The Montclarion, February 13, 1970

The Montclarion

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/montclarion

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.montclair.edu/montclarion/1420

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Student Newspapers at Montclair State University Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Montclarion by an authorized administrator of Montclair State University Digital Commons. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@montclair.edu.
Black Friday!

Today is Friday the 13th—but it seems to be a good luck day for some people. At least that’s what some MSC students say. A poll of local hospitals and insurance companies revealed no significant increase in personal accidents on the 13th, also known as Black Friday.

A person need not be superstitious to be "intellectually curious" about some of the customs that have cloaked this day in mystery for ages. One popular taboo concerns the color black on the 13th, which was thought to invite bad luck, broken bones, or even death.

Business distributed on this date were felt to be destined to failure.

In Elizabethan England a proper gentleman might have decided to spend Black Friday in his own bed in order to avoid misfortune.

Even in our sophisticated society, people still avoid black cats, walking under ladders, or whistling in a cemetery at nite. It seems that occult folklore is still alive.

NEW DEMANDS AT TRENTON

TRENTON — The resignations of President James Heuster and the entire Board of Trustees are among demands of striking faculty and students at Trenton State College.

Other demands include action on 25 demands submitted Dec. 18 and the postponement of a tuition hike.

Today’s action follows yesterday’s demonstration and leafletting at Green Hall, the main campus building, and an all-night sit-in at Cromwell dormitory Wednesday.

PROFS MARCH AFTER REJECTION

TRENTON — A meeting in Trenton of 750 representatives from New Jersey’s six state colleges resulted in a mass march after the rejection of the State Board of Higher Education’s latest salary offer yesterday.

Declared an “irresponsible proposal” by Don Duclos, negotiations chairman for the Association of New Jersey State College Faculty, the offer would provide for a 2% increase plus regular increments.

In addition to a meeting to be held Mon., Feb. 16 with the Board of Higher Education at 11 a.m., the negotiations team will meet with the state representatives Fri., Feb. 20. It has been indicated that the teachers’ representatives will have the power to call a strike of all six colleges if the state’s offer proves unacceptable.

APPOINT EXEC AT ESSEX COLLEGE

NEWARK — Mr. J. Harry Smith has been appointed chief executive officer of Essex County College by the Board of Trustees. This comes in the wake of the acceptance of the resignation of Dr. Ellis F. White, college president, Monday.

White, second president to resign at the college, told the board in his letter of resignation that he was resigning in “an effort to restore harmony and order as quickly as possible, and in the best interest of the students and all other interested parties of the Essex County College.”

Smith will retain his position until a committee chooses a new president.

The ouster of White and Smith had been the object of a 10-day student strike at ECC which ended last Wednesday.

‘Fearful’ Prof’s Nix Student Evaluation

‘Could Infringe Academic Freedom’—Faculty

By Lorraine Pisano

Compulsory faculty evaluations by students have been “tabled” for the current semester.

Many faculty, according to Mrs. Mary Bredemeier, assistant professor of education, feel that compulsory evaluations would infringe upon academic freedom, and thus, postponed a decision and the proposal. Other faculty gave a lack of time for discussion and publication of the evaluations as reasons for tabling. Still other faculty were against student evaluation of faculty altogether.

Edwin Mills, assistant professor of education and former chairman of the faculty evaluation committee, stated that some of the faculty might be afraid of being “ramrodded or pushed,” if students had an opportunity to obtain a published evaluation of their professors before signing up for a course.

Now that the proposal has been tabled, said Mrs. Bredemeier, attempts will be made to discover the proportion of faculty members who approve of the idea of evaluation.

Mills stated that the primary goal of evaluation is “increased evaluation,” and he believes that students are concerned with learning, and can express a “perception of academic freedom, feel that compulsion would infringe upon academic freedom, and thus, postponed a decision and the proposal. Other faculty gave a lack of time for discussion and publication of the evaluations as reasons for tabling. Still other faculty were against student evaluation of faculty altogether.

Edwin Mills, assistant professor of education and former chairman of the faculty evaluation committee, stated that some of the faculty might be afraid of being “ramrodded or pushed,” if students had an opportunity to obtain a published evaluation of their professors before signing up for a course.

Now that the proposal has been tabled, said Mrs. Bredemeier, attempts will be made to discover the proportion of faculty members who approve of the idea of evaluation.

Mills stated that the primary goal of evaluation is “increased evaluation,” and he believes that students are concerned with learning, and can express a “perception of faculty members. Evaluations can be educative for the faculty and meaningful to the students.”

Mrs. Bredemeier said that she had received many letters supporting evaluations, and said evaluation was “a very alive issue here,” and was optimistic that some form of proposal would be developed this year.
FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 13

An Exhibition: Rienzo Brand (through Feb. 15); "Artists at Work," photography by Henry Rocksheler (through Feb. 15). Mon.-Thurs. 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Fri. 8-6:30 p.m.; Sat. 8-4 p.m.; Sun. 9-11 a.m.

STUDENT CENTER ART GALLERY, Seton Hall University. South Orange, Susanna Bravetti: one-woman art show, through Feb. 15. Weekdays 10:10-2 p.m., Sun. 2-10 p.m.

ANTIQUE VALENTINES. A treasures exhibit of Hallmark Historical Collection of Antique Valentines. Collection is by Henry Daly. 10-5, Sat. 9-4:30 p.m. Pigeon Avenue and Third Street.

TUE. IMMEDIATE RESPONSE, Montclair Art Museum, drawing and water colors from permanent collections. 3 S. Mountain Ave. Tues.-Sat. 10:45 a.m.; Sun. 2-6:30 p.m.

MILL, PLAYHOUSE. Art Gallery, Brookside Dr. Henry Dopon and Bert Smm: Two-man exhibit of paintings (through Feb.)

G R A T E F U L  D E A D at Fillmore East, 105 2nd Ave.

B A S K E T B A L L. Montclair State vs. Paterson State (away)

F A R I N A. Montclair State vs. Glassboro State (away)

G R A T E F U L  D E A D. Millburn. 7 p.m.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 14

MUSICALS. Montclair State vs. W. Virginia University (away)

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 15

G R A T E F U L  D E A D at Fillmore East, 105 2nd Ave.

FAIR HOUSING. Cosla room, 2 p.m.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 17

Lillian Calcia Dedicating A Building

CURRICULUM Development and member of the Eastern and National Arts Association. Mrs. Calcia's interest in events at MSC remains strong. On the subject of the School of Fine and Performing Arts she smilingly remarked, "I've waited a long time for this. We tried to do something similar — combining the different arts — a whole ale, but we're ready then. Now's the right time."

The Montclarion seminars. You'll learn a lot. About life. And about the way it's put together. Call my office for the details. 783-9991. Tell them I sent you.

The Dudes

by Sulich

THE Dudes

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 13

An Exhibition: Rienzo Brand (through Feb. 15); "Artists at Work," photography by Henry Rocksheler (through Feb. 15). Mon.-Thurs. 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Fri. 8-6:30 p.m.; Sat. 8-4 p.m.; Sun. 9-11 a.m.

STUDENT CENTER ART GALLERY, Seton Hall University. South Orange, Susanna Bravetti: one-woman art show, through Feb. 15. Weekdays 10:10-2 p.m., Sun. 2-10 p.m.

ANTIQUE VALENTINES. A treasures exhibit of Hallmark Historical Collection of Antique Valentines. Collection is by Henry Daly. 10-5, Sat. 9-4:30 p.m. Pigeon Avenue and Third Street.

TUE. IMMEDIATE RESPONSE, Montclair Art Museum, drawing and water colors from permanent collections. 3 S. Mountain Ave. Tues.-Sat. 10:45 a.m.; Sun. 2-6:30 p.m.

MILL, PLAYHOUSE. Art Gallery, Brookside Dr. Henry Dopon and Bert Smm: Two-man exhibit of paintings (through Feb.)

G R A T E F U L  D E A D at Fillmore East, 105 2nd Ave.

B A S K E T B A L L. Montclair State vs. Paterson State (away)

F A R I N A. Montclair State vs. Glassboro State (away)

G R A T E F U L  D E A D. Millburn. 7 p.m.
Teachers, Students Play
Hockey Throug Jersey

By Gail Marks
Staff Reporter

While an undisclosed settlement early last week ended a teacher strike which had closed Passaic schools, other area educational institutions remain plagued by negotiation deadlocks resulting in failure to meet student and faculty demands.

A breakdown in bargaining caused by arrests made in accordance with State law and violation of a no-strike order from superior court Judge Ward J. Herbert, brought negotiations in the Newark teachers’ strike to a halt last Thursday.

And the friction between the striking teachers and Board of Education have resumed, there are many differences, including outside mediator Lewis Kadden in reply to questioning as to how the talks were progressing.

Salary considerations, calling for a $2000 raise retroactive to Sept. 1, 1969, and a $10,000 minimum salary for teachers with a bachelor’s degree, as well as reduced class sizes and supplementary programs making schools more effective and beneficial to the student are but a small part of the demands in a package of some 500 items.

With school elections due this week to decide on board members and budgets, factfinding continues in Bergen County districts in an attempt to settle wage disputes of the 1970-71 contract, with teachers working, record high salaries for those holding college degrees. Agreements on money have been reached in 12 of the district, while others still negotiate salary demands for the coming school year, and all districts continue bargaining on the fringe benefit portion of the contract.

On the college level, students have joined in faculty protest and at all other state and private schools. Recently, the directors of five of the six divisions of the Essex County College signed a statement requesting the resignation of college president, Dr. Ellis White. This demand, as well as the coalition in support of the Newark teacher strike, saw classes deserted last week, the college was officially open. (See later story on page one.)

On the college level, students have joined in faculty protest and at all other state and private schools. Recently, the directors of five of the six divisions of the Essex County College signed a statement requesting the resignation of college president, Dr. Ellis White. This demand, as well as the coalition in support of the Newark teacher strike, saw classes deserted last week, the college was officially open. (See later story on page one.)

Carried on by a loose coalition of students and faculty, the group bridging the gap to the militants, support continued for the admission of underprivileged men and women, as well as the administration of underprivileged students, with remedial programs provided where necessary.

Two demands were the request for an accounting of the revenue to be gained by recent tuition increases, and $1000 in unscheduled major salary increases and fringe benefits, the Teaneck branch of Fairleigh Dickinson University closed last week.

Carried on by a loose coalition of students and faculty, the group bridging the gap to the militants, support continued for the admission of underprivileged men and women, as well as the administration of underprivileged students, with remedial programs provided where necessary.

Two demands were the request for an accounting of the revenue to be gained by recent tuition increases, and $1000 in unscheduled major salary increases and fringe benefits, the Teaneck branch of Fairleigh Dickinson University closed last week.

Meanwhile, a strike has been called against the School Committee for closing that town’s schools, after negotiations broke off late last week.

ON STRIKE: Student protesters march outside Newark’s Essex County College

Many of the area’s educational institutions have a local private campus, too, has become the scene of student unrest. Speaking the speech of a 20-year-old sociology major, Ronald Lerman, on behalf of striking workmen’s demands for higher salaries and fringe benefits, the Teaneck branch of Fairleigh Dickinson University closed last week.

Carried on by a loose coalition of students and faculty, the group bridging the gap to the militants, support continued for the admission of underprivileged men and women, as well as the administration of underprivileged students, with remedial programs provided where necessary.

Two demands were the request for an accounting of the revenue to be gained by recent tuition increases, and $1000 in unscheduled major salary increases and fringe benefits, the Teaneck branch of Fairleigh Dickinson University closed last week.

Meanwhile, a strike has been called against the School Committee for closing that town’s schools, after negotiations broke off late last week.

Carried on by a loose coalition of students and faculty, the group bridging the gap to the militants, support continued for the admission of underprivileged men and women, as well as the administration of underprivileged students, with remedial programs provided where necessary.

Two demands were the request for an accounting of the revenue to be gained by recent tuition increases, and $1000 in unscheduled major salary increases and fringe benefits, the Teaneck branch of Fairleigh Dickinson University closed last week.

Meanwhile, a strike has been called against the School Committee for closing that town’s schools, after negotiations broke off late last week.

Carried on by a loose coalition of students and faculty, the group bridging the gap to the militants, support continued for the admission of underprivileged men and women, as well as the administration of underprivileged students, with remedial programs provided where necessary.

Two demands were the request for an accounting of the revenue to be gained by recent tuition increases, and $1000 in unscheduled major salary increases and fringe benefits, the Teaneck branch of Fairleigh Dickinson University closed last week.

Meanwhile, a strike has been called against the School Committee for closing that town’s schools, after negotiations broke off late last week.

Carried on by a loose coalition of students and faculty, the group bridging the gap to the militants, support continued for the admission of underprivileged men and women, as well as the administration of underprivileged students, with remedial programs provided where necessary.

Two demands were the request for an accounting of the revenue to be gained by recent tuition increases, and $1000 in unscheduled major salary increases and fringe benefits, the Teaneck branch of Fairleigh Dickinson University closed last week.

Meanwhile, a strike has been called against the School Committee for closing that town’s schools, after negotiations broke off late last week.

Carried on by a loose coalition of students and faculty, the group bridging the gap to the militants, support continued for the admission of underprivileged men and women, as well as the administration of underprivileged students, with remedial programs provided where necessary.

Two demands were the request for an accounting of the revenue to be gained by recent tuition increases, and $1000 in unscheduled major salary increases and fringe benefits, the Teaneck branch of Fairleigh Dickinson University closed last week.

Meanwhile, a strike has been called against the School Committee for closing that town’s schools, after negotiations broke off late last week.

Carried on by a loose coalition of students and faculty, the group bridging the gap to the militants, support continued for the admission of underprivileged men and women, as well as the administration of underprivileged students, with remedial programs provided where necessary.

Two demands were the request for an accounting of the revenue to be gained by recent tuition increases, and $1000 in unscheduled major salary increases and fringe benefits, the Teaneck branch of Fairleigh Dickinson University closed last week.

Meanwhile, a strike has been called against the School Committee for closing that town’s schools, after negotiations broke off late last week.

Carried on by a loose coalition of students and faculty, the group bridging the gap to the militants, support continued for the admission of underprivileged men and women, as well as the administration of underprivileged students, with remedial programs provided where necessary.

Two demands were the request for an accounting of the revenue to be gained by recent tuition increases, and $1000 in unscheduled major salary increases and fringe benefits, the Teaneck branch of Fairleigh Dickinson University closed last week.

Meanwhile, a strike has been called against the School Committee for closing that town’s schools, after negotiations broke off late last week.

Carried on by a loose coalition of students and faculty, the group bridging the gap to the militants, support continued for the admission of underprivileged men and women, as well as the administration of underprivileged students, with remedial programs provided where necessary.

Two demands were the request for an accounting of the revenue to be gained by recent tuition increases, and $1000 in unscheduled major salary increases and fringe benefits, the Teaneck branch of Fairleigh Dickinson University closed last week.

Meanwhile, a strike has been called against the School Committee for closing that town’s schools, after negotiations broke off late last week.

Carried on by a loose coalition of students and faculty, the group bridging the gap to the militants, support continued for the admission of underprivileged men and women, as well as the administration of underprivileged students, with remedial programs provided where necessary.

Two demands were the request for an accounting of the revenue to be gained by recent tuition increases, and $1000 in unscheduled major salary increases and fringe benefits, the Teaneck branch of Fairleigh Dickinson University closed last week.

Meanwhile, a strike has been called against the School Committee for closing that town’s schools, after negotiations broke off late last week.

Carried on by a loose coalition of students and faculty, the group bridging the gap to the militants, support continued for the admission of underprivileged men and women, as well as the administration of underprivileged students, with remedial programs provided where necessary.

Two demands were the request for an accounting of the revenue to be gained by recent tuition increases, and $1000 in unscheduled major salary increases and fringe benefits, the Teaneck branch of Fairleigh Dickinson University closed last week.

Meanwhile, a strike has been called against the School Committee for closing that town’s schools, after negotiations broke off late last week.

Carried on by a loose coalition of students and faculty, the group bridging the gap to the militants, support continued for the admission of underprivileged men and women, as well as the administration of underprivileged students, with remedial programs provided where necessary.

Two demands were the request for an accounting of the revenue to be gained by recent tuition increases, and $1000 in unscheduled major salary increases and fringe benefits, the Teaneck branch of Fairleigh Dickinson University closed last week.

Meanwhile, a strike has been called against the School Committee for closing that town’s schools, after negotiations broke off late last week.

Carried on by a loose coalition of students and faculty, the group bridging the gap to the militants, support continued for the admission of underprivileged men and women, as well as the administration of underprivileged students, with remedial programs provided where necessary.

Two demands were the request for an accounting of the revenue to be gained by recent tuition increases, and $1000 in unscheduled major salary increases and fringe benefits, the Teaneck branch of Fairleigh Dickinson University closed last week.

Meanwhile, a strike has been called against the School Committee for closing that town’s schools, after negotiations broke off late last week.

Carried on by a loose coalition of students and faculty, the group bridging the gap to the militants, support continued for the admission of underprivileged men and women, as well as the administration of underprivileged students, with remedial programs provided where necessary.

Two demands were the request for an accounting of the revenue to be gained by recent tuition increases, and $1000 in unscheduled major salary increases and fringe benefits, the Teaneck branch of Fairleigh Dickinson University closed last week.

Meanwhile, a strike has been called against the School Committee for closing that town’s schools, after negotiations broke off late last week.
Reportage: Another Side to 'Sade' in Philly

Odd Bodkins by O'Neill

The Elusiveness of Order in Our Young People Will Never Be Stamped Out!

This Crossroads in Their Lives Will Never Be-crossed!

As a Law-Making Citizen, I Have Applied to Their Actions in Boston Making Verdict.

Their Rough-Talk About Rights and Duties Does Not Follow Right!

"If a thousand men were not to pay their tax bills this year, that would be a violent and bloody measure as it would be to tax them and enable the State to commit violence and shed innocent blood." Henry David Thoreau

In April it will be four years since the government has added 10% to our telephone bill each month to finance the war in Vietnam. There are some 6000 people today who are refusing to pay this tax. Joan Baez Harris refuses to pay this tax and, long before that, portion of her income tax that is destined for the Defense Department.

For those involved in war tax resistance, the least of their resistance is not to pay voluntarily $5 or more of federal tax. The government actively attempts to recoup even the smallest amount. When dealing with the telephone tax, Bell telephone usually sends notice and on occasion has called the resistor to notify him they will be forced to pay it. The government, for example, has sent a representative of the Revenue Service. Eventually, IRS will send a representative to find your place of work.

WHAT THE LAW SAYS

The law says a revenue agent may seize your car, real estate or Social Security check. When the assessment is small it will attempt to seize your checking or savings accounts. However, if you have not opened a checking account or opened one recently, the revenue agent must attempt to find your place of work.

If, in the case of some persons, wages are paid in cash and the employer is willing to assist, no tax will be collected. What all this amounts to is that in most cases, it has cost the government more money, in the person of a highly-paid revenue agent, than it has gained in collecting the tax.

Those participating feel that even in this small way they are resisting the war.

This group is presently concerned with spreading the movement for war tax resistance. If the war grows, the more it costs the government, and, they feel, the quicker the war will end.

Barbara Fischer: Opinion Left

War Tax Resistance and the Law

Frank D. Cripps: Opinion Right

Misunderstood Philosophy

This is the first of a series of articles which will appear in this column. The articles will deal with a variety of political philosophy — that of conservatism in America today. The importance of modern American conservatism is found in the fact that it has led to hundreds of books, articles and essays on the political philosophy — that of conservatism in America today.

The importance of modern American conservatism is found in the fact that it is adored to by a large number of political leaders as well as a multitude of citizens.

There are three problems with modern American conservatism that must be stated at the outset of this series. First: Modern American conservatism is a complex, little understood philosophy. Second: Many men and acts are labeled "conservative" because they are men or acts of a radical right or a moderate philosophy. Third: The liberal press in the United States continues to misrepresent conservatives and the conservative philosophy.

NOT REACTIONARY

Theabrasia, the quicker the war will end.

"Cousin Brucie's," a little known, little understood column. The articles will deal with the problems of today. And this approach does not imply a majority of modern American conservatism is found in the fact that it is adored to by a large number of political leaders as well as a multitude of citizens.

There are three problems with modern American conservatism that must be stated at the outset of this series. First: Modern American conservatism is a complex, little understood philosophy. Second: Many men and acts are labeled "conservative" because they are men or acts of a radical right or a moderate philosophy. Third: The liberal press in the United States continues to misrepresent conservatives and the conservative philosophy.

NOT REACTIONARY

So, let's get the story straight. Modern American conservatism is not a reactionary conspiracy on the part of the radical right to "take over" this country or to deprive any segment of the population of their Constitutional rights, freedoms or liberties. Nor do conservatives vow blind allegiance to the status quo. And reality is that conservatives look nostalgically to an endeavor, especially an artistic endeavor, it becomes an extension of themselves. Thus, when we had worked almost to the point of collapse, we were happy. The show had gone very well, because we had done the best we could for us, that was the same thing as loving us. It made the whole experience of this disappointing experience worth it.

We know that educators across the country have been responding to the American College Theater Festival closely and we felt they would want to be a part of this effort. We went to Philadelphia with the intention of making the entire nation crazy, the artistic endeavors of the students of MSC. We returned home with the feeling that we had accomplished our goal.

Frank D. Cripps:

Opinion Right

Misunderstood Philosophy

This is the first of a series of articles which will appear in this column. The articles will deal with a variety of political philosophy — that of conservatism in America today. The importance of modern American conservatism is found in the fact that it has led to hundreds of books, articles and essays on the political philosophy — that of conservatism in America today.

The importance of modern American conservatism is found in the fact that it is adored to by a large number of political leaders as well as a multitude of citizens.

There are three problems with modern American conservatism that must be stated at the outset of this series. First: Modern American conservatism is a complex, little understood philosophy. Second: Many men and acts are labeled "conservative" because they are men or acts of a radical right or a moderate philosophy. Third: The liberal press in the United States continues to misrepresent conservatives and the conservative philosophy.

NOT REACTIONARY

So, let's get the story straight. Modern American conservatism is not a reactionary conspiracy on the part of the radical right to "take over" this country or to deprive any segment of the population of their Constitutional rights, freedoms or liberties. Nor do conservatives vow blind allegiance to the status quo. And reality is that conservatives look nostalgically to

Barbara Fischer: Opinion Left

War Tax Resistance and the Law

Frank D. Cripps: Opinion Right

Misunderstood Philosophy

This is the first of a series of articles which will appear in this column. The articles will deal with a variety of political philosophy — that of conservatism in America today. The importance of modern American conservatism is found in the fact that it has led to hundreds of books, articles and essays on the political philosophy — that of conservatism in America today.

The importance of modern American conservatism is found in the fact that it is adored to by a large number of political leaders as well as a multitude of citizens.

There are three problems with modern American conservatism that must be stated at the outset of this series. First: Modern American conservatism is a complex, little understood philosophy. Second: Many men and acts are labeled "conservative" because they are men or acts of a radical right or a moderate philosophy. Third: The liberal press in the United States continues to misrepresent conservatives and the conservative philosophy.

NOT REACTIONARY

So, let's get the story straight. Modern American conservatism is not a reactionary conspiracy on the part of the radical right to "take over" this country or to deprive any segment of the population of their Constitutional rights, freedoms or liberties. Nor do conservatives vow blind allegiance to the status quo. And reality is that conservatives look nostalgically to.
Thumbs Down on Inflation--and Education, Too

Last week President Richard M. Nixon appeared before a nationwide radio and television audience to veto a health-education-welfare bill that was termed "inflationary."

This was indeed a crucial bill for Nixon and academic communities around the country. Money that might have been earmarked as aid to disadvantaged urban schools and remedial college programs has been slashed as a result of the veto.

Consequently, financial channels are drying up despite greater pressure upon educational institutions to aid deprived students in obtaining college training.

A Veto from the President

The choice was undoubtedly hard for Nixon and was obviously not a political move to woo the votes of educators. Governmental analysts are predicting that prices will rise 5% this year and inflation could get out of control without governmental curbs. By keeping a tight lid on federal spending, Nixon is hoping to counter inflated money. And that's to the advantage of the public at large.

Aid to education could come from other unforeseen sources. Experts say that by 1975, an estimated $50 billion surplus will be in the U.S. budget as a result of America's phase out of Vietnamese commitments. At least part of the sum should be applied to educational projects at the college level. By that time inflation could be curbed and current educational programs could be expanded to accommodate a new generation of students and ex-students.

OK the Extra Fee

The State Board of Higher Education has recently approved an increase in MSC's student union fee. The fee will be raised from $20 to $45 per year at the time of the building's opening. The increase has been approved by the administration and the SGA.

We feel that the increase is just. The burden of the extra $45 should not prove too great for the MSC student. The $4.5 million union building, now scheduled for completion in September 1972, is well worth the newly-established price.

$45 Is Cheap Enough

Many state colleges and universities have union fees higher than those of N.J.--even some of our sister state colleges have fees as high as $80.

Since You Asked Me

By Celeste Faunce
Editorial Assistant
What qualities are necessary for a good SCA president?

Thomas Benitz, sophomore, business education: Student-body representatives must have a sincere interest in the school. Most importantly, he must remember that he is representing the students.

Ken Traynor, junior, distribution education: immaculate personality of the student body must be to communicate with all students. He must be energetic, patient, reliable.

Tim Fanning, junior, English: Open-mindedness, interest in people and experience with student governments are major requirements.

Jean Dawson, sophomore, French: He should be someone who is genuinely concerned with the needs of the student body and not his need of popularity.

Diane Binder, sophomore, business education: The best qualification for a representative is to be an interested SGA meeting. Someone walking in off the streets could not do the job effectively.

Regina Edwards, freshman, history: I feel he must be aware of the entire student body's feelings. Used as a means of communication, he must be able to understand and express their ideas.

Kathy Callahan, freshman, physical education: Involvement is the key word. He must be interested and concerned about students' needs.

The Open Hand

A twice-monthly report on Student Government Association affairs researched and compiled by the MONTCLARION.

With less than two-and-a-half months to SGA election day, campus politics are apparently keeping the lids sealed on their presidential ambitions until the last minute. Apparently each undeclared candidate is waiting to see what everybody else is doing.

Observers are saying that the presidential race will be going in three directions with Timothy Fanning, Thomas Benitz and, possibly, Kenneth Traynor tossing their hats into the ring.

Current SGA President Kenneth Traynor is reportedly considering an unprecedented second term, but his chances of winning are very slim, according to a high SGA source. Just recently the Legislature passed a bill that would allow Traynor (a junior) the right to seek a second term, thus permitting him to serve thru his senior year.

Traynor's administration, as one SGA representative says, has been filled with progress -- at least as compared to previous SGA governments. The rep claims that when stacked against other student governments, MSC has proven to be most progressive. But, as he sees it, Traynor's time is up.

Both Benitz and Fanning are birds of a feather: they're both conservatives in terms of the national political spectrum. Traynor's an all-around liberal, though he dislikes the tag. Fanning is a junior English major from Lyndhurst and has the backing of several key SGA legislators but the legislators can only be swung into the Benitz camp. Fanning is not being pushed into the running by anyone.

Benitz is a sophomore business-education major from Middlesex, a shy person by nature. Benitz has represented the business department during the past year and has tended to be a spokesman for the campus's "silent majority." There's one snag tho: Benitz is a member of Psi Chi -- and so is Traynor. If Benitz and Traynor decide to run, it could badly split the voting and support of the frat.

Fanning, on the other hand, is a member of Alpha Phi Omega, the service frat. He represented English during the past year and sponsored a number of key bills. He's vocal, but not well-known. He could get the vote's nod election day if he runs a good campaign.

CAMPUS WHIRL

Presidential Pot Is Cool

Meanwhile, there's several key spots up for grabs this year including English department rep, being vacated by venerable campus poltice Robert Stickel, a senior. Reportedly, there are three people aiming to grab the seat from under him. Social science is being split and voting is expected to be light. Phys. ed, foreign languages, fine arts and sciences: all tossups. Vocal Jordan Denner of music is leaving, no replacement in sight. The hottest race, tho, is English.

Vice-presidential timber is scant. Those considering the race include John Aneson, former MONTCLARION sports editor with a finger in every campus pie. The treasurer's seat is expected to remain safe with capable Dawn Sova running again. Sharon Wancho and Lorraine Leitgeb are expected to announce for the SGA secretary position.

MONTCLARION
Serving the College Community Since 1929
-- New Jersey's Leading Collegiate Weekly

Executive editor
Maurice J. Moran Jr.
Managing editors
David M. Levine
Don Pendley

Since You Asked Me

By Celeste Faunce
Editorial Assistant
What qualities are necessary for a good SCA president?

Thomas Benitz, sophomore, business education: Student-body representatives must have a sincere interest in the school. Most importantly, he must remember that he is representing the students.

Ken Traynor, junior, distribution education: The best qualification for the student body must be to communicate with all students. He must be energetic, patient, reliable.
College Will Sit Out Effects of Nixon's Ax

By Cheryl B. Brooking
Education Editor

The effect of President Nixon's veto of the controversial health, education and welfare bill on the New Jersey schools, especially Montclair State, "is hard to determine," according to Vincent B. Calabrese, vice-president of business and financial services. Calabrese stated that, at the present time, it is very difficult to project how the President's veto will effect MSC and it is necessary to wait until the companion bill, designed to replace the rejected bill, is completely written and made public.

"We have no way of knowing, at this time, what appropriations will be cut and which ones will remain," stated Calabrese. Nixon's aides say that educational spending must definitely be restricted, in the interest of curbing inflation, for at least the next few years.

While making cuts in educational programs, the administration also plans to simultaneously change emphases in existing programs, in the hope of eliminating overspending in some areas.

Toward this end, Nixon plans on setting up a National Institute of Learning which will closely follow the course of federal educational spending over the course of the next few years, in order to discover which programs are wastefully and which programs are, in effect, a waste of money. At the end of this observation period, educational programs will be reorganized and those which have been proven ineffective will be eliminated with new programs, indicated by research studies, replacing them.

The new institute will operate under the auspices of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and its entire function will be research, operating along similar lines to the National Institute of Health.

Certain phases of the research will be conducted by researchers within the Institute, whereas others will be passed on to universities and other national institutions.

"With at least one friend in every sport you get to know the sport quite well," she added.

"Sometimes," she admitted, "I would get hassled by the boys because they didn't like the idea of a girl knowing as much as they did about any sport."

According to Carol, the team members didn't seem to mind her presence especially since she always brought a supply of gum with her to each sports event.

The time Carol doesn't spend on sports is used for clipping recipes from newspapers and making clothes. For Christmas she received a fondue pot and during intercession she made a maxi skirt, worn for the first time at a wrestling match.

Her enthusiasm for this sport carried over to her choice of colleges: "MSC's fine baseball record was one of the reasons I decided on attending this school," she stated.

"I don't have to tell you," she added, "who's going to cover that sport."

Hearts, Flowers and Cards

History of Valentines Day Found in the Cards

By Kathy Vango
Assistant Sports Editor

Heigh – ho! for a husband,
heigh – ho
There's a danger in longer delay!
Shall I never again have a beau?
A nonsense verse? Not really.
Instead it's an old comic valentine
In the Hallmark Valentine collection at the Clifton Public Library. This valentine greeting comes complete with a long-nosed
Mr. Nixon and the Football Coaches

WASHINGTON (CPS) — The President of the United States continues to demonstrate his fetish for football. The latest developments include:

Indiana University football coach Don Brown has been offered $60,000 by the Baltimore Orioles to coach the American League baseball team. Brown has been mentioned as a candidate for the National League baseball job.

On Super Bowl day, the President called Kansas City Chiefs quarterback Len Dawson, whose name has been mentioned for a few days, to tell him that he had faith in him.

CBS news reported that a Nixon adviser says the President thru the international and national news sections of the daily paper to get to the sports section where he "feeds."

During the fall, Scripps-Howard newspapers reported that Nixon had wanted Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes to head the Selective Service and former Ohio State coach Bud Wilkinson has been appointed one of Nixon's closest advisers.

Nixon, in recent months, has grossed controversial football awards, has been a guest speaker at a football banquet and, of course, has watched football through the nation's largest war protest Nov. 16.

Perhaps the President is coming up to the mid-19th century is now on display till Feb. 28.

"The same spirit of Valentine's day as expressed in these earlier cards has continued thru the years to the present," explained Mrs. Lilian Conway, senior assistant librarian. "Today as then, card manufacturers produce the cards that people want. This makes for diversity."

Another unusual 10-inch-card featuring layers of gray lace on white paper has a raised, colorful cherub on a mass of green leaves. These elaborate and off-beat cards created by the George Merck Co. often require special envelopes.

Back in the 1840s when cheap postage was introduced in America, a letter could travel 300 miles for five cents. Because of this, valentine cards had to become simpler, and envelopes gained in importance. Often the envelope had to be similarly designed to match the valentine.

Another attractive item in the collection is a four-inch card with a gold vase holding two pastel pink flowers. Above the vase in gold it is written the word "accept." Both valentine and envelope are bordered in lace.
Winter Weekend came to its peak with the Saturday evening concert. Ing, an acid rock group with an album out this month called "Never Be The Same," started things off. Impressionist David Frye gave his impressions of political and social figures, notable Lyndon Johnson, Richard Nixon and Robert Mitchum. Rhinoceros, a white blues group, rounded things off with such songs as "Sweet, Nice and High."

This maxi-coated Montclair coed is wearing a safety hazard. According to safety experts the maxicoat, although warm enough to protect milady’s mini-skirted legs, tends to catch in car doors and escalators.

Winter Weekend... An Ice Breaker

Agora’s “Queen of Hearts” contest gets another dollar with the aid of Tony Faffaro, former MSC student. The contest benefits the heart fund.

The new women’s closed-door visitation policy is put to use by David Bryer and Christine Wolf. Policy went into effect last week.
Pollution Control May Dampen Campus Unrest

Special to the Montclarion.

WASHINGTON — The predominant theme of campus conferences is shifting from the "campus unrest" to the "environmental crisis."

The shift does not indicate the solution of problems that still put students at odds with administrators as much as it indicates a discovery that no students or administrators will remain to tangle if America denatures itself out of existence.

The largest nationwide effort planned so far in the "Environmental Teach-In" originated by Sen. Gaylord Nelson for an in-depth look at the environmental problems as seen from New Jersey, see story below.

(D-Wis.) for April 22. The plan is for students on their own campuses to develop their own programs for studying, exchanging ideas and initiating action on environmental problems, particularly those facing their own community. Like the Vietnam moratorium the teach-in is a national idea developed on a local level.

Other conferences on the environment will precede the April teach-in. The U.S. Student Press Association annual college editors' conference will consider acting on the idea, "What's the Difference if We Don't Wake Up?" as it offers editors and other interested students a "death trip" in Washington, Feb. 27 thru March 2. Mixed media presentations will be used to demonstrate the country's ecological plight. Students of the Northeast will meet in the second semester of the Student Council on Pollution and the Environment at Columbia University on Feb. 21.

Politicians are also becoming involved with ecology, demonstrated at its peak by the State of the Union message by President Nixon in which he called it the most important issue of the decade. Democratic congressmen seemed to agree in their own edition of the State of the Union last Sunday over nationwide tv.

One of the first moves to come from this Congress should come this winter as Rep. John Conyers (D-Mich.) opens hearings aimed at helping elementary and secondary schools teach about conservation, pollution control and other environmental problems.

The measure would provide federal grants for developing teaching materials and teachers in environmental studies. The bill would also authorize ecological study courses for community and industrial leaders.

Classified Ads

SMALL SUMMER RESORT in Berkshire Lake needs College and H.S. 1 s. and 2 s. W.L., walter-waitress-cabin cleaners, groundsman, and general kitchen staff. For details write JUPITER, J.S. Box 23, 4H. $25.00. $10.00 Transportation.

PLEASANT, CAPABLE GIRL wanted for occasional evening babysitting. She will provide all services including care of nursery school and infant. Will assist with house cleaning also. Ask for Carol. Call 998-7837.

VOLO哥哥'97, 20 doors, 20,000 miles. 4-speed, overdrive, extras. Excellent condition. $791.00. Call 740-1980.

Please read the classified ads for more information.

FOR JERSEY'S COLLEGIANS

Montclair Special Report

With the threat of environmental annihilation literally hanging over the cities, New Jersey cannot plead innocent. Two out of the ten dirtiest rivers of America, listed in Newsweek last month, are the Passaic and the Arthur Kill, both waterways of this state. Recent developments as a result of the tugboat strike are further adding to pollutions to the water boundaries of New Jersey.

Gov. William T. Cahill expressed the fear that a long strike will render the holiday beaches of Ocean and Atlantic counties useless, since they will be covered with garbage.

Furthermore, the 16-mile stretch of the Delaware River, from Trenton to Wilmington, Del., was the receptacle for one million pounds of waste last year, daily deposited by 100 industries and municipalities. The Delaware River Basin Commission, alarmed at this statistic, has devised a plan to reclaim the river for recreational purposes. The plan, which will not take effect until 1973 or 74, will limit the daily discharge to 330,000 pounds. This requires new sewage treatment plants to eliminate the present amounts of detergents, pesticides, radiation and thermal poisoning.

And sewage plants require more money. The U.S. spent $5.4 billion over the past 12 years and this amount has proved to be minimal.

Part of the interest in stemming pollution has been initiated by students. Three at Upsala College organized Students for an Ecologically Aware Society to inform the public about over population and pollution, Gordon Paubody of Verona and Frank Peake of Clifton, cofounders of the group, stated their aim is to identify local polluters, produce photographic evidence and demonstrate the laxity of present laws and penalties. They have future plans to address local schools in Essex County and broadcast weekly over the campus radio station WMFU.

Newark State College has indicated their interest in the announcement of acting president Nathan Weiss, who declared April 22 as "Earth day" and pledging the college's resources in the fight against pollution.

Rutgers University has formed the Environmental Crisis Coalition, which Montclair State will be a part of, in order to correlate statewide activities for the teach-in in Washington on April 22, under the direction of Sen. Gaylord Nelson.

The Northeast contingent of the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration will study the situation at Columbia University, New York City, at McMillian Hall, on Sat. Feb. 21., at which time elections will be held to choose regional representatives in the national fight against pollution.

THEY'RE STUDENT TRUSTEES

New trustees on the Montclair State College Development Fund are (left) Kathy Manzolli, former SGA secretary and senior math major, and Kenneth Traynor, current SGA president and junior distributive education major. The College Development Fund helps supervise the endowment fund and oversees requests for the funding of projects on behalf of Montclair State.

Galanump announces a series of SPECIAL SEMINARS to be held... MONDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 10-2 TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 10-12... in the Galump office (second floor, Life Hall)

All interested in becoming "G" staff members... in writing, art work, business or any other area... are urged to drop up to the office during these hours and talk to our editors.
NEWS DESK
A diary of student and faculty news notes.

NEW LIGHTS BRING BRIGHTER CAMPUS
Students at MSC can look forward to a brighter campus in the next few months as the result of the addition of new street lighting. According to McGinty, chief of building and maintenance, a five-year program involving the dismantling of the old lights and installation of new ones will be completed in the near future. "These new lights will make the campus safer for driving after dark, not to mention walking," says McGinty.

McGinty added that the old green incandescent lamps are being replaced by mercury-vapor lamps. The latter are bigger and more powerful and hold a vast advantage in the amount and range of the light they produce. The replacement process has been a gradual one, and the use of the new lamps cost $1500 apiece.

The only area of campus which remains to be "brightened" is the lower area of the freshman parking lot, says McGinty. He pointed out that this area had never been properly lit. Within the next few months, predicts McGinty, the night visibility will be improved 100%.

KING ON CEBB DISCUSSION PANEL
Dr. George King from MSC recently served as a guest panelist at the College Entrance Examination Board's northeastern regional meeting held at the Hilton Inn in Tarrytown, N.Y.

The topic discussed by King was the "Consortia Approach to Solving Problems in Minority/Poverty Students." Other members of the panel included Mr. Foster F. Bain, director of college development at Newark State College and Mr. John Williams, assistant director of the New Jersey Urban Education Corps.

SCUBA DIVING COURSE WILL BE OFFERED AGAIN
Basic skin and scuba-diving will be offered again this semester. According to Henry Schmidt of Montclair State's physical education department, the large student response caused a repeat of the course, previously offered last semester.

All of the theoretical and practical skills, both skin and scuba diving will be covered along with lectures on local and tropical marine environment. Students who complete the pool training will be required to make one ocean dive. Those who fulfill the requirements will be issued a nationally recognized certification by the National Association of Underwater Instructors (NAUI). For more, call the course, starting Feb. 16, will be given on Monday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m. and continue for eight consecutive weeks. The courses will be taught by professionalsory-certified NAUI instructors. The fee for the eight-week course is $50 and all necessary equipment will be supplied by the college. All interested students can inquire at the athletic office at MSC or register at the first session on Feb. 16.

EVALUATION SLATED FOR JERSEY EDUCATION TRENTON A major evaluation of the state's educational needs had been authorized by the N.J. State Board of Education last week.

Dr. Bernard Kaplan, director of the office of planning for the State Department of Education, will act as project director. He stated that the project will provide the first in a continuing series of examinations of the state's educational systems.

The project will be carried out by the Department of Education with special assistance from an advisory council designed to develop a set of objectives for New Jersey education.

During March, a preliminary meeting will be held to discuss tentative goals for the committee. Approximately 50 representatives from business, labor, education, and civic organizations will be invited to attend.

State Education Commissioner Carl L. Marburger told the Board of Education that as of now, there are no clearly defined goals for New Jersey education but that federal education programs often require goals and objectives before financial aid will be given.

NIGERIAN AID APPEAL NEW YORK — The U.S. Committee for The United Nations International Children's Fund (UNICEF) has issued a nationwide appeal for public contributions to help support a massive rehabilitation program in the Biafran area of postwar Nigeria. Noting that the Nigerian government has expressed its appreciation of UNICEF's "good and altruistic humanitarian work," over the past two years of the tragic civil war, Mrs. Guida Pantaleoni, Jr., president of the U.S. UNICEF Committee, said, "We are saddened by the continuing concern expressed by the American people over the plight of Nigerian mothers and children who have survived a period of great suffering and hardship. Now we must do our part in helping to raise the millions of dollars needed to maintain and expand UNICEF's programs in western Nigeria during the critical months ahead."

Contributions may be sent to UNICEF Nigerian Relief, P.O. Box 1618, Church Street Station, New York, N.Y. 10001.

NEWS DESK
A diary of student and faculty news notes.

FDU Council OKs Demands; Up to Trustees for Finale
By Carol Sadowski Staff Reporter

TEANECK — The student boycott at Fairfield University has ended here.

The decision to end the boycott followed an emergency meeting of the FDU maintenance council, held Feb. 7, in which all of the students' demands were passed and referred to the Board of Trustees for final approval. The board meeting yesterday to give its decision.

The boycott was the result of a six-hour hangover, Mercury red tape. According to SGA President Hal Lichtenstein, "we tried to go thru the proper channels."

Two weeks ago, the decision was made to strike. Originally, there were twenty-five demands drawn up by the students and given to the administration on Feb. 7.

Among those were: One student trustee from each campus; referenda for each campus; faculty meetings with a voice but no vote; Meal tickets administered at students' option; Financial and administrative autonomy of the Teaneck campus; and by line by line development of the university budget.

FDU's Student Government Association, also in sympathy with the strikers, did not sanction the boycott until three demands were added; a resolution of current labor dispute, total amnesty for all those participating in the strike, and that a position of ombudsman be created.

A hinted meeting was held on Feb. 4, in which 12 of the 28 demands were agreed to. The remaining demands were sent to university council.

The following day, a faculty meeting was called and the teachers gave the students 100% backing. The school was officially closed Feb. 5 and 6.

The student boycott resulted from students striking in sympathy with the labor current dispute. According to Lichtenstein, "the unionization spirited the strike."

Maintenance men at FDU (Teaneck) have joined Local 29 of RWDSU APL-CIO and have demanded recognition of the union as their sole bargaining agent.

Due to a conflict between the union and the university as to an arbitration board, the union has filed a court action and further action will be delayed until the court action.

The university council is comprised of faculty members from the three campuses who have achieved tenure.

LITENING POST: Breaching FDU students listen to proposals being presented to the college's trustees.

Blacks to Board of Ed: Here's 9 Demands
By Miriam Taub
News Editor

The immediate resignation of Paul Shelley, Montclair superintendent of schools, and Charles Edgerton, Montclair High School principal, has brought nine demands made by the black community of Montclair. The nine demands have been issued to the Montclair Board of Education.

These demands, printed on handbills and distributed last Thursday by black residents, call for the establishment of a committee of black parents and citizens to meet periodically with school administrators on questions and problems brought up by students.

Also called for is the end to student suspensions and expulsion of all students who have survived a period of suspension; and an explanation of police abuse of the black community interested in educational welfare.

Further action demands that a plan be set to ensure positive action against the use and sale of drugs in the school system; a written report of all policies governing students and administrators; the establishment of a uniform grading system; elimination of the tracking system; and an end to the encouragement being given to white parents "to press charges against black students accused of assault and other minor incidents."

The resignation of Shelley and Edgerton was supported by the BSU's "suspension system."

The meeting was held because of the recent demonstrations by blacks at MHS and was primarily attended by blacks.

Skeiling Satterwhite, president of the BSU, read and explained the 11 demands stating that the first and most important of these demands is the first one concerning the "suspension system."

There was a question and answer session directed to Satterwhite after the demands were read. Satterwhite stated that most of the schools 800 blacks were in support of the BSU. The audience was asked to stand if they supported the BSU's demands.

The response was overwhelming. The 11 demands listed were: 1. Strang enforcement of the new cutting system and all students suspended on previous system should be reinstated in school.

2. All students should be allowed to make up work upon reading to school auditorium to hear and evaluate demands of the school's Black Student Union.

The meeting was held because of the recent demonstrations by blacks at MHS and was primarily attended by blacks.

Skeiling Satterwhite, president of the BSU, read and explained the 11 demands stating that the first and most important of these demands is the first one concerning the "suspension system."

There was a question and answer session directed to Satterwhite after the demands were read. Satterwhite stated that most of the schools 800 blacks were in support of the BSU. The audience was asked to stand if they supported the BSU's demands.

The response was overwhelming. The 11 demands listed were:

1. Strang enforcement of the new cutting system and all students suspended on previous system should be reinstated in school.

2. All students should be allowed to make up work upon reading to school auditorium to hear and evaluate demands of the school's Black Student Union.

3. A reviewing board composed of students, teachers and administrators to review all new cutting system and all students suspended on previous system should be reinstated in school.

4. Acceptable rooms for the Black Student Union tutoring program.

5. Acceptable room for a Black Resource Center.

6. Reassignment of black students on the senior level to Black guidance counselors for college.

7. A percentage of black teachers on the faculty proportionate to the number of black percent of students in the school.

8. A course in black culture taught by a black teacher.

10. End to all tracking and grouping.

11. Assistance for all students who participated in the...
New song style for S & G

By John Stankiewicz
Staff reviewer

Simon and Garfunkel began to experiment with their musical style on side one of Bookends. This innovative approach has carried over their latest album, Bridge Over Troubled Water. The album as a whole is refreshing. The majority of the songs contain a good deal of orchestration and are of various moods and melodies. They range from "Ocello" with its Jamaican beat to the blaring horn sound of "The Customer Satisfied" to the soft strains of "So Long, Frank Lloyd Wright" to "Andy Condor Paua," an arrangement of an 18th-century Peruvian folk song, English lyrics by Paul Simon.

GARFUNKEL FEATURED
The title number, originally performed on their television special awhile back, features Art Garfunkel. The result is the most beautiful song that Simon and Garfunkel have recorded since "For Emily on Parsley, Sage . . . Many of Simon and Garfunkel's songs are New York City oriented. They either are about New York or remind one of it. The album contains what is undoubtedly their most renowned New York City song, "The Boxer." ("I" come looking for a job, but I get no breaks, so I come on from the avenues on Seventh Avenue.)

Anyone who has ever been at a Simon and Garfunkel concert knows that they invariably get around to doing "Bye Bye Love." The version on the album has been taped from a live performance and is complete with handclapping to back them up. The final song on the album is short (1:39) but very beautiful and it worth repeating in its entirety.

Bridge Over Troubled Water

By James W. Johnson
Staff reviewer

The Studio Players of Essex County at Montclair must be commended for endeavoring to put on what this critic believes to be a very difficult play, "Summertree," an anticwar play by Ron Cowan, encompasses the life and death of a young man sent off to fight a war he doesn't believe in. It shows the generation gap between father and son, a mother torn between the wishes of her husband and her son, and a girl friend who eventually deserts the soldier.

In viewing this Studio Players production I wondered if the director had read the script. It was obvious that he had read the opening monolog and that's where the play remained, with the most important parts cut.

Bruce Gandys as the young man played the livid death scene this writer had never seen. From the opening monolog to the closing soliloquy. For a while I thought he was having labor pains.

Dominick Consolato in his attempt to be a non-stereotypical salesman father missed giving us anything but his lines. Rachel Heykooop as the mother missed on everything. If I hadn't read the credits I wouldn't have known that she had ever been inside a theater.

A GOOD NOTE
On a good note, Kathryn McAteer and Jason Price as the "Girl!" and "Little Boy" respectively, fought thru almost insurmountable odds to give very good performances.

Montclair

Drama & Arts

"Summertree" slowly shows soldier's death

By Angela Marcopoto
Staff reviewer

"Apart," the first cinematic effort of writer-director Milton Moos Ginsberg, concerns a potential suicide. This young psychiatrist filming his own impending mental collapse — but fails both in development and fulfillment of his initial promise.

BODORAM
The exposure of the character is handled thru a series of sexual encounters. At first these are genuinely funny. If a bit perverted, and stiltical of the current plethora of pornography. This aspect rapidly loses its momentum as the film descends into bodoram, ignoring the few opportunities it has to recover.

Throughout the film we observe from behind the doctor's camera, facing a large mirror. This mirror, in which we see most of the film's events reflected, is somehow representative of the main character. This technique is effective, but the feeling is that of perverted black-outs and white-outs, adjustment of sound and focusing of the picture done by the doctor to his camera isn't any more interesting.

SEGMENTATION
The overall effect is that of fragmentation. Rip Tom, Sally Kirkland and Viveca Lindfors in the principal roles are limited in their portrayals by the editing which cut characterizations in mindlessness.

Ginsberg's premise that any sexual treatment of a psychological problem is automatically interesting is misconception. The film is a disappointment in its superficiality in dealing with its subject, and in its failure to pursue its crucial points.

FRAGMENTATION

Unfortunately, it wasn't a good thing. Most of the 90-minute presentation consisted of film stills and motion pictures shown on five screens and five live screens.

The films were interesting, but in the context of the style presented, but the show went little further. Yes, there was a dancer and yes, there was a special effect or two, and yes, they passed out flowers but that was about all there was.

VALID POINT
The points the films, or multimedia show, made were valid, more often than not . . . to a point. The commentary explicit in the choice of film stills and the other material was made to seem foolish thru the greatest shock to hit the theater industry in . . . pictures of Vietnam war victims (does it seem familiar? It should. Point the valid, it has been made so often it seems to be losing its effect).

Effortwise, the show showed some fire, the as yet unpolished talent. Perhaps the solution would have been to build it as a "film program with dance and music and some other industry . . ."

COMING APART: One of psychiatrist Rip Tom's many annual reviews, "When Simon Gorton's first film, "Action Speaks Louder Than Platforms" skillfully parallels the essentials of American politics.

Feb. 15 is the night for the Czechoslovakian "Martyrs of Love" program, with three highly unusual films — the title film, a curateum of Western society, "Apprenticeship," also Czechoslovakian, which follows the furtive drug dealers, and a Swedish film against "the American way," "Homo Ludens." ECCENTRIC ACTIVITIES
The eccentric activities of "Val, The Witch of Postiano," are continues their love affair. The latest movie, to be shown Feb. 19, along with three other U.S. films. "Image," starring Harvey Milk and directed by "Brummer," on the banality of restaurants; and the comic, yet self-interested Johnny, the bar owner, to muscular, ballet-dancing Melvin; in "Vanishing Corpse" fiercely bitchy Evie and alcoholic, suicidal, Dee as prostitutes; Shanny, a drummer who falls as a white and tries to be hip as a black; Mary Lou, a disturbing "Flora." All of these civil-rights worker. Alto. the entire cast does an excellent job portraying the alternately funny and frightening realism. Nick Smith gives a particularly outstanding performance as Gabe, a half-black artist, especially in his solo scenes. Ted Cornell as director should also be given credit for avoiding the boring monologue of using the typewriter again, in two entrances by maintaining an excitingly quick pace.

This gripping, powerful play has recently moved to the Promenade Theater, Broadway at 72nd street. Special discount tickets are offered for the Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday performances of 8 p.m. and the Sunday performances at 7:30 p.m. and 10 p.m. Tickets are available a half-hour before curtain time upon presentation of I.D. card.

NSC THEATER
Newark State College's Theater for the Performing Arts is the place for those visually-oriented. For this New Line Cinema is presenting new films with new ideas by new U.S. and foreign filmmakers.

Most of the three works were shown — "The Virgin President," "Shadow of an Apple," and "Apprenticeship." The Virgin President," directed by Graeme Ferguson, records the incompetence bumbling of Seward Parker as President of the U.S. who, looking for a place for his platform, directed by Robert LaPoujade in flowing abstract art, combines the myth of Seda with the story of man's alienation. R.O. Blechman's "Action Speaks Louder Than Platforms" skillfully parallels the essentials of American politics.

FILMS AND OTHER THINGS AT SETON HALL SHOW

By Don Pendley
Montclair

SOUTH ORANGE — Richard Nixon, Snow White and mutilated Vietnamese make strange bedfellows. At least they were all at Seton Hall University with hundreds of students lying, sitting and playing in the foyer of the SHU student lounge watching a multimedia thing called "America the Motley."
What the Weekend Saw

This weekend saw Army defeat MSC's fencers in a close contest. But the year has seen Montclair State establish itself as possessing one of the top fencing contingents in the U.S.

The swashbucklers have amassed an 8-1 record. And in the light of dual-meet action, the team has emerged as a ranking power in America.

There is no doubt that the top three teams in the country are VERSAILITY AIDS TEAM and is known for his no-nonsense attitude.

Weekend Saw

Princeton 14-15, for their second by an 18-9 margin, while Army

NATIONAL POWER

The team has grown into a national power under the tutelage of Coach Alan Macke and captain Dale Rodgers.

Macke is a stern taskmaster. He works the squad hard and long and is known for his no-nonsense attitude.

More than anyone, Dale Rodgers personifies the ultimate of an athlete at MSC. The senior has distinguished himself in cross-country and in track at Montclair. His most amazing accomplishment is his 14th place finish at the Olympic trials in the military pentathlon. His chances for competing in the '72 Olympics are excellent.

VERSATILITY AIDS TEAM

Captain of the fencing team for four years, he is regarded as one of the top sabre fencers in America. But in midseason he switched weapons and now competes in the epee category. His versatility has boosted his record but has benefited the team.

Dave Bryan, captain of the sabre squad, is also of national promise. Prior to this season, the junior had lost only one bout in 2 years. Injuries have slowed him down this season as his 18-3 record indicates. Sophomore Glenn MacKay (18-7) and senior Jordan Denner (15-8) round out the starting three.

The foil squad, weak spot of last year's team, has amassed the strongest team record this season. Todd Bospie, junior captain, sports a 21-6 record. Two freshmen, Roger Marchegano (21-6) and Frank Mustelli (21-6) should look forward to great collegiate careers.

Led by two juniors, captain Bruce Kintner (14-9) and Ken Zurich (15-9), the epee squad has had continued success from last year.

The addition of Rodgers (20-6) has bolstered the squad along with frosh subs Mike Lang and Carl Davis.

Rodgers and Denner are the only seniors, while Macke has some good prospects coming in the fall semester of '70.

The Finale of the season will be the North Atlantic Fencing Conference Championships. It will be held on Sat., March 7th, in our own Pancer gym.

MCS FAVORED

This year's tournament attracts the largest team and individual entry in the history of the NFC championships.

The battle for the team championships will be waged among no less than 8 of the 14 teams entered.

MCS occupies the favorite role. Buffalo, Penn State, and Syracuse will give the strongest competition. Cornell, John Hopkins, Newark-Rutgers, and NCE rate outside chances.

Also entered are Seton Hall, Rochester Institute of Technology, Jersey City State, Paterson State, Pace, and Hofker.

VICTORY: Co-captains Bobbie Baxter (above) and Ter Garsteln led MSC's swim team to victories over Newark State College, 50-18, and a tough Adelphi College, 42-35.

Salute to Sienkiewicz

Set Feb. 24

Plans to honor captain Bob Sienkiewicz at "senior night" on Tues. Feb. 24 at the Montclair State College Bloomfield College basketball game have been announced by Bill Dioguardi, director of athletics.

Sienkiewicz, former East Rutherford High School standout, will be appearing in his final regular season home contest in the Bloomfield game.

In making the announcement of his majesty to Sienkiewicz, Dioguardi said: "Bob Sienkiewicz has made a tremendous contribution to our basketball program over the last four years and we want to take this opportunity to salute him."

One of Bergen County's top basketball high school players while at East Rutherford under Coach Dick Vitate, Sienkiewicz is one of the main reasons for the rise to national prominence of Montclair State in basketball.

As a freshman, the former East Rutherford High Standout led the Indians frosh team to a brilliant 20-0 mark. He was the team's top scorer with 486 points. In his first varsity season, Sienkiewicz made a heavy contribution to a 20-8 record as the Indians won a berth in the District No. 31, National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics playoff and the New Jersey State College Conference championship.

Last year, Bob played outstanding ball for coach Ollie Gelston as Montclair State sped to a 24-3 mark and a second straight MSCC crown. In addition, the Indians won the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Eastern Area championship at Syracuse, New York and played in the National College division NCAA tournament at Evansville, Ind.

Despite an injury to his ankle which sidelined him for six games this season, Sienkiewicz still has a fine chance of becoming the fourth player in MSC history to score 1,000 points in a three-year career.

He enters the last seven games of the current season with 875 points and in his career. With 90 points in his senior year, Sienkiewicz could become the fourth player in MSC history to score 1,000 points in a three-year career.

The meate produces three outstanding performers for MSC: Nels Jensen, Russ Spencer and Roger Brown. Jensen was the team's best performer, scoring two firsts for the team. In hi-bar, Jensen scored 7.3 and on the parallel bars, after completing a new move for the first time, he received an 8.15 for his effort.

Spencer was the team's second outstanding performer. Altho competing with a bruised hand, he came thru with the best performance of the year, his highest score being an 8.4 in long horse. He scored a 7.3 in the parallel bars.

Brown, overshadowing all competitors, won floor exercise for the first time in his career with a score of 6.6. Captain Dave Green stated that "it was Roger's best all-around performance."

Tom Fiorentino and Ron Poling tied for first place in still rings with a score of 7.25. MSC's all-around, Bill Balogh, was injured prior to the meet and could only compete in three events. The absence of Balogh's skills accounted for MSC's low score.

Jeff McGrath, a junior from Cortlandt State, was the meet's most outstanding performer. He scored a 35.1 points in the six events of the meet. McGrath took first in side horse and a second in vault.

"The way you think, is the way you are," commented coach Orlick. He added that "the team did not perform up to par, and we still are not where we should be."

This Friday MSC meets Slippery Rock and the following day, West Virginia. This year MSC's gymnasts hope to repeat the 1969 victory over Slippery Rock, their toughest opponent.

Montclair

Sports

It's About That Time

Staff Writer

MSC BASEBALL

Black Barons Set for N.Y. Schaefer Tourney

By Steve Stalks

Staff Reporter

The Black Barons, present intramural basketball champions at Montclair State College will participate in the first Intramural Basketball Championship. The tournament, sponsored by the F. & M. Schaefer Brewing Co., will be highlighted by a championship final game at Madison Square Garden, March 5, 1970. The tournament will begin on Sat., Feb. 4, with 12 teams participating and scheduled to complete the regular season play by March 9 at which time the conference competition will begin.

Along with MSC's Black Barons, the teams participating in the tournament are Fordham University, Iona College, N.Y. State Maritime, St. John's, St. Francis, Long Island University, Adelphi, C.W. Post, Columbia, Cooper Union, Hunter College, Fairleigh Dickinson, St. Peter's, Seton Hall and Monmouth College.

The first game of the Barons will take place on Sat., Feb. 7, at Montclair. The winner of that game will move on to the second place St. Peter's. April 18 – At Rutgers
April 20 – At Fairleigh Dickinson University
April 21 – Columbia
April 23 – At Seton Hall
April 25 – At Princeton
April 27 – At St. Peter's
April 28 – Essex County Community College

May 11 – St. John's
May 13 – At Ocean County Community College

The Intramural Basketball League, which begins on Feb. 4, consists of the National and American leagues. The regular season will last until March 9. A championship playoff will follow to determine who will participate in the 1971 Schaefer intramural championship.

Indians Take Giant Step

Set '70 Frosh Baseball Sked

A 16-game schedule, opening on April 18 at Long Island University, has been announced for Montclair State College's 1970 frosh baseball team by Bill Dioguardi, director of athletics.

Coach Alex Tomillo's nine will play single contests with Rutgers, Long Island U., Fairleigh Dickinson, Columbia, Seton Hall, Princeton, John Jay, Fairleigh Dickinson, St. John's, Essex County Community College, Morris County Community College and Ocean County Community College.

In addition, the young Indians will play home and away games with St. Peter's and Rockland County Community College.

The Schedule

April 8 – At Long Island University
April 14 – St. Peter's
April 16 – Rockland County Community College
April 18 – At Rutgers
April 20 – At Fairleigh Dickinson University
April 21 – Columbia
April 23 – At Seton Hall
April 25 – At Princeton
April 27 – At St. Peter's
April 28 – Essex County Community College
Event

May 2 – Morris County Community College
May 4 – At Manhattan
May 5 – Fordham
May 8 – At Rockland County Community College
May 11 – St. John's
May 13 – At Ocean County Community College

A SECOND LOSS: Montclair State College suffered its second loss of the season Monday night to a defensively strong FDU basketball team by a score of 63-52. FDU is number four in the nation in the small college division for defense. At halftime MSC's freshman baseball team lost to TSC who compared to TSC who

The Indians bounced back slowly built up their lead until the buzzer. Montclair will travel to Trenton State College looking for the big win that will keep their chances for a NCAA bid alive. — Davison.

A three-point-play by Sienkiewicz tied the count at 39 all with 16:03 left on the clock. The lead changed hands twice and there were two ties before a jumper by Beck with 5:33 in the game put the Indians ahead 48-46, and gave them the lead for good.

The Lions challenged, but buckets by Beck, Baccarella and James held them off. Baccarella was the Indians' top scorer with 17, Sienkiewicz followed with 13.

A three-point-play by Sienkiewicz tied the count at 39 all with 16:03 left on the clock. The lead changed hands twice and there were two ties before a jumper by Beck with 5:33 in the game put the Indians ahead 48-46, and gave them the lead for good.

The Lions challenged, but buckets by Beck, Baccarella and James held them off. Baccarella was the Indians' top scorer with 17, Sienkiewicz followed with 13.