Partridge Receives Wo-He-Lo Award

Dr. R. DeAlton Partridge, president of Montclair State College and chairman of the national council, the making body of the camp, was given the Wo-He-Lo Order, highest honor of the youth organization.

The award was made at the Camp Fire Girls Golden Jubilee Convention held at the Congress Hotel in New York and attended by representatives from all parts of the country. The order of Wo-He-Lo, watched signifying the growth of work, health, and love, is given for "distinguished service in behalf of the youth of the country.

In making the presentation, Miss H. B. Strobel, first vice-president and chairman of the national awards committee, praised Dr. Partridge for "the generous contribution of his valuable knowledge of the field of education and his wise guidance in the effective use of research studies." Dr. Partridge referred to the pattern for national committee functioning and the outstanding work of committees which he was chairman of the executive and program committees of Camp Fire Girls.

A long-time member of the national board of directors of Camp Fire Girls, Dr. Partridge has served as chairman of the camping, research advisory and visual-arts committees of the board, of which he is now chairman.

He is also author and member of staff of the Adult Education, the New Jersey School of Education, the Montclair Rotary Club, a trustee of the Montclair Institute, a member of the board of the New Jersey Board of Sociology for the United Nations, and member of the national personnel committee. Boys State of America included in his publications is "Time Out for Living," which he co-authored with Catherine Moon, "Social Psychology of Adolescence;" and "A Woman's World," a volume of the Encyclopedia of Child Guidance.

Camp Fire Girls, oldest non-sectarian leisure-time organization for girls in the United States, has its origin in Atlantic Highlands, New Jersey. He has taught elementary school in Connecticut and for the last four and one half years he has been teaching English and History at the Middletown Technical and Vocational High School where he advised the scholastic teams.

Students May Speak With Naval Officers

All seniors who did not have the opportunity of attending the Navy and Naval Officer Selection Teams and who are interested in the programs offered by such, should fill out the form on page five and place it in Box 31 in the Guidance Office. Included in his publications is "Time Out for Living," which he co-authored with Catherine Moon, "Social Psychology of Adolescence;" and "A Woman's World," a volume of the Encyclopedia of Child Guidance.

Praise

For several years it has been our contention that Players has not fully utilized the potentialities of its facilities. However, this year we cannot say this, for the production of The Diary of Anne Frank is excellent in every respect. Each and every performance was outstanding, from the lighting to the costumes, from the acting to the singing. The cast was uniformly excellent, and the production as a whole was a joy to watch. We are confident that this year's production will be remembered for many years to come.

Quarterly

Last Thursday the question of Quarterly was discussed in the SGA meeting. One faction wished to eliminate the publication, or at least cut its circulation to one issue per semester instead of the usual two. The other faction wished to keep the circulation as it is now. After an hour discussion the issue was tabled.

We maintain our position of two weeks ago, namely that Quarterly has a function and a place at Montclair State. If last year's SGA Board was not prudent enough to allocate its funds wisely, that is no reason why Quarterly should suffer next semester. Reducing Quarterly to one issue per semester will not solve the SGA's financial problems.

Apparently, the real problem which exists lies within the SGA board, not in the budget of Quarterly. The SGA should be concerned with its financial problems without limiting the circulation of Quarterly.

Individual Action

Currently there is a campaign under way to clean up the cafeteria. A poster contest has been undertaken to draw attention to the campaign and its purpose. We are glad that the Food Committee is aware of this problem and willing to take positive steps to eliminate it. For these efforts they are to be praised.

However, keeping the cafeteria clean is something which should not require campaigns and poster contests. Something as simple as picking up one's dishes after a meal should be as much a part of one's instinctive habits as anything else. People shouldn't have to be reminded to practice cleanliness; it should be innate.

Individual actions on the part of each student would soon eliminate the problem. After all, we aren't supposed to be members of a civilized society.

Cheating

Within the last week the problem of cheating in our college has been brought to my attention several times. On one occasion a student complained of the cheating which is going on in one of his classes. Another faculty member told me about a problem he has with a student who is cheating. Dr. Partridge thinks the problem acute enough to include it in his column this week.

We have to realize that it is only on a small scale, cheating does exist at M.C. If Dr. Partridge points out, it is the honest and trustworthy students who are affected by this practice. They must suffer for the actions of a few. They standing on the class curve is affected by those students who use open books, who get copies of the exam before the testing day, who have their research papers done by other students.

Something should be done about this situation, and soon.

Positive action should be taken by three groups: administration, faculty, and students. The administration should set up a definite course of action to be applied in cases of cheating. When a student is discovered cheating he should be warned once. If his practice persists, he should be automatically expelled. There are enough people on the college waiting list to take his place.

It is also the faculty member's responsibility to check cheating. He should be so prepared that it is practically impossible to cheat. Should be discovered cheating it is his responsibility to talk to the student(s) involved and to eliminate the problem.

Finally, it is the student's responsibility to avoid cheating. As a student he should not feel that he must do to himself to realize his responsibility and accepting it.

Cheating is a problem which should not exist in a teacher-training institution. Teachers should be the ones who set the example of honesty, not the ones who deviate from it.

A good college will reduce such a practice. A college is not the place where one is supposed to be taught how to do cheating, but the place where they are to be taught the value of it.

MONTCLAIR

November 23, 1960

From the President's Desk

Whenever human beings come together in fairly large numbers, there seems to be a small minority who make a practice of taking advantage of their associates. Unfortunately, this is true even on a college campus.

Colleges differ greatly, I am sure, in the many challenges there are in the population. A student who is preparing himself for a minimum of a challenging, and substituting a meaningful activity of society for personal profit. There are many who are fortunate enough to go to a good college community will have a tradition, a climate of opinion of or that will effectively discourage those who take advantage of their fellow-students.

What many do not give to realize is that the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel, the chisel.

Food service in a college is a good example. If a real problem is worth of cheating by sneaking into the line, or taking more than your share from the table, no matter where. What more strict measures must be taken to prevent those who come to eat. This not only because the competition is fierce, but also because it is expensive. People shouldn't be allowed to keep their share of the food. People who are in the majority but are the ones who deviate from it.

College officials can take steps to control most of these problems, but these steps are expensive and not completely effective. The only final answer, and it does work, is for faculty and students alike to work to create a climate of opinion where the belief that any student in good standing could think of joining the ranks of the cheating officers. If it becomes the generally accepted standard of behavior that a student at Montclair simply would not do these things, our college can pass on from one generation of students to the next and make the college a much happier and more effective place to win an education. A college is what everyone connected with it has a right to expect from students, faculty, maintenance workers, clerks, stenographers and all other employees.

Everyone can help. It is a simple matter to either write the student's name, or the name of the faculty member who is cheating.

The staff of the Montclarion wishes all the students, faculty members and administrative officers and their families and friends a happy and peaceful Thanksgiving weekend.

* Due to the Thanksgiving weekend there will be no issue of the #next weekly for this week on December 7. Deadline for that issue is November 29.

Drives Commuters Wild

To a commuter and non-commuter alike the physical duties of commuting, one must have the following qualifications: One has to be irrational to drive 85 miles an hour just to arrive in time to steal someone's parking space. One has to be hell-on-wheels since he is the North Jersey equivalent to King Henry VIII. One has to be in the Grand Prix; he has to be a soldier, a mullah Guardsman waving, he is the reject.
