Meet the 2014-2015 SGA Eboard

After a week of endless campaigning, the results of the elections are finally in!

Rajhon White, Executive Vice President

“I am very excited to have been elected and appreciate all the clubs, organizations and students who voted for me, especially because they did not have to.”

As Vice President of the SGA, White hopes to improve the communication between the SGA Board and not only the organizations chartered under the SGA, but the student body as a whole. Believing that campus life has the potential to improve exponentially, he hopes to be at the forefront of that change.

Additionally, White would like to make known the different branches of the SGA and build membership so that there can be more of a student voice when it comes to various topics that arise on a daily basis. With “hard work, passion and dedication,” White aspires to improve student life at Montclair State.

Currently pursuing his degree in organizational communication studies, White has been actively involved in various student activities during his past two years at MUH. Serving as a legislator of the SGA, White has written multiple bills for different organizations to host events on campus. In addition, he contributed to the organization’s first philanthropic event in which they were able to make and serve sandwiches at a soup kitchen. Outside of the SGA, he is an active programming member as well as Treasurer of SLAM. White also works as a Community Assistant in Blanton Hall and an Undergraduate Admissions Ambassador.

Kevin Aquilano, Executive Secretary

“What I was put through to get here was not easy. I’m grateful to the student body and certainly proud of myself and what I have accomplished.”

As Secretary of the SGA, Aquilano plans to work more in depth with the student body to make their voices heard, provide a consistent support system for Montclair State’s organization and continue to build stronger relationships with administration. With improvement and well-established communication, he hopes to see equal opportunity for all chartered organizations and continue working with the organization, those who it oversees and the administration, he hopes to create a much-needed inclusive and proud community at Montclair State. As a student addition, Restrepo hopes to work in full support of each and every organization the university houses. With constant communication and support, Restrepo believes these organizations can be “as big as they want to be” and strives to have their members know that the SGA will always stand behind them.

As Treasurer of the SGA, Restrepo plans to reestablish the campus community’s sense of pride and inclusiveness by fostering communication and building relationships among students and faculty alike. By strengthening ties between the organization, those it oversees and the administration, he hopes to create a much-needed inclusive and proud community at Montclair State. As a student addition, Restrepo hopes to work in full support of each and every organization the university houses. Kristi Bunk, Executive President

“Serving as President that past semester, I am proud to say that we were able to continue working with the organization. A big thank you to all the students who voted for me, especially because they did not have to.”

As President of the SGA, Bunk plans to serve, support and advocate for students, state aid, bigger and better programs and safety as well as better communication and efficiency. Serving on behalf of the organization, she stresses to make the SGA function more efficiently to be more successful.

In addition, Bunk aspires to support students and organizations at various events and productions across the Montclair State campus. Aspiring to fully serve the students’ needs, Bunk hopes to inspire them to take hold of the opportunity Montclair State offers, as “some of the most valuable experiences in life happen outside the classroom.”

Pushing towards her degree in communication studies with a concentration in public relations, Bunk aspires to gain an extensive background to her position. A member of the SGA since her freshman year, Bunk has undeniably climbed the ladder to success during her time with the organization. Remaining as a legislator, Bunk has served in various positions and on countless committees leading to her former presidency. Outside of the SGA, Bunk has worked at NBC Universal and volunteered for the Montclair Film Festival.

Danniel Restrepo, Executive Treasurer

“I am extremely honored to have even been on the ballot; a big thank you to all the students who voted for me, a bigger thank you to the campus community as a whole.”

FASHION HISTORY: Louis Vuitton

Louis Vuitton is an internationally known brand that has impacted the fashion industry as well as world traveling. The brand is seen all over the industry and the elegant “LV” monogram is one of the most popular patterns worldwide. From New York City to London, Paris, Milan, California, Japan and back again, Louis Vuitton has become a classic brand in the fashion industry. Its expansion is noteworthy as well as incredible. But who is the man who started it all?

On Aug 4, 1821, Louis Vuitton was born in Anchay, France to a long line of working-class ancestry. His relatives were carpenters, milliners and farmers. His mother, Corinne, was a milliner while his father Xavier was a farmer. His mother died when Vuitton was only 10 years old and his father quickly remarried. Rumor has it that Vuitton’s stepmother was similar to the infamous wicked stepmother in Cinderella. She treated him poorly, which gave Vuitton the idea of running away. At 13 years old, Vuitton left home to travel to Paris and he never looked back.

During the mid-19th century, the desire to travel was spreading throughout the world. When Vuitton arrived in Paris at the age of 16 after taking small jobs here and there, his first career-related job was as a box maker. In 19th century Europe, making boxes and packing of fine goods was a high-status enterprise. Vuitton was very skilled at making boxes and packaging fine women’s apparel and accessories. It only took him a few years to gain a popular reputation among Paris’ elite community.

This experience gave him insight into the world of luggage and the needs of travelers. Louis Vuitton developed an interest in travel bags and became one of the first luggage companies designed to meet the needs of explorers, voyagers and vacationers everywhere. He opened up his first store, Louis Vuitton Malletier, in Paris in 1854. He broke records and impacted history when he designed the first flat-topped trunk that was lightweight and airtight. During that period of time, all other trunks had rounded tops and could not be stacked, thus making the flat trunk immediately popular within the community. Vuitton worked until his death on February 27, 1892. He left his company to his son Georges Vuitton.

Today, the Louis Vuitton brand has greatly expanded from luggage goods to other merchandise categories. The brand designs an abundance of leather goods, from handbags to wallets and even cosmetics trunks. Customers can even tag their leather goods with their personal initials. Louis Vuitton has introduced clothing to the brand in the most recent years with the help of creative director Marc Jacobs. Customers can now enjoy the luxurious feel of Louis Vuitton dresses, coats, trousers, skirts, suits, stockings and many other items. Louis Vuitton may have made history with his luggage trunks, but stays classic and timeless with every piece the brand creates.
Hello and welcome to Ryan’s Brew Review, the only consistent review of brews in the tri-state area—maybe. Every week, I review two beers: a bargain brew and a baron brew for all you kingly folk. This week’s theme is alternative brews, or beers that don’t use typical methods or ingredients.

Bargain Brew:
Yards’ Poor Richard’s Tavern Spruce is the embodiment of alternative and has quite a bit of history surrounding it. All beers, with very few exceptions, use hops. By law, you must use hops, water, barley and yeast in order to call your beer a beer. By legal approval, you can get these laws to change a bit, especially if you want a gluten-free beer. Yards’ Spruce Ale, however, does not use hops, but spruce tree needles, as in actually from a pine tree. It has a citrusy, piney and even cola-like taste. It’s very flavorful and strong. I’d compare it to the juniper berry used in gin. As its name suggests, Spruce Ale is based on founding father Benjamin Franklin’s very own recipe. As many of you may know, the people of Boston in the 1700s threw tea into the harbor. They also threw the hops also on the ship to try to turn the salty water into beer. All the colonists freaked out. “Oh, my god, what are we going to do without hops? I need my fix,” said George Washington. But Ben Franklin was very relaxed. “Dude, G.W., just use spruce. It’s pretty good.” And they did, and it was great. Oh yeah, it’s under $8 for a six pack.

Baron Brew:
Carton Brewing has done it again! They’ve done the impossible and used peanut butter in beer! Carton’s GORP is a trail ale made with raisins, peanut butter and chocolate. Normally, the oils found in peanut butter would ruin beer. However, this does not happen when you dehydrate the peanut butter. Carton’s brewers did just that. It’s smooth, it’s weird and it has a delightfully nutty aftertaste. Yet, if you’re concerned about price, you’d have to pay upwards of $7 a glass at a bar. You can go to the brewery in Atlantic Highlands a few 5.5 oz. cups for a very low price. In a way, it’s also a bargain brew if you take the tasting at the brewery. The hours for tasting are normally on Thursday and Friday from 5-7:30 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 12-5 p.m.
Prajjali Project Brings Yoga to MSU Student Veterans

Marvin Cadet
Contributing Writer

Yoga is inviting to longtime fitness enthusiasts as well. Joe Subia, a student veteran and fitness coach, said, “It was a nice change of pace from the usually ‘go, go, go’ lifestyle of school and work and a change from HIIT workouts. I would encourage it for anyone looking to find some balance in their breathing and life.” For more information on how to get involved, you can check out the Prajjali Projects’ website at prajjali.com.

The Prajjali Project is an initiative to get our veterans in touch with the practice of yoga. Among its many benefits, such as increases of energy and awareness, yoga has proven to be successful in helping individuals who may suffer from PTSD. The Prajjali Project was established to address the issue of suicide that many military veterans in our country face. They feel that even if we have not been impacted directly by the loss or suffering of a loved one in the military, as a nation, we have a collective responsibility to these men and women to honor their service and get them what they need to live normal lives.

The Prajjali Project is an initiative to get our veterans in touch with the practice of yoga. Among its many benefits, such as increases of energy and awareness, yoga has proven to be successful in helping individuals who may suffer from PTSD. The Prajjali Project was established to address the issue of suicide that many military veterans in our country face. They feel that even if we have not been impacted directly by the loss or suffering of a loved one in the military, as a nation, we have a collective responsibility to these men and women to honor their service and get them what they need to live normal lives.

The Office of Veteran and Military Resources has partnered with the Prajjali Project and has been providing yoga classes exclusively to student veterans on campus. The classes are taught on Wednesdays at 10 a.m. in the multi-purpose room at the Student Recreation Center. They have been well-received. Among Montclair's student veteran population, yoga is a great tool that helps with the transition to academic pursuits from military service. Denise Rodak, Coordinator of Veteran and Military Resources and a yoga practitioner, is always looking for ways to incorporate contemplative practices into her work with veterans and military students. According to Rodak, "Yoga is a very accessible practice and I believe it can help students tap into their true potential." John Chun, a student veteran, said, "The yoga class was a great stress reliever for me. It helped me relax my mind and body. Veterans who are seeking to reduce their stress levels should definitely attend the yoga classes."

Veterans or anyone interested are best served through yoga classes that are designed to meet their particular needs, whether it be managing post-traumatic stress or some form of injury. A key point that should be mentioned about a yoga practice is that the practitioner decides what they can and can’t do. An instructor will not push you outside of your capabilities but rather invite you to challenge yourself and what you believe you’re capable of. The veteran classes that the Prajjali Project teaches are taught exclusively by Warriors at Ease-certified yoga teachers.

That was the case with Carolyn Fosko, who is a long-time New Jersey native and passionate yoga instructor. Fosko has been teaching yoga for over seven years. I had the pleasure of attending a class she taught for veterans earlier this month along with some of my veteran peers. The classes are very inviting, warm and judgment-free. Fosko focuses on the breath as you move in and out of various poses. She aims to provide the best setting for her students and wants to fill the practice with things they may enjoy.

You Can’t Always Get What You Want

Question of the Week

What majors or special programs would you like to see added to Montclair?

Chris Rivera
Sophomore History

"I wish that law in general was an actual major. It’s not for everyone as well, they have exercise sciences, but they don’t have different types. They don’t have many different types of sciences as majors, including nursing. Even though we have a biology program, it’s not something. There’s no nursing program that kids can come in and out of the school [with certification]."

Jasmine Hoffman
Sophomore Business Administration

"I would like to see the business major expand its concentrations. I would like to see ones which are more entered toward producing and large-scale event planning, things like that. I would also like to see a more specifically for disabilities majors as well as focusing on things like American Sign Language and reading.

Steve Mwafaga
Graduate Student Business Management

"I think that the programs at Montclair are already good as is. I don’t think anything should be added or can be added as far as my major is concerned. For my major, there’s nothing. My parents at this time, everything has been addressed."

Marialaura Rey
Freshman Justice and Criminal Justice

"Some majors that I would add to Montclair State are [fill the medical field because I thought that when I came to Montclair I would have to get the medical students who call their department.]

Verónica Romero
Sophomore Communication and Media Arts

"There’s only a creative writing minor, and I wish there was a major because a lot of people go into editing. One of the things that I wanted to do was writing, but I didn’t want to major in English."

Bikki Mitra

"I think Montclair should have a separate physical therapy program because there’s a lot of kids here majoring in exercise science and athletic training, but a lot of people want to do PT. Often times, you have to go to another school for another couple years to get the certification. Since Montclair’s such a big school in Jersey, it would be really beneficial to bring in more students with a PT program."

Montclair State University: "It’s All Here," appraiser: May it look like you want the school for business and teaching, then MSU is the school for you. But could the phrase "It’s All Here" be considered false advertising? Over the years, we have the built the same reputation of being a commuter school, an uninvolved community, a school for future social workers and teachers. Not to dismiss those majors as unimportant; they are, but Montclair State University could establish more of a presence for itself in other departments.

After conducting some research online about MSU, we stumbled across a site called StudentReview.com. The first thing that caught our eye was the pie chart of a percentage of students who would choose to return to MSU and who would Fifty-four percent of people and they wouldn’t while only 46 percent said they would. They’re not terrible odds, but they are still odds stacked up against the school. After reading many of the comments, there were a lot of negative comments about the school and the administration. Even many of the advice and neutral comments stem on the negative side. Of course, some complaints about social life could be discarded, but a lot of people are not satisfied with the quality of education and service they receive here from both commuter and residential students alike. Commuters get turned off by the horrible parking conditions and conditions are completely turned off by the lack of life on the campus over the weekends.

If this is MSU’s way of attracting more residents, it’s clearly not working. In light of all that reading over the positive comments we came across something very interesting. A lot of the positive comments came from political science, biology and mainly jurisprudence majors, three majors that are not nearly publicized enough here. With the last gubernatorial debate having taken place on this campus, you would have thought the school would have milked the idea of advertising its political science and jurisprudence majors that have left comments on the site, showcasing the department with compliments.

Then there is the fashion studies major that is growing in popularity. Yet, it only has a small section of Life Hall to call their department. Along with the complaints about how small some departments are, there are also complaints about the lack of majors that are in popular demand. Montclair State University had recently announced their partnership with Seton Hall for Biology, an addition to our vast list of majors. Engineering must be lacking some high esteem as a good university especially within the state and maybe that is the reason people are constantly asking about certain majors being added to the curriculum. As a staff, we may write complaints about the school constantly and it might not all be here at MSU. It is fair to say that the school does have some appeal and some particularly strong depart- ments. If we had to pick the school slogan, it would probably be put best in the words of The Rolling Stones: You can’t always get what you want, but if you try sometimes you find what you need.

<td>It's not a surprise that Pharell's album is ingeniously a masterpiece. The production, the lyrics, the features and the music all work together to make this album great. It is surprising to me though, that people are just really finding out about him because he's been making music of this caliber for 20+ years. - Ebony Jackson</td>

There are a few of the major and minor awards that Queen Bey has come to claim in a 17-year career as the industry’s topÆ artist. What makes Knowles-Carter an “A-List” exec is the fact that she has been able to put forth work every year in a different form, whether it be music, Pepsi commercials, fragrances, clothing, movies and music videos with jumbles of letters and phrases that slightly resemble English. But what’s summer without a playlist? Let’s take a look at what certain genres say about you.

Punk/Hardcore
You’re internally stuck in your sophomore year of high school. It was an exciting and skip summer school to go to Warped Tour with your friends and compare gauges and band tees with names that you didn’t even recognize. “Panic! At the Disco” is their favorite form, whether it would be music, Pepsi commercials, fragrances, clothing, movies and music videos with jumbles of letters and phrases that slightly resemble English. But what’s summer without a playlist? Let’s take a look at what certain genres say about you.

Pop
You’re really original. Your idea of a great weekend is going down to Beaches with your pals and drinking a quarter-bottle of Pinnacle Whipped with your friends and compare gauges and band tees with names that you didn’t even recognize. “Panic! At the Disco” is their favorite form, whether it would be music, Pepsi commercials, fragrances, clothing, movies and music videos with jumbles of letters and phrases that slightly resemble English. But what’s summer without a playlist? Let’s take a look at what certain genres say about you.

Indie
They ride around in their Volvo station wagons and decommissioned cop cars to the newest Grizzly Bear or Neon Indian. There’s nothing better than listening to this new 10-piece band that they’ve been hyped about. Grizzly Bear.

EDM
Summertime Sadness is finally relevant again, but let’s take a look in the future! For some reason, women who listen to and attend EDM festivals are in some sort of unspoken competition to wear the least amount of clothes. Don’t point to the ladies who have more spilling out of their neon tutus than their own, because it’s a malfunctioning soft serve machine. Don’t bother asking them to remember anything besides the letter “E.”

Country
You live in the suburbs and have three pairs of cowboy boots. You cheer for the Las Vegas Raiders and wear jorts and cowboy boots. You cheer for the Dolphins and wear band tees with names that you didn’t even recognize. “Panic! At the Disco” is their favorite form, whether it would be music, Pepsi commercials, fragrances, clothing, movies and music videos with jumbles of letters and phrases that slightly resemble English. But what’s summer without a playlist? Let’s take a look at what certain genres say about you.

Celebrity Grading: A-List or Nahh?

Every day, we are exposed to what the media calls “A-List” celebrities. We see what they do, how they work and, most importantly, what they wear. We are highly influenced by their lives and some even mimic their lives after those “A-Listers.” But what qualifies a person who lives their life in the spotlight to be an “A-list” celebrity? Is it the money? The amount of projects they put out to the world? Is it the countless amount of times they can keep themselves in the spotlight and keep us talking? Well, you are all about to find out. Our first victim is a musician, entertainer, philanthropist, self-made millionaire and the Queen of Pop and R&B. Beyoncé Giselle Knowles-Carter. If you are not familiar with her work, you really have been living under a rock all your life, especially this past year. Here are just a few of her lengthy stats:

- Emmys: 1
- ASCAP: 2
- NAACP Image: 2
- World Music Awards: 3
- American Music Awards: 4
- #1 Albums: 5
- MTV European Music: 5
- Net Worth: $400 Million

BET Awards: 6
Teen Choice Awards: 7
#1 Fragrances: 7
Movies: 7
Billboard Music: 8
#1 singles: 9
Grammys: 17

Knowles-Carter has proven herself to be a force in whatever she does. She has influenced music and has hypnotized us all into knowing that she is the Queen. Even after adding “Mother” to her list, she has shown us that she will not stop and that she can juggle it all.

On Dec. 13, Knowles-Carter secretly released her self-titled fifth studio album. Completely blinding the world, within the first four days, she sold over a million copies digitally, and for the first two weeks, the album was only available on iTunes. With this last album, Knowles-Carter pushed the boundaries when it came to what the world thought about women and what women believed that they could do. There is no doubt in my mind as well as the mind of every other person in the world that Knowles-Carter is definitely an “A-List” celebrity.

The media has recently criticized Dan “Hendo” Henderson due to his use of TRT (Testosterone Replacement Therapy) but last Sunday, everyone was talking about the man to have defeated Shogun (30-11, 7-5 UFC) is the only man to have defeated Shogun twice.

In the first round, Rua (22-9, 6-7 UFC) hid his power strikes, keeping Henderson on his heels with jabs and hineappy legs kicks and nearly had the Pride FC titleholder finished before the bell.

In the second, “Shogun” worked the MMA legend again with a right uppercut, but again failed to finish. Finally, in the third, “Hendo” found his mark after a grunting right hand landed square on Rua’s face, breaking his nose.

The blow sent “Sho-gun” reeling backwards and finally, in the third, “Hendo” found his mark after a grazing rights and nearly had his heels with jabs and thun-derous leg kicks and nearly had the Pride FC titleholder finished before the bell.

To this day, Henderson (30-11, 5-7 UFC) is the only man to have defeated Shogun twice.

In the main event, C.B. Dollaway (14-5, 6-5 UFC) put a beating on The Ultimate Fighter: Brazil 3 Season One winner Cezar “Munata” Fer-reira, upsetting the Brazilian with superior conditioning and striking to keep the Irishman on the floor. Seventy percent of all of strikes, sap-ping the energy out of his body. By the end of the night, everyone was singing the praises of the former Strikeforce welterweight champion.

After back-to-back wins over the Red Dragons, the Red Hawks may be turning their season around.

Luis Maldonado beat former Ring Champion and current UFC fighter Fabio Maldonado, ending his nine-fight win streak.

This cost Parke a vic-tory in the second round, as Santos (12-3-1, 1-0-1 UFC) used effective counter-striking to keep the Irishman away in the first round, but Parke (19-5-1, 3-1-1 UFC) used his strong clinch game to neutralize his opponent. Unfortunately, during a take-down attempt, he was penal-ized one point for grabbing Santos’ shorts attempting a take-down.

This cost Parke a vic-tory and added his one-fight win streak.

In a light heavyweight matchup, Brazilian Fabio Maldonado beat former Ring Champion Gian Villante in impressive fashion with superior conditioning and sharp boxing. All three judges gave Maldonado the win: 29-27, 27-29, 27-29.

Villante (11-5, 1-2 UFC) opened up the first round incredibly strong. He used his impressive ground game to control Maldonado (21-4, 4-3 UFC) and forced him to fight from his back. Although the pitching didn’t do much, the offense con-tributed as well, as freshman out-fielder/catcher Ryan Long scored an error with two outs in the bottom of the first.

The Red Hawks got another run in the bottom of the third, when junior pitcher Christopher Reynolds hit an infield single to third to tie the game at two apiece.

Montclair State then took the lead in the fourth in ning. Senior catcher Jason Stolz hit another RBI single to third base with runners on the corners to give the Montclair State a 3-2 lead.

The Red Hawks then added another run in the bot-tom of the sixth when senior infielder Louis Maldonado batted in a run with a bunt.

After only winning two of six on their trip to Port Charlotte, Fla., the Montclair State baseball team returned to New Jersey with hopes of returning to their winning ways. They hoped to do so in two weekend games in Union against Oneonta State on Saturday, March 22 and Sunday, March 23.

In the first game of the weekend set, the Red Hawks’ offense came alive in a big way thanks to seven runs in the second inning.

Some of those runs in cluded a two-run home run by junior catcher Anderson Ross and three runs driven in by junior first baseman Christopher Reynolds.

The Red Hawks also got a solid pitching perfor-mance from junior lefthander Jonathan Tavarese, striking out eight batters over six innings, while only allowing one run.

Both efforts offensive-ly and defensively worked, as Montclair State took the first game of the weekend set 10-1, ending a three-game losing streak.

In the second game, Oneonta took control early on, as they had a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning.

However, those two runs would be the only runs scored, as Montclair State’s pitching took control of the rest of the game. Senior lefthander Dylan Papi did his part, strik- ing out seven batters and did not allow a walk through five innings.

Afterwards, sopho-more lefthander Michael Mucha pitched three scoreless innings, striking out five batters.

Red Hawk Round Up

Softball
The Red Hawks continue to prove why they are one of the top teams in the country thanks to contributions from the entire team. In their first six games of a 10-game homestand, the Red Hawks have outscored their opponents 28-2 and have improved their record to 13-1. Most notably, senior pitcher Alex Hill has been lights out, averaging 10 strikeouts per game.

Womens Lacrosse
Over the last few days, the womens lacrosse team has shown few signs of slowing down. With an 8-0 record, the Red Hawks have won all but two games by at least seven goals. Leading the team is junior attacker Tierney Conlon with an outstanding 30 goals and 25 assists. In goal, freshman Alexander Tepper refuses to let her older opponents take advantage of her with 64 saves.

Baseball
After three straight losses, the Red Hawks shed some light on their season with two wins against SUNY Oneonta. The Red Hawks won the first two games of their three-game set against then Red Dragons 10-1 and 4-2, respectively, bringing their record to 5-6. Their next game will be against Moravian College on Thursday, March 27 at 3:30 p.m.

Mens Lacrosse
Despite losing their first game of the season last week, the Red Hawks are holding their heads high, bouncing back with a 19-9 victory over Curry College. Sophomore attacker Brett Mangan blew away the opposing defense with five goals and two assists. Mangan currently leads the team with 24 goals and 31 points.

Nick Verhagen
Sports Editor
The Montclair State softball team returned to their home on top of the mountain on March 15, hosting Centenary in a doubleheader.

The first game saw senior pitcher Alex Hill deliver one of her best performances of her illustrious college career, recording her unassisted third perfect game as a Red Hawk. In the seven innings, Hill struck out 22 batters. Throughout the game, Hill allowed only one ball in play, a line drive that was quickly caught by shortstop Jaclyn Allegrutta. The other two outs came from foul outs.

Hill recorded the 10th perfect game in MSU history while being backed up on the hitting end by junior infielder Melissa Blumenthal, who drove in three RBIs with a double and a single. The Red Hawks went on to defeat the Centenary Cyclones with a score of 4-0.

Blumenthal’s great hitting carried on to the second game, as she hit two home runs and a double and added another two RBIs to her impressive hitting against Centenary. Senior third baseman Dana Amato also had a home run of her own, driving in two RBIs. By the end of the third inning, the Red Hawks had out-scored the Cyclones with 12 unanswered runs with senior pitcher Allison Cullen on the mound. As a result of this showdown, Cullen earned a 13-0 win in the second game. Cullen received the win and Hill chucked up another save.

The single game came from Amato’s solo home run in the third inning. Though the Hawks had the Red Hawks on the ropes in the fifth inning by loading up the bases, Hill came in and made short work of the next batter and went on to get the save. The Red Hawks look to host the Farmingdale Rams on March 27 and then will begin NJAC play on Saturday, March 29 hosting the Stockton Ospreys.

Lacrosse Continues Hot Streak

Mike Panepinto

The MSU women’s lacrosse team is still sizzling hot, as their season begins to progress. Montclair State is 8-0 overall while they start to get ready for the second half of their regular season schedule.

The Red Hawks have tied a record with the 2004 squad for Most Goals in an Individual Game. The record belongs to Rin Goldschmidt, who netted 11 goals in one contest back in 2004.

Schevchenko netted five goals along the way. Freshman midfielder Francesca Verrone and sophomore midfielder Kasey Maguire turned in solid efforts, scoring three and two goals each. The Red Hawks led in Draw Controls (DC) by a margin of 12 (22-10).

Senior midfielder Krista Henderson was selected as the NJAC (New Jersey Athletic Conference) Women’s Lacrosse Defensive Player of the Week. Henderson helped anchor the defense in MSU’s past two victories with eight ground balls and three caused turnovers. Montclair State is ranked third in the league in goal against average (6.86).

The Red Hawks have one more game this week on Saturday, March 27 at 11 a.m. against Fairleigh Dickinson in Madison. We celebrate the win that day and we start preparing for the next game the next morning,” said head coach Paretullini about their impressive winning streak.
