President Thomas H. Richardson
Richardson States Views On Correcting Wrongs

In the relatively short time since I returned to the Mont­clair Register, I have had the opportunity to meet with a number of student groups and I have been impressed with the capacity of these students to vigorously state their positions on one hand and then to reasonably discuss the college­wide implications of those positions on the other.

Occasionally complaints are heard regarding food at a certain meal, inadequate heat in a particular room, or the insuf­ficient wait for a special service. Student and faculty disturbance is often justified, and for this reason it is hoped that a method of appeal is open to everyone so that a wrong or correctable inadequacy should not be endured.

In an institution as large and complicated as your College is getting to be, we all need to strive to avoid the evils of an entrenched bureaucracv among the administration, the faculty or the students.

Who Is Responsible?

Granting then that we need to be on our toes and that we may be understanding occasional shortcomings on our campus, I would like to write a few words about how I think we should treat people during this correction period. First, we should keep in mind that the person closest at hand may not be the individual who is responsible for the difficulty. A person serv­ving at the food counter may not be the one who is responsible for the uncowed meat - the custo­dian walking down the hall may not have caused the heels to be unheeled - or the clerk at the desk may actually have had nothing to do with the slow registration period. If one com­plains or gets abusive to the in­structor, the student or the faculty member, one just magni­fies the difficulty by creating a new one.

We had an example of this at the first performance of "A Hat­ful of Rain." A contractor in­stalled the campus water pipe which ran across the road by the amphitheater. Our own college staff had nothing to do with this job initially, but when the rain that evening washed out the fill a­round the pipe, it fell to them to re­install it. Mr. Richardson

40,000 Register at Convention; Many Records Broken

New Jersey teachers broke all records when 40,000 peo­ple registered at the Atlantic City Convention, making it by far the largest educational convention ever held in the world. The NJEA convention registers about 10,000.

Art Buchwald, Governor Richard Hughes, Governor Terry Sanford of North Carolina, Theodore Bikle and John Canning were among the many n rests of the convention. These celebrities spoke at the general session. The most significant statement was an announcement by Gov­ernor Hughes that he would like to see 'an educational administration' - the speech at the general session as the famous "Ed­ucation - Governor Sanford" and that he had a new plan that he would present to the legis­lature which may give New Jersey more money than contem­plated for education under the bond issue. NJEA people speculate that this money may come from the lift of the federal tax, from a federal aid program, for which a state tax must be levied. Governor Hughes commented no further.

The NJEA sponsored group meetings on teaching certification, pensions, retirement, travel­, new films, the problems of new teachers, salaried, educ­ators, etc., and the academic, professional, negotiations, politics, and the like. The NJEA invited representatives of all sections of Montclair State College, at the invitation of the students, and the Group.

Students Salute Late President

On Monday, November 23, a Commemorative Tribute was held in recognition of the first anni­versary of the assassination of the 35th President of the United States, John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

The program started with an organ prelude played by Russell Harlow, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance and the "Star­Spangled Banner," accompa­nied by Mr. Hayton on the organ.

James Cottington, SGA Pres­i­dent, made the introductory remarks. Jim urged a recollec­tion by everyone to the cause of world peace which Kennedy had worked for during his life.

Irene Elvin, Sopranos, sang "Are Maria," by Bach-Goossens, accompanied by Mr. Hayton after which Schubert's "Ländli for All Saints' Day."" Eddy Meyers, post president of NJEA, spoke on "Kennedy. The Ideal."

But Meyers pointed out that Kennedy was the symbol of ideal courage, vitality and leadership. He went on to say that one should never try to reason with the man and what he did rather than the untenable way in which he died.

Eleven Seniors Named To "Who's Who" List

The list of Montclair students selected for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities was announced by the publishers of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities as the result of a survey conducted for the MONTCLAIR. The Who's Who selections for this year are eleven senior students who have exhibited outstanding qualities during their four years at Mont­clair State College.

The original voting list con­sisted of the entire membership of the senior class. This list was set up by Miss Marie Frazer, ac­ademic counselor. It was first circulated to the administration, personnel, department heads, Senior Class advisor, the student body and all Montclair State College students to vote for the eleven students they con­sidered most worthy of the hon­or.

Ballooning Continues

The second and final ballot, consisting of the four jour­nalists with the highest vote to­tals on the first ballot. This list was then announced to the voters. The ballots were count­ed by Mr. Brown, Miss Hayton, and Mr. Raymond Stover.

The SGA is presently investi­gating the possibility of adding greater scope to the voting by

Veterans Day Forgotten

By the time the last soldier, was observed throughout the nation, on Tuesday morning, Veterans' Day, a day set aside to honor our military, was in the highest schools, institutions, and businesses which had made special programs to honor those who served.

At Montclair State College, in a school where young people prepare to teach the youth of our country, faculty, students, and administration ignored the occasion.

At Montclair State classes proceeded as usual. Professors raised their voices in order to be heard over fire whistles in neighboring Clifton. In the morning, the playing bridge, unaware of the war, Campus life continued normally.

Much has been said on this subject. Why are we not required to take heart and be of good cheer, offered the student the night this article was written. The blame this time, however, is on the student himself. Perhaps the present inactivity, faculty, and students a­

NEWMAN CLUB HOLDS MEMORIAL MASS

Montclair State Newman Club held a Memorial Mass and Communion Breakfast at St. Cassians Church on November 18, 1964. The meal was served at 9 a.m. in St. Cassians School auditorium. Spearheaded by Father Daniel Helstoski, president of St. Cassians Church and a Newman Club member, the event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. The service included the reading of letters, prayers, and a eulogy for the late cardinal, Charles Cardinal O'Connell. The event was highlighted by the participation of students and faculty in the mass and a moment of silence in honor of the deceased cardinal.

AGORA GOES DOMESTIC

Fraternity pledging with its assignments, fun, and sometimes embarrassments, is here again—this time with a twist in the tradition.

The twist is in the Dossel, a jolly-looking 30-year-old, married man with three children, who is pledging the fraternity, Agora.

After Al was discharged from the army, he married a girl who was attending Montclair State. Al worked as a cabbie, a Pepsi man, and a musician (he now has a three piece band, "The Shoemakers," which play in night clubs to finish putting his wife through college.) Wapalanne he formed a meeting many more of the fraternity pledgers. If pledging was rough, Al realized that part of college life. When asked if going through pledge was an honor to be invited to, he answered, "Yes, it was an honor to be invited to pledge. He accepted the invitation because it was a part of his social life."

After his first two years he was not interested in fraternities, but at Camp Wapalanne he formed a group of close friendships with members of Agora. Al, because of his age and maturity, felt it was his honor to be invited to pledge. He accepted the invitation because it was a part of his social life. When asked if pledging was rough, Al replied, "NO! It's fun and I'm probably the only pledge to ever say that the fraternities have great many functions."

Peace Corps Comes To Montclair Campus

A representative from the Washington, D.C. office of the Peace Corps has been on campus Wednesday, December 1. He is here to provide information about his organization and to discuss opportunities in the Peace Corps this year. The representative is stationed in the lobby of Life Hall, where any student who wishes to contact him may do so.

On Thursday, December 2, at 7 p.m. in Audubon Hall, the Peace Corps representative will give a special session to juniors and seniors. The program will include an introduction to the Peace Corps, a discussion of possible projects, and a panel of Peace Corps volunteers who will discuss their experiences.

Join Peace Corps

In the past, many graduates of Montclair have joined the Peace Corps. The following graduates have served with distinction in their chosen fields: Carmen Chasewa, an alumna of Montclair, is addressed in the student body with reference to Montclair's contribution in all fields. One has only to look at the bulletin to see the educational scholarships, or the openings in government and business, which the Peace Corps offers. Many young adults in New Jersey, the Peace Corps offers an opportunity to do just this.

Gusty and his men, working in the rain and the dark, first tried to repair the damage so that they could start repairing the village. There they were, doing a job that meant a great deal to them, but not hired, working on it the evening when they could have been doing something more important. It was a sign of appreciation, they believed, for the money that people there saw and much of the activity.

While at Montclair, he was editor of the "Quartette" and a member of the college's debate team, the "Debaters," and attended the American Association of University Women's Women's Conference and the National Women's Conference in 1964. In 1960, he received the Overseas Press Club of America award from the "New York Times" for his reporting on the violence in the Congo.

Mr. Johnson served in the Peace Corps for three years in India, where he taught English. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree in English in 1960, and his graduate work was done at the University of Colorado. In 1960, he was given an honorary doctorate degree by the University of Texas, Austin. He is a member of the Overseas Press Club and the Kappa Delta Pi.

The Cabot Prizes were established in 1909 by the late Godfrey Louis Cabot of Boston in honor of his mother, Helen Moynihan Cabot. Prizes are given annually by Columbia University for "distinguished contributions to the advancement of information about and understanding of the Americas." The prizes consist of a gold medal, a certificate, and a $3000 prize in addition to travel expenses to New York to accept the award.

The Workshops in Physical Education and Health will continue on December 1 and 2 in Memorial Auditorium. The program will include a discussion of the problem, clinical demonstrations of the disease, a preview of current films, and study of the Teaching Reference Guide on Venereal Disease published by the New Jersey State Department of Education.

Speaker will include: Dr. E. W. Turner, director of the Peace Corps, Dr. John G. Redd, director of the Peace Corps, and Dr. Geoffrey E Task, state director of the Peace Corps.

The course is open to all students, regardless of major, who are interested in learning more about the Peace Corps.

The course will be taught by Dr. William J. Sullivan, who was a Peace Corps volunteer in the Dominican Republic. Dr. Sullivan will discuss the history of the Peace Corps, its philosophy, and its impact on the developing countries in which volunteers serve.

The course is designed to provide students with a better understanding of the Peace Corps and to encourage them to consider becoming Peace Corps volunteers.

Attention SENIOR & GRADUATE MEN STUDENTS - U.S. Citizens needing nominal financial help to complete their education this academic year— and then commence work— are urged to apply by January 1. Contact the Peace Corps office of your college.
