Profile: President Cole readies to paint the picture of MSU’s future

By Kevin P. Hancock
Editor-in-Chief

The first things you notice while walking to the corner office of Montclair State University’s new president, Dr. Susan Cole, are the large portraits lining the hallway outside. They’re all portraits of the seven MSU presidents that preceded her—Chapin, Dickson, Richardson, Reid —most of whom now have campus buildings named after them and all of them men. Walk into the office and you encounter an unprecedented sight in MSU’s 90-year history. Cole, a short woman with wispy gray hair and a big smile, steps out from behind her large desk and into the gaping canyon that is her new office.

It dwarfs her and its mostly white photo of Esther Hubart, a leader of the Woman’s Suffrage movement in the late 1800s. The poster is titled “Our North American Foremothers.”

“I got that poster in 1972,” said Cole. “That was back in the days when the woman’s move-
Egyptian officials search for cause of fatal crash

KAFR EL-DOUAR, Egypt - Egyptian officials sought on Monday to pin down the cause of a train crash that killed at least 45 people and injured 100 in this northern town.

"We are awaiting a technical committee to check the situation and decide the reason for the accident," Transport and Communications Minister Soleiman Metwalli told reporters at the scene.

Asked about reports that the train's brakes had failed, he said: "This will be confirmed after the investigation."

The Interior Ministry updated the casualty figures from a toll of 43 dead and 90 injured given earlier in the day. Kafir El-Douar hospital said 118 people were injured, of whom 103 were in a serious condition.

Meteorologists said the crash was caused by a sandstorm that could have caused the train's brakes to fail.

Egyptian officials sought on Monday for the Essex County Prosecutor's Office to question the suspect and two other people who were with him.

For Rutgers & MSU deans it's more than just business

By Christine Ogilvy
News Assignment Editor

RSU and Rutgers University's acting business deans have more in common than the same title—they live in the same household.

Alan Oppenheim, acting business dean at MSU, and Rosa Oppenheim, acting business dean at Rutgers University, are the only married couple in the U.S. currently holding these positions simultaneously.

Alan Oppenheim was appointed acting dean of MSU in 1997. He began his career here as a professor and also served as Chair of the Department of Information and Decision Sciences. He received his undergraduate degree from Polytechnic University and his doctorate in business administration from NYU.

Rosa Oppenheim was appointed acting dean at Rutgers in January 1998. She studied chemical engineering and received her Ph.D. from Polytechnic University.

Along with the same Alma Mater, both share wisdom, ideas and expense accounts. Attending the same conferences saves money for both schools.

"We split the hotel bill, not everybody can do that," said Alan.

In the same manner, when it comes to sharing ideas, both MSU and Rutgers benefit from the shared knowledge of this couple. They are not rivals, but team players. Proof of their team spirit is displayed in the two textbooks that they put together, "Management: Tools and Methods for Improvement, and Tools and Methods for the Improvement of Quality," published by Richard D. Irwin.

Along with their love for one and other, both love teaching and find that to be the toughest thing to give up for their post as deans. Therefore, when the official position at Rutgers opened up, Rosa did not apply to be a candidate for the position. A new dean has been hired at Rutgers and will take the position over in January 1999.

On the other hand, Alan will be a candidate when the official search for Dean of Business Administration begins at MSU, which will be in the very near future. Having come this far, he is hopeful to continue on this upward slope.

Both Alan and Rosa share their knowledge with two sons. The eldest, who is 24, is attending Columbia Law School while the youngest, who is 19, is a sophomore at Northwestern University in Illinois. Perserverance and skill certainly prove their existence in this family.

Weekend AIDS walk raises money for stricken children

Over $700 was raised during MSLLHA's first ever Pediatric AIDS Walk

By Michael Mai
Special to The Montclairian

The Montclair State Speech-Language-Hearing Association (MSLLHA) held the first ever Pediatric AIDS Walk Saturday on Reservoir Road near the Montclair State University campus.

A number of MSLLHA's members, along with their friends and families, gathered near a walking path on Reservoir at 10 a.m. for a five kilometer (3.1 mile) walk to raise money for the Elizabeth Glaser Foundation for Pediatric AIDS.

The turnout of 14 raised somewhere between six and seven hundred dollars for the Foundation according to MSLLHA President Susan Gass.

"We are pleased with the donations we got," Gass said.

The money will be sent to the Foundation for use in areas of drugs, education and more comfortable living for children stricken with HIV and AIDS.

Legislation addresses Hate Crime reporting

because of who he is, we are weakened as a society," said Tericelli.

Knowing more about these reprehensible crimes is a vital step toward eradicating them. "Sobriety check is a great idea. I personally know people who have been severely injured and killed by drunken drivers," Ted Dupont, who lives in Montclair but commutes to New York City on a daily basis, believes these sobriety checks should be carried out more often.

"I am totally against sobriety checks. One reason is that it is annoying and no one ever notifies me of when these checks are being carried out. I am sorry they did it," Heineman lashed out.

"I think sobriety checks are only an inconvenience for people who know they have been drinking. To act as deterrent against drunk drivers or drivers who are under the influence, I believe that these checks should be carried out every once in a while," commented Anton Wheeler, President of the Student Government Association.

Kamala Ramingham, an MSU Accounting major, thinks although sobriety checks interfere with people's time, it should be carried out more often.

"I believe the checks the police did were beneficial because they kept two people from either causing accidents or being in one due to intoxication," stated Ramingham. "They were arrested because they were over the limit of alcohol allowed to be consumed in a person's body in order to be considered fully conscious and functional."

"I feel that these sobriety checks are definitely a good idea. Too many lives are being destroyed due to drunk driving. Sobriety checks allow police officers to reinforce the necessary laws dealing with drinking and driving. Even though these checks take time and interfere with people's privacy, it is worth having them. People's lives are the most important thing. It is unfair for innocent people to end up crippled or dead because of reckless drunk drivers," said Michael Amin, an Italian major.

This was the second sobriety check was carried out in Montclair since the beginning of this year.

cole sees university as ambitious this fact, much more is at stake. MSU is in a transition period, growing faster than it ever has before. The man responsible for jump-starting much of that growth, former president Dr. Irvin Reid, left last September. Now Cole has ahead of her the task of filling Reid’s big shoes and big office. Officially president on September 1, Cole is still getting accustomed to the feel of the campus and still looking to get a full understanding of MSU’s biggest issues and problems, but it will not be long before the decisions she makes affect everyone in the MSU community.

While Cole is proud of what she has accomplished as a woman, she is eager to prove that she is more than just the first “woman president.” Really, Cole doesn’t see what the big deal is.

“I think that it is really interesting that it was as exciting and interesting of a fact for the MSU community. I first learned of it when I read a headline,” says Cole. “When I was appointed president they sent me some of the press and I saw a headline in one-of-the-Jersey papers read - ‘First woman appointed head of MSU.’ It had never even occurred to me that that was an issue for the campus.”

Cole chooses to look at the issue differently.

“I don’t think of myself as a woman president. I think of myself as a president. When somebody points it out to me it is clear that to the rest of the world I am a ‘woman president’ and that tells us something about the world out there, that it is still unusual,” says Cole. “As a woman president, it gives me a particular responsibility to help others, both men and women, understand that gender does not define what you can and cannot do in the world. Not that it bothers me at all that people view me in that way and maybe its even helpful to other women that they do.”

Cole’s attitude on the issue may make her the perfect representative of the contemporary woman’s movement: someone who refuses to use the issue as a crutch, but still realizes its importance and the positive effect she can set for other women.

Behind the woman it has been a long road of experience in public education that has gotten Cole to her current position. A former English professor, Cole holds three degrees in English and literature—a BA from Columbia University’s Barnard College and an MA and Ph.D. from Brandeis University. Her professional career began in 1968 when Cole, a Brooklyn native, worked as an assistant professor of English at the City University of New York. Later, she served at Rutgers University as Vice President for University Administration and Personnel from 1980 to 1992 and then moved on to be president of Metropolitan State University in Minneapolis from 1993 until last year. It was her time at Rutgers and the people she worked with there that she has particularly fond memories of.

Alongside the poster of Morris on Cole’s office wall hang photographs of former Rutgers Executive Vice President T. Edward Bloustein, both of whom Cole worked closely with.

“They were immensely intelligent and that is an attribute that I really admire in people. They were risk takers and that’s where real accomplishments are born,” says Cole. “We did a lot of exciting things at Rutgers those days. They were willing to leap off a cliff in the morning and assume that by evening they would have learned how to fly.”

Will Cole be jumping off of any cliffs soon?

“I really do try to take risks. I also think that I really do try to take risks. I also think that I try to help people not be afraid.”

Pond, her friend and former co-worker, is very optimistic about what Cole and her way of thinking will bring to MSU.

“I have been enormously impressed with her ability to rally the university community interest in moving forward,” said Pond. “With MSU’s new standing in the world, it is very promising that they have turned to a person like Susan. I’m going to be watching very closely.”

“With MSU, standing in the eyes of the world around it is always top priority. You only have to look at the proud headline on its Alumni Life newsletter: ‘MSU is one of the top 5 northeast regional universities, according to U.S. News and World Report.’ According to Pond, Cole will be able to continue MSU in that direction.”

“Rutgers charged itself to substantially strengthen its standing in all the services it provided then. Susan was one of the central coordinating officers in achieving that,” he recalls. “She was our secret weapon.”

Cole chuckled at Pond’s description.

“I think that both (Bloustein and Pond) had an enormous number of ambitious ideas to build Rutgers and I was the person behind the scenes to put the pieces together.”

Now at MSU, Cole’s role will be anything but “secret.” The collective eyes of the MSU community are upon her. While Cole says she enjoys jumping off cliffs, she also seems a bit shy of the falling off the edge when dealing with specific issues affecting MSU. For now, Cole is taking the cautious approach.

How does she feel about issues surrounding Greek life on campus?

“I don’t have a generalized opinion right now. I think I need to know more about it and understand what some of the issues might be.”

The possibility of bringing alcohol back on campus for students?

“It’s a serious subject and I would not want to jump to any conclusions on it one way or the other. I think we need to think carefully about this.”

Should MSU police officers be carrying firearms?

“There is another area where I would not jump to a conclusion. I would want to study that area very carefully before I came to a conclusion on it,” she said.

Her answers are calculated and cautious. Even at Cole’s first appearance before the MSU community at the 1998 MSU faculty/staff introductory meeting in September she spoke very generally and did not have any bold statements about what she stood for, or what her plans were. However, not everyone is seeing this as a bad thing.

“It would scare me if she came in with an agenda,” said Dr. Karen Pennington, Vice-President of Student Development and Campus Life.

For Cole, the potential and motivation is there to make MSU a better institution, but exactly how that will happen remains a question mark.

“I think that this is and should be an ambitious university,” she says. “I think that as we enter the 21st century and move towards the 100 year anniversary we are going to see an institution that is even stronger with a better reputation than it has today.”

If Cole wishes to step out from behind the “woman” president view many have of her, and into the eighth president of MSU that she wishes to be, she will need to make her mark, and that time is sure to come in the near future. She is reassuring that her transition period will not last long.

“I have never been so empty slate,” says Cole. “I know a lot about the business. I usually get into stride pretty fast.”

Up to that time, the foundation for her presidency has been laid, and there is still plenty of space on Cole’s wall to fill. That photo of Esther Morris hangs in her office now, and someday Cole’s face will hang in the hallway alongside MSU’s other presidents, representing another woman who was in an unusual role for her time. What will people think of when they see her portrait?

“It’s fun to try and make the world a better place and try and make an institution really serve society,” Cole says.

“Only time will tell if she will be able to accomplish that.”

O n Tuesday, October 13, the College Life Union Board (C.L.U.B.) kicked off in five days of Homecoming festivities with the talent show featur- ing the candidates for Homecoming King and Queen in the Student Center Ballrooms. After all, what would such a competition be without a talent show? What would the Miss America Pageant be without its talent portion? It would simply be a lot of beautiful people with nothing to distinguish one from any of the other competitors, and such is the case here at MSU, where the talent show helped certain candidates to stand out from one another. While it was mostly Greeks and friends of the candidates who were in attendance, any random bystander could have seen who had what to offer the reputation of their fraternity, sorority, or organization as a variety of performances took place up on the impromptu stage. The acts ranged in genre from dancing to poetry reading and even to a display of (some) strength and agility to the sounds of a beautiful voice singing in the background. Also, Shiva Behradri of Theta Kappa Chi, along with William Ryan from Tau Kappa Epsilon, read children’s books entitled The Gas We Pass, since, according to a statement they read beforehand, they could not think of any better talents that they wished to show off. Among all the other performances of the candidates, the night was a resounding success with only a few minor technical difficulties. Preliminary voting began shortly after the end of the show and continued on through the next three days, allowing everyone to get out and support the candidates of their choice.

Singing swing seemed to be a big hit for the year as several candidates danced to the Cherry Poppin’ Daddies’ song, “Jump, Jive, and Wail.” Karyn Deming from Sigma Delta Phi tapped to it with one of her sisters standing in, dressed as a male partner, while Michelle Chemack of Delta Phi Psi showcased her teamed up with Christian Pepe of Delta Chi to perform a dance spiced up with a little bit of acrobatics. Both groups twisted and turned while the audience clapped out the tempo appreciatively, mirroring the trend toward swing dancing that seems to have suddenly infiltrated into today’s youngsters’ generations. Other dance organizations ranged in genre from dancing to poetry reading and even to a display of (some) strength and agility to the sounds of a beautiful voice singing in the background. Also, Shiva Behradri of Theta Kappa Chi, along with William Ryan from Tau Kappa Epsilon, read children’s books entitled The Gas We Pass, since, according to a statement they read beforehand, they could not think of any better talents that they wished to show off. Swing dancing was not all about music. Eric Elders, candidate for Theta Xi, showed why he is a second-degree Black Belt with his display of his Karate skills while Jaye Reaves from Alpha Kappa Psi recited poetry to the sounds of a beautiful voice singing in the background. Sunny rays bring first parade in 3 years

By Carolyn Velchik

S unshine shone through the sky and happy faces filled the crowd as Homecoming 1998 kicked off on Sat­urdays. The day was filled with exciting activities and an MSU group effort by its SGA Organizations. The parade filled downtown with a street party down Valley Road, which was orga­nized by the Alumni Association. A clown was seen making the little children laugh and caricatures were drawn for all interested by its SGA Organizations. Several other dances by candi­dates for Queen also helped to make up the night. Carrie Ford (Sigma Sigma Sigma) used her background in gymnastics to perform a floor routine combining incredible tumbling skills with dance, impressing every­one with her various flips and hand­springs. Mary McGuire from Delta Xi Delta was backed up by several of her sisters in performing a lip-sync to the song “Build Me Up Buttercup,” famous recently because of the movie There’s Something About Mary. Of course, it was not all about music. Eric Elders, candidate for Theta Xi, showed why he is a second-degree Black Belt with his display of his Karate skills while Jaye Reaves from Alpha Kappa Psi recited poetry to the sounds of a beautiful voice singing in the background. Also, Shiva Behradri of Theta Kappa Chi, along with William Ryan from Tau Kappa Epsilon, read children’s books entitled The Gas We Pass, since, according to a statement they read beforehand, they could not think of any better talents that they wished to show off. Preliminary voting began shortly after the end of the show and continued on through the next three days, allowing everyone to get out and support the candidates of their choice.

Leading off the floats portion of the pa­rade was a red convertible Jeep Wrangler, labeled Phi Alpha Phi, S.E.N.A.T.E. driving their nominee for Homecoming King Dave Gorman, accompanied by Theta Kappa Chi’s nominee Shiva Behradri. Then came the long awaited parade of floats and the performances to the theme of the 1970s. Delta Xi Delta and Alpha Iota Chi presented Stadium 64 by decorating their truck with tye dye and fluorescent coloring. Taking music from the movie picture, their enthusiasm shone through in the awesome performance that they gave. Sigma Delta Phi and Theta Xi chose the movie Star Wars while adding in a little bit of disco. Accentuating their show was Luke Skywalker, Darth Vader, CISPO and RZ2. Delta Chi and Sigma Sigma Sigma demonstrated Planet Funk and their happiness toward the beautiful day. “After 3 years we finally get to do the parade. It is good tim­ing because this is the best we have ever done,” stated a Delta Chi brother named Suave.

The Flintstones made an appearance wherever the members of L.A.S.O. Their float was the actual car from the ’70s TV show. Little children were added in costume and with props for effect. Do All in the Family and The Brady Bunch long faces for Geno Chi and Tau Kappa Epsilon acted out the characters of these shows and many others which gave them laughs and chuckles from the excited crowd.

“The Addams Family meets the Brady Bunch” is something many would not be able to pull off but, at Homecoming, the aud­ience saw differently. Pi Kappa Alpha and Delta Phi Epsilon went all out with black and white makeup and the appearance of both homes where the families lived on their float.

W hile I’ve been here I’ve been met with friendly reactions wherever I’ve gone, even when I’ve been visibly ignorant about the U.S., which seems to be all the time. I had been expecting more of an Anglophobia and to be aim of more jokes and jibes, seeing me as there is so much to laugh about. It came as a bit of a shock to hear my first distinctly American insult come floating over the air: “That sounds like a limey thing!” I heard spoken so loudly that everyone could hear. I also heard “God bless America” while adding in a little bit of bin Laden’s picture and adding a little bit of Bin Laden’s picture. Why is it called football when they barely kick the ball? Never mind. All the rage, though, was America at the core, it was all one big build up to the parties af­terwards. Everyone was on a high especially as we’d won the championship the night before, naturally, on a dry campus the celebrations were entirely sober!

The theme of Tau Phi Beta, BULLS, and Sigma Delta Tau as they rechristened “A Chorus Line.” With gold gowns and kicklines, their dancing rechristened the award winning Broadway show.

One thing that was even better than be­ing on the parade route was the atmosphere filled with excitement. Many people came out to see the main events be­cause of the Homecoming parade and also because of the American football game where we were going to win. Why is it called football when they barely kick the ball? Never mind. All the rage, though, was America at the core, it was all one big build up to the parties afterwards. Everyone was on a high especially as we’d won the championship the night before, naturally, on a dry campus the celebrations were entirely sober!

One thing that was even better than being on the parade route was the atmosphere filled with excitement. Many people came out to see the main events because of the Homecoming parade and also because of the American football game where we were going to win. Why is it called football when they barely kick the ball? Never mind. All the rage, though, was America at the core, it was all one big build up to the parties afterwards. Everyone was on a high especially as we’d won the championship the night before, naturally, on a dry campus the celebrations were entirely sober!

And how could we forget Phi Alpha Psi, S.E.N.A.T.E? Although disqualified from Homecoming due to an insecure float, their performance that they showed off from the crowd for their performance. Back to the 1970s was their theme, focusing on the wardrobe and hair of Bill Clinton during those years. Adding Monica Lewinsky, Jimmy Hendrix, and Elvis gave effect and then by changing the theme to the 1870s, they in­terpreted Indian life and its housing in the 1970s. At the end, everything was destroyed and pumpkins were smashed in the spirit of Halloween. After being cleaned up quickly and efficiently, the Gorilla came out to give his idea of a Homecoming performance. “Frogs are patriotic!” stated Joe Robbins, president of C.L.U.B., while at the same time stressing that “more organizations should participate. Homecoming is not only for the Greek community, everyone should be represented.”

The Vice President of C.L.U.B., Lori Alagare, closed by saying, “I would like to thank everyone who participated in Homecoming. Congratulations to all of the win­ners!”
Organizations come together to build 1970s themed floats

By April Marie
Staff Writer

This past weekend here at MSU so much has been going on. Why? If you haven’t guessed already, HOMECOMING was a big hit! The theme was Back to the 1970s and Friday through late Sunday was jammed packed with events. There was a football game (vs. William Paterson, which MSU was victorious), family weekend, and a parade that was very well put together. There were lots of new and exciting things to see out on Valley Road, but the highlight of the show was FLOATS, FLOATS, and MORE FLOATS!

On late Friday evening at 9 p.m. into early Saturday morning until 2 a.m., sororities and organizations working toward a common goal: having fun and floating to impress. A float that would take us back to the 1970s in a some fascinating way, light­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­­�
Carbohydrates break down into blood sugar to give your body and brain the fuel they need to work. The thermogenic effect of food is highest after breakfast. In other words, more of the food you eat at breakfast will be released as heat than at any other meal of the day. This means that the calories you consume early in the day will be more likely to be used to fuel your activities and less likely to be stored as fat.

Fruit will give you an initial boost, complex carbohydrates like bagels and whole grain breads and cereals will give you a more sustained rise in blood sugar. Protein, and a banana is a simple as it gets, but here are portable, quiet and can be eaten just one she can give you for your dorm room.

To ward off the temptation to skip meals, especially when you just can’t get to the dining hall try, keeping these healthful snacks in your dorm/microfridge:
- Low fat yogurt
- Apples, pears, grapes, raisins
- Low fat cheese sticks
- Tuna, packed in water
- Baby carrots, celery hearts, snow peas, beans
- Instant oatmeal packets
- Fat free milk
- Peanut butter (to go with the celery and raisins)
- Popcorn, of course

Keep your favorite sweet cereal on hand to eat when you are craving cookies. That sweet, crunchy craving will be satisfied, you’ll have avoided the fat contained in most cookies and a bonus, you’ll probably have gotten quite a handful of vitamins and minerals, as most of these cereals are fortified. But a word of caution: pour out only a serving size into a bowl, lest you eat more than you had intended.

Encourage the dining hall manager to add a tortilla bar stocked with low fat options such as beans, tomatoes, scallions, bell peppers of all of colors, shredded cheese, ranch dressing lettuce, broccoli, a few black and/or green olives for garnish, salsa, low-fat shredded cheese, chicken or turkey/seedless toff can work in a tortilla. Whole wheat pita bread can be stuffed with anything from scrambled eggs to salsa to stir-frys, so ask the food service manager to provide something. It wouldn’t hurt to encourage the dining hall manager to provide ingredient statements and nutritional information for the food that is served.

Remember, good nutrition may not give you the understanding you add to ace that physics test, but it can give your brain the energy it needs for the activity that must occur in order for you to be attentive and alert for it. And always make your requests known to the food service manager. He/she will pay attention. Be an advocate of good health request more vegetables that you like and less cooking in the dining halls!

DYFS speakers are invited by Dr. Zilbergeld to share their knowledge and experience with students

By Leonid Almeida

Two speakers from the NJ Division of Youth and Family Services were invited to explain their jobs and the importance of DYFS on October 7 in Dr. Zilbergeld's Political Science Class. The speakers were representing two regions of N.J. Joann Pierce from the Northern Region and Martin Alboum in the Metropolitan Region on New Jersey. The speakers shared with students a brief history of the organization that has its roots back in the 1880s. The lecture on the evolution of DYFS showed its slow growth in both size and ability to perform its task. Presently, DYFS has the right to remove a child from an abused home without the consent of the parents. Although this is seemingly a violation of the parents to raise their children, DYFS investigators have been given this leverage to allow them to protect the children with the best possible result. All DYFS investigations also must follow a very specific and accurate investigation procedure.

DYFS employees not only offer help to the children, but help is also provided for the abusive parents. Counseling dates for an entire family are arranged and closely followed by DYFS and its employees. Depending on the progress of the family, DYFS has to make the determination of what would be best for those children from an abusive environment. However, DYFS can not do its work without the help of the general population. It is important for all of us to know of the signs of a possibly abused child. These signs are:

- repeated injuries
- neglected appearance
- hunger
- unexplained medical behavior
- disrupted behavior
- withdrawal
- isolation

DYFS has a 24 hour a day hotline to answer to any possible cases. If you know or suspect abuse on a child and are calling in good-faith, the toll free number is 1-800-792-8610. All calls made to DYFS are confidential.

L.A.S.O. Hurricane Relief Fund

By Orlando Ruiz

On September 21, 1998, Hurricane Georges began its path in devastating the Caribbean basin. The countries that were most affected by the Hurricane were Puerto Rico, Dominican Republic and Haiti. The death toll and overall destruction of the island is larger than the official data that has been reported. Homes have been destroyed, plantations are flattened, waters are polluted with dead bodies and debris; the damages total over 3 billion dollars. Hurricane Georges has terrorized the Caribbean, Florida Keys and the Gulf Coast. More than 300 people have been reported dead and more than 600 thousand have fled.

In an effort to help the victims of Hurricane George, The Latin American Student Organizati (L.A.S.O.) started the "L.A.S.O. Hurricane Relief Fund." The initiative has been a huge success. On October 1 and 7, L.A.S.O. held a table with an open microphone in the Student CenterQuad where many donations of all sorts were collected. L.A.S.O. collected food, clothing, medicine and funds for the victims of Hurricane George. We have collected a total of twenty-five boxes, fifteen of clothing and ten of non perishable foods and medicine. The funds were used to purchase items that are of a necessity to help alleviate the pain and suffering for the people of the Caribbean. The items will be equally distributed by the Red Cross to the people of the Puerto Rico, Dominican Republic and Haiti. L.A.S.O. would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the help, students, faculty, administration, student organizations and especially our advisors Valentin Soto, Carlos Ortiz, and Carmen Reyes Cuevas for their generous contributions to the "L.A.S.O. Hurricane Relief Fund."

Herbal Therapy is a useful alternative against illness

By Lisa Gribben

Herbal Therapy is a useful alternative against illness. According to Varru Tyler, Ph.D. and A. DerMarderosian, Ph.D., two experts in the field of herbal medicine, there are many natural therapies that can be beneficial to many common human illnesses. Feel the onset of a cold approaching? Echinacea is proved to help body combat an immune system. It can be very effective if taken as soon you have the first signs of a flu virus. Black licorice (best if taken in lozenge form) helps soothe a persistent cough. An herbal treatment called Feverfew has been shown to help reduce headaches and migraines. Although it "doesn't help them while in progress," it helps reduce the number of headaches that a sufferer of OFF, as Chamomile is proved to have a calming effect on an upset stomach.

Although there have been many herbal therapies that have been shown to help illnesses such as the common cold, there are also other concerns that help in more serious ailments. According to a study which examined to effects of St. John's Wort on a group of 100 depressed people, 80% of the people studied showed mood improvement. Its effectiveness is similar to pharmaceutical antidepressants, as it targets the same neurotransmitters in the brain. A chemical found in hot peppers decreases a person's risk of bowel cancer. Garlic, which is a common herb used daily by many, greatly helps in reducing cholesterol, and helps prevent infections in some people. According to the article, it also "inhibits production of cholesterol and makes a person less prone to a risk of a heart attack."

As with any alternative type of therapy, there are controversies surrounding the use of herbal therapies as opposed to pharmaceutical treatment. Deborah Sampson, R.N., NPC, and nurse practitioner, explained some of the controversies surrounding the use of herbs as medicine.

Herbal therapies are not well regulated as pharmaceutical products, although the FDA is currently fighting to change this regulation. However, the FDA is also expressing concerns regarding the welfare of the U.S. population. People are concerned with people either spending money on treatments that won't help them, or being taken advantage of by some people taking too much of an herbal medicine, which can make them sick. It is always a good idea to consult an herbalist which herbal therapy is both beneficial and safe to use. Harvard Medical School and the Cleveland Clinic Medical Letters are both examples of reliable sources about herbal therapy, which can be accessed off the Internet. Preventive magazine is a good source that publishes studies done by major medical centers regarding the use of herbal therapy. Although you may despise simple acts like taking your vitamins, which herbal therapy is both beneficial and safe to use. Harvard Medical School and the Cleveland Clinic Medical Letters are both examples of reliable sources about herbal therapy, which can be accessed off the Internet. Preventive magazine is a good source that publishes studies done by major medical centers regarding the use of herbal therapy. Although you may despise simple acts like taking your vitamins, people are responsible for their own health and well being, it is important that each individual does research before trying any herbal therapy.

Although there are many controversies surrounding the use of herbs, there have been many studies to support their use in helping common ailments. Herbal therapy has been used since the beginning of time to act as medicine. Even though pharmaceutical products are now the main source of treatment, there are many people who still turn to the herbal therapies that won't help them, or being taken advantage of by some people taking too much of an herbal medicine. It is important that people are aware of alternative options that each one of us have. If you would like to learn more about the advantages and disadvantages of herbal therapy, the Health Fair being held on the campus of MSU on Wednesday, November 11 will offer preventive information about the benefits of herbal therapy.

The Twenty-Five Year Test

"It's not how much time you put in, it's what you put into the time."

On a hot August day, a crew of men were working with their pickaxes and shovels on the railroad tracks out in the middle of the desert. All of a sudden Bill McClanahan, the president of the company, drove up in his limousine. He looked over the crew and spotted the oldest man there and said, "Charlie, is that you?" Charlie, proud to be noticed by the president, shouted back, "Sure is, Bill." The president mentioned for Charlie to come over. Charlie wiped the sweat off his brow, put on his tee shirt and climbed into the air conditioned limousine. After ten minutes of talking about the company, Bill noticed his coworkers were curious to find out how he knew the president of the company. Roudly boasted how he and Bill McClanahan started working for the very same company, at the same plant, same pay, same symptoms, same problems. One of the wise guys said, "Wait a second. If you and Mr. McClanahan started working for the same company, at the same plant, same pay, same location, same problems, same symptoms, same problems, why are you still out here working with us?"

Charlie thought for a moment, then turned to Charlie, "Well, if you want to know the truth, 25 years ago I started working for minimum wage but Bill started working for the company, Point Loma."

Twentf-five years ago, Charlie was looking for something to do while Bill was looking to do something. Twenty-five years ago, Charlie was looking for something to do while Bill was looking to do something. The difference was that Charlie was in a job, Bill was into his job. The key question:

Twenty-five years from now, do you want to be a Bill, or do you want to be a Charlie? To hear Dr. Gilbert's daily motivational messages, call Success Hotline at (973) 743-6900.

Insane Clown Posse Gets the Crowd Wet

By Lynette Surie
Arts Editor

On Thursday, October 15, Insane Clown Posse held a slamming concert at Roseland in NYC. I had the pleasure of being there and having a first-hand view of their wild show. I have never seen them live until that night and had the pre-conceived notion that they were vulgar jerks that did not know how to speak about women and how to be decent human beings. I felt that they had the dirtiest mouths and the worst tempers, not to mention that most of the children from my era are scared to death of clowns since the movie IT by Stephen King.

When I arrived at Roseland, there was this awesome punk band on called Phunk Junkees. They were so animated and had some really great tunes. The latest CD, Fear of a Black Planet, is excellent. The lead singer, Soulman, was such a violently jumpy person that it made his sound even better. The whole crowd was going nuts for them. After their set was off, there was a tour info and merchandise. You can check out other CD's that run in a series called the Joker's Cards - Carnival of Carnage, Ringmaster, The Riddlerbox and The Great Mileno. There are supposed to be six in the Joker's card, and they promise that with that addition of the sixth, "the end will consume us all."

Their beat is truly own. They owned that stage Thursday night. It was so interesting to hear the Carnival pipe organ music sampled into their rap beat. I really changed my mind about the group since the concert. ICP also doubles as WWF wrestlers, but they are much better off with their singing. Though many might not agree with their vulgar and frankly disgusting lyrics, they are original. No one can take that from them.

Four Walls Spices up the Dinner Hour

By Dominic Banks
Staff Writer

The 4 Walls Band played well together and the originality of their songs was impressive. Their style is an eclectic, powerful and compelling. The music lasted for 10 to 20 minutes, which began with the best opening I have ever heard.

Their second piece of music succeeded tremendously in cutting the first, as a result of its ingenious tunes and rhythms making it truly intensifying. The 4 Walls Jazz Band was so outstanding and systematic in their performance that they can easily embarrass and outmatch some of today's highly efficient or internationally renowned jazz groups.

Nick Afflitto was excessively fearless, magnificent and majestic in his playing. Brian Bonacci's saxophone was one of the most powerful musical factors on stage. Russell Marsh's piano playing was as excellent and splendid as the flawlessly bold drumming of their overall group leader, Ken Adessa.

The one true element of the band was their unity as a whole and as a team that truly gave them the great ability to entertain the audience immensely. After the band finished three poets from 4 Walls came on stage to share their poetry.

After about four songs ICP had to wash off their sticky audience so four of their dancers/ stagehands all dressed in scary clown getup pranced out onto stage and with buckets full of water they soaked the nearest to the stage. Then the Fayco started again. At one point J kicked a foaming bottle out into the crowd and got such a distance on it that it hit the camera guy on the rear balcony. I really give a lot of credit to those dancers since they made about 3 costume changes each, from clowns to zombies, to voodoo men and back and forth again. They also had the job of refliling the bins of Fayco for the guys all night long. I bet they were thanking God that someone else to clean up that mess later!

The one song that I loved most of all was "Southwest Voodoo." They had these wicked Voodoo medicine dancers showing the stage up. They really rocked the song. It was one of those moments where you get so into the music that you forget yourself. It was totally awesome!

Insane Clown Posse, currently signed on Island Records, has a smack-in-the-face album with the release of Forgotten Freshness. They managed to compile lost tracks, songs that never made it onto albums and songs that they claim, "suck." It has hit the charts big time. I have driven many a night listening to their lost tracks and scrapped crap. You can check out other CD's that run in a series called the Joker's Cards - Carnival of Carnage, Ringmaster, The Riddlerbox and The Great Mileno.

The second poet was Dr. Carol Stone, an English professor at Montclair State University. Dr. Stone's poems, such as "In the Middle of Nowhere," "Fortune," "Sweet Opera" and "Dream Finger," were very artistic and descriptive of reality. She was not only excellently fluent in her delivery but, she was articulate in the rhythm and intricacy of her poetry.

The third poet was Deena Lint, whose poems included "Kill," "Out of the Garden" and "(on not) Meeting David at the Beach," were exceedingly enthusiastic and unique in their complexity. The poetry and music of this thoroughly organized concert were excellent. Hopefully, there will be other fascinating concerts by 4 Walls in the future. Until then 4 Walls, keep up the good work.
The Magic School Bus Makes Children Smile

By Lynette Surie
Arts Editor

On Saturday, October 17, Memorial Auditorium hosted The Magic School Bus for two shows. The Magic School Bus is originally a cartoon that teaches children different lessons by means of the magic bus that takes them to different places, times and imaginations. It is a really great show for kids. The audience consisted of mainly children and their parents, but I caught many of my fellow classmates sneaking a peek.

The lesson Miss Frizzle’s class learned that day was about light. There was a really nice light production that was put on for about five minutes of the show that the kids in the audience really seemed to enjoy. The actors used song and dance to teach science, math and different things about life. I even found myself learning something about light and the properties of it. While I know some of the matter which was taught in the show was too involved for anyone under 9, some of the younger kids repeated what the actors explained.

“Song really is a good tool of learning,” said Teresa Hindler, parent of a pre-schooler. “I am not afraid of shadows anymore,” said Garret, a very well spoken seven year old, who also refused to give his last name.

Next time the School Bus stops by Montclair, try to catch it. They put on a wonderful show and you may even learn something.

A Bright Idea, an original musical production for children entertained audiences both young and old at MSU’s Memorial Auditorium.

John Mellencamp has done it again with his latest release John Mellencamp, producing a pure rock 'n' roll album with soul. Mellencamp produced this CD with co-producers Mike Wanchic and Paul Mahern at his studio in his home in Belmont, Indiana. Since his debut CD Chestnut Street Incident in 1976, Mellencamp has been known for music that tells the stories of small town America, it's not flashy but rock from the heart. Who could forget classics like "Jack and Diane" and "Hurts So Good?" John Mellencamp follows in that tradition and is sure to become a classic.

Mellencamp's band consists of very talented musicians who play a variety of instruments: Dane Clark (drums, percussion), Toby Myers (bass, vocals), Miriam Sturm (violins, keys, vocals), Mike Wanchic (guitars, vocals), Andy York (guitars, Indian instruments, vocals) and Moe Z. MD (keys, loops, vocals). The violin has been a key instrument in many of his songs and is not lost on this CD, combining well with the masterful guitar riffs and drumbeats. John Mellencamp has a back to roots feel to it and any long time fan of Mellencamp's will appreciate its energy.

Mellencamp is a gifted lyricist whose songs have a message about social injustice and the common man. He doesn't just sing it, he lives it. Mellencamp lives simply in Indiana away from the glitz and glamour of big city life. Mellencamp's music questions the status quo without resorting to the screaming and screeching of the harder music of today. His vocals are not abrasive but smooth and clear. "Your Life is Now" is the first single released from the album and is a song about standing up and changing your life and the world: "In this undiscovered moment/Lift your head up above the crowd/We could shake this world/If you would only show us how/Your life is now." His songs range in style and speed. I especially like "Miss Misty," which is an upbeat little tune that blends the varied instruments well, creating a unique tone. It's hard to pick out any one song in particular because all 12 tracks on the album are excellent. Mellencamp, along with artists Willie Nelson and Neil Young, formed the organization Farm Aid, the purpose of which is to bring light to the struggles of America's farmers. There have been twelve Farm Aid concerts in the past, the most recent one was on October 3, 1998. Mellencamp continues to be an active participant along with many other noteworthy artists.

Among his other interests Mellencamp is also a painter and he has recently published a book of his works entitled: MELLENCAMP: Paintings and Reflections, which will be released on October 23, 1998. He is donating the profits from the book to "VH-1's Save The Music" program, who will use the money to supply school children with musical instruments. Long time fans of John Mellencamp will definitely want to add John Mellencamp to your collection. Those who have not really heard of him (Where have you been?) will appreciate his simple rock style that seems to have faded out of fashion with today's new musicians.

The Voice of Montclair State

Are you satisfied with the police escort service provided for students at night?

“No, I’m not satisfied. My last class ends at 9:15 p.m. and, yes, I take the shuttle to lot 28 (by the Clove Road Apts). But there’s never anybody there, not even the security at the booths. Luckily, the bus driver never just leaves me there and waits until I get in my car and leave.”

Silvia Almonte, Sociology

“I’m satisfied now because now it goes ‘til 2 o’clock in the morning. However, I think we should be able to call the escort to pick us up at our dorms and take us to our cars at night...”

M. Garrett, No major given

“I didn’t know there was one...”

Eric Ziegler, Computer Science

“I never use it.”

Kelly Dowling, Undeclared

“How good could it have been if there was a rape?”

Mark Lozzi, Business Administration/Marketing

Lisa Czarnecki, Physical Education

This Week’s Question:

Do you feel that more on campus events should be scheduled on University Day?

Let your voice be heard!
Call 655-7616 or e-mail VellucciJ@alpha.montclair.edu to respond.
We, the undersigned members of the Gay and Lesbian Faculty Staff Association (GLFSA) of Montclair State University, express our sorrow and outrage at the murder of Matthew Shepard, an openly gay 21-year-old from the University of Wyoming. Last week, Matthew was lured from a student bar, kidnapped, savagely beaten with a pistol butt, burned, tied up to a flagpole, and left to die. Matthew’s death is not an uncommon scene for college students. So, let them pass out. By taking just a few moments to assess the situation and recognize the fact that he had fallen down a flight of stairs and could re­ally be injured, he could have been brought to the hospital. He still could be alive.

While there definitely exists a fine line of being too insensitive, there is a point at which we have responsibilities as human beings to look out for one another. We often assume that it’s not our problem, that someone else will take care of it, or that they will be mad if we do:\n

FINEGAN'S TALES

DISCO IS A SOCIAL DISEASE

By Chris Finegan
Humor Writer

Your crazy uncle who drives the Gremlin and plays “The Star Spangled Banner” with his under arms right, is for a change. The 1970’s are making a comeback. And whether you like it or not, this resurgence is dragging you way and sex will cause you to wake up next way and sex will cause you to wake up next...

Movies like 54 and The Last Days of Disco were released this past summer, and Fox proudly presented The 70’s are back on every Sunday night. Even here at MSU, where cheesy passing fads are ignored like the period of Confusion was also.

The Never Ending Story of Lynette and Love

Once upon a time, a little arts editor was wandering aimlessly through a restaurant in Mississauga. She was parched and came upon a stool top....

How Chris thought he looked in the ’70s...

1. “Malaise” is actually a spreadable brain. She haunted the fine sir for years and years to come. I do not want to cry about how she had been taught in love with the handsome prince. He could not rid himself of the gnawing sense that there was more to life than just riding in a car. He had said that if he could not have her as the only she, Lynette began to realize this only after it was too late.

2. Should we bring back roller derby?

3. The Jackson Five. DUH! Tito would beat up Leo. Or C3PO, for crying out loud. Even here at MSU, where cheesy passing fads are ignored like the period of Confusion was also.

4. Could that be considered “the dark side of the force”?

5. Does Ewok taste like chicken?

6. Who would win in a fight? The Jackson Five or the 70’s?

7. Should we bring back roller derby?

8. You’re pretty much screwed.

TEST QUESTIONS

1. What exactly is “malaise”?

2. If Darth Vader made electronic noises when he inhaled and exhaled, did he make similar noises when he broke wind?

3. Could Darth Vader have eaten a Reese’s Peanut Bum milkshake? Would it have tasted like chicken? Ewok steak is very similar in texture to a Reese’s Peanut

4. Would you bring back roller derby?

5. You’re pretty much screwed.

6. Who would win in a fight? The Jackson Five or the 70’s?

7. Should we bring back roller derby?

8. You’re pretty much screwed.

The Troll Woman was not happy unless she was making their lives miserable. She would try her hardest to make the two so very upset that at times they would lock themselves into the house to make sure she could not get at them. More often than not the Princes’ magic portable communication box (cell phone) would ring and ring until the prince almost screamed it up against the wall. They went to a sorcerer to get the access to the magic communication box changed, but the troll called for her. Lynette was there to comfort him. She learned to hang up and ignore the wicked non-woman.

The Wicked Troll Woman was not screaming, hopefully she will never bother the Prince and his love Lynette. She was sentenced to a long horrible fate of digging caves with her mouth and a restraining order to stay away again and again. Ever.

As for the Prince and Lynette they lived happily ever after, still being very much in love, and never being plagued by falsehoods about Lynette and other guys, even about herself. She claimed a thousand lies and each one greater than the first. Lynette and the Prince could not go on together like this, but they did not want to go on with out each other.

On the last day that the Prince was still in his right mind, he went outside Lynette’s abode, and a huge milky substance was covering his ($99,42,000 Suburban) chariot. The Troll lost his mind, wanting the head of the Wicked Troll Woman for his own. Lynette convinced him to ask for the help of the wise Mistress of the Woods (mummy). She could fix their problem. For all his life the Prince sought the comfort and protection of the Wise Mistress, and finally, he was willing to let her help him again by ridding him of the Evil Curse of the Wicked Troll Woman.

In that moment she summoned up the spirit of the Troll people. The Grand Warlock of the Caves (troll woman’s dad) appeared before her. The Wise Mistress told him of the evil deeds ordered the Warlock to destroy the Wicked Troll Woman. Being that the Wise Mistress controlled the entire world, the Warlock obeyed, and with a flash of lightning from his finger, the Troll woman appeared before them.

She was forced to grovel in front of the Wise Mistress for disturbing her prize Prince and his love Lynette. She was sentenced to a long horrible fate of digging caves with her mouth and a restraining order to stay away again. Ever.

This is a true story. The characters’ names have been changed to protect this girl named Nicole, AKA the Wicked Troll Woman. Please use caution, for though she may not bother me anymore, she can still bother you.

Even though sloppy, MSU gets the job done

By Jason Lampa Sports Editor Whenever two rivals compete against each other on the gridiron, all records should be thrown out the window. Those in attendance are usually treated to 60 minutes of all-out in your face football, with the team that looks less talented on paper, stepping up their level play and putting the favorite to the test. So on Saturday night, when a mediocre William Paterson squad came to Spragie Field to face NCAA playoff hopeful Monclair State, I was expecting WPU to give the Red Hawks a run for their money behind their talented quarterback Jamie Golden. The Pioneers indeed, did put up a good fight against the superior MSU squad, but the fact that the score wound up 12-7 in favor of the Red Hawks was not due to WPU stepping up their game, it more of a matter of the Red Hawks playing sloppy and at some points were even painful to watch. In the first quarter on their first offensive play of the game for MSU, starting quarterback Jason DiVirgilio dislocated his kneecap and had to sit out the rest of the half, causing the Red Hawks to look back-up quarterback Mark Rocca to take charge. Rocca, a sophomore from Wanaque, played a solid first half, but the offense was out of whack. The offensive line did a horrible job of protecting Rocca in the pocket, causing Rocca to force a number of passes which fell incomplete. In addition to their horrible job of pass blocking, the offensive line didn’t open up holes for Ron Lewis, MSU’s tal-ented junior tailback, to run through. As soon as Lewis touched the ball, a number of WPU defenders were in the backfield ready to give Lewis a warm Pioneer welcome. Lewis wound up with 172 yards on the night, but this was a testament to his own individual ability, not to an offensive line that looked very lackadaisical.

What saved the Red Hawks from what would have been an absolute crushing defeat, was a spectacular effort on behalf of their defense, and a couple of lucky bounces that wound up going their way. Junior linebacker Ken Ford led the way for the Red Hawk defense, accumulating 18 tackles. Ford was around the ball the entire time fired a bullet to his tight end in the end zone that looked as though he had caught the ball. Bratcher had his eyes on the play the entire time, and when it looked as though tight end it was a grab; Bratcher nailed him, sending the go-ahead score and the receiver into the ground. The Red Hawks were out of danger for the moment due to Bratcher’s outstanding effort, but would still face another threatening situation, this time coming in the fourth quarter. DiVirgilio, who returned in the second half, handed the ball off to Lewis who fumbled the ball in the backfield. The ball rolled deep into WPU territory, and had at least five or more chances to pick up the ball and carry into the end zone. The Pioneers were unable to pounce on the ball, and the Red Hawks recovered ending the WPU threat.

This Homecoming weekend proved to be very successful for MSU's men soccer team. They improved their record to 11-1-2, defeating Rutgers-Camden by the score of 2-1 at MSU’s Pittser field before a crowd of 232, and defeated SUNY-Old Westbury this past Tuesday at New York. Saturday's win also gave head coach Rob Chesney his 100th career victory as the MSU coach, and an overall record of 100-47-9. Congratulations Coach Chesney!

The Montclair State Red Hawks (5-1) held the William Paterson Cougars to come out on top 12-7 in an ugly game that featured 16 penalties (10 by MSU), eight fumbles (6 by MSU). It was the MSU defense that stood out throughout the game, as the overall offensive effort was inconsistent throughout the game. Montclair State played a flawless game defensively with a number of players coming up big in the game. Keith Isa, Jason Bratcher, Sam Mickens and Sam Mills all had big defensive plays throughout the game. Isa (LineBacker) who played with pain throughout and a sprained ankle said, “When you play William Paterson, pain has got to be put aside, you have to go after the ball for four quarters.”

The Scarlet Hawks again proved to be very successful for MSU’s men soccer team. They improved their record to 11-1-2, defeating Rutgers-Camden by the score of 2-1 at MSU’s Pittser field before a crowd of 232, and defeated SUNY-Old Westbury Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 PM in northern New York.

The Cougars got on the scoreboard first when they converted a fumble by Ron Lewis (RB) on the MSU 12-yard line and scored in two plays on a four-yard run by Vernon Wilson (RB) which was only the second rushing touchdown allowed by MSU’s defense all year. Montclair quickly rebounded by making the score 7-6 when they converted a fumble by quarterback Jamie Golden on the 27 yard line. Lewis ran the ball in for the touchdown, although the extra point was no good, wide left by Vic Messe (Kicker). Lewis, with just 18 seconds left in the first half ran for a 71-yard touchdown, which broke the Cougars spirits and backs. It would be the last score of the game for both teams, as MSU’s 12-7 lead stood firm. Lewis later said about his
