Snack Bar Complaint

For quite some time we have been hearing complaints about the snack bar. The most frequent complaint is that it is not open long enough.

Let's examine this statement. The snack bar opens every morning at eight o'clock. On Mondays and Wednesdays it is open until five o'clock, on Tuesdays and Thursdays until seven and on Fridays until one-thirty. It is closed on Saturdays and Sundays.

Is this sufficient time for it to be open? No, it is not!

Fridays

There are several other times when the snack bar should be open. The first of these is Friday afternoon. Friday is about the school spirit and non-attendance at evening functions. If the snack bar were open. True, there are vending machines in lower center, but who enjoys drinking his coffee while standing in front of a play pen in the cafeteria? . . . We've noticed a number of students who voted for me in Tuesday's write-in ballot are now saying that no one ever had a good time over here. Surely it would provide healthy refreshment for both faculty and student body.

I feel that the Administration would not wish us to explore from overcrowded with sorority and fraternal organizations?

Definitely. It's gotten to the point where if you're not in a fraternity or sorority you either form your own, or stay out of the snack bar. No. I feel that as of the present time there is an adequate amount of sororities and fraternities. But if new ones develop they may tend to overcrowd.

It is not economically feasible to open the snack bar evenings until at least nine o'clock. At nine o'clock, after our student cafeteria is open. No, it is not!... We've noticed a number of students who voted for me in Tuesday's write-in ballot are now saying that no one ever had a good time over here. Surely it would provide healthy refreshment for both faculty and student body.

Saturdays

Second, the snack bar should definitely be open on Saturdays if not for the entire day, then for at least the same amount of time that the library is open. Some students come to work in the library on Saturday mornings. Many more would do so if the snack bar were open. True, there are vending machines in lower center, but who enjoys drinking his coffee while standing in front of a play pen in the cafeteria? . . . Assemblies

Fourth, the snack bar should be open during the assembly hour. With an enrollment of 2150, everyone cannot possibly attend the assembly in an auditorium which will hold only 1000 persons. Conceivably, the other 50 must have a place to go. Finding the snack bar, cafeteria and library closed, these extra persons either overflow the lounges or go to West's Diner. Some of this overflow could be absorbed by the snack bar at 10:30 a.m. and the cafeteria at 11:00 a.m.

It is not economically feasible to open the snack bar these extra hours. Last year, for a period of several weeks, the snack bar was open on Saturday mornings. For this period of time a loss of revenue has been claimed.

We strongly urge that the snack bar be opened the extra hours; one failure doesn't necessarily mean another. If the event is publicized enough, people will use the snack bar during these extra hours.

Congratulations!

Congratulations to the administration, particularly Miss Margaret Sherwin, for granting female undergraduates permission to wear Bermuda shorts during final examinations. This is a welcome relief.

Hart's 'Act One' Wins Critical Acclaim

by Minakat Malek

"Act One—Scene One" is a fitting title for Kaufman's first act of entertainment since he has no intention of finishing his story. The first scene sets the stage for the rest of the play and introduces the characters. Mr. Hart is a man of few words and few deeds, but his silence is eloquent. He never speaks, for he feels no bitterness. Mr. Hart is not a man of deep sorrow, for he is content with his life and his work. His only complaint is that he has never "gone steady," free to love and be loved.

The book, Mr. Hart strongly lends his support to the title of his autobiography; "Life and Color to Mr. Hart's Biography." His life has been a series of ups and downs, but he has always remained true to himself. He has been deeply perceptive. Although smiling, he has always been aware of the dangers and problems of his profession. He has always been aware that the world is not always fair, and he has always been willing to fight for what he believes is right.

The book is a reflection of his life and his work. It is a story of how a poet sees life every day, and how a poet can change the world. It is a story of how a poet can find beauty and meaning in the most ordinary of things. It is a story of how a poet can find joy in the simple things of life.

The book is a celebration of Mr. Hart's life and work. It is a book that is sure to be enjoyed by all who love poetry and who love life.

New Jazz Sound Scores a Success

by Joseph James Morella

Wins a little bit of effort and skill, it might be possible to squeeze a few more people into the gymnasium for Thursday's SGA Spring Concert featuring George Shearing and the Hi-O's. It was a little disappointing to see such top performers as those who appeared on the MSC campus only one-third of the students attending. The off- best sound produced by the Hi-O's was an enjoyable change of pace from the familiar tunes which seems to be so popular today. They handled such standards as "Facsimile Rhythm" and "My Sugar is So Brown" with a fresh, new, yet preserved the melody and lyrics.

Their rendition of 'The Old 961 Round' was splendidly unreserved remarks during Bob Morris's solo. But the highlight was during the momentous decision. They had to change the spirit of their hot ciders, which is a commonolas. The audience, who were attracted by the sight of the Cave. The food is weird and delicious. As we were enjoying these dishes, the walls of the Cave was an enjoyable sight. The walls were covered with the names of the students who attended the show. The night we visited the Cave, the food was delicious. We had a wonderful time.

Penn Relays

The two-day Penn Relay Carnival is a national track meet held on the campus of the University of Pennsylvania. Wes Rehberg of the Montclair team was clocked in 42.7 seconds for the 880-yard run Rehberg won in the Montclair State "South" relays.

The Silver Baton mile relay channeled the home rollers from the Classic and the Goldy 100-yard dash relay to the finals. In the mile relay, Rehberg, Winston, and Weigand were the winners of the Montclair State "South" relay.

A great new movement has been started in the Montclair track and field association by the Athletic Association. The organization is made up of students, staff, and faculty and has been formed to promote the sport of track and field.
