894 Enroll in Winter Session Classes

By Donald Scarinci

According to the registrar's office, 894 students submitted registration for Winter Session and only between 50 and 60 students enrolled in the overseas program.

Eight courses were cancelled out of the 50 courses offered for the winter session and eight courses were oversubscribed, according to Marshall Butler, registrar. Registrations have been returned to 114 students.

Last year, 50 courses were offered over the winter period with a total enrollment of 1200 students. In the overseas program, the enrollment was 174 students last year.

Butler admitted that the faculty strike 'had some effect on the low enrollment. But,' he added, 'registration was extended three days to compensate.'

THE REGISTRAR insists that the main reason for low registration is the fact that the program gets promoted late. Butler said, 'The students are uncertain about their plans for the winter so that if a person's course is cancelled, it's too late for them to make other plans for the winter.'

Referring to the kinds of courses offered during the winter session, Butler said that the nature of the program is 'innovative.' Courses are offered that wouldn't ordinarily be offered during the regular semester.

The registrar noted that one of the courses which was oversubscribed had 65 students was 'Dinosaurs: Their Life and Times.' Students taking the overseas trips do not have to register for the courses to take the tours. Students wanting the three credit hours, however, must register and pay the $20 per credit fee plus $2 registration fee.

Ken Rothweiler Frosh Prez

Ken Rothweiler polled an even 100 votes in the class elections last Wednesday and Thursday to earn the post of freshman class president.

Other class presidents elected were Ronald Coupland, sophomore class; Nancy Forden, junior class; and Joan Goralski, senior class.

The freshman class elections received the most attention, having the only contested elections and polling more than 170 people. The sophomores class, with only one person seeking office (the presidency), went 26 people to the polls, while the junior and senior classes with one and two candidates respectively, polled 24 and 22 students.

Contesting Rothweiler for the position of freshman president were Rudy Valli, who received 46 votes, and Ken Baspah who received 25.

Pamela Northert, the only candidate for freshman class vice president, gained 124 votes while Donna Morgan took the freshman class secretary position with 74 votes from Karen Dew Futterman (46 votes) and Maureen Pridmore (40 votes).

Elected SGA reps will have seats on the student senate, which was removed last year by the SGA, and therefore will serve as social and fraternal organizations until they apply for and receive charter.

The freshman class president and four SGA reps will have seats on the legislature and voting privileges.
Santa’s Bag Still Overflows

Because the holiday season is upon us and because giving is an integral part of this season, we hereby devote this column to the holiday gift list. If you happen to be looking for the ideal gift for someone listed below, take heed. Prices vary.

To MICHAEL MESSINA, SGA president, a fully elected legislature and busfare to Trenton.
To ANGELO GENOVA, NISA president: busfare anywhere in New Jersey for a year.
To President DAVID W.D. DICKSON: a college headed of its strike wounds.
To Registrar MARSHALL BUTLER: a fool-proof, fulltime computer system.
To Athletic Director WILLIAM DIOGUARDI: an astroturfed Sprague Field with a seating capacity of 20,000.
To the SGA: another crisis like the strike to band them together and get them moving.
To CLUB Chairman BUD SCHULHAFER: an Elton John concert and a committee of 50 to pull it off.
To WMSC: seasoning.
To Maintenance Director JOSEPH MCGINTY: the perfect water system.
To vice president of administration and finance VINCENT CALABRESE: the Midas touch. With budget cuts every little bit helps.

Festival Host Chores Mark Fourth MSC Honor

By Tom Malcolm

MSC will be honored for the fourth time by the American College Theater Festival (ACTF) when the speech/theater department hosts the seventh annual ACTF Region XIII competition from Thurs., Jan. 16—Sat., Jan. 18 in Memorial Auditorium.

Five college productions chosen from all across the ACTF competition in New York, New Jersey Pennsylvania and Delaware will travel to MSC for the regional finals. MSC has done this sort of thing before.

THIS SPRING the Major Theater Series' inaugural production "The Mandrake" was selected as one of the ten finest college productions in the country and played two performances at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington D.C. after participating in such a festival last January at Hofstra University, Long Island, N.Y.

Two previous department productions, 1967's "She Stoops To Conquer" and 1969's "Marat/Sade," went 'as far as regional festival last January at Hofstra University, Long Island, NY."

"A Streetcar Named Desire" from Kingsborough Community College, Brooklyn, N.Y. immediately following each of the performances will be an informal discussion and critique headed by the panel of five judges. "These discussions are often quite exciting," MacConnell assessed, "and we hope everyone will stay for them."

WE'LL COVER 20 MSC students and alumni will be on hand to run the festival, MacConnell said, including several graduates who now hold prestigious jobs connected with theater and the arts.

"We're in for a lot of work," MacConnell noted, "but it'll be worth it, as it will give people a chance to see our facilities."

Admission to any of the five plays will be $1.50 for students, $2 for senior citizens and $2.50 for all others. Group rates are also available. The workshops are free.
'Inferno' Smolders

By Mike Finnegan

Mel Brooks has done it again—has taken a bunch of slick lines, outrageous camp and comedic comic actors and come up with a wonderfully funny flic called "Young Frankenstein.

Julia. GENE Hackman (who plays a hypernasal Dr. Frankenstein-proclaimed "Honeymoon" who collaborated on this ornate burlesque of the Mary Shelley monster) and his. James Wha film and they have gone to great pains to be close to the film's spirit so that their spoofing will seem even funnier.

SO WE HAVE a deformant police inspector with a fake arm (which he takes a half hour to light a cigarette) played with a Germanic About a half hour before the end, the audience is relieved of her presence upon her exit out the criminal court room window.

The villains just aren't the larger-than-life characters. James Wha falls flat on its face.

OTHERS, Bland and banal, are those of a high school girl and she is definitely outstaged by Scooter's girl Andrea (Maud Adams). Obviously finding Scaramanga, with his third nipple and ingenious golden gun, not interesting enough, the producers have decreed the creation of a new character Nick Nuk (Herve Villechaize). He is a diminutive bowler-hatted Odd Job-type who serves as a houseboy, gunman and jack-of-all-trades for Scaramanga, and this is another case of a minor character that usurps the limelight.

"The Man with the Golden Gun" is another James Bond film, nothing more, nothing less. Seeing one more Bond film is a chore, isn't it, for Bond lovers? I say, don't go near Bond. Why not go once in a while to see a real film?

Wrestlers Get No Breaks Between Semesters

By Hank Gola

They’ve faced the ninth and 11th ranked teams in the nation already, but if you could believe it MSC’s wrestlers have yet to hit the toughest part of their schedule. That’s coming up over the winter break when two tough matches highlight the Panzer Gym schedule, before MSC embarks on its celebrated midwest swing.

Here are some capsule looks at what’s in store for the Tribe next month.

BLOOMSBURG STATE (Home, Jan. 15) — Coach Robert Sanders lost his big gun, Floyd Hinchcock, who was named the most outstanding wrestler at the University Division championships while winning the 177-pound class last year. The loss of Sanders to make use of about seven sophomores and freshmen although that crop is outstanding. The key to the meeting will be Nabil Guketlov who is one of the 20 All-Americans caused Sanders to make use of about seven sophomores and freshmen although that crop is outstanding. The key to the meeting will be Nabil Guketlov who is one of the 20 All-Americans caused Sanders to make use of about seven sophomores and freshmen although that crop is outstanding.

INDIANA STATE (away, Jan. 20) — The Cyclones recruit heavily from the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-New York area. The key to the meeting will be Nabil Guketlov who is one of the 20 All-Americans caused Sanders to make use of about seven sophomores and freshmen although that crop is outstanding.

IOWA (away, Jan. 25) — Here’s where the schedule gets virtually impossible. The Hawkeyes are only shooting for the national championship this year, and they’ve been impressively early. The highlight will be Nabil Guketlov who is one of the 20 All-Americans caused Sanders to make use of about seven sophomores and freshmen although that crop is outstanding.

NORTHERN IOWA (away, Jan. 29) — The Sycamores recruit heavily from the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-New York area. The key to the meeting will be Nabil Guketlov who is one of the 20 All-Americans caused Sanders to make use of about seven sophomores and freshmen although that crop is outstanding.

WILKES (home, Jan. 15) — Oh, boy. You can bet the Indians are looking forward to this one. Wilkes has some of the most wavy yet fast foes in the country, and the Tribe performed in front of them twice last year and suffered both times. The Colonels are ranked tops in College Division 3, and have virtually their whole squad back. The 167 bout between John Weinlauf and Dante Caprio should be a good one, and the Indians are dying to get Wilkes in their own territory.

Oklahoma. Top returnees are Tim Cyywaki (126), Steve Hunt (134), Brad Smith (142) Chuck Yaali (150), Dan Holm (158) and Chris Campbell (177), a Joyce product out of Westfield. Keen Mountain returns at 118 and his match with either Kim Wilson or Rich Numa will be interesting.

IOWA STATE (away, Jan. 27) — The Cyclones, as usual, are loaded with talent. Willie Gadeen, a junior college All-American while wrestling for Nassau Community College, was sought after by MSC and he’ll give Iowa State a big boost at either 177 or 190. The Cyclones’ top returnee is Bob Holland, a national runnerup at 150, who’ll be a tough opponent for Bob Woods.

Squaws Getting on the Ball

By Joen Miketuz

The women’s winter sports schedule is just a dunk, splash, lunge and flip away as the four Squaw teams open their seasons in January looking to better last year’s winning slate.

The basketball team will be defending its third state championship title this season with coach Cathy Paskert back at the helm.

Last year’s Squaws swept through most opponents on their way to defeating Glassboro State in the state championship finals; but they lost out in the Eastern Regionals to top-ranked Immaculata College.

The hoop squad will be returning to the team. The fencing squad, under new coach Steve Armstrong, also warms up against an alumni team on Wed., Jan. 22. The women, who took second place in the state tournament last year and finished fourth in the National Women’s Intercollegiate Fencing Association Championships, will open against Treston State College on Tues., Feb. 4.

THE FENCERS suffered the loss of both Nancy Murray and Julie Loveridge. However, Mary Lou Caffarre, who placed second in the state for individual honors last year, will be returning to the team.

Also bowing a new coach this season will be the women’s gymnastics team. Nanette Schonhei will replace Linda Monico as this year’s MSC versions of Olga Korbut will be trying to defend a 6 1/2 meet record from last year.

The gymnasts open their season against Queens College on Wed., Jan. 22.
The Indians never trailed from the opening tip to the final buzzer, and led by as many as 27 late in the game. Mike Bobiak hit on an outside jumper after John Oakes had broken the ice for MSC. Jeff Auerbacher then put the Tribe in front to stay with a jumper that triggered a 21-4 MSC spurt and all but put the game out of reach for Trenton State.

The Lions' most striking deficiency appeared to be their lack of floor leadership. Gelston hesitated. "They have a first year coach (Tom McCorry) who right now is trying to make an adjustment to trying to find the right combination of players. He doesn't know the players too well yet and they are still trying to make an adjustment to him."

The half ended with MSC well ahead 36-18 after Tyrone Sherrod, Larry Hughes and Auerbacher had connected on three quick buckets with less than a minute remaining in the half. A slow-paced first half was highlighted by a 15-0 MSC streak that was primarily the result of sloppy ballhandling by Trenton State and opportunism on the part of the Indians who capitalized on the poor passing.
