The official ribbon-cutting ceremony for the newest dormitories on campus, the Heights, took place on Wednesday.

At the dedication ceremony, President Cole hosted a bevy of visitors including assembly people, students, parents and members of the construction team that made the Heights possible. After her podium she discussed the process that made these dorms come to fruition.

“There were many, many Trenton approvals necessary to start this project,” Cole said. “I want you to know that Gov. Christie’s administration got those accomplished on a tight frame.

For students who live on campus, this fall semester, students were not prepared for the drastic price increase of the University health insurance.

Health insurance is required for any full-time student attending the University, at both undergraduate and graduate levels. According to the “student accounts” section on the MSU website, the price for health insurance increased from $250 to $715 annually for undergraduate students.

The Heights are the first public-private partnership to be initiated under the 2009 New Jersey Economic Stimulus Act. There have been a series of complex negotiations passed to make this project possible.

President Cole also took the time to thank Assemblywoman Sheila Oliver, Montclair Mayor Frank Reid, Little Falls Mayor Mike DeFranco, Terminal Construction and the Capstone Company for their partnership over the past year. Commissioner Little Falls Mayor Mike DeFrancisci, Montclair Mayor Frank Reid, and others thanked Assemblywoman Sheila Oliver.

When comparing Whitman Hall to Dinallo Heights, Delaney said, “I like it a lot, it’s very homely and neat and clean. I like the fact that we have our own bathroom.”

Despite all the positive reviews, there are some aspects about living in the Heights to be considered. The cost of the Heights is on par with the lowest price in meal plans starting at $1,800 a semester. There have also been complaints concerning the new process of signing guests in and out of the halls.

Despite the cost, Petruzzelli confirmed that this is the place to live in MSU. “We can provide comfort to our competitors, [they] can’t provide,” Petruzzelli said. “We’re very fortunate for that experiences.”

Amongst a large crowd and rainning confetti, President Cole smiled as she said, “I remember standing in the State House in Trenton, with the papers in my hand and the President of the House (Don Dilallo) was waiting on campus and I called him and said ‘Gia! Start digging!’ And dig he did.”

Over a year later, students are enjoying this swift constructed production, and students enjoy it. Freshman Theria Mognatt says, “I love it here. I like the single room, I can shut my door and have my privacy but I can still have my roommate so I’m not missing anything.”

“I know students focus on the fines when anything new is introduced,” said Petruzzelli. “They wonder what is this going to cost them. Instead of focusing on something there, carry your keys and your ID card. The ResEd staff is in place to assist and we will accomplish his goal of football that residents gave in an e-mail survey during the previous semester.

New Traffic Patterns and Walkways

Craig McCarthy
With the Heights dormitories open this semester, a new traffic pattern, walkways and a bike lane were created to ensure the safety of the increased number of pedestrians on campus, the administration said.

“Essentially, the new pattern greatly reduces pedestrian and vehicle conflicts at the top of the new stairway that connects the main campus to the CarPark Diem parking deck,” said Associate Vice President for Facilities Services Dr. Timothy Casey.

“More clearly marked pedestrian walkways can only serve to enhance safety and we will monitor the logistics of these over the course of the semester,” said Lt. Kieran Barrett.

Barrett was quick to emphasize the responsibility lies with the pedestrians as well as the drivers. “Pedestrians have a responsibility on the roadways as well to cross at designated areas and to be alert to changes in the roadways,” Barrett said.

Senior Drew Evanylo, however, is skeptical of the new level of safety. “I’ve actually thought my shuttle drivers were going to hit someone because they have gotten so close,” he said.

Students’ concerns range from the lack of awareness of the new traffic patterns to questioning how effective the changes actually are.

“It seems that every time I come outside, regardless of the time of day, the cars are always backed up beyond belief,” said Whitman Hall resident Sean McDonald.

The University Police have planned to respond to this by posting officers in heavy traffic areas in an effort to assist the flow of traffic in the beginning of the semester. Police will also reroute traffic if there are abnormal delays for individuals leaving campus.

“This change will also enable the shuttle fleet to discharge passengers at the Student Center bus stop, and then quickly exit the area via Webster Road, thereby enhancing our ability to transport students to and from the numerous University-owned properties located on Clove Road,” Casey said.

The new traffic pattern established between Blanton Hall and the University Promenade is limited to shuttle buses, service and emergency vehicles while all regular traffic will exit using Yogi Berra Drive to Webster Road.

Although expediting shuttle service was a goal aimed at students, not all have noticed the difference.

“I feel like I’ve seen fewer shuttles this year than last year,” McDonald said. “So I have just been walking everywhere because I feel it’s the quickest way rather than waiting for a shuttle. Walking to class, I just use the bike path.”

The lane initially designated for shuttle buses has already been reconsidered to as another possible exit to Carlisle Road.

Jeff Jacob sent an e-mail early Wednesday morning at 9:26, satisfying the campus community about the issue. Though the University was only dealing with issues with the wireless connection, students did not find it to be feasible to use a wired connection on campus, as many do not have Ethernet cables on campus.

"Please note that the problem is confined to the campus wireless network only," said Chapel. "The University’s wireless network services are all up and running normally, meaning any computers that are plugged into a network port are able to reach the Internet. This includes all machines in our public computing and teaching and learning laboratories.

"We should not have to go on campus to do our work," said Reichert. "We prefer to be able to do our work in our own apartment." Chapel continued, "We regret the inconvenience that this problem is causing our students and we are working with the technical team from the company that is helping us build our new wireless network to diagnose the problem and resume service as quickly as possible.

"The University is currently undergoing a three-year upgrade project. Chapel explained. "The campus wireless upgrade is a three-year, three-phase project and will be nearing completion of phase two (all academic buildings) after having completed phase one (all residence halls) last year," said Chapel.

Chapel expects that the Internet connectivity issues will be resolved very soon and assures that the campus Internet service will be improved with the new system. For students currently enrolled in the University insurance plan the current premium is good until Aug. 15, 2012. At that time, there may be another price increase if the Health Care Reform Act requires the University to add additional coverage to the plan.

"From a health care provider’s perspective, having comprehensive health care insurance assures that when needed, there will be much lower out-of-pocket expenses," said Barry. However, students tend to disagree with the increase in price.

"I wasn’t able to waive the insurance during the drop period, so I had to get the University’s insurance," said Joanna Ameofo, a freshman. "I definitely won’t use it again, though. The price is too high."

"Coming from a student who has to pay her own tuition, the increase is kind of unfair," said Bailey Knox, a freshman. "I know why they have to do it, but when that money has to come out of your own pocket, it makes it hard to accept it."

Although the price for this year’s insurance has nearly tripled since last year’s, the University feels that they are justified in providing students with a comprehensive insurance plan along with new federal mandates. Insurance may increase again by next August, due to the constantly changing federal mandates.

The damage that was caused seemed endless. Boats that were left unsecured were abandoned on the lake, roads were washed away, bridges and spillways were destroyed, erosion had occurred on all roads and paths servicing hillside cabins, sewer lines were exposed and trees had been uprooted.

What began as 7.5 inches of rainfall had amounted to 42,000 gallons of water spilling into the wastewater treatment plant on top of the 600 gallons that had entered the system the Saturday prior to the storm.

All of these factors made for a perfect combination of damaged buildings and broken spirits.

Bill Thomas, director of the New Jersey School of Conservation, and his staff put together a plan in order to get back on track.

They were forced to block access to the Rainbow Bridge, refrained from flushing toilets, resorted to drinking bottled water, re-opened a road closed for 20 years and supplied propane to the emergency generator until power was restored as a way to run the waste water treatment plant.

The NJSOC has managed to repair the sewer pipe and clear the downed trees from the roads. They’ve opened an alternate route to the plant on the east side of campus.

However, this route has transformed a 70-foot commute across a once-scenic bridge into a 15-mile hike across the mountains.

A road which had been out of commission for 20 years is now the only pathway to the waste water plant.

“It is beyond clean up,” said Thomas. “The damage [that was] caused is anywhere from $500,000 to $1 million.”

President Susan Cole, Dean of the College of Science and Mathematics Robert Prezant and Vice President for University Facilities Greg Bressler have inspected the damage and are working to help the school through the mess.

Campus resumed classes on Sept. 5, with minimal clean-up.

Dean Prezant was unavailable for comment at the time of publication.

A student stands next to the raging river near the NJSOC campus. The streets flooded and trees were down, knocking out power on the campus for eight days.

It’s your first day of freshman year, and you’re feeling optimistic. You are ready to start anew, make a new name for yourself. Also, you have your outfit figured out and you may have even packed a laptop bag for a long run. You are nervous and excited, and get in the car or on the train or bus and go to school. It then dawns on you that this feels like the first day of high school all over again.

Then you get to school and meet your classmates. While they are complaining about wearing flip flops in the snow or talking about parts the other night, you are thinking about how it was two weeks ago to get to school from Montclair to … Upper Montclair. So much for a fresh start, eh? An.connvice.

Commuting to MSU isn’t the worst thing in the world, and here’s why.

1. (you might) have a car. Life in North Jersey can be pretty dangerous without a car – drivers are about as sensitive to pedestrians as the media is to Charlie Sheen.

2. You can have a car or campus, which means you have a whole lot of freedom that the resident students may not have. You can get a job off campus (see #4) or take some runs in between classes if you really want to.

But to those who use public transportation, don’t fret. Not having a car means that you don’t have to tote around your friends who dorm when they need to purchase Easy Mac or something equally important to residential life.

3. You still get to do everything on campus that others do. You may feel that as a commuter, the new-friend-maker rule with the breakers on Red Hawk Day. I know this is cliché, but try to join a student group. There are various cultures and identities of different student groups, whether they are SGA clubs, The Montclarion or Greek life, and once you find the right one it’s easy to build a network of friends without dorming.

4. You can get to separate yourself from your school friends does not mean you’re a loner; it can give you time to put things into perspective”

Sally Hansen’s New Polish: Worth the Money?

By Amanda Raffi

Recently, there has been some buzz about Sally Hansen’s Beauty produc- es, which are usually the first on the standing small light clockwise circles around the nail, and usually around the abdomen. Then go counter-clockwise pro- ing from large to small circles around to navel — repeat for two minutes.

Typical Nutritional Remedies

Anti-inflammatory foods and bev- erages: Consumes more plant-based foods and beverages, such as fruits (especially cherries) and vegetables, seeds, nuts, dark chocolate or cappuccino, green tea, black and green tea and your number one beverage — water — to reduce inflammation. Seafood is also anti-inflammatory.

Cold/Flu symptoms and chest congestion: Place feet in a bucket of warm to hot water for one minute and then immediately in another basket of ice water for about 30 seconds (repeat three times).

For stomach issues: Yogurt, apples, almonds, ginger and peppermint tea three times.

Colds/sore throats/sinus and chest coughs: Add honey and lemon or lime juice to warm water or black or green tea.

Start with a clean hand and pick out your nail sizes. Place the polish strip onto your nail and press gently. Then, peel off the back paper part to expose the sticky side.

With tousled hair and squinted eyes, you pad down the hall to your floor’s community bathroom. Daisy, you hear the door to your room slide shut. The noise registers in the back of your sleep-addled mind, but you think nothing of it.

With a sigh of relief you make the journey to and from the bathroom without making an awkward late-night encounter in your rubber ducky pajamas. Your hand pushes the door handle down but instead of opening with ease, the handle will not budge. With the new lockout policy at MSU, students that accidentally lock themselves out of their rooms will suffer a fine of $25. If the carelessness continues the second instance will be met with a $50 penalty. People make mistakes. Although we do believe that this new policy will encourage students to act more responsibly, we can’t help our skepticism. True, no one is going to let you into your apartment if you lock yourself out. We feel that if students repeatedly lock themselves out of their rooms then, yes, they should be fined or be met with some sort of penalty. The students that continuously exercise carelessness should not continue unchecked in the same fashion. Most of us are living on our own in college for the first time in our lives. You have to learn responsibility and accountability if you are going to succeed.

Part of the reason the new policy was implemented was due to a survey sent to Montclair students last semester. This survey asked students to answer questions concerning residential life. The students that answered the survey stated that they felt their peers were not being responsible enough with their keys. Naturally, when people lose their keys there is an increase in thefts across campus, and the new policy was intended to curb the increase in this type of incident. Yet, we are forced to wonder, if these fines will really be a deterrent to these continuously careless students, or will they simply continue locking their keys in their rooms? It’s hard to say.

The policy will be re-evaluated in November when it will be decided if this will become a permanent policy across the campus. We eagerly await the results.

What do you think of the new lockout policy?

Shaughn Juckett
Physical Education Sophomore

“I think it’s kind of crazy that you have to pay so much money because you made a simple mistake by locking your keys in your room. I feel that it happens all the time, even at home.”

Kyle Giacchetti
Business Senior

“I believe that the new lockout policy is a little outrageous. Between having multiple roommates, sometimes you forget, sometimes you’re running somewhere, sometimes you’re going to another person’s dorm on the same floor. You might forget to lock the door. Yeah, your valuables are in there and stuff, but if they get lost that’s your own fault, it shouldn’t be administered by ResEd that you get fined because you didn’t lock your door.”

Breanna Mitchell
Marketing Senior

“I actually am not opposed to it. I work here and a lot of people get locked out. Last semester I think over 100 were locked out and this is a way to really control the amount of lockouts.”

Katie Salvatore
Psychology Junior

“I don’t think it’s really fair that they charge you on the first time. If you forget your key, you should be given a warning. They shouldn’t go right from the start.”

To the Editor:

Ironically enough, I was teaching two consecutive sections of News Reporting in Dickson’s second-floor computer lab when the biggest news story of the era broke.

Students were just taking their places around the center table for the first section starting at 9 a.m., when a student with a pony-tail came in and said that a plane had already crashed and was burning in the City.  “Come on,” I thought, “what are you doing staying in the classroom?  Like malevolent snow.”

As we trooped through the hall, we passed Dickson’s chimneys covering the countryside that would later describe the ash from the cre- matorium’s chimneys covering the countryside in the tortured days that followed.  We sat, many of us holding hands, as the plane exploded in front of us.  The usually empty school was never as crowded.

From the fourth floor, we could see the dark smoke wafting out from the towers.  We were too far to see flames, but the smoke already was hanging over the city, a shred of that which preaged a decade of mourning.

I knew we could see the Manhattan skyscrapers from the fourth floor of Dickson, so I immediately took the class up to those win- dows.

As we trooped through the hall, we passed another journalism class in session.  “Come on,” I thought, “what are you doing staying in the classroom?  We have real journalism to do in front of us!”

Between my two classes, we watched both towers collapse in front of us.  The usually glib TV anchors were as speechless as we.

Iro- rationally, I thought of the scenes of the Holocaust where survivors and townspeople of Montclair and its environs were acting as they were, like malevolent snow.

Now we could see the flames, and people rushing hysterically through the streets as ash wafted down.

Irrationally, I thought of the scenes of the Holocaust where survivors and townspeople had seen similar ash.

I kept thinking to myself, “You’re a profes- sor.  You should say something profound.  You should offer your students some com- fort.”  But at that shocked moment, I was no more insightful than my students.

We sat, many of us holding hands, as the class period ran down.

I was silent among stunned students.

“Warrior”: Beating Critics Into Submission!

Ken Marci Staff Writer

“Warrior” is a compelling drama that manages to be- yond the stereotypical sports film by creating an emotional story complete with clear premises and clever climax... The film establishes two main protagonists, each with his flaws, and it’s their positive attributes which outweigh the imperfections.

Bretts’ Tommy (Tom Hardy) and Brendan Conlon (Joel Edgerton) have a rather distant relationship, to say the least, but they are not at fault for their impaired relation- ship. When their mother left their alcoholic father, it was Tommy who went with her to California and watched her die while Brendan stayed back at home with their dead.

When we meet their father, Paddy, he is a recover- ing alcoholic and a former boxer (Nik Nohe) who wants to repair his defective rela- tionship with his two sons. We immediately view him as a rugged man, who seeks forgiveness from his boys and has accumulated 1,000 days of sobriety in his quest to do so.

After Tommy returns home from the war in Iraq, he wishes to re-join the martial arts ring after a very successful high school career and knows it is the help of his fa- ther he must ask for. This mo- ment asks us to fully embrace the severity of the situation, while questioning Tommy’s true morale. Why would a man seek the help of his, when he believes to embody nothing but dishonesty and dishonesty?

We are led to realize that despite his tough exterior, Tommy might be harboring a secret, causing him emotional turmoil and leading him to seek the help from the only person who might be willing to give it.

Tommy dislikes his fa- ther at every turn throughout the film, but in the end we re- alize that Tommy did believe and his father could have a bond.

Although the other protag- onist is also related to Paddy, he is suffering severe problems of his own, the audi- ence is torn between fighting for the two brothers. Brendan has a wife and kids, his home- is on the verge of foreclosure and he is facing some severe problems of his own, the audi- ence is torn between fighting for the two brothers. Brendan’s story complete with a clear premise and clever climax.

In celebration of his birth- day, the film, but in the end we re- alize that Tommy did believe and his father could have a bond.

Red Hawks Lose Perfect Start

Kendall Zoppa
Staff Writer

Well, the West Coast may not be the best test for the women's soccer team as they return from their cross country trip this past weekend falling 3-2 on the season.

The Red Hawks headed to Washington to take part in non-conference match-ups between Pacific Lutheran University and neighboring Pacific Lutheran University. Unfortunately, the Red Hawks couldn't capitalize on either of their opportunities, falling 1-0 to both over the weekend.

Friday night started the Red Hawks' West Coast stand as they took on PLU in what seemed to be an even match-up for the team. In the first period both teams put up four shots but neither goalkeeper allowed one to pass as they entered the halftime break. The following period however, left the Red Hawks frustrated as they watched 12 shots miss the mark. The team brought pressure to the field but their accuracy failed to back it up, ultimately out-shooting PLU 16-7 but leaving MSU to fall 1-0 in their first loss of the season.

"We out-worked them and dominated the entire game of play," said senior Christina DeMartinis, "but when it came to getting the ball in the back of the net we weren't aggressive enough.

The pattern continued throughout the following day as the Red Hawks once again out-shoot the opposition, new Pacific Lutheran, four times over.

The lone and uncontested goal put up by PLU came at the 55-minute mark as the Red Hawks couldn't return the service and fell yet again 1-0, despite out-shooting PLU 20-6.

The Red Hawks left Washington 3-2, yet landed back in New Jersey with a best coast for the women's soccer team as they return from their cross country trip this past weekend falling 3-2 on the season.

The Red Hawks take on the Profs Saturday and although it is tough to deal with, Stawinski is looking for his team to "step it up." Stawinski is looking forward with, "it's refreshing that we got it right," said coach Naughter regarding the recruitment of the new goalkeeper. "We're not surprised she's playing well, we know we had a good kid coming in. She's only going to get better."

Policastro and the rest of her team will need to bring their "A" game this weekend as they set to reverse last year's loss and set the record straight.

"We've talked a lot about last year," Naughter said. "Providence is a very, very, very competitive team. The Crimson is a very, very, very competitive team. We're going to have a lot of fun with them."

"We want to focus on if we've improved over the last year," Naughter said. "For all of us this is kind of going to be the measuring stick. Are we more of a cohesive group? Have we learned from last year?"

The Red Hawks take on the Profs this Saturday at 12 p.m. to put all their preparation to the test. Hopefully with the comfort of home field advantage, the Red Hawks can show the Prof's what they've been up to for the past year.

Red Hawks Lose four straight in Vassar College Invitational

The Montclair State women's volleyball team lost their final two games at the Vassar Invitational in Poughkeepsie, New York last Saturday. In the first of the two games, MIT edged Montclair with a 3-0 decision. The Montclair women lost the first set 25-16, the second set 25-20 and had the third and deciding set 25-15.

Against MIT, the Red Hawks had a total of 20 kills with five of them coming from Alyssa Willis, four from Megan Cockcroft, four from Lauren Sharp, two from Sara Girgus, two from Alli Boettinger and one from Bella Batiste. The team also had a total of 37 digs with 11 coming from Sara Girgus and Marta Topor had five digs.

The team brought pressure to the field as they return from their cross country trip this past weekend falling 3-2 on the season.

According to coach Eddie Stawinski, the weekend's play from the scoreboard was as difficult as the Red Hawks were playing against higher-ranked teams. Stawinski added that despite the losses, he believed his team showed promise, and he looked forward to seeing what the freshmen can deliver.

Stawinski played a lot of freshmen in Saturday's games and said it was a good experience for the players. Sara Girgus, he said, was outstanding and that she puta in "rock steady play," Stawinski said that Girgus is versatile to fill in positions and that she has a "bright future ahead of her." Very happy with Girgus' tournament nomination, Stawinski said that sometimes "middle line players get overlooked." Marta Topor, the team's biggest offensive performer, went down with an injury Saturday and although it is tough to deal with, Stawinski is looking for his team to "step it up." Stawinski is looking forward to a great year, and bouncing back from losses is going to be the "main key" for the team.

Lockout Lifted, Season Unaltered

Most of America waited with impatient anticipation for the NFL lock-out, an arduous 130-day process that turned players against their bosses and fans against the entire league, to come and end.

They took a game the country loved to an end. An excellent game on paper was reinforced by a spectacular performance that came down to the final play of the game.

On a day we will never forget, the officials made Thursday night’s rating, averaging roughly 23 million viewers throughout the course of the game.

Never has an NFL season been as emotional, passionate, energized, pumped-up or desired as this one. The media fed the NFL with disappointment and anger, chanting empty promises of never wanting to deal with this league again.

The financial minds behind this league refusing to let us have a sample made our wait from February’s Super Bowl seem like an eternity.

Just over a month ago we were drilling lawyers fight for a deal, hoping the NFL owners and executives everywhere were hoping for: something to forget the past half year and move forward with the game we enjoy so much.

The financial minds behind this league
had to know and understand the animosity of the fans, players and owners; they had to know that if we didn’t get football, there would be riots worse than those on the streets of London.

Or maybe they did the most genius thing since Pete Carroll bolted USC for the Seattle Seahawks.

Maybe they took advantage of our anger, chanting empty promises of never
wanting to deal with this league again.

The players are happy, the owners are

The Montclair State men's soccer, now 3-1-1, returned from a long weekend after visiting the West Coast, traveling over 2,000 miles, to open up their weekend with a game against Pacific Lutheran University, the country’s no. 22 ranked team.

It was a slow start for Montclair State, who went down to an early 2-0 deficit. Goals from both Chad Kerns and Derek Johnson gave the Lutes confidence entering half time, but it only seemed to motivate the Red Hawks.

Heading into halftime, we were all feeling a sense of urgency,” said sophomore Dan Mendoza. “This had been the first time all season that we had gone into the half down two [points], but we turned it around and made an 11-point swing in a 3-2, double-overtime win against Kean University on Tuesday.

The Red Hawks’ are set to avenge last year’s blowout to the Rowan Profs this weekend.
Red Hawks Hit Ground Running
Chris D’Andrea Makes Triumphant Return with 239-yard performance

The Red Hawks’ home opener Saturday against Salve Regina began with the thought that the game could be in for a long day. The sun was beating down on the Montclair bleachers at Sprague Field, making everyone wish they could be the guys with the letters painted on their chest.

D’Andrea, though, had other plans. His first offensive drive ended in pick-6 for Salve Regina. Quarterback Tom Fischer’s pass was intercepted by Maxwell Maxwell in the 39th minute and outran the competition. He finished with 239 yards overall on just 21 carries (11.3 yards per carry).

D’Andrea had two explosive touchdown runs; the first for 77 yards, the second for 74. He was the Red Hawks’ offensive MVP. However, once the second quarter started and Montclair had a 9-7 lead, there was essentially no need for the offense anymore.

The Red Hawks’ defensive line dominated Salve Regina for the remainder of the game. Salve Regina’s quarterback, Jimmy Connelly, was escaping the pocket more than he was throwing the ball. Every play, Montclair had pressure in the backfield. They couldn’t run the ball, they couldn’t pass the ball and they gained only 130 combined yards on offense.

Turnovers and penalties added to Salve Regina’s loss.

Red Hawks Stay Perfect Through Five
Red Hawks pull off three-goal comeback over Kean in overtime thriller

The Montclair State field hockey team has shown that they are a force to be reckoned with after a perfect 5-0 start to the season. MSU started its spectacular streak with a dominating 2-1 road win over Eastern Connecticut on Thursday, Sept. 1.

The Eagles were the ninth ranked team at the moment and the win allowed MSU to jump to no. 20 in the national field hockey rankings.

That win sparked a flame that continues to burn strong. Since then, the Red Hawks have won their last four games with after a perfect 5-0 start.

MSU has a save percentage of .846, ranking team at the moment and there to save the day. Bosland and captain Megan Bosland is one of MSU’s most important players, with four goals. On the rare occasion that the ball gets past the MSU defense, junior goalie Madeleine McNamara lead the team with five goals each. Behind them is junior forward Kate Norgard with four goals. On the rare occasions that the ball gets past the MSU defense, junior goals. Bosland is there to save the day. Bosland has a save percentage of .846, allowing only four goals in five games.
