Step Up Against Violence Comes to MSU
Montclair State University is making an effort to raise awareness about bystander intervention with the Step Up Against Violence Program. Originating at the University of Arizona, this program has been adopted by multiple universities across the country. Starting this past summer, the Step Up Against Violence Program arrived at MSU. The program focuses on a few main areas: sexual assault, hazing, alcohol, anger problems, discrimination, relationship abuse and depression.

Israel Rosado, the Deputy Title IX at MSU, is working along with Robert Vadovic of the University Health Center to deliver this program to various organizations across campus. The program was first introduced at MSU during summer training for Community Assistants through MSU Film Student Taps into the Other Side

Constitution Day presents:

Bioethics and the Body Politic

September 27, 2012
University Hall Conference Center, 7th Floor

Sponsored by the Montclair State University American Democracy Project

Keynote Addresses
“Bioethics and the Body Politic”
2:00 p.m. – 3:30 p.m.

The Constitution is a living document which continues to shape our lives today. Dr. Jessica McCormick, a bioethics expert from UMDNJ and Dr. Leslie Wilson, professor of history at Montclair State will discuss the underlying questions in the book, The Immortal Life of Henrietta Lacks, by Rebecca Skloot and the consequential tension between scientific progress and social exploitation. Dr. McCormick will discuss the challenges presented by the policies and regulations of bioethics then and now and the resulting impact on our lives as citizens. Dr. Wilson, a historian, will address the social issues that surround the question as to whether or not Henrietta Lacks' rights were violated and if indeed the fact that she was a poor black woman are of relevance to our civil rights as guaranteed by the Constitution.

Dr. Brigid Harrison will moderate. She is professor of political science and law at Montclair State and is an expert on the politics of the Millennial Generation. Additionally, she is a frequent commentator on national and New Jersey politics for print and electronic media, and for television including FOX News, NJTV, ABC News and local affiliates of ABC, NBC, and CBS. She is the author of American Democracy Now, A More Perfect Union, Power and Society and Women in American Politics.

Celestial patterns are stellar for this fall. These rainbow leggings, worn by Anshula Nathan, are a great example for an out-of-this-world trend. I love when this look is paired with hipster accessories like a beanie, or a leather jacket, or both. Keep the rest of your outfit low-key by making this galactic piece the focal point.

Shift or shirt dresses are great for making your legs appear thinner. I love shift dresses because it’s an easy and effortless outfit. Stay clear of the three-quarter sleeves because the cut can disproportion your body. For curvy girls, like me, add a belt to define your curves. I love how Stephanie Petchers accessorized with a scarf — it gives a casual but cool feel.

Johanna Taborda’s colored hair is a fun trend for fall. You can take her ombré look to a whole new level by adding color to the bleached ends. Caution: before picking an extreme color, I suggest buying clip-on extensions to test out which color best fits your hair color and compliments your skin tone.

Jewels Van Allen’s loafers are comfortable and well put together—perfect for campus! I cannot resist a piece that is effortless but gives off a “put-together” vibe. I especially want a pair of loafers of my own with metal details. Her loafers add extra pop by dressing them with a black shirt and black jeans. By rolling your jeans up an inch or two, you can show a little skin and also showcase your loafers. I also saw in a magazine that they’re making high-heeled loafers, which would be great for a job interview or internship!

For men’s fashion, I always love crew necks. You can do what Michael Kissiday did and layer it over a button down or wear it with a pair of khakis. Nothing says fall more than a crew neck. Plus, a crew neck is ideal for layering under a huge jacket because there isn’t a hood to get in the way. I don’t think crewnecks will ever go out of style.

The hottest craze this fall, I would say just by scooping out campus, is bold pants. Solid, stripes, floral, textured, metallic and tie-dye are a few designs I’ve seen. Megan Sommer, Evelyn Vasquez and Kim Roman all paired their colored pants with a solid top to make them pop. For fall, I recommend choosing more of a fall color base. This look is really versatile. You can color block it by wearing hunter green pants with a purple gem-colored top or keep it simple like these ladies did. I love the pop of color, I think everyone should try out this trend!

Boots are always a fashion trend, but adding studs makes them that much better. Samantha Citelli’s got it right when it comes to studded boots. I love when studded boots, an overly masculine piece, is paired with a feminine piece like a dress or a high-low skirt. Studs are cute on almost anything and give the specific piece an edgy hipster feel. Be careful not to over-stud. Having too many pieces with studs on them is overkill.
Ex-boyfriends. There’s an aspect of life no one tells us how to deal with. Is it because no one knows?

In the media, we are bombarded by relationships, breakups, even fights and even becoming friends. Are Demi Moore and Bruce Willis. What about all the feelings? Where do they go? Is it possible that two people once had very strong feelings for each other can completely forget them? And how does that tie in with a new relationship?

This Labor Day, I was contacted by an ex. Yes. While I admit, it is nice to feel like I am still desired, it mostly such me in an awkward place.

In every other situation, I have been either hurt by an ex or had just lost feelings for them. With this one (we’ll call him John) it is completely different. The feelings I feel toward John are ones I can’t really explain, even not even to myself. I have been in a relationship with my current boyfriend (we’ll call him Pete) for almost two and a half years and I am beyond happy, but even because I last from John can’t help but miss what we had. Taylor Swift and other artists constantly give us anthems to can’t help but miss what we had. Taylor Swift and other artists constantly give us anthems to.

This Labor Day, I was contacted by an ex. Yes. While I admit, it is nice to feel like I am still desired, it mostly such me in an awkward place. But, will that make them go away?

If there are some in-between feelings about John I need to stay far away as possible. But, will that make them go away?

I’m hoping that’s the path that will work, and I’m taking it. I realize when it comes to exes, everything must be brought down to its simplest terms. Everything must be brought down to one question. What do you want? That’s really all we can do. If we are not happy and chase what we truly want we will destroy everything in our path. I don’t want to be the tornado of doom to demolish my relationships. My fear of ignoring this one (we’ll call him John) it is completely different. The feelings I feel toward John are ones I can’t really explain, even not even to myself. In 2003, Rolling Stone magazine compiled a list of the greatest guitarists of all time... and only two women were nominated. Joan Jett came in at #47 and Joni Mitchell at #72. Before you wonder, what does gender have to do with it? Keep in mind, this list implies that two percent of the most widely recognized greatest guitarists are female. With the exception of one, the entire list was entirely male. With odds like these, it’s no wonder the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame incites this question. Why have there been no great women artists? Without delving too deeply into feminist art theory, let’s turn this around: this is the wrong question to be asking. Instead, consider, what does it take to be great, and what might stop women from reaching this greatness? Or, as became the case as I scrolled through hundreds of scathing readership comments on websites that boasted the “Greatest Female Guitarists,” Can a female ever be great, without her looks dominating the conversation?

So without any further ado, here’s a female-friendly rewrite of The 10 Fema List (in no particular order).

#10 Tal Wilkenfeld

Greatest Guitar Moment: “Cause We’ve Ended As Lovers” at Crossroads 2007. When Jeff Beck (14) can’t contain himself around you and your basslines, you know you’ve done something right. In fact, this twenty-something has played with Rolling Stone’s own favorites: the Allman Brothers (2), Eric Clapton (3), Jimmy Page (9), and others. Even with this 6-string great mere feet away, this high school drop out re-fed his bass back to the seat.

#9 Bonnie Raitt

Greatest Guitar Moment: After 20 years, her 10th album Nick of Time got her the credit she deserved. Raitt could place first on any list of pure devotion. Not only can she play a mean slide guitar, but this is a woman with a 40-year career and 16 albums under her belt. In 2000, Raitt was inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame.

#8 Suzi Gardner

Greatest Guitar Moment: The “Sh*t” List appearance in Natural Born Killers. As Donita Spark’s better half in L7, Suzi Gardner brought with her some notoriety and lead guitar chops. To balance out Sparks’ ferocity, she emitted genuine knowledge of her craft.

#7 Joni Mitchell

Greatest Guitar Moment: “Amelia.” An original guitar goddess, Joni Mitchell was discovered by influential guitarist Neil Young and soon became a staple of the 1960s folk music scene. Even Rolling Stone took the time to appreciate her, at #72 of their countdown.

Number 1 Carrie Brownstein

Greatest Guitar Moment: “Fumphers.” If Joan Jett may be traced back as the mother of “riot grrl,” the women of Sleater-Kinney should be credited with clearing up its path and putting some fresh veneer on its guitar chops. Perhaps Stephen Deuser put it perfectly when he wrote of Sleater-Kinney, “To survive these days, you have to be either success or superfluous. Sleater-Kinney, meanwhile, get by simply sounding supersonic.”

#6 Sharon Isbin

Greatest Guitar Moment: Where do we start? Although she refuses to be tied down to just one musical genre, when she does settle down, Isbin is awarded left and right for her classical skills. Appearing as a soloist in more than 160 orchestras — including the New York Philharmonic and the London Symphony Orchestra — and being awarded a Grammy for Best Instrumental Soloist Performance, the first classical guitarist to receive the award in nearly three decades, receiving an additional two Grammies weren’t enough for her. She also went on to become the first female guitar department of Juliard — the first guitar director in the institution’s history. Not only did she break this boys’ club, but she redesigned its interior while she was at it.

#5 Kaki King

Greatest Guitar Moment: “If That’s Your Boyfriend (He Wasn’t Last Night).” This critically acclaimed bassist has done the impossible: she is taken seriously as an openly bisexual female bassist. Not only can she lay down solid bass lines that dominate her song, but her forceful raps have made her a foul-mouthed, jazzy, innovative guitarist. She is credited for having sparked the “neco-soul” movement.

#4 Meshell Ndegeocello

Greatest Guitar Moment: “Pull Me Out Alive” as a tribute to her cityscape. Disjointed? Sure. Fascinating, complex, and utterly unique. You don’t have to follow Kaki King’s thought process in order to appreciate her simple and sincere brilliance. After all, she did go to NYU. The universe King creates is a rich one, busy with suites made almost entirely from her guitar. She took her first musical steps underground by haunting the New York subway system, but luckily for those without a Metcard, she was given mainstream success with her nomination for a Best Original Score Golden Globe Award. For her music, In the Wild.

Montclair State University’s parking issue has always been a popular topic since I’ve been going to this fine institution. People have always complained about the lack of parking on campus, making it harder for commuter students to find parking.

Many commuter students are being forced to park all the way down as far as Lot 40. If some of you residents are wondering where Lot 40 is, it’s near the softball field and Floyd Stadium. Now I’ve left many freshmen wondering where Floyd Stadium is. Please direct yourselves to the Student Center, where you can help yourselves to a map.

So we all have a clear visual as to where Lot 40 is; you can clearly see it’s far from campus. Also, there is no shuttle that goes all the way down to Lot 40. Residents must hike to the closest shuttle, the Heights shuttle.

Montclair has also made it official this year that many commuter students are being forced to park all the way down as far as Lot 40. This is the closest shuttle, the Heights shuttle. Many commuter students have a problem getting to class on time as a result. You can hear them mumble about how much earlier they had to get up, or the fact that it took them an extra 20 minutes to find parking.

It’s understood that residents should have the right to parking, but it’s easier said than done with the limited parking spaces in certain parking lots, not necessarily the lack of spaces. The issue at hand isn’t just the lack of parking, but the organization of it all. We are allowing our residents and commuters to park in many of the same lots.

With the addition of sophomore residents, parking is to be organized in a way that will benefit the commuters. For example, having sophomore and other on campus residents park in one of the farther lots, leaving main parking places such as CarParc Diem open for commuters only.

It also wouldn’t hurt to have shuttles go to those unchartered lots of MSU. Most people have been using NJ Transit parking anyway. It’s cheaper than buying the school’s parking pass. Plus, it gives options to residents, such as purchasing monthly passes instead.

Montclair State University has been focusing on building and repairing buildings, which is something they do deserve credit for. Most students that attend MSU are in fact commuters. More of the school’s construction projects should be geared to adding more parking spaces on campus.

These students also pay tuition to attend this school. If MSU would like to improve campus life, then there needs to be some sort of compromise.

The campus belongs to every student in this university. So it’s only fair the effort made towards new dorms should also be put into maximizing parking.

MSU is still evolving as a university, granted we only earned the title of university in 1994. Our school has taken huge leaps to become such a large and prestigious New Jersey college. The demands for better parking spaces is just another small step in our history, but will hopefully become a reality in the near future.

Students Speak

How long does it take for you to find parking?

Katherine Velasak Fine Arts Senior

“I started parking originally in Red Hawk and it took 15 to 20 minutes, but it was really expensive. So now I just park near the softball field and Floyd Stadium. It’s affordable if the dorms being referred to as a ‘luxury’ is a stretch. Regardless of your views on your dorm, residents have their place on campus. The only thing a commuter has to claim is a simple parking spot.”

Alex Quintana Undeclared Freshman

“I take the bus actually. But I heard parking is awful. And I was late the first day because I got a ride.”

Jacob Yi Marketing Senior

“Parking here, umm it depends on what time. Especially in the morning, forget about it. It’s going to take me anywhere from 20 to 30 minutes. Afternoon it’s alright. But yeah, in the morning I have to come here at least 20 minutes earlier for my class.”
A Horror Story for the Masses

Mold about and chairless too

F or many students, a new school year means new housing to adapt to. Many choose wisely and move from traditional college dormitories to off-campus housing. Some, like myself, choose less wisely and move from dorms to on-campus apartments.

When I moved into my apartment on Clove Road (I refuse to call it by its ridiculous new name, “Hawk Crossing”), I was prepared for the usual complaints: marks on the walls, stains on the carpets, the kind of things that are expected in apartments as old as Clove.

However, I was in no way prepared for just how many problems my neighbors and I would have to encounter just by stepping into our apartments for the first time.

For starters, there were no kitchen chairs in my apartment. I thought this was a strange problem, given how easy it could be fixed (i.e., bring the chairs back), but not a wholly intolerable one. Even easier to fix, and all the more annoying, was the state of the kitchen itself. It looked as if it hadn’t been cleaned since the last time the previous occupants had decided to do so.

The stove was greasy, the sink needed to be bleached, the fridge hadn’t been wiped out—essentially, none of the typical housekeeping duties that are expected to be finished before move-in day were done.

These problems were annoying, but tolerable. Intolerable, however, was the condition of the bathroom.

The grout is stained with what I really, really hope isn’t black mold, but I know probably is, and the shower doors are off their track to the point where they barely move.

These are problems that are not only annoying, but beyond my ability to fix. My neighbors’ bathroom came with black mold as well, with the added benefit of no shower doors. Those were instead placed in the hallway outside the bathroom, rendering them utterly useless.

Apparently, both my neighbor’s missing shower doors and my missing kitchen chairs had been reported to maintenance by our Community Assistant weeks before we moved in, but we reported the problems again for good measure.

However, as I looked out my living room window at the shiny new Heights complex across the way, I started thinking why the residents of the Clove apartments were left to deal with these problems.

One would think that, with four roommates paying $5,752 a year for a grand total of $34,288 per apartment, per year, ResEd could afford to re-grout the bathrooms or at least have shower doors installed properly for move-in day.

It doesn’t seem like any of that money actually goes back to Clove. If that were the case, those roommates a few semesters back about the bathrooms being remodeled would have turned out to be true instead of proving to be mere fantasy.

Instead, I’m sure that money goes to their future meals: According to a study done by the Food Network on food waste, each year in the United States, about 40 percent of the food produced does not get eaten. For every American, there are two-hundred pounds of edible food thrown away each year due to unnecessary food waste.

Additionally, according to the New Jersey Food Bank’s website, over one million people in New Jersey were considered to be food insecure in 2009. It may be easy to pick up more than one dish at mealtime to save a trip, but I would like to encourage students to think more carefully about what and how much they can really consume.

There are no limits on the amount of times someone can get more food at Sam’s Place, and taking the initiative to eat one food plate at a time before getting more is an easy step which anyone can take.

Not only can one become a more conscious eater at Sam’s, but Free- man Dining Hall offers another good option for those who want to eliminate the amount of food they waste.

Since all of the meals at Freeman are made to order, it’s much easier to select just a few things instead of collecting a personal smorgasbord.

Wasting food is an issue which Montclair State University can change with a little effort and thought.

Becoming more conscious of the amount of food one consumes and wastes is only one step in becoming a more civil and responsible person.
Iron Consumer: Which Phone Will Reign Supreme?

The Galaxy S III challenges the iPhone 5

This year, we have a battle royale of cellular proportions. The iPhone has some experience in the art of combat, since its first appearance on the market in June 2009. It has successfully beaten out its past competitors, such as the dying Blackberry. However, a new enemy has appeared on the market. The Galaxy was the first Android phone released, but wasn’t regarded much when it first appeared on the scene in 2009.

The Galaxy S III is looking to blow the iPhone out of the water. The sales for the Galaxy S III are over the top, may be because the iPhone 4S here in the US is 4.8” long, .71mm wide and 8.6mm thick. The iPhone 5, on the other hand, is predicted to be much smaller and about 7.4mm in thickness. This makes the iPhone 5 much easier to carry around. The iPhone 5 is also said to have a much better design because it is made out of metal instead of plastic, giving it a more sophisticated look.

In the looks department, the iPhone seems to reign supreme. It’s much more portable and is eye candy as far as phones go. The only concern with a metal exterior is that it scratches easily, which ruins the design of the phone.

Maybe it was a good idea to use plastic in the design, making the Galaxy seemingly less susceptible to scratches. But the Galaxy is a huge phone and would probably stick out of most jean pockets. The iPhone 5 being much smaller is more flattering to carry in one’s pockets.

Another issue regarding phones is the processor. As of now, the Galaxy has the iPhone beat in processing and it looks like it will remain that way when the iPhone 5 comes out.

The Galaxy has the fastest processor on the market right now. Now its huge size makes more sense. It’s only logical that the Galaxy is bigger because it has a much more powerful processing ability than the iPhone.

Another feature customers focus on is the price. Most of us understand the concept of the iPhone’s capacity. You can buy a 8 GB, 16GB and so on. The GB or gigabits determine the phone’s capacity. You can buy an 8 GB iPhone’s capacity. For reasons relating to safety, there has been recent and serious discussion about locking the doors of Calcia from 11p.m. to 7a.m., a critical time period for many students who work during these hours.

This is an idea that stems from a series of thefts that have occurred in the past, and it is very much appreciated that the administration is taking a moment to consider the safety of the art and often times incredibly expensive equipment, that resides in Calcia.

However, they have in fact chosen possibly one of least convenient solutions for the students that work in this building, often times deep into the night.

While many art students have classes or work that occupy the hours most responsible for creativity, the hours that are left to these sunless hours. The hours between 11p.m. and 7a.m. are among the most hours most responsible for some of the greatest creative breakthroughs. They are waking hours imperative to the life of an art student, much like the setting of creative activity. Which is a secondary point, when the argument of working at home is brought to the debate table. It is impossible to have a productive work is growing and developing, to be around another one, and more importantly, being around one another. This goes without mentioning that most of the students’ studio spaces are within the halls, classrooms and studios of Calcia. So it is simply impossible for most, if not all of the art students, to work solely at home during these hours.

There is something very sad about this pending decision, and about the lack of understanding for those who need these hours to work that is automatically associated with the prospect. For as long as art has existed, those who have attempted to restrict or restrain it or the process leading to its creation have been shunned by artists and generally viewed by the masses, especially the youth, as “the man.” But it would be ok if the administration wanted to lock the building and give every student a key every student could gain access to Calcia during these hours. As long as we can work.

MSU Film Student Taps into the Other Side
A Special Look at the Short Film Anima

The trailer has received a lot of positive feedback and has even snatched a few awards at the 2012 Indie Gathering and Film Festival Convention in Hudson, Ohio.

In it, we see small parts of the barbaric treatment of the inmate and the turmoil that follows. A year’s worth of production will finally be shared with the world when the film debuts on Sept. 14, 2012. The link for the film will be posted on the official Facebook page, www.facebook.com/Animamovie, but will only be up until Sept. 21 for film festival purposes. This should add some incentive to tune in as soon as the film debuts.

MSU students will also be pleasantly surprised to see that many of the scenes that will play out on the big screen were filmed right here on campus.

When asked how MSU shaped him on his journey as a filmmaker, Stable praised the department and faculty. “I’ve learned a great deal of technical knowledge here, but most importantly, the professors have instilled me with a deep appreciation and love of science, but also linked experiences for the greater good of technical knowledge here, but most importantly, the professors have instilled me with a deep appreciation and love of science, but also linked experiences for the greater good of science, but also linked experiences for the greater good of science, but also linked experiences for the greater good.”

Viewers should be appreciative! His talent speaks for itself. You are not only drawn into the film by the chilling events that the inmate experiences for the greater good of science, but also linked to the story line of the scientist, whose life seems to be turned upside-down thanks to the outlandish experiment.

Jagged Little Pill was the third release from the Canadian-American songstress Alanis Morissette. The album, released on June 15, 1995, is a brew of alternative rock and post-grunge influences. The 12-track disc catapulted Morissette to commercial and international success. To this day, “You Oughta Know,” the lead single, is the anthem for scorned women across the world. Morissette howls, “And I’m here to remind you, of the mess you left when you went away!” in her signature scratchy vocals, accompanied by a build up of guitar and drums that fuel the flames of her angst.

The album received positive reviews, released six singles and was nominated for six Grammy Awards, winning four, including “Album of the Year.” In 2003 Rolling Stone included the album in The 500 Greatest Albums of All Time list.

The Montclair State field hockey team came into this season with high expectations. Currently, MSU's record stands at 4-1 overall and 1-0 in the NJAC. The 4-1 start proves that the team is worthy of their #9 national ranking in the Division III Penn Monto/NFHCA poll. The Red Hawks opened their season on the road against the Eastern University Eagles. Eastern University was trying to avenge last year’s opening day 2-1 loss to MSU, while the Red Hawks looked to make it two straight opening-day wins against the Eagles. MSU got its first score of the year in the 20th minute, when senior midfielder Michelle Hagel got an assist from junior Jennifer Tafro and buried a shot in the net while the goalie was down. Once falling down, the Red Hawks grabbed a 1-0 lead, they never looked back on route to a 4-0 victory. Hagel ended up with her first career hat trick, collecting her fourth goal in the 42nd minute and her final goal with only 8 minutes remaining in the game. Frances Schaefer contributed with a goal and left 15 minutes left in the contest. The Red Hawks played such stifling defense against the Eagles that they held them to two shots in the first half.

Senior goalkeeper Megan Bosland earned her 100th career shutout and her 46th career victory, blocking all eight of Eastern University’s shots. Drew Cathey completed 15 of 28 pass attempts, throwing two interceptions, and was sacked five times. The Seahawk defense held the Red Hawks to just 266 yards of total offense, five pass attempts, and was sacked five times. Drew Cathey completed 15 of 28 pass attempts, throwing two interceptions, and was sacked five times. The Seahawk defense held the Red Hawks to just 266 yards of total offense, five pass attempts, and was sacked five times. Bowles that they held them to two shots in the first half.

MSU’s next matchup took place at home against the Rowan University Profs on Sunday, Sept. 2nd. Drew Cathey connected with a hat trick and senior Sierra Rauchbach added one of her own as Montclair State defeated Rowan 6-1. The Red Hawks are now 3-0 in the NJAC, after dropping their second game of the season on the road to the Salve Regina University Seahawks by a score of 16-7. The Red Hawks took on the Alvernia University Crusaders on Saturday, Sept. 8th. The Crusaders gave MSU all they could handle during the 70 minutes of regulation time, but the Red Hawks squawked out a 2-1 in overtime. Alvernia scored in the 4th minute to take an early 1-0 lead in the first half. MSU knotted the score with five minutes left in the half as Tafro found the net. The second half was tightly contested and neither team was able to cash in. With 11 minutes left in OT, Lewis put MSU in the game-winner, sealing the victory for MSU. The Red Hawks were able to outshoot the Crusaders 18-15 in the contest while Bosland recorded three saves. This past Tuesday, MSU played their third game in a row at Ramapo College. The Red Hawks dominated throughout, picking up an easy 7-1 win over the Road Runners and upping their record to 4-1. Kate Nor- gart, Tafro and Rauchbach each contributed two goals for MSU.

Montclair State’s other goal came from Frances Schaefer. The win gave MSU a 1-0 record in NJAC play. In a recent interview, Coach Gehr- tung spoke about the team’s performance in the games played thus far. “We played well in our first four games. We are out-shooting and out- coming our opponents in all of our games. We struggled to improve upon early in the season and gave us an opportunity to work on our weaknesses in practice.” As this team gains more experience and addresses some of their weaknesses, the Red Hawks will then be able to realize their full potential, which will mean trouble for future MSU field hockey opponents.

The Red Hawks return home this weekend to host New Paltz on Thursday, Sept. 13th at a 7 p.m. start and Misericordia University on Saturday, Sept. 15th at 9 p.m. Both games will be played at Sprague Field.

It's that time of year again. Everyone gets excited that football season is back, but while also rooting for their favorite team to win. I don't say I wasn't just as excited about the NFL getting back into season form.

However, let's not forget that in just a few weeks, we'll be heading into October post-season baseball. If we look at the last two seasons, both the St. Louis Cardinals and San Francisco Giants were wildcard teams that got hot at just the right time to pull together a remarkable run resulting in winning the World Series.

This goes to show that you don't have to be the juggernaut team that had the most wins in the regular season in order to be the best. Even though the playoffs aren't set in stone yet, I'd like to still take the opportunity to acknowledge the teams that are in serious contention.

This year's "Cinderella" team has definitely been the Washington Nationals. Rookie outfielder Bryce Harper has certainly lived up to the hype by showing that he is more-than-able to handle his own in the big leagues despite being only 19 years old. This past week, the Nationals have decided to stick with their plans in shutting down pitching phenomenon Stephen Strasburg.

Strasburg ended up missing most of last season due to Tommy John surgery, and they don't want him potentially suffering another career-threatening injury. Personnel close to the situation as this will be the first time since 1945 that the city of Washington will get to see real playoff baseball. However, while the Nationals are looking at what's best for the future for a team that can play at a high level.

The Texas Rangers and their ever-so potent offense have once again had a great year for themselves, as they look to make a run in the World Series with momentum going into the last stretch.

The Rangers and their ever-so potent offense have once again had a great year for themselves, as they look to make a run in the World Series with momentum going into the last stretch. Finally, the defending champion Chicago White Sox have once again had a great year for themselves, as they look to make a run in the World Series with momentum going into the last stretch.

In the AL Central, first year manager and former infielder Robin Ventura has put the Chicago White Sox back on the map as they try to hold off the Detroit Tigers from stealing their thunder. The two clubs will square off in Chicago for a four-game series that could potentially determine which team will be terminal in the American League.

Let's not forget about the Tampa Bay Rays, who only trail by one game in the wildcard race, and with a top-of-the-line pitching staff, they could be a very dangerous team.

In the NL East, the Atlanta Braves are comfortably ahead in the wild card race while Chipper Jones attempts his last hoorah in a permanent. In the American League East, the resurrected Derek Jeter seems to have turned back the clock by leading the New York Yankees to the top of the league.

The San Francisco Giants have built a comfortable lead out in the NL West but will need Tim Lincecum to snap back into reality if they want to make a deep run in the postsea.

Lastly, the defending champion St. Louis Cardinals have overcome losing Pujols, and their starting ace, Chris Carpenter, who's been out for the year. Although they won't win the NL Central, they have a one-game lead for the second wild card spot. A new implementation this year is that both wildcard teams for each league will actually play an elimination game to determine who will continue their postseason in the Divisional Series. There's much to look forward to this year. October is setting up to be a very exciting month.

Red Hawks Participate in Charity Run
The Montclair State Department of Intercollegiate Athletics held its 7th Annual Reservoir Charity Training Run on Thursday which produced outstanding results, and more importantly, generated funds which were donated to the Montclair Ambulance Unit and the Montclair State EMS. Montclair Ambulance Unit Deputy Chief Frank Carlo joined Director Mike Ricker from MSU Emer- gency Medical Services at the event.

Over 180 MSU student-athletes, staff, coaches and members of the campus community took part in the three-mile event around the Cedar Grove Reservoir which also included a walking race. Men's lacrosse sophomore Michael Schnick became the first student-ath- letic participant to break the 25-minute barrier.

A new implementation this year was the cover-up the course in a time of 19:03. Women's lacrosse freshman Serena Hitchins was the top female finisher, clocking in at 19:03, which was the seventh-best time overall. The Top 12 finishers on both the male and female side received T-shirts for their outstanding performances.

Past recipients of donations include the TALON Holiday Toy Drive, the family of MSU Police Sgt. Chris Vidro, The Walter Reed Army Hospi- tal Chaplains’ Fund, Second Chance Boxer Rescue in the name of Renoir Troja, the ICP Book Fund and the John Greco Scholarship Fund.

Both Los Angeles teams are fighting to clinch the second wildcard spot for each of their leagues. In the NLwest, the talk of the town for the Angels was their prized acquisition in Albert Pujols, but the real story has been the resurgence of Derek Jeter, who has certainly lived up to the hype by showing that he is more-than-able to handle his own in the big leagues despite being only 19 years old. This past week, the Nationals have decided to stick with their plans in shutting down pitching phenomenon Stephen Strasburg. Strasburg ended up missing most of last season due to Tommy John surgery, and they don't want him potentially suffering another career-threatening injury. Personnel close to the situation as this will be the first time since 1945 that the city of Washington will get to see real playoff baseball. However, while the Nationals are looking at what's best for the future for a team that can play at a high level, the St. Louis Cardinals have overcome losing Pujols, and their starting ace, Chris Carpenter, who's been out for the year.
