Prison-bound man dead on campus: suicide suspected

The body of the disbarred attorney was found in lot 17 over spring break.

By Dan Lombardi
Staff Writer

Police are currently investigating an apparent suicide which took place in campus parking lot 17 on Monday during spring break. Police felt it was an overdose due to the lack of visible trauma to the body.

"It is an apparent suicide, there were no other external signs to indicate it was anything other than suicide," said MSU police Lt. Michael Postaski.

The body was identified as former Montclair real estate attorney Richard Weil, 54, who has been recently disbarred and indicted for allegedly stealing $153,299 from three former clients, according to anonymous sources.

"A passerby saw a body in the backseat of a car and it was not moving," said Postaski.

The passerby called the police, who opened the car. Weil was found in the back seat, shoeless and wrapped in a blanket. An apology note to his wife and children was also found in the car.

"The Montclair Police Department did have an alert out, with him as a missing person," said Postaski.

Weil had been missing since March 4.

"We don't know the cause of death at this point, it has not been returned (from the medical examiner)," said Mary Kuzinsky, press liaison for the Passaic County Prosecutor's office.

The investigation is currently being presided over by the Passaic County Prosecutor's office, because the body was found in a parking lot that was lying in a Passaic portion of campus.

Blanton lab doubles; Bohn closes

By Megan Maffetone
Special to The Montclarion

A mixed reaction from students has developed since the January consolidation of Blanton and Bohn Hall computer labs.

Blanton, open 24 hours, seven days a week, now has eight additional computers, for a total of 16.

The reason for the change, according to Dave Fogg, Associate Director of Academic Technologies, was to cut down on the high costs of running a lab and to make the lab more accessible to students.

Students from both halls are mainly concerned about the new inconvenience they face in having to leave their residences to get to a lab.

According to Fogg, Blanton Hall is overcrowded and inconvenient.

Another Bohn resident, Heather Chutsky, who has been a part of the change, says that now that the computers have been moved, "I don't bother [checking e-mail] anymore."
Life of nuclear waste plan may be cut short

The federal government could be compelled to start storing the nation's nuclear waste in Nevada far sooner than it is now prepared to do.

The White House wants to focus money and effort on constructing a permanent disposal site, and thinks the thousands of tons of spent nuclear rods should remain at their respective power plants until a repository starts collecting waste in 2010. A new bill introduced by Senate Republicans, however, would require storing the nation's nuclear waste at the Nevada Test Range by 2003, seven years before the White House wants to act.

Lyons resigns after conviction

The Rev. Henry Lyons resigned Tuesday as president of the National Baptist Convention USA, two weeks after being convicted of racketeering and theft in a scheme to milk the convention of $4 million. Lyons is scheduled to be sentenced on March 31 on state charges, and he is still being charged in a 54-count federal indictment for extortion, tax evasion, and fraud.

Amtrak death toll could rise

With the death toll at 13, searchers said on Tuesday they might find more bodies in the wreckage of the Amtrak train that derailed and caught fire when it slammed into a tractor-trailer in Bourbonsais, Ill.

The collision, which occurred at about 9:45 p.m. Monday, also injured more than 120 people, some critically.

Bourbonsais fire chief Mike Harshbarger told reporters that everyone killed in the wreck was in a sleeper car that broke in two and caught fire.

N. Korea agrees to weapons check

North Korea agreed to allow U.S. inspectors access to a suspected underground nuclear site, the U.S. State Department said Tuesday.

The U.S. has raised concerns about activity at the site violates terms of an agreement under which the U.S. has provided nuclear energy aid to N. Korea in return for promises that N. Korea has halted its nuclear weapons program. While insisting food donations would not be linked to any nuclear deal, the U.S. earlier this month pledged 500,000 tons of additional food aid. N. Korea demanded 1 million tons.

U.N. helicopter crash claims 13

All 13 people aboard a U.N. helicopter were killed when it crashed into a steep mountain in Haiti en route to Port-au-Prince on Sunday night to pick up a Finnish tourist, a U.N. spokesman said Tuesday.

Tuesday morning, a U.S. Coast Guard team had found no survivors, said Coast Guard spokesman Fred Eckard.

On board were five Argentine police officers and an Argentine doctor serving with the U.N. in Haiti, six Russian crew members, and an American executive from the company that contracted the helicopter.

Stabbing kills mother and son

During a confrontation in his Chatham Township home on Saturday, Thomas Spranger, a 49-year-old mess­enger, fatally stabbed his wife, Karen Knispel, and their 8-year-old son, Kevin. He left his 3 1/2-year-old son Trevor bleeding on a sofa. Spranger then lunged at Sgt. George Petersen with kitchen knife. Petersen shot and killed Spranger.

The son's condition remained critical on Monday at Morristown Memorial Hos­pital. Several sources said he seemed to be improving.

State recognizes young hero

On Monday, the State Assembly honored Glenn Edwards, 12, of South Orange for helping save his cousins and their neighbors from a fire that engulfed a two-family home last April.

Glenn was inside with his three preschool-age cousins, an 18-year-old baby-sit­ter and her infant when the fire, caused by a halogen lamp, spread through the first floor. He alerted the sitter, who saved her infant, before taking his young cousins outside. Glenn then went back inside and alerted residents of the second floor.

New GER to take effect for the Fall 2000 semester

By Brian Pedersen
Assistant News Editor

A change in the General Education Requirements, implemented by the University Senate, is expected to take effect Fall 2000, according to senate members.

Questionnaires were distributed to 432 eligible faculty members last semester. Out of the 301 who voted, 180 (59.8 percent) voted yes to the change, while 121 (40.2 percent) voted no, according to Dr. Helen Roberts, the Graduate Coordinator for the department of mathematics and computer science.

Instead of a total of 58 credits needed for the GER, students now have 57 required credits for graduation. 47 of these will remain the same while the remaining 10 will consist of these new courses.

This new curriculum includes a 1-credit course called New Student Experience, and 3 interdisciplinary courses dealing with contemporary issues in science, U.S., and international areas, Roberts said.

"The new GER is combining core experiences as well as the component of the major requirements. The major is separate, this doesn't affect that at all," said Roberts.

Roberts hopes that if every student takes these same courses, then each student could take part in a more unified learning community in which ideas learned in the classroom could then be discussed with other students.

"Our committee spent 4 1/2 years generating this new GER proposal. Now it's a matter of setting up the committee to implement this change and that will take time," Roberts said.

"I imagine in Fall 2000 it will be instituted," said Dr. Alyce Miller, professor of English and Chair of the University Planning Committee.

Miller was on the original committee that assessed the need for a new GER requirement.

"Our charge was to review the requirements and then see what colleges around the country were doing," said Miller.

Currently, the committee is in need of a chairperson to organize and implement the necessary stages of the GER change, according to Dr. Richard Wolfson, president of the University Senate.

Miller felt there was a great among students and faculty on campus that the current GER was not up to par. She hopes that this will soon change.

"First of all, what I'm finding is that this school has the most GERs to graduate that don't necessarily help you," said Ursula Jessup, a communications major.

"If they are not comparable to the educational systems of our rival nations such as Great Britain and Japan, then it shouldn't be implemented," Jessup said.

Wolfson insists that the purpose of a new GER course like the New Student Experience is not to add more credits or delay graduation, but to act as an orientation device for students. "The committee has worked very hard for a long time conceptualizing a new GER but the work is not over. We have a considerable amount of work left to make their vision a reality," Wolfson said.

as the beginning of each semester. At this time they stock shelves efficiently with plenty of new as well as plenty of used textbooks and Red Hawk paraphernalia.

"Book prices top students' dislike about any bookstore," Flannigan said.

"Everyone would like books to be cheaper, but they're that price everywhere you go," Carver said.

"Although there's good merchandise and a friendly atmosphere, books are definitely overpriced," Sabrina Seger, a freshman biochemistry major said.

"They [the bookstore] don't give you enough money back," Laurente Douze, a freshman biology major, said. "A fifty-dollar book should not bring back 10 dollars."

Statistics from the National Association of College Stores and the Association of American Publishers compiled 1995 data to explain how the textbook dollars are divided, Carver said. College Store Operations receive 7.6 cents of every $1 while the publisher's paper, printing, and editorial costs are 32.2 cents for every dollar.

"There's a perception that if a book cost $40, the bookstore gets $20, and they're not," Carver said.

Before Follett was hired to operate MSU's bookstore in 1994, Barnes and Noble submitted a proposal, Hewitt said, but school officials were unimpressed.

"We look at what's best for the university," Hewitt said. "Dr. Cole will make the final decision based on several recommendations."

Phonathon surpasses $50,000 goal

By Liz Voltman
Special to The Montclarion

The Annual Fund and Alumni Relations coordinated the Alumni Phonathon and raised more than $80,000 in pledges for Montclair State University, surpassing the $50,000 goal. During 12 evenings throughout February, over 50 student callers phoned MSU alumni to request critical, private financial support.

"Because the state provides less than half of the University's operating funds, the support raised annually through the Alumni Phonathon is vital to Montclair State's livelihood. The generous support received from alumni underwrites a variety of student scholarships as well as programming for campus-related events and the Alumni Association," said Barbara Krusko, Annual Fund Director. "These funds ensure that the University can continue to maintain the level of excellence it has proudly offered students since its founding in 1908."

"The success of this year's Alumni Phonathon can be greatly attributed to the enthusiasm of our loyal student callers and the generosity of MSU alumni. The students' energy and perseverance made them a pleasure to work with," said Joan Voltman, Phonathon Assistant.

"Participating in the Alumni Phonathon was a great experience due to the pleasant working atmosphere and it was great to see so many students working for such a worthy cause," said freshman Kristen DeNuzzo. "So many of the alumni I spoke with were pleasant and glad to share stories from their days at Montclair State. I certainly plan to sign up to work the next phonathon."

"This is a great way for students to get involved with the University and the community," said sophomore Peter Johnson.

When phonathon resumes in the fall, the Annual Fund once again will recruit MSU students to help raise these critical funds for the University.

Guilty plea given for campus sexual assault

By Kristin McAndrews
Staff Writer

A Newark resident plead guilty to criminal sexual conduct and endangering the welfare of a child after attending an off-campus party at Clove Road earlier this month, according to Star-Ledger reports.

Joseph Koehler Jr., 23, appeared in front of Superior Court Judge Joseph A. Falcone in a Paterson courtroom and plead guilty to the charged accounts. As the third of five people charged in the case to accept a plea bargain, he agreed to testify, opposing two other defendants in the case.

Koehler, possibly facing up to four years in prison, admitted touching a 15-year-old girl while two other men tried to have sex with her. All were drinking at the party that evening. The girl left the party and passed out in the nearby woods.

The others involved in the case, John Carmelo of Kearney, 22, and Deanna Stevens of West Paterson, 19, both arranged to testify in exchange for dropped or reduced charges.

The other two defendants, Antwain Curry, 20, and Sam Damato, 22, were also charged with aggravated assault.

The case is still in court and there will be upcoming trials along with present plea bargains.

"This is an isolated incident and we've had nothing like this since then," Lt. Paul Cell of the Department of Safety and Security said.

The views in this dorm room are anything but interesting. Just ask the students who live here.

He'll be the first to tell you there's not a whole lot to look at, unless you're really into watching someone sit and type and type and type. "Dog Boy," who tries to lure a young woman seen on camera into his dorm, is one entry from a Web Dormer from Brandeis University. Another entry, who tried to lure a young woman, states, "If you can hear me, turn the brightness down a little because I can't see your beautiful baby face."

WebDorm.com, an Internet site where the most mundane aspects of student life are entertainment. Brought to the world by a start-up company based in Boston called CollegeWeb, Inc., the site allows viewers to peek into the rooms of college students across the country. The project launched Feb. 1, featuring eight students who purportedly attend Bently and Trinity colleges, Brandeis and Cornell universities, the University of Vermont, The State University of New York at Albany and Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

A "Great Lakes" version debuted Feb. 8 with students from Albion College and Bradley, Eastern Michigan, Illinois State and Oakland universities. Two weeks later, students from a few schools in Florida, the Universities of Central Florida, Florida and Miami and one of the State Universities, popped up. Company reps say they will eventually want everyone to see the private lives of students in the U.S. as well.

During the site's first week online, daytime viewers were hard pressed to find anything of the students, who have assumed aliases and are generally referred to as "Web Dormers," in their rooms. To give voyeurs something to look at, the students trained their cameras' lenses on piles of clothes, messy desks, and, in one case, a white wall.

Believe it or not, that's the beauty of it all, said Allison Mahoney, marketing manager for CollegeWeb. People who want to know more about what college life is really like, particularly high school students, can get a better idea by checking out the new site, where Web Dormers "chat" with viewers on a regular basis and post journal entries about their ups and downs. (I got back with my girlfriend. Hopefully it will work out this time," one entry from a Web Dormer calling himself "Dog Boy.""

And if that's not enough, visitors to the site can learn from each other by participating in chat rooms that are available even if none of the students on camera are at home, Mahoney said.

Chats during the first week included people waving "F-words" and sexually suggestive comments to the people appearing on camera, particularly women, that College Web posted a statement warning that "lewd, crude, obscene, or inappropriate behavior is not tolerated and is noticed and logged at all times." The effort didn't seem to deter one visitor, who tried to lure a young woman seen in a Web Dormer's room into an online chat. "This is babe (at the computer)!" the visitor asked, "She is a beautiful baby. Somebody get her on here. Hey...get her on here. Can you hear me you beautiful baby? If you can hear me, turn the brightness down a little because I can't see your beautiful baby face."

WebDorm is roughly the equivalent of looking online at an endless photo album. Images from Web Dormer's rooms don't come with sound and are updated every 30 seconds with help from a small camera that can be positioned anywhere or turned off anytime. A poster slapped across the door of each Web Dormer's room warns visitors that they will be on camera once they enter. Why would anyone subject themselves or their buddies to such scrutiny?

"I really like being known and getting to know other really nice, intelligent, people," said one Web Dormer from Brandeis who is using the alias "Smooz." "I didn't think this would negatively impact me or my friends because I have discretion- ary control over what I am going to let the camera see. And I'm not going to be getting dressed or naked in front of it. And there will be no major displays of affection. If I don't want people to see something, I can point the camera at my books or some state- tiary, picturesque point in my room." So, what does that mean for people who are trying to see what college is really like?

"Well, they don't have to see everything," Smoot said.

There is, however, nothing that really stops Web Dormers from sharing their most intimate moments in the world. And parading on camera, even if it includes undress- ing and a little hanky-panky, is permissible, Mahoney said.

"We want this to be realistic," she said.

"And we're actually not a large enough staff to constantly have people watching the images. We have no way of control- ling that."

"They've all (Web Dormers) signed an agreement that states we don't want them doing anything illegal," she added.

That's not enough consolation for some university officials, who are still trying to make sense of the new site and address some privacy and protocol issues that WebDorm.com's cameras already have raised. Officials at many of the schools say College Web never sought permission to put cameras in students' rooms.

The university is breaking new ground in this case, said Dennis Nealon, a spokesman for Brandeis. "This isn't someone's home, this is a dorm room, and there are obvious issues that come into play when someone opens up a residence hall for all the world to see when the university spends a lot of its energy and resources to keep those places as private as possible."

"This is not a good or bad thing right now," he continued. "But it is certain something that's new and needs to be explored very carefully."

If universities step in to censor the Webcasts, this site and others like it are doomed, students from a round the world who responded to an informal survey said. "I don't think I would be interested in watching "appropriate" dorm life," said Krista Vick, 20, a student at Dalhousie University in Nova Scotia, Canada.

Many students agreed that they would much rather watch than be watched. "Nowadays people love just seeing other real people and knowing their sto- ries," one student (look?) said. "Well, that's a moral choice."
W ith hands and heart, Nelson Nirenberg leads MSU’s orchestra to dramatic crescendos. As director of the Orchestral & Conducting Studies Program and Associate Professor of Music at MSU the “Acclaimed Brazilian Maestro...” as Jornal de Commercio titles him, feels passionately about having his students succeed. “I care for them [the students] as if they were my own. I want them to learn as much as possible and enjoy the learning process. To learn, however, one needs focus, an open mind and willingness.” How does the professor/conductor/director get students to open themselves and commit to their work? Nirenberg adamantly professed, “You may think you are only a grain of sand, but every star shines...each one of you can make a change.” Maybe it is Nirenberg’s early successes that cause him to push his students toward dedication. At age 15, he was the youngest musician ever invited to play in Argentina’s Bariloche International Festival and in Israel with the World Symphony Orchestra. Nirenberg was already a conductor and soloist with the Brazilian Symphony Orchestra at the Interlochen Festival and in Israel with the World Symphony Orchestra. Nirenberg is about being professional and teaching his students to be. He stresses to his students that they have to create something wonderful if they are willing to work. “Labor laziness,” says the professor of Orchestra and Introduction to Music and Conducting. He wants to see his students succeed and he is determined to see the music played with passion so he admits it is a “tough love,” with his students. Nevertheless, student Anthony Peeples wrote in a letter to Nirenberg, “...you, the professor, tried and succeeded in helping us, the students, in achieving our maximum ability. You emphasize to us that we should never go through life doing things half way, or just for simple benefits. We should pull our minds and souls into what we do and try to get the most out of it.” Many students expressed their knowledge of Nirenberg as professional and experienced. Student Carrie Howe writes on taking a class with Nirenberg, “[It was] a fantastic learning experience! I feel you’ve got a tremendous amount of knowledge of the music world and to share this with us is fantastic.” The “very passionate soul,” as Noticias del Mundo described him, stays at MSU because of the possibilities of the program and the students. Not only is it a wonderful experience for him to be close to the cultural city of New York, but Nirenberg feels the faculty members are interested and enthusiastic about seeing the students succeed. One of the missions Nirenberg believes artists have is to share their professional experience with the next generation. “When they leave my class I hope they’ve accomplished something.” “Whatever you do in life, you must do with a passion,” affirms Nirenberg. Indeed, “When your heart is in your dream, then no dream is too extreme.”

The Push Stars shine with the release of Tonight

By Michael Finnerly
Assoc. Arts Editor

The Push Stars, an upcoming band from Boston, might just have what it takes to be successful in the music industry. Their 7-song EP called Tonight, a self-released album, not only shows their dedication to their music, but their talent as well.

The Push Stars lead vocalist and songwriter, Chris Trapper, has a unique sound much like that of the lead singer of the Counting Crows (Michael Duritz), which blends well with the well-written, folk infused pop songs that resemble the likes of bands such as Bare Naked Ladies and the Lemonheads. Backed by bassist Dan McLoughlin and drummer Ryan MacMillan, The Push Stars have created a wonderful alternative to the latest trend of Eddie Vedder sounding vocals and sloppy guitars.

The CD kicks off with the song “Cross Town Cafe” that includes a mixture of brass instruments, light guitar strumming, an intriguing bass line, and tight vocals. This song, like all the others on the album, has been carefully written, as is evident in the lyrics. This is an interesting effect that adds to the overall sound. The song also includes a nice keyboard part that adds to the appeal of the song.

The second song, “Counting the Minutes” which brings in the sound of the Bare Naked Ladies sound, using quick lyrics, catchy rhythms and bass lines, snappy drums, and vocal harmonies, and never losing that slight folk feel to the music. This is a great example of how The Push Stars can change their sound around and still appeal to the listener.

With more of a folk style, but changes it to show just how versatile this band really is. Slowdown the pace and creating a lighter sound to the instrument, changing the vocal quality, and incorporating more keyboards shows how The Push Stars can change their sound around and still appeal to the listener.

Zuba, and The Foundations.

After all this, The Push Stars are creating quite a buzz around themselves. When interviewed by the Telegram & Gazette (Worcester, Massachusetts), Chris Trapper said, “We’ve met Little Big Wheel, Guster, Third Eye Blind, the Goo-Goo Dolls - bands of all levels. In the end, we’re all picking up guitars and singing songs we wrote.”

Entertainment News Breaks

Joey McIntyre’s new CD released this week: Former New Kid On The Block, Joe McIntyre released his first solo project on Monday. Entitled Stay The Same, it has been eagerly awaited since McIntyre announced that he was working again. On this coast, he has made several appearances to promote the album including Regis & Kathy Lee, a Wal-Mart in-store appearance and today he will be at the Times Square Virgin Megastore at 5 p.m.

Toss Me an Afgan: The Afgan Whigs are set to release their second single off their album, Afgan Whigs. “66” is expected out later this month. They have also done a rendition of Hole’s “Miss World,” but it will only be available on the Australian release. They will also open for Aerosmith starting April 11 in Tinley Park, IL.

Manson Needs A Doctor: According to fans on www.marilynmanson.com, on the last day of the Hole/Manson tour, which has now been separated into just the Manson tour (Hole is expected to start touring as soon as possible), Marilyn Manson jumped off a speaker and, though he landed on his face, he severely sprained his ankle. This confirmed by Manson’s publicist. The band has been forced to postpone dates in Phoenix, San Diego, and Las Vegas. The tour will resume on Sunday at the Compaq center in Houston, TX.

The Artist Stuck: Recently The Artist(formerly known as Prince) has filed lawsuits against website operators and Uptown magazine. Now, some of his fans are fighting back. They have started an e-petition complaining about The Artist’s behavior in this and other matters. The petition states: “While other music in general has gone stale, each one of (The Artist’s) new albums brought something new and different ... we stayed by his side, defending his actions, while the general public ridiculed him ... It seems like somewhere along the road, things have gotten off track.” It continues to complain about the prices he is charging for his new releases and the shoddy service fans get when they order from his 1-800-NEW-FUNK operation. At the end of the petition, it stated, “When it comes down to money there is a great difference between ‘Friends’ and ‘Consumer.’ As someone who preaches love for one another (which we feel as a wonderful concept), Prince should also listen to our concerns and take action to put our concerns to rest.” The petition is located at www.fax.et/’TheArtist’petition.

Go No Further: The Further Festival, the summertime haunt of shooting deadheads since the death of leader Jerry Garcia in 1995. Bob Weir and Mickey Hart, former Dead members, lead the festival in 1996 and 1997 with their own bands and occasionally together performing their old songs. Last year all the former grateful Dead members, minus Garcia, joined together to headline the fest. However, there will be no further this year since bassist Phil Lesh has had health problems. Following a life-saving liver transplant last year, Lesh has had some reoccurring problems. Deadheads one and all hope that the fest will be back in swing in 2000.

Janis Joplin Film in the Works: As rumored, Melissa Etheridge will not be playing the part of Janis Joplin in a film about her life. Etheridge delivered a moving speech about Joplin when she presented her at Joplin’s induction to the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in 1995. The artist, who has a deep love for Joplin’s music, and the fact that Etheridge’s lover, Julie Cypher, is directing the film, it was thought at one point that she had a lock on the part. But earlier this week at the Hall of Fame induction ceremony, she spoke to the press, confirming that she is no longer involved in the flick: “I am no longer attached to that. That was ... that’s Hollywood. It’s sort of something that grew from our living rooms and sort of took a life of it’s own and went away. I wish them all the best of luck with that, and I hope they treat her with all the respect, dignity and the wildness that she was.”
Cruel Intentions will leave you breathless

By Dominick Banks

It is the tradition of Dangerous Liaisons, Cruel Intentions is definitely the new movie entertainment, which truly redeems ultimate deception and treachery to the greatest extent imaginable. The film stars Sarah Michelle Gellar (The Buffy The Vampire Slayer) who portrays Kathryn Merteuil, the opulent, devil-incarnate who uses sex as her ultimate weapon to manipulate those around her. She masquerades as the noble, promising, and dignified lady of integrity to conceal her vipershot dark-side. Ryan Phillippe (Playing By Heart) delivers a three-dimensional portrayal of Sebastian Valmont, the ruthless and cunning master manipulator who tempts his innocent and pure female prey by deviously using sex and lustful persuasion.

The movie becomes intriguingly enticing as the two make a bet on whether Sebastian can seduce the beautiful and chaste Annette (Reese Whitherspoon), the daughter of the new headmaster, into his bed. If Sebastian fails to convince Annette to sleep with him, then Kathryn receives his magnificent car. If Sebastian triumphs in his quest, then Kathryn will give him the satisfaction of having sex with her in any way he chooses.

Sebastian uses his charm and sexual strategies to persuade Annette’s mind with impure thoughts of intercourse. However, as the plot is shocked to discover that Annette is no fool. She reveals to Sebastian that she sees right through his pretty boy image and his scheme to sleep with her. However, Sebastian doesn’t give up easily in his conquest, especially with Kathryn using her body to further entice Sebastian.

However, the plot begins to twist as Sebastian develops feelings for Annette that he has never experienced before. The movie intensifies as Annette gives into in Sebastian’s charms and they make love. Kathryn becomes jealous of Sebastian’s newfound love, and threatens to expose him to her. After Sebastian breaks off his relationship with Annette, Kathryn reveals that she set up the bet to conquer him by making him destroy the only love he will ever know.

The climax begins to unfold as Kathryn invokes her wrath upon Sebastian resulting in his utter mourning and a bitter smile on Kathryn’s face.

Indeed, the film’s director Roger Kumble has succeeded in reinventing the characters of Dangerous Liaisons played by Glenn Close and John Malkovich. Sarah Michelle Gellar delivers her dastardly role with extreme excellence and Ryan Phillippe amazes the audience in his role as the master manipulator who was outwitted by his own stepmother.

The film does exceed the limits of eroticism and the issue of sex in every shocking detail. There is also the issue of homosexuality which refers to Blaine Tuttle (Joshua Jackson), Sebastian’s gay confidant who seduces Roland, and a lesbian encounter between Kathryn and the naïve and eccentric Cecile (Selma Blair) which includes intense tongue-kissing.

Cruel Intentions provides entertainment for the audience. The cast was well-chosen, and the plot was crafted with efficient ingenuity. I give this an A+ for its realistic exploration into a world where lust, the need to dominate by sexual means, and revenge can bring out the worst in any young adult.

Caribbean in My Soul debuts

By Dominick Banks

On March 4, renowned Caribbean artist Peter Wayne Lewis made his grand appearance in Calculia academia to give a lecture on his artwork. Lewis was born in Kingston, Jamaica and emigrated to California in 1962. Since then, he has dedicated his life using his talent for art to create a reality that reflects his morality and the value of being human are combined. The lecture opened with Lewis illuminating his works on slides for the onlookers.

Some of the slides showed paintings that are enigmatically crafted in long, angular shapes suggesting the application of his 3-dimensional style. Lewis builds these images by using blank paper and manipulating the different paint colors over the palete. The oil and textures that were added to his works were included in his category of “things that inspire me.” He also applies physics in his work. Since physics is the examination of what matter is, Lewis is combining chaos and gravity together.

One slide featured the sculpture, Lewis showed a particular slide that caught much attention. It was a truck covered with gold and brass objects that reflected the light all around it. Yet another slide showed architectural sites in Prague, which became the contemporary form of Lewis’ 3-dimensional portrayal of discussion. The rest of the slides where embodiments of summer, winter, fall, and spring.

Lewis also stated that some of his work is inspired by musical rhythms, such as those of Jazz. “Jazz began for me with my father and pianist, Herman B. Lewis. A Yamaha baby grand piano was pounding out syncopated rhythms of measured accents as my body absorbed these oceanic waves of pulsation. My brain processed these primal screams of life and soul of the people rooted in African culture. The education of my brain with sound waves entering through my inner-ear acting as the bridge to greater sensory perceptions and humanity.”

Lewis’ Black Swan Suite is the context of a symphonic visual work. It is a dense visual web that immediately suggests that there are varied visual possibilities that build to a point of complete structure of paintings that will become an isostatic form, generating rhythmic pulsation of time, color, and space. The work can be broken down as such: the black bars represent the origin of music and the keys of a piano, the red represents the generating force of lifeblood, and the browns may represent the earth and a people in it’s dance of life.

Lewis’ artwork is all about exploring universal layers of sight and sound. It serves as a comment on the human condition as evidenced by the areas in his paintings which represent birth, sacrifice, hunting, sex, death, and nature.

Mrs. Lewis commented on her husband’s concerns and hopes for his art pieces. “His concerns are really more focused on spirituality and more universal in a sense of ourselves, which ultimately involves God. Peter [Lewis] is always being pushed by his determination to create more art. His creations are mostly figurative and abstract. People can relate to his work as a human representing other humans. It’s all about placement. [Lewis] has this spectacular talent of making people understand his drive. His is to continue with what he’s interested in and to inspire all human beings to be themselves.”

This is a man who has successfully earned his place in the art world. Lewis’ work has expanded to many countries and his work is sold into a large range of generations. His works are focused around geometrically intriguing figures that define his intelligence. Surely his future art pieces will continue to enlighten and appeal to our inner selves.

Let us hear the music play

Soloist Alexander Knox on clarinet at Monday’s Music Rehearsal.

By Vanessa Benfatto
Staff Writer

Ah, the trials and tribulations of MSU’s orchestra rehearsals! The members strain for perfection under Nelson Nirenberg’s conducting. Although it is hard for many members to live up to Nirenberg’s expectations, “It is nice to work with a seasoned professional,” said ex-percussion member, Jamie Szeinberg. Also, there is a certain amount of satisfaction performing in a concert, and having all of the semester’s hard work pay off.

For music majors, being a part of the orchestra means having “orchestra class” which is four to six hours of practice each week that is only worth half a credit. Or is it? Orchestra experience, a taste of professionalism, and the practice and recognition perhaps gained from the commitment is worth more than students may ever know.

Despite the setbacks, being a part of the orchestra is a privilege for many. Each semester, the orchestra puts on one concert. This semester marked a rare occurrence with a competition for selected soloists to perform in this spring’s concert of concertos.

This concert features many invigorating pieces like Mozart’s Clarinet Concerto in A Major, and Mendelssohn’s Violin Concerto in E Minor. The result of the competitions are violin soloists, Chris Nam and Magda Czaikowska, clarinet soloist Alexander Knox, piano soloist Saluatoro Mallino, trumpeter soloist Joe Stella, and tenor soloist, Peter Busch.

Knox, a player of three instruments, a First Chair in All State Wind Ensemble and Orchestra, and a participant of the Philharmonics of Southern New Jersey, “Likes seeing a reaction and creating something unique.”

What is the appeal of music besides its incredible power to promote feeling and thought? Well, to some students like Knox, “It comes naturally to me.” Maybe music is a key to the true genius in all of us. With music, one may enter a deeper level of imagination and a higher expansion of realism. When listening to music each individual can fade away into whatever world he or she wants. As Nirenberg said, “Where words end, music begins.” May the orchestra members succeed in creating their own musical language of passion and sparking their audience’s imagination.

These exciting performances will take place in late April for those wishing to attend. The Collegium Musicum Concert will be held on April 24th at 8p.m. in McEachern Recital Hall, room 15. The Orchestra Concert will be held on April 26th at 8p.m. in Memorial Auditorium.

Do you think that underage and binge drinking are a problem on campus?

No, the administration makes it out to be worse than it is. Nothing is going on that hasn’t been happening for the last 30 years on college campuses. Chris DeMarco, Psychology

No, I definitely think it occurs a lot but I don’t see it as a problem... People have fun... This is college, right? Allison Ordino, English

Yes. I think both are prevalent on campus, whether it is a problem or not remains to be seen. Austin Harcerode, Geo Science

No, I think underage drinking in high school was a problem but, in college, it’s a whole new ballgame. And if it’s a problem, me and about 10,000 other students are guilty as charged. Davis Cruise, Business

No, because college is the only time when we can have fun... but we also have to know our limits. Eva Cirillo, Undeclared

No, it’s college. You’re supposed to drink. It’s not as if it’s out of control. Ana Lotters, Undeclared

No, because I learned that only 35% of students on campus binge drink. Is that a problem? I don’t think so. Katie Masaris, Undeclared

Debating Mayor Giuliani's Stand On Drunk Driving

"Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted." Amendment VIII, United States Constitution

On Feb. 21, 1999, New York City unveiled a new policy that allows police to confiscate the vehicles of drunk drivers as a first step in attempting to limit the influence of alcohol. Therefore, a person who has had too many can, under this new act, have their car impounded.

What is surprising about this is the number of people who have not seen many adopt this idea. Fortunately, while we may not reject racism, I must admit that it contradicts the views of Christianity, so I do not allow non-whites into this church as members and live according to the tenets of my faith.

For instance, Adolph Hitler is arguably the most evil man in history. He was an abominable fiend. If I saw him, I do not know how I would be able to restrain myself from tearing him limb from limb.

There is a big difference between human beings and human animals. We believe that we are more than the sum of our parts. One cannot define or judge a life only on accomplishments, that is life's work, not life itself.

The New Yorker, March 8, 1999, pg. 81:8-9) The fate of one individual's life should not be held when on the Day of Judgement, the female infant buried because its driver received his/her first speeding ticket.

By John Francais

No, not the mind probe.

Timothy kept going over and over the conversation. He was finding it hard to wind and replaying it. Still it made no sense. How could he possibly have said something like that about Mayor Lyder, he thought. He just couldn't believe that he had made Timothy campaign manager in his quest for governor. It must have just slipped out.

He had been nervous all throughout the fund-raising dinner. After all, there were so many important people in attendance, the kinds you normally only read about in newspapers. But now, Timothy stood before them and watched them chew down on their meatloaf. The very expensive dinner. Their 'they darn well better vote Lyder after a meal like this' lobsters. Timothy never understood the idea of paying a lot of money to cater a fund-raiser. 'Doesn't that defeat the purpose of raising money?' he thought, 'Couldn't we just save the money and serve hot dogs?'

But nobody listened to his ideas. They didn't listen then and they certainly wouldn't listen anymore, now that he had let such a stupid statement, a statement that could very well cost him the election, slip past his lips. He'd only been trying too cool his nerves, he was afraid to admit this to himself even. Timothy was no comedian, but he'd seen the idea all the more unbearable.

As he saw the mayor waiting in the wings for his introduction, he turned to look at the smiling face. He could see that the mayor was struggling full well that those smiles stemmed from his brief yet humorous musings, Timothy could no longer help himself. He suddenly forgot himself, and slip the dogs of tact.

"Ladies and gentlemen, please welcome a man who has recently achieved critical acclaim, as well as critical mass..."

The entire room seemed to suddenly disconnect from the rest of the universe and timetravel. Timothy was a man who for the first time found himself actually speaking the words of his own brain. He tried to squawk out of the rest of the introduction before returning meekly to his seat, but no one heard of word of it, nor did they hear a word of the mayor's speech. They were too flabbergasted to pay attention.

In the morning, all the papers ran the story. "Timothy had a Teacher's Pet!" "Mayor in Load of Trouble," the reporters pulled no punches. One thing was for sure, no one was going to let Timothy get away with the mayor's weight problem anymore.

Timothy arrived at work the next day to find that his possessions were dug up on the sidewalk, including his goldfish. He went into the shop next door to give his pet a Vi­

She turned away, and plopped down on the couch. "Where is he?"

No, I'm promised sneakily.

I led him out to the front yard, seeing his food on the ground. Let the neighbors see, "Bring him a few donuts," he said reverently.

"No," I whispered. "You have to eat it outside."

"Yoo Yoo!"

How about a kiss good bye?

"How about you kiss me!"

"Yeah right you never liked me before."

We were speaking through the doggy entrance so I decided to come out of the window and claim my car. I found him in the window where I had leveraged over him. I looked down coldly upon him, "Heed me well: I do not want you to come here again!"

"What?"

I asked stupidly. He beckoned him with his hand. Timothy was no comedian, but he'd seen the idea all the more unbearable.

"You look ravishing! To every man his weakness, and food is mine. I have ended up with his AAA membership and a key to his house."

He glared up at me while scratching his head. "Ahh!" this one's. Walking into die their. I stuck my head out the window and howl of agonizing pain.

I stuck my head out the window and chided, "Tsk, tsk! You ruined my mother's name!"

Two days later I had him right where I wanted him.

"Oh, darling you look so sexy in that vest. How much do you want for your furniture around you? Look ravishing! I simply must take a picture!"

He was sweating so much he looked like glazed donut. He was perspiring, breathing heavily and making noises of agonizing pain, and he wasn't even engaged in sex, or attempt­

MSU Hockey eliminated in first round of playoffs

By Erin Dusenbrock
Staff Photographer

Over spring break, the Montclair State University’s club ice hockey team had something on their minds. They skated against Monmouth University on Sunday, March 7 in Wall Township’s ice rink. This was the first game of the playoffs for Montclair Sate. 1992 marked the first time since the 80’s that MSU has a hockey team. The Red Hawks team competed in the Metropolitan Collegiate Hockey Conference (MCHC).

The team lost several players mid-season due to strict grade policies, but successfully continued the season playing “front man hockey” only having enough players for two line changes.

A few injuries also took a toll on the team. The Red Hawks had an idea of what was ahead of them after playing Monmouth University earlier in the season. Although Monmouth had beaten them the two games that they competed in, “It’s hard to beat a team all three times,” said defenseman Curt Banicki. Monmouth University beat Montclair State University 5-3.

The Red Hawks went into the first period demonstrating their determination. With 20 minutes in each period, MSU scored the first goal at 18:08 by forward Darren Kester. Shortly after, they scored their second goal at 17:09 by assistant captain center Marc Gregory. MSU’s spirits were let down when Monmouth also scored in the first period at 12:30. The period ended with MSU dominating 2-1.

Monmouth physically dominated the second period. With several penalties on Monclair State, such as roughing and interference, Monmouth was able to score twice, both times on a power play. The Red Hawks played as best they could considering their situation. Therefore, with the penalties and Monmouth’s advantage of having both power plays, it took all of MSU’s energy to defend their goal. For the rest of the second, that’s just what they did.

By the third period, MSU looked tired and having only enough players for two line changes, their energy was fading. With 17:25 on the clock in the third period, Monmouth University scored again and took the lead by two.

However, Montclair Sate still had some fire in them. They took some penalties for tripping and high sticking. At 9:32, forward Darren Kester scored their third goal showing that the Red Hawks weren’t going to be considered out of the game just yet. Montclair State’s goalie Pete Perkowski kept them in it with numerous saves. The fire that kept them alive also pushed them towards the end of the third period. With two more penalties for roughing and cross-checking, Monmouth scored once again with the advantage of a power play.

Although Monmouth University beat MSU, the Red Hawks proved on the ice that they did earn the right to play in the playoffs.

“Coming into the season as a first year team, our potential was doubted by everyone in the league. Despite the outcome of the playoffs, we surprised everyone by getting as far as we did,” said defenceman Matt Calderone.

Red Hawk softball opens 1999 season with 8-2 record

MSU women’s softball team started off their 1999 season on a good note, winning eight of their ten games played in Ocoee, Florida.

The Lady Hawks won their opener against Wartburg University of Iowa on Saturday, March 6, by a 2-1 decision. In the game, sophomore first baseman Kim Caruso went 2-3 with two doubles, an RBI, and scored the winning run on a wild pitch. Senior righthander Sue McCarville did well on the mound, tossing a complete-game four-hitter, striking out four and giving up one run.

For MSU, junior infielder Tara Witz was 2-3, while freshman outfielder Melissa Raymond had two hits in her first two collegiate at bats.

In the second day of play, the Red Hawks improved their record to 3-1 with victories over Mt. Union of Ohio (3-1), and Muhlenberg of Pennsylvania 2-0. In the game against Mt. Union McCarville struck out five and had no walks. She retired the last 10 batters she faced. Against Muhlenberg, sophomore outfielder Alexandra Lamont had four hits, and went 2-3 with the only RBI of the game, while senior catcher Jutiscie Lascik had two hits.

On the third day, MSU was victorious over their two opponents, Lake Forest (IL) and Defiance (OH). Junior shortstop Lisa Czarnecki was 3-3 with two RBI’s, and Caruso was 2-3 with two RBI’s and a homer as Montclair State had a 9-2 victory over Lake Forest College. Against Defiance College, Lamont was 3-4 with four RBI’s and as a team, the Hawks had 11 hits.

With their record at 5-1, MSU took on Hiram College of Ohio, and Baldwin Wallace of Ohio. Sophomore Caruso made the first start of her collegiate career one to remember as she tossed a complete-game, three-hit shutout, and went 3-4 at the plate as the Red Hawks won 8-0.

MSU finished the day 7-1, winning 9-0 over Baldwin Wallace.

Senior catcher Lascik was 3-3 with two RBI’s and two runs scored, and pitcher McCarville won her seventh straight decision as MSU defeated Marietta College of Ohio, 8-6 on Thursday afternoon.

In the last game of their 10-game Florida trip, the Red Hawks were defeated by Walsh College 1-0. MSU ended its road trip with an 8-2 record.
East Stroudsburg cruises past Montclair, 18-5

Warriors’ Macauley leads surge with four goals and four assists

By Tess Sterling
Sports Editor

East Stroudsburg junior Megan Macauley scored a game-high four goals and had four assists, while teammates Kelley Lambert and Kristen Restivo added four goals each to steer the Division II East Stroudsburg (1-0) past Division III Montclair State (1-2), to an 18-5 victory at MSU’s Sprague Field this afternoon.

Macauley’s first goal came as an unassisted tie-breaker after the Red Hawks opened the game with three goals over the first 11 minutes of play. The Warriors’ first point on the scoreboard was an unassisted goal at 12:07 by junior Lambert. East Stroudsburg then went on an 11-0 run to end the first half. In that scoring drive, Macauley not only scored the Warriors fourth goal to put her team ahead for good, but also made three of her assists and two additional goals in the half for the halftime score of 11-3.

East Stroudsburg was also led by sophomore Kim Niles who recorded a hat trick and one assist, while senior Toni Lentz had two goal in the victory.

For the Red Hawks, sophomore attack Vicki Gangemi and sophomore Jeanelle Husth were superb as Gangemi recorded a hat trick, and Husth had a goal and three assists. Teammate Sharon Sabatino also scored a goal.

Montclair State’s Women Lacrosse team will return to action on Saturday, March 20, 1999 to take on Cabrini College of Pennsylvania. The game will commence at 1 p.m. at MSU’s Sprague Field.

MSU starts season with 1-1 split

By Tess Sterling

Freshman midfielder Chris Kornacki led Montclair State with six shots, two goals and two assists, while teammates Rick Testa, Adam Torissi, and Nick Bombadier added two goals each in a men’s lacrosse game against Lycoming College of Pennsylvania. Despite the nine goals for MSU, they came up four short for the win. The Red Hawks managed to even their record to 1-1 after going up against Wheaton College of Massachusetts on Tuesday night at a game played on MSU’s Sprague Field. The game ended with the score 14-7 in favor of Montclair.

In the game on Tuesday night, junior midfielder Steve Urbanowycz led the charge with six shots on goal, five goals, and one assist. The first goal of the game was scored by Testa on an assist by Torissi at 12:02. Wheaton answered with a goal of their own at the 14:23 mark. This was their only goal of the first quarter, which left the score at 3-1 at halftime.

The Red Hawks did most of their damage in the fourth quarter outscoring Wheaton 5-3. This quarter also saw a lot of physical competition with five penalties handed out.

For MSU, Testa finished with six shots on goal and three goals, Torissi had four shots, one goal and one assist, Kornacki had five shots, two goals, and two assists. Bombadier scored two goals on two shots.

In the game against Lycoming, the first goal of the game was scored by the team from Pennsylvania with 11:50 gone in the first quarter. In the loss for MSU, Testa had three shots on goal and two goals, Torissi had four shots and two goals, Kornacki had six shots, two goals, and two assists, and Bombadier scored two shots on two shots.

The Red Hawks will return to action this Saturday against Lasell, MA. This game will be played at MSU’s Sprague Field and will start at 4 p.m.
