Students in Lots 23 and 23N were towed because of a car show that was held on Sunday, Sept. 30.

Brittany Ungano
Staff Writer

MSU Hosts First Senate Debate

Senators Menendez and Kyrillos debating many issues in Leshowitz Hall at the Cali school of music.

Ethan Fria
Assistant News Editor

Montclair's very own John J. Cali School of Music hosted the U.S. Senate debate on Thursday, Oct. 4, 2012. The debate between Democratic incumbent Sen. Robert Menendez and his opponent, Republican State Sen. Joe Kyrillos, was broadcast on several news aggregates including NJTV, WBGO, WNYC and C-SPAN.

Moderated by Mike Schneider of NJTV, the two candidates debated over several hot button topics, including Medicare, tax cuts, national debt, foreign policy and abortion.

Susan Cole, in her introduction to the debate, gave a message to the student body: “I encourage students here and throughout the state to be actively engaged in considering the issues and the candidates and to participate in the electoral process.”

Kyrillos was the first to give his opening statement, painting himself as a product of the American Dream and a man who stands for progression in the Senate. He finished his opening statement Continued on Page 5

Kyrillos was the first to give his opening statement, painting himself as a product of the American Dream and a man who stands for progression in the Senate. He finished his opening statement Continued on Page 5

Shuttle Changes Drive Students Away from Diner

The Red Hawk Diner has been the on-campus place to go for late night meals with friends for over a decade now. With their delicious shakes topped with mountains of whipped cream, and curly fries that make mouths drool, how could anyone resist? Their reasonably priced American cuisine has appealed to students since its opening, and to this day has seen a constant flow of business and hungry stomachs.

With the recent construction on campus within the past year, the Red Hawk Diner cannot help but no-

These Boots Aren't Made for Walkin'
Vehicles ticketed, booted and towed for car show

Student vehicles in Lots 23 and 23N were towed because of a car show that was held on Sunday, Sept. 30.

Brittney Logues
Your World

Students received quite a surprise when they realised their cars had been towed from the lot next to Dinallo Heights on the weekend of Sept. 29.

A car show taking place in the lot was to blame. Police towed 14 students’ cars from this lot to make room for the show. However, many students are claiming there were no notifications from the university that their cars would be towed.

According to Parking Services, a sign was placed in the lot letting students know that their cars would be towed for the car show if they remained in the lot, but there was no campus wide e-mail sent. These students claimed they did not see the sign.

The morning of the car show, their cars were ticketed and towed from the lot. Students then had to pay to get their cars out of the impound lots they were being held in.

However, an even bigger shock came when students realised that the impound lots were closed over the weekend. As a result, students had to wait until Monday to get their cars.

Towed Continued on Page 6

Diner Continued on Page 3

MSU Hosts First Senate Debate

Senators Menendez and Kyrillos debating many issues in Leshowitz Hall at the Cali school of music.

Ethan Fria
Assistant News Editor

Montclair's very own John J. Cali School of Music hosted the U.S. Senate debate on Thursday, Oct. 4, 2012. The debate between Democratic incumbent Sen. Robert Menendez and his opponent, Republican State Sen. Joe Kyrillos, was broadcast on several news aggregates including NJTV, WBGO, WNYC and C-SPAN.

Moderated by Mike Schneider of NJTV, the two candidates debated over several hot button topics, including Medicare, tax cuts, national debt, foreign policy and abortion.

Susan Cole, in her introduction to the debate, gave a message to the student body: “I encourage students here and throughout the state to be actively engaged in considering the issues and the candidates and to participate in the electoral process.”

Kyrillos was the first to give his opening statement, painting himself as a product of the American Dream and a man who stands for progression in the Senate. He finished his opening statement Continued on Page 5

Shuttle Changes Drive Students Away from Diner

The Red Hawk Diner has been the on-campus place to go for late night meals with friends for over a decade now. With their delicious shakes topped with mountains of whipped cream, and curly fries that make mouths drool, how could anyone resist? Their reasonably priced American cuisine has appealed to students since its opening, and to this day has seen a constant flow of business and hungry stomachs.

With the recent construction on campus within the past year, the Red Hawk Diner cannot help but no-

These Boots Aren't Made for Walkin'
Vehicles ticketed, booted and towed for car show

Student vehicles in Lots 23 and 23N were towed because of a car show that was held on Sunday, Sept. 30.

Brittney Logues
Your World

Students received quite a surprise when they realised their cars had been towed from the lot next to Dinallo Heights on the weekend of Sept. 29.

A car show taking place in the lot was to blame. Police towed 14 students’ cars from this lot to make room for the show. However, many students are claiming there were no notifications from the university that their cars would be towed.

According to Parking Services, a sign was placed in the lot letting students know that their cars would be towed for the car show if they remained in the lot, but there was no campus wide e-mail sent. These students claimed they did not see the sign.

The morning of the car show, their cars were ticketed and towed from the lot. Students then had to pay to get their cars out of the impound lots they were being held in.

However, an even bigger shock came when students realised that the impound lots were closed over the weekend. As a result, students had to wait until Monday to get their cars.

Towed Continued on Page 6

Diner Continued on Page 3

INSIDE
news
who else can "like" your status?

feature
Why Don't You Just Leave!

a&e
Electronic Wednesdays: A Look at Swedish DJ and Music God

opinion
Cyber-Panfiling

Sports
MLB Playoffs Underway

pg. 3
pg. 10
pg. 16
pg. 13
pg. 21
2

THE MONTCLARION

Montclair State University
115 Student Center Annex
Montclair, N.J. 07043

Office: (973) 655-5241
Fax: (973) 655-7804

Executive Board

Lori Wieczorek
Managing Editor

Lindsay Rassmann
Producer

Carley Hussain
Editorial Board

Catherine Baxter, Jessica Czarnogursky, Rashard Bradshaw, Monika Bujas, Nick Verhagen, Nicholas Taylor, Joey Cohen, Erica Krivda, Ian Elliott, Vicky Leta

Stephanie Agudelo, Ethan Fria, Nick Patriarca, Kristen Bryfogle

Luca Azzara, Brittany Ungano, Suzanne Joblonski, Matt Pollock, Dylan Soltis, Levon Syers, Sherry Jeong, Sekinah Brodie, Jacquelyn Loder, Corey Aron, Mike Panepinto, Rich Efrus, Jocelyn Choi

Don Spielvogel

Steve Johnson

The Montclarion is a publication of Montelican Publishing, Inc. Published weekly, except during examinations, summer and winter sessions, The Montclarion is funded by student fees distributed by Montclair State University and incoming advertising revenue. The views expressed in the Opinion section, with the exception of the Main Editorial, do not necessarily reflect the views of The Montclarion. The first edition of The Montclarion, then named The Pelican, was published on November 28, 1928.

The Montclarion willingly corrects its factual errors. If you think we’ve made a mistake in a story, please call Editor-in-Chief Lori at ext. 5230.

Any visitor wishing to report an incident should contact the Pelican Police. Telephone numbers are: (973) 655-5230 or (973) 655-5282. All calls are strictly confidential.

On Oct. 3:
Patrol responded to the radio tower off of Clove Road for a reported burglary. Items were taken and the place ransacked. A suspect was identified. This matter is under investigation.

On Oct. 4:
A female student reported having a dispute with one of her professors after she was asked to leave class. This matter is under investigation.

On Oct. 5:
A female student reported being harassed by her roommate in Blanton Hall. This matter is being handled through Residential Education and Services.

On Oct. 6:
Samuel St. Juste, 22, of Boonton was arrested at Memorial Auditorium for defiant trespass. He is scheduled to appear in Little Falls Municipal Court.

On Oct. 7:
A female visitor reported the theft of her MacBook Pro from her unsecured vehicle inside of the NJ Transit Garage. This matter is under investigation.

On Oct. 8:
A male student reported his unsecured vehicle burglarized and items taken while it was parked in Lot 45. This matter is under investigation.

On Oct. 9:
Alexis Cummings, 20, of Mount Laurel and Nicole Hargrove, 20, of Marlboro were arrested for possession of marijuana while in Sinatra Hall. They are scheduled to appear in Little Falls Municipal Court.

On Oct. 9:
A female resident of Sinatra Hall reported being harassed by her roommates. This matter is being handled through Residence Life.

The Montclarion is a freely distributed, newspaper providing one copy per person. Additional copies are $0.25.

THE MONTCLARION

Montclair State University
115 Student Center Annex
Montclair, N.J. 07043

Office: (973) 655-5241
Fax: (973) 655-7804

Executive Board

Lori Wieczorek
Managing Editor

Lindsay Rassmann
Producer

Carley Hussain
Editorial Board

Catherine Baxter, Jessica Czarnogursky, Rashard Bradshaw, Monika Bujas, Nick Verhagen, Nicholas Taylor, Joey Cohen, Erica Krivda, Ian Elliott, Vicky Leta

Stephanie Agudelo, Ethan Fria, Nick Patriarca, Kristen Bryfogle

Luca Azzara, Brittany Ungano, Suzanne Joblonski, Matt Pollock, Dylan Soltis, Levon Syers, Sherry Jeong, Sekinah Brodie, Jacquelyn Loder, Corey Aron, Mike Panepinto, Rich Efrus, Jocelyn Choi

Don Spielvogel

Steve Johnson

The Montclarion is a publication of Montelican Publishing, Inc. Published weekly, except during examinations, summer and winter sessions, The Montclarion is funded by student fees distributed by Montclair State University and incoming advertising revenue. The views expressed in the Opinion section, with the exception of the Main Editorial, do not necessarily reflect the views of The Montclarion. The first edition of The Montclarion, then named The Pelican, was published on November 28, 1928.

The Montclarion willingly corrects its factual errors. If you think we’ve made a mistake in a story, please call Editor-in-Chief Lori at ext. 5230.

Any visitor wishing to report an incident should contact the Pelican Police. Telephone numbers are: (973) 655-5230 or (973) 655-5282. All calls are strictly confidential.

On Oct. 3:
Patrol responded to the radio tower off of Clove Road for a reported burglary. Items were taken and the place ransacked. A suspect was identified. This matter is under investigation.

On Oct. 4:
A female student reported having a dispute with one of her professors after she was asked to leave class. This matter is under investigation.

On Oct. 5:
A female student reported being harassed by her roommate in Blanton Hall. This matter is being handled through Residential Education and Services.

On Oct. 6:
Samuel St. Juste, 22, of Boonton was arrested at Memorial Auditorium for defiant trespass. He is scheduled to appear in Little Falls Municipal Court.

On Oct. 7:
A female visitor reported the theft of her MacBook Pro from her unsecured vehicle inside of the NJ Transit Garage. This matter is under investigation.

On Oct. 8:
A male student reported his unsecured vehicle burglarized and items taken while it was parked in Lot 45. This matter is under investigation.

On Oct. 9:
Alexis Cummings, 20, of Mount Laurel and Nicole Hargrove, 20, of Marlboro were arrested for possession of marijuana while in Sinatra Hall. They are scheduled to appear in Little Falls Municipal Court.

On Oct. 9:
A female resident of Sinatra Hall reported being harassed by her roommates. This matter is being handled through Residence Life.

The Montclarion is a freely distributed, newspaper providing one copy per person. Additional copies are $0.25.

The Montclarion willingly corrects its factual errors. If you think we’ve made a mistake in a story, please call Editor-in-Chief Lori at ext. 5230.

Any visitor wishing to report an incident should contact the Pelican Police. Telephone numbers are: (973) 655-5230 or (973) 655-5282. All calls are strictly confidential.

On Oct. 3:
Patrol responded to the radio tower off of Clove Road for a reported burglary. Items were taken and the place ransacked. A suspect was identified. This matter is under investigation.

On Oct. 4:
A female student reported having a dispute with one of her professors after she was asked to leave class. This matter is under investigation.

On Oct. 5:
A female student reported being harassed by her roommate in Blanton Hall. This matter is being handled through Residential Education and Services.

On Oct. 6:
Samuel St. Juste, 22, of Boonton was arrested at Memorial Auditorium for defiant trespass. He is scheduled to appear in Little Falls Municipal Court.

On Oct. 7:
A female visitor reported the theft of her MacBook Pro from her unsecured vehicle inside of the NJ Transit Garage. This matter is under investigation.

On Oct. 8:
A male student reported his unsecured vehicle burglarized and items taken while it was parked in Lot 45. This matter is under investigation.

On Oct. 9:
Alexis Cummings, 20, of Mount Laurel and Nicole Hargrove, 20, of Marlboro were arrested for possession of marijuana while in Sinatra Hall. They are scheduled to appear in Little Falls Municipal Court.

On Oct. 9:
A female resident of Sinatra Hall reported being harassed by her roommates. This matter is being handled through Residence Life.

The Montclarion is a freely distributed, newspaper providing one copy per person. Additional copies are $0.25.

The Montclarion willingly corrects its factual errors. If you think we’ve made a mistake in a story, please call Editor-in-Chief Lori at ext. 5230.

Any visitor wishing to report an incident should contact the Pelican Police. Telephone numbers are: (973) 655-5230 or (973) 655-5282. All calls are strictly confidential.
Who Else Can "Like" Your Status? New study shows admissions offices can check your posts

Other peers aren’t the only people who take a look at your Facebook Wall.

Stephanie Agudelo

In today’s tech-savvy society it’s almost impossible to find a college student who doesn’t have at least one active account with a social-networking site. But the costs of having multiple accounts with these sites may soon outweigh the benefits.

Facebook, Twitter and Instagram are only some of the many sites that college admissions officers are scanning to see if the way a student presents him/herself on their college application matches their behavior on their private pages.

It may seem reasonable for employers to use social networking sites as a tool to decide whether a potential employee is qualified for the job, but is it right for college admissions officers to determine if you will be a good student by what’s on your Facebook page?

A recent survey conducted by Kaplan Test Prep shows that every year schools are discovering more harmful material through Face- book and Google. This negatively portrays prospective students and decreases their chances of acceptance.

The results of the survey discovered that while the number of college admissions officers’ looking at these sites has only slightly increased, the amount of damaging information found on these pages has drastically increased from 12 to 35 percent this year.

Jeff Olson, Vice President of Data Science for Kaplan Test Prep, explains that a few years ago social media meant looking at just one or two major websites (MySpace, Face- book) but now students are able to socialize through various channels.

“This increase in social media has therefore increased the level of com-fortability students have with shar- ing parts of their personal lives.

“We’re seeing a growing cultural ubiquity in social media use, plus a generation that’s grown up with a very fluid sense of privacy norms. In the face of all these trends, the rise in discovery of digital dirty laundry is inevitable,” Olson said.

While some students like junior Linda Ly believe that, like a pro- active job, colleges “have a right to eliminate any applicant who is un- qualified to represent their school,” others don’t think that their “dirty laundry” should be a determining factor in a university’s decision to accept or decline their application.

“It’s absolutely inappropriate! You cannot tell what kind of stu-dent a person is by looking at their social networking page. A kid who is a party animal could be a great student on his/her way to becoming a great doctor or lawyer. You really can’t judge a person by their page,” said senior Leslie Bretzger.

Olson, however, believes that sites like Facebook and Instagram simply provide a more raw, unco- nspicuous look at an applicant’s life.

With regard to college admis-sions, the traditional application, the essays, the letters of recom-men-dation, represent the polished version of an applicant, while often what’s found online is a raw ver-sion of that applicant. Schools are philosophically divided on whether an applicant’s digital trail is fair game, and the majority of admissi-ons officers do not look beyond the submitted application, but our advice to students is to think first, Tweet later,” he said.

To learn more about how to pro- tect your digital footprints, visit kaptest.com/socialmediatips.

Other peers aren’t the only people who take a look at your Facebook Wall. Therefore increased the level of comfortability students have with sharing parts of their personal lives.

“The rise in discovery of digital dirty laundry is inevitable,” Olson said.

While some students like junior Linda Ly believe that, like a pro-active job, colleges “have a right to eliminate any applicant who is un-qualified to represent their school,” others don’t think that their “dirty laundry” should be a determining factor in a university’s decision to accept or decline their application.

“It’s absolutely inappropriate! You cannot tell what kind of student a person is by looking at their social networking page. A kid who is a party animal could be a great student on his/her way to becoming a great doctor or lawyer. You really can’t judge a person by their page,” said senior Leslie Bretzger.

Olson, however, believes that sites like Facebook and Instagram simply provide a more raw, unco- nspicuous look at an applicant’s life.

With regard to college admissions, the traditional application, the essays, the letters of recom-men-dation, represent the polished version of an applicant, while often what’s found online is a raw ver-sion of that applicant. Schools are philosophically divided on whether an applicant’s digital trail is fair game, and the majority of admissi-ons officers do not look beyond the submitted application, but our advice to students is to think first, Tweet later,” he said.

To learn more about how to pro- tect your digital footprints, visit kaptest.com/socialmediatips.
JOHN J. CALI SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Kaleidoscope

Don't miss this 90-minute non-stop showcase featuring music of all styles: choral, orchestral, band, jazz, vocal, chamber, musical theatre, and solo instrumental.

Oct. 12 • 7:30 p.m.
Oct. 13 • 8:00 p.m.

An Evening with Tracy K. Smith

2012 Pulitzer Prize winner for poetry
No charge - Tickets required for admission

Join us for this sixth installment in a series of public forums on the state of the arts as viewed by prominent contemporary artists and thinkers. Tracy K. Smith is an American poet whose most recent collection, Life on Mars, won the 2012 Pulitzer Prize. At times political, whimsical, and always meditative, Smith's poems speak largely to the role of art and to the concepts of what it means to be American, dealing with the "evolution and decline of the culture we belong to." For Smith, in her own words, poetry is a way of "stepping into the mess of experience."

Oct. 17 • 7:30 p.m.
Basis of Obesity

Is obesity a disease caused by genetics, biological factors, or illnesses or is it a result of a person’s chosen lifestyle, eating habits and environment?

During the past 20 years, there has been a dramatic increase in obesity in the United States and rates remain high. More than one-third of US adults (35.7 percent) and approximately 17 percent (or 12.5 million) of children and adolescents aged 2-19 years are obese.

A mouse unable to produce leptin (left) and a normal mouse.

The Margaret and Herman Sokol Science Lecture

To Eat or Not to Eat: Leptin and the Biologic Basis of Obesity

Tuesday, October 16
8:00 p.m.
Kasser Theater

Speaker:
Jeffrey Friedman

Jeffrey Friedman, MD, PhD—Marilyn M. Simpson Professor and Head of the Laboratory of Molecular Genetics at Rockefeller University, investigator at the Howard Hughes Medical Institute, 2005 winner of the Gairdner Foundation International Award and the Passano Foundation Award, 2009 winner of the Shaw Prize and Kelo Medical Science Prize, and 2010 winner of the Albert Lasker Award for Basic Medical Research (both with Douglas L. Coleman).

Tickets, available at the Kasser Theater, are FREE to the Montclair State Community and $10 for others. For more information call 973-655-5352 or email brundas@mail.montclair.edu.

Know Your Candidates

Robert Menendez was sworn into the U.S. Senate on Jan. 18, 2006. Menendez serves on the U.S. Senate Committee on Finance; Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs; and Foreign Relations. He is also the Chairman of the Banking Subcommittee on Housing, Transportation and Community Development and the Foreign Relations Subcommittee on Western Hemisphere, Peace Corps and Global Narcotics Affairs. Menendez led the Democrat in Senatorial Campaign Committee, preserving a Democratic majority in the Senate.

Joe Kyrillos began his career of public service when he successfully ran for the New Jersey General Assembly. After two terms, he was elected to the State Senate where he has served since 1992. In 2009, Kyrillos served as chairman of Chris Christie's campaign for Governor. Through his sponsorship of the State's Business Incentive program and other economic incentives, he has helped to create thousand of jobs. Kyrillos graduated from Hobart College and holds a Master's Degree from Boston University. He has also had a career in the private sector, and his business experience has helped prepare him for his mission. He, his wife and their two children live in Middletown in Monmouth County.

The latest debate took place yesterday, Oct. 10 at 7 p.m. Keep your eyes peeled for information on the final debate this Saturday.

I believe in America, and I believe that we can do better.

-Republican State Sen. Joe Kyrillos

Kyrillos. Menendez, who has served in the U.S. Senate for nearly seven years, responded, “I find it interesting that my opponent would like to cast all the national ills on my doorstep, but he has been in Trenton for 24 years.”

“This debate has shown an edgeier side of both candidates, who let their bullets fly as they got into each of the topics. Particularly pressing issues were that of abortion and equal rights among women. Kyrillos identified himself as “restricted pro-choice,” meaning that after the second trimester he was against the act of abortion.

Menendez offered a biting ridicule of Kyrillos’ stances, said “We cannot afford [a candidate] who is multiple choice.”

In terms of equal health care for women, Menendez brought up a strident point. “When [Kyrillos] had an opportunity to vote for women in terms of their health care, he was not, not twice, but six times against women’s health care in our state.”

Schneider then prompted Menendez with a question regarding Menendez’s relationship with Gov. Chris Christie, describing it as “chilly.”

“Wouldn’t it be better with one enemy [this being a colleague of Menendez] and one friend [of the governor] in the senate,” said Menendez.

“I was enemies with the governor, I wouldn’t have helped the governor get one of the most powerful pools under the new Affordable Care Act. His administration asked me to get a good deal from the Department of Human Services, I did.”

Kyrillos responded, “The things you cite with regard to your work with the governor and the state government, those are things that you should do.”

Ultimately, the sides were divided. Their ultimate stands were Kyrillos for change and a set of new policies and ideologies, and Menendez’s experience and purported, refined sense of judgment in U.S. Senate matters.

The latest debate took place yesterday, Oct. 10 at 7 p.m. Keep your eyes peeled for information on the final debate this Saturday.

The Montclarion
Towed
Continued From Page 1

At the request of Commuter Association Resources and Services (CARS), Parking Services authorized the closure of Lots 23 and 23N for a car show being held on Sept. 30.

According to Facilities Services, a sign was placed on Sept. 26 in Lot 23, indicating that the lot was going to be closed and all vehicles remaining would be towed. On the day of the event, 14 vehicles were towed due to the fact that they had not been relocated to a different lot.

Student Bella Milstein was one of those students whose car was towed. She arrived at the lot to find that all of the cars that were once there were now gone. A friend of Milstein’s informed her they towed everyone’s car because of the car show going on. When Milstein spoke to a police officer, the officer explained that there had been signs indicating there was a car show going on and that the lot would be closed. He then went on to explain barricades were put up closing off the lot.

This came as a shock to Milstein, because there were no barricades up when she parked her car Saturday night after running errands. Milstein e-mailed Perry Eggleston, Director of Parking Services, in distress and told him that there were no barricades, she saw no signs and her car was towed. He told her that signage had been put up and apologized for not sending a mass e-mail.

Milstein’s car, as well as 13 others, were booted and towed. She had to pay a ticket of $50 and $197 to release her car from the impound lot.

“Not everyone goes to their car that frequently to notice a sign being put up. This is an awful situation and now that I, along with many other residents and commuters, do not have my/their car, tomorrow is going to be a disaster,” stated Milstein in an e-mail to Eggleston.

“Communication is key and I thought we agreed... email was the most efficient way of communicating to such a large community,” said Milstein. “This is not fair to anyone who has to pay those exorbitant fees to get their car back for a fault of parking services not being able to communicate.”

The officer that Milstein spoke with the day of the car show said that there was probably a “hooligan” that took the signs and barricades away. Unfortunately, Milstein and 13 others still had to suffer. In hindsight, parking services believe they could have done more to alert students that they needed to move their vehicles to accommodate the car show.

“Accordingly, we have commenced contacting the 14 affected students to inform them that their towing fees will be refunded in full, and any tickets they received will be waived,” stated Dr. Timothy Curvy, Associate Vice President of Facilities Services. “We are only interested in treating our customers fairly, and we believe that the action we are taking demonstrates this commitment.”

HELP WANTED
Production Editor for The Montclarion
Looks great on any resume!
Hand-on experience in the professional world
Creative and fun environment
Contact msuproduction@gmail.com for more information and details!
What’s Trending?

The Hype About Stripes

Every day is a great day to wear a sweater or sweatshirt. They have a laid back style, perfect for campus. Stripes are a great way to add style without having to think. There are so many colors, directions and widths to choose from — but how do you make the right choice for you?

First off, as I will always advise, always stay true to your own personal style. If it doesn’t fit you, then most likely you won’t feel comfortable wearing it.

Let’s tackle color options first. To be honest, it’s really up to you. Personally, I’m obsessed with stripes. I tend to lean towards black and charcoal stripes, as well as not so ordinary pairing of colors, such as neon orange and green. I love unexpected colors when it comes to stripes.

However, the color of your stripes is not as vital as choosing the style. For me, there are only two directions stripes can go that are acceptable: vertical and horizontal.

Horizontal stripes are dependent on their width to create a functioning outfit. I believe thick horizontal stripes work better and can be worn by any body type. The top can be loose or more tightly fitted, and still look great.

Vertical stripes are trickier. A lose fitting top with vertical stripes can add bulk. However, a more tightly fitted top can create the illusion of making you appear taller.

This style is effortless, so try to experiment. For example, a polka dotted blouse with a striped cardigan, or a striped shirt with a floral scarf, is a great way to add to this simple trend. Either way, keep trending.
Transform your life

Graduate Open House

Sunday, October 21, 2012
12 p.m. / University Hall

REGISTER ONLINE
montclair.edu/graduate
With every organization, from the NFL to your local bakery, doing something to support Breast Cancer Awareness month, it's easy to get caught up in all the large-scale hype.

On a smaller scale, there's plenty of awareness being raised right here on campus through events at Homecoming and various smaller efforts.

A Professor’s Quest to Save Breasts
Annual fundraiser continues this October

Professor Fernando Uribe, part of the Department of Political Science and Law at MSU, will continue his charity towards this cause again this year in a fundraiser for the American Cancer Society and Making Strides Against Breast Cancer.

Since 2008, Uribe has hosted his annual “A Professor’s Quest to Save the Breasts” fundraiser, a non-conventional but highly successful effort at raising money and awareness for a worthy cause.

Each year, the fundraiser is held at a different venue, making for a new atmosphere and fun every time. In the past, the event has been held at Wicked Willy’s and Social in Manhattan and Bahama Mama’s and Liberty Lounge and Grill in Hoboken. “I make it a point to host the event at a venue accessible to mass transit, so guests don’t have to worry about driving after this fundraiser,” said Uribe.

Uribe has raised $10,000 to date for the American Cancer Society and Making Strides against Breast Cancer. His successes have landed him the title of Pacemaker in 2010 and 2011, and an invitation to the American Cancer Society kick-off breakfast to speak on behalf of the fundraiser.

Uribe shoots for the same successes this year.

This year, Uribe’s fundraiser will be held at Tonic in Times Square on Saturday, Oct. 20. The theme behind this year’s fundraiser is a date auction. “It’s been fun, harmless and entertaining to watch me host the auction live.” The auction will start at approximately 11:30 p.m. and all proceeds will go towards breast cancer research.

“Despite the critics, my form of philanthropy is fun and more importantly, it raises considerably more money than more conventional means,” Uribe said.

For more information about getting involved, visit “A Professor’s Quest to Save the Breasts” Facebook page.
“Why Don’t You Just Leave?”
Part 1: Surviving the Abuse

Suzanne Joblonski
Staff Writer

October 11, 2012 • The Montclarion

“Why Don’t You Just Leave?”

When I began to have the courage to speak up about the abusive marriage I was in, I was often asked by others, “Why don’t you just leave?” The truth is, I did, on three separate occasions, before I finally left for good. There are a myriad of reasons why the abused stay in abusive relationships. The list on domesticviolenceroundtable.org/abuse-victims-stay.html outlines the motives for staying rather than leaving. For me, it was the attachment to the man who was also my child’s father. I came from a divorced home and did not want my son to grow up without his father. I also believed that he would change. After all his mother told me “just turn the other cheek” when he would do something I felt was abusive.

As time went by, I thought if I did leave, where would I go? I had talked to my mother several times about my situation. She was unsupportive and unwilling to take my side and in. Over and over again, she said, “You made your bed, now lie in it.” If I did not have my mother to turn to, where else were we going to go? It was not like I had a well-paying job that would have afforded me to find an apartment on my own. At the time, there were also few to no shelters available for people in my situation. I was a mother of a child with disabilities. With those odds against me, there was no way we would be allowed entry. Last but not least, I risked losing my surviving child to the state if there was any hint of domestic violence. Child protective services are mandated to remove children. Eventually, I just accepted that it was better to stay then fight what was bigger then me, but it did not stop me from trying.

We had just gotten a computer with Internet capabilities. The research skills I acquired as a reporter during high school came in handy. I began to search for help outside of my state. I hit upon a shelter run by the Sisters of Mercy for women and children. After speaking with the director of the program, I made plans to leave my job and within days I did just that. My son and I stayed there for about a month with the hope I would find a job and an apartment. Unfortunately, finding a job was difficult as I needed a car (I do not drive) to get to most places out of the area and I did not have childcare.

Through the shelter staff, I was able to get a subsidized apartment that required some type of income. I had no choice but to apply for public assistance. When abuser found out I did this, I received a phone call from him pleading with me. “If you take me to court for child support, I will kill myself. Come back home now!” I believed him as he had an uncle who actually committed suicide some years before we were together. I waited a few days before I repacked our bags and hoarded the bus back home.

Though he promised, things at home did not change as he had promised they would. Instead of settling a job, he suggested that we live on public assistance to support ourselves until one of us found employment. Somehow, he convinced me that I was better suited to find work when he said, “You’re the smarter one. The one with more experience.” Once again, I believed him, and it was true. For years I was the one supporting us before I left. As for being the “smarter one,” I’ll let you decide.

After a few months, he managed to convince me yet again he was a changed man. He began coming over for dinner regularly, spending a little time with his son and then expected us to be intimate. I did not reject these advances as I missed him. I missed us. He was taking advantage of me, but I did not really see it as that right away. I began asking him for my needs to be filled: come back home, get a job, be there for our son, move away, let’s have another child.

As time went by, I started having suspicions he was not being faithful, which made me stop engaging in sexual acts with him. I did not stop him from trying. The final straw was the morning he came by under the guise of taking his son out for the day. He appeared to be belligerent or drunk. While my son was taking a bath and as I was getting some of his clothes ready, he raped me. He wanted me to “prove I wasn’t sleeping with that (expletive). You’re mine,” he yelled. As he had his hands around my neck, looking straight into my eyes he said, “I should have squeezed harder.”

This statement alone was enough for me to secure an order of protection against him. It may have not been so easy to prove before, but given my pleas and probable desperation in my eyes and words, the judge sided in my favor. However, in New York, restraining orders from either criminal or family court are not usually permanent. This meant going back and forth to court every two months to renew it.

If you or know someone in need of domestic violence resources, help is available by calling 1-800-799-7233 or 800-787-3244 or visiting www.safe4all.org.

To be continued next week
The Montclarion

Services

TUTORING
INSTRUCTIONS available for SPANISH & ITALIAN! If interested, call NICOLINA MAZZEO, Certified Teacher at: 973-751-3457

Child Care

Child Care needed in clean Clifton home for boys ages seven and nine. Friday or Saturday night each week. Jennifer (973) 868 9159

NOW HIRING:
Assistant Production Editor for THE MONTCLARION!

Stop by our office in SC Annex Room 133 or email msuproduction@gmail.com for details!

Advertise with The Montclarion!

Email montclarionadsales@gmail.com for more information and details

SCHWK

EXPLORE HEALTH SCIENCES EDUCATION FAIR

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20, 2012
10 AM–1 PM
NJDS - ORAL HEALTH PAVILION
50 12TH AVENUE, NEWARK, NJ

Join us
Meet representatives from the eight schools of UMDNJ

For Info, email exploreumdnj@umdnj.edu, or visit EducationFair.umdnj.edu

Your Future Starts TODAY!

Buzzed driving is drunk driving.

Never underestimate ‘just a few.’

The “It’s Only Another Beer”
Black and Tan
8 oz. pilsner lager
8 oz. stout lager
1 frosty mug
1 icy road
1 pick-up truck
1 10-hour day
1 tired worker
A few rounds with the guys
Mix ingredients.
Add 1 totalled vehicle.
Cyber - Profiling

What’s to stop admissions from doing the same? Admissions officers could look at your Facebook, but to go as far as making your profile a determining factor to be accepted to a university is absurd. Facebook is a place where we like to make jokes and chat with friends. Many of the pictures and statuses on Facebook can be taken way out of context and is not appropriate for admissions to see.

College is a place where students learn about professionalism and become serious students. To punish them for pictures plagued with past mistakes is ridiculous. Facebook is a form of expression for teenagers. It’s a haven from our adult monitored world. Most parents aren’t tech-savvy enough to stalk their child’s account, so why should we feel scrutinized by tyranny?

High school was in the past and we all knew from personal experiences, college is much different. Those who have struggled in the past with making the right choices will have an opportunity to strive throughout their college experiences. The opposite can be said about those who strived in high school. They can underestimate the college work load. We understand that admissions are curious about the students they admit into their school, but isn’t that what our college essays are for? There are secrets in college essays that someone would never admit to on Facebook. That is the true depiction of a student’s personality, not trivial websites.

It shouldn’t be the university’s concern as to what is on our Facebook accounts. What we post on there is for fun. Sometimes we may make mistakes and post something that was never meant for the internet to ogle at, but we have to learn from our mistakes. College isn’t just about finding great students, but also students finding greatness within themselves. When students begin to take responsibility for themselves, then they will realize what is appropriate to post online. It’s understandable for the employer to look into an applicant’s Facebook. They have a right to know who they are hiring, but only until an applicant has matured through their college experiences. In the words of Evander Holyfield, “It’s not the size of the man, but the size of his heart.” Allow me to rephrase that, “It is not the Facebook of a man that matters, but the size of his heart.”

Heart and passion are the determining factors of a potential college student, not a Facebook picture of a kid holding a red Solo cup.

Vicky Leta | The Montclarion

Students Speak

Should college admission offices consider applicants’ Facebook pages in the admission process?

Maya Jackson
Freshman
Undeclared

“I don’t think so. I just feel like it’s an invasion of personal space. Overall, there’s a lot of things that people are being tagged in on Facebook, in certain pictures, and that’s not them actually posting those pictures and it’s not an actual representation of them. So, I don’t think Facebook is a good... it’s pretty much not who the person really is.”

Sophia Alberly
Junior
Public Relations

“No, I feel like that’s a student’s personal thing. It’s their Twitter life or their Facebook life, and I don’t feel like it has anything to do with their academic ability, and if they actually judge you based on your Twitter, versus your academic standards, it’s kind of mean, if you ask me.”

Daniel Hernandez
Senior
Physical Education

“I don’t think so. I just feel like it’s an invasion of personal space. Overall, there’s a lot of things that people are being tagged in on Facebook, in certain pictures, and that’s not them actually posting those pictures and it’s not an actual representation of them. So, I don’t think Facebook is a good... it’s pretty much not who the person really is.”

Jessica Hoyt
Sophomore
Mathematics/Finance

“No, because that’s my personal life. I don’t think that has anything to do with my academics or how I perform.”
by the United States since the 1970s in Mountaintop Removal Mining, or This is a system of mining called peaks with dynamite and blast off the possible. They load up the mountain's to get to their product as quickly as.

Specifically, the new policy allowing residents with a standard resident parking permit to park in any residential lot is both unnecessary and dubious in nature. Instead of making parking issues for residents, this policy has increased the difficulty of finding a spot in some locations. Personally, it is my feeling that it is almost impossible (without extraordin- ary dedication to parking) to find a spot in any of the residential lots around the Clove Road Apartments except on Friday or Saturday when everyone has presumably filled campus for a game.

Any logical system of parking permits would have separate permits for each residence, and the overcrowned areas by selling too many passes to residential locations.

In actuality, in a system where parking permits are restricted to cer- tain locations, if there are 300 residents of the Clove Road Apartments but only 200 spots (a generous estimation), once those permits are sold out, that area's capacity is filled and everyone has a spot in the vicinity of their resi- dence.

However, in an unrestricted system permit system (where all the cars get parking passes), there is the chance that more than 200 residents of Clove can purchase stand- dard resident parking permits, having the unlucky students without a spot come Sunday night when the resident parking lots fill up after Monday morning classes. This is what I refer to as a bad policy.

My theory is that this "positive change" is not really a positive for the student population. By changing the Parking Services. By putting this policy into practice, we will probably lose the support of students likely to purchase park- ing permits since the upperclassmen now live in apartments in the area. They are more likely to have cars than the largely undergraduate residents of the Heights, even though the Clove and Village lots are much less likely to have fewer parking spaces in their vicinity than they have student demand for parking.

In this way, parking services can sell more parking permits even- though residents may have a harder time making use of said permit. This is quite an ad nauseating, however, the amount of revenue this policy stands to generate in parking viola- tions attributed to students who-- when they cannot find parking in residential lots—are forced to park in other nearby lots for which they do not have permits.

Romney's "Clean" Coal the Future Face of America

The dark, dirty reality of Appalachian coal mining

The Process of Soul Searching And Loving What You Find

Taking the time to focus on yourself rather than others

- DYLAN SOHTE

- KRISTEN BRYFOGLE

- SHERRY BEING COLLUMINAT

Throughout our lives, we constantly form new relationships and friendships, whether with family and friends or romantic partners. We seek to form close bonds with others and share our joys and sorrows. When we are happy, we share our happiness with our friends and family. When we are sad or hurt, we seek comfort and support from those we care about. When we are in pain, we seek out the comfort and care of those who love us. When we are in need of help, we reach out to those who can assist us. When we are in times of crisis, we rely on the support and care of others.

Rachel is a freshman majoring in psychology.

The Process of Soul Searching And Loving What You Find

Taking the time to focus on yourself rather than others

- DYLAN SOHTE

- KRISTEN BRYFOGLE

- SHERRY BEING COLLUMINAT

Throughout our lives, we constantly form new relationships and friendships, whether with family and friends or romantic partners. We seek to form close bonds with others and share our joys and sorrows. When we are happy, we share our happiness with our friends and family. When we are sad or hurt, we seek comfort and support from those we care about. When we are in pain, we seek out the comfort and care of those who love us. When we are in need of help, we reach out to those who can assist us. When we are in times of crisis, we rely on the support and care of others.

Rachel is a freshman majoring in psychology.

- DYLAN SOHTE

- KRISTEN BRYFOGLE

- SHERRY BEING COLLUMINAT

Throughout our lives, we constantly form new relationships and friendships, whether with family and friends or romantic partners. We seek to form close bonds with others and share our joys and sorrows. When we are happy, we share our happiness with our friends and family. When we are sad or hurt, we seek comfort and support from those we care about. When we are in pain, we seek out the comfort and care of those who love us. When we are in need of help, we reach out to those who can assist us. When we are in times of crisis, we rely on the support and care of others.

Rachel is a freshman majoring in psychology.

- DYLAN SOHTE

- KRISTEN BRYFOGLE

- SHERRY BEING COLLUMINAT

Throughout our lives, we constantly form new relationships and friendships, whether with family and friends or romantic partners. We seek to form close bonds with others and share our joys and sorrows. When we are happy, we share our happiness with our friends and family. When we are sad or hurt, we seek comfort and support from those we care about. When we are in pain, we seek out the comfort and care of those who love us. When we are in need of help, we reach out to those who can assist us. When we are in times of crisis, we rely on the support and care of others.

Rachel is a freshman majoring in psychology.

- DYLAN SOHTE

- KRISTEN BRYFOGLE

- SHERRY BEING COLLUMINAT

Throughout our lives, we constantly form new relationships and friendships, whether with family and friends or romantic partners. We seek to form close bonds with others and share our joys and sorrows. When we are happy, we share our happiness with our friends and family. When we are sad or hurt, we seek comfort and support from those we care about. When we are in pain, we seek out the comfort and care of those who love us. When we are in need of help, we reach out to those who can assist us. When we are in times of crisis, we rely on the support and care of others.

Rachel is a freshman majoring in psychology.

- DYLAN SOHTE

- KRISTEN BRYFOGLE

- SHERRY BEING COLLUMINAT

Throughout our lives, we constantly form new relationships and friendships, whether with family and friends or romantic partners. We seek to form close bonds with others and share our joys and sorrows. When we are happy, we share our happiness with our friends and family. When we are sad or hurt, we seek comfort and support from those we care about. When we are in pain, we seek out the comfort and care of those who love us. When we are in need of help, we reach out to those who can assist us. When we are in times of crisis, we rely on the support and care of others.

Rachel is a freshman majoring in psychology.

- DYLAN SOHTE

- KRISTEN BRYFOGLE

- SHERRY BEING COLLUMINAT

Throughout our lives, we constantly form new relationships and friendships, whether with family and friends or romantic partners. We seek to form close bonds with others and share our joys and sorrows. When we are happy, we share our happiness with our friends and family. When we are sad or hurt, we seek comfort and support from those we care about. When we are in pain, we seek out the comfort and care of those who love us. When we are in need of help, we reach out to those who can assist us. When we are in times of crisis, we rely on the support and care of others.

Rachel is a freshman majoring in psychology.

- DYLAN SOHTE

- KRISTEN BRYFOGLE

- SHERRY BEING COLLUMINAT

Throughout our lives, we constantly form new relationships and friendships, whether with family and friends or romantic partners. We seek to form close bonds with others and share our joys and sorrows. When we are happy, we share our happiness with our friends and family. When we are sad or hurt, we seek comfort and support from those we care about. When we are in pain, we seek out the comfort and care of those who love us. When we are in need of help, we reach out to those who can assist us. When we are in times of crisis, we rely on the support and care of others.

Rachel is a freshman majoring in psychology.

- DYLAN SOHTE

- KRISTEN BRYFOGLE

- SHERRY BEING COLLUMINAT

Throughout our lives, we constantly form new relationships and friendships, whether with family and friends or romantic partners. We seek to form close bonds with others and share our joys and sorrows. When we are happy, we share our happiness with our friends and family. When we are sad or hurt, we seek comfort and support from those we care about. When we are in pain, we seek out the comfort and care of those who love us. When we are in need of help, we reach out to those who can assist us. When we are in times of crisis, we rely on the support and care of others.

Rachel is a freshman majoring in psychology.

- DYLAN SOHTE

- KRISTEN BRYFOGLE

- SHERRY BEING COLLUMINAT

Throughout our lives, we constantly form new relationships and friendships, whether with family and friends or romantic partners. We seek to form close bonds with others and share our joys and sorrows. When we are happy, we share our happiness with our friends and family. When we are sad or hurt, we seek comfort and support from those we care about. When we are in pain, we seek out the comfort and care of those who love us. When we are in need of help, we reach out to those who can assist us. When we are in times of crisis, we rely on the support and care of others.

Rachel is a freshman majoring in psychology.

- DYLAN SOHTE

- KRISTEN BRYFOGLE

- SHERRY BEING COLLUMINAT

Throughout our lives, we constantly form new relationships and friendships, whether with family and friends or romantic partners. We seek to form close bonds with others and share our joys and sorrows. When we are happy, we share our happiness with our friends and family. When we are sad or hurt, we seek comfort and support from those we care about. When we are in pain, we seek out the comfort and care of those who love us. When we are in need of help, we reach out to those who can assist us. When we are in times of crisis, we rely on the support and care of others.

Rachel is a freshman majoring in psychology.

- DYLAN SOHTE

- KRISTEN BRYFOGLE

- SHERRY BEING COLLUMINAT

Throughout our lives, we constantly form new relationships and friendships, whether with family and friends or romantic partners. We seek to form close bonds with others and share our joys and sorrows. When we are happy, we share our happiness with our friends and family. When we are sad or hurt, we seek comfort and support from those we care about. When we are in pain, we seek out the comfort and care of those who love us. When we are in need of help, we reach out to those who can assist us. When we are in times of crisis, we rely on the support and care of others.

Rachel is a freshman majoring in psychology.

- DYLAN SOHTE

- KRISTEN BRYFOGLE

- SHERRY BEING COLLUMINAT

Throughout our lives, we constantly form new relationships and friendships, whether with family and friends or romantic partners. We seek to form close bonds with others and share our joys and sorrows. When we are happy, we share our happiness with our friends and family. When we are sad or hurt, we seek comfort and support from those we care about. When we are in pain, we seek out the comfort and care of those who love us. When we are in need of help, we reach out to those who can assist us. When we are in times of crisis, we rely on the support and care of others.

Rachel is a freshman majoring in psychology.

- DYLAN SOHTE

- KRISTEN BRYFOGLE

- SHERRY BEING COLLUMINAT

Throughout our lives, we constantly form new relationships and friendships, whether with family and friends or romantic partners. We seek to form close bonds with others and share our joys and sorrows. When we are happy, we share our happiness with our friends and family. When we are sad or hurt, we seek comfort and support from those we care about. When we are in pain, we seek out the comfort and care of those who love us. When we are in need of help, we reach out to those who can assist us. When we are in times of crisis, we rely on the support and care of others.

Rachel is a freshman majoring in psychology.
A Lack Of Policy Is The Best Policy?

The presidential debate spits of obsidian

by Levon Syers

October 11, 2012 • The Montclarion

Dear Montclarion,

I want to thank you on the article ["Resident Students Fed Up with Sub Par Customer Service"]. You truly spoke my mind. The service in the school is horrible. I feel it is this way because of the contract with the school, and because of union contracts, it is hard to fire them. Also because of the contract, they do not care to satisfy us because there is no competition on campus. We simply have to either go to eat, so from their point of view, it's take it or leave it.

Sincerely,

Khalid Ahboulode

THE MONTCLARION MAILBAG

The following letters were sent in response to last week's opinions column, "Resident Students Fed Up with Sub Par Customer Service."

Dear Ms. Syers

You have correctly pointed out the many faults in the service in the school. I, for one, have been to the cafeteria at least once a week since the beginning of the school year, and I can attest to these issues being very common.

I agree that the staff does not care about the customers, as there is no competition on campus. As I stated before, we simply have to either go to eat, so from their point of view, it's take it or leave it.

Sincerely,

Levon Syers, an English major, in his senior year as columnist for The Montclarion.
Electronic Meltdown
A look at Swedish DJ and EDM innovator Avicii

Tim Berling, a Swedish Electronic DJ and producer better known as Avicii, has become extremely popular after the release of “Levels” (also spelled as Le7els) last year. The song samples the vocals of Etta James’ 1962 gospel ballad, “Something’s Got a Hold on Me.” The iconic DJ received great feedback and gained millions of fans around the globe after “Levels” became one of the top summer anthems in rotation. The song is played at music festivals and clubs all around the world.

Avicii has transformed from Swedish DJ to a house music god, and was the first House DJ to perform at Radio City Music Hall. He is now being looked upon as a breakout star. “My Feelings For You” is another single that became a hit. It was first produced in 1999 by a French Electronic music band named Cassius. In December of 2010 it was released and remade by Avicii and Sebastien Drums.

Avicii has become an icon within the fashion industry after Ralph Lauren sponsored him. Currently, he is performing around the United States. 2012 looks like an amazing year for Avicii!

干什么电子音乐活动正在十月展开？

在纽约市，有一些令人兴奋的活动，展示杰出的艺术家。

- 10月12日星期五，Erick Morillo @ Pacha
- 10月20日星期六，Dirty South，Mord Fustang和Gregori Klosman @ Roseland Ballroom
- 10月26日星期五，Knife Party，Tommy Trash，和Kill The Noise @ Pier 94
- 10月27日星期六，2012 Sebastian Ingrosso，Alesso，和Otto Knows @ Pier 94
- 10月28日星期日，Rusko @ Pacha

Since Nicki Minaj’s explosive debut in the male dominated world of hip-hop, many listeners have been happy to see the reappearance of the forgotten and often misunderstood female MC in music.

After Minaj’s pop cross-over success, many fans are still hungry for a stable female figure to bring the sexy back to rap. The hip-hop fan’s wait may finally be over with the entrance of newcomer Angel Haze.

Haze has been making waves in hip-hop since 2009 and recently signed to Universal Music Group. Her talent has gained her loads of press on blogs and websites ranging from Pitchfork to Complex, and her buzz has gained her thousands of fans on and offline.

With hypersexual imagery and a rapid-fire array of sick and twisted rhymes, Haze is proving she has what it takes to carve her own lane in the music game. Check out her new EP “Reservation,” a free download filled with the heat that’s going to keep Haze a hot topic.

Since Frank Ocean’s “coming out,” the state of homosexuality in music has been the topic of discussion in and out of the press.

With music legends constantly being asked to share their thoughts on the perceived issue, there is a pack of openly gay artists making their own moves in music without a pass from the mainstream.

At the forefront of this pack is Le1f, a fast-rapping water nymph from New York City. Le1f received loads of press after releasing the video for this single “Wut” from his Dark York mixtape a few months ago.

The video soon became infamous when the urban media outlet Worldstarhiphop shared it with the headline, “This Is What Happens When Rappers Start Admitting They’re Gay?”

With all the bumps on his rise to the top Le1f is proving that his sexuality is just one facet to his musical identity and is not going to hold him back from his 15 minutes of fame.

Are they worth the HYPE?

Since Le1f’s fast-rapping water nymph “Wut” from his Dark York mixtape, he is proving that his sexuality is just one facet to his musical identity and is not going to hold him back from his 15 minutes of fame.

NEW Hip-Hop Artist Spotlight

Le1f

Rashard Bradshaw

Arts Editor

What Electronic events are happening in October?

In New York City, there are some exciting events that feature great artists.

- Friday, Oct. 12th, Erick Morillo @ Pacha
- Saturday, Oct. 20th, Dirty South, Mord Fustang and Gregori Klosman @ Roseland Ballroom
- Friday, Oct. 26th, Knife Party, Tommy Trash, and Kill The Noise @ Pier 94
- Saturday, Oct. 27th, 2012 Sebastian Ingrosso, Alesso, and Otto Knows @ Pier 94
- Sunday, Oct. 28th, Rusko @ Pacha

Rashard Bradshaw

Arts Editor

Since Nicki Minaj’s explosive debut in the male dominated world of hip-hop, many listeners have been happy to see the reappearance of the forgotten and often misunderstood female MC in music.

After Minaj’s pop cross-over success, many fans are still hungry for a stable female figure to bring the sexy back to rap. The hip-hop fan’s wait may finally be over with the entrance of newcomer Angel Haze.

Haze has been making waves in hip-hop since 2009 and recently signed to Universal Music Group. Her talent has gained her loads of press on blogs and websites ranging from Pitchfork to Complex, and her buzz has gained her thousands of fans on and offline.

With hypersexual imagery and a rapid-fire array of sick and twisted rhymes, Haze is proving she has what it takes to carve her own lane in the music game. Check out her new EP “Reservation,” a free download filled with the heat that’s going to keep Haze a hot topic.

Since Le1f’s fast-rapping water nymph “Wut” from his Dark York mixtape, he is proving that his sexuality is just one facet to his musical identity and is not going to hold him back from his 15 minutes of fame.

Are they worth the HYPE?

Since Le1f’s fast-rapping water nymph “Wut” from his Dark York mixtape, he is proving that his sexuality is just one facet to his musical identity and is not going to hold him back from his 15 minutes of fame.

NEW Hip-Hop Artist Spotlight

Le1f

Rashard Bradshaw

Arts Editor

What Electronic events are happening in October?

In New York City, there are some exciting events that feature great artists.

- Friday, Oct. 12th, Erick Morillo @ Pacha
- Saturday, Oct. 20th, Dirty South, Mord Fustang and Gregori Klosman @ Roseland Ballroom
- Friday, Oct. 26th, Knife Party, Tommy Trash, and Kill The Noise @ Pier 94
- Saturday, Oct. 27th, 2012 Sebastian Ingrosso, Alesso, and Otto Knows @ Pier 94
- Sunday, Oct. 28th, Rusko @ Pacha

Rashard Bradshaw

Arts Editor

Since Nicki Minaj’s explosive debut in the male dominated world of hip-hop, many listeners have been happy to see the reappearance of the forgotten and often misunderstood female MC in music.

After Minaj’s pop cross-over success, many fans are still hungry for a stable female figure to bring the sexy back to rap. The hip-hop fan’s wait may finally be over with the entrance of newcomer Angel Haze.

Haze has been making waves in hip-hop since 2009 and recently signed to Universal Music Group. Her talent has gained her loads of press on blogs and websites ranging from Pitchfork to Complex, and her buzz has gained her thousands of fans on and offline.

With hypersexual imagery and a rapid-fire array of sick and twisted rhymes, Haze is proving she has what it takes to carve her own lane in the music game. Check out her new EP “Reservation,” a free download filled with the heat that’s going to keep Haze a hot topic.

Since Frank Ocean’s “coming out,” the state of homosexuality in music has been the topic of discussion in and out of the press.

With music legends constantly being asked to share their thoughts on the perceived issue, there is a pack of openly gay artists making their own moves in music without a pass from the mainstream.

At the forefront of this pack is Le1f, a fast-rapping water nymph from New York City. Le1f received loads of press after releasing the video for this single “Wut” from his Dark York mixtape a few months ago.

The video soon became infamous when the urban media outlet Worldstarhiphop shared it with the headline, “This Is What Happens When Rappers Start Admitting They’re Gay?”

With all the bumps on his rise to the top Le1f is proving that his sexuality is just one facet to his musical identity and is not going to hold him back from his 15 minutes of fame.

Are they worth the HYPE?
1. “Homecoming Queen,” by Hinder
   Jessica Czarnogursky – Feature Editor
2. “She Has A Girlfriend Now,” by Reel Big Fish
   Nick Verhagen – Sports Editor
3. “Rock It for Me,” by Caravan Palace
   Catherine Baxter – News Editor
4. “God Save the Queen,” British National Anthem
   (in honor of the elected King/Queen)
   Monika Bujas – Opinion Editor
5. “Last of the American Girls,” by Green Day
   Kristen Bryngole – Asst. Opinions Editor

HOMECOMING PLAYLIST

6. “Prom Queen,” by Lil Wayne
   Carley Hussain – Production Editor
   Rashard Bradshaw – Arts Editor
8. “Underground,” by Ben Folds Five
   Nick Taylor – Chief Copy Editor

Montclair students with ID
Montclair students with ID

EURO TANS & SPA

1132 Rt 46 W. Clifton/Little Falls
973-772-6677

Just East of Valley Rd.  Across from Pub 46

Montclair students with ID
Montclair students with ID

Grand Opening

50% OFF!

MONTCLAIR NOVELIST DEBUTS
NEW CHESAPEAKE BAY THRILLER

DEADRISE

A Ben Blackshaw Novel by Robert Blake Whitehill

Reading and Signing, Eating and Drinking

DATE: Saturday, the 13th of October 2012,
12:00 p.m. – 3:00 p.m.

LOCATION: Palazzo Restaurant,
11 South Fullerton Avenue,
Easy Parking at the South Fullerton Deck

Complimentary Chesapeake Bay Foods, Eastern Shore Craft
Brews and Wines (Proper ID required)

For Autographed and Personally Inscribed
Copies of DEADRISE
ORDER BOOK IN ADVANCE:
Watchung Booksellers 973.744.7177

“DEADRISE is a first rate thriller. The characters are fascinating and so real. The plot was so engaging that I could not put the book down until I finished it.
I highly recommend this to all fans of the genre.”

– Bill Jarblum, Motion Picture Producer

“Masterfully written, DEADRISE is a non-stop adventure of political machinations, double dealings, covert operations, and Deliverance-esque ingenuity.”

– A.S. Amazon Review

“Euro Tans & Spa is awesome! I got airbrushed by two different technicians (Cat and Abbey) the results were beyond excellent. They allow you to look yourself over and say if you would like more in a certain area. Absolutely fantastic place, color was exactly what I wanted, no orange to it at all. Everyone at work was amazed at how good I looked. I have been promoting Euro Tans to everyone I know in New Jersey!!!
Spray Tanning gives you instant results that last for quite some time. The place is clean and the staff is beyond wonderful!” ~ Kelly Mazzaloni Fronte

“Best in Tanning

Grand Opening

50% OFF!

Montclair students w/ ID

EURO TANS & SPA

1132 Rt 46 W. Clifton/Little Falls 973.772.6677
Just East of Valley Rd. Across from Pub 46
School Daze is a 1988 Spike Lee classic and musical-drama that deals with the college experience inspired by Lee’s enrollment in historically black institutions.

The film follows the lives of active members of the student body during the exciting and eventful homecoming weekend at Mission College. The film also dabbles in the many ups and downs that college students go through: pledging, relationships, friendships and fun are all strong topics depicted with 1980s flair thanks to Lee’s signature style, a style that make him a cinematic heavyweight.

Vaughn “Dap” Dunlap (Laurence Fishburne) is a conscious African-American student who is the film’s protagonist. Throughout the film, we watch his deep-rooted power struggle with Julian Eaves (Giancarlo Esposito) also known as Dean Big Brother Almighty of Gamma Phi Gamma Fraternity, Incorporated. Their feud is played out through Dunlap’s cousin, Half Pint, (Spike Lee) who is pledging Gamma Phi Gamma.

Written and directed by Lee, School Daze is his second full-length feature that touches on issues within the African American community that are still prominent today. The most moving is Lee’s portrayal of colorism, which is the driving force behind the feud with Dunlap and Eaves. There is the topic of what exactly is “good hair” that is fought out between the fraternities’ sweethearts. The Gamma Rays, are a pack of fair-skinned beauties who wear contacts and hair extensions while the other female crew, are pro-black students who have chosen to reject the influence of white America on their identity as African-Americans. The film is definitely a powerful perspective on college that we rarely see in films.
It was a busy week for the Montclair State Women’s Field Hockey team. The Lady Red Hawks are now 20-9 in the season and 3-3 in the NJAC. Highlights of the week were when Kaitlyn Irwin named the NJAC Volleyball Defensive Player of the Week and when the team picked up its 20th win of the season.

Sophomore Jillian Fiebel from Stevens took matters into her own left, and the Lady Ducks were not going to go away quietly. There were still 20 minutes put the Lady Red Hawks up 3-0. The midfielder Allison Jillions connected at the 51:55 point of the game, junior er/forward Frances Schaefer was of the circle to give MSU a 2-0 lead.

The Montclair State Women’s Field Hockey team is currently ranked tenth in the National Field Hockey Coaches Association Poll, and the new rankings are slated to come out on Tuesday. This past Wednesday, Oct. 3rd, the Red Hawks seemed to struggle through roughly the first half of the game, but they finally return home after a successful 3-0 road trip. The game is Wednesday, Oct. 10th against the FDU-Florham Devils. Senior forward Frances Schafer and sophomore Abby Erier received NJAC Offensive and Defensive Player of the Week Honors respectively.

Both athletes have played a key role on this team during the Lady Red Hawks ten game-winning streak. Montclair State’s overall record is 12-1, while their NJAC record is 4-0, which is good enough for sole possession of first place in the conference.
nada, zip, zilch

(What most kids know about preparing for college.)

Without the help of an adult, it may be confusing for students to find their way to college. If you know a student with dreams of a higher education, do your part and help lead the way. Learn how at...

KnowHow2GO.org 800-433-3243

---

Montclair-Graz Sister City Scholarship

Undergraduate: Spend a full academic year (Fall 2013 through Spring 2014) abroad in beautiful Italy. Attend one of three partner universities on full scholarship which includes tuition, fees, room, board and a stipend.

Application Deadline: December 6th, 2012

Scholarship Information Sessions

All Sessions are in University Hall:

- Thursday, October 18th, 2:30pm - Room 1040
- Monday, October 29th, 11:30am - Room 1020
- Monday, November 12th, 2:30pm - Room 1070

For details: http://www.montclair.edu/debates/montaubroad

---

Voted the Area’s Top Steakhouse

Home of the 24 oz. Delmonico Steak $20.95

Party Rooms up to 80 People • Gift Certificates Available

Happy Hour

Sun.-Tues. ALL DAY
Wed.-Sat. 3 PM-7 PM

Late Nights

Happy Hour

Thurs. & Fri. 10 PM-2 AM

$5.00 OFF Your Total Bill of $40 or more.

Cannot be combined with any other offer.
The Montclair Red Hawks football team suffered a heavy defeat last Saturday at home to visiting Rowan Professors by a score of 33-7. This marks their first loss to the row 22nd ranked Professors since 2005, in their most lopsided defeat since their New Jersey college football rivalry opener in 2011.

The Rowans offense exploded in the second quarter, scoring on three out of four offensive possessions. Senior running back Keith Cornocchio accounted for 122 yards on 24 carries, and a 21-yard punt return by senior wide receiver Dan Rod took the Prof’s dead to lead Rowan 21-0. Pitcher Brett Anderson led the defensive efforts late Tuesday night, winning a sweep to the Detroit Tigers in his second game off their offensive drive. The Red Hawks responded later on in the quarter with a four-play, 44-yard drive capped off by a 10-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Drew Catehy to senior wide receiver Vin Fischer. The quarter ended with the Red Hawks leading 7-6.

The Rowan offense exploded in the second quarter, scoring on three out of four offensive possessions. Senior running back Keith Cornocchio accounted for 122 yards on 24 carries, and a 21-yard punt return by senior wide receiver Dan Rod took the Prof’s dead to lead Rowan 21-0. Pitcher Brett Anderson led the defensive efforts late Tuesday night, winning a sweep to the Detroit Tigers in his second game off their offensive drive. The Red Hawks responded later on in the quarter with a four-play, 44-yard drive capped off by a 10-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Drew Catehy to senior wide receiver Vin Fischer. The quarter ended with the Red Hawks leading 7-6.

The Rowan offense exploded in the second quarter, scoring on three out of four offensive possessions. Senior running back Keith Cornocchio accounted for 122 yards on 24 carries, and a 21-yard punt return by senior wide receiver Dan Rod took the Prof’s dead to lead Rowan 21-0. Pitcher Brett Anderson led the defensive efforts late Tuesday night, winning a sweep to the Detroit Tigers in his second game off their offensive drive. The Red Hawks responded later on in the quarter with a four-play, 44-yard drive capped off by a 10-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Drew Catehy to senior wide receiver Vin Fischer. The quarter ended with the Red Hawks leading 7-6.

The Rowan offense exploded in the second quarter, scoring on three out of four offensive possessions. Senior running back Keith Cornocchio accounted for 122 yards on 24 carries, and a 21-yard punt return by senior wide receiver Dan Rod took the Prof’s dead to lead Rowan 21-0. Pitcher Brett Anderson led the defensive efforts late Tuesday night, winning a sweep to the Detroit Tigers in his second game off their offensive drive. The Red Hawks responded later on in the quarter with a four-play, 44-yard drive capped off by a 10-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Drew Catehy to senior wide receiver Vin Fischer. The quarter ended with the Red Hawks leading 7-6. The Rowan offense exploded in the second quarter, scoring on three out of four offensive possessions. Senior running back Keith Cornocchio accounted for 122 yards on 24 carries, and a 21-yard punt return by senior wide receiver Dan Rod took the Prof’s dead to lead Rowan 21-0. Pitcher Brett Anderson led the defensive efforts late Tuesday night, winning a sweep to the Detroit Tigers in his second game off their offensive drive. The Red Hawks responded later on in the quarter with a four-play, 44-yard drive capped off by a 10-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Drew Catehy to senior wide receiver Vin Fischer. The quarter ended with the Red Hawks leading 7-6.

The Rowan offense exploded in the second quarter, scoring on three out of four offensive possessions. Senior running back Keith Cornocchio accounted for 122 yards on 24 carries, and a 21-yard punt return by senior wide receiver Dan Rod took the Prof’s dead to lead Rowan 21-0. Pitcher Brett Anderson led the defensive efforts late Tuesday night, winning a sweep to the Detroit Tigers in his second game off their offensive drive. The Red Hawks responded later on in the quarter with a four-play, 44-yard drive capped off by a 10-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Drew Catehy to senior wide receiver Vin Fischer. The quarter ended with the Red Hawks leading 7-6.

The Rowan offense exploded in the second quarter, scoring on three out of four offensive possessions. Senior running back Keith Cornocchio accounted for 122 yards on 24 carries, and a 21-yard punt return by senior wide receiver Dan Rod took the Prof’s dead to lead Rowan 21-0. Pitcher Brett Anderson led the defensive efforts late Tuesday night, winning a sweep to the Detroit Tigers in his second game off their offensive drive. The Red Hawks responded later on in the quarter with a four-play, 44-yard drive capped off by a 10-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Drew Catehy to senior wide receiver Vin Fischer. The quarter ended with the Red Hawks leading 7-6.

The Rowan offense exploded in the second quarter, scoring on three out of four offensive possessions. Senior running back Keith Cornocchio accounted for 122 yards on 24 carries, and a 21-yard punt return by senior wide receiver Dan Rod took the Prof’s dead to lead Rowan 21-0. Pitcher Brett Anderson led the defensive efforts late Tuesday night, winning a sweep to the Detroit Tigers in his second game off their offensive drive. The Red Hawks responded later on in the quarter with a four-play, 44-yard drive capped off by a 10-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Drew Catehy to senior wide receiver Vin Fischer. The quarter ended with the Red Hawks leading 7-6. The Rowan offense exploded in the second quarter, scoring on three out of four offensive possessions. Senior running back Keith Cornocchio accounted for 122 yards on 24 carries, and a 21-yard punt return by senior wide receiver Dan Rod took the Prof’s dead to lead Rowan 21-0. Pitcher Brett Anderson led the defensive efforts late Tuesday night, winning a sweep to the Detroit Tigers in his second game off their offensive drive. The Red Hawks responded later on in the quarter with a four-play, 44-yard drive capped off by a 10-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Drew Catehy to senior wide receiver Vin Fischer. The quarter ended with the Red Hawks leading 7-6.

The Rowan offense exploded in the second quarter, scoring on three out of four offensive possessions. Senior running back Keith Cornocchio accounted for 122 yards on 24 carries, and a 21-yard punt return by senior wide receiver Dan Rod took the Prof’s dead to lead Rowan 21-0. Pitcher Brett Anderson led the defensive efforts late Tuesday night, winning a sweep to the Detroit Tigers in his second game off their offensive drive. The Red Hawks responded later on in the quarter with a four-play, 44-yard drive capped off by a 10-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Drew Catehy to senior wide receiver Vin Fischer. The quarter ended with the Red Hawks leading 7-6.
There is no cheesy slogan to prevent reckless driving.

There is no spokesperson with a catchy phrase to remind the driver to slow down, stop eating, quit messing with the radio or pay attention to the road. There's Only You, Speak Up.
Who's Hot This Week

Dan Mendoza
Midfielder — Soccer
Mendoza made the most of his opportunities with two goals on two shots to help the No. 6 Red Hawks record wins over Rhode Island College and Richard Stockton last week. He currently ranks sixth in the NJAC in points with 18.

Frances Schaefer
Midfielder/Forward — Field Hockey
Schaefer was named NJAC Offensive Player of the Week after scoring a goal in the Red Hawks 3-2 win over Stevens. She followed this with an outstanding hat trick performance in the Red Hawks 5-1 victory over No. 3 and defending national champion TCNJ. The Red Hawks now sit atop the NJAC with a record of 4-0.

Game of the Week

Football
vs. TCNJ
October 13, 3:00 p.m.

The Red Hawks will take on the Lions for the 80th time in this historic rivalry for the annual homecoming game.

For updates, check out: www.montclairathletics.com and @TheMontclarion on Twitter
Don't see it like it was just yesterday when ESPN's Sal Paolantoni interviewed New York Jets quarterback Mark Sanchez yesterday after the team went on to beat Tom Brady and the New England Patriots in taking one step further into the playoffs. Paolantoni ends the conversation by congratulating Scott and how he looks forward to seeing them play the Pittsburgh Steelers in the AFC Championship. Scott emphatically responds with one of sports' most famous responses by saying, "C'mon, Walt." Well, unfortunately, Jets fans probably can't wait until this season is over because this is a season that they have to endure. Although their record stands at 6-2-1, on paper, the roster has been depleted with major injuries. Cornerback Darrelle Revis, who's one of the best corners in the league, went down with a torn ACL. It's a player's and team's worst nightmares when he's their only answer in the secondary was very questionable when NFL players need to step up. The big boys: plays on both sides of the field. Their solution in helping out was a neck injury that he's had for a while. It seemed to have taken light of the mistake, by consulting, "I'm Mark" (QB Tim Tebow). Sanchez seemed to have taken light of the mistake, by consulting, "I'm Mark" (QB Tim Tebow). Sanchez has struggled so far this season. While Oakland has struggled as a whole on offense, nobody more than McFadden has been looking down for CJ2K since last sea- son, while Darren McFadden came in with healthy hope. While Oakland had put Dez Bryant on a more restricted life schedule, there almost never any security guards than McFadden has carried the ball 27 times for a lousy 117 yards and 2 touchdowns down, opportunity knocks for Newton. With Newton, you ought to sign "TO," considering he has 1,154 yards with four touch- downs by a quarterback. Newton has all the skills, players and tools to be a fantasy afterthought and he didn't seem pleased when he heard the news. "I was drafted as a running back. The way I took four interceptions. If the Lions want to be taken seriously, their quarter- back must seriously get it together.

3) Darren McFadden, RB, Oak- land Raiders: It's known you catch touchdown passes on a game. There comes a point in time when NFL players need to step up for their team and their respec- tive fantasy owners. That being said, here are your Top 5 Fantasy Football Buys through Week five.

1) Matthew Stafford, QB, Detroit Lions: He's coming off his "breakout" season which everyone expected him to improve off this year. He was an elite 5,000 passing yard club last sea- son which also featured Drew Brees and Tom Brady. With Calvin Johnson being his go-to guy, it almost seemed that there was no way they could be stopped. Reality bit and, through five weeks, Stafford has thrown for 1,182 yards, three touchdowns and three interceptions. If the Lions want to be taken seriously, their quarter- back must seriously get it together.

2) Darren McFadden, RB, Oak- land Raiders: It's known you catch touchdown passes on a game. There comes a point in time when NFL players need to step up for their team and their respec- tive fantasy owners. That being said, here are your Top 5 Fantasy Football Buys through Week five.

1) Matthew Stafford, QB, Detroit Lions: He's coming off his "breakout" season which everyone expected him to improve off this year. He was an elite 5,000 passing yard club last sea- son which also featured Drew Brees and Tom Brady. With Calvin Johnson being his go-to guy, it almost seemed that there was no way they could be stopped. Reality bit and, through five weeks, Stafford has thrown for 1,182 yards, three touchdowns and three interceptions. If the Lions want to be taken seriously, their quarter- back must seriously get it together.

2) Darren McFadden, RB, Oak- land Raiders: It's known you catch touchdown passes on a game. There comes a point in time when NFL players need to step up for their team and their respec- tive fantasy owners. That being said, here are your Top 5 Fantasy Football Buys through Week five.

1) Matthew Stafford, QB, Detroit Lions: He's coming off his "breakout" season which everyone expected him to improve off this year. He was an elite 5,000 passing yard club last sea- son which also featured Drew Brees and Tom Brady. With Calvin Johnson being his go-to guy, it almost seemed that there was no way they could be stopped. Reality bit and, through five weeks, Stafford has thrown for 1,182 yards, three touchdowns and three interceptions. If the Lions want to be taken seriously, their quarter- back must seriously get it together.

2) Darren McFadden, RB, Oak- land Raiders: It's known you catch touchdown passes on a game. There comes a point in time when NFL players need to step up for their team and their respec- tive fantasy owners. That being said, here are your Top 5 Fantasy Football Buys through Week five.

1) Matthew Stafford, QB, Detroit Lions: He's coming off his "breakout" season which everyone expected him to improve off this year. He was an elite 5,000 passing yard club last sea- son which also featured Drew Brees and Tom Brady. With Calvin Johnson being his go-to guy, it almost seemed that there was no way they could be stopped. Reality bit and, through five weeks, Stafford has thrown for 1,182 yards, three touchdowns and three interceptions. If the Lions want to be taken seriously, their quarter- back must seriously get it together.

2) Darren McFadden, RB, Oak- land Raiders: It's known you catch touchdown passes on a game. There comes a point in time when NFL players need to step up for their team and their respec- tive fantasy owners. That being said, here are your Top 5 Fantasy Football Buys through Week five.

1) Matthew Stafford, QB, Detroit Lions: He's coming off his "breakout" season which everyone expected him to improve off this year. He was an elite 5,000 passing yard club last sea- son which also featured Drew Brees and Tom Brady. With Calvin Johnson being his go-to guy, it almost seemed that there was no way they could be stopped. Reality bit and, through five weeks, Stafford has thrown for 1,182 yards, three touchdowns and three interceptions. If the Lions want to be taken seriously, their quarter- back must seriously get it together.

2) Darren McFadden, RB, Oak- land Raiders: It's known you catch touchdown passes on a game. There comes a point in time when NFL players need to step up for their team and their respec- tive fantasy owners. That being said, here are your Top 5 Fantasy Football Buys through Week five.

1) Matthew Stafford, QB, Detroit Lions: He's coming off his "breakout" season which everyone expected him to improve off this year. He was an elite 5,000 passing yard club last sea- son which also featured Drew Brees and Tom Brady. With Calvin Johnson being his go-to guy, it almost seemed that there was no way they could be stopped. Reality bit and, through five weeks, Stafford has thrown for 1,182 yards, three touchdowns and three interceptions. If the Lions want to be taken seriously, their quarter- back must seriously get it together.

2) Darren McFadden, RB, Oak- land Raiders: It's known you catch touchdown passes on a game. There comes a point in time when NFL players need to step up for their team and their respec- tive fantasy owners. That being said, here are your Top 5 Fantasy Football Buys through Week five.

1) Matthew Stafford, QB, Detroit Lions: He's coming off his "breakout" season which everyone expected him to improve off this year. He was an elite 5,000 passing yard club last sea- son which also featured Drew Brees and Tom Brady. With Calvin Johnson being his go-to guy, it almost seemed that there was no way they could be stopped. Reality bit and, through five weeks, Stafford has thrown for 1,182 yards, three touchdowns and three interceptions. If the Lions want to be taken seriously, their quarter- back must seriously get it together.

2) Darren McFadden, RB, Oak- land Raiders: It's known you catch touchdown passes on a game. There comes a point in time when NFL players need to step up for their team and their respec- tive fantasy owners. That being said, here are your Top 5 Fantasy Football Buys through Week five.

1) Matthew Stafford, QB, Detroit Lions: He's coming off his "breakout" season which everyone expected him to improve off this year. He was an elite 5,000 passing yard club last sea- son which also featured Drew Brees and Tom Brady. With Calvin Johnson being his go-to guy, it almost seemed that there was no way they could be stopped. Reality bit and, through five weeks, Stafford has thrown for 1,182 yards, three touchdowns and three interceptions. If the Lions want to be taken seriously, their quarter- back must seriously get it together.

2) Darren McFadden, RB, Oak- land Raiders: It's known you catch touchdown passes on a game. There comes a point in time when NFL players need to step up for their team and their respec- tive fantasy owners. That being said, here are your Top 5 Fantasy Football Buys through Week five.

1) Matthew Stafford, QB, Detroit Lions: He's coming off his "breakout" season which everyone expected him to improve off this year. He was an elite 5,000 passing yard club last sea- son which also featured Drew Brees and Tom Brady. With Calvin Johnson being his go-to guy, it almost seemed that there was no way they could be stopped. Reality bit and, through five weeks, Stafford has thrown for 1,182 yards, three touchdowns and three interceptions. If the Lions want to be taken seriously, their quarter- back must seriously get it together.

2) Darren McFadden, RB, Oak- land Raiders: It's known you catch touchdown passes on a game. There comes a point in time when NFL players need to step up for their team and their respec- tive fantasy owners. That being said, here are your Top 5 Fantasy Football Buys through Week five.

1) Matthew Stafford, QB, Detroit Lions: He's coming off his "breakout" season which everyone expected him to improve off this year. He was an elite 5,000 passing yard club last sea- son which also featured Drew Brees and Tom Brady. With Calvin Johnson being his go-to guy, it almost seemed that there was no way they could be stopped. Reality bit and, through five weeks, Stafford has thrown for 1,182 yards, three touchdowns and three interceptions. If the Lions want to be taken seriously, their quarter- back must seriously get it together.

2) Darren McFadden, RB, Oak- land Raiders: It's known you catch touchdown passes on a game. There comes a point in time when NFL players need to step up for their team and their respec- tive fantasy owners. That being said, here are your Top 5 Fantasy Football Buys through Week five.