Ending the Silence

Active Minds Conference on Campus

Thieves on Campus: Make Community Question Security

The theme of the conference was Shaps a Growing Movement. The conference began on Friday when 1,100 backpacks were scattered across the Student Center Ballrooms in an event called Send Silence Packing. The idea of Send Silence

Thefts Continued on Page 4

The Great American Smokeout

The Great American Smokeout yesterday and provided the campus community with a poster contest and personal one-on-one quitting consultations.

The event challenged smokers to go one day without smoking and offered a support system through various organizations.

This year students volunteered to wear t-shirts that read, “1200 People Die Each Day From Tobacco.” Large paper cigarettes and chalk figures with statistics were seen throughout campus.

Despite the efforts of Campus Recreation, Center for Student Involvement, Counseling and Psychological Services, Health Promotion, LGBTQ Center, MSU Marketing Association, Relay for Life of MSU, Residential Education and Services.

Smokeout Continued on Page 7

MSU Loses Mentor and Coach Too Soon

“I remembered how much effort he put into the [lacrosse] program. Everything he did for this program was great.”

Taylor Bonner, a MSU alumna and former lacrosse player, played under coach Greco from 2007-2010. The relationship they had together was something that went beyond coach and player. According to Bonner, Greco was great.

Greco Continued on Page 22

The Student Voice of Montclair State University Since 1928

On the web at: www.theMontclarion.org

---

Inside

Feature

De-stress Your Mess with Fun Stuff

Opinion

“Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell: Does it Really Matter?”

A&E

Rocking Out in Starland Ballroom Motion City Soundtrack, Say Anything and Saves the Day

Sports

Mens Soccer Hosting Play-Off Game Tonight
Pelican Police Report

THE MONTCLAIRON
Montclair State University
100 Bloomfield Road
Montclair, New Jersey 07043
Editor-in-Chief: (973) 655-5230
Managing Editor: (973) 655-5282
News Dept.: (973) 655-5169
Sales Office: (973) 655-5140

November 11, 2010

On Nov. 2:
A student reported his vehicle was burglarized in Carparc Diem. He further reported his vehicle was vandalized and his iPod, cash and sunglasses were stolen.

On Nov. 3:
Red Hawk Diner employees reported a theft after a male student left the diner without paying for his meal. This case is under investigation.

On Nov. 3:
Officers responded to Bohn Hall in regards to a report of criminal mischief. Officers observed course language written on a door in magic marker. This case is under investigation.

On Nov. 5:
Student Shaun Bach was arrested and charged with false imprisonment under the domestic violence statute while in Alice Paul Hall.

On Nov. 5:
A resident student of Blanton Hall reported her room was burglarized as she slept and her iPod was stolen. There were no signs of forced entry. This case is under investigation.

On Nov. 5:
A resident student of Blanton Hall reported his room was burglarized and his laptop computer, PlayStation 3, cell phone and other items were reported stolen. There were no signs of forced entry. This case is under investigation.

On Nov. 7:
Officers responded to Science Hall on a report of criminal mischief. The officers discovered graffiti on the wall and a ceiling tile broken. This case is under investigation.

On Nov. 8:
A resident student of Blanton Hall reported that on Nov. 5, her room was burglarized and her laptop computer was stolen. This case is under investigation.

On Nov. 9:
A resident student of Bohn Hall reported that her cell phone, memory card and sunglasses with a total value of $800 was stolen from the pocket of her jacket which she left unattended for a short period of time in the Bohn Hall lounge. This case is under investigation.

Corrections

In last week’s issue Maria Sinoradzki was not given credit for the photograph of the Senate. The Montclarion willingly corrects its factual errors. If you think we’ve made a mistake in a story, please call the Editor-in-Chief Nelson at ext. 5230.
SHOWCASE LAUNDROMAT

20 lbs. $1.29  40 lbs. $2.79  60 lbs. $3.79

Monday - Friday 7am - 10pm  Weekends 5am - 10pm

Drying is FREE!!*

- FREE WiFi
- Efficient and Environmentally Friendly Machines
- We are GREEN. Totally GREEN!
- Safe and Convenient Location

1058 Main Ave., Clifton, NJ 973-773-1745

* w/Student ID. Offer is free drying for each load washed at Showcase Laundromat. Offer expires 1/1/11.
Calcia sites affected by the thefts:
- Photography studio
- Sculpture studio
- Jewelry studio
- Ceramics studio

If anyone has any information regarding these thefts, please contact MSUPD at: (973) 655-5222.

For further information on the 2010 Turkey Drive, contact Anthony Guido at aguido@foodbank.org or visit the website, www.njfoodbank.org/turkeydrive.

Students work with Community Food Bank of NJ to Help Give Back

Money donations won’t be given to the families in need. The donations will be used to buy turkeys at wholesale prices and assist in distributing the food and groceries throughout the winter.

For more information or to donate, visit the website, www.njfoodbank.org/turkeydrive.
Packing is to erase the stigma that surrounds mental illness and mental health,” said Allie Lundberg, Active Minds Student Advisory Committee vice president.

“We want to get more people to talk about it and decrease the suicides that occur each year,” Lundberg said.

The backpacks contained letters from friends and family members, telling the story of someone who took his or her own life.

“We had to get more people to talk about it and decrease the suicides that occur each year,” Lundberg said.

The tables were nearly filled with students from universities around the country who attended the conference as members of Active Minds, an organization that promotes mental health awareness and support among college students.

Snow, along with Courtney Knowles, the executive director of the Jed Foundation, spoke about the Love is Louder campaign, created by Snow this September, which aims to reduce the number of suicides among college students.

“I saw an outgoing on Twitter and Facebook of people who were sad, angry and confused,” said Snow. “I asked Courtney what we could do to help.”

The campaign, according to Knowles, has four essential facts: We all struggle, we all can change it, we can be grateful and to take care of one’s self.

“Have patience with yourself and people,” Snow said. “This led to an eating disorder,” Snow said. “It is for closure and a way of taking a step back and looking at what happened,” said Snow.

“Have patience with yourself and people,” Snow said. “This led to an eating disorder,” Snow said. “It is for closure and a way of taking a step back and looking at what happened,” said Snow.

“I was very excited to meet Warren for the first time today,” I expected. I would love to see him again,” Irvine said.

“I was very excited to meet Warren for the first time today,” I expected. I would love to see him again,” Irvine said.

“Love is Louder will ‘get people to stop memorizing and villainizing bullies,’” Snow said. “‘PostSecret.com’ can affect so many people worldwide and can save lives because there is hope! Have patience with yourself and the world. Be proud of your scars; it shows a beautiful journey and the world. Be proud of your scars; it shows a beautiful journey and world.”

“Love is Louder will ‘get people to stop memorizing and villainizing bullies,’” Snow said. “‘PostSecret.com’ can affect so many people worldwide and can save lives because there is hope! Have patience with yourself and the world. Be proud of your scars; it shows a beautiful journey and world.”

According to Snow and Knowles, the slogan on their palms. “It is a tradition to read postsecret. com with my friends when it is updated every Sunday,” said Erin Irvine, a senior film major at MSU.

“Love is Louder will ‘get people to stop memorizing and villainizing bullies,’” Snow said. “‘PostSecret.com’ can affect so many people worldwide and can save lives because there is hope! Have patience with yourself and the world. Be proud of your scars; it shows a beautiful journey and world.”

“Love is Louder will ‘get people to stop memorizing and villainizing bullies,’” Snow said. “‘PostSecret.com’ can affect so many people worldwide and can save lives because there is hope! Have patience with yourself and the world. Be proud of your scars; it shows a beautiful journey and world.”

“I was very excited to meet Warren for the first time today,” I expected. I would love to see him again,” Irvine said.

“I was very excited to meet Warren for the first time today,” I expected. I would love to see him again,” Irvine said.

As a child actor, she said she constantly struggled with thoughts of “I’m not good enough.”

“One particular girl bullied her constantly throughout middle school. One of her good friends committed suicide because she couldn’t accept herself after being bullied.”

“One particular girl bullied her constantly throughout middle school. One of her good friends committed suicide because she couldn’t accept herself after being bullied.”

“It can be difficult to get people to change it,” said Knowles. “And focus on the positive.”

“I was very excited to meet Warren for the first time today,” I expected. I would love to see him again,” Irvine said.

“I was very excited to meet Warren for the first time today,” I expected. I would love to see him again,” Irvine said.

“We want to get more people to talk about it and decrease the suicides that occur each year,” Lundberg said.

“She has four essential facts: We all struggle, we all can change it, we can be grateful and to take care of one’s self.”

“She has four essential facts: We all struggle, we all can change it, we can be grateful and to take care of one’s self.”

“Love is Louder will ‘get people to stop memorizing and villainizing bullies,’” Snow said. “‘PostSecret.com’ can affect so many people worldwide and can save lives because there is hope! Have patience with yourself and the world. Be proud of your scars; it shows a beautiful journey and world.”

“I was very excited to meet Warren for the first time today,” I expected. I would love to see him again,” Irvine said.

“I was very excited to meet Warren for the first time today,” I expected. I would love to see him again,” Irvine said.

As a child actor, she said she constantly struggled with thoughts of “I’m not good enough.”

“She has four essential facts: We all struggle, we all can change it, we can be grateful and to take care of one’s self.”

“She has four essential facts: We all struggle, we all can change it, we can be grateful and to take care of one’s self.”

“I was very excited to meet Warren for the first time today,” I expected. I would love to see him again,” Irvine said.

“I was very excited to meet Warren for the first time today,” I expected. I would love to see him again,” Irvine said.
Part-Time Soldiers, Full-Time Students

Imagine enlisting into the United States Army, taking a leave of absence for ten months of combined basic and individual training and then returning for a fall semester expecting everything to be the same old routine.

"For me, it's hard going to school, working and being in the Army at the same time," says Franklin Montano, current student at Montclair. "But I'm coping with it in a reasonable manner, and I don't think I'm doing that bad of a job."

Franklin Montano
Student

A small, but significant number of students at Montclair State University are either enlisted or are reserves of a branch of the United States Military.

Over the past year alone, the number of military and veteran students attending Montclair has grown to over a hundred students, which make up only a small portion of the overall university population of 18,000. In fact, only two percent of the overall school population is in the armed forces.

"It's not easy to fit back into a school routine after months and months of training or a long deployment," says Maria Duran, U.S. Army Specialist and current student at Montclair. "My time used to be managed by sergeants. Now that I'm back in school, it's managed by me."

Training in any branch of service can be difficult at times, but adjusting to normal college life can be just as hard. Time spent in training is always managed by a higher authority, but in college it's all on you to figure out where to go next.

"Time management is my biggest problem," says Montano. "I'm not the best at it, and I missed class this morning because I finished work at 2 a.m. So that's bad time management. Trying to manage work and school is tough."

"I consider this school as a mission and my mission is to do well."

Kenny Svolto
Student

There are many programs and services at Montclair State to help military students with time management skills. The University’s Office of Veteran and Military Resources provides current students enlisted in the military with the tools they need to succeed.

From the day the student applies to the day he or she graduates, the office helps them with every step of the educational process and introduces them to on and off-campus resources, as well as fellow veteran students.

"I consider this school as a mission and my mission is to do well," says Kenny Svolto of the U.S. Army and a current Geoscience undergrad at Montclair. "I assumed that getting out of the Army and coming back into school would be difficult. But I'm handling it pretty well."

This week Montclair State took the time to honor students and veterans of United States Military Services. There was a formal flag-raising and an opportunity for students to speak out on the "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" policy, which was cosponsored with the LGBT Center.

There was a luncheon held on campus for veteran faculty, students and staff on campus. Also, a mass was held for those lost in the service of our country at the Newman Catholic Center.

The Normal Review
MSU’s undergrad literary magazine is accepting submissions of creative writing and visual art until NOVEMBER 15 at 8 p.m. for the Fall 2010 issue.

Submit for a chance at the Best in Issue Contest and for campus recognition

Submission information is available at www.th thenormalreview.com

Don’t miss out on our chance for publication this semester!

Let your voice be heard!
According to the American Cancer Society, the number of cigarette smokers has decreased from 42.3% of adults in 2000 to 18.8% in 2018. Lung cancer is the leading cause of death in the United States for both men and women. Each year, about 3,400 non-smoking adults die of lung cancer as a result of breathing secondhand smoke. Lung cancer is the most preventable form of cancer death in our society.

Students wanted to speak out against smoking put a handprint on the windows of Rocky’s Nest. Underneath the handprints it states, “My hands will never touch cigarettes.”

First Building of The Heights Receives Name

In a ceremony Wednesday morning, the University honored war hero John Basilone with a building in the Heights that will bear his name. Basilone was a war hero who fought in World War II and was the only man in history to have received both the Medal of Honor and the Silver Star. He is considered a war hero due to his heroic actions in the Pacific Theater. He was later killed in action at Iwo Jima at the age of 28.

President Colé thanked the MSU community and reminded the rest of the student body that they are the role model that is Basilone, with all the negative stereotypes prevalent in the media currently. Pascrell also continued to make a point of recognizing the veterans present. He ended by thanking the students and university for choosing to name a building for such a distinguished individual.

Pascrell, the niece of Basilone, thanked the MSU community and reminded everyone of the importance of Basilone. “On the eve of veteran’s day, we honor the person we honor today,” Pascrell said of Basilone. “Of course, I could not think of a better place to honor him than on our campus. It’s fitting that Basilone was being honored at a University, despite the fact that he never attended college himself, as he returned to combat because he felt he could do more for his country.”

Pascrell went on to add that he was glad of the positive Italian-American role model that is Basilone, with all the negative stereotypes prevalent in the media currently. Pascrell also continued to make a point of recognizing the veterans present. He ended by thanking the students and university for choosing to name a building for such a distinguished individual.

Hawkins, the niece of Basilone, thanked the MSU community and reminded everyone of the role model that is Basilone. “On the eve of veteran’s day, we honor the person we honor today,” Pascrell said of Basilone. “Of course, I could not think of a better place to honor him than on our campus. It’s fitting that Basilone was being honored at a University, despite the fact that he never attended college himself, as he returned to combat because he felt he could do more for his country.”

Pascrell also continued to make a point of recognizing the veterans present. He ended by thanking the students and university for choosing to name a building for such a distinguished individual.

Hawkins, the niece of Basilone, thanked the MSU community and reminded everyone of the role model that is Basilone. “On the eve of veteran’s day, we honor the person we honor today,” Pascrell said of Basilone. “Of course, I could not think of a better place to honor him than on our campus. It’s fitting that Basilone was being honored at a University, despite the fact that he never attended college himself, as he returned to combat because he felt he could do more for his country.”

Pascrell also continued to make a point of recognizing the veterans present. He ended by thanking the students and university for choosing to name a building for such a distinguished individual.

Hawkins, the niece of Basilone, thanked the MSU community and reminded everyone of the role model that is Basilone. “On the eve of veteran’s day, we honor the person we honor today,” Pascrell said of Basilone. “Of course, I could not think of a better place to honor him than on our campus. It’s fitting that Basilone was being honored at a University, despite the fact that he never attended college himself, as he returned to combat because he felt he could do more for his country.”

Pascrell also continued to make a point of recognizing the veterans present. He ended by thanking the students and university for choosing to name a building for such a distinguished individual.
Auschwitz Survivor Passes on History to Over 200 Witnesses

Amanda Balli

Imagine a meeting room cramped with more than 200 people. There are people sitting on chairs, standing, walking around with classmates and peers, sitting on the floor and lining the walls like wall paper. This was the scene as Siidmarc told his heart-wrenching story. Professor Ron Hollander, director of the Jewish Studies minor, organized the event and introduced Siidmarc, “We are all here to be witnesses,” Hollander said. “In a few years, the survivors will be gone. They will depend on us to remember this important time during history and teach future generations.”

Dressed in a formal suit and tie, Siidmarc arrived. He started with an anecdote from his childhood, “I came from a religious family with 16 brothers and sisters,” he said. “We had respect for each other and our parents.”

They were “regular children,” who went to school and sang greetings in Poland. However, there was a change in 1939, he said. “When the Germans first came, they told us to send all your siblings to ‘heavenly’ Birkenau.” Siidmarc said that they had to wait for “enough people to send to ‘heavenly’ Birkenau.”

Siidmarc was able to hear dogs barking and snarling just on the other side of the barracks, the men could see the “blue striped suits” to the showers. It was amazing that Siidmarc remembered what he ate, the same situation. Siidmarc remembered what he ate, how he ate it, where he slept, his faith and even how far they made him walk. It was a very hard and terrible memory to vocalize, but the crowd shared his feelings. One by one, witnesses in the audience wiped their falling tears from their cheeks. “You can’t imagine seeing it,” he finished.

After the cattle car stopped, they were unloaded and taken by men in “blue striped suits” to the showers. “It was amazing that Siidmarc remembered the floor tiles being loose and people stowing their valuables away for safe keeping. They proceeded to take their cold showers, get their hair cut off and tattooed with individual numbers.”

While being assembled in lines outside the barracks, the men could see women on the other side of the fence in the same situation. Siidmarc remembered what he ate, how he ate it, where he slept, his faith and even how far they made him walk to and from the work houses. He was among the first to be sent to the working camp. Something as traumatic as the Holocaust is hard to forget. In fact, Siidmarc said, “Being corpse and dead people became a way of life.”

By 1944, 42,000 prisoners were evacuated from Auschwitz and sent to other camps. While in such camps, prisoners were forced to steal clothes from the dead to keep warm and even resort to eating them. Some railroad stations were bombed or shelled from the victorious tanks of the Allies. Along the road, many prisoners died. By the time they reached their destination, only 2,000 skeletons arrived, exchanged by soup, bread and hot showers.

Siidmarc was one of the lucky ones who escaped with his life by working in the armaments warehouse. He put together guns and ammunition for the German army.

His final destination was at Bergen-Belsen, another concentration camp which was liberated in April of 1945. He saw “human bodies [bleed] higher than the buildings.” Over 40,000 prisoners died in Bergen-Belsen alone.

When the British liberated the camp, the living inmates sang songs of joy. The Red Cross weighed the remaining people and handed out chocolate to the extremely emaciated. Siidmarc weighed “14 kilos and didn’t get any chocolate.”

After the war, Siidmarc lost his religion. “I was in love with my faith. I didn’t like anything about faith,” he said. “I learned in the Israeli war that he rediscovered his Jewish religion. He understood the language and he didn’t want to convert to a different religion. “The prayers we were saying here,” he said.

Siidmarc changed his last name from Skoczla when he immigrated to the United States. Siidmarc is an artifact to honor his fallen brothers and sisters. The most important lesson that we should take away from Siidmarc is the fact that we are all witnesses to history—“We have the obligation to continue the witnessing.” Hollander said.

Horoscopes by Monostradamus!

Aries – If there was ever a week to take your significant other out for a very special date, this is the week to do it. Don’t be afraid to take your lover out to a fancy restaurant or to do something different; make sure you can make it special.

Leo – This is the week to ask out that person you have been looking to date. Gather up enough confidence and ask them out on a small, simple date. It may just be a dinner out or you cooking for them at home.

Gemini – Your friends are going to be looking for help this week with supporting some type of cause. Even if you’re not the type of person who likes to volunteer, take some time out of your busy schedule this week and help out your friends with their organization.

Capricorn – It’s a good week to dig deep and pull out your inner creative side. Make sure to spend time painting, playing some music or even just writing some poetry or a short story. Don’t hold back, make sure to truly express your feelings.

Sagittarius – This week is good for making new friends. Make sure to be social this week, mingle around your group of friends and see if you can make some new friends. A great new friendship could most definitely arise.

Virgo – If you have been looking to re-decorate your dorm room or bedroom at home recently, make sure to spend time painting, putting some nice holiday decorations up or maybe some posters of your favorite band or athlete.
Sweeney Todd
The Demon Barber of Fleet Street

Music and Lyrics by Stephen Sondheim
Book by Hugh Wheeler
Based upon the play by Christopher Bond
Directed by Jodi Capeless
Associate Direction and Musical Staging by Clay James
Conductor and Musical Supervision by Greg Dlugos
Musical Direction by Meg Zervoulis
Lighting Design by Scott Bolman
Costume Design by Debra Otte
Scenic Design by Erhard Rom

Times are hard in 1846 London and one must make do. So Nellie Lovett adds a little something extra to the meat pies she peddles from her shop on Fleet Street. Her secret ingredient: the freshly murdered victims of her partner in crime, the barber Sweeney Todd. Composer/lyricist Stephen Sondheim refashions a macabre tale into a musical masterpiece that ripples with black humor and madness and that won eight Tony Awards, including Best Musical. Attend the tale and enter the tonsorial parlor of Sweeney Todd.

NOV. 17, 18, 19 @ 7:30pm
NOV. 20 @ 2:00pm & 8:00pm
NOV. 21 @ 2:00pm
Alexander Kasser Theater

973-655-5112 • www.peakperfs.org

Montclair State University
ONE NORMAL AVE. MONTCLAIR, NJ • CONVENIENT PARKING
*MUS undergraduate students receive one ticket at no additional charge to every event, through the Performing Arts Fee, with their valid student IDs. Tickets for the public are $15.
If you’re sitting in your dorm room, you might want to make sure there is nothing blocking the doorway. If there is, move it immediately! Your roommates near the door might be the reason you’ve been having trouble studying. I know; it might sound a little off the wall, but this is an example of Feng Shui, the ancient Chinese art of positioning and arranging items within a space to help promote a harmonious living environment. The ultimate goal of Feng Shui is to create a positive flow of cosmic energy, also known as Chi. Positive Chi can help relieve stress, promote better sleep, help you focus better on schoolwork and it can even improve your social life.

“I have tried Feng Shui at my mom’s house and noticed a lot less stress. I have just started applying some Feng Shui in my dorm room here at MSU and already noticed the difference,” says junior Sarah Myers.

To find out more about how to Feng Shui a dorm room, I spoke with Professor Kirsten Lagatree of the English department who authored Feng Shui: Arranging Your Home to Change Your Life.

“Feng Shui, the ancient Chinese art of positioning and arranging items within a space to help promote a harmonious living environment. The ultimate goal of Feng Shui is to create a positive flow of cosmic energy, also known as Chi. Positive Chi can help relieve stress, promote better sleep, help you focus better on schoolwork and it can even improve your social life.”

“Feng Shui is good common sense, but it can also be used for fun as well. It may not be for everybody, but ‘why not give it a try?’ said Lagatree. ‘By using a compass and the chart below you can determine what to put where in order to achieve a certain outcome.’

One of these days, senior nutrition major Victoria Grenow will snowboard off a glacier, and it’s very important to balance your dorm room correctly. The natural environment that will also aid in breaking your energy down. The ultimate goal of Feng Shui is to create a positive flow of cosmic energy, also known as Chi. Positive Chi can help relieve stress, promote better sleep, help you focus better on schoolwork and it can even improve your social life.

“I have tried Feng Shui at my mom’s house and noticed a lot less stress. I have just started applying some Feng Shui in my dorm room here at MSU and already noticed the difference,” says junior Sarah Myers.

To find out more about how to Feng Shui a dorm room, I spoke with Professor Kirsten Lagatree of the English department who authored Feng Shui: Arranging Your Home to Change Your Life.

“Feng Shui, the ancient Chinese art of positioning and arranging items within a space to help promote a harmonious living environment. The ultimate goal of Feng Shui is to create a positive flow of cosmic energy, also known as Chi. Positive Chi can help relieve stress, promote better sleep, help you focus better on schoolwork and it can even improve your social life.”

“Feng Shui is good common sense, but it can also be used for fun as well. It may not be for everybody, but ‘why not give it a try?’ said Lagatree. ‘By using a compass and the chart below you can determine what to put where in order to achieve a certain outcome.’

One of these days, senior nutrition major Victoria Grenow will snowboard off a glacier, and it’s very important to balance your dorm room correctly. The natural environment that will also aid in breaking your energy down. The ultimate goal of Feng Shui is to create a positive flow of cosmic energy, also known as Chi. Positive Chi can help relieve stress, promote better sleep, help you focus better on schoolwork and it can even improve your social life.

“I have tried Feng Shui at my mom’s house and noticed a lot less stress. I have just started applying some Feng Shui in my dorm room here at MSU and already noticed the difference,” says junior Sarah Myers.

To find out more about how to Feng Shui a dorm room, I spoke with Professor Kirsten Lagatree of the English department who authored Feng Shui: Arranging Your Home to Change Your Life.
Fall's Fashion with Camille Najagol

“arly on in college, when you hear about the ‘freshman 15’ you think, ‘It can’t happen to me.’ But it can and it does. Silent and sneaky, weight creeps up on you slowly, without you noticing. When you do notice, it’s too late. The best defense is a good offense. In college, this means being aware of what you are eating and how you are exercising. Just because there are so many restaurants on campus doesn’t mean you have to eat every meal there. Even if you do choose to eat out, be mindful of what you’re eating and how you’re eating it. Make smart choices and you won’t have to worry about gaining weight in college.”

The Weekly Debate

Q: How do you tell your significant other you would like them to lose weight?

He Said

In my opinion, girls have it a lot easier. There is no question that guys are less sensitive than girls, therefore, it’s easier to slip onto the subject. For instance, a girl could point out a jacked guy, and already have her boyfriend comparing his “guns” to theirs. Guys are all about the competition, but similarly, girls are too. Just as much as a guy may want to impress his girl, girls want to look good for their guys. If I had a boyfriend who commented on how much another girl was weight, I would be more determined to lose weight as that I could look good for him.

She Said

Well, my recommendation is: don’t bother. Telling a girl to lose weight, even in the nicest of ways, translates to, “You’re fat,” which is the absolute last thing a girl wants to hear. Although I believe honesty is an important factor in every relationship, I would consider this to be a definite exception. So, instead of stating the facts, try to be an influence on her weight loss. Ask her if she’d like to work out with you at the gym a couple times a week, or grab Subway instead of fast food the next time you go out for a quick bite to eat. If you’re living together, erase the snacks stocked up in the kitchen for healthier foods, or recommend eating together. Sure, she will get the hint, but the fact that you’re willing to do it with her will lessen the awkwardness surrounding the subject. I know this isn’t the answer that you want to hear, considering that it affects your eating habits and routine as well, but we all know you can’t have your cake and eat it too. After all, you are the one who wants her to lose the weight, right?

In my opinion, girls have it a lot easier. There is no question that guys are less sensitive than girls, therefore, it’s easier to slip onto the subject. For instance, a girl could point out a jacked guy, and already have her boyfriend comparing his “guns” to theirs. Guys are all about the competition, but similarly, girls are too. Just as much as a guy may want to impress his girl, girls want to look good for their guys. If I had a boyfriend who commented on how much another girl was weight, I would be more determined to lose weight as that I could look good for him.

For more fashion tips, visit our website: themontclarion.org

EMAIL YOUR CAMPUS CONCERNS TO MSUFEATURE@GMAIL.COM
Seeking energetic, responsible non-smoker for one day a week, approximately 11:30 AM-5:30 PM. Hours and day of week can be negotiated around class schedule. Three children: 2, 4, and 6. 973-588-7326

Female students: Single/Double Room available now. Furnished, parking available, easy walk-across campus. Internet and cable included. 973-778-1504.

Check out Behind the Scenes at The Montclarion blog at themontclarion.org under the Blogs tab!

This Week:
Mark Gould
Arts and Entertainment Editor

---

Leverage your current Bachelor’s Degree into a Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN) in just 12 months with our Fast Track BSN Degree. Our curriculum is offered at two convenient locations: Jersey City main campus starting in September and at Brookdale Community College’s Communiversity in May.

For more information call (888) 541-1289 or e-mail arodriguez10@njcu.edu

---

Advertise with us!
Contact Kevin at:
montclarionads@gmail.com

---

Advertise with us!
R.I.P.
John Maddi
1914 - 2010
Perished From Writer's Block

It fell directly on him while walking home...in fact, due to economical times, part of that block was used to make his tombstone.

Note: To those who want to revive John Maddi must find the 7 hidden clues throughout this issue of the Montclarion. If one wishes him to be revived as a cyborg, 2 more clues must be found. Montclair State University will not be held responsible for the actions of a revived cyborg John Maddi.

By John Maddi

By Carol Vilchez

By Jimmy Ellerth
Proposition 19 Goes Up in Smoke

N
ow, this is a topic that college students just can’t get enough of: Proposition 19. This appeal to our most naturalistic side contained a relatively new concept in the United States. California would have become the first state to legalize the use of Marijuana, but despite the efforts of Proposition 19 advocates, the bill, excuse the pun, went up in smoke.

There are many reasons why Proposition 19 did not pass remain a mystery to us. Granted, there are some negative aspects of marijuana; there is no denying the fair amount of positive qualities associated with the plant. There is a reason why 13 other states have decriminalized cannabis.

Regardless of the arguments against cannabis, marijuana is truly capable of helping people. For cancer patients specifically, it can increase appetite while suppressing nausea and reducing pain or discomfort. And we don’t want to hear that people are opposed to this herbal remedy because it is a “drug.” Caffeine is a drug too, but you don’t see police busting down the doors of Café’s across New Jersey.

We have all heard the argument that once we legalize marijuana, what’s stopping us from legalizing heroine or cocaine? That, my friends, is a logical fallacy. Our own teachers use this technique; it’s called the slippery slope fallacy. One of the stipulations in Proposition 19 was that you must be 21 in order to purchase marijuana. This rule directly parallels alcohol in terms of age restrictions, but the fear still remains that children will have an easier time getting their hands on cannabis.

Upset that medical marijuana in New Jersey still has not reached many cancer patients because of this negative association with the word “drug” and the tight restrictions to actually receive medical cannabis. You must spend thousands of dollars on medical bills in order to qualify for medical marijuana, multiple doctors visits and exhausted efforts to find an alternative treatment.

Along with the health benefits of marijuana, there are equal advantages in the economic sector. Logically speaking, if marijuana was legalized in California, the increase in dispensaries would create jobs. The new business would create an entirely new form of revenue for the state, hopefully improving California’s economic stability.

Proposition 19 has slipped through the fingers of marijuana advocates but shows no signs of burning up.

- Lori Wieczorek

Hannah Scherba | The Montclarion

Picking Apart Marijuana:
The Pros and Cons of Legalization

Pros

• Positive mood
• Economic stimulation
• Creates jobs
• Will no longer be a gateway drug
  (No more interactions with sketchy drug dealers)
• New source of revenue
• Stress relief
• Supresses nausea

Cons

• Accessibility to children
• Slows reaction time
• Causes weight gain
• Lung cancer
• May cause user to experiment with other, more severe drugs
Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell, Does it Really Matter?

Are Army Policies Protecting Our Soldiers or Discriminating Against Them?

The repeal of the Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell policy in the military is currently stuck in the Senate, where it was to be debated. Advocates of the change fear that the Senate will not come to a decision before the newly-elected representatives and senators take office, when Republicans will take control of the House.

This worries many because the majority of the opposition to the repeal is in the Republican party, including Senator McCain who is currently the senior Republican on the Senate’s Armed Forces Committee.

Many Republicans say they are waiting for the Postmaster Survey of active military and their families to take the matter to debate.

Some of the most senior ranking military personnel are also showing opposition to the repeal, though President Obama ran on the promise to repeal the measure.

The war way is changing and the repeal may be long a coming time.

But many things are Wharton opposants of the repeal are purposefully delaying the debate is set of much concern to me, what is, is that all of our soldiers, including women and men get the proper respect they are due.

There is no reason that someone who has willingly given up their safety should later be discharged, dishonestly or honorably, simply because someone selfishly revealed their sexual orientation.

This issue came into prominence when a seamenwoman went to court to contest her discharge after the on-bahnd of a woman in 1996. The court asked to inform that she was a lesbian.

Despite the ridiculousness of the situation, the question is how much information of each would a seamenwoman discharge.

In such a case, the woman had made a career of being in the service, not was a just a bit, but it was also a bit of her life.

Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell is not the worst policy in the world. In a larger sense it can be seen in our everyday lives.

Many of us would rather our employers not know the details of our personal lives, even if they are legally unable to fire us for being gay, straights, a cancer survivor, woman, what ever, as long as it does not conflict with our work.

And in that way, I feel a soldier’s expelee are not meant to know about a soldier’s personal life, but they have to, so that Don’t Tell enforced strictly.

Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell is not perfect, and it certainly needs to be changed.

If someone is willing to put themselves in danger as a soldier, they should be thanked and accepted, regardless of anything but serious medical conditions.

If someone is willing to put themselves in danger as a soldier, they should be thanked and accepted, regardless of anything but serious medical conditions.

No one asked and the soldier did not tell All, what evidence needs to be presented by this third party for their claim to be accepted.

In some cases that if someone attempts to out a solider, the soldier’s superior should be aware of the matter. Even though this loophole is obvious one that should be ungrudged and therefore incurred.

Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell can be abused.

It can be seen in a case where there is a draft, a way to avoid being drafted.

While I have no say as a gay soldier, past or present, I attempted to be discharged, by lying about, or even truthfully, revealing their, sexuality, that loophole is already one that should be gotten rid of.

In a time when a country is suffering of soldiers, should we even be discharging our good soldiers and rejecting those who are willing to fight simply because they will not hide their sexual orientation?

Do we really have so many services that we can afford to reject people on the bases of sexual preference?

Don’t Ask, Don’t Tell isn’t perfect, and we certainly need to make some changes.

My reservations about changing this policy though come from my worry about accepting homosexual individuals suffering discrimination.

If someone is willing to put themselves in danger as a soldier, individuals can not be expected for enlistment or discharged based on their sexual orientation, but there is very little anyone can do to keep other soldiers from experiencing from mocking, belittling and even abusing soldiers for being homosexual.

I would like to think that we are all tolerable, even accepting, individuals in this day and age, but as a gay person I have heard many individuals say anti-homosexual comments.

Even more unfortunately I even heard a report say explicitly that he and his much other soldiers if they said they are “Gay”.

So, while any person who is interested in serving in the military should not be turned away, on the bases of their sexual orientation, I new that people want to serve as heterosexuals, but I believe that people are capable of serving with homosexuals.

However, in the end it is each individual’s choice as to whether they would like to attempt serving as openly gay.

Just as women were proven fit to serve in combat, homosexual individuals are just as able to serve in the military.

There is no reason that homosexuals from being good soldiers.

If someone is willing to put themselves in danger as a soldier, they should be thanked and accepted, regardless of anything but serious medical conditions.

Today, on Veteran’s Day we should be thanking all of those who have enlisted in our armed forces, whether they are gay or straight.

We should consider that these individuals are brave for even agreeing to face the possible of combat.

So go out, thank a soldier and think about the way they serve their exhibit, which others are kept from serving.

Jade Leach, an English major, is in her first year as a co-editor for The Montclarion.
HAYLEY LINKETY
COLUMNIST

I felt young again, and the warm feel- ment while watching the show. Memories from my childhood came to my

I had goosebumps the entire time as thoughts of Christmas spent with family mem- bers.

When people who aren’t active members of the art community hear these facts, they

As a member of this community, I feel the need to give a voice to the students and faculty who have been affected by this, as it is difficult to get a grasp of the enormity of this situation if you aren’t an art major.

It is known that the thefts began in June— with a burglary of the film Cage in Calcia Hall, resulting in about $50,000 worth of film production equipment and cameras stolen from the department. The aftermath has been such a problem that many people were coming out of the school with Christmas decorations.

Photo courtesy of Flickr Account NYClovesNYC

The fine arts are still recovering from this wound, but perhaps the most frustrating aspect of these events is the University’s response. There have been few efforts to show the art community any sort of support or compassion. When I approached Dean Ron Sharpe for a quote on the matter, I received no answer.

There is a wave of disappointment that walks through Calcia Hall, as more days pass with unanswered questions.

The aftereffects of these thefts are significant: if a university appears dedicated to its students, then a university would provide little assistance to a depart- ment that already has low funding, a rundown building and students who cannot possibly make up for the damages with their own funds.

“My吁吁 was secured toward the end of a major string of thefts; after the first one the school didn’t help us cope with the loss, they just let us stand around, they invested more time and energy into constructing the Premacade,” said Lai.

“What will it take for the school to realize our livelihoods are at stake?” asked Lai.

Keep in mind that this is only one out of many stories.

Instead, time has passed; sometimes, though, adversity comes triumphant. But, what kind of message is the University trying to send by offering the clear effort to assist in a building that has one too many hits of theft? How many more stories need to be heard in the future?

In the end a wave of outrage will turn into a roar until the right person is listening.

My吁吁, an art history and photography major, in his first year as a columnist for the Montclarion.

For more information concerning the thefts turn to the front page.

Calcia Suffers its Own “Great Train Robbery”
One Student Sheds Light on the Rampant Equipment Robberies

The aftermath has been such a problem that many people were coming out of the school with Christmas decorations.

Photo courtesy of Flickr Account NYClovesNYC

The fine arts are still recovering from this wound, but perhaps the most frustrating aspect of these events is the University’s response. There have been few efforts to show the art community any sort of support or compassion.

When I approached Dean Ron Sharpe for a quote on the matter, I received no answer.

There is a wave of disappointment that walks through Calcia Hall, as more days pass with unanswered questions.

The aftereffects of these thefts are significant: if a university appears dedicated to its students, then a university would provide little assistance to a depart- ment that already has low funding, a rundown building and students who cannot possibly make up for the damages with their own funds.

“My吁吁 was secured toward the end of a major string of thefts; after the first one the school didn’t help us cope with the loss, they just let us stand around, they invested more time and energy into constructing the Premacade,” said Lai.

“What will it take for the school to realize our livelihoods are at stake?” asked Lai.

Keep in mind that this is only one out of many stories.

Instead, time has passed; sometimes, though, adversity comes triumphant. But, what kind of message is the University trying to send by offering the clear effort to assist in a building that has one too many hits of theft? How many more stories need to be heard in the future?

In the end a wave of outrage will turn into a roar until the right person is listening.

My吁吁, an art history and photography major, in his first year as a columnist for the Montclarion.

For more information concerning the thefts turn to the front page.

Calcia Suffers its Own “Great Train Robbery”
One Student Sheds Light on the Rampant Equipment Robberies

The aftermath has been such a problem that many people were coming out of the school with Christmas decorations.

Photo courtesy of Flickr Account NYClovesNYC

The fine arts are still recovering from this wound, but perhaps the most frustrating aspect of these events is the University’s response. There have been few efforts to show the art community any sort of support or compassion.

When I approached Dean Ron Sharpe for a quote on the matter, I received no answer.

There is a wave of disappointment that walks through Calcia Hall, as more days pass with unanswered questions.

The aftereffects of these thefts are significant: if a university appears dedicated to its students, then a university would provide little assistance to a depart- ment that already has low funding, a rundown building and students who cannot possibly make up for the damages with their own funds.

“My吁吁 was secured toward the end of a major string of thefts; after the first one the school didn’t help us cope with the loss, they just let us stand around, they invested more time and energy into constructing the Premacade,” said Lai.

“What will it take for the school to realize our livelihoods are at stake?” asked Lai.

Keep in mind that this is only one out of many stories.

Instead, time has passed; sometimes, though, adversity comes triumphant. But, what kind of message is the University trying to send by offering the clear effort to assist in a building that has one too many hits of theft? How many more stories need to be heard in the future?

In the end a wave of outrage will turn into a roar until the right person is listening.

My吁吁, an art history and photography major, in his first year as a columnist for the Montclarion.

For more information concerning the thefts turn to the front page.
Monica Winston
Assistant A&E Editor

It is a widely held belief that college students make up a majority of the spending audience, willing to throw down absurd amounts of money for entertainment. When it comes to concert-going, I had long abstained from coughing up the cash but decided recently to live a little and splurge. So for the first major concert I attended entirely of my own free will, I indulged my sixteenth year old self and saw Saves The Day, Motion City Soundtrack and Say Anything.

I arrived to the show at Starland Ballroom during Saves The Day’s set, pleasantly surprised that it was packed with such a large crowd. As the set wore on, I discovered that the packed room was, for the most part, full of freshman faced high school students and I felt creepy for engaging on their territory.

I tried to put my own insecurities aside and focus on the band itself. I was pleased to hear many of the songs that I had come to know and love, and I was especially happy to meet everyone to come to the merchandise area by joining Say Anything. Though Pierre’s hoarse voice gave out on him at times, he was still able to deliver a stellar performance with high energy. The few occasions in which he was unable to sing, he employed the typical concert gambit of having the audience sing for him; this audience was only too happy to do so.

Max Bemis, announced that he felt this was one of their best performances ever and that he felt as though New Jersey was a home away from home. While this may be true, I felt as though there was less evident camaraderie in this set than found in Motion City Soundtrack’s. Regardless, Say Anything was able to please the crowd with a set list of songs encompassing their careers, playing songs from In Defense of the Genre, …Is a Real Boy and, one of the lesser known albums, Colorblind.

Conley surprised the audience by joining Say Anything on stage to sing a few songs with Bemis from their side project, Two Tongues. Bemis later hinted at the possibility of Two Tongues touring in the future. While I had been disappointed badly enough to leave the show early it’s a sad sign when letting out the parking lot traffic takes precedence over finishing a concert, the support of the audience proves that emo is not dead. It also suggests that maybe it’s not always the college students who dominate the concert scene, but that high schoolers also do their part to support live music, provided that mom is willing to drive the carpool.

Vanessa Harpoy
Art. Feature Editor

An epic trio of bands played at Starland Ballroom; Saves The Day, Motion City Soundtrack and Say Anything. Needless to say, it was an amazing alternative music concert, the line up having been well anticipated for quite some time.

My personal favorites soon was a young man with a band name Motion City Soundtrack and Say Anything. Bemis played an insert song from his album that was at an all time high with band members Chris Conley and Dave Soloway on stage and reunited their side project Two Tongues. Also, to many die-hard fans wishes, Say Anything performed their album “Colorblind” from the night before. Thanks to the audience proves that emo is not dead. It also suggests that maybe it’s not always the college students who dominate the concert scene, but that high schoolers also do their part to support live music, provided that mom is willing to drive the carpool.

Dave Malewski
Staff Writer

Thought all the bands performed well, Say Anything stole the show. Their bassist Kenny Vasoli, former of The Starting Line, Say Anything and Coby Linder created a dynamic set. The Montclarion
Mark’s New Music Roundup

N.E.R.D. return with their new album entitled Nothing. Led by Pharrell Williams, the group has released an album of hip hop while incorporating a lot of R&B, funk and rock. A lot of the songs, such as “Hypnotize U,” are almost so bad that they’re great. The lyrics are a bit laughable, but overall N.E.R.D. has made a collection of catchy, fun songs. Although Nothing does quite literally nothing to move the hip hop scene forward, it’s still worth listening to simply for the fact that it’s not as terrible as most other new releases in the genre.

Max Bemis, lead singer and mastermind of Say Anything, has released a solo album under the stage name Max Bemis & The Painful Splits. The self titled album is composed mostly of himself and an acoustic guitar. There are a few, although not enough, moments where wife Sherri DuPree of the band Eisley sings background vocals. Fans of Say Anything will find a lot to love here as Bemis is still writing personal lyrics, and the songs are stripped down to the bare minimum. However, the album is only sold on the current tour with Motion City Soundtrack and Saves The Day.

Do you have any ideas for the Round Up? If so, then contact Mark at msuarts@gmail.com and start writing for The Montclarion today!
Director Todd Phillips’ Due Date is his first film since his blockbuster hit The Hangover. Due Date stars Zach Galifianakis, who plays an aspiring actor Ethan Tremblay, and Robert Downey Jr. as soon-to-be father Peter Highman. Galifianakis is the key to this film, much like he was in The Hangover, as all of the big laughs revolve around him. Downey Jr. plays a stricter character in Highman to draw contrast to the childish nature of Tremblay, which takes away from Downey Jr.’s usual comedic gold.

The film only centers around Tremblay and Highman, therefore, the supporting roles are limited to Jamie Foxx as Darryl, Danny McBride as Lonnie and Michelle Monaghan as Peter’s wife, Sarah. While Foxx didn’t provide any laughs, McBride shined as a handicapped ex-war vet, and he helps Downey Jr. provide his funniest scene in the film. Due Date is essentially a mix between the screwball comedy The Hangover and the classic film Planes, Trains, and Automobiles, which stars John Candy and Steve Martin.

The plot couldn’t be simpler, as it depicts two grown men trying to make it to Los Angeles, which seems easy enough, though. Naturally there are roadblocks along the way. Due Date does provide solid laughs, although they seem far apart, unlike The Hangover’s consistent comedy. Galifianakis and Downey Jr. work well together because their characters are so different. While Highman is a precise man with a schedule to meet, Tremblay is a shaggy man-child who consistently faces bad luck.

There are a few scenes in this film where Galifianakis drops his comedic persona and the film turns into a dramatic sob story about the loss of his father. Tremblay being portrayed as a sad, lonely man inside plays well into the development of the relationship between him and Highman because Highman’s conscience won’t allow him to ditch Tremblay. I feel Due Date offered solid comedy, but in a sense I feel it could have offered more.

Overall, Due Date is a picture I would definitely recommend, and while not perfect, it does provide some big laughs courtesy of Galifianakis.

Ken’s Grade: 3.5 out of 5 Stars

To watch the trailer for Due Date visit www.themontclarion.org

Due Date Delivers Solid, Simple Laughs

Zach Galifianakis Shines in Comedic Role

Ken Macri  Staff Writer

Ken’s Grade:

3.5 out of 5 Stars

Due Date stars Zach Galifianakis and Robert Downey Jr. in contrasting roles. Photo courtesy of www.exoterika.com

Be sure to check out next week’s A&E section of The Montclarion for more new movie reviews and a special review of the Splash of Africa fashion show sponsored by NASO and CARIBSO.

Write for MarkyMark and you’ll be Funky Fresh! Email MSUARTS@GMAIL.COM and get started today!
First Inkling has barely gotten started and already they are aiming higher than an average college literary journal. Not content with publishing creative writing from its home base at SUNY Rockland, or even from the United States, First Inkling is aiming to be the first international undergraduate literary journal, publishing the best undergraduate writing that comes across their desk.

While many international literary journals already exist, there are none that focus solely on college undergraduate writing. Not only is this to be an achievement for the staff of First Inkling, but for their contributors as well.

First Inkling is attempting to offer a mutually beneficial relationship for all involved by distributing the journal to MFA programs, as well as offering exposure to young writers. This allows students to impress possible grad schools and possible publishers beyond their grades and before they have even earned their bachelor’s.

To go beyond what has been done before, First Inkling is developing a critical arm to attempt to identify the movement of our generation. Movements are normally identified either by the writers themselves or years after the fact. Now, the editors of First Inkling want to identify the zeitgeist, literally “spirit of the time,” before most of our generation has even been published outside the bounds of college publications.

The first issue of First Inkling is slated to come out in September and submissions are still being accepted for those who would like to see if they are among the best English-speaking writers in college now.

When we see print losing to electronic competitors all around us, it is exciting to see such an ambitious print project come out of a university.

New Outlet For Undergrad Writers
First Inkling Breaks New Ground in Publishing

After last year’s fallout with NBC, Conan O’Brien became a man without a job. However, losing his spot on The Tonight Show may have been the best thing for O’Brien’s career.

O’Brien returns to television on TBS after a nine month absence for his new talk show, Conan. On the premiere episode, he didn’t shy away from poking fun at his former network, starting off with a skit about how they left him struggling and wasting away.

Right off the bat, O’Brien joked about getting kicked off his former show. He joked about naming the show Conan because it would mean, “I’d be harder to replace.”

The first episode featured guests Seth Rogen and Glee star Lea Michele. The musical performance was Jack White, from the popular rock band The White Strips, who played a song along-side O’Brien. The performance was great because the viewer could tell how excited O’Brien was to be back on air and playing with a good friend.

Unfortunately, Conan lost an estimated third of its viewers on the second night. Nearly three millions viewers tuned into the show for the first episode.

Many viewers felt like the NBC jokes were becoming trite and played out. Still, O’Brien is one of the most humorous and light-hearted men in late night television, and his show will only improve with time.

On the first episode, O’Brien wasn’t afraid to test the limits of basic cable, as Rogen openly talked about marijuana, and Michele talked about her recent racy spread in GQ magazine. Future guests include Michael Cera, LL Cool J, Patton Oswalt and Bob Saget.

Conan airs 11 p.m. Monday through Thursday nights on TBS.
to Bonner, he never looked at Greco as a coach, but always as a friend. “I couldn’t believe it was true,” said Bonner. “I just put from where I was and just couldn’t focus on anything. I talked to him on Wednesday, the day before he passed, about helping him in the summon- ing season for the team, among a couple of other things. He was definitely the closest coach I ever had.”

A Montclair State alum as well, Greco played defense for the lacrosse team when he was a student from 1997-2000. He received his bachelor’s degree from MSU and a master’s in 2001. But that wouldn’t be the last time he would stop to talk to Bonner.

Greco started out coaching the lacrosse team in 2003, becoming the sixth in the Red Hawks’ history. He came into the program during his first year not knowing anything about the program. “I had a dismal 6-7 record. But like a true champion, Greco round up his team and went 14-0 the next year to win the conference. He was the driving force behind this time beating Farmdale State in the conference. They did this by having the Red Hawks. “Looking back, I will always remember how Greco came back to the program and made it the way it is now,” says Scala.

The next tiebreaker is each team’s winning percentage. Now, this is not the confusing opponents’ opponents’ winning percentage. The same will be done for the teams that each school plays. For example: MSU’s opponents’ winning percentage for its conference, non-conference and non-scholarship opponents’ winning percentage would be added up. This number would be subtracted from the winning percentage. The same will be done for the teams that each school played in the Knickerbocker Conference and, more importantly, led the team to win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.

The next year, Greco continued to roll as he led the Red Hawks to one of the greatest seasons of all time in school history. The Red Hawks won 14 games that year, one shy of the school record, and only lost three games. They would eventually win over Richard Stockton College, in the title game and win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.

The following year, Greco continued to roll as he led the Red Hawks to one of the greatest seasons of all time in school history. The Red Hawks won 14 games that year, one shy of the school record, and only lost three games. They would eventually win over Richard Stockton College, in the title game and win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.

The next year, Greco continued to roll as he led the Red Hawks to one of the greatest seasons of all time in school history. The Red Hawks won 14 games that year, one shy of the school record, and only lost three games. They would eventually win over Richard Stockton College, in the title game and win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.

The next year, Greco continued to roll as he led the Red Hawks to one of the greatest seasons of all time in school history. The Red Hawks won 14 games that year, one shy of the school record, and only lost three games. They would eventually win over Richard Stockton College, in the title game and win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.

The next year, Greco continued to roll as he led the Red Hawks to one of the greatest seasons of all time in school history. The Red Hawks won 14 games that year, one shy of the school record, and only lost three games. They would eventually win over Richard Stockton College, in the title game and win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.

The next year, Greco continued to roll as he led the Red Hawks to one of the greatest seasons of all time in school history. The Red Hawks won 14 games that year, one shy of the school record, and only lost three games. They would eventually win over Richard Stockton College, in the title game and win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.

The next year, Greco continued to roll as he led the Red Hawks to one of the greatest seasons of all time in school history. The Red Hawks won 14 games that year, one shy of the school record, and only lost three games. They would eventually win over Richard Stockton College, in the title game and win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.

The next year, Greco continued to roll as he led the Red Hawks to one of the greatest seasons of all time in school history. The Red Hawks won 14 games that year, one shy of the school record, and only lost three games. They would eventually win over Richard Stockton College, in the title game and win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.

The next year, Greco continued to roll as he led the Red Hawks to one of the greatest seasons of all time in school history. The Red Hawks won 14 games that year, one shy of the school record, and only lost three games. They would eventually win over Richard Stockton College, in the title game and win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.

The next year, Greco continued to roll as he led the Red Hawks to one of the greatest seasons of all time in school history. The Red Hawks won 14 games that year, one shy of the school record, and only lost three games. They would eventually win over Richard Stockton College, in the title game and win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.

The next year, Greco continued to roll as he led the Red Hawks to one of the greatest seasons of all time in school history. The Red Hawks won 14 games that year, one shy of the school record, and only lost three games. They would eventually win over Richard Stockton College, in the title game and win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.

The next year, Greco continued to roll as he led the Red Hawks to one of the greatest seasons of all time in school history. The Red Hawks won 14 games that year, one shy of the school record, and only lost three games. They would eventually win over Richard Stockton College, in the title game and win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.

The next year, Greco continued to roll as he led the Red Hawks to one of the greatest seasons of all time in school history. The Red Hawks won 14 games that year, one shy of the school record, and only lost three games. They would eventually win over Richard Stockton College, in the title game and win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.

The next year, Greco continued to roll as he led the Red Hawks to one of the greatest seasons of all time in school history. The Red Hawks won 14 games that year, one shy of the school record, and only lost three games. They would eventually win over Richard Stockton College, in the title game and win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.

The next year, Greco continued to roll as he led the Red Hawks to one of the greatest seasons of all time in school history. The Red Hawks won 14 games that year, one shy of the school record, and only lost three games. They would eventually win over Richard Stockton College, in the title game and win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.

The next year, Greco continued to roll as he led the Red Hawks to one of the greatest seasons of all time in school history. The Red Hawks won 14 games that year, one shy of the school record, and only lost three games. They would eventually win over Richard Stockton College, in the title game and win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.

The next year, Greco continued to roll as he led the Red Hawks to one of the greatest seasons of all time in school history. The Red Hawks won 14 games that year, one shy of the school record, and only lost three games. They would eventually win over Richard Stockton College, in the title game and win the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) Motos Tournament title, their first of three straight championships.
Fantasy Football Start ‘Em/ Sit ‘Em: Week Ten

Brandon Gincel
Staff Writer

START ‘EM

QB – David Garrard – Garrard is coming off the best game of his career against the Dallas Cowboys, where the Jaguars’ quarterback threw for four touchdowns and ran for another. Garrard gets another great matchup this week against the Houston Texans and should produce some great numbers.

RB – Cedric Benson – Benson managed to have 50 yards on the ground and a touchdown last week against the Pittsburgh Steelers top ranked run defense. This week Benson has a great matchup against a bottom tier Indianapolis Colts run defense. He should post big numbers.

WR – Blair White – White is the hot pickup of the week. With Austin Collie leaving the game last week on a stretcher, White steps in and becomes the slot receiver this week. Peyton Manning seems to be able to make any receiver that steps into the offense an elite receiver in the league, and Cincinnati gave up 100+ yards and a touchdown to Mike Wallace in the slot last week.

SIT ‘EM

QB – Matt Ryan – Ryan faces a dominant Ravens’ pass defense that now has Ed Reed back, fresh off the PUP list. The Ravens intercepted the Dolphins’ quarterback Chad Henne three times last week including one by Ed Reed to seal the victory. If you have a better option this week, then consider using him.

RB – Peyton Hillis – Hillis is coming off the best week of his career where he rushed for 186 yards and two touchdowns against the New England Patriots. This week he faces the New York Jets, one of the league’s top run defenses. Hillis should not reach the end zone this week, even though he seems to find his way to pay dirt every week.

WR – Calvin Johnson – Johnson is usually a must play every week, no matter who he is matched up against. But this week it is not his matchup that is the problem. Detroit is going through starting quarterbacks like candy, and this week the Lions will look to third string quarterback Drew Stanton to lead them to victory. Not likely, but anything is possible in the NFL.

Cedric Benson's numbers have gotten better recently and he's facing a poor Colts rushing defense this week.

Photo Courtesy of Flickr account Pnther60

November 11, 2010 • The Montclarion

sports

Mike Monostra
Sports Editor

Kris Hunte
Assistant Sports Editor

Nelson DePasquale
Editor-In-Chief

Jesse Schwartzman
Guest Selections

(U) = Upset Pick

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Match</th>
<th>Monostra</th>
<th>Hunte</th>
<th>DePasquale</th>
<th>Schwartzman</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Last Week</td>
<td>8-5</td>
<td>9-4</td>
<td>8-5</td>
<td>9-4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Season Record</td>
<td>67-50</td>
<td>67-50</td>
<td>67-50</td>
<td>9-4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Upset Record</td>
<td>5-3</td>
<td>3-5</td>
<td>5-3</td>
<td>0-1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ravens at Falcons</td>
<td>Ravens</td>
<td>Falcons</td>
<td>Falcons</td>
<td>Ravens (U)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bengals at Colts</td>
<td>Colts</td>
<td>Bengals (U)</td>
<td>Colts</td>
<td>Colts</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jets at Browns</td>
<td>Jets</td>
<td>Jets</td>
<td>Jets</td>
<td>Jets</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vikings at Bears</td>
<td>Bears</td>
<td>Vikings</td>
<td>Bears</td>
<td>Vikings</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Titans at Dolphins</td>
<td>Dolphins</td>
<td>Titans</td>
<td>Dolphins</td>
<td>Titans</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Texans at Jaguars</td>
<td>Texans</td>
<td>Texans</td>
<td>Texans</td>
<td>Texans</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lions at Bills</td>
<td>Bills</td>
<td>Bills</td>
<td>Lions</td>
<td>Lions</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Panthers at Bucs</td>
<td>Bucs</td>
<td>Bucs</td>
<td>Bucs</td>
<td>Bucs</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chiefs at Broncos</td>
<td>Chiefs</td>
<td>Chiefs</td>
<td>Chiefs</td>
<td>Chiefs</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rams at 49ers</td>
<td>Rams</td>
<td>Rams</td>
<td>Rams</td>
<td>49ers</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Cowboys at Giants</td>
<td>Giants</td>
<td>Giants</td>
<td>Giants</td>
<td>Giants</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Seattle at Arizona</td>
<td>Seahawks</td>
<td>Cardinals</td>
<td>Seahawks (U)</td>
<td>Cardinals</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pats at Steelers</td>
<td>Patriots (U)</td>
<td>Steeler</td>
<td>Patriots</td>
<td>Steelers</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Eagles at Redskins</td>
<td>Redskins</td>
<td>Eagles</td>
<td>Redskins</td>
<td>Eagles</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The Montclarion • November 11, 2010

Deanna Benjamin
Assistant Sports Editor

"Freshmen Five" Guiding MSU Ice Hockey Three Years Later

The Montclair Ice Hockey club team has started with a 5-2 record so far for the 2010-2011 season and there are five unique players who help bring the team to victory every time. Kenny Renae, Tyler Timke, Billy Freeswick, Joe Fede and Brett Crane have been best friends since freshman year, some people might know them as the famous "freshmen five." These five best friends met freshman year during hockey try-outs. They all clicked instantly on the ice and then found out that they lived together in Bohn Hall. Throughout the years they have been playing and hanging out together. They did not just become friends, they became brothers.

They received the name of the "freshmen five" from an e-mail sent to one of the senior captains and signed sincerely and anonymously "the freshmen five." Everyone took it as a joke but the name has stuck through the years.

Besides playing for Montclair, all the boys have lots of experience in hockey. Tyler Renke has been playing since he was seven. He attended Sheehan High School in Connecticut and set the most points in a season (66 points in 20 games). He was also named All-State in Connecticut. He now serves as one of Montclair's leading scorers playing center.

Kenny Renae has also been playing hockey since he was seven. He started playing travel for Brick Hockey Club and then continued to play in high school. His junior year at Point Pleasant High School he helped his team win the Southern Blue Championship. Kenny now anchors the Red Hawks down as he plays defense.

Jr. Fede, the goalie of the group, just started playing in high school. He came a very long way, as he has never lost a game he's started for the Red Hawks, who are in Division II of the ACHA.

Billy Freeswick has been playing hockey since he was six and played for Montclair Hockey Club from age 12 to 18. He led the Clifton High School team to win the county championship in his senior year.

Brett Crane has been playing since the age of eight. While he was playing on the Manasquan High School team, he took a major role as his team won the shore conference numerous times.

The "Freshmen Five" have been standing together since freshmen year. From left Kenny Renae, Brett Crane, Joe Fede, Tyler Timke and Billy Freeswick.

Everyone looks for these five to come out on top during their remaining years at Montclair. When the five of them step onto the ice together, they say it’s easier or to play the game. "It creates chemistry and makes the game more fun to play with your friends," Timke said.

The boys have a weekly ritual outside of hockey, "We have Chipotle Wednesday, pasta Tuesday and nights before a game we all watch three to four hours of movies together just to get our minds set," Crane said. "There is pure love in this house."

Since freshman year the boys knew they all wanted to live in a house together during their time at Montclair. This summer they began looking everywhere and finally found a reasonable house they all love. "Everyone that comes into this house says they love the vibe, and love coming here," Freeswick said. "They all enjoy living together and like the fact that they are teammates, roommates and best friends. After their years at Montclair all they hope to stay friends." The five of us want to be partners and open a sports bar called '5 hole,'" Fede said.

They each added how they can see themselves still hanging out and just talking about the memories they had at Montclair.

As the boys are so busy with hockey all the time they have no time to find Mrs. Right. They are all single and looking for unconditional love. As Freeswick stated, "There are a couple of Red Hawks looking for rabbits."

Montclair ice hockey games are probably one of the student bodies favorite events to attend. The arena is always packed and the energy is always positive.

Last year Montclair was ranked number 12 in Division II of the ACHA. The team has high expectations and they are excited to see where this season will bring them.

Renae stated, “We would like to win the Super East and finish in the top two in the region so we can go to nationals in San Jose, California.”

At the rate they’re going, Montclair State Ice Hockey has a chance to achieve the goals they set. Their next home games are Friday night vs. WCSU and Saturday night vs. UNH at Floyd Hall Arena. Both games start at 9:40 p.m.
Trivett to give the Red Hawks a 1-0 lead. It would take the Pioneers 23 minutes to get a shot on goal and it wouldn’t be until the final minute of the first half that they would get off a penalty shot. The Red Hawks also had 11 penalty corners in the opening period, William Paterson had none. MSU looked to be in good shape with a 1-0 lead at halftime, but missed opportunities cost them from extending their lead.

In the second half, things turned around for the Red Hawks, as the Pioneers were able to take advantage of the scoring chances that they got. Early in the second half, forward Amanda Sheehan nailed a one-timer past Red Hawk goalie Megan Resland to tie the game at one all. The Pioneers would take over the lead not long after their first goal. Kelsey Relia, who assisted on the first William Paterson goal, scored off of a penalty corner to put the Pioneers ahead with 2:1 left.

A stunned Red Hawk team would take a timeout after losing their lead and would put a goal scoring chance a few minutes later off of a penalty corner, but could not tie the game. The Pioneers, with all the momentum going their way, stormed back for a third goal. Sheehan would score her second goal of the game for William Paterson to give them an insurance goal and a 3-1 lead. The Red Hawks struggled to get many shots off late, having one quality chance with about four minutes to go. However, Trivett proved to be tough in net for the Pioneers, stopping 10 of 11 shots. William Paterson also got a late defensive save from Melissa Sodlins to keep MSU off the board.

The loss was the second straight for the Red Hawks while playing at William Paterson. Despite a promising start that saw the Red Hawks win seven of their first eight games, they slumped in the end against the powerhouses of the NJAC, losing that ultimately eliminated MSU from playoff contention.

No LeBron, No Problem For Knicks and Nets

New York Area Teams Faring Just Fine Without “The King”

As Spring began, many New Jersey Nets and New York Knicks fans were hopeful their team could hire LeBron James into the New York area and usher in a new era of basketball for either team. The hope turned to anger and disappointment when James chose Miami over the metropolitan area. The Knicks made the only big splash, landing Amare Stoudemire, soon after they learned that “The King” wasn’t heading to their court. The Nets’ next exciting move was the first round pick of power forward Derrick Favors. An understating season last year couldn’t land them either of the first two picks, forcing them to miss out on high-time players John Wall and Evan Turner.

The season started off well for both teams; the Nets beat the Pistons to start the year, and the Knicks won at Toronto with the help of a Stoudemire double-double. Though neither team will catch up to the Boston Celtics in the Atlantic Division, positive strides have been made. The Knicks have a legitimate shot at making the playoffs as the seventh or eighth seed. The Eastern Conference is dominate by Boston, Orlando, Atlanta, and the Newark is Miami, but the bottom half of the playoff spots are open to anyone, the Knicks can pull off an even more improbable feat. For now they are in good shape and will still make the playoffs.

It took 18 less games than last season for the Nets to win their first game, so there is definitely immediate improvement. They even stood atop the Eastern Conference for a brief mark before slipping and falling below the Knicks (currently third), though third shouldn’t get fans thinking playfully just yet. They have twice as many losses as wins and can fall into fourth at any point. If they want any shot at making the playoffs the Nets are going to need a lot of stellar performances and better luck than they had in the draft latter.

Stoudemire automatically makes the Knicks better. Not only with his own athleticism, but by taking the concentration off his teammates. He allows them more space and draws more defenders than David Lee did before he was traded, thus overpaid, by the Golden State Warriors.

Though the Knicks and Nets couldn’t land James, there was plenty of talk and rumors that Carmelo Anthony would land on either of the teams. The chance of this happening was slim, with the chances the teams had to sign James; that may be why neither team got him.

The reason the trade wasn’t made was because, allegedly, the Denver Nuggets were asking too much in return for Anthony. Frankly, both these teams need a makeover, and it meant dumping the entire team and their contracts then it should have been done in the blink of an eye.

The Knicks could have had Stoudemire and Anthony on the court at the same time, assuming both stay healthy or aren’t suspended. Instantly that makes them a playoff lock. The Nets would probably have had to give up Favors, but if I were given the third pick in the draft to select either Carmelo Anthony in his prime or an unproven Derrick Favors, I would have made the move financially, commercially and overall best choice in Anthony.

The Nets owner, trillionaire Mikhail Prokhorov, continues to provide the end- less funds to give up to be for free agents, and if the Knicks don’t bring back地处 LeBron Thomas, those teams should be close to being strong contenders, the Knicks chose then the Nets by a year. With the addition of Amare Stoudemire to the Knicks puzzle, in another year they could pass as a threat, the Nets may need more time to develop and will most likely take an extra year to do so, but at least there’s a sense that things are going in the right direction.

Freshman Brittany Carroll, seen here in a game against Misericordia, scored the Red Hawks’ lone goal in their loss to William Paterson on Friday.
As the fall season comes to its dramatic end, it’s about time I give my final Red Hawks analysis for another most recent season preview. This time, we’ll be heading back into the winter sports and making close look at the upcoming 2010-2011 Montclair State’s Basketball season in the conference.

In the past season’s favorite. Congrats of Ken’s women’s team dominate the NJAC once again, or will it be another season, and obviously the intimidating Red Hawk women, step up in rank to defend the reigning champs. The former conference of William Paterson remain as champions of the conference at this time since the 2001-2002 season or will this year’s pre-season favorite, the high powered offensive of Rowan, live up to the hype? Don’t forget to keep a look out for the Red Hawk to make an attempt to return to their 11-1 form from 2008-2009.

Let’s have a closer look at each school’s teams, both men and women, and whose season to remember for the exciting 2010-2011 basketball season in one of the deepest Division III conferences in the country.

Men:

Most Outstanding Players of ‘09-’10 with stats (current class, position):
Men: Jonathan Jones (Senior, Forward) – 14.4 points per game (PPG), 12.8 rebounds per game (RPG), First Team NJAC All-Conference
Women: Kimberley Abarquez (Junior, Guard) – 4.7 points per game (PPG), second for team, NJAC All-Conference

Most Players to watch in ‘10-‘11
Men: Jonathan Jones (Senior, Forward) – 14.4 points per game (PPG), 12.8 rebounds per game (RPG), First Team NJAC All-Conference
Women: Samantha Bragg (Senior, Guard) – 11.1 points per game (PPG), First Team Honor All-Conference

Players to watch in ‘10-‘11
Men: Jonathan Jones
Women: Kaia Cunningham (Junior, Guard) – 15.5 points per game (PPG), 8.0 points per game (PPG), Honor Mention All-Conference

Montclair State

Women:

Most Outstanding Players of ‘09-’10 with stats (current class, position):
Men: LaQuian Peterkin (Junior, Forward) – 14.4 points per game (PPG), 7.8 rebounds per game (RPG), First Team All-Conference
Women: Meghan Reilly (Sophomores, Guard) – 14.4 points per game (PPG), 6.4 rebounds per game (RPG), Second Team All-Conference

Players to watch in ‘10-‘11
Men: LaQuian Peterkin (Junior, Forward)
Women: Meghan Reilly

Richard Stockton

Women:

Most Outstanding Players of ‘09-’10 with stats (current class, position):
Men: Santini Lasnisci (Graduate, Guard) – 15.1 points per game (PPG), 4.0 point per game (APG), Honor Mention All-Conference
Women: LaTanya Olive (Junior, Center) – 11.1 points per game (PPG), Honorable Mention All Conference

Players to watch in ‘10-‘11
Men: Michael Ferrara (Senior, Forward) – 12.6 points per game (PPG), 2.5 rebounds per game (RPG), Second Team All-Conference
Women: Alyson Johnson (Junior, Guard) – 8.7 points per game (PPG), 2.4 point per game (APG), Honor Mention All-Conference

Rowan

Women:

Most Outstanding Players of ‘09-’10 with stats (current class, position):
Men: Michael Rubinetti (Senior, Guard) – 13.8 points per game (PPG), 5.6 rebounds per game (RPG), Honorable Mention All-Conference
Women: Amanda Jennings (Graduate, Forward) – 20.3 points per game (PPG), 10.2 point per game (PPG), First Team All-Conference

Players to watch in ‘10-‘11
Men: Tyson Hortmatt
Women: Gina Cattazzati (Senior, Guard) – 11.1 points per game (PPG), 6.2 point per game (PPG), 3.0 apg

Binghamton

Women:

Most Outstanding Players of ‘09-’10 with stats (current class, position):
Men: AlDion Muhammad (Sophomore, Guard) – 4.7 points per game (PPG), 2.7 assist per game (APG), tied for team leaders in assists
Women: Zared Tachat (Junior, Guard) – 10.1 points per game (PPG), 3.4 point per game (PPG)

Bucks County

Men:

Most Outstanding Players of ‘09-’10 with stats (current class, position):
Men: Jarell Johnson (Graduate, Guard) – 15.1 points per game (PPG), 4.9 point per game (APG), NJAC Rookie of the Year
Women: Maxine Kominski (Sophomore, Guard) – 4.2 points per game (PPG), 4.1 point per game (APG)

The College of New Jersey

Women:

Most Outstanding Players of ‘09-’10 with stats (current class, position):
Men: Isaiah Johnson (Sophomores, Forward) – 17.1 points per game (PPG), 4.9 point per game (APG), Second Team All-Conference
Women: Hannah Tait (Junior, Guard) – 11.9 points per game (PPG), 2.9 point per game (APG), Honorable Mention All-Conference

Players to watch in ‘10-‘11
Men: Rajei中小企业
Women: Hannah Tait

Kean

Men:

Most Outstanding Players of ‘09-’10 with stats (current class, position):
Men: Isaiah Johnson (Sophomores, Forward) – 17.1 points per game (PPG), 4.9 point per game (APG), Second Team All-Conference
Women: Hannah Tait (Junior, Guard) – 11.9 points per game (PPG), 2.9 point per game (APG), Honorable Mention All-Conference

Players to watch in ‘10-‘11
Men: Rajei
Women: Hannah Tait

Montclair State is the favorite headed into tonight’s matchup; they have played many tough competitors and have beaten ranked teams over the course of the season. The playoff experience and home field advantage should give them a big factor in tonight’s game.

The Montclarion
Montclair State's Men's and Women's Swimming and Diving teams each took home their first wins of the season, sweeping the Division II Panthers of Adelphi University in a dual meet on Saturday. The men had a twenty point win over the Panthers with 71-51 and the women respectively trumped the competition 66-52.

Junior swimmer Chris Lee won in three different events Saturday. Lee took the 100m and 200m breaststroke with a time of 1:10.60 and 2:21.85, respectively. In his final event, he finished the 200m individual medley in 2:08.66.

On the women's side, senior Maria Vira took the top prize in the 100m and 200m breaststroke events with 1:12.34 and 2:27.24. Freshman Kelsey Dennis earned first place with the 100m and 200m breaststroke.

The teams both move their record to 1-0. You can catch the Red Hawks swim team Friday, Nov. 12 at 6:00 p.m. as they take on the Rangers of Drew University.

Field Hockey

Last Week

11/13 @ William Paterson 6 p.m.
11/15 @ Drew University 6 p.m.
11/13 vs. St. Peter’s/NJIT 1 p.m.
11/12 vs. St. Peter’s 1 p.m.
11/12 vs. Drew University 6 p.m.
11/13 vs. St. Peter’s/NJIT 7 p.m.

This Week

11/13 vs. St. Peter’s/NJIT 11 a.m.
11/15 vs. Drew University 1 p.m.
11/12 vs. St. Peter’s 1 p.m.
11/12 vs. NJIT 11 a.m.

Ice Hockey

Last Week

11/5 vs. Union College 7 p.m.
11/7 vs. RPI 7 p.m.

This Week

11/5 vs. St. Lawrence 7 p.m.
11/7 vs. RPI 7 p.m.

Swimming

Who's Hot This Week

Lee was named the NJAC Male Swimmer of the Week.

Chris Lee
Breaststroke — Men's Swimming
Lee was named the NJAC Male Swimmer of the Week after winning three separate events to guide the Red Hawks to victory in their meet against Adelphi on Saturday.

Brittany Carroll
Forward — Field Hockey
Carroll’s goal in the Red Hawks’ 3-1 loss to William Paterson on Friday night helped her earn the NJAC Rookie of the Week award.

Chris Lee

Football

Continued from page 28

After getting bailed out by Brockport’s failure to take advantage of a blocked punt, Montclair State increased their lead in interesting fashion. After starting out at their own 15 following the Brockport turnover on downs and driving 72 yards, Montclair stalled and were lined up for a field goal opportunity on fourth down. Unbeknownst to everyone, the 18 yard field goal attempt was blocked. Dan Kirschenbaum grabbed a 15-yard field goal attempt and a few penalties, completely extend Montclair State’s lead to 20-6.

Lee was named the NJAC Male Swimmer of the Week.

Chris Lee
Breaststroke — Men’s Swimming
Lee was named the NJAC Male Swimmer of the Week after winning three separate events to guide the Red Hawks to victory in their meet against Adelphi on Saturday.

Brittany Carroll
Forward — Field Hockey
Carroll’s goal in the Red Hawks’ 3-1 loss to William Paterson on Friday night helped her earn the NJAC Rookie of the Week award.

Chris Lee
Breaststroke — Men’s Swimming
Lee was named the NJAC Male Swimmer of the Week after winning three separate events to guide the Red Hawks to victory in their meet against Adelphi on Saturday.

Brittany Carroll
Forward — Field Hockey
Carroll’s goal in the Red Hawks’ 3-1 loss to William Paterson on Friday night helped her earn the NJAC Rookie of the Week award.
Montclair State’s 27-22 victory over College of Brockport on Saturday afternoon was one that, for the 1,765 spectators in attendance at Sprague Field, took on several different forms. The play in this game, by both teams, seemed to go from one extreme to the other, from efficient to inconsistent. Both teams combined for 664 yards of total offense, yet they also combined for 10 punts. Nevertheless, the Red Hawks squeezed out a very important win in terms of their chances of winning the NJAC and qualifying for the NCAA Division III playoffs. However, it was a win that was closer than it should have been.

It did not start out that way though. Montclair State took the control of the game early. MSU linebacker Dan Avento forced and recovered a Brockport QB Joseph Scibilla fumble on the second play of the game at their own 40, Montclair State QB Tom Fischer would then throw a 40-yard TD pass to WR Dan Keegan to give the Red Hawks a 7-0 lead 37 seconds into the game.

Brockport came right back and went on a five play, 49-yard drive taking 2:26 off the clock, which resulted in a 13-yard Joseph Innes touchdown reception from Scibilia. The extra point attempt was no good, keeping Montclair State’s Kofi Biney Staff Writer Matt Jimenez outruns a Brockport tackler in the Red Hawks’ 27-22 victory over the Golden Eagles on Saturday.

The Red Hawks will be heading back to the NCAA Playoffs for the fifth straight year when they host SUNY-Maritime at Sprague Field tonight.