Multicultural harmony explored at Altogether Different retreat

By Tom Boud

Over 30 Montclair State University students, faculty, and administrators explored multicultural harmony at the Altogether Different Student Leadership Retreat on October 4 and 5, at the New Jersey School of Conservation in Branchville, NJ.

Interim Vice President of Student Development and Campus Life Helen Matusow-Ayres, Associate Dean of Students James Harris, Director of Psychological Services Susan Herman, Director of International Services Jacqueline Leighton, Wellness Center Director Nancy Ellison, Student Center Assistant Director Manmeet Kohli, and Fine Arts Education Coordinator Dr. Dorothy Heard attended the event. In addition, two group facilitators from the New Jersey Institute of Technology were on hand to assist with the weekend long program.

Harris said in an October 10 interview that the retreat was both novel and constructive. “This was our first time, and we were very pleased with the results. The retreat really emphasized the similarity between people of different backgrounds. We would like to do it twice a year so that more of the MSU community can get involved,” Harris said.

Harris said the retreat featured special workshops designed to promote solidarity. “One of the first exercises was called “step in”. The way it worked was one of the facilitators read a list of characteristics. Then he would say, for example, “who is Jewish, step in, who is from a mixed race family step in, and people stepped in from a line to the center of the room. The key thing was, the more people stepped in, less they felt isolated,” Harris said.

Harris said retreats participants saw a film about the negative effects of discrimination. “We saw a video called Eye of the Storm. It was about an experiment where a teacher took all white students, and had them treat each other according to the color of their eyes. The experiment was filmed over a period of three days. By the second day, the students really changed. They were mean to one another,” Harris said.

Harris said the retreat brought to light a contemporary problem at MSU. “What we find is that many faculty and staff come from racially isolated neighbors and schools. When they come to MSU, they stay separated. Therefore, it becomes responsibility of the university to help people break out of these iso-

SGA meeting still plagued by poor attendance

By Tony Bertram

This week’s SGA legislative session was once again plagued by poor attendance of both legislators and cabinet heads. Only about one-half of the 31 legislators were present and 3 cabinet heads.

SGA President, Karen Cardell stated that everything was looking in order for the auditors concerning the auditing of the SGA books. She stated that the audit should be complete in the near future.

Next, the floor was given to Lia Voicu from the Annual Fund. “The purpose of the Annual Fund is to raise money and schedule events for the campus of MSU.” The next scheduled event is Parents Day at MSU. This event will take place on Homecoming day, Saturday, October 25. It will consist of a picnic located in a tent in front of Dickinson Hall from 3-5. The location is in the Student Center.

Another upcoming function of the Annual Fund is the Phone-A-Thon. This event is taking place on the first three consecutive weeks in November. It runs Monday through Thursday. Participants will be paid $5 per hour and be given training and a free meal. There will also be prizes for the most money raised. Anyone interested is encouraged to get in touch with the Annual Fund.

Attorney General John Brost stated that Leonard (Anton) Wheeler could not be sworn in as a Justice for “failure to meet certain criteria.” The Attorney General declined to disclose the exact criteria that was not met. Brost said that there will be elections for Justices and further details will be given at a later date.

The Space Allocation committee was next and the Director of Class II’s and III’s Brett Klein said that certain Class I, II, and III’s will be moving out of their present offices and into others. The plan is to group each class in a certain area so the can gain some cohesiveness.

Nobel Prizes Awarded

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Two Americans and a Frenchman were named Wednesday as co-recipients of the 1997 Nobel Physics Prize for their "development of methods to cool and trap atoms with laser light.

Steven Chu of Stanford University, William D. Phillips of the U.S. National Institute of Standards and Technology in Maryland and Claude Cohen-Tannoudji of France were announced as this year’s winner.

"The new methods of investigation that the Nobel laureates have developed have contributed greatly to increasing our knowledge of the interplay between radiation and matter," said the citation from the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences.

Italy jolted by more earthquakes

ASSISI, Italy — Another strong earthquake jolted central Italy Tuesday, toppling a belltower in an Umbrian town near Assisi but sparing the quake-ravaged St. Francis Basilica.

A policeman was slightly injured when he was struck by falling — press space for next page — The September 26 quakes brought down a section of the basilica’s vaulted ceiling, killing four people and destroying frescoes by Cimabue and artisans from the Giotto school.

Tuesday’s quake struck five hours after workers used a crane to place a scaffolding cap on a crumbling gable of St. Francis Basilica in an effort to shore it up.

U.S. working on China arms agreement

WASHINGTON — The Clinton administration is pressing China for an ironclad guarantee it will provide no nuclear weapons technology to Iran or any other country trying to develop such weapons.

The U.S. hope is to wind up the negotiations, successfully, by Oct. 28, when Chinese President Jiang Zemin is due to begin summit talks here with President Clinton.

This would give the two leaders the basis for a dramatic announcement, while airtight assurances from China could clear the way for sale of peaceful American nuclear energy, guidance systems and other technology to Beijing.

Denver was flying without licence

WASHINGTON — John Denver was supposed to have been grounded after two arrests for drunk driving, but federal officials said Tuesday that he flew to his death without a valid license.

Denver’s medical certificate was revoked in June 1996 pending proof that he did not have a drinking problem, said National Transportation Safety Board spokesman George Peterson.

But Monterey County Sheriff Norman Hicks emphasized that the evidence indicates the 53-year-old singer was sober when he took off in his privately built "Long EZ" aircraft Sunday and crashed into Monterey Bay.

Teenage cult plotted school killing spree

BRANDON, Mississippi — A teen-ager who led a secret satanic cult that sought the obliteration of its enemies plotted a killing spree at a high school with a follower charged in the slaying of his mother and two students, an investigator said Tuesday.

Grant Boyette, 18, sat hunched over a courtroom desk as prosecutors offered the first glimpse of evidence in Boyette’s murder conspiracy case. He is one of six teens suspected of plotting to kill students at Pearl High School.

They were arrested October 7, nearly a week after another student, Luke Woodham, was accused of stabbing his mother to death in their home, then going to school and gunning down two students — including his ex-girlfriend — and wounding seven others.

Little progress made in juror search for Nichols trial

DENVER — Little progress was apparently made Tuesday in the search for 12 jurors and six alternates to hear the Oklahoma City bombing trial of Terry Nichols. Only two of the six potential jurors questioned appeared to meet the requirements to sit on the panel.

One man was excused immediately and three others gave answers at odds with the requirement that jurors be able to vote for the death penalty but also remain open to a life sentence.
Senate approves
AmeriCorp funding
By Charles Dervarics
College Press Service
WASHINGTON—Students who rely on federal loans or national-service programs to help pay for their education won some important assurances from Congress Oct. 1.

Bowing to pressure from the White House and others, the House of Represent­atives dropped plans to cut in half the budget for AmeriCorps, President Clinton’s national-service program. The House had wanted to take $200 million of the program’s $400 million budget to pay for veterans programs, the idea met resistance from the Senate and the admin­istration.

The agreement reached last week would provide $425 million for the na­tional-service programs, about $20 million more than current funding, congres­sional aides said.

The final figure falls short of Pres­i­dent Clinton’s request for the program, but administration officials expressed strong support for the pact.

“This is their first increase in na­tional-service appropriations in a few years,” said Sandy Scott, a spokesman of the Corporation for the National Service. “We’re very happy.”

Through AmeriCorps, college stu­dents earn tuition benefits and a minimum-wage stipend in exchange for work in community agencies. The bill does not raise the education benefit, however, which will remain at $4,725 for each year of full-time service.

The agreement does include $25 million to encourage college students and others to serve as literacy tutors for young children, Scott said. President Clinton wants to enlist college students and post-­secondary institutions in this endeavor, dubbed America Reads!, which seeks uni­consolidation program.

The House/Senate agreement clears the way for final action on AmeriCorps spending for fiscal year 1998, which be­gan on Oct. 1. The program is operating with temporary funds until the measure gets to President Clinton’s desk.

Elsewhere, students hurt by recent lapses in the federal government’s direct-lending program also will receive a re­rieve based on action taken in the House last week.

The House education committee unanimously passed an emergency bill to help 80,000 students and recent college graduates affected by their shutdown of the Clinton administration’s direct loan consolidation program.

Students use this program to con­solidate their borrowing under a single direct loan, often with the advantage of a lower monthly payment. The Clinton ad­ministration had to suspend operation of this program last month because a federal contractor could not keep up with heavy loan demand.

“Federal programs should help our citizens, not hurt them,” said Rep. William Goodling (R-P.A.), chairman of the House Education and the Workforce Com­mittee.

Instead of taking only a few weeks, the consolidation process now could take eight to 12 months, he said.

Under the Emergency Student Loan Act, students could consolidate all of their borrowing, including direct loans, under the Federal Family Educational Loan Pro­gram administered by private banks.

The Clinton administration in 1993 launched direct loans as an alternative to the bank-supported system, claiming the new program would carry lower costs for students. For direct loans, borrowing capital goes from the federal government to colleges and universities without the help of banks.

The suspension covers only consoli­dation loans, and college students can continue to receive new direct loans un­der the existing system. But the entire program comes under increasing criticism from Republicans for failing to live up to expectations.

The unanimous vote for the emer­gency bill also showed increasing bipar­tisan concern about the direct loan pro­gram. In a rare show of unity, leaders of both parties voted 43-0 to send the mea­sure on for final action.

“Both Republicans and Democrats see the urgency in helping young people who have been left in a credit crunch be­cause of the US Department of Education’s failure to manage the direct loan consolidation program,” said Rep. Howard “Buck” Mckeen (R-Calif.), who chairs the House post-secondary educa­tion subcommittee.

Mckeen called on the Senate to ap­prove the emergency bill quickly. “Any effort in the Senate should be seen as an attempt to protect an inept federal bureau­cracy at the expense of the students,” Mckeen added.

Congress should have another three weeks to complete action on the emer­gency legislation. Lawmakers must re­main in session through October to finish work on most 1998 spending bill, includ­ing one for higher education. In that bill, House and Senate leaders both favor an increase in Pell Grant spending, among other provisions.
Nationally, students still unhappy with college food

By Colleen DeBaise

Amanda Horowitz is sick of dining hall food. Horowitz, a Northwestern University sophomore, is a vegan. That’s kind of like a vegetarian except stricter — she won’t touch meat, or any food that comes from an animal such as milk or cheese. Needless to say, she finds her dining hall options a bit limited.

“It seems like three out of four days I have beans, beans, beans,” she complained. “That is all they think I want to eat. I used to love all kinds of beans, but it gets old fast. Beans, beans, beans.”

Other students are less critical of dining hall grub. Chris Bokel, a Syracuse University freshman, says the cafeteria meals are tasty, if not exactly gourmet. “Everyone always complains (but) they can’t possibly accommodate everyone,” he says. “I mean, you can’t expect the dining hall to be a five-star restaurant.”

Maybe not, but campus dining halls, once considered the scourgé of college students’ existence, have been forced to spice up their image to compete with fast-food restaurants, pizza delivery and local eateries. As a result, some dining halls now lure student by asking parents to send in favorite recipes. Others offer trendy foods such as wraps, smoothies and spice up their image to compete with fast-food restaurants, pizza delivery and local eateries. only eat in the dining hall when it is absolutely necessary,” he says. “The food literally makes me sick.”

Horowitz is convinced her campus cafeteria can’t get lettuce right. “And the salad is pretty awful everyday — the lettuce is always limp and icky,” she says. “For once I’d like some decent salad. I don’t think that is too much to ask, do you?”

For most students, it’s an issue of quality, not variety. Even though critics admit campus dining halls are serving up more than mystery meat and noodle casseroles. Most cafeterias have made an effort to diversity their daily menus.

The dining hall at Western Washington University now offers Cyberwraps, or tortillas, rice, beans, meats, fresh vegetables and spices rolled into a lunchtime wrap. Students can wash it down with a “Final Exam,” which is a frosty carrot, apple and celery juice blend.

Made-to-order quesadillas filled with peppers, meats, cheese and onions pressed between sun dried tomato and pesto is a main dish at Northeastern Louisiana University. Indian Curry chicken, Spanish tapas and other ethnic entrees are on the menu at Northwestern.

Yet, often even a more varied menu than years before doesn’t improve the dining halls’ reputation in the eyes of students.

“The dining hall has done a lot in the last year to increase the variety and options, but it has not really increased the quality of the food at all,” said Jeff Jewett, 19, a Northwestern University sophomore. “It’s still the same old dorm food.”

The paper’s editor, Ray Stern, defended his beliefs against racism in an apology printed the next day.

“College food does not mean inferior food,” said Michael C. Maxey, dean of admissions at Roanoke. “We’ve had students who told us that they chose Roanoke because of the food after they made a decision about the quality of the college.”

Still, campus dining services find students are difficult crowd to please. Brian Landauer, 18, a Syracuse freshman, admits his favorite dish is take-out.

At Arizona State University, the editor of the student newspaper has apologized for the publication of a cartoon many call racist.

The cartoon, published Sept. 25 in the State Press, was in response to the arrests earlier that month of two Temple high school students suspected in the rapes of two ASU students.

Many students were outraged at the cartoon and the State Press for running it. In a letter-to-the-editor, Karen V. Carson of the Student Organization of African-American Unity said the cartoon suggested that all black males were either murderers or rapists.

“This sort of depiction could raise hysteria in the general white community at ASU causing unwarranted backlash toward all black students and especially toward black males on campus,” she wrote. She asked if the State Press had a “racist” agenda.”

The paper’s editor, Ray Stern, defended his beliefs against racism in an apology printed the next day.

The cartoon showed a white officer leading away a black child holding a knife. The officer is saying, “What happened to those innocent days when all we did was arrest you kids for drive-by shootings?”

Midterm Stress? Try these study skills

By Stacey Desir

Staff Writer

Are you one of the many students that has a hard time taking good notes, and preparing for exams? Well, it is not as hard as you think. Instructors use obvious cues in lecturing; they use phrases and give signals to emphasize information. Every instructor uses them and the technique may vary from instructor to instructor. The following clues will help thinking more critically about lecture information.

Sometimes an instructor...

Writes Key information on the chalkboard. If your instructor writes an outline of the lecture on the board you should copy the information. This outline encourages the learning of the material in three ways. One, you learn as you write; Two, you are already familiar with the content; And finally, your outline serves as a study guide.

Repeats information. If your instructor says certain words or phrases repetitively the information is probably important to the instructor. As a result you may see it on a test.

Speaks more slowly. An instructor usually speaks slower to give additional time to copy important information. Hesitations and pauses are clues that information is important.

Changes tone of voice. An instructor’s voice often gets louder or changes in some way when stressing an important point. Listen closely for these changes.

Uses body language. If an instructor pounds on the desk, moves closer to the class, or makes some gesture to emphasize a point, it is one that the instructor feels is essential to your understanding.

Lists a number of major points or steps. Listen for number words. Your instructor may say, “there are three (or ten, or any other number) steps (or factors, points, reasons) that are important.”

Explains why or how things happen. The instructor gives reasons by using such words as because, as a result, thus, therefore, and for this reason.

Gives many examples. An instructor gives many examples to help you understand an important concept. The concept is what you should remember. The examples help you remember the concept.

Refers to information as a test item. Your instructor might say, “you may see this again” or “this would make a good test question.” This is when you should sit up and really take notice.

What should you do after taking good notes from the lectures? Review! You need to study both text and lecture information by searching for the connection among them. You do this by referring to your class syllabus, reading the assigned chapters before class, and reviewing class notes continuously. Therefore, by the time exams come around you will not need to cram the information into your mind at once.

Have you ever heard these powerful words together before: disciple, determination, leadership, an efficacy? You might have heard them from many organizations, clubs, and fraternities. However, when it comes to combining them at once nobody does it better than HRLD (Human Relations Leadership Development, Educational Opportunity Fund Program Institute).

HRLD is a program directed by Mrs. Diggs, the Associate Director of the EOF (Educational Opportunity Fund Program), the Assistant Director of EOF, Mrs. Reyes Cuebas, and Mr. Gardner, the new HRLD Service Learning Coordinator. All of them work ardently together to build this powerful team of leaders.

HRLD Diverse Stages. HRLD is divided into four stages: Summer Program Orientation, Fall Candidate Stage, Spring Apprentice Stage, and final Consultant Stage. These stages are important because they contain basic materials, which cause the evolution of leaders.

Anyone who completes these four stages will become a consultant who may have the opportunity to participate in the challenging EOF Summer Program as a Peer Leader. Consultants are the mentors who encourage new candidates to become great leaders. Summer Session. The first stage is the Summer Orientation Stage.

During the 1997 Summer Orientation Stage, students meet once a week. These meeting times are separated into two segments; the first half of the meeting was conducted by an extraordinary speaker, Mr. Robert Criner. This speaker’s main focus was “Greatness” and self-actualization. He led students to recognize and accept themselves for who they were.

The second half was led by Miss Diggs and Mrs. Reyes. They concentrate on teaching students their responsibilities, Holds mission and goals, which is to develop knowledge leaders and experience volunteerism in our local communities.

They lead us into achieving our goals and to be the best we could ever be.

Fall Candidate Stage. The second stage of HRLD is called the Fall Candidate Stage. This stage occurs during the Fall Semester, where students who worked hard over the summer program become candidates. During this stage, candidates have to meet certain regulations such as attending to Friday training sessions and Saturday community service projects.

Friday sections are divided into two segments. The first section is conducted by Mrs. Diggs, Mrs. Reyes Cuebas and Mr. Gardner. In this two-hour training period topics including Mallows Hierarchy of Needs, X Theory and Y Theory, Situation Leadership and Effective Leadership.

The second section of Friday meetings is managed by the team leader, Marie Yapondjian, as well as all of the consultants. Here, candidates gain experience about leadership and teamwork; also, the main focus is on our community’s issues as well as global issues. We learn the critical role of personal involvement and leadership to ameliorate social ills within our community.

Spring Apprentice Stage. Candidates who complete the Fall Candidate Stage successfully are promoted to Apprentices. While in the apprentice stage, Apprentices continue to attend the Friday meetings and Saturday community services. They also have to show some leadership skills, which they continue to learn through training in coaching, mentoring delegation and conflict mediation main points about the program are discussed.

For example, we converse about our goals and missions. For instance, we mainly focus on our community’s issues as well as global issues. We learn how to create an understanding of the critical role of personal involvement and leadership to ameliorate social ills within our community.

The second section is where candidates actually experience how to be a leader. This section is led by the team leader Marie booho. Candidates in this meeting get to observe how consultants team up in order to accomplish and perform diverse activities. Each consultant put some kind of input in this meeting. They interact and exchange experiences with each other. They try to teach candidates how to become leaders.

HRLD Community Service. Members of HRLD dedicate many of their free Saturdays to help their community. How? They perform community service to help.

What exactly is responsible for our pleasurable emotions? The feelings of infatuation, excitement, self-confidence and motivation are actually linked to a neurotransmitter inside our body called dopamine. Different levels of this chemical are found to reflect on our personality and distinguish the different moods we experience.

The newly popular neurochemical is best known for its ability to initiate muscle movement. However, new research suggests dopamine may be equally critical for triggering our excessively entertaining nature of extreme happiness. Likewise, this high paced ride we experience is associated with the symptoms of euphoria, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, and a rush of motivation.

Dopamine to run all throughout the brain, rushing through four main brain pathways and being picked up by five different types of receptors. This neurotransmitter is the subject of research into happiness, attention, extroversion, self-confidence and goal direction. Basically, these Preventing Breast Cancer

Most people have heard something about breast cancer. However, many do not know who is at risk and what precautions should be taken to increase the chances of survival. The breast cancer community has selected the pink ribbon as the international symbol of hope and support for those affected by the disease. Support for those who live with the cancer, as well as early detection methods for all women, is the purpose of the extraordinary amount of information put out by various associations during the month of October, National Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

Every woman is at risk for breast cancer. Even though the cause of breast cancer is unknown, recent discoveries suggest that it is genetic, though no one has been able to say with one hundred percent certainty that this is the only risk factor. Therefore, the only definite controllable factor is early detection. Ninety percent of all women diagnosed at an early stage go on to live long and healthy lives. However, in order to lead long lives, one must be aware that every single woman is at risk. This year 144,300 women in the United States alone will be diagnosed with breast cancer.

One of the common myths is that only those women with high risk factors will develop cancer. While it is certainly possible, the risk of developing breast cancer is not completely preventable. This year one out of nine women in the United States will develop breast cancer in her lifetime.

Breast cancer is the leading cause of cancer death for African-American women.

* Over 70 percent of breast cancer cases occur in women who have no identifiable risk factors.
* The cause of breast cancer is unknown.
* Over 80 percent of lumps are proven benign, but any breast lump must be evaluated by a physician.
* More than 1.6 million breast cancer survivors are alive in America today.

The five-year survival rate after early-stage diagnosis and treatment is over 90 percent.

Although breast cancer is most common with older women, it is much more aggressive and dangerous in younger women.

I’d like to say a little bit about what you read in this column. While I make up the Questions and Lame & Cool site of the week, Topics of the Week are usually from hand-outs the school wants you to read. Most of the time, I don’t much more than edit them and rewrite them a little. It was the previous AC&T administration who gave me the idea to use this stuff (they wanted to make sure I didn’t give you any incorrect information). None of the hand-outs list who wrote them, so I couldn’t even credit people if I wanted to. If you wrote some of this stuff and want credit for it, let me know.

My goal here is simple: to educate you about the school’s computers. If the school wants you to know it, I think it is important enough to reprint for you here. I’m doing my best to get this information to you as accurately as possible. I gain nothing from doing this column. Please keep that in mind.

Topic Of The Week: Using the Macs (FYI: This is from a hand-out).

A. Turn on the computer by pressing the triangle key on the upper right hand corner of the keyboard.

B. Wait for the Desktop to appear (colored background with menu bar at top).

C. The Hard Drive icon will appear on the upper right hand corner of the desktop when the system is ready.

D. If you have a disk, insert it into the floppy drive. Its icon will also appear on the desktop, below the Hard Drive icon. To eject the disk, throw it in the trash. This will NOT delete anything on your disk.

E. To access application software, double-click on the Hard Drive icon. It will open up to show you the available folders. To open a folder, simply double click on it. Open the folder for the application you wish to start. To start the application, double-click on its icon.

F. Be sure to save your work often to prevent any loss caused by system or power failures. Procedure for saving documents:

1. The first time you save your document, select “Save As” under “File” in the menu bar. Make sure that you change the Drive to your own disk!

2. Type in the name for the file in the space provided. Click on “Save”. Then the title should appear at the top of your file.

3. You only need to use “Save As” the first time you save a document. After that, you can just select “Save” under “File” in the menu bar.

G. NEVER turn the computer off while in the middle of an application. If you get stuck, or have a problem, ask a lab assistant for help. To shut off the computer, quit the application you are in. Then, select “Shut Down” under “Special” on the menu bar.

emotions which function in our limbic system, cause us to respond positively to the environment. These neurochemicals play an important part in our mental health. It is for our well-being to associate something that happens with the feeling of pleasure.

The levels of dopamine within our body tend to shape our character. A highly motivated person with a cheerful upbeat personality probably has a higher responsive dopamine system then a sluggish person. However, environmental stimulus can enhance our dopamine drive. Richard Dupue, a professor of human development at Cornell University, emphasizes the power of our dopamine system. Dupue states, “When our dopamine system is active, we are more positive, excited and eager to go after goals and rewards, whether it’s food, sex, money, education or professional movement.”

OSAU and LASO to hold unity jam

By Karanja Carroll

Are you bored this weekend? Well, all are invited to OSAU and LASO's Unity Jam, this event will be held Saturday, October 18 in the Student Center Quad.

This event will exemplify African American and Latin American cultures on campus, in conjunction with OSAU (Organization of Students for African Unity) and LASO (Latin American Student Organization) is CARIBSO (Caribbean Student Organization), along with other minority Greek organizations on campus. Greek organizations will have tables set up from noon until 3 p.m. Anyone interested in expressing their feelings on unity may do so from 2-3 p.m. Reading of poetry or literature is encouraged. A variety of music including rap, hip-hop, salsa, merengue and reggae will be provided by Damaso Roman. At 4:30 p.m. dinner will be served, provided by the Blanton Hall dining services. At 5 p.m. a Greek Exhibition will be held by all participating Greek organizations. This exhibition will include party walks, steps, chants, calls, etc. Finally this event will end at 7 p.m.

OSAU Vice President, Dawayne Roberts commented on this weekend's event.

"At the Unity Jam, we would like to show that people can unite," said Roberts.

"People should come out to show that we are unified on this campus," said Tashira Burwell, Treasurer of OSAU.

LASO President Luis Jimenez discussed the purpose of the event.

"We want to take out some of the tension between African Americans and Latinos. We need to come together because we are fighting a common cause."

The mission of our organizations are to influence the campus community of our culture so they can better understand us. When students come to an event like this, they understand how we operate and hopefully will choose to join our organization. When they come out and see African American, Latino and people of other cultures together, we have reached our goal.

It is better to understand how we live and how we act," said Jimenez.

"We want to better the situation between all of our races which will help the campus community," said Jimenez.

Hopefully, all the students of MSU will come out to show their support for these groups in their effort to prove that unity is possible here on campus.

Finally added Jimenez, "Unification is something that is very important for our future, not just here on campus, but in this country."

The Way It Is

One of the most important things in life is to have solid priorities. It is essential for any person or group to have a concept of what is truly important, or what should be important for them to succeed. The Student Government Association might want to look into this concept. Once again, this organization is back to its nitpicking, ego-serving ways that have plagued it for so long. Ideally, the SGA would be fighting for student interests, working to improve programming for students, fighting for better parking, better residence halls, more money for improved education, things that seriously affect the lives of students who pay for the operation of this organization. Then the progress and results of those efforts would be communicated to the students, letting us know that they are on our side and fighting for our interests.

Instead, the SGA is wrapped up in its own bureaucracy, more fascinated with the control they have over their own little world rather than exploring what big things they could possibly do if they worked together. Yesterday, the Montclarion was served with a letter from the SGA warning that if we do not include “The Montclarion is a Class One Organization of the SGA” on our newspaper that we may be faced with “a fine... judicial action and/or loss of charter.” I recognize that this is a rule of the Student Government Association, and that all rules should be enforced. The Montclarion will happily comply with their request, but I worry about the SGA’s priorities.

It seems that the major players in the SGA would rather worry about such things rather than fighting for serious student interests. This pointless behavior just hampers the efforts of organizations, such as the Montclarion, who are trying to do what the SGA says it wants us to do - serve the students and improve our programming.

When was the last time you heard about the SGA worrying about your legitimate student interests? Can you get the classes you need? Can you find anywhere to do programming. Student Apathy. One needs to go to any sporting event to realize this sad fact. The stands are always filled with bare seats and applause rises above tepid cheers. What does it take to get the SGA interested in campus life at MSU? Is it especially disheartening that last night’s show (which featured two headline acts) took place within 200 yards of the residence halls on campus. It seems that many students see fit to travel off campus to go to bars and other places of quality organizations like CIC. The SGA needs to search within itself again to regain its priorities and truly serve the students.

What does it take?

Yesterday, the biggest event of the semester at MSU took place. Unfortunately, the concert featuring the Violent Femmes and the Toasters could have been much better. The downfall of this potentially huge event was a combination of red tape and student apathy.

The biggest problem facing the staff from Class Concerts (CIC), the organization that sponsored the concert, was the stringent posting policies that were renewed this year. Since they were unable to post fliers in large quantities, they could not effectively catch the eyes of the students on campus.

In addition to the posting regulations, the SGA’s by processing made it impossible for CIC to start advertising early enough to give student’s adequate notice. The proper contracts were not signed on time, and as a result, advertising did not start until a week before the show instead of the beginning of September. Members of CIC had to find last minute ways to advertise. They resorted to making signs by hand and passing out flyers at the last minute. Ron Rinaldi, the producer of CIC, even pasted advertisements on his old car and left it in the middle of the Quad—hoping to attack student’s attention and raise their interests.

The concert was by no means a failure. CIC made nearly ten thousand dollars from combined ticket and T-shirt sales. Now, they only need to raise another $2,000 for the upcoming Beatles tribute concert, featuring “1964: The Tribute”. If they make this additional money, CIC will be able to have regular concert programming for the rest of the semester. If not, they will be forced to produce smaller shows and join other organizations in co-sponsorship.

The most disturbing problem that CIC had is one that faces many organizations that put enormous efforts into student programming. Student Apathy. One needs to go to any sporting event to realize this sad fact. The stands are always filled with bare seats and applause rises above tepid cheers. What does it take to get students interested in campus life at MSU? It is especially disheartening that last night’s show (which featured two headline acts) took place within 200 yards of the residence halls on campus. It seems that many students see fit to travel off campus to go to bars and other places of quality organizations like CIC. The SGA needs to search within itself again to regain its priorities and truly serve the students.

The SGA needs to get its priorities straight.

The Misconceptions of Religion

Religion is a topic that many people are uncomfortable talking about. The minute you mention the word “religion,” people start getting fidgety and start looking for an easy way to get off the subject. It is almost as if people are so intimidated about religion that people become combative and make ignorant statements like, “I don’t believe in God,” or, “I’m not a religious person.”

Reading previous articles in this paper and overhearing very interesting conversations about religion, I have given the impression that the students here at MIU have a big misconception of what religion really is and what it is not.

Well, what is religion? Webster’s Dictionary defines religion as, “A ritual or blind practice of one’s belief.” So in other words, religion is nothing more than chanting monks, communion, and animal sacrifice.

To be religious, you really don’t have to believe what your practicing, but you must act like you do. To be religious or to say you are, for instance, a Christian on Sunday and act go about your own business Monday through Saturday, you would be playing yourself. James 3:22 reads, “But ye doers of the word, and hearers only deceiving your own selves.”

To go to a church, a temple, or a synagoge and fall asleep half way through a sermon is religion. To go to church on only Easter Sunday and Christmas is religion. To dedicate your child to God in front of family and friends is religion. If this is you, your friend, you have nothing more than a weak and powerless religion. I think Rev. Steve Hill of Brownsville Assembly of God in Pensicola, FL put it best when he said, “Religion is hanging around the cross, but Christianity is getting on the cross.”

You are probably saying to yourself, “I don’t go to church! I don’t even believe in God!” So let me ask you this, atheist, what is your religion? Is it your ritual to go out with the guys for a night of partying only to be hungover the next morning feeling empty? Is it your ritual to hop in bed with every girl or guy you can find in the house, we will serve the Lord.”

Racism is a serious charge, so choose your words wisely

Dear Editor,

This letter is a rebuttal to an editorial written by Willis Petrie, a member of Phi Alpha Theta, titled “Why do Americans love Marv Albert?” In this article, Mr. Petrie discusses the current case of Marv Albert, who recently had sexual allegations put to him and settled out of court. Mr. Petrie states that Albert’s innocent depiction by the media is due to “racism and sexism.” To prove his theory, he states that Mike Tyson, Michael Irvin, and Tupac Shakur did not receive the same innocent depiction by the media. Instead, they had their faces plastered all over the papers because they were black. He also states that there is a “double standard in society with which we live along with the perception of things being equal.”

Mr. Petrie, I think that you should realize that accusing people of racism is a very serious charge. It is not like calling someone greedy, selfish, or materialistic. It is much more serious. Labeling people as racists is detrimental to their character. Webster’s Dictionary defines racism as, “a belief that race is the primary determinant of human traits and capacities and that racial differences produce and inherent superiority of a particular race.” I hope this definition helps you to realize the seriousness of your charge on the media. Even though I do not agree with you that the mainstream press is racist, I could offer some suggestions for words you could have used. Maybe you could have used words like “biased”, or “inclined to favor whites.”

On another note, when you classify the media as racist, you are being extremely biased. Do you agree with the fact that there are many black reporters and editors? And unless every black reporter and editor automatically dislikes his or her own race, then your assertion is automatically defeated. Mr. Petrie, maybe there are some racists, white and black, in the media, but the mainstream press is not racist.

As far as there being a strict “double standard,” you are wrong. What about when the media portrayed the white police officers in the Rodney King trial as automatically guilty? What about when the press automatically assumed William Kennedy Smith was guilty of rape? What about when the press plastered Richard Jewel’s face all over the newspaper when he was wrongly accused of planting the bomb at the Olympics? Was the media guilty of racism against whites in these cases? Mr. Petrie, maybe you should have cited a specific article or reporter, instead of accusing the whole media establishment of being racists, because on that notion you are flat out wrong.

African-Americans must help themselves if they wish to succeed

This week's column is in response to the latest entry by Mr. Karanja Carroll. Mr. Carroll states in a manner that I don't like what he said, which is: "By taking one sentence out of context, an argument was formed; at the same time the whole point of the first article was disregarded."

You know, Karanja, this is exactly the same thing that you did with my article which you wrote on September 11. It appears as though you have identified a problem which you are part of. In other words, the pot has called the kettle black.

In my September 4 article, "Rap Needs A New Focus on Future", I was not saying anything about African-Americans using entertainment to reach success nor did I say anything negative about rap music (one of my more favorite forms). But, to build his defense in an effort to try and debate me and what I said, Mr. Carroll sure makes it sound that way.

In his debut as a columnist, Mr. Carroll begins by stating that all of the ruin that occurred in Africa was a result of the Europeans. WRONG!!

When the Europeans came to enslave the peoples of Western Africa, some of those that were enslaved were peoples that were conquered by other tribes. These conquering tribes sold these people off as a means of revenge and to get rid of them. This could even be the first example of "black on black crime".

Furthermore, not all Ancient Africans got along. There are tribes in Africa that are still at war with each other. Just because their skin and continental origins are the same, these tribes see themselves as very different.

There is evidence for the "punctuated equilibrium" theory that transformation of some species to completely new ones. This fabrication has caused an uproar among the tenants of the "black on black crime".

In fact, for instance, in the late 1960s during the Vietnam war, America's youth were crying, "Old enough to go to war, old enough to vote!" At this time, the national voting age was 21. But by their concern, President Nixon enacted the law that changed the voting age to 18 and during his administration, our involvement in this war ended.

We, as young people, can no longer just sit idly by and complain about the wrongs and ruin of this nation. It is time we stand up and take charge to make America the great nation that it is capable of being.

Possibilities

The debate of evolution continues

I did appreciate Wesley Schwein's reponse to my column from October 2. This is the kind of thinking dialogue I wanted to promote by starting the "Possibilities" column.

However, there are some quirks in Mr. Schwein's response that I want to point out without going into to many details.

First, saying something is a fact does not make it a fact.

In light of this, what do the fossil records really say?

Contrary to popular belief, they do not produce evidence of evolution. The vestigial organs and the sedimentary skeletal imprints that have been found do not show evidences of organisms' transitory changes. Rather, they point to either extinct or still living life forms.

They show whole groups of species appearing suddenly at all level of earth's crust. This dilemma has prompted many evolutionary scientists to concoct, without any support from the fossil records, the "punctuated equilibrium" theory that says that between the stationary intervals of species' existence occurs a sudden transformation of some species to completely new ones. This fabrication has caused an uproar among the tenants of slower evolution. So much for fossil evidence.

But what about the evidence of man's family tree?

Little conclusive information has been yielded from scientific findings. Evolutionary slanted speculations have cornered the explanations of the bone findings as examples of the evolution of man. They could have easily been bones of simians or some other pri­mate that appeared at the same time as mankind. Consequently, the many descriptions of the ape-men are nothing but artists' renditions, which are completely devoid of a firm scientific basis. And what about the Neanderthal, Cro-Magnon and Homo Erectus bone findings? There is no clear evidence proven that any of these so-called primitive men were inferior to modern man, though it was found that they differ in many important physiological aspects. It could be that the specimens that have been found have suffered some deformities. The slouching of the Neanderthal man, for example, has been found to be caused by a diseased skeletal.

You have also stated that Natural Selection operates at a different level than quantum physics. In evolutionary terms, Natural Selection is dependent on the need of the individual cells to survive. It is slave to the cellular process of mitosis. It could be seen as a byproduct of the quantum mutations that have been said to be there to help the organism. How can we expect these organisms to develop any better if they are not shown to be?

Another way that Blacks are enslaved is by the Democratic party in this country. The whole reason that the Demo­cratic party originally started was to help slavery advance into the Northern states in the mid 1800s. The Democrats are also responsible for welfare (FDR), US intervention into the Vietnam war (Lyndon Johnson) and tax on unemployment payments (James Carter). These things have hurt Black people, not helped them.

But neither complaining about it nor identifying the problem is enough. What I am saying to everyone, no matter what race you are, is to rise above it. Educate yourselves and stay out of trouble so that you can make the necessary changes in this nation that can free the citizens from this sort of slavery. As Mr. Carroll said, "We do not gain anything by pointing fingers."

If we do not like policies in this country, don't just complain out loud, write letters to the politicians that are making life difficult for us. Registering to vote is another way to have your presence felt.

For instance, in the late 1960s during the Vietnam war, America's youth were crying, "Old enough to go to war, old enough to vote!" At this time, the national voting age was 21. But by their concern, President Nixon enacted the law that changed the voting age to 18 and during his administration, our involvement in this war ended.

We, as young people, can no longer just sit idly by and complain about the wrongs and ruin of this nation. It is time we stand up and take charge to make America the great nation that it is capable of being.
Violent Femmes and Toasters overwhelm fans at MSU

By Gabrielle Wild

Assistant Arts Editor

Last night the Violent Femmes played to an overwhelmed crowd in MSU’s Memorial Auditorium in a concert produced by Class One Concerts (CIC). I’ve never seen the Violent Femmes before last night and it was definitely a treat to see such an amazing band that had me smiling throughout the entire show.

“The show was a huge success, thanks to the hard work of the very dedicated members of CIC and student volunteers,” CIC Producer Ron Rinaldi said. “The intensity of the sound and lights made it a true rock concert atmosphere.”

The Toasters, a ska band from New York City, opened for the Violent Femmes by really getting the crowd energized with their loud, jazzy sound. The band was made up of a total of eight members, including three members on horns, two rhythm guitarists, a drummer, and an organist. The band opened with a jazzed-up version of “Give Me Some Lovin’”. This tune really got the crowd on their feet, especially with the powerful horn section and sax solo. Their Bahamian-style song “Fire In My Soul” made the audience get up and start to ska dance in the aisles of the auditorium. Students even began getting on the stage and dancing with the band. This was one band that you couldn’t help but tap your feet and clap your hands to. The Toasters definitely did an excellent job getting the crowd ready for the main attraction with their peppy and fun forty-five minute set.

For those of you who may not be familiar with Violent Femmes, they are not a young band. They have been on the music scene for over fifteen years and in that time have produced nine albums. As Brian Ritchie, bass player, states, “we’re not initiators, we’re originators and that’s the thing that keeps us apart from other people.”

One might say that Violent Femmes initiated the unplugged concept, with their mix of acoustic guitar, bass and drums. Lead singer, Gordon Gano, says that “[they] would play acoustically and [they] would play on the street because [they] couldn’t get any place to play inside.” In fact, Violent Femmes got their first gig when the late James Horeyman Scott of the Pretenders saw them playing on the street and asked them to open up for their show that night. The band went on to sign to Slash Records in 1982 and are currently signed to Interscope Records.

The Violent Femmes made a spectacular entrance by walking right through the crowd and onto the stage, while playing cymbals, a soprano saxophone and a trumpet. They began their set with a song about a didgeridoo, that included Brian Ritchie playing the Aborigine instrument. On “Country Death Song”, the light technician cast a red spotlight on Gordon Gano that made him look like he was an evil spirit, especially with the gloomy, slow tempo of the song.

Anyone in the crowd that wasn’t already standing, certainly stood up for “Blister in the Sun”. You could barely hear the band over all the clapping and singing during the song. I suppose this is because most people consider “Blister in the Sun” to be the Violent Femmes’ anthem. Of course, they also played “American Music”, which had the audience toe tapping and keeping the beat with clapping hands. They played a large assortment of over twenty-five songs, including such favorites as: “Nightmares”, “Black Girls”, “36-24-36”, and “Gone Daddy Gone”, with Ritchie on the xylophone. The band played for a good ninety minutes and Gano only took to talking to the audience the last ten minutes of the show. The Violent Femmes ended their show with a tremendously awesome version of “Add It Up”.

The banner that hung on the stage said: “Violent Femmes—Since 1981—American Music”. This banner says it all about the Violent Femmes. They are an established band that play good old fashioned American music. The next concert sponsored by Class One Concerts is the “1964” Tribute Show on Sunday, October 19, 1997 in the Student Center Ballrooms.

Living At Home is an enjoyable experience

Living At Home, directed by Ian J. Antonnoff, is the latest Player’s production. Just recently graduated, Ian has directed one-act productions by Player’s before, but this is his first feature-length directing debut, and in this he has done a fine job.

Written by Anthony Giardini, Living At Home deals with “how to cope with life after life as you know it has ended.” We enter the life of twenty year old, John Boyle, played by Justin N. Bourgeois, in November 1963 after the Kennedy assassination. As a country deals with the fate of its fallen hero, and dreams that are now lost, John Boyle deals with his own loss of idealism. This play is a bit reminiscent of The Graduate sans Mrs. Robinson.

Justin succeeds in portraying the isolation John feels even though he is surrounded by family. Constantly whining and questioning people’s motives, Justin’s performance of a disillusioned college dropout is indeed, believable.

Sean Patrick Hale’s performance as John’s father, Eddie Boyle, was another stand out in this two-act drama. His posturing and use of a weary voice realistically portrayed that of a beaten down owner of a bowling alley. He is just trying to get by in life, while still trying to be optimistic about the future.

John’s brother, David, played by Philippe Levesque proves a foil to John. The upright, upholder of society and it’s values and his fiancee, portrayed by Adriana Alfieri, are the model children of the early sixties. With costumes designed by Sarah Gilbert, set and lighting design by producer, Jason M. Wills, and the affect of the relentless television news reports on the Kennedy assassination, one actually believes we are viewing scenes from a small kitchen in Watertwon, Massachusetts, during the fall of 1963.

Katie Burnik creates the understanably self-absorbed, seventeen year old Miggy’s, the sister of John and David, while Glen Karpowich, accurately plays Miggy’s pansy boyfriend, Chip. Although I felt the plot continuation in the second act was a little slow, the acting was still admirable, with the introduction of John’s insecure, self-conscious ex-girlfriend played by Stacy Rumaker and the “debutante” John dates, Mary portrayed by Kathleen McFadden. After not having seen his ex-girlfriend for three years, John lies to her telling her he is still in school. At one point, Mary says, “you were such a leader in high school.” Which is surprising to me at least, because John is constantly talking about what it must be like to have been a popular jock in high school. Mary’s illusions are also shattered this weekend when she comes to the realization that John never loved her, but used her for her car and her body.

This was overall an enjoyable experience for me. The show is running three nights: Thursday the 16th through Sunday the 18th in Room 126 of the Student Center. Tickets are only three dollars and that’s a lot cheaper than those Violent Femmes tickets that you all just had to have.
Magnificent poetry reading in the Ratt

Here's the inside story on what's happening on all your favorite soaps:

One Life to Live: Jacara went to Nora about a problem she has with someone from her past. Blair's attorney suggested they get a postponement in the custody hearing. Kelly and Cassie had the hearing to lend their support. Todd insists on representing himself at the hearing since Tea is laid up. Tea shows up for the hearing to save Todd from himself.

General Hospital: Carly and A.J. get locked in a closet together but an obviously ticked off Keetsa lets them out. Brenda moves in with Jax and becomes friendly with V. All is not well though: she has a flashback of the wedding and runs out. Lorraine calls Tony about Carly's sonogram prompting him to confront Carly. Dara sings at the Outback. The man who has been looking for Felicia and the doll has found his way to Port Charles.

Port Charles: Scott finally agreed to go to General Hospital to get checked out. He asked Kevin and Lucy to be Serena's guardian if something happens to him. Julie wondered if convincing Frank to go on the interview was the right thing to do. Joe and Karen voiced their suspicions that Chris was the one who sabotaged Kevin's IV. They decided to ask Kevin if he remembered anything.

My All Children: Erica is happy that Bianca is staying in Pine Valley. Laura was commended by Scott for her work at the Community Center. Tim went off on Janet and told her he would never forgive her. Laura told Tim he wasn't being fair and he started to criticize her about the internet pictures. Erica summoned Gillian to the jail while Gillian was trying to seduce Tad.

The Young and the Restless: Nina is still critical and possibly paralyzed for life. The police questioned Tricia about her relationship with Ryan to the objections of Jill. Ashley and Cole decide that even though Victoria is back in town they aren't going to stop seeing each other. Victoria is back at work.

As the World Turns: Carly decides that she will not let her son die. Joelle bought her $50 million baby. Lucinda invites David to live at the Walsh estate when federal agents take over Fairwinds. Ben's tires were slashed and Camille gets a threatening phone call.

Guiding Light: Dinah waited for Hart all night at the farm but he was busy saving Cassie from herself, again. Annie doesn't trust Alan anymore but that hasn't stopped her from staying with him especially after she receives her divorce papers from Josh. Buzz doesn't even know his own name or who Nola is. Josh and Reva are also celebrating the divorce in their own special way. Phillip, Harley and Jenna are awaiting word on Buzz, seems no one knows where he is. Jenna is especially upset because she's pregnant and she has to explain sleeping with Jeffrey to Buzz, if they ever find him.

The Bold and the Beautiful: Macy modeled lingerie for Grant, changing his mind about the lingerie and her. Lauren is still trying to pull Stephanie and Eric apart. This time she sang a special song for him at the restaurant where the couple were dining. Unfortunately for Lauren her little plan backfired and Eric started kissing Stephanie in the middle of the tune. Oh, well better luck next time.

Carly decides that honesty was the best policy (yeah right!) and apologized to Ben and Meg for all the trouble she caused but she added that it was all because she loved Ben so much. Ben tried to talk Meg into coming back to Sunset Beach with him. An unsure Gabi made her statement to the D.A.; who decided that she had enough evidence to go after Riccardo. Cole and Olivia barely got away with their deceit on Caitlin and Gregory.

Another World: Sofia tried to comfort Tomas about the end of his relationship with Emily. Meanwhile, Nick is taking some space from Sofia. Cindy promised to convince Grant to back off of Joe for Paulina as long as Paulina kept quiet about who supplied her with the pills. Much to the chagrin of Grant, Cindy brought her fertility totem to the press conference. Grant tried to convince Josie to come to the press conference but Josie was too upset about her miscarriage that she had after falling five stories. Chris asked Toni to the Harvest Moon Dance. Paulina and Joe go away together.

Days of Our Lives: Hope is captured by natives and was, of course, rescued by John. They found the flower that everyone is looking for. Kristen hijacked Stefano's plane (I guess the natives aren't the only restless ones). Roman is back in stable condition. Fearing the worst he professes his great love for Marlena. Celeste has a premonition that Ivan and Vivian are in great danger. Vivian and Ivan arrive at the house but Joney stops them from getting a good look around.

Four Walls literary magazine treated the students of MSU to a relaxing poetry reading last Wednesday night in the Ratt. Professors Dr. Carole Stone and Dr. Deena S. Linett read their poetry along with student Joyce Selnick.

An anxious Joyce Selnick kicked off the evening by reading two of her poems, "Cancer" and "God's Grapes". Joyce explained that she wrote her poem "Cancer" which she secretly dedicated to someone, was about the astrological sign. It was a short, but sweet poem that reminded me of a young girl's first love. "God's Grapes" was a long poem written from the point of view of God. Joyce chose an even more powerful voice, especially with the line, "one day you will drown in your own hypocrisy". Joyce is a junior here at MSU studying English. Although this was Joyce's second time reading her poetry at MSU, she first began writing poetry back in high school.

Dr. Carole Stone, an English professor, was the next reader. She read several poems from her new book Lime and Salt, which is a collection of poems about Mexico. "Gringa", the first poem that she read was a very descriptive poem about Mexico. You could truly see and hear the sights and sounds of Mexico within this poem. In "La Viaja", Dr. Stone compared an old Mexican woman with her own mother. Her poem "Picante" was like a cross between a love song and a food poem. In fact, many of Dr. Stone's poems are about food because she enjoys food so much. For me, Dr. Stone's most moving poem of the evening was "Loving an Old Man". This was a long poem divided into eight sections. It was a beautiful narrative poem about a woman and man and how deep their love was for each other that he told her, "no one will adore you the way I have". After the intermission, Dr. Stone read from her newest chat book, Orphan in the Movie House published last March. "Foster Child" was a poem for Marilyn Monroe where Dr. Stone asked, "did you ever walk the corridors of the orphanage reading Jane Eyre?". The quiet undertones of this poem really made the listener feel sad that young Norma Jean. Dr. Stone certainly had the audience laughing with her humorous poem, "Skinny". The line, "it's like locker room sex...if you're getting enough, you don't talk about it" made the audience laugh so much that Dr. Stone had to pause before continuing with the poem. Of course, the poem was about how Dr. Stone's friend thinks that she's too skinny; but as Dr. Stone puts it, "I'm fat I am fat with satisfaction". Dr. Stone concluded her reading with a couple more poems, including two food poems. "Sweet Others" was about that delicious sweet treat, chocolate. I don't know about anyone else, but after hearing that poem, my mouth was watering for a morsel of chocolate. "Arachis Hypogaea", which means peanut, was cute and funny. It was my favorite poem of the night.

Dr. Stone was able to take such a common food and write about it in such an amusing and new way that after hearing it, you just had to agree with her when she said, "oh lord, keep the peanut from harm".

Dr. Stone then introduced Dr. Deena S. Linett, a fellow English professor, as a "Renaissance woman". Dr. Linett read several poems about Scotland in the voices of Scottish women. Her poem "Alma Rose Writes from St. Kilda" was an especially powerful poem, especially with the line, "I did not fear to die for the people". Dr. Linett has a premonition that Ivan and Vivian are in great danger. Vivian and Ivan arrive at the house but Joney stops them from getting a good look around.

Oasis gives stellar performance at the Hammerstein

By Kevin P. Hancock
Managing Editor

For most Oasis fans living in the United Kingdom, to see the British group live in a venue the size of the Manhattan’s Hammerstein Ballroom would be a dream. Lucky for me, and other American Oasis fans alike, that dream was a reality last Wednesday night when they played their second of two shows at the Hammerstein. The theatre, which can’t seat much more than a thousand people is tiny in comparison to the arenas Oasis have grown accustomed to in their UK performances. The small size and intimacy of the Hammerstein made for a spectacular sounding show, and an up close and personal view of the band.

Liam Gallagher came on stage dressed in a leather hat and brown sweater, as the rest of the band sported their usual button down shirts. Liam shouted, “Hello New York!” and then it was right to business as usual for the band, with their stonker on stage personalities, and their cement intimacy. If you were on the arena Oasis bus you would see two rows of seats full of people on their cell phones. The theatre, which can’t hold the same numbers of people, was still people out there that practiced the art for what it’s original purpose is, beautification of the body through art.

The arts of tattooing and body piercing are one of the oldest forms of body beautification. I think that they are both very self-expressive art forms. Just like clothes, they can really give you insight into a person’s attitude and personality,” stated Gabrielle Wild when talking about her tattoo of a seahorse, which she got in memory of Kurt Cobain and Nirvana. Not going on a whim just to commemorate his death, she put a lot of time into her decision; “I got my tattoo more for myself than anyone else.”

Tim Casey, El-I-C, who has a tattoo of a four leaf clover with his initials and fraternity letters on his ankle said, “I wanted to get it for a long time, it wasn’t a spur of the moment thing... I wanted to get something that had a meaning to me.”

Piercing, although not as permanent, also require some thought, “I knew I wanted to do something and I’m not really a tattoo person because I don’t like anything enough to get it tattooed on my body, so I decided to get something pierced and I didn’t want to get something that was going to be really obvious so I decided to get my tongue pierced,” said Kevin P. Hancock, Managing Editor.

One of the major fears that plague people thinking about getting either a tattoo or a piercing is pain. According to Ox it depends on the person. Tattoos cause more of a burning sensation comparable to a sunburn while a pain of a piercing is quick and doesn’t last long. If you are thinking about getting a tattoo or a part of your body pierced, make sure you are doing it for yourself not for other people. They don’t wash off once the fad is out.

Human canvas: tattooing and body piercing

By Victoria Tengelics
Arts Editor

The arts of tattooing and body piercing use the human body as their canvas. Whether it is a small rose or a snake, tattoos become an extension of the body and a marker of identity. The body is a canvas that is constantly changing, and the tattoo is a visual representation of this change. The art of tattooing is not new; tribes in Africa, Asia and Native Americans used this as a way to identify themselves. It has been a part of American culture for decades, starting in carnivals and circus sideshows, but it has recently entered mainstream pop culture. When accepted now, it has also allowed newer, new fashion statements. However, there are still people out there that practice the art for what it’s original purpose is, beautification of the body through art.

“Tattoo art; tattoo culture has broaden it’s horizon a lot. That comes from general acceptance, but that acceptance comes from really good artists that are able to bring out the medium from just a heart and a concept into doing what people consider works of art on people’s backs...” said Edward “Ox” Occhipinti, a tattoo artist at Jinx Proof in Montclair. He has been working as a tattoo artist for approximately three years but has been interested in tatooing as an art form for most of his life, getting his first tattoo at the age of sixteen. He got into the business through a friend who suggested he learn the art. There is no school that you can go to to learn how. You do an apprenticeship with an experienced tattoo artist; “someone who knows the ins and outs of the business as far as the business side of it...the arts side of it, how to tattoo and the mechanical side of it... and also someone who is up to date on all the sterilization techniques.” Once proficient in the art, the artist can choose to stay where he is or move on.

As do most artists and tattooers in the profession a formal degree. “It is the best most formal form of American art in my opinion. As an artist you need to be drawn to the change in trends. I think it’s kind of mainstream, it’s not like hip hop, it’s a good case I’m trying to get my balls, my balls are there and I have to worry about it but at the same time I think a lot of people don’t tend to get a tattoo they are just getting it to be cool like everybody else...” He finds doing the same type of tattoo over and over mundane; it is more challenging and fun when people come in with their own idea and let him run with it. One of his favorite designs that he has done is a traditional tattoo called Mr. Speed. It is a woodpecker with a flaming cigar hanging out of his mouth and a crown of thorns.

Tattoos have become sort of a fashion trend along with body piercing. Learning how to pierce works basically the same way as tattooing. First you must work as an apprentice to acquire all the proper tools and technique. There are still people that will teach you by just reading a book on the subject. “It’s all hands-on experience,” said Jason Reyes, a piercer who works with Ox at Jinx Proof. Jason learned by experience and practice: “You learn from friends or other people other than people that you are basically teaching you.”

With regard to the art of piercing, he has this to say, “I have different opinions on piercing for me. It’s more of an experience where its a mental thing, it’s not for shall... I don’t think it’s just for fun, it’s just for fun getting it done and I think everyone that is getting a piercing, it has to within your control...”

“The arts of tattooing and body piercing are one of the oldest forms of body beautification. I think that they are both very self-expressive art forms. Just like clothes, they can really give you insight into a person’s attitude and personality,” stated Gabrielle Wild when talking about her tattoo of a seahorse, which the song’s gentile nature, which was something the band did on many of their slower songs such as “Don’t Go Away” and “Wonderwall”, the only criticism that I had of the show. A slower, maybe even acoustic version of those songs would have brought out their pure beauty. However, tonight Oasis was in the mood to rock.

“Fade In-Out” was impressive, and Oasis even performed an unusual encore, something they have not done in past tours. That song, “Acquiesce” a hard to find B-side and one of my favorites, sounded great and showed off the lead vocal abilities of both Liam and Noel. It was the song they lead off all of their tour with last year, and tonight it brought this show to an end. Noel thanked the crowd and promised that they’d be back soon.

The two shows at the Hammerstein were part of a busy week for the band which also included performances on Saturday Night Live, and the Late Show with David Letterman. The band is hoping to boost sales of their new album Be Here Now which has slipped considerably on the US charts after its debut at number two.
A Thousand Acres moves heart and soul

By Tina Napoli
Staff Writer

W hen I sat down to watch Touchston Pictures’ new release A Thousand Acres I knew I was in store for a movie that could guarantee great performances from some of today’s most acclaimed actors. With names like Michelle Pfeifer, Jessica Lange, Jennifer Jason Leigh and Jason Robards running top billing, this movie was off to a good start before it even hit the screen. Soon after the theater lights dimmed I realized that not only could A Thousand Acres boast a monumental cast of performers, but a moving story of epic proportions as well. Based on author Jane Smiley’s Pulitzer Prize winning novel, this is a movie that portrays a unique portrait of a typical American family. They appear typical at first, but as the movie progresses we witness an erosion of family values exposing the skeletons of the Cook family’s closet. “A Thousand Acres” is as broad and dense a view of the daughters. It presents an interesting twist to the classic tale. Robards character is quickly stripped down by daughters Rose and Ginny. They expose him for the man he really is; one that does not deserve the respect of the town nor the devotion of his daughters. The tale of the Cook family becomes even more complex when issues such as breast cancer, incest and adultery further tear the family structure apart.

Australian director Jocelyn Moorhouse (Muriel’s Wedding) does a great job of creating the illusions of the American family. When the movie begins we see what appears to be a happy family with a bright future. Moorhouse creates a sense of layers being slowly peeled away to reveal the true portrait of the family; one warped by pain and deceit. It is this subtle exposure of the true family motives that makes A Thousand Acres a complex story.

Jessica Lange provides a great performance as Ginny, the oldest daughter of the Cook family. When we are first introduced to Ginny we meet a simple farmers wife who willingly accepts everything in her life with a docile smile. Through the course of the movie we witness Ginny undergo a complete transformation. Her apparent realization of the man her father really is opens her eyes and makes her a stronger woman who will no longer accept her life the way it is. Lange does an excellent job of expressing the growth that Ginny undergoes throughout the course of the film. Pfeifer also gives an excellent performance as the middle daughter Rose. The complete opposite of her older sister, Rose is not afraid to speak her mind and express what she is really feeling. Lange and Pfeifer’s performances are the strengths of the film and the two share an incomparable chemistry on screen. It would not be surprising if either one of these actresses were nominated for the academy award for this movie.

I can honestly say that I enjoyed this movie. I’ve always enjoyed movies that take you over a span of time with the characters and really allow you to get to know them. When I left the movie I felt that I had taken a part in the struggles of the Cook family. Yes, there are parts that move slow and emotional episodes that are played out, but it’s genuinely a great story. I guarantee that A Thousand Acres will move the hardest of hearts.

Shutdown invokes energy

By Jeff Kaminski
Staff Writer

The night started out as a big disappointment for my friends and I, as well as many other people who ventured out to New Providence for the Ensign/Shutdown show on October 3, 1997. Upon arriving, we received word that Ensign would not be playing. They were scheduled as the headlining act, so there were many disgruntled show goers. Ensign is without a doubt one of New Jersey’s premiere hardcore bands. But as the saying goes, the show must go on and it did.

Even in the absence of Ensign, there was still a real good turn out for the show. Even though there would have been no room to walk if Ensign were playing. The first band to take the stage was a local band named Dawning. A relatively new band, they have to work on their live sets. They had a lot of their friends there supporting them, but it was kind of funny to my friends and I that they decided to break out the MTV style mosh. Next band up was Dropshit. Pretty much the same deal as Dawning; a new band who had a bunch of friends come support them. Their music itself wasn’t half bad, I guess you can say it just needs to be fine tuned a bit.

The energy level definitely started to rise with the anticipation of Shutdown hitting the stage. Shutdown, who hail from Brooklyn, NY are one of my favorite hardcore bands. This is a group of college guys who know how to play hardcore. What makes them better than a lot of other bands is that they are a bunch of nice guys. There is no “I am better than you because I am up here on this stage” kind of attitude with Shutdown.

Every time I have seen Shutdown,
Jars of Clay elevates the spirit

By Garry Doxy
Staff Writer

It is rare that a band’s name, on the surface, suggests a deep-seated significance besides that of shock, comedy or sexual exploits. Marilyn Manson, B.L.G., Lil’ Kim, Stone Temple Pilots, Nine Inch Nails, among others, are the denotations the music world is saturated with and expects.

It is not so with the Nashville based band christened Jars of Clay. I said christened because Jars of Clay is a Christian band of four earthen vessels, Charlie Lowell, Matthew Odmark, Stephen Macon and Dan Haseltine, who want to elevate the spirit of their listeners to higher spheres.

Their newest album, Much Afraid, released by Silvertone/Essential Records, proposes nothing to be afraid of; rather, it is not a religious album. Jars of Clay is a melodic pop-rock band that has taken inspiration from several secular groups and musicians such as David Bowie, Jimi Hendrix, Def Leppard and Depeche Mode.

The energy of the acoustic guitars and arrangement of the songs hint, undoubtedly, at the influence of Jimi Hendrix and David Bowie. The earthy sound of the mandolin, played by Matthew Odmark, stresses the melodic pop-rock sound of the band.

The lyrics of the songs, even though echoing some biblical passages, depict the feelings of our lost and afraid generation. There is a sense of deep searching for answers and maturity in both the voices and lyrics.

“Blessed are the shadows. Depth they would never find. If I was not so weak; if I was not so cold; if I was not so broken, afraid of growing old; I would be frail,” sings the band’s four members in the single “Frail”.

Above all this continual identification with the listener is what the band wants to keep in their music. They want to “show that [they] can just be normal human beings who love and accept people and who don’t fit under the stereotype of being judgmental or preachy, or just have an agenda to convert people.” This is why Haseltine sings in “Tea and Sympathy”: “It’s not the way it has to be. Don’t trade our love for tea and sympathy.”

If you love melody, musical intimacy and have a wide opened heart, I strongly suggest Jars of Clay’s Much Afraid.
Aries (March 21 to April 19) Your lucky numbers are 6, 63, 19, and 25. Speaking of which, back in my day, you could buy a car for 25 cents—and you could 99 cans of coffee for half a penny! You can't get anything for 25 cents anymore!

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Don't neglect the needs of a loved one this week...like my ungrateful kids have. They dropped me off at this place, and barely call me at all. Spoiled brats!

Gemini (May 21 to June 20) Always give up your seat in a bus to a senior citizen, or we will beat you. Don't you dare think that we lost the moxie!

Cancer (June 21 to July 22) You are musical creative spark in your mind this week. Well, at least what you kids call 'musical'—it's only noise nowadays. You can't understand any words in those songs. That guy Pink Floyd and his Deaf Zeppelin—I just don't understand any of it... Now Frankie or Dean—they were real musicians!

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 22) Lookout for bargains this week—shop to your heart's content. Buy all of those weird clothes that you kids seem to like a lot. What a bunch of freaks.

Virgo (August 23 to Sept. 22) Scrimp and save your money to use for a later date. (To let you all in on a secret, I have millions of dollars stashed away in a Swiss bank account. Do you think I'm giving any to my ungrateful brats when I croak? Ha! They aren't getting a cent. I'm giving it all to my secret lover, Fabio.)

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Coupon clipping will help you save money in the things you need. Like what? Depends™!

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Your love of prunes will be your downfall. You will eat a bag of your favorite dried fruit, get 'motivation' to go to the bathroom, and fall by the toilet. You will not be able to get up.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) After watching ninety hours of talk shows, you will believe you are Rikki Lake. Wait—that's just my senile 104 year-old roommate. Sorry.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) My Senior Citizen Psychic Sight™ predicts that you don't have much time left on this planet. But look at this way: You never have to experience the horrors of eating nursing home food.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) Watch out this week, your computer will go haywire. I don't have to worry about that—I never believed in those new-fangled contraptions. I still think that color TV is a bad idea. Look what it did to your kids—you're all nuts!

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) This is a good week to give up cigarettes, alcohol, or other bad habits. When I was your age during the depression, we had to give up food, since we all had no money. I lived by eating air during my childhood. Did you ever try eating air casseroles or air pies? They have no taste whatsoever! All of you don't know how good you have it, you ungrateful brats!

The newest attorney at the world’s most powerful law firm has never lost a case. But he’s about to lose his soul.
Ron Lewis making his mark at MSU

By Lori Meyers
Staff Writer

Ron Lewis is a Sophomore Tailback who is versatile in attitude and performance. As a Freshman, Lewis played as a Defensive Back and Return Specialist. This year Lewis returns to the football field as a powerful Tailback. But, no matter what side of the ball he is on, he executes his aggressive, lightning fast maneuvers.

“Ron is an excellent football player with tremendous skill and athletic ability. Since Ron has been around the ball more, the results have been outstanding,” said Coach Giancola in a recent interview.

“We don’t play soft, we play every game like it’s a championship game,” replied Lewis. This was certainly proved on October 11th with their 30-3 victory over Kean College, with Lewis scoring 2 of the something I feel comfortable with. I like the challenge and I am used to the attention.

Included with Urbina’s win at second singles, 6-3-7-5, and Anderson’s victory at fifth singles, 6-3-6-1, MSU scored victories in third singles with Sophomore Nicole Fredricks, 6-2-6-4, Angela Grande, sixth singles (6-2, 4-6, 7-5), Jakober and Urbina, first doubles (8-5), and Anderson and Stabiley, third doubles (8-0).

Fredericks and Stabiley commented on their game performance.

“I had to rely on my forehand the whole game,” said a smiling Fredricks. “My serve and backhand were consistent throughout the entire match. I got the win and that’s what counts.

Stabiley, who did not start playing tennis until her sophomore year in high school, misses her tremendous athletic ability and joy for the game to be successful.

“I have a good time when I play,” said Stabiley. “I came to MSU not knowing a great deal of technique but Coach Hall has done such a wonderful job in taking time to work with me.”

Assistant Coach Marvin Hall, who back in 1969 played against the number one basketball team in the country (Wesquehic High School), was very proud of Stabiley’s performance.

gave us a good pep talk at half time, and we just charged up and came out,” said Roberts.

With the 3,000 in attendance still buzzing from the last score, 21 later junior linebacker Keith Grayner intercepted Mantone’s pass from the shotgun, and returned it 32 yards for MSU’s third touchdown in 50. Giancola’s half-time speech, inspiring his players to score 30 unanswered points was not fiery and intense as some would expect.

“I knew we were going to win,” Giancola said. “It was a very quiet kind of atmosphere, everybody was focused and really on-line with what I was saying.”

Mike Stoehr tacked on another 3 points, connecting on a 22 yard field goal late in the fourth quarter, making the score 30-3. With this win the Red Hawks extend their winning streak to two games, while the Cougars fall to 1-5 after defeating William Patterson 21-9 last week.

Keam’s only score was a 37 yard field goal from sophomore Douglas Kennedy coming half-way through the second quarter. Mantone went 9-25 for 91 yards with two interceptions, while Coomey made 6 of his 15 for 62 yards and had one pick. Both quarterbacks were sacked 6 times.

Next week the Red Hawks look for their third straight victory at home, and fourth win of the season as they face William Paterson, Sat. at 7:00. Eves also turn toward the record books as Giancola approaches his hundredth win. Although the players have the milestone in mind, Giancola downplays its importance.

“I really want to give him the hundredth win,” professed Roberts. “I’d like to be known as one of the players that coach Giancola had on his hundredth win team.”

“I don’t think it means anything,” admitted Giancola. “The numbers are secondary.”

Rugby newest on the list of things to do at MSU

By Nicholas Clunn
Staff Writer

With the plethora of things to do here at Montclair from Ski Racing to writing for the Montclarion, one more activity has been added to the list of clubs, organizations and groups. For only the second time in its history Montclair State University will have it's very own Rugby team.

Danny Marain a graduate student, founding the club this year, played rugby at Rutgers University. By starting a club at Montclair he could continue playing a game he loves while opening, according to Marain, one of the fastest growing club sports to MSU students.

“Rugby is a very social and physical game,” said Marian.

Rugby, for those who are unfamiliar with the game implements the disciplines of football and soccer. The object of the game, according to the International Rugby Football Board’s, The Laws in Plain English, “is that two teams of fifteen, ten or seven players each should, by carrying, passing, kicking and grounding the ball, score as many points as possible.”

“I enjoy playing Rugby, I play it where I came from,” said Kasina Munene a freshman originally from Kenya, “You got to be skillful and a quick thinker.”

The current rugby squad of currently eleven players, has a large international contingent, consisting of players from Australia, and England. The remainder of the squad encompasses graduate, undergraduate, commuters and on campus residences, truly representing MSU’s student diversity. Many of the students involved knew nothing about Rugby previous to joining the club, but signed on primarily to keep in shape.

“I joined Rugby to do something physical,” said Andrew Jakib, a junior Australian foreign exchange student.

Although players like Jakib play rugby for its physical aspects, some avoid it for the same reason. Rugby does involve tackling, but by learning correct playing techniques, individuals can greatly reduce their chance of getting hurt.

“Like all sports, one can be injured at anytime, but by learning the right and wrong way of playing the game one can avoid injury,” said Marian, who has been playing for four years and still lives to tell about it.

After beating up on the opponent, most rugby matches conclude with a party with the other team, mirroring English traditions. This not only encourages team unity but creates new friendships with rugby players from other schools.

“The parties can be fun,” said Fred Snow, a junior exchange student from England, who plays in his home country.

The Montclair Rugby Club will begin their season next semester, however they now have weekly practices every Thursday, meeting at the field house at 5:15pm. In the spring they will be playing other club teams from the tri-state area including Seton Hall, NYU and Rutgers, who are on the tentative schedule. Since MSU does not have a Rugby field yet, all games will be played away.

The Rugby Club still needs a few good men to fill the team. If you are interested in signing up, even if you have not touched or seen a rugby in your life call Danny Marian at (201) 791-3118.
Red Hawks defense shuts down Kean 30-3
Third quarter explosion sparks victory; Giancola two games away from 100th win

By Nicholas Clunn
Assistant Sports Editor

After a lackluster first half, the Montclair State football team came back to score 30 points in the second half, handily defeating Kean University 30-3 at Sprague field Saturday night.

The Red Hawk defense came up big, causing four turnovers, three of which led to touchdowns. This win, improving MSU’s record to 3-2, also brings MSU’s head football coach Rick Giancola just two wins shy of reaching the 100 win mark, a milestone achieved by only two other New Jersey collegiate coaches.

Sophomore running back, Ron Lewis rushing for 111 yards, scored two touchdowns and averaged 11.1 yards per carry against the Cougar defense. Lewis’s inspiration was two fold, one to show that the Red Hawks are a force in the NJAC, and two, to prove to former high school opponents now playing for Kean that Ron Lewis is a success on the college level.

“With Kean it was more personal,” said Lewis. “I faced a lot of guys that played from Long Branch on the team, it was a big rivalry game for me.”

Montclair’s special team set up the first touchdown after sophomore Keith Graham forced Kean senior kick off returner Jerome Porter to fumble the ball into the hands of junior Keith Izza. Lewis, on the following drive’s first play, rushed left for the 25 yard go-ahead touchdown, making the score 7-3.

After Kean went three-and-out, MSU regained possession for only three plays until Brian Cooney coughed up the ball after being sacked. After a Jemik Adams recovery, Kean freshman quarterback Matt Mantone threw a pass into the hands of MSU sophomore linebacker Kirk Patrick Capers. Starting from the MSU 37 it took Lewis only five straight rushes before he reached the end zone, cumulating 63 yards in that one drive alone. Lewis credits his success to the offensive line.

“Every chance I get I’m always congratulating them,” said Lewis. “Most running backs don’t give their offensive line much praise and congratulations, but that’s totally opposite.”

After only :29 elapsed, junior lineman Shawn Roberts in one of his three sacks, jostled the ball from an unsuspecting Mantone. Graham recovering the loose ball, easily returned the ball for the 32 yard touchdown. According to Roberts, the defense’s change in performance between halves was not due to a change in strategy, but a change in attitude.

Red Hawk Report

Football - Sophomore tailback Ron Lewis was voted Player of the Week by the staff of the NJAC News, the news publication circulated to the members of the New Jersey Athletic Conference. Lewis was honored for scoring two touchdowns for the third consecutive game this season.

In the game against Kean University, Lewis scored two touchdowns within four minutes earning him the lead scorer position.

If you know of any Montclair State University athlete who have been recently honored or profiled by any media publication broadcast production, or organization, please submit information to: Sports Department, Montclarion, Student Annex Center Rm. 113, Upper Montclair, NJ 07043, or call (973) 655-5169.

Men’s B-ball coach DelTufo resigns

Staff Report

Montclair State University head men’s basketball coach Nick DelTufo announced his resignation from Montclair State University Tuesday after coaching for six seasons to assume his duties as assistant principal at Clifford Scott High.

DelTufo said in a Star Ledger interview yesterday that new responsibilities and commitments influenced his decision to leave.

“Longer daytime hours, as well as night and weekend duties, have made it virtually impossible for me to fulfill my commitment as head basketball coach,” said DelTufo.

Assistant coach Darryl Jacobs was named head coach on an interim basis to head the basketball team as it begins its season next month. Jacobs, who has held the position for two years, looks forward to the opportunity.

“Every chance I get I’m always congratulating him,” said Jacobs. “I just didn’t think it would come this quickly, but I’m ready and anxious to meet all the challenges that are ahead.”

Montclair plans to conduct a post season search for a new coach for the 1998-1999 season.

Since DelTufo assumed the position in 1991, produced two teams who went to NCAA post-season tournaments consecutively and was named the 1993-1994 Kodak Division III Atlantic Region Coach of the Year.

DelTufo also organized overseas games for the first time ever in the basketball program, starting in Malaga, Spain for a ten day, three excursion.

DelTufo finished his season with a 59-69 record, finishing last year with a 12-13 season, losing the first round of the ECCAC Tournament to Mount St. Mary’s of New York.

Jacobs, who has played internationally and professionally in Lima, Peru, and was All-American during his college years.

Jacobs expressed his gratitude for his boss and commented on the contributions DelTufo has made to the basketball program.

“I want to publicly thank Nick (DelTufo) for everything he’s taught me, and everything he’s done for me. I will always owe him a debt of gratitude. I also like to thank the University for giving me this chance, and I look forward to an exciting season.”
