'Only Legal Measures Left' For College High Retention

By Don Pendley
Staff Reporter

"Controlled fury" is how Mr. W.R. Huntington described the 125 College High parents at their Parent-Teacher Association meeting of Feb. 5. At the meeting, it was decided to begin a two-pronged attack concerning College High's "phasing out."

One of the attacks would be negotiations with the MSC Administration. Negotiations between parents and the administration have been continuing for several months, and were climaxed by the Board of Trustees' decision on January 21 to "phase out" and eventually close out College High. This decision has not satisfied many College High parents, who want College High to remain open. However, according to Mr. Charles Burkeley, a College High parent, negotiations with MSC's administration are no longer possible. Burkeley quoted MSC's President Thomas H. Richardson as saying that there were "no more administrative movements we (College High parents) could make," and that only political and legal measures are left.

(Continued on Page 2)

ALL IN FAVOR
Mr. W.R. Huntington (left), president of the College High Parent-Teachers Association, gets a 100 per cent vote of approval to continue the fight to retain demonstration schools on state college campuses.

Montclairion
Volume XLIII – NO. 14 MONTCLAIR STATE COLLEGE, UPPER MONTCLAIR, N.J. February 7, 1969

Construction Set for $4 Million Dorm

16 Stories
Will House
600 Students

The ground-breaking for a coed dormitory to be located north of Stone Hall may occur within the next two months. The dorm, planned to be 16 stories high, will have a capacity of 600 students and be built as soon as a builder can be found.

The plans, recently approved by MSC's Board of Trustees, call for the division of the building into three sections: one for men, one for women, and between them a recreational facility.

The building is designed by Charles Luckman Associates of New York, and is intended to make full use of the abruptly-sloping land north of Stone Hall, by interweaving the land and the building. The dormitory's entry will be located on the fifth floor.

Economy has been kept in mind in planning the dorm. Basic materials will be used, such as concrete and concrete block, and the cost is expected to be kept down to four million dollars.

Plans are included for a large cafeteria, to accommodate the students who will be living in an adjacent dormitory planned for the future.

WITHIN TWO MONTHS . . .
COED DORMITORY: The artist's sketch of the 16-story dorm, scheduled for construction between Webster and Stone Halls. Groundbreaking should occur within the next two months.
Parents Form Committee Against 'Phasing Out'

(Continued from Page 1)

The second prong of the attack would be the political measures. Mr. Percy John Fekety, present at the meeting, told the parents that the Assembly created a committee on Monday to investigate the closing of the four state college demonstration schools. These four demonstration schools, voted to be closed since January 20, are at

Mr. W.R. Huntington
Negotiations necessary
MSC, Paterson State, Jersey City State, and Newark State. Assemblyman Fekety stated that within the near future, public hearings on the closing of the school would be held. Fekety urged the College High parents to go to these hearings, and not to negotiate the closing of College High, but to demand that College High remain open.

Assemblyman Fekety said that the decision to close College High could be reversed by the Board of Higher Education, which is controlled by the Legislature.

Following Fekety's statements, a question-and-answer period was

To Close or Not To Close School - Decision Rests With Richardson

By Donna McKee
Staff Reporter

For many students the beauty of a winter's snowfall is less likely to stimulate delight in the wonders of nature than to induce anticipation of a day off from school. Sometimes this hope is aroused by less pleasant conditions like a widespread outbreak of the Hong Kong flu.

Since the procedure for closing the college is unknown to many people, it should be explained that nostylistic power is responsible; the final authority for closing MSC belongs to its president, Dr. Thomas Richardson.

According to James Cottingham, assistant to the president, school closing procedures can be initiated by three men, depending on the nature of the problem. Dean Allan Morehead is responsible for detecting academic problems; the provost, Mr. W.R. Huntington, is given a charter for reasons of long-range planning; and Vincent Calabrese, director of business services, is at maintenance director for day-to-day upkeep.

Snow removal is the most common reason for closing school. Under the direction of Mr. Joseph McGinty, the college has contracted with a construction company for more efficient snow removal equipment. By 3 a.m. Mr. Huntington has usually made a decision as to the plausibility of opening school that morning. If the snowfall does not seem beyond handling, removal continues.

However, should reports from Montclair state police indicate hazardous road conditions and if the parking facilities are more than just treacherous, Mr. McGinty might decide to initiate the procedures that could officially close the school.

Following a "snow day" decision from President Richardson, a general call list is used to notify faculty members. Local radio stations are informed for the convenience of students.

Other conditions under the jurisdiction of the maintenance department could be electrical difficulties or sewage problems.

In fact, with the efficient snow removal equipment, it becomes an almost impossible task to close school.

Mr. Huntington has already had many applications for employment since the closing of the school. The school is now accepting faculty and student volunteers to work on the campus. Mr. Huntington also continued that he is the only person who has been asked to stay after closing.

The recent virus epidemic involved both of the other divisions and their recommendations to President Richardson. In the case of the flu, Dean Morehead and Dean Blanton accepted faculty and student attendance as adequate for the needs of the students. Dr. Richardson also conferred with other state college presidents before making the decision.

The procedure is one of the few in which students are directly involved. This appears to be related to the fact that most of the final decisions are made in the wee hours of the morning. As President Richardson realizes, committee action at 3 a.m. is a bit impractical.

WILD ANIMAL PELTS

RACOONS - SKUNKS - RABBITS

Hang'em on the wall - Lay'em on the floor

Wear'em Quality fur pelts of many natural colors

Ideal for most anything

WILD CAT - BEAR - COW HIDE

COINS OF THE WORLD

127 Watchung Ave. - Watchung Plaza - Montclair
Tentatively scheduled for Feb. 15, Webster Hall will begin an open dorm policy every weekend, whereby women will be permitted in the dormitory on a closed door basis. Approved by 85 per cent of the residents of Webster Hall on a secret ballot vote, the policy permits female guests to be admitted to the dormitory during the following times: Friday, 4:30 to 11 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. to midnight; and Sunday, 1:30 to 7 p.m.

Originally initiated by Sophomore Webster Hall resident, Russ Layne, the new policy will be an extension of the present dorm innovations which began last spring. This allowed women to visit the men’s dorms on alternate Sunday afternoons only with the provision that the door of the room was kept at “a 90 degree angle to the door frame.” The inflexibility of this original policy was one of the student actions to assure the residents of a more relaxed atmosphere in the dormitory.

Rutgers Policy Noted

It is to be noted that Rutgers-The State University recently abolished female guest rules and women are now permitted in the men’s dormitories on a 24 hour basis. After a trial period of two months, the men of Rutgers will evaluate this program with the provision that each dorm can modify it as it sees fit.

Administration Approval

Mr. Richard Taubal, assistant director of students in charge of men’s dormitories, has approved this program and has expressed his desire for more student originated programs to improve all facets of dorm life.

Mr. Taubal said these programs are not only those concerning visitation policies, “will erase the image of the dormitory and replace it with the idea of a residence hall and not simply a place where one eats and sleeps.”

One of the problems in turning the dorm into a center of activity is developing MSC into a largely residential campus. This will occur in the future in area and in amount. At present, however, a majority of those students living on campus return home on weekends.

Webster Hall President, Bob Moller, said that he is looking forward to the initiation of the closed door policy. He said that, “The men of Webster are mature enough to handle this new privilege; the new dorm council is competent enough to take care of any problems that might arise.”

Newman, Protestant's '88

Communications Seminar

By Roberta Kuenzi

A communications seminar to provide the student body with a survey of recent trends in film and communications will take place in four parts during the next month. The seminar will also explore the recurring and unconscious effects of mass media on American audiences.

The very first seminar will feature “Marat/Sade” which will be shown in Memorial Auditorium on Wed., Feb. 12 at 7:30 p.m. Before the film, members of the Newman Community and Protestant Foundation co-sponsors of the seminar, will present a brief introduction and summary of the film, directed by Peter Brook.

Following the film a discussion will be held until 10 p.m.

The next film to be presented in M-15 on Feb. 20 at 7:30 p.m., will be “400 Blows.” Directed by Francois Truffaut, it is an example of the "nouvelle vague" in French cinema.

Next in the Italian cinema will be evident when "The Bicycle Thief," directed by Vittorio DeSica, is presented on Feb. 26 in M-15 at 7:30 p.m.

The final session will take place in Newman House on March 6 at 7:30 p.m. It will include watching several TV shows and commercials with discussions about TV’s power and its possible future.

With Valentine’s Day in mind, the Off-Campus Advisory Board is sponsoring an informal get-together on Thursday, Feb. 13. The festivities will begin at 7:30 in the Grace Freeman Recreation Room (lower level).

Students interested in the seminar will be served and wine will be poured. Anyone who would like to bring along a guitar to add to the evening’s entertainment is more than welcome.

The seminar is open to all students and will feature students from various departments and fields. The seminar will provide an opportunity to discuss the effects of mass media on society and to explore the unconscious and recurring effects of mass media on American audiences.

COMING

FEBRUARY 12

MONTCLAIR "The Underground Press"

THE PLAY — FUNNY GIRL

February 14, 1969
3:30 p.m.
$1.50 M.C.S. Students
$2.50 Others

C. L. U. B.

Presents

HELP!

Earn between $20 - $35 per week, working part time on your campus. Become a campus representative for VISA, an International Student Marketing Corporation. No selling involved.

Contact

VISA USA
1221 CONNECTICUT AVE.
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20036

February 7, 1969 — MONTCLAIR — Page 3

The Infirmary

Sick, Well or Mending?

By Martin J. Fernandez

"What infirmary?"

"I've never been there."

Those are some of the typical reactions of Montclair State College students when questioned, "What do you think of the infirmary?"

Fortunately, other students and faculty did volunteer opinions.

Karen Batho, ’71, said the infirmary was "unnecessary," claiming a nurse could not find her pulse. Anna Pasqua, ’70, complained that the "little yellow pill" was too old, and a patient gets a "little gray pill for everything."

Frank Bender, ’69, worked two semesters in the infirmary to get its files closed. A student can pull out his own file and peek at anyone else’s in the process.

Jane Martin, ’72, was yelled at because she got up 10 minutes before the doctor was to leave. However, her classmate said he was "judged as to whether or not he is sick.

The infirmary took three days to diagnose a friend of Mrs. Craddock’s appendicitis.

Joan Allebesius, ’71, said the infirmary was "a little inefficient and unprofessional manner.

Miss Allebesius was given a pain-killer for bronchitis. Pain-killers have no effect on bronchitis. Lyn Cross, ’71, said the nurse bent her bruised knee back and forth, causing still more pain. William Eichhorst, ’69, never has been to the infirmary. "When I get sick I go home."

Other students complained about having to spend long hours alone, in the infirmary for minor ailments. Another complaint was that the nurses don’t know how to administer medication, or did not warn of the possible side effects of a pill. John Macaluso, ’70, given a cold pill, was not warned — he fell asleep.

Many people at MSC have praise for the infirmary. Bob Martinez, SGA president, was recently treated for tonsillitis. He feels the nurses are “doing as good a job as they can.” Fred Myer, ’70, thinks the nurses are “hardworking and handy for first aid and physicals.”

Ronald Hall, ’71, said he received good treatment for an ingrown foot.

Faculty members seem to have favorable views. Edwin Mills, an academic counselor, broke a bone a football game. A nurse arrived and gave instructions for the placing of Mr. Mills in a police car. No ambulance was available.

Randall Richards, Webster Hall director, hopes the infirmary will be expanded to a “student medical center” which would include courses in nurses’ training. Mrs. Jere Rutberg, Franklin Health Services Committee, said, “they come when we need them.” Mrs. Rutberg pointed out that colleges must take care of their nurses, whereas MSC has only four.

Virginia Crossman, physical education department, feels that the student ‘hypochondriac’ uses the infirmary and that the staff is “unwilling and overworked.”

Criticism came from Michael Greene, Stone Hall director. Mr. Greene stated that the infirmary refused to pick up a feverish student. Mr. Greene had to drive the student downtown himself. Two hours later the student, Dale Rodgers, ’70, walked back in 30 degrees stating that it is “healthy if the infirmary had sent Rodgers back, but Rodgers claimed he left on his own.

Nurse Charlotte Pritchard, in a short interview, answered some of the charges leveled at the infirmary. She stated that only staff members can pull out a student’s file, and there is an emergency. Then the student pulls the file. Any detrimental material is kept in a separate, locked cabinet. Miss Pritchard claimed the “unnecessary” dog complaints stem from the nurses’ protection after dark. In accordance with state law, a nurse cannot give administration without a doctor’s permission.

This may mean a delay in getting a pill to a student.

The infirmary is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Only four nurses handle the load, which means an over 40 hour week. Until recently, the nurses did not receive overtime pay.

About student complaints Miss Pritchard advised, “She remarked that students usually take out their frustrations on a college infirmary, but she hopes the criticism will result in an improvement.

A group composed of campus and off-campus students, the Infirmary Committee, is now trying to define the exact role of the infirmary. Some students are demanding it be a first aid station. Others want a “little hospital.”

Until all are agreed the infirmary is varied and contradictory. Perhaps the best view was expressed by Miss Crossman, “a lack of information on both sides.”
Montclair
Serving the College
Community Since 1928

MIRIAM TAUB
DAVID M. LEVINE
MARI-JO MAJRA
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF
MANAGING EDITOR
BUSINESS MANAGER

The editorial opinions expressed represent those of the editor-in-chief and managing editor unless otherwise signed.

Wanted: SGA Leadership

As the present SGA administration has now been in office since July 1, it is time for a summary and evaluation of the past months' accomplishments.

As a decision making body, the SGA legislature has been responsible for distributing $13,771.43 of unappropriated surplus funds. However, this legislature is also responsible for defeating six bills which requested funds.

Hence, only 66 per cent of the total bills requesting funds has been approved. It can be seen that these legislators are extremely conscious of the responsibility they have since they handle over a quarter of a million dollars a year.

However, your SGA is meant to be more than just a rubber-stamp, accept-or-reject-money-bills organization. Your SGA should be a dynamic leadership group which should initiate new programs for the growing Montclair State university.

At present several SGA committees are studying such topics as student selection of professors, reduction of the parking fine fee, and studying such topics as student selection of professors, reduction of the parking fine fee, and studying such topics as student selection of professors.

Therefore, it is needed to lessen if their evaluations are allowed to spend several months on the topics.

Forceful leadership in SGA is needed to increase SGA's power. More is needed than the routine of discussing and voting on financial bills. Effective leadership from the top can see that this is done: president Martinez, where are you?

Kloza Proposes

Consequently, Kloza has drawn up a three-point plan to enlarge the current Bureau of Field Studies:

1. Start a library to college and distribute films, tapes and books on foreign travel.
2. Maintain information files and sources on all foreign travel programs and scholarships.
3. Establish a college publication suitable for outside circulation on student reports and experiences abroad.

We applaud Kloza's suggestions as plausible and easy to implement. Foreign travel is a sorely needed necessity in American education.

Prompt executive action is needed to spend up the workings of the SGA. For example, an SGA statement on the Clifton Conference concerning the "Tentative Statement of Policies and Goals" is necessary to define the SGA's position on the future of MSC. Also, committee reports favoring immediate reduction of the parking fine should be delivered.

Three new SGA committees have been formed this week to deal with faculty evaluations, faculty hiring and the possibility of student representatives on the faculty tenure board. Their importance will only be lessened if their evaluations are allowed to spend several months on the topics.

Protesting Conformity

To the Editor:

Your "new image" is creative? Far from "creative" conformity is more like it! I am completely annoyed that my annual $60 student activity fee supports a cover-page of protestors who know so very little about life! I have traveled in 15 countries and have seen young protesters everywhere. I have viewed teenagers crushing red tulips and carrying red flags on Amsterdam's "Damrak" (Dam Square), and I have seen the same 15-16-year-olds picketing the U.S. Consulate, day and night, in the same city. What is the matter with young people of so very few years who demonstrate against principles they know so little about?

I am tired of student protestors who have seen so little of life—of those who sell the propoganda of Mao and have never experienced these principles of life in Communist China, and at the same time are quite willing to take advantage of our country's benefits!

I'm protesting against protestors! After being away from the U.S. for one year, I returned to find America with a positive side too. Society and protestors may continue to emphasize the negative, but compared to opportunities and life in many other lands, I'll choose America!

Your "new image" is nothing new! It's conformity to obnoxious protestors. It's about time the silent majority like myself take a stand. There are positive ways of changing society too; one need not throw rocks and bricks to make a change. It is important that this be supported by a few faculty, alumni, and parents kept the school going. It is interesting to note that among those "few" were: Dr. Partridge, former President of Montclair State; the editors of the Montclarion for supporting the administration's recommendation. The editorial does not, however, point out any of these valid reasons but rather works to perpetrate gross misconceptions about College High, and for this I very strongly criticize the editors of the Montclarion. For this I very strongly criticize the editors of the Montclarion. For this I very strongly criticize the editors of the Montclarion.

I cannot deny that there are valid reasons for "phasing out" College High as it exists now, and therefore, I do not criticize the editors of the Montclarion for supporting the administration's recommendation. The editorial does not, however, point out any of these valid reasons but rather works to perpetrate gross misconceptions about College High, and for this I very strongly criticizes the editors of the Montclarion. For this I very strongly criticizes the editors of the Montclarion. For this I very strongly criticizes the editors of the Montclarion.
The Frightening Military Complex

Mr. Inley's thing was SIDS the establishment of a truly democratic society based upon participatory democracy. Our goals often overlap, but as a member of the New York City set it is clear that the military-industrial complex is working in what was termed by President Kennedy the "national security" type of defense. The military-industrial complex, which was composed of faculty that will be dominated, or is dominating the military-industrial complex is so entrenched. Mr. Phelan makes it clear that the transfer of power has been to the military-industrial complex, not to the generals. He observed that the military-industrial complex is politically, economically and ideologically more secure. The military-industrial complex is not a New Leftist. His study confirms our view. Mr. Phelan is NOT a New Leftist. His study is an attempt to reduce its power, I'm afraid he will fail, since the military-industrial complex is so entrenched. I fear we are on our way to a complete militarism and the defense of the complex is so entrenched. But the militant students believe that Haessler and LaMongi, considered radicals, were dismissed. They feel that change is coming and the students are demanding the abolition of ROTC on the campus and a greater amount of student involvement in the hiring and firing of faculty. The strike came as the culmination of a long series of attempts to have the administration act on matters which had been causing student discontent.

Militant Profs

Recently, it was announced that the contacts of some instructors including Robert S. McNamara. Phelan calls him one of "the greatest bureaucratic managers who have contributed to the military-industrial complex and the voter," and his study of the military-industrial complex is not a New Leftist. His study confirms our view. Mr. Phelan is NOT a New Leftist. His study is an attempt to reduce its power, I'm afraid he will fail, since the military-industrial complex is so entrenched. I fear we are on our way to a complete militarism and the defense of the complex is so entrenched. But the militant students believe that Haessler and LaMongi, considered radicals, were dismissed. They feel that change is coming and the students are demanding the abolition of ROTC on the campus and a greater amount of student involvement in the hiring and firing of faculty. The strike came as the culmination of a long series of attempts to have the administration act on matters which had been causing student discontent.

Militant Profs

Recently, it was announced that the contacts of some instructors including Robert S. McNamara. Phelan calls him one of "the greatest bureaucratic managers who have contributed to the military-industrial complex and the voter," and his study of the military-industrial complex is not a New Leftist. His study confirms our view. Mr. Phelan is NOT a New Leftist. His study is an attempt to reduce its power, I'm afraid he will fail, since the military-industrial complex is so entrenched. I fear we are on our way to a complete militarism and the defense of the complex is so entrenched. But the militant students believe that Haessler and LaMongi, considered radicals, were dismissed. They feel that change is coming and the students are demanding the abolition of ROTC on the campus and a greater amount of student involvement in the hiring and firing of faculty. The strike came as the culmination of a long series of attempts to have the administration act on matters which had been causing student discontent.
Robert F. Kennedy: Apostle of Change

Douglas Ross, ed.

Trident Press, $7.95.

In his book, "Robert F. Kennedy: Apostle of Change," Douglas Ross has attempted to trace the development of the senator's political views and philosophy in the hope that access to this material will help interested persons to understand him. To this end, the author has compiled what amounts to an anthology of Kennedy's writings, speeches, and interviews, with very little creative thinking added by the writer.

In Mr. Kennedy's opinion, the organization of the book serves the purpose well. Following an introductory statement of Kennedy's views on public life and his role in it, the book divides itself into individual topics such as Poverty, Education and Crime. In each section there is a series of quotations, most of them selected from the development of the senator's views on the subject. This pattern makes it easy for the reader to pinpoint the presidential aspirant's opinion on any given issue at any point in his career.

The major reservations about the book are that Ross, in an attempt to present new material as close as possible to the late senator's political evolution, has deftly placed quotes out of context. For example, that he has not sufficiently explained his criteria for choosing the quotations is a point in his case.

The book seems to be a convenient reference source on Kennedy's political views, but it is too incomplete, too badly organized for general reading.

John McLoughley

Schwarzkopf Gives Recital; Jazz Invigorates Services

Champagne—manifest in the elegance of her style, the pale gold statuesque beauty, the sparkle of her eyes at the tumulus of applause greeted her, Elizabeth Schwarzkopf swept on the stage of the Philharmonic Hall.

Formerly a reigning prima donna of the great opera houses, she now devotes all her time to song recitals. As ever, a wise musician, she realizes that her voice can no longer undergo the a r d o r s of an operatic performance. Besides, she has always been famed as a peerless song interpreter, perhaps because of her deep involvement and sincerity.

Despite her all too apparent struggle for the control of her high range and that she can no longer terminate a tone well, her style, interpretation and vocal coloring lift the performance beyond consideration of mere technicalities. The notable musical transitions were the transitions she encompassed between the individual voices of all sects of the h o r r o r o f S c h u m a n n ' s "Waldesgeesrach" to the delight in simple pleasures of "Rainy Day.

In her program of songs by Hugo Wolf and Richard Strauss, the Wolf songs were consistently good while she reached a peak in the Strauss selections.

INFERNED SOURCES (DAY EAST RECEIVED)

By Willard Bain

Doublekirk, 1969. 82, 95. 144 pp.

Mr. Bain's book reads like a series of confusing Associated Press reports which eventually lapses into a Julius Caesar plot. The structure is certainly novel, but is also so intricate in keeping one sufficiently removed from sincere involvement. The characters are whatever one can infer, since all that is presented of them is their erratic and purposefully deceptive press reports.

The youthful and sinister agitator (Informed Sources) plot an overthrow of the Toads (Associated Press) only to be later overthrown by the unorganized even-more-youthful agitators (Green Dreams).

Masterminded by Solomon Hershoy, I.S. sends irrelevant reports to Main Desk about the alleged death of the alleged Robin the Cock, spokesman of the hip generation. Interpreted and then reprinted, reports of "the Cock" are some unpredictable typographical errors (which are sometimes just funny, but at other times pleasingly satiric), and segments of Solomon Hershoy's novel (The Fact and the Fall) is reprinted.

Mr. Bain parodies the world's writers of today. He frequently affects a style comparable to an over-inflated balloon, tensely full of literary devices. His deliberate irreverence and therefore ludicrous misuse of the language is perhaps the most effective means of making Kennedy's student, but it is too much for my taste, too tiring for general reading.

John McLoughley
Gymnasts in NCAA Championships

Strong Event Scratched
From Competition,

By Joe Macaluso

The MSC gymnastics team now sports a 4-1 record for the 1968-69 season. The team has scored impressive wins over the United States Coast Guard Academy, Trenton State, United States Military Academy "B" and Slippery Rock State College.

Southern Connecticut State, an eastern powerhouse for gymnastics, handed Montclair its lowest score in a closely matched meet. Last Saturday's win over Slippery Rock with a 20 point margin, marks the first time Montclair has beaten this highly regarded team.

When the team began its season, it was without the scoring potential of one of last year's best events, the trampoline. A national ruling eliminated the event from competition, but the gymnasts have managed to score the same team total as last year without the 20 point plus benefit of our strong trampoline squad.

Coach Terry O'Dell feels the team spirit would be very high and it should be with the improvement made from last year. The team scored 195.35 over its 3-3 record in 1968. The team qualified for the NCAA college division championships. Not only did the team qualify, but Dave Green, John Guenther, and Rick Schwarz have qualified individually by scoring over 85 during the season.

These three gymnasts provide great support to a team that has many capable performers.

MSC gymasts enjoy winning, but no win was as rewarding as their first over Slippery Rock State. During that meet, three events (side horse, still rings and floor exercise) scored higher than any ever scored during the season.

In floor exercise Rick Schwarz placed second. On the side horse, Joe Garreffa, Dave Green and Bob Poling tied for first place and Rick Schwarz won third place. Rick Schwarz led in the still rings with a first place, and Ron Poling and Ralph Coscia tied for third place.

BASEBALL FORECAST: 20-GAME SCHEDULE

A 20 game schedule, opening with Fairleigh Dickinson University on April 1 at home, has been announced for Montclair State College's baseball team by Bill Douglass, director of athletics.

The 1969 schedule:

April 1 - Fairleigh Dickinson University
April 3 - Newark State
April 6 - New Jersey College of Pharmacy
April 7 - New Jersey City College
April 11 - Jersey City State
April 12 - New Jersey City College
April 14 - Rutgers 14 - At Upsala College
April 16 - At Newark State 18 - At St. Peter's College 19 - At Glassboro State 21 - At Bloomfield College 24 - At Paterson State 26 - Trenton State 28 - Pace College

In floor exercise Rick Schwarz placed second. On the side horse, Joe Garreffa, Dave Green and Bob Poling tied for first place and Rick Schwarz won third place. Rick Schwarz led in the still rings with a first place, and Ron Poling and Ralph Coscia tied for third place.

Kiwian Basketball Classic, the MSC cheerleaders were awarded the first place trophy in the judging of every cheerleading squad that represented the participating schools.

The rules of the contest stated that the girls would be judged on pep, enthusiasm, variety of routines, uniformity, overall appearance and crowd response. But the rules do not include what is probably the most important quality.

Dedication is that quality. These girls undergo the rigors of practices and actual game performances, without always receiving the appreciation of the student body, as is expressed by the lack of enthusiasm during timeouts. Only in the Classic did the MSC "booster" respond, rising to the occasion.

The interests of the majority of the coeds at MSC are not geared to this endeavor. In addition, there is a lack of emphasis on cheerleading with the lack of publicity, prestige and above all, glory. Glory is a prime motive. The turnouts for such sports as soccer, wrestling, field gymnastics, cross country and track, are nowhere near those of football, basketball and baseball.

Co-captains Karen Ward and Bob Phillips lead the squad of 10 who have contributed so much to the team if not to the fans.

Let's Hear It For The Cheerleaders!

By John Aneson

We all know that the position of a high school cheerleader is one of prestige and honor. To be one is a must to convey the image of the "All American Girl" all bedecked in dog and apple pie. But once a girl gets to college, the pedestal crumbles.

Recently, at the New Jersey Kiwanis Basketball Classic, Ron Rippie of the Paterson News presents the award to co-captain Ruth Phillips. Pictured kneeling (left to right) are: Terry Kostes, Sandy Griceco, Pat Higgins. Standing (left to right) are Rippie, Miss Phillips, Linda Werner, Michelle Reilly, Bobbi Maas. Not pictured are co-captain Karen Ward, Mari Jean Grande and Gaby Walker.
CROSSED BLADES: The average American sports fan, although very knowledgeable when it comes to baseball, football and basketball, is on the like is not exactly astute concerning the act of fencing.

The point system used by each weapon is basically simple. The first man to penetrate his opponent's defenses for five touches wins the bout. A touch is scored when the blade hits the opponent (in epee and foil) the touch is made with the point, in sabre, the touch can also be made by the edges of the blade) with enough force to theoretically inflict a wound or "cut." There are nine starters, a number which is not exactly astute concerning the act of fencing.

The Montclair State Composite fencing squad poses the biggest threat in the team's quest for an undefeated season. The team is led by Greg Bornako and Greg Sorzano, both former Essex Catholic fencers and both former state schoolboy champs. Bornako, a junior who heads the foil squad, was the North Atlantic Intercollegiate foil champion as a freshman; Sorzano, although only a freshman, placed fourth at the APLA state tournament behind Bornako and Rodgers.

CROSSED BLADES: The average American sports fan, although very knowledgeable when it comes to baseball, football and the like is not exactly astute concerning the act of fencing.

Crossed Blades: The average American sports fan, although very knowledgeable when it comes to baseball, football and basketball, is on the contrary not exactly astute concerning the act of fencing.

The point system used by each weapon is basically simple. The first man to penetrate his opponent's defenses for five touches wins the bout. A touch is scored when the blade hits the opponent (in epee and foil) the touch is made with the point, in sabre, the touch can also be made by the edges of the blade) with enough force to theoretically inflict a wound or "cut." There are nine starters, a number which is not exactly astute concerning the act of fencing.

The Montclair State Composite fencing squad poses the biggest threat in the team's quest for an undefeated season. The team is led by Greg Bornako and Greg Sorzano, both former Essex Catholic fencers and both former state schoolboy champs. Bornako, a junior who heads the foil squad, was the North Atlantic Intercollegiate foil champion as a freshman; Sorzano, although only a freshman, placed fourth at the APLA state tournament behind Bornako and Rodgers.

CROSSED BLADES: The average American sports fan, although very knowledgeable when it comes to baseball, football and basketball, is on the contrary not exactly astute concerning the act of fencing.