N.J. Bill Offers Paid Sick Days
Catherine Baxter Staff Writer

Drawing near, students are reminded to stay up to date on the issues that surround them and bills that will be on the ballot this Election Day. This year, one big issue that is up for voting will be responsible for offering workers in Montclair paid sick days.

“The ballot initiative up for a vote applies to private businesses in Montclair township,” said Rob Defoer, Policy and Communications Director for New Jersey Working Families. “Six cities have already passed similar laws and the whole campaign is meant to build momentum for a statewide bill that covers one million New Jerseyans who don’t have paid sick days.”

Over 50 percent of voters have to approve the ballot initiative in order for it to be approved.

With Election Day fast approaching, the Office of Government Relations is partnering with the Student Government Association, Residential Education and Center for Student Involvement to push for voter registration among the university community. This goal, in the words of Shurnim Gaines, director of the Office of Government Relations, is to make the student body “aware of their civic responsibility of voting.”

“I report directly to President Colón on any policy or political matters that would have an impact on the university,” noted Gaines on the role of the Office of Government Relations. “We try to keep the campus university educated on current government officials and government policies, both on campus and state and federal levels.”

This year’s election is a midterm election for federal officials. Thirty-six seats are scheduled to be decided on Election Day this year, as the votes will determine whether or not our current senators and congressional members are reelected. Brayden Murdock, the director of Service Learning and Community Engagement and assistant, said to have fled the scene by running up the staircase and proceeded towards Blanton Hall. Following suit, witnesses were able to describe the assailant as an “Afric-an-American male S’M” in black sneakers” according to a UPD report sent to the campus community. The assailant was later identified as a male, non-resident student who find themselves victims to sexual assault and abuse.

According to a UPD report sent to the campus community at approximately 11:30 p.m. on Saturday, the University Police Department “received a report that a male, non-resident student was assaulted.”

The victim was walking up the stairway leading to Dinello Heights at the time of the incident. Upon being punched in the face by the assailant, the victim fell to the ground. Immediately after the assault, the assailant was said to have fled the scene by running up the staircase and proceeded towards Blanton Hall.

Global Business School

An Innovative Global Program that Will Prepare You for the World of International Business.

Kean University’s College of Business and Public Management is entering into a new and exciting phase of development with the creation of its Global Business School. Located in a new, state-of-the-art facility, this program will prepare students for careers in the new global economy and will emphasize a curriculum focused on:

INNOVATION – CREATIVITY – ENTREPRENEURSHIP

Qualified students will have the chance to engage in a global business practicum, leadership activities, networking and internships, plus interact with world-class faculty.

The global business program will:

- Prepare you for a career in international business
- Provide you with a global perspective and cultural interaction
- Develop your leadership skills in the global arena
- Enable you to assimilate and assess information from around the world

Vital elements of this new Global Business School include:

- Internship opportunities with international companies
- Easy access to the global business community in Manhattan
- Study at Kean’s campus in Wenzhou, China
- Faculty with global business experience
- New curriculum that prepares students for the global workforce
- Small classes
- Executive Fellows Program

According to Dooly, over 40 percent of Montclair workers don’t have a single sick day. Many of these workers make low wages and they are generally less likely to have access to a variety of paid sick days. This is a significant concern for the city. The city has seen an increase in these numbers.

According to the statement by New Jersey Working Families, “over 100,000 New Jersey workers have no coverage under local paid sick leave laws and success in Montclair and Trenton would create an estimated 28,200* workers.”

Bill to Grant Paid Sick Days

The school has a large population of students who are working part-time or full-time while attending school. Most of these students work at businesses that do not offer sick pay. The Montclair school district is one of the few districts in the state that offers paid sick leave to its employees. The district is looking to expand this program to all employees.

Electons and Alliance

This election, voters in New Jersey are faced with many questions. Voters are being asked to vote on a variety of issues. These questions include, but are not limited to, the following:

1. Do you support the paid sick leave program in New Jersey?
2. Do you support the increase in taxes to fund the paid sick leave program?
3. Do you support the expansion of the paid sick leave program to all employees?

Clothesline Offers Hope

by Claire Fishman | The Montclarion

The Montclarion offers an easy way for students to speak out against violence.

The Clothesline Project is a nationwide awareness campaign based off a suggestion made by the Coordinator of the Women and Gender Studies Department to make an event to Montclair State University.

This year, the Women and Gender Studies Department added a new initiative called the Montclair State Clothesline Project. The project is a part of a larger national movement called the Clothesline Project, which was started in 1984 by two professors at Berea College who wanted to raise awareness about the issue of sexual assault.

The goal of the Clothesline Project is to raise awareness about sexual assault and abuse to the Essex County community, says Karen Marinco, a representative of the organization and that greater community includes the Montclair State University campus.

During this week, RAVES is teaming up with the LGBTQ Center, the Women's Center, CAPS, Campus Recreation and the University Health Center, Health Promotion and the Women and Gender Studies Department to make a statement at Montclair State about speaking out against violence through a campaign called the Clothesline Project.

The Clothesline Project started in 1990 in Cape Cod, Mass., where a group of women wanted to make a bold statement on how sexual assault affects women. In order to tell their individual stories, the women each created a T-shirt representing the violence or abuse they had experienced about abuse and hung it on a clothesline. The project then transformed into a place where women can openly communicate.

But the Clothesline Project had agreed to about 500 individual sites and has already met that goal.

By 2014, the Clothesline Project will have 1,500 individual sites and has already met that goal.

Students are required to sign up online to get a shirt and commit to displaying it in a public space. The project focuses on raising awareness about the issue of sexual assault and abuse.

"It's ridiculous to think that students who take classes together and are to connect them together," said the Provost Office, offering workshops for advising and encouraging faculty to attend where they are given advice and taught how to best advise students.

"You're not alone," said Marinco. "We want to bring voice to SAVE's overall message and to contribute their own stories, the women each created a T-shirt representing the violence or abuse they had experienced about abuse and hung it on a clothesline. The project then transformed into a place where women can openly communicate.

Look No Further for Halloween Costumes!

Jessica Mahmoud
Staff Writer

Halloween is next weekend! If you’re like most college students, you probably don’t have $40 to spend on a costume; however, you realize Halloween only comes once a year and you want to have an awesome, original costume without the price tag attached. Don’t worry! Here are some DIY costumes to help you out.

Mary Poppins
Lauren Conrad is known for her unique Halloween costumes. To get the look of Mary Poppins, tuck a bottom-down shirt into a black skater skirt. Add tights, basic black heels and a red bowtie. To finish the look, wear a fedora with a flower attached and don’t forget to carry an umbrella!

Britney Spears
Channel your inner Britney Spears! To get her classic “…Baby One More Time” look, just find a school uniform. If you don’t own one, someone you know probably does. If both of those options aren’t available, check out a nearby thrift store. The skirt doesn’t have to be plaid, but a plaid one will fit the look of a schoolgirl. If your hair is long, definitely copy her braids and pink accessories. You’ll stand out among other celebrity costumes like Miley Cyrus or Lady Gaga.

Waldo
If you’re a guy reading this, I suggest dressing as Waldo from the Where’s Waldo? books. It’s a unique idea and super easy to do. Just pick up a red-and-white striped long sleeve shirt and a red-and-white beanie. Pair it with jeans and black shoes. For the glasses, opt for those nerd glasses or 3D glasses with the lenses popped out.

Scrabble Letters
Although group costumes may seem hard to coordinate, this one isn’t too bad. Simply grab a few cardboard boxes, some Sharpies and pick a word made up of the same amount of letters as group members. To take it a step further, dress up like the word you choose. Dressing up like zombies, like in this photo from popsugar.com, is easy since the costume is not planned. The makeup is the important part. Other ideas for words and costumes could be clowns, babies, nerds and mimes. Please do this if you plan on sticking together; otherwise, you’re just a letter!

Peter Pan and Wendy
If you and your significant other or best friend is looking to coordinate costumes together, try Peter Pan and Wendy. For Peter, just wear a greenish green shirt’s brim into a zig-zag pattern. Don’t forget his signature feather hat! As for Wendy, any white flowing dress works perfect. If you have long hair, wear it in a ponytail of pigtails. For shoes, Peter should wear brown shoes and Wendy should go for simple flats or ballet-style slippers.

Cracked Porcelain Doll
At Halloween, makeup can really create the look. This is definitely the case with the look of a cracked porcelain doll. Check out how pineneedlescollective.com used makeup to create this outfit. It’s cool to dress up as a doll, but a cracked doll takes it a whole step further and adds in the scary for Halloween. Simply put on a dress or a doll-like outfit and then look up a YouTube tutorial for the makeup.

Halloween only comes once a year, so I suggest making the most of it and picking an original costume. Don’t get the urge to buy a bagged costume from the store, especially since someone is bound to have the same one. There are plenty of easy do-it-yourself ones that can be found right in your closet. Happy Halloween!

MSU has a lot of great fashion! Shirt: Forever 21. Tights: Urban Outfitters. Jacket: Gap. Shoes: Converse. Homecoming week plans? “No, I’m not into being here when I don’t have to be.”
What are some good and bad fall dates?

HE SAID

Some of the best date ideas for the fall include, but are not limited to pumpkin picking, apple picking, and hayrides. All of these activities show engagement and commitment to the season as well as your significant other. Your partner will always appreciate an opportunity to be taken out and shown a fun time among other happy couples/groups. It’s an exciting time for everyone involved and while most guys aren’t exactly interested in picking vegetables or fruits out, the thought of eating them sounds very appealing.

Hayrides are also a great way to sit and talk to your partner while experiencing a changing environment. It’s the fall equivalent of taking long walks on the beach. All of these date ideas cumulatively or individually will create a nice string of dates and will help you grow closer in these fall months with your significant other.

Some guys expressed that they aren’t into that scene and would much rather stay inside and not do anything except watch horror movies. A couple of guys even recommended that you take your significant other out to some Halloween party or other event that may be occurring in the coming week. That being said, there are also bad date ideas. These are the ones that may negatively impact your relationship with your significant other, even if the date idea may have seemed good at first. A classic example would be haunted houses, which can cause your partner to have nightmares and anxiety if they aren’t into being scared. Black Friday shopping is another big no-no, as it can cause undue stress to your partner. You can actually get them killed by being out against overly aggressive shoppers and the mobs that storm the stores.

Overall, it becomes apparent that just putting time and effort into an activity will make a good date. While you also have to show interest in the activity, the simple act of planning a date will go a long way to making the date a good one. It will also have a greater impact on you and your partner’s relationship as a whole.

SHE SAID

A general consensus of those interviewed felt that the crisp weather was perfect for outdoor activities. The obvious choices thrown out there by people were pumpkin picking and walks in the cool weather with a warm beverage. The agreement ended there, however, as the group split, some of the girls explained that fall at night was too cold for some activities and just in general would be more comfortable during the day. Another girl explained that if she was asked to go on a hayride, she would choose to do something else. She explained that it was just going out in general, it’s perfect mix for a date.

Others said that the adrenaline activities called to them, citing scary movies along with haunted hayrides and haunted houses as their fall dates of choice. Some girls explained their excitement for haunted houses as a date came from the fact that the danger isn’t real but the reactions, including the screams, are. More than one girl expressed their love for scary movies during the season. The season is perfect for the scary movies and someone to cuddle with. Some of the girls were excited for the amusement parks that offer both the thrill-packed rides along with a scary experience; the fear and adrenaline are a perfect mix for a date.

Few girls had a bad experience on a fall date, although some girls explained that some dates are just not good ideas. Some of the girls explained that Mischief Night activities or just going out in general, she explained that it was more the former but that it applied to both. The beach was listed by multiple girls because, even if you went to the boardwalk, it could get really cold really quickly. Almost all the girls jumped to clarify, however, that any date that makes them uncomfortable was a bad date. Most of the girls felt that if a guy double checked with them and listened to their input, even a date to the beach could turn into a success.
Fall is a great time to give thanks to the yummy fruits in season this time of year, such as pumpkins and apples. With so many different recipes out there, it can be easy to get lost in a sea of flour and sugar and forget to look for healthy options. However, the good news is that you can still enjoy all of your favorite fall treats as long as you use some of these tips to turn up the nutrition and turn down the processed ingredients.

Healthy Baking Tips
Kimberly Auman
Staff Writer

Go for whole wheat
In anything that uses all-purpose flour, try switching it to 100 percent whole wheat flour instead. Whole grains are a good source of iron, magnesium, selenium, B vitamins and dietary fiber. Whole wheat flour can sometimes be a bit denser than regular white, so keep that in mind for your recipe. If you are making a cake that you want to be fluffy and light, try half all regular white and half whole wheat; that way you will get some added nutrients without messing up the texture and density.

Skip the oil
Some cake or muffin recipes call for lots of added oil. Although some oil, such as extra-virgin olive oil, contains some good-for-you unsaturated fats, too much of it in an already high-calorie recipe may be unnecessary. An easy swap for this is mashed bananas. Bananas are a great way to get in some potassium. Using them for recipes can be an easy way to use up over-ripe bananas you wanted to get rid of anyway. Another option is unsweetened applesauce; this low calorie substitute will act the same in terms of texture without altering the taste. Look for one with as few ingredients as possible.

Choose your milk carefully
Many recipes call for milk but might not specify what kind. Generally, any type of milk (soy, almond, cow’s, etc.) will work exactly the same. If using regular cow’s milk, go for one percent low fat or fat free skim instead of whole milk. This will save you some saturated fat without affecting the protein and calcium. Other options include plain or vanilla soymilk, which tends to be fortified with calcium and riboflavin and have a good amount of protein. If you are looking for a substitute with fewer calories, go for almond milk; it does not have as much protein, but it will save you calories.

Sneak in some omega-3s
Omega-3 fatty acids are essential for brain and cell function and may help lower your risk for heart disease. An easy and unnoticeable way to get some of this nutrient in baked goods is to add ground flax seeds and chia seeds. Neither seed will affect the taste of your recipe, yet they will add some nutrition. Be sure to grind the flax seeds for the best absorption in your body.

Smells Like School Spirit

Question of the Week
What do you think could increase school spirit among students and why?

Jack Huang
Freshman

I think a week dedicated just to school spirit would make a big impact. I understand that there is a Homecoming week, but I still think more can be done. Maybe the Student Government Association can do more each day or hang more banners up or even have adjacent in the school store. I think these things can be helpful to increase school spirit.

“I feel like there are lots of activities that people really want to get involved in but can’t because of time scheduling like the Women’s Self-Defense Class. I would love to go, but it is on Wednesday in the evening and I don’t have it in my schedule to be able to go. There is also a Bujitsu class on Wednesdays and I have class then, so I will never be able to attend.”

Jennifer Ramirez

Freshman

“I think that if we had more homecoming events it would definitely help, especially since the weather is getting colder and people don’t want to be out as much.”

Keli Fisco

Junior

“I think that if the bookstore on the school apparel would give prices in the lower range to students with a schedule to be able to go. There is also a Bujitsu class on Wednesdays and I have class then, so I will never be able to attend.”

Vito Pelliccia
Undeclared
Freshman

“I think that lowering the prices of the book jacket on the school apparel would increase school spirit because people are going to buy more apparel. Also, [events should be promoted] by spreading the word around campus, not just through emails, but actually around campus, like in the commuter lounge in the Student Center or outside.”

Sahar Fathi
Undeclared
Freshman

“To increase school spirit, I would have more people involved in between our classes and not just after our classes are finished; that way, it’s always in our mind.”

I

If you went to any of the final Homecoming events this year, you know that Montclair State University finished off the week of Homecoming activities like no other year in recent history. Not only was the Amphitheater packed to the last row during the Homecoming Showcase, but the football game versus The College of New Jersey saw over 6,000 attendees, with fans sitting shoulder-to-shoulder on the bleachers and packed up against the fence. In attendance alone, Homecoming enjoyed a great success and Red Hawks across campus took school spirit to new heights.

Although there have always been individuals who live and breathe Red Hawk Pride, many students and faculty feel that Montclair State University’s spirit has already reached a new plateau. Some changes have occurred over the past year in order to boost school spirit, including the College Hall bell system that plays the school’s Alma Mater and fight song. Campus Recreation’s “Hawk Pride” marchandisie and, as usual, S.L.A.M.’s year-long Homecoming programming, including a recently instated bonfire pep rally the night before the Homecoming football game.

Although this is the second annual Homecoming bonfire, the event attracted and maintained a much bigger crowd than the previous year, with performances by the cheerleading team and MSU pride chants led by the football team at this event. Students negotiated regarding the graduation date in celebration of Montclair State University. At all of these events, Montclair State seemed much more spirited than ever before, luring students questioning why Homecoming has never been as well-attended and celebrated as it was this year.

The turnout and enthusiasm at the 2014 Homecoming week has proven that we Red Hawks do have pride and interest in attending sporting events and pep rallies where we can display our red and white, win or lose. We are capable of displaying our school spirit and sticking around to the Homecoming game. Not only would an increase in pep rallies offer a consistent outlet for students to show off their school spirit and make displaying Red Hawk Pride a more regular occurrence, but it would also raise public awareness about sporting events and hopefully attract crowds comparable to the Homecoming game for every sport. All of our sports teams work hard to sharpen their skills and do their best and they deserve the support and enthusiasm of our Homecoming spirit every week.

We cannot express enough how much we appreciate the events that Montclair State provides for us, both during Homecoming week and during the rest of the school year. If, however, we could find a way to provide students with a schedule of events solely focused on boosting school spirit, we believe that Red Hawks would more easily spread their wings and show off their vibrant enthusiasm for Montclair State University.

It’s that time of year again. The leaves are changing, the sweaters and scarves are appearing and the smell of Starbucks Pumpkin Spice Lattes are in the air. It could only be fall. Even though the weather is unreasonably warm right now, I just can’t help but get into the autumn spirit. The best way to do that is to light some apple-scented candles (not in your dorm rooms, of course) and put on a burnt orange cable-knit sweater and listen to the perfect music to get you in the mood for fall. Here are my recommendations for the perfect fall playlist:

- The first song to listen to as you set out candy canes is “Fire” by Cherub. This song sounds like a pop version of a Foster the People song. Cherub is the duo of Jordan Kelley and Jason Huber, who became popular on YouTube with this song. This song is one of those cool songs that have a clear story being told through its lyrics. It describes that unforgettable time you write a dance where everyone is just standing around. Despite its themes of awkwardness, this song is very upbeat and fun. It’s filled with handclaps and foot stomps in addition to different instruments. Give it a listen when you wake up in the morning.

- “Wild Motion (Set it Free)” by Miami Horror is a brother-sister duo from Sweden. Their music is electronica with beautiful, calm lyrics behind it. The band has become very popular and even played at the most recent Coachella festival.

- “Doses and Mimosa” by South Jersey is great at making you happy. This band from New Jersey is the Elephant. It is easy to get into this song with its lyrics including “I am the shadow on the moon at night, filling your dreams with the brain with fright, this is Hallowe’en.” Plus, if you’re not in the mood to listen to the original version, you could listen to house producer, Sabzi called “Decemberism.” This song is great about this song is that it’s perfect all year round, especially in the month of October. It is almost impossible to not feel festive when listening to a song with lyrics including “I am the shadow on the moon at night, filling your dreams with the brain with fright, this is Hallowe’en.” This song is the first of seven songs on their EP. It has a classical tone to it, making it very calming. It’s great to listen to when you’re stressed and perfect to have on your playlist during this stressful time of midterms.

- “Heart” by Mark Foster, played during the Super Bowl. This song, “Fire,” displays her soft and beautiful voice, similar to a less bluesy Adele.

- “Message from the Heart” played during the Super Bowl. This song, “Fire,” displays her soft and beautiful voice, similar to a less bluesy Adele.

- “Fires” by Kina Grannis is an indie artist that became popular on the Internet. In addition to gaining a large YouTube audience, she ended up winning Dur- dur’s Contest, which was sponsored by YouTube. The band has become very popular and even played at the most recent Coachella festival.

- “Autumn Leaves” by Ed Sheeran. For a more solemn track, there’s “Autumn Leaves” by Ed Sheeran. While this song is about the loss of a loved one, the acoustic guitar and Sheer- an’s beautiful voice will keep you warm on the inside while walking in the brisk wind.

- “Shake, Shake, Shake” by Bronze Radio Return. This is the first of seven songs on their EP. It has a classical tone to it, making it very calming. It’s great to listen to when you’re stressed and perfect to have on your playlist during this stressful time of midterms.

- “Skylark Interbang?!” by Made in Heights. Made in Heights is a duo consisting of Sabaiz and Kelsey Bulkin. Sabaiz is the producer and also part of a hip-hop duo called Blue Sobhla. This is one of seven songs on their EP. It has a classical tone to it, making it very calming. It’s great to listen to when you’re stressed and perfect to have on your playlist during this stressful time of midterms.

- “It’s That Time of Year” by Made in Heights. Made in Heights is a duo consisting of Sabaiz and Kelsey Bulkin. Sabaiz is the producer and also part of a hip-hop duo called Blue Sobhla. This is one of seven songs on their EP. It has a classical tone to it, making it very calming. Sons of Anarchy: Episode 7

Joe Low Staff Writer

Halfway through its final season, Sons of Anarchy is finally beginning to feel like the end of the run. The pacing was a little slow in this episode, but it certainly doesn’t fail within the wielder episodes that have been shown this season. However, it also falls into the same problem I’ve been having with each episode so far this season.

The previous episode ended on a very tense note, as it teemlessly built until the end. However, as soon as this episode started, all the qualities of the last episode fall to waste. Juice’s story arc was put on the back burner to further explore the deterioration of Gemma. It’s clear that since Juice is now in the hands of the SOA, Gemma is now a ticking time bomb of guilt and nerves that may result in more accidental bloodshed. This episode also ended with an otherworldly feel that is going to be very important in the future. These episodes have almost reached their lengths. I don’t think these episodes need to be longer than their normal hour-long length. With this comes the greater risk of losing the audience. With so many of these episodes have been so effective in the past season, however, it can understand why FX chooses to push the most of the show at this point.

“Gwenlovesex” was a good addition to the season; not great, not awful, but simply a good addition. This season hasn’t really been about the characters; not great, not awful, but simply a good addition. This season hasn’t really been about the characters, the story, or the pacing. It has been shown this season.

However, despite all of that, the show is still going strong with the exception of its major arc that I mentioned earlier. The mire of this season is slowly falling apart. There are too many effective scenes in Anabelle and the movie, but unlike some of the other horror films in the franchise, this film relies on cheap jump scares that have made the earlier films lose their dread and mystique to earn their place in the third act of the movie. The filmmakers could have done anything with the movie, but instead, they chose to focus on the creepy doll Annabelle, which was put on display in the market. The film relied on the slow burn of the 1970s, a time where there were no horror films. This film was a fun and scary addition to the franchise.

In these episodes, it’s become clear that the story is off the rails. The pacing was a little slow in this episode, but it certainly doesn’t fail within the wielder episodes that have been shown this season. However, it also falls into the same problem I’ve been having with each episode so far this season.

Anabelle: A Plastic and Hollow Spin-Off

Jasmine Amjad Staff Writer

It’s a different kind of love story. Instead of going on a journey with two characters, and wonder if they will eventually end up together, you instead find out right away what the outcome will be with those two people.

The premise for the new NBC comedy series is unconventional yet intriguing. In the live read, viewers are presented with the audience as they go through the story. The two main characters, Andrew and Zoila, will date for eight months. With this, this television program in the comprehension accentuates their relationship of A to Z.

As an audience, you know exactly what to expect, yet there is still a high level of interest in coming to watch the show to see what will happen during this journey.

The show follows two people, Andrew and Zoila, who meet online and decide to journey together, starting from how they meet. Andrew, portrayed by Ben Feldman, is a hopeless romantic who is always happy to meet new people. Zoila, played by Cristin Milioti, is a strong, independent woman who does not meet the standards of a typical woman. The first episode, “A for Acquaintances,” tells the audience all right that we will be watching Andrew’s story play out right from the beginning. They had a first date when Zoila goes to Andrew’s house to discuss an issue with her Wallflower account. Andrew instantly falls in love with her, and Zoila tries to turn down the soil of their .child. Now, it’s up to Father Fortress (Tory Malloy) and a mysterious, fetching woman named Evelyn (Alfie Woodward) to help the couple overcome this sinister fate.

If that basic premise sounded familiar to you, then well the whole plot in what everything plays out in a relent- lessly predictable fashion. After the first act, which is nothing but a boring setup, the story is led by0 tedious second act mainly consists of Anabelle meaning around with Mia. Apparently, this demonic force has never seen any other horror films where a demonic force would simply end up together, starting with the exception of its major arc that I mentioned earlier. Despite losing three points at home to the Columbus Crew on Oct. 19, the New York Red Bulls are headed to the playoffs for the fifth time since 2010.

The Red Bulls qualified for the playoffs on Oct. 12 when the Houston Dynamo lost 3-1 to D.C. United, which eliminated the Dynamo from playoff contention and secured the Red Bulls a playoff berth.

The night before, the Red Bulls defeated Toronto FC 3-1 at home to the Columbus Crew, who are tied at 49 points.

The Red Bulls, with 47 points, are fifth in the Eastern Conference, two points behind reigning MLS champions, Sporting Kansas City and Columbus Crew, who are tied at 60 points.

Soccer K.C. will host the Red Bulls on Oct. 26, the final day of the MLS regular season.

On the same day, the Columbus Crew will host the Philadelphia Union, who are sixth in the Eastern Conference with 42 points and have already been eliminated from playoff contention.

If the Red Bulls defeat Sporting K.C. and Columbus loses to Philadelphia, then the Red Bulls will finish third in the Eastern Conference and qualify directly to the quarterfinals.

If the Red Bulls finish fourth or fifth in the Eastern Conference, they will play a knockout match to qualify for the quarterfinals.

The Red Bulls have qualified for the playoffs in the last four seasons but have failed to advance past the quarterfinals.

Manning Breaks TD Record

According to NBC, it was Football Night in America, as fans from all over the country tuned in to see if Peyton Manning would become the new career touchdown pass leader on the evening of Oct. 18 when the Denver Broncos hosted the San Francisco 49ers. They were not disappointed.

Two was the magic number entering Sunday’s game. Manning needed two touchdowns to tie Brett Favre’s record of 508. A three-yard pass to wide receiver Emmanuel Sanders in the first quarter closed the gap to one. With 2:57 left in the first quarter and a 10-yard pass to WR Wes Welker, Manning tied the record.

The moment came with 3:09 left in the first half. An eight-yard pass to WR Demaryius Thomas moved Manning to the top of the list.

The new number to beat was 169, which was already accomplished by the third quarter. Manning would become the new touchdown passer with 510 and counting.

Video messages of congratulations played on the jumbotron following the touchdown. Well-wishers included Broncos general manager John Elway, Tom Brady and Brett Favre.

“After the game, I certainly think about how grateful I am for all the teammates and coaches that I’ve played with and played for throughout my career, not only here in Denver, but in Indianapolis and all the people who have helped me along the way…any kind of record doesn’t happen without the team,” said Manning after the game.

Tom talked about Peyton’s win over the 49ers and all the accomplishments Manning has made along the way. “I’ve been a wonderful player and I’ve enjoyed watching you play. I’ve enjoyed competing against you. I wish you great success for the rest of the season and the rest of your career.”

It took Favre 302 games to reach 508 touchdown passes. Manning took only 246.

Behind Manning and Favre are Dan Marino (420), Drew Brees (374) and Tom Brady (372).

The touchdown ball is now on display in the Pro Football Hall of Fame. That is, after fellow teammates Thomas, Walker, Sanders and Julius Thomas played a friendly game of keep-away with the ball, a celebration that Manning had practiced with them on Friday.

The Giants fell to the Dallas Cowboys in a disappointing game. They will now have to show up for the NY Giants Wild Card as it will be hard for them to claim the division after losing two straight games to division foes.

The Jets continue to plummet, losing to the Kansas City Chiefs in a heart-breaking fashion. The Jets will most likely miss the playoffs this season and that means head coach Rex Ryan may find himself on the way out the door.
Red Hawk Round Up

Field Hockey

Five different Red Hawks saw the back of the net, as the Field Hockey team blanked Richard Stockton 5-0 on Oct. 18. This is the fourth straight win for the team, as they continue to compete for a top seed in the NJAC Tournament.

Danielle Butrucco collected a goal and an assist in the contest as MSU improves to 11-3 overall. The team returns to NJAC play on Oct. 25 where they will host Rowan at 7 p.m.

Womens Soccer

A win at Rutgers Camden on Saturday improved the womens soccer team to their 14th straight win.

The Lady Red Hawks defeated the Scarlet Raptors 4-1 with goals by Tina Landeka, Frankie Gibson, Kalia Fasano and Stephanie Gomes.

The team will hold their senior night on Oct. 29 at MSU Soccer Park.

Volleyball

The squad was led by sophomore Courtney Matlock with 11 kills and Melissa Terpstra with 10 kills and 15 digs.

Swimming and Diving

The men and womens swimming and diving teams did not compete this week.

Their next 10 meets will be away, beginning with a competition against TCNJ this Friday, Oct. 24 in Ewing, N.J.

Japanese Aesthetics: The Impact of Traditional Concepts on Young Artists and Musicians

Presentations by Tokyo University of the Arts Graduate Students

A delegation of 23 Masters and Ph.D. students from Japan’s leading institute of fine and performing arts will offer their perspectives on the impact of traditional Japanese aesthetics on fine arts, applied art such as lacquer, ceramics and metalwork crafts, and traditional music.

These presentations will include a live demonstration of traditional Japanese musical instruments.

This event is free and open to the public, and will be followed by a reception.

On Oct. 18, the latest edition of the oldest active collegiate rivalry in New Jersey saw its 82nd matchup. Montclair State smothered TCNJ and took sole possession of first place in the NJAC. Rowan is coming off a rout against previous first-place holder Montclair State. The Red Hawks control their destiny in the conference, but it will not be easy. They won the three games they needed to win against William Paterson, Southern Virginia and TCNJ, but face the gauntlet in the last four games. After going against Rowan, they will face SUNY-Cortland for the final time in-conference, followed by Rowan again and Kean. Montclair State is the only NJAC team left with only one loss.

The mens soccer team began their bye-clinching week traveling to Union, N.J. to take on Kean. The game remained close throughout but Montclair State came out with a 1-0 win thanks to Lucas Torri’s goal in the 60th minute.

Coming off of his NJAC Offensive Player of the Week honor, Damian Bziukiewicz had an outstanding game with five receptions for 84 yards. Freshman defensive lineman Vincent Conti joined NJAC Defensive Rookie of the Week after recording two solo tackles and a sack in only his second game of the season.

The Red Hawks will enter into the semifinals when the NJAC tournament begins.
