Proposal Aims to Arm MSU Police

By Elizabeth A. Hutchinson
Assistant News Editor

A proposal to equip MSU University Police with firearms was recently sent to members of the campus community by Susan Cole, President of MSU. The Student Government Association and University Police developed the proposal to imitate changes in the current "community policing" program.

University Police and Security did not wish to comment on the firearm proposal. Currently, there are 10 Police Academy trained officers on campus. According to the proposal, eight more officers are already in the process of training. These 18 trained officers will be the only ones issued a firearm.

Issued by the New Jersey Code of Criminal Justice, the only valid reasons for using a firearm are:

* Self-defense
* Crime Prevention
* Murder, aggravated manslaughter
* Kidnapping
* Arson
* Robbery
* Sexual assault, or aggravated sexual assault

According to the 1990 Commission on Higher Education report, MSU is the only school out of nine New Jersey institutions that does not have any armed campus police officers. Out of the nine schools, MSU has the fifth largest violent crime rate, totaling seven violent crimes when the report was issued last year.

The memo states that there were 15 handgun incidents from the years 1994-1999 and 36 other calls involving lethal weapons. The incidents included armed robberies, aggravated assaults, domestic violence and drug-related incidents.

If University Police are issued standard police semi-automatic handguns they will be required to follow the Passaic County Code of Firearms, distributed by the Passaic County Prosecutors' office.

According to the memo, the only times firearms may be used are as follows:

* Officers will have a firearm while on duty, from dusk to dawn.
* A gun will be carried when responding to a crime in progress.
* During an emergency situation as determined by the Director of University Police and Security.
* During special events when approved by the Vice President for Student Development and Campus Life.

The PVC plastic pipes in buildings like Blanton will cost between $3-4 million to be replaced with the more economical and efficiently stronger copper piping, Hewitt said.

The mandatory funding for these projects will come from state funding but mainly student fees, which partially explains the increase in tuition every year, Hewitt said.

Because of the lack of funding for the upgrades the project has become a multi-year plan. In addition to that, the actual upgrading of the residence halls can only be taken care of during the summer months.

Because of the high occupancy of students in summer programs, the priority heat and water in the halls is also something that can possibly turn into a multi-year plan. The FFC consists of faculty members from various departments on campus such as Campus Maintenance and Architectural Engineering and Planning.

The committee, along with newly hired Amy Ferdinand, Director of Environmen tal Health and Safety Issues, will be collaborating working to follow through with the projects of priority and enhance mement in the MSU CPAP proposal.

The CPAP is a 25 page document containing extensive information about various projects including asbestos removal and roof repairs, which have been completed since last summer up until early this academic year.

Also listed in the CPAP are mandatory and essential residence life and maintenance projects of priority; residence life and repair projects and other campus enhancement plans.

Some of the concerns that residents on campus have include the following: the need for the presence of more fire extinguishers, proper heating, the availability of hot and cold water, safety issues, and the inability to properly fulfill the needs of students work order requests.

"Fire and safety are the top priorities," Hewitt said. "All other matters will be taken care of an importance basis."

Hewitt said that an engineering consultant firm has been hired to diagnose the problems and take care of many of the reoccu-ring equipment failures.

Fort Hood, Texas - Film footage in a field test used to resolve whether federal agents opened fire on Branch Davidians during the final hours of the 1993 struggle will require a more extensive examination, a government spokesman said Monday. Sunday’s test was intended to examine what caused the flashes of light on FBI infrared surveillance footage taken toward the end of the siege in Waco. Survivors, who have filed a wrongful death suit against the government, hired infrared experts to prove that the flashes are results of gunfire against the Davidians.

Seattle, Washington - One of the biggest white-collar walkouts in U.S. history has ended, but the repercussions of male employees walking off their jobs are expected to continue. In the wake of the walkout, the company will have to deal with a backlash from angry customers, and the case may set a precedent for other companies considering similar actions.

National News

Dhaka, Bangladesh - President Clinton became the first United States president to visit Bangladesh when he arrived in the Asian country early Monday morning. Clinton was greeted with a 21-gun salute, and he was welcomed by Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina and President Shahabuddin Ahmed. The visit comes as the United States and Bangladesh prepare to sign an agreement on a number of issues, including trade and security.

Taipei, Taiwan - Taiwan’s president Chen Shui-bian requested a “peace summit” with China Monday to avoid the possibility of a military confrontation. Chen has made it clear that Taiwan is an independent nation, and he is willing to negotiate with China in order to achieve peace.

International News

Washington, D.C. - Adam’s Mark Hotels and Resorts plans to make major changes in its policies concerning discrimination lawsuits. Five black students previously complained that the hotel forced them to wear color-coded wristbands and pay higher prices during their stay. Although the suit charged a series of the chain’s hotels with discrimination, the damages will only be granted to the guests or visitors at the Daytona Beach facility.

After months of debate, the MSU chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) was granted an extension of their class three charter by the SGA.

The issuing of the charter came was deemed by the SGA to be a temporary solution for this problem. Blauvelt, as well as other legislators, believes that this will soon be put behind them. "I hope things work out soon. NAACP is ambitious and wants to assimilate into the SGA melting pot," Blauvelt said.

Although the NAACP has faced some turbulent times as of late, the organization hopes that this will soon be put behind them. "I hope things work out soon. NAACP is ambitious and wants to assimilate into the SGA melting pot," Blauvelt said.
MSU Child Care Center Raises Costs

By Julie Gau

Staff Writer

The campus Child Care Center recently increased its tuition by five percent. This is the first time in approximately a year and a half that the center had to raise the rate.

Fees go toward the total cost of the children’s care, minus the facility. The university provides the grounds for the center. The fees provide for materials such as water, electricity, heat, papers, books and art supplies. It also goes toward the salary of the childcare workers.

Toys and playground equipment are paid for by fundraisers and other outside foundations, not the regular fees from the parents.

The classroom alone spends about $150 per child. “It’s not like anyone is making any money here,” said Janey Deluso, Director of the Child Care Center. “This increase is just to keep the place running.”

“We had not anticipated that we needed to do an increase,” Deluso said.

The budget submitted for this fiscal year was reviewed and found unbalanced by the Budget Office. It was determined the Child Care Center required extra revenue that would go toward ordinary operating expenses.

About 45 to 50 percent of the children enrolled at the Child Care Center are children of university staff. Twenty to 25 percent belong to faculty and another 15 to 20 percent are of the university staff.

The rest of the children come from off-campus families. On-campus students, faculty, and staff are in one price tier while off-campus students pay a higher rate.

Megan Moriarty, a full-time worker, student, and mother at MSU, said she was a little surprised about the increase in fees, but only after looking for outside campus childcare.

Several options for paying for child care are the following: Parents can ask the Child Care Agency of their county if they are eligible for federal subsidy. The SGA also provides funds for the Child Care Center and scholarships. A parent-child scholarship may also be offered.

The fees provide for materials such as water, electricity, heat, papers, books and art supplies. It also goes toward the salary of the childcare workers.

The Sparks That Ignite The Future: Women Recognized for Achievements

by Michelle Whitehead
Staff Writer

An integral part of Women's History Month is to recognize the accomplishments of young women who express dedication to women's issues. The Presidential Achievement Awards, established by the Office of the President at MSU, is designed to acknowledge the contributions that women students have made to scholastic achievement, campus community service, and leadership.

Esilda Abreu, director of the MSU Women's Center, expresses her appreciation to MSU, Dr. Cole and the many people who make the Presidential Achievement Awards possible. Citing the absence of awards such as these at other institutions, Abreu says a day like this is unique.

"MSU makes women's issues a priority," she stated. Abreu is pleased that MSU continually takes steps to see that the achievements of women students are not overlooked.

The scholarship recipients this year are six intelligent, talented and well-rounded young women who exhibit commitment to women's issues in addition to excellence in a variety of aspects of life at MSU. Presenting the awards at a reception held on March 16, President Susan Cole read a list of honors for each student along with praise from professors and advisors.

Scholarship recipients for scholastic achievement, Marta Bladek and Susan Polise possess an outstanding commitment to education, academics and research. An English major with minors in linguistics and women's studies, Bladek has a GPA of 3.96. Polise, a Spanish major, has a 4.0 GPA and tutor responsibilities. Both young women continue to pursue intellectual and exploratory projects in their fields of study.

Beatrice Bernardin and Alina Tyndall are scholarship recipients for excellence in campus community service because of their participation in numerous organizations. Bernardin is a volunteer at the campus daycare center and a peer biology tutor. In the future she wants to use her talent with children and academics to become a pediatrician. Tyndall, a biology major, is a member of New Jersey Community Water Watch and the promed club. She also serves MSU and prospective students as MSU's ambassador.

Scholarships for excellence in leadership are given to students who serve as leaders of campus activities and associations. Recipients, Melissa Colon and Lalena Kurtz, set an amazing example for future leaders. A Biology major, Colon is involved with New Jersey Community Water Watch and the Breast Cancer Awareness Day walkathon. After graduating from MSU, she hopes to enjoy a career as a dentist. Kurtz is a major supporter of Women's Center activities and the Women's Exploration Group. A fine arts major, she plans to create a short film that showcases the female experience and women's issues.

Kurtz feels awed by the recognition of her efforts and revealed that when she was first notified about the award she felt awkward to be singled out among the many women at MSU who are doing phenomenal things.

Kurtz says, "There's an old saying that behind every great man there's a great woman. I would like to change that to behind every great woman there are 10 more great women."

Dr. Linda Gould-Levine, Director of MSU's Women's Studies program, would like to encourage more students to apply for awards offered through the university. Always tell your students that they are welcome. "There are scholarships out there," she says emphatically.

With regard to the six versatile young women honored at the reception, Dr. Gould-Levine says, "These winners could get awards in all three categories. They hope that in the future these scholarship recipients will continue to promote the growth of women in academics and community service."

Abreu echoes that sentiment. She says, "In the past, one person's genius created a spark. Hopefully these young women will be the spark."

The families of the scholarship recipients are all very proud.

"She really found herself here at MSU," Mrs. Polise says of her daughter Susan. Apparently all of these young women have found their niche in the campus community. Likewise, MSU is lucky to have them as students since, more likely than not, these young women will be the spark that ignites future concern with women's issues.

The New Jersey Coalition Against Sexual Assault (NJCASA), an association of rape crisis centers across the state, has recently opened an office in Trenton. The Coalition, which had been run by a volunteer board of directors since the early 1980s, has hired a professional staff. This was undertaken to assist in the efforts to improve services for survivors and their loved ones, as well as to educate the public, government entities and the media about the issues of sexual violence.

The prevailing myth about rape (and other types of sexual assault) is that it is perpetrated by strangers. Most victims are assaulted by someone known to them. It is often difficult to comprehend that the typical attacker is the victim's spouse, date, friend, relative or neighbor. Survivors who report a sexual assault are often not believed. If they are believed, they are often blamed for inviting the attack.

That is why the theme for NJCASA's first statewide public awareness campaign is "Begin by Believing." Begin by believing the victim when she or he says that they have been raped (only 2 percent of reports of sexual violence turn out to be false). Begin by believing that the victim is never to blame.

Begin by believing that anyone can be a victim of a sexual assault. Begin by believing that most sexual assaults are perpetrated by someone known to the victim. Begin by believing that help is available for all survivors and their loved ones, and begin by believing that all of us have a role in working toward the elimination of sexual violence in our communities.

Components of the campaign, to be launched in April during "Sexual Assault Awareness Month," include the introduction of a new 800-hotline telephone number, public service announcements on radio and television, highway, transit and print advertising and participation by staff and board members in media and other public forums.

"Volley Against Sexual Violence," a volleyball tournament at Rider University to raise public education funds and funds for survivor's services, is one of the New Jersey based events to be announced in the Sexual Assault Awareness Month calendar. NJCASA is partnering with the public relations/marketing firm CIIC of Nyack, NY, in these efforts.

Further funding for operating costs of the NJCASA office came from the Federal STOP Violence Against Women Act Fund, allocated through the State Office of Victim Witness Advocacy. The Centers for Disease Control has allocated funding for the public education campaign through the New Jersey Division on Women, Department of Community Affairs, as well as for new computers for rape crisis centers, computer training for staff, standardization of恋爱 advocacy training and the translation from English to Spanish of materials on sexual violence.

Anyone can be a victim of sexual assault. The NJCASA "Begin by Believing" campaign urges victims of sexual assault and their loved ones to reach out for help.

A statewide toll-free hotline was launched March 1 to lend assistance at 1-800-601-7200.
Once Upon A Time: The Story Of Purim
By Florence Roggenz
Staff Writer

Crowds of people are dancing and singing in unabashed drunkenness. Is it another fraternity toga party? Perhaps it would appear that way, but no. It’s a religious celebration, believe it or not, the merriest of all Jewish holidays, Purim.

The story of Purim is a theme often repeated through history. The Jews, con­quered and expelled from their homeland, found themselves exiled in Persia under the rule of King Achashverosh. The Chief Advisor to the King Haman, was the bastard son of the last Amalakite King, the biblical arch-enemy of Israel, and he was obsessed with the destruction of the Jewish people.

Given full authority by King Achashverosh, Haman planned to order an empire wide program that would seal the death of all the Jews. The king ruled the entire civilized world at the time, and the Jews had nowhere to run. Luckily, the king was looking for a new life (having beheaded the previous one) and fell in love with a beautiful Jewish woman named Esther, who had taken her cousin Mordechais advice and hidden her Jewish faith.

To cut the story very short, King Achashverosh’s love for Esther, now Queen of Persia, saved the Jews. The occasion has been celebrated ever since in the customary way, by feasting! It is said that one should drink until he can no longer tell the difference between “blessed be Mordechai,” who has a much larger role in the unabridged version of the story, and “cursed be Haman,” the evil Chief Advisor to King Achashverosh.

It is usually easy for people to divide the world into two: spiritual and material, good and evil. But on Purim, we celebrate the world into two: spiritual and material, good and evil. But on Purim, we celebrate the difference between friends and enemies dissolves as we rejoice in our survival.

The difference between friends and enemies dissolves as we rejoice in our survival. There are many changes it will bring to my life, a life that has been mostly routine for the past five years. (Oh, and did I mention that change is something that I have always struggled with in life and do my best to avoid at all lengths?) When I first began college I was 17. I didn’t try hard in school and I didn’t know what I wanted out of life. I chose to stay at home and commute to a nearby college (a successful attempt to avoid the changes that going away to school might present) because I couldn’t imagine not being around to see my brothers and sisters grow up.

I also couldn’t imagine being away from my parents who always made me feel safe and secure in my little, little world. My brothers were 11 at the time and they were growing up. I know that this terrible feeling won’t last forever. Eventually I’ll get over this crisis and what will seem new and frightening to me in June will probably feel com­fortable and normal come next fall. After that, I just want to have my energies on dreading the next major change that will occur in my life.

All I can do now is hope that whatever changes do occur, that I make the right choices and embrace a career that truly makes me happy.

If that doesn’t work, there’s always graduate school!

A column exploring important issues to gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender communities

By Jackie Parker
Staff Writer

I n last week’s column I mentioned some of the anxiety that a Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual, or Transgender (GLBT) student might feel when he or she decides to “come out” of the closet. You might have noticed stickers on office doors around campus with the words “LGB Safe Place,” and wondered what they were. MSU has a great program called “Safe Place,” which was started to help create a feeling of safety and support among the campus GLBT community.

Facially and staff, displaying the stickers, have made themselves available to listen to and support students. Anyone wishing to talk about their fears on “coming out,” homophobia, or concerns regarding their sexual orientation, can do so in a non-judgmental and confidential environment.

The stickers are a green circle, inside with a black triangle overlapping a pink triangle, with the words “LGB Safe Place.” These stickers, members as participants in and signifies the be supportive of GLBT Place” program was since then, programs have been established at various colleges and universities.

According to the Program flyer, “If you’ve ever encountered a person in a safe place to help that problem. The individual not be your counselor. There will be no pressure to take action or change your life-style. There will just be support.”

For a confused, anxious, or scared student, the “Safe Place” program can be a very valuable resource. Having programs like “Safe Place” is another reason why I consider the MSU campus to be supportive and safe for an “out” GLBT student.

Cooperative Education and Service Learning

By Casey Calvano
Special to The Montclarion

M y name is Casey Calvano and I am a senior attending MSU. As a requirement for my Human Ecology major, I must complete eight course credits in the Cooperative Education Program. All of the majors at MSU do not include this requirement as part of their curriculum, but I strongly suggest that it be put into effect.

The Cooperative Education Program serves as a partnership between the organization where a student is an intern, and the university. As a participant in the program, one takes on the role not only as a student learning in a work environment, but as an employee as well. As such, there are certain responsibilities that must be fulfilled; conducting one’s self in a professional manner is key.

The program also provides a wonderful opportunity to learn new skills and to apply those skills one has already acquired. Students benefit because it gives them a chance to see what it is like to work in the field they are preparing to go into. While interning, some students may even find that their chosen field is not enjoyable to them, and perhaps change their mind about going into it, or they may realize that the job is right but the setting is not.

As a result of my own experience in the Co-op program, I am now questioning whether or not I want to continue to work in the field of domestic violence. I interned with the Domestic Violence Unit in the Superior Court of New Jersey. I thoroughly enjoyed the experience and learned a lot about the legal system and court procedures, yet am unsure if this is the career path that I wish to continue. I am fulfilled with the work because I helped people who had placed their trust in me. However, the job put an emotional strain on me due to the negative energy that surrounded me.

The Cooperative Education program has made me a stronger person because now I've tested the waters of the field I wanted to gain insight and the necessary tools to make an educated decision.

Coal Chamber and Type O Negative Rock New York

By Nicole Padilla  Staff Writer

inally, Type O Negative has come back! Type O Negative has been the United States leg of their Road Rage 2000 tour with label mate Coal Chamber, after an extensive tour of Europe, following the September release of their latest effort World Coming Down.

The show at Roseland on March 14 was kicked off by The Deadlights, a band from Los Angeles that is starting to make its mark on the rock scene. The Deadlights have a spot secured on the second stage of this year's Ozz Fest. Their brief set included several attempts to capture the interest of the audience, who were saving themselves for the main events. Lead vocalist Duke did try to get the crowd to yell "F— you" as loud as they could, but was instead answered with cries of "You suck."

Full Devil Jacket, a band with a lot of promise, followed the spectacle that was The Deadlights. These five boys from Jackson, Tennessee started off with songs from their E.P A Wax Box, plus some songs off of their self-titled debut album. Their sound is comprised mostly of hardcore, but there are some melodic undertones from the driving bass. The crowd felt more receptive to them, and a small pit did form. Following the Deadlights' lead, front man Josh Brown also tried to get the crowd to yell "F— you" as loud as they could, with a little more success. They finished their set with "Wanna Be Martyr," the first cut off their debut album, also featured on the Scream J Soundtrack.

When the lights came up and the curtain came down after Full Devil Jacket's set, anticipation swept through the crowd like a raging fire. The next band appearing was Coal Chamber, who also have a track on the Scream J Soundtrack. The Road Rage tour marks the return of bassist Rayna Foss-Rose, who gave birth in October to a baby girl.

With the confetti explosion that marked the end of Coal Chamber's set, the wait for Type O Negative was over. With the intensity-fueled band Coal Chamber never fails to rock, this time during the Road Rage 2000 tour alongside Type O' Negative.

Wanna be a Poet?: Tips and Tricks from an Industry Insider

By Kathleen Savino  Staff Writer

ost of my semester has been spent reading poetry submissions for Poetry New York, an independently published poetry journal. I have submitted my own work before, never knowing how difficult it is to actually get published, or how to go about improving my chances. Suddenly, instead of sending poetry submissions, I was reading them. These are a few things I discovered by reading (and rejecting) poetry.

*Be Distinct. One of the most difficult tasks a writer faces is finding his or her own voice, style, etc. Editors/readers are looking for work that is original. If your work sounds like an imitation of another poet(s), chances are it will not be published, or taken seriously. I was always astonished at how alike many poems are by poets all over the U.S. (and some abroad!). Stand out. Type O Negative has come back! Type O Negative has been the United States leg of their Road Rage 2000 tour with label mate Coal Chamber, after an extensive tour of Europe, following the September release of their latest effort World Coming Down.

When the lights came up and the curtain came down after Full Devil Jacket's set, anticipation swept through the crowd like a raging fire. The next band appearing was Coal Chamber, who also have a track on the Scream J Soundtrack. The Road Rage tour marks the return of bassist Rayna Foss-Rose, who gave birth in October to a baby girl.

With the confetti explosion that marked the end of Coal Chamber's set, the wait for Type O Negative was over. With the intensity-fueled band Coal Chamber never fails to rock, this time during the Road Rage 2000 tour alongside Type O' Negative.

Wanna be a Poet?: Tips and Tricks from an Industry Insider

By Kathleen Savino  Staff Writer

ost of my semester has been spent reading poetry submissions for Poetry New York, an independently published poetry journal. I have submitted my own work before, never knowing how difficult it is to actually get published, or how to go about improving my chances. Suddenly, instead of sending poetry submissions, I was reading them. These are a few things I discovered by reading (and rejecting) poetry.

*Be Distinct. One of the most difficult tasks a writer faces is finding his or her own voice, style, etc. Editors/readers are looking for work that is original. If your work sounds like an imitation of another poet(s), chances are it will not be published, or taken seriously. I was always astonished at how alike many poems are by poets all over the U.S. (and some abroad!). Stand out. Type O Negative has come back! Type O Negative has been the United States leg of their Road Rage 2000 tour with label mate Coal Chamber, after an extensive tour of Europe, following the September release of their latest effort World Coming Down.

The show at Roseland on March 14 was kicked off by The Deadlights, a band from Los Angeles that is starting to make its mark on the rock scene. The Deadlights have a spot secured on the second stage of this year's Ozz Fest. Their brief set included several attempts to capture the interest of the audience, who were saving themselves for the main events. Lead vocalist Duke did try to get the crowd to yell "F— you" as loud as they could, but was instead answered with cries of "You suck."

Full Devil Jacket, a band with a lot of promise, followed the spectacle that was The Deadlights. These five boys from Jackson, Tennessee started off with songs from their E.P A Wax Box, plus some songs off of their self-titled debut album. Their sound is comprised mostly of hardcore, but there are some melodic undertones from the driving bass. The crowd felt more receptive to them, and a small pit did form. Following the Deadlights' lead, front man Josh Brown also tried to get the crowd to yell "F— you" as loud as they could, with a little more success. They finished their set with "Wanna Be Martyr," the first cut off their debut album, also featured on the Scream J Soundtrack.

When the lights came up and the curtain came down after Full Devil Jacket's set, anticipation swept through the crowd like a raging fire. The next band appearing was Coal Chamber, who also have a track on the Scream J Soundtrack. The Road Rage tour marks the return of bassist Rayna Foss-Rose, who gave birth in October to a baby girl.

Time Plays a Part in Ever-Changing Exhibit

By Lorenda Kaiser
Assistant Copy Editor

If you walk into an art museum that showcases many great works from the past you may or may not notice a commonality that these works have which has plagued the understanding of art since it began: that the meaning the artists tried to convey must be inferred from the mediums. The viewer has no direct contact with the meaning of the works. They cannot experience it firsthand and are never sure exactly what the artist has tried to convey. To try to capture the artist’s meaning through their work of art is a secondhand experience.

Artist Robert Irwin gives viewers a very different experience with his installation piece entitled “Excursus: Homage to the Square,” now showing at the Dia center for the arts in Manhattan. Not only is the meaning of this piece felt immediately and directly, it is contingent upon the experience of the viewer, and changes as the piece changes.

The piece consists of 18 chambers in the top floor of the converted warehouse, separated by walls made of white scrim. Irwin placed a pair of fluorescent lights on each wall, varying in hues and tones. A gel was also placed on top of the windows which modifies the view of Manhattan buildings.

Irwin investigates, in three dimensions, color and color relationships that were the focus of a series of abstract paintings by Josef Albers, which created optical space envelop it. Colors from the adjoining chambers can be seen through the scrims as well as other viewers who walk around confused. The effect is consciousness altering—you feel as though you are Alice in Wonderland.

Depending on the day and what time it is the light entering through the windows will make the installation appear different. A viewer will have a different experience each time they pass through it. The piece is dependent on each individual experience—not the artist’s. There is no medium separating the viewer from the meaning, which is in flux and dependent on chance. Both the medium and the meaning is the experience itself. The piece will be on view until April 2.

Another piece in the exhibit, which is also dependent on chance and obscurities vision, is the “Two-Way Mirror Cylinder Inside Cube” which is a long-term installation, and is part of the “Rooftop Urban Park Project” by Dan Graham that also includes the Video Salon. The piece is elevated on a platform against the backdrop of sky and Manhattan horizon. It is composed of two...

The Best You’ve Never Read

By John Frusciatile
Staff Writer

Well, fair readers, I hope your ears were sufficiently tickled by those 10 great albums from last week’s article (if you didn’t read last week’s article, feel free to make it up in your head). This week I’m back with a list of books certain to knock your collective socks off.

1. Ishmael - Daniel Quinn. THE MOST IMPORTANT BOOK YOU’LL EVER READ!!! I had to resist the urge to make this book all 10 books on this list. If you have not read this book, drop this newspaper right now and go buy it (the book, not the newspaper). This book is fan-freakin’-tastic.

2. The Waip Factory - Iain M. Banks. Really freaky book about a little boy who doesn’t fit in and doesn’t want to.

4. Rule of the Bone - Russell Banks. No relation to Iain. Some folks call in a mod­

5. Radiohead - Jeff Buckley. Amazing overview of the history of and philosophies behind the punk/hardcore counterculture. Much fun will be had by all who read this.

6. The Secret Life of Salvador Dalí - Salvador Dalí. He woke up one day and realized he was a genius. I agree.

7. Philosophy of Punk - Craig O’Hara. An easy-to-read overview of the history of and

8. Art: And the Ass Saw the Angel - Nick Archaic Revival - Terrence McKenna. Very interesting theories, thoughts, and observations about hallucino­

10. The Best You’ve Never Read - John Frusciatile. The humble opinion of this author that you should read this book all 10 books on this list. If you have not read this book, drop this newspaper right now and go buy it (the book, not the newspaper). This book is fan-freakin’-tastic.

Well, that’s it for this week kids. It is the humble opinion of this author that you stay away from Barnes and Nobles or any major book chain, and instead take a trip over to the wonderfully stocked, staffed, and priced Montclair Book Center. 221 Glenridge Avenue (Just off of Bloomfield Ave.), Montclair, N.J. 783-3630. You will find most of these books there. Some are available in the MSU library, so check there first. Happy reading!

JAMES P. KEENEN III, JOSEPH T. MOORE, ANITA E. UHIA AND CONNIE WALLER

SCHOLARSHIP ENDOWMENT FUND

Four $500.00 scholarships will be awarded to MSU students

PURPOSE: In May 1996, the members of AFT local 1904 established the Scholarship Endowment Fund as an expression of esteem and respect for James P. Keenen III, Joseph T. Moore, Anita E. Uhia, and Connie Waller. We honor their signal service to the University as founders and leaders of AFT Local 1904, and their distinguished intellectual and teaching careers. Recipients of awards made by the Fund will be known as Keenen-Moore-Uhia-Waller Scholars. The Fund is dedicated to help full-time undergraduate and graduate students enrolled at least one semester at MSU prior to the application date and who in whole or in part depend on their own work for the economic resources required for their enrollment or otherwise to pursue their studies in a recognized University program.

ELIGIBILITY: Eligibility is limited to students who:

a. are enrolled full-time at MSU at the time the award payment is made;
b. are not on academic or disciplinary suspension or probation;
c. in whole or in part depend on their own work for the economic resources for their enrollment at MSU.

APPLICATIONS: A complete application consists of the following:

a. a completed application form and essay prepared by the student; and,
b. letters of recommendation from a combination of any two of the following employed at MSU: faculty members, professional staff members, or librarians, who are members of the AFT Local 1904 bargaining unit.

CRITERIA FOR SELECTION: Applications will be evaluated on the basis of:

a. the applicant's essay describing the economic need, how the ward will be used, and the role of higher education in the student's life; and,
b. letters of recommendation.

APPLICATION DEADLINE: The student application packet (cover sheet and essay) and the two letters of recommendation must be submitted to AFT, Local 1904, Montclair State University, College Hall, Room 318c no later than 4:30pm on May 1, 2000.

Late or incomplete applications will not be accepted.

Last week, we asked you:

Did MSU do enough for the Blanton Hall residents?

You told us:

"I got a letter saying I was compensated, but I haven't seen anything yet. It was enough because I live close enough to commute and I didn't go to class anyway."
Matthew Archibald
freshman, acting

"They didn't really provide us with a place to stay. They had another fire drill this week. You'd think it was enough to commute and I didn't go to class anyway."
Jessica Ginecki

Guns and ammo. A firearm on the utility belt of every police officer. Yet another thing to add to the rapid expansion of law enforcement at MSU. Wait a minute, it might not be added. But should it be?

A growing concern here at MSU is the rise in violent crime. Case in point: this week's MSU Police Report. A terminated professor made terrorist threats against administrators. Granted, there are those of us who are harsh critics of the administration, but that's taking it a bit far, isn't it? In May 1994, the University's police sergeants went to the Board of Trustees requesting permission for all officers in the line of duty to carry firearms. In April of 1995, the request was denied and the issue seemed to fade away. Until now. University Police, as well as the SGA, have asked the administration to again open the case for arming MSU's police force. In a memo sent out to the campus community, President Cole asks for feedback on the issue by May 1.

The MSU policemen are not a clown brigade. They didn't wander in off the streets and get handed a uniform or told to start fighting crime. They received real training and earned real badges. They are real police officers. They have real families to go home to, and real worries in their lives. Why can't we give them some real protection? Are we asking that they stop students fleeing the scene of a crime by yelling and waving a flashlight? "Stop, or I'll say stop again," is hardly an intimidating threat.

``Stop!... or I'll say STOP again!"
The Devils and George Steinbrenner: Another Example of Athletic Big Business at Work

The metamorphosis of sports into big business over the years has made me want to vomit. Season after season, fans hear the same old story about a beloved team of theirs moving out of state because there is more money to be made somewhere else. While owners sit back and revel in their ill-gotten wealth, hard-working taxpayers pay $70 a ticket, $3 for a soda, $5 for a hotdog, and $7 for watered-down beer just to watch a 90 minute game. More money than you and I would ever make in three lifetimes, is being wasted every year for something as trivial as athletic events. When will the line be drawn?

Don’t get me wrong, I love sports, especially the Devils. But what I absolutely despise is the exorbitant amount of money spent on professional sports that could be put towards helping people in need. But the fact is that hard working American’s are never given as much priority as profit.

“Sorry you were just forced out of your homes,” they’ll say. “But look, we built a great new parking lot where your living room used to be.”

Blowing up the Letters: Exploring the Horrible Truths of Grade Inflation

W hat are the implications of passing grades for failing students? The practice of grade inflation is becoming a frightening reality at our school and it is the dedicated, determined, hard working minority of MSU students that will soon experience the implications of this unjust practice. Poor students make for poor employees, and every time an undeserving Chimere Mcrae was not a victim of domestic violence. Just because her boyfriend de­

The more incompetent, lazy, spoon-fed students that are granted degrees from this ‘higher learning institution,’ the bleaker the post-graduate picture becomes for the dedicated minority of MSU students.

Kenyan Women Demand Sex
From Overweight Donut Bearing Cops

Nairobi, Kenya - Many angry sexually deprived women made a formal protest at a Kenyan police station just north of Nairobi. Their protest was they were not getting enough sex. They ordered local police departments to satisfy them to the best of their ability, or find them husbands that should be able to satisfy them.

The men folk of the village were impotent from drinking at illegal pubs. The villagers had been drinking coffee then screwing these sex-crazed but without much success. They ordered local police departments to satisfy them to the best of their ability, or find them husbands that would be able to satisfy them.

The men folk of the village were impotent from drinking at illegal pubs. The villagers had been drinking coffee then screwing these sex-crazed friends. The men folk of the village were impotent from drinking at illegal pubs. Many times they would come home from work and pass out. Women would often try while they slept but attempts were futile. The men, they go to work, they come home and they are too drunk to get it up. We women have a right, “WE WANT PENIS!” The cops were unsure what to do with the case and decided to pull over helpless high school kids on their way home from school to screw the horny women.

Suicide Attempt Doesn’t Necessarily Mean You Want To Live

BOSTON - For many years mental health officials have characterized attempted suicides as a desperate cry for help. Yet, further research has recently discovered that a suicide attempt means they don’t want to live anymore. Gee, anyone could have figured this out. No one tries to kill himself if they can fix the problem. Obviously it’s really bad, that is why they chew down a handful of aspirin. Here’s a good idea: next time you catch someone swallowing poison ask them if they need help. If they say yes, put a bullet in my head, they probably wanted to die anyway. It’s the best favor you can do for them.

Turtles Smuggled Into Barbados

BARBADOS-Rodney Carrington of Miami told customs officers that he had nothing to declare when he arrived at Barbados in December. When a customs officer looked Rodney up and down, he stared at him for a few moments and tore off Rodney’s pants. What he found was unlike anything he had seen on a man before. Strapped to Rodney were 50 four inch turtles that were in his underwear. Officer Rodriguez said, “What the hell did he want them turtles for? Besides, there were so many other ways to hide them. What the hell was he thinking when he put them down this pants?” That sorry guy will go to jail a long time for this. It’s a shame, we had to take all those turtles and destroy them. The worst part about it was they were on the endangered species list. Now they’re extinct but ya know policy is policy.” Rodney said he was relieved that the officers didn’t find the gerbils he had shove up his butt.

Aliens Transport Burglar Into Someone’s Home

DAVENPORT, Florida - A 37-year-old burglar told police that aliens had beamed him into the house. He claimed that aliens had raped him while in orbit and then beamed him down into the wrong house. Police arrested him on second degree charges and said that if they were to find any aliens that the case would be dropped. He said the aliens were very angry about their portrayal in Toy Story and claim that they never speak in unison, and when they do they are forced to fight to the death. Supreme Court Says No Porn For Inmates!

WASHINGTON-Rejecting an appeal of an inmate who wanted Playboy delivered to his cell, the U.S. Supreme Court decided that no literature containing full-frontal nudity was allowed. Many wardens feel that the sexually explicit material is causing inmates to feel hostile toward one another and to female guards. Warden McGuire of an Arizona jail said, “Well this is prison, we don’t want these boys looking at naked women and using their bodies as an amusement park. They are here to serve for their crimes. Instead of looking at naked chicks we want them to think about what they did and feel bad.” Racy magazines such as Seventeen, and catalogues like Victoria’s Secret are still allowed in the prison, however, art works like Michaelangelo’s “David” or photos of concentration camps are not allowed. Inmate Trey said, “Yo, that’s cool yo, we don’t need that $3@% anyway, instead we will use our time better spent, by raping each other in the shower and thinking of ways to escape.”

Editors Note: The news in this week’s section is 100 percent true. I didn’t make it up and neither did you! We had planned a highly offensive article about someone called the “Big Twinkie” and his minions littering campus with broken stuff and trash, but the little man in my head said “NO! No more being mean!” So I will be nice for now...Basta ha ha ha!
How Quitting My Job Saved My Life

By Chris Finegan

Journalist

There’s nothing I like more than a day off, especially when it isn’t expected. Take Saturday, for example. Sure, I was supposed to work that morning, by which I mean 11:15. Slave drivers. That meant that from the wee hours of Saturday morning – I’m a college student, you remember – until well after midnight, I would sell my soul to a corporate chain restaurant. For the sake of argument, I’ll call it “Mr. Filthy’s.” The minimum wage begins before I even walk in the door. God, I hate my job.

My uniform consists of:

• A tattered T-shirt and jeans
• A lanyard around my neck with ID badge
• A button badge, which I ignore
• A(privately owned) apron, which I wear
• A hairnet, which I ignore

I have my real name. I don’t want the idiots at my table to know my real name because this way, they can holler, “Balthasar? Balthasar, my soup is cold!” and I can ignore them.

I pressed white shirt with stains from undemissifiable substances. One thing all the stains on my shirt have in common is that they must come from another planet, because earthly substances simply aren’t stainable.

This is my way of declaring my contempt for the world. I’ve got so many on there that I’m now resident in the chair mail and weighs 30 pounds. But I hold my head up high, because underneath the.worldly “get rolls” and “what’s that on the hundred” buttons, lurk the monsters of my head. The tamed one I can tell you about reads, “I'm six, UB9.” I hope that some impressionable young children catch a glimpse of one of my more voluble buttons. The perfect place to ask for a 30-pound button, of course, be on the car ride home.

Black shoes covered with every salad dressing imaginable. The patrons do realize that every restaurant has an extra salad dressing not always on the menu. It’s called “Schmootz,” and is made of equal parts of every dressing available in the restaurant. It can usually be found on shoes, but Schmootz is also found covering every surface in the kitchen. It’s an earthy, tangy flavor. Ask your waiter for a side of Schmootz is also found covering every surface in the kitchen.

• A pair of black pants that I haven’t washed in 10 months. I should have known how long. They’re black. That’s the point.

My roommate woke me up on Saturday morning and told me that I had a phone call.

It rang for 30 minutes. I let it ring. Hmm. To submit myself to slavery or to breathe the air of a free man? To subject myself to work or to just get up and go fishing? I'll tell you something. I'm not about to abandon my customer service position to go fishing. I tried that once in college.

I wish most of my customers could have seen my last boss. He was an interesting character, from what I could tell of his Portuguese and Der Führer. The man was exciting, if nothing else. He would seemingly hover over the entire restaurant at once, and start making rules on the spot, such as, “No giving backbends,” and “No playing everyone’s favorite game.” It was a tough game. Everything would result in immediate termination, especially not showing up for an assigned shift or eating salt mines. And thus, the seed was planted...

My roommate woke me up on Saturday morning and told me that I had a phone call.

It rang for 30 minutes. I let it ring. Hmm. To submit myself to slavery or to breathe the air of a free man? To subject myself to work or to just get up and go fishing? I'll tell you something. I'm not about to abandon my customer service position to go fishing. I tried that once in college.

As requested, I came up with a plan for doing more work with fewer people.

A future version of me will arrive via time machine to help on the project...

...unless you say something now that makes me unmotivated.

Hello — you miserable pile of solid assignments...

Here it comes!!!

I know every tragedy that will happen in your future.

I am you from the future... your time machine invention works.

Alice, this is me from the future.

I must return to the future, now, your majesty...

They don't call me majesty yet.

You should make it retroactive.

...so you could boss around the time travellers in that case. Dance for me.

I should return to the future now, your majesty...

You're always got bad assignments after today.

How does my head get like that?

Stick a finger in this hole.

I know every tragedy that will happen in your future.

I'm never going to forget the day I spilled hot coffee on my crotch.

I am you from the future... your time machine invention works.

The Horoscope
Never Lies

PIECES (Feb. 20 to March 20): Romance is just around the corner. You can almost taste it, put out your arms and, well, nevermind, prepare for bad luck.

ARIES (March 21 to Apr. 19): As the sun sets this Sunday embrace the new week ahead. Long lines at the supermarket will introduce you to your new love in life. Cinaburst Gum!

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): You'll find yourself drinking alcohol this weekend by the gallon. You'll think you have met your future lover when you discover that you are impotent!

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Your professors will fake mercy on you this week, classes will be canceled and you'll get an extra spring break, and the clap.

CANCER (June 22 to July 22): Cancer, it's going to be a great week. Luck and fortune are heading your way, but beware, when you marry that millionaire things will fall apart and nothing but despair and pestilence will remain.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22): Beware of other Leos for the rest of the year. They may seem tempting and seem like fun but you will be much better off with a less than attractive Aquarius.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22): You can handle your own destiny this week, you won't need any help from the stars. We are sick of screwing up your life, take responsibility.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): A small little elf will sneak into your room and take all your socks, but it's okay, spring is here and sandals are cool.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): So you broke the poor guys heart by saying no. It's not your fault. He still loves you. He will be your friend and treat you like a princess in exchange for oral sex.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 22): Beware of dogs. They will hump your leg and you will wake up pregnant.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20): Tu es tres stupid. Je ne t'aime pas! Quand tu mange le poulet, tu morte! Je ne ecris pas francais bien!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Behold a horrid week lies before you, but fear not, this upcoming weekend nothing but crazy monkey sex and 30 minute orgasms will occupy your time.

The First Row With Fred

By Fred Stolarski III

Sports Columnist

Welcome back, wrestling fans, for this week’s edition of The First Row. That was the bell, so let’s get right to it!

If you missed The Rock hosting Saturday Night Live this past Saturday, you’re a jabrone! Not only was The Rock hilarious in all his skits, but Triple H, The Big Show, Mick Foley, and Vince McMahon all made appearances and added something to the program. As we all know, where The Rock goes, the ratings follow, and SNL proved to be no exception to this rule. The show pulled in an 8.2 Nielsen rating, the highest of the season for the late-night program!

The next day, World Championship Wrestling held their annual Uncensored Pay-Per-View. Judging by the recent past, the PPV went rather well, with the exception of a few little things here and there. Chris “Hard Knox” Candido made his debut in the federation as Chris “Hard Knox” Candido. Candido is a former WWF (part of the Body Donnas) and ECW star. Now that he has officially signed with WCW, we can only hope that he hooks up with his old friends Shane Douglas and Bam Bigelow to reform ECW’s old Triple Threat! With Candido’s better half, Tammy Lynn “Sunny” Synch, leading them to the ring, they might be able to give WCW the shot in the arm they so desperately need!

Speaking of Uncensored and Bam Bam, his match with The Wall was brutal. The Wall has been destroying everyone in his path lately, and Bigelow has to say tonight between 8 and 10 p.m. on WCW Live at www.wcw.com. Was Row off the hook this week or what? I thought Vince had lost his mind when he booked the Wrestlemania Main Event for Raw is War. But, of course, Vince knew what he was doing all along. I must say, though, Triple H really is The Game! Fair or not, like always The Game managed to come out on top of things. He is a true champion and more importantly, beyond a shadow of a doubt, The Game! In other WWF news, Hardcore Holly and B.B.’s off-television relationship may soon be coming to a ring near you. Look for B.B. to create some extra tension between the Holly cousins after she improves in the ring and on the mic while down in Memphis.

From what I’ve been told, Tazz was supposed to beat Crash for the Hardcore Title on Raw this past Monday. If you saw the match, you would have seen the mob that surrounded Tazz and Crash, making it impossible for the two to even fight. Look for Tazz to get his hands on Crash and the Hardcore Belt tonight on SmackDown!

If you are a hardcore wrestling nut from back when there was no such thing as a pay-per-view or when Vince wasn’t even calling matches yet, then you have to go see “Beyond the Mat,” a newly-released documentary starring Mick Foley, Jake Roberts, and Terry Funk. All I’m going to say is that it was one of the best movies I have ever had the privilege to sit through.

With that said, our time limit has expired for another week’s worth of The First Row. Questions? Comments? Send them to FirstRowFred@aol.com. Until next week, stay out of the cheap seats!

One of the most popular trends in wrestling for the past year has been the big “returns” of stars. Stars such as Hulk Hogan, Steve Austin, The Undertaker, Tazz(z), Ric Flair, and Goldberg have all had or soon will have long-awaited returns. Most of these returns are hyped for weeks in advance, and often overshadow the stars who have been wrestling the whole time. This week has shown just how ridiculous the trend has been. The WWF’s “B.B. (top right)” won’t be hyped, but her return to the booth will probably have fans clicking the remote. Sting (above) returned recently with little fanfare, in a move that had been long-anticipated by “smarks” on the internet. Scott Steiner (above left) and his 26-inch biceps made their much-talked-about return on Monday night’s Nitro program, resulting in most people changing the subject. Last but not least, Bret Hart (with Jim Neidhart, at left) has been talking about his possible return. We hear the Canadians are happy.

Pat Lukashuk (#11) of the MSU Men's Lacrosse team gets taken down during Monday night's game. The team, which had scored 16 goals in each of its two prior games, was tied up and held down by a tough Molloy team. Molloy held the Red Hawks to just five goals en route to a 14-5 victory.
MSU’s Rugby Club begins play this weekend with matches against Boston University and Boston College. The team has been practicing for weeks in anticipation of the season’s opening. They will be playing at their home field on Sunday, April 23, against Bard College.

Tuesday’s sports contests were all cancelled due to the weather. Rescheduled dates and/or final scores will be reported upon as the information comes in.

MSU Softball will be opening their home season this weekend with a Tournament held at The Quarry Field. Check with the Sports Information Office for starting times.

MSU Senior lacrosse player Will Van Dorn opened the season with three goals and five assists against Neumann College of Pennsylvania at Sprague Field last Wednesday night.

On Saturday, in a 16-10 MSU victory, he added another two goals and eight assists, pushing his points total to 18 in just two games.

Monday night the Red Hawks suffered their first defeat of the season as Molloy College held the potent MSU offense to just five goals, while scoring 14 themselves. Van Dorn picked up another two goals in the game, along with an assist.

Belson Pitches Shutout in Hawks’ Home Opener

By Mike Sanchez
Assistant Sports Editor

Backed by Greg Belson’s complete game, four-hit shutout, the Red Hawks (7-2-1) easily defeated the Allentown College Centaurs (5-8) at Yogi Berra Stadium yesterday afternoon, after MSU returned from a 6-2-1 West Coast trip. Belson (2-0) faced only 31 batters on the game, and fanned six while walking none. The Centaurs’ four hits were singles, and Belson has now given up only one earned run in his last 20 2/3 innings.

MSU’s first home game began with Belson giving up a single to the first Centaur batter, but he pitched his way out of the inning without any harm.

In the bottom half of the first inning, second baseman Dave Wurst led off for MSU with a single to left field. After he stole second base, Chris Baran walked. After a double steal, George Gallagher came up and doubled, scoring Wurst. MSU then scored two more runs, including two in the bottom of the fourth inning when MSU batter Chris Baran bunted towards first base. Centaur pitcher Moult overthrew the ball and Baran advanced all the way to second. MSU’s next batter, Craig Conway, followed with another run. This time the Centaur first baseman dropped the throw and Conway was safe.

When MSU scored two more runs in the bottom of the seventh inning, Belson had only one earned run in his last 20 2/3 innings pitched, he had allowed no runs on 49 hits in his last 72 innings. Belson improved his record to 2-0. They tallied seven hits, three of them belonging to Wurst. MSU built their lead to 10-2 in the second quarter alone, Van Dorn tied a school record for the most assists in a single period, originally set by Ken Oxley in 1982.

When the win, Belson improved his record to 2-0. They tallied seven hits, three of them belonging to Wurst. MSU was supposed to begin their four-game home stand on Tuesday, but the game was postponed. Before entering the contest on Wednesday, MSU had outscored their three previous opponents in California 50-10, including a 26-5 win over the University of Redlands on March 15.

After a double steal, George Gallagher came up and doubled, scoring Wurst. MSU then scored two more runs, including two in the bottom of the fourth inning when MSU batter Chris Baran bunted towards first base. Centaur pitcher Moult overthrew the ball and Baran advanced all the way to second. MSU’s next batter, Craig Conway, followed with another run. This time the Centaur first baseman dropped the throw and Conway was safe.

When MSU scored two more runs in the bottom of the seventh inning, Belson had only one earned run in his last 20 2/3 innings pitched, he had allowed no runs on 49 hits in his last 72 innings. Belson improved his record to 2-0. They tallied seven hits, three of them belonging to Wurst. MSU built their lead to 10-2 in the second quarter alone, Van Dorn tied a school record for the most assists in a single period, originally set by Ken Oxley in 1982.
