Director's Views Irrk Students

By Sylvia Endick

Is the Educational Opportunity Fund (EOF) office at MSC practicing reverse discrimination?

A recent article in the MONTCLARION — "Minority Men Speak on White Women" — has raised this question among concerned students. During a Women's Center panel discussion, Reuben Johnson, Director of the EOF program, expressed his personal views on racial discrimination, male superiority and interracial marriage.

Letters protesting Johnson's attitudes have been received by the MONTCLARION, in addition to complaints lodged with the EOF office. Johnson politely declined an interview earlier this week. He said he would later issue a statement but could not be reached for comment as the MONTCLARION went to press.

MSC President David W.D. Dickson reacted to Johnson's comments: "Comments made on a broad scale only serve to further alienate many who now have to find the extra money. Debbie Hesse, a junior business administration major will be taking the trip for the third time. "I keep going back because I'm told the club price was far cheaper than any trip found off campus.

The increase will cause problems for many who now have to find the extra money. Debbie Hesse, a junior business administration major, is set to leave the next morning. She said, "I worked all the way through school to pop their first tasty round doughnut, see page 16."

Randall W. Richards, Director of Financial Aids, also commented on Johnson's remarks.

"I can't say with any degree of certainty that someone's viewpoints have an impact on their job responsibilities in the college," Richards explained. EOF provides educational opportunities and financial assistance to educationally and financially disadvantaged state residents. Currently approximately 60 percent of the students enrolled in EOF are black, 20 percent are Hispanic and 20 percent are white. The exact figures were not available.

By Lisa Burkhart

This year, College Life Union Board (CLUB) will again allow many students to enjoy "fun in the sun" during spring vacation in Daytona Beach, Florida.

At a meeting held Monday in Ballroom C, final decisions were made on several options and sight-seeing trips. Those who opined they didn't want to get away from my family. Others agreed with Maria Salmon, a sophomore home economics major, when she said, "I worked all the way through school to get away from my family."

The increase will cause problems for many who now have to find the extra money. Debbie Hesse, a junior business administration major, is set to leave the next morning. She said, "I worked all the way through school to pop their first tasty round doughnut, see page 16."

The increase will cause problems for many who now have to find the extra money. Debbie Hesse, a junior business administration major, is set to leave the next morning. She said, "I worked all the way through school to pop their first tasty round doughnut, see page 16."

Some students voiced unhappiness with the increase but it did not change their plans. Linda Zuber, a senior biology major stated, "I got a paid vacation from my family." Many still felt the CLUB price was far cheaper than any trip found off campus.

The increase will cause problems for many who now have to find the extra money. Debbie Hesse, a junior business administration major, is set to leave the next morning. She said, "I worked all the way through school to pop their first tasty round doughnut, see page 16."

Randall W. Richards, Director of Financial Aids, also commented on Johnson's remarks.

"I can't say with any degree of certainty that someone's viewpoints have an impact on their job responsibilities in the college," Richards explained. EOF provides educational opportunities and financial assistance to educationally and financially disadvantaged state residents. Currently approximately 60 percent of the students enrolled in EOF are black, 20 percent are Hispanic and 20 percent are white. The exact figures were not available.

By Lisa Burkhart

This year, College Life Union Board (CLUB) will again allow many students to enjoy "fun in the sun" during spring vacation in Daytona Beach, Florida.

At a meeting held Monday in Ballroom C, final decisions were made on several options and sight-seeing trips. Those elected by the group that the original price of $209 was based on an Eastern Airlines charter, but they now claim a shortage of equipment. In order to charter other airlines who do not own rights to land in Daytona, the additional 36 per person may have to be paid.

Some students voiced unhappiness with the increase but it did not change their plans. Linda Zuber, a senior biology major, is set to leave the next morning. She said, "I worked all the way through school to pop their first tasty round doughnut, see page 16."

The increase will cause problems for many who now have to find the extra money. Debbie Hesse, a junior business administration major, is set to leave the next morning. She said, "I worked all the way through school to pop their first tasty round doughnut, see page 16."

Some students voiced unhappiness with the increase but it did not change their plans. Linda Zuber, a senior biology major, is set to leave the next morning. She said, "I worked all the way through school to pop their first tasty round doughnut, see page 16."

The increase will cause problems for many who now have to find the extra money. Debbie Hesse, a junior business administration major, is set to leave the next morning. She said, "I worked all the way through school to pop their first tasty round doughnut, see page 16."

Randall W. Richards, Director of Financial Aids, also commented on Johnson's remarks.

"I can't say with any degree of certainty that someone's viewpoints have an impact on their job responsibilities in the college," Richards explained. EOF provides educational opportunities and financial assistance to educationally and financially disadvantaged state residents. Currently approximately 60 percent of the students enrolled in EOF are black, 20 percent are Hispanic and 20 percent are white. The exact figures were not available.
Students Learn Ropes at Cable TV

By Bill Mezzomo

For some, it’s the opportunity of a lifetime—the chance to appear before a camera and be involved in the off-stage production of a television show. But for a number of MSC students this opportunity is more than a dream—it is a vital part of their college curriculum.

The project is for student internships at local cable television stations designed to prepare speech and theater majors (who specialize in broadcasting), for future job opportunities in this field. The students are involved in the editing, producing and directing of various programming and newscasts in order to obtain on-the-job experience while remaining in an academic environment.

According to Christopher Staheff, one of the two-member broadcasting staff in the department, the project is appealing to students in many ways.

“Our students are responding quite well. We have had a number of people who have gone on to work professionally in this area,” he said. Approximately 35 MSC students have spent between 12-40 hours a week at cable television stations designed to provide an education in the technical aspects of the on-air production.

“The interns are generally well prepared before they even come here,” Hovell said. “The only problem is the transition from small formation black-and-white production to full-color television. This requires some on-the-job clarification and teaching.

“The technical aspects of some camera work and film editing must be explained and then practiced upon,” he continued. “But on the whole, the emphasis is on actual experience, not learning.”

Janet Bertoldi, a recent MSC graduate who interned last year while receiving credit through English Independent Study, felt that her experience was worthwhile.

“I got a chance to do just about everything—work cameras, edit tapes and appear live. In a small station (Morristown) the opportunities are always present.”

“When looking for jobs I’ve gotten a positive response,” she indicated. “But this is a competitive field and most places are looking for people with paid experience. I would, however, encourage anyone who was interested to get involved.”
The problem has moved out of the sculpture itself is complete. The associate professor of fine arts, completed, water still does not construction has been a trifle of hope that the library may yet begin to flow.

The lecture and slide show were co-sponsored by BSCU and JSU.

THE FALASHAS: Rabbi Hailu Paris, foremost authority on the Falashas - the black Jews of Ethiopia - lectured last Wednesday. The lecture and slide show were co-sponsored by BSCU and JSU.

Although the physical indications that “a lack of communication” exists in the inadequacies in the now sparsely attended meeting that oriented organization and that it misrepresents the facts.”

experience with CAR is that it’s political, not a student SGA Legislature itself.

“The problem involves a broken water line which supplies the fountain with water,” according to Joseph McGinty, Engineer-in-Charge of Maintenance. He explained that the broken line runs along the side of Sprague Library.

He added that the frost must be completely out of the ground before anything can be done to repair the line.

“Now, the Board is not designed to have an assigned student representative.” Presently, only a few states, such as California and Oregon, have a statute naming a student to their respective Board.

Sexuality Counseling

Kathy Clarke of Planned Parenthood in Essex County will be giving human sexuality counseling at the MSC Health Center on Wednesday from 1 to 3 pm. She will answer questions concerning birth control, venereal disease, pregnancy, or any other questions on sex. There is no charge for the service and no appointment has to be made.

CAR Charter Vetoed

By Eileen Curtis

“Veto” was the decision from Maryanne Preztunik, SGA President, concerning the Committee Against Racism’s (CAR) Class Three membership, which was granted by the Legislature on Feb. 3.

Preztunik, admittedly an “old-line SGA politician,” had a 10 school days to decide and waited until the final day to issue her “thumbs down” verdict in an unusually tense SGA meeting yesterday afternoon. It will be brought up for consideration next week by the Legislature which could conceivably override Preztunik’s stalled veto, according to an SGA source. Preztunik, however, commented, “I’m confident my veto will be sustained.”

In waiting the full 10 days, Preztunik lobbied for votes so her veto can’t be overridden, according to many Legislators.

Preztunik explained her CAR charter denial: “My experience with CAR is that it’s political, not a student oriented organization and that it misrepresents the facts.”

Patti Cioffi, SGA Legislator, pointed out some of CAR’s inadequacies in the now sparsely attended meeting that failed quorum at the end of the meeting. She also questioned the Constitutional Committee’s integrity in approving the CAR charter.

John Storance, Constitutional Committee Chairperson, defended the Committee’s dealings with CAR and indicated that “a lack of communication” exists in the SGA Legislature itself.

Student Rep. to Higher Ed. Board: A Refreshing Change

By Eileen Curtis

Establishing a non-voting student representative to the New Jersey Board of Higher Education will be discussed at the Board’s public session on March 16, according to Sam Crane, New Jersey Student Association (NJS) Executive Director. The issue has already been discussed and turned down on more than one occasion by the Board.

Crane commented in his borrowed SGA office, “The Board would be benefited by a student representative, who would really help the Higher Education Board understand students. It would be a refreshing change.”

He added, “Students would also get a better understanding of the things the Board deals with.”

The student representative to the Board would serve as an informative, non-voting student voice, offering viewpoints concerning pressing educational issues – the very issues that directly affect students, according to Crane.

The former SGA President commented pensively, “There’s some opposition to the idea. I’m not really sure how it will go. I think it’s been turned down in the past because one constituency, namely students, is allowed to influence the Board, other forces will want representation.”

Crane remarked, “There is a definite hesitancy on the Board’s part to have a student acting as an equal. Maybe they’re a little threatened by it.”

“We will begin work to fix it as soon as it gets warm enough. Nothing can be done about it in the cold weather,” McGinty said.

The fountain has been under construction since the spring of 1974, Chapman and Brian Watkins, assistant professor of fine arts, began the execution of the engineering design and the paper work in the fall of 1973. Chapman and Watkins were commissioned by the Class of 1970 to produce the sculpture for presentation as the class gift. The fountain project originally started as a part of the mall construction in 1971-1972. However the state announced that the fountain project would have to be postponed.

The present location for the fountain was chosen because the fountain was no longer needed for the air-conditioning as planned. Water will flow down the diagonal slopes into the pond at the bottom, Chapman said.

Spring Sprinkling: The now silent fountain outside Sprague Library will soon release fluid sounds when final construction is completed.
Eye On New Jersey

‘High Noon at WPC’

Protesting the arrest of three students at William Paterson College (WPC) for possession of marijuana, 200 WPC’ers staged a “smoke-in” on Feb. 23. The smoke-in was staged at high noon in front of the WPC Student Center. Reportedly, 20 to 30 people were actually smoking marijuana, while the others smoked herbal tea and other organic substances.

Three members of the campus security at WPC watched the smoke-in but did not attempt any arrests due to the large number of students involved.

TSC Studies Options

The Academic Policy Committee at Trenton State College (TSC) has recommended that the Pass/Full option now open to TSC students in subjects outside of their major be dropped.

The Committee will forward their recommendation to the Faculty Senate this week. After their final decision is made, the matter will be turned over to the President for a final policy change.

The Tables Turn

At Ramapo College, two students who lived in the campus dormitory lost a stereo set and speakers when they were robbed by another student.

After deciding on the identity of the robber, they entered his dorm room and proceeded to teach a lesson to the student they thought had robbed them.

Now, the two Ramapo students are being charged with breaking and entering and atrocious assault. No charges are being pressed against their victim, who is in the hospital.

O’Davis Gets Shaft

The term of Clyde O’Davis, a representative on the Board of Trustees at Glassboro State College (GSC) expires in June of 1977. The State did not inform O’Davis that he would be reappointed to the GSC Board. Now the State has appointed another representative to O’Davis’s seat on the Board.

According to the Whit, the student newspaper at GSC, O’Davis has repeatedly voted against the suggestions of Ralph E. Dungan, Chancellor of Higher Education.

Stockton Profs Make List

Robert Dufala, a self-described hit man for the John Birch Society in South Jersey and Pennsylvania, was arrested in June. Dufala testified in Camden County court on Feb. 28 and spoke of a list of targets for himself and other hit men in the area. The list included Henry Kissinger, Nelson Rockefeller and two liberal professors from Stockton State College.

Meeting Problems at JCS

The SGO at Jersey City State College (JCS) has 21 members. Nine present members is considered quorum at any SGO meeting.

However, the SGO has been unable to achieve quorum at any of their weekly meetings this semester. Therefore, no legislation has been passed at JCS.

When SGO does achieve quorum at a meeting, they will vote on charters for various organizations. This year, the Revolutionary Student Brigade (RSB) and Iranian Student Union are applying for SGO charters.

Prof on Househusbanding

By Sylvia Endick

“I wasn’t prepared for men’s reactions. It was difficult for them to comprehend what I was doing,” Ed Mills reflected.

Mills, an assistant professor in MSC’s student personnel services department, shared his “Experiences as a Househusband” with a Women’s Center audience last Wednesday.

Mills and his wife traded roles for two years after the birth of their son. He stayed home and took full care of the baby during the day and taught nights at MSC. His wife worked full-time during the day.

Mills, whose three and a half year old son stayed by his side during the lecture, spoke highly of the experience.

“Many men I know never know their children. They leave their house at 6:30 am and return at 8 or 9 pm,” Mills said.

“The experience has taught me a lot of things,” Mills continued.

Mills spoke of the “intense responsibility” it was to take care of a baby. “His life was in my hands,” Mills declared.

Mills believes that most males don’t go through the experience of giving comfort to another person who is hurt or sick. “I really appreciate mothers now,” Mills said.

Mills said that he learned how to tolerate and co-exist with children.

He was always aware that “whatever he is well influence to a large extent what his child will become.”

Mills added, “It’s a good idea for husbands and wives to take over each other’s roles and responsibilities.”

He doesn’t believe that men should always have total financial responsibility.

“Four of men always prepare for the future instead of enjoying the present,” Mills reflected.

He pointed out the difficulties he had experienced as a househusband.

In the beginning, Mills said he had some adjustment problems. After the first week he asked himself, “What am I doing?” That first weekend, he took off by himself.

Mills said that he lost some male friends when they found out he was taking complete care of his son. Mills also found that he had less to talk about with men.

He experienced loneliness, remarking, “At least women can call each other and share problems and difficulties. I had no one.”

Mills, who married at the age of 30, spoke of difficulties in the actual care of the child. “Dressing a child is insane,” he declared. He also commented on changing a “squirming baby” and feeding him. “The food goes all over — in your hair and in theirs,” Mills chuckled.

“As you get older, though, you forget the negative and remember the positive,” he continued.

Another difficulty was his wife’s reaction. His son learned to react and go only to him.

Mills had to create conditions where his son would react to his mother. For instance, whenever the child hurt himself Mills would quickly hand the child to his wife for comforting.

Mills found it difficult to identify the developmental phases of his first child. With his second son, now eight months old, Mills believes it’s a lot easier. “No one should have a first child,” he joked.

Mills traded roles again with his wife. Now he stays home with the children and he teaches full-time at MSC. “She felt she wanted a similar experience,” Mills explained. “But I’m still home more than the average father,” he continued.

“I don’t want to give you the idea that I’m a super-father,” Mills said as he packed up his red tote bag full of peanuts, crayons, a washcloth in a baggie, etc. and concluded the lecture.

For Those Who Have Time, Energy And A Desire To Be Of Service To Their Fellow Students...

Drop-In Center Training Session

Sun. March 13

For Information Drop In Or Call Us At 893-5271

Students Of All Majors Are Welcome!
MONTCLARION/John Scruggs

WHAT GOES UP MUST COME DOWN: Once again, the Student Center elevator appeared to have a mind of its own when it malfunctioned last Wednesday. Students inside the elevator were helped to safety. It has been suggested that impatience in waiting for the door to self-open is one of the causes of frequent breakdowns.

MONTCLARION/Thurs., March 1977. - 5,

McKay on Cosell, Olympics & Trivia

By Kevin Kesby

Jim McKay is usually seen broadcasting from a ski slalom in Austria or an auto race in Monaco but he seemed to feel at home last Wednesday night speaking before a sparse but receptive audience in Memorial Auditorium.

In a talk peppered with humorous anecdotes and "one-liners" ABC's "Wide World of Sports" host since 1961 presented viewpoints on sports, the Olympics and fellow sportscasters — views acquired in some 3,750,000 miles of travel in reporting on over 100 different sports in 40 countries.

The 90 minute lecture and question and answer period cost the Council on International and National Affairs(CINA) $3250.

McKay was not hesitant to express a view and when queried on the abilities of fellow sportscaster Howard Cosell quipped, "Cosell dwells on Mount Olympus, far above us mere mortals and comes down only to enlighten us."

McKay admitted to mixed feelings on the Olympics. He expressed strong approval of the concept of the games and while admitting that some political rivalry was healthy, felt that the overt political overtones of the recent Olympics were detrimental.

Naturally disappointed that NBC rather than ABC had obtained the rights to the 1980 Olympics in Moscow, McKay stated that "while everyone was not a Barbara Walters," if offered the right amount of money he would consider hosting the games for NBC.

The Olympics should remain restricted to amateurs, McKay stated but he agreed that athletes could receive a "living allowance."

That concept would allow an athlete to receive from the Olympic Committee an annual income based upon what they might conceivably be earning in another profession outside of the sport. The income would be granted regardless of this performance as an athlete and would allow financially-pressed athletes the chance to participate in the games.

McKay stated that government funding was not the best answer to the Olympic teams shortage in training facilities and equipment but rather, he counted on public support to meet the teams' needs.

Surprisingly short of build and barely rising above the podium, McKay nevertheless seemed well in command throughout the talk and showed an extensive knowledge of sports trivia during the question and answer period.

In 1968, McKay became the first sports commentator to win an Emmy Award and since then he has added six more to his collection. One of these came from his sports coverage of 1972 Olympic Games in Munich and another for his news reporting of the tragic events that occurred during those games. His work there also brought him the George Polk Memorial Award for Journalism and West Germany's Officer's Cross of the Legion of Merit. In all he has covered seven Olympiads.

A graduate of Loyola College and a former Navy Officer, the sportscaster started his television career in Baltimore in 1947 and moved to New York three years later. The father of a son and daughter, McKay was with CBS before joining the ABC staff. McKay and his wife live in Westport, Conn.

SPORTY STORY: Jim McKay enlightened a receptive audience to his worldly sports-minded views at a CINA lecture on Wed., Feb. 23.
Luis Buñuel, a famous Mexican director and writer, has shocked his audience with his attack on the hypocrises of religion and society. Now at age 70 he is at the height of his creative power.

March 8, The Exterminating Angel
Ballroom A-SC
12 noon-3pm
8pm-11pm
A summary of Buñuel ideas on society. He watches society placed in certain test conditions, breaking down from it's internal contradictions and falsities. This film suggests that people are trapped by social conventions and the Church.

March 10, Nazarin
Ballroom A-SC
12 noon-3pm
8pm-11pm
It is considered one of Luis Buñuel’s greatest works. It depicts a character’s attempt to live a pure Christian life out of the Church. Won Grand Prize at the 1958 Cannes Festival.

March 15, Los Olividados (The Young & The Damned)
Ballroom A -SC
12noon-3pm
A story of juvenile delinquents living on the outskirts of Mexico City. On one level, the film is realistic, almost documentary, in it's depiction of violence and poverty; and its unsentimental portrayal of delinquents.

March 21, The Criminal Life of Archibaldo De La Cruz
Ballroom A-SC
12noon-3pm
8pm-11pm
What is crime? A brutal act or a refined protection? Winner of 16 international awards.

March 24, Yanco
Ballroom A-SC
12 noon-3pm
Yanco is a story of a youngster who lives in a small Indian village near Mexico City. The movie shows a romantic fable with a simple thread.

FREE  FREE  FREE  FREE  FREE  FREE  FREE  FREE  FREE
EAT,(Gulp),EAT,(Gulp)...UGH!

By Rich Figel

When it was over, Jean Lazo had eaten 17 "munchkins" in one minute, giving him sole bragging rights as MSC’s first "Dunkin Munchkin" eating champion.

Not far behind in the Student Intramural Leisure Council (SILC) contest Wednesday were three munchkin-eaters tied at 14 apiece. What, you may ask, are Dunkin munchkins?

Doughnut holes... or more precisely the centers taken out of a doughnut to make the hole—which come in assorted varieties and tastes. Outside, it was one of those clear, crisp afternoons that wet early morning appetites. Inside the Student Center ballroom, the contestants—20 guys and two girls—were seated and ready shortly after the 11 am starting time. The 60 plus crowd buzzed with anticipation as they gathered around the four tables of competitors. Contestants took small sips of water and eyed the 20 mouth-sized pastries on each one's paper plate.

They had come to eat and eat fast.

They had to. Debbie Agnello, a SILC member, took up a bull-horn to amplify her last minute instructions: "... One at a time—and you gotta swallow the plate of munchkins in front of you. Or you're out of the money in yesterday's SILC contest."

Sixty seconds later everyone was still sitting. And so the counting began and the post-contest congratulatory slaps on the backs.

Lazo, a freshman psychology major, was asked how he felt; "Just great," came the reply. Did he eat breakfast? "No."

Lazo fielded the questions like a veteran of post-game interviews, casually joking that he was "in training for three weeks". No one took him too seriously.

In second place: Jerry Melillo, a senior industrial education major; Steve Richardson, a junior business administration major, and Mike Petrucci, Richardson entered on a spur of moment. Asked how the 14 munchkins made him feel, he answered, "Full."

Lazo got $15 for finishing first; the three second place finishers each received $10 apiece. Lazo said he was going to take his prize money and "get wasted."

When they started there were 585 munchkins. As the ballroom emptied, SILC members passed the bucket of leftover munchkins—some brunching, others licking their fingers. And the contestants still milling around, gladly declined the offer.

The SGA Beat

The following is a summary of SGA actions at last Wednesday's SGA Legislative meeting:

Maryanne E. Preznanik, SGA President informed the Legislature that the asbestos ceiling in Bohn Hall will be removed during the summer months, according to a recent memo from MSC President David W.D. Dickson.

Jose Fuentes, SGA Vice President for Academic Affairs, announced that course information booklets will be available in the fall, including "work-load" information about specific courses.

Teacher certification interviews are also being examined in regard to "fairness to the student," according to Fuentes.

A new SGA election rule was discussed in depth by the Legislature, stating that an individual can only petition for one of the five executive offices and will be eligible for up to $25 in SGA supplies.

Bob Hicks, SGA Legislator, introduced and later withdrew a bill, calling for a governmental "Code of Ethics," and an individual to back up every SGA related statement, since "certain fabrications" had been made by Legislators which had influenced voting, according to Hicks. Hicks' bill, which he felt "made a point," represents a new SGA emphasis on "honest politicing."

The Montclarion Welcomes New Writers !!!

Ralph's 10 Downing Street Pub

Live Entertainment

Every Friday and Saturday Night

Live Jazz This Weekend by Aurora

Mixed Drinks .90 -- Jumbo Sandwiches Kitchen Open Til 1am

By Rich Figel
Anti-Cancer: Isidor's 'Chemical Theme'

By Barbara Cesario

John L. Isidor is working to wipe out cancer in your lifetime. As the recipient of two private foundation grants, the new Chairperson of the chemistry department has been busy conducting anti-cancer research, instructing three classes and holding up the administrative end of the department since September.

Finding new drugs for chemotherapy, the treatment of internal disease by chemical substances, is one of the specifics of his research, which is being funded jointly by the American Chemistry Society (ACS) and the Research Corporation at a cost of over $14,000.

Humanitarian goals such as this are central to what Isidor calls "the chemical theme" of this generation of chemists.

"The thrust of the chemical community today focuses on alleviating human suffering, not on luxurious technology," Isidor said. "We have a slightly larger department now than we did five years ago but back then most of our majors went into teaching. Now more of them are working at pharmaceutical firms such as Allied Chemical and Warner-Lambert and at hospitals and clinical labs," he continued.

Industry is where the money is, Isidor said, and northern NJ now has the highest concentration of chemical industry in the US.

Isidor recalled that he became interested in chemistry at a very early age and credits science fiction books with expanding his interest in discovering more ways that chemicals can serve mankind, such as in energy conservation," Isidor said enthusiastically.

Isidor describes the job market for chemists as "adequate" but his figures indicate it to be more than just that.

"Within the last four years I can't think of anyone of our graduates who didn't find a job or get into graduate school," he said. He was quick to add that MSC has the only state college chemistry department with a program accredited by the ACS, a definite plus when seeking placement after college.

"I wish I had more time to do what I was trained to be, an educator and researcher," he reflected.

Before becoming Chairperson, Isidor was instrumental in developing a program in Forensics, the science of criminal investigations, in which ballistics and drug analysis would be taught. Although approved by the Board of Higher Education, Isidor says "the state will not provide funds for new programs at this time."

"I am not my name"
Clove Rd., One ‘Holey Hazard’

By Renee Vartan

Those who use the Little Falls campus entrance to MSC know the condition of Clove Rd. — especially if they come or leave via Rt. 46. The two-way road that runs past the “on-campus” Clove Rd. Apartments, is windy, narrow and strewn with potholes that could easily damage cars or cause accidents.

So far nothing has been done about it.

But according to Frank Loscalzo, Assistant County Engineer of Passaic County, the potholes and drainage problem on Clove Rd. should be fixed “in about two weeks.”

Informed of the hazardous conditions by the MONTCLARION, Loscalzo responded: “I'll have the inspectors stop by within the next few days and see if the road is that bad.”

Although the road bisects the campus and apartments, the college claims no responsibility for the road. And surprisingly, Little Falls also claims no responsibility for the road’s maintenance or lack of it.

Walter Romaine, Superintendent in Charge of Public Works in Little Falls, explained, “It’s a county road. Little Falls has nothing to do with fixing the holes. The Passaic County Road Department are the ones who take care of it.”

According to Loscalzo, there is talk about rebuilding the entire road — including widening — sometime in the future.

“We’ll maintain what’s there right now,” he added.

Loscalzo said that county inspectors are constantly assigned to check out road conditions and spot potholes. He also said they receive reports from police and residents about emergency road problems.

Why the repair delay then?

Loscalzo said that there are a limited number of available trucks for inspection and repairs.

Because the road is linked to a state highway, there is controversy over who should fix the Clove Rd. approach onto it — the municipality, the county or the state. Recently, the state repaved Rt. 46 near Clove Rd. but only paved part of the approaches, leaving one of the worst areas of the road unpaved.

The Valley Rd.-Normal Ave. intersection, currently being widened is also a county road but the work is being done by an outside contractor, Lighting Electric, according to Jerome Quinn, Office of Institutional Planning.

“...there are two different outfits involved. For a pothole repair job, you can’t schedule contractors. The county uses its own employees to fix the roads. Unfortunately, in the spring they don’t have enough men to immediately repair all the potholes,” he said.

Daytona Trip

Problems

(Cont. from pg. 1)

those who chose to go by bus, were not affected by the change.

Their plans were finalized at $149, for the 22 hour trip that will leave at noon, April 1, and return Easter Sunday. Many seemed pleased that they were saving $100, and were gaining the chance to see part of the country.

Among the options offered to students are breakfast, car rentals, and kitchenette accommodations. Trips are planned at low costs to Walt Disney World, Kennedy Space Center, and Sea World. Other recreational activities are organized for everyone.

Reservations may still be made for the trip through March 14 by contacting the CLUB office, or by calling 893-5232. On this day all final balances must be paid, and by March 21 all adjustments are due.

HOLEY HELL: Pot holes, making for hazardous driving conditions, seem never ending with no immediate repairs in sight.

HOLEY HELL: Pot holes, making for hazardous driving conditions, seem never ending with no immediate repairs in sight.

IMPORTANT NOTICE:

A.P.O. Book Returns

Last Day For Returns:
March 9
9:30 am - 2:30 pm

Unclaimed Books Will Be Given To Charity

Personalized Hats

SUGGESTED WORDING

Your Full Name - City - State
Club Name - CB Handle and Call Letters
School Name - City - State

MATCHING SCARF $6.95

ORDER FROM

ROXBURY MILLS
Roxbury, New York 12474

Please ship (quantity) of personalized hand washable hats at $6.95 ea. Please fill out your choice of wording: ____________ enclosed.

Top Line (Please Print — 12 Letters Maximum)

Bottom Line (Please Print — 12 Letters Maximum)

Please Indicate Your Choices Below:

Color of Hat: White | Yellow
Color of Letter: Blue | Red | Green | Purple

Color Of Mat: Blue | Red | Green | Purple

NO. 1 SKI HAT (Flat, No Pompon)
NO. 2 SWAP HAT (Flat, With Pompon)
NO. 3 HOCKEY CAP (Square, With Pompon)
NO. 4 WATCH CAP (Bottom Turned Up, No Pompon)

NO. 1 - Ski Hat (Flat, No Pompon)
NO. 2 - Watch Cap (Bottom Turned Up, No Pompon)
NO. 3 - Hockey Cap (Square, With Pompon)
NO. 4 - Watch Cap (Bottom Turned Up, No Pompon)

ROXBURY MILLS
Roxbury, New York 12474

Please ship (quantity) of personalized hand washable hats at $6.95 ea. Please fill out your choice of wording: ____________ enclosed.

Top Line (Please Print — 12 Letters Maximum)

Bottom Line (Please Print — 12 Letters Maximum)

Please Indicate Your Choices Below:

Color of Mat: Blue | Red | Green | Purple

Color Of Letter: White | Yellow

Color Of Hat: White | Yellow

Color Of Letter: Blue | Red | Green | Purple

NO. 1 SKI HAT (Flat, No Pompon)
NO. 2 SWAP HAT (Flat, With Pompon)
NO. 3 HOCKEY CAP (Square, With Pompon)
NO. 4 WATCH CAP (Bottom Turned Up, No Pompon)

NO. 1 - Ski Hat (Flat, No Pompon)
NO. 2 - Watch Cap (Bottom Turned Up, No Pompon)
NO. 3 - Hockey Cap (Square, With Pompon)
NO. 4 - Watch Cap (Bottom Turned Up, No Pompon)

Please ship (quantity) of personalized hand washable hats at $6.95 ea. Please fill out your choice of wording: ____________ enclosed.

Top Line (Please Print — 12 Letters Maximum)

Bottom Line (Please Print — 12 Letters Maximum)

Please Indicate Your Choices Below:

Color of Mat: Blue | Red | Green | Purple

Color Of Letter: White | Yellow

Color Of Hat: White | Yellow

Color Of Letter: Blue | Red | Green | Purple

NO. 1 SKI HAT (Flat, No Pompon)
NO. 2 SWAP HAT (Flat, With Pompon)
NO. 3 HOCKEY CAP (Square, With Pompon)
NO. 4 WATCH CAP (Bottom Turned Up, No Pompon)

NO. 1 - Ski Hat (Flat, No Pompon)
NO. 2 - Watch Cap (Bottom Turned Up, No Pompon)
NO. 3 - Hockey Cap (Square, With Pompon)
NO. 4 - Watch Cap (Bottom Turned Up, No Pompon)

Please ship (quantity) of personalized hand washable hats at $6.95 ea. Please fill out your choice of wording: ____________ enclosed.

Top Line (Please Print — 12 Letters Maximum)

Bottom Line (Please Print — 12 Letters Maximum)

Please Indicate Your Choices Below:

Color of Mat: Blue | Red | Green | Purple

Color Of Letter: White | Yellow

Color Of Hat: White | Yellow

Color Of Letter: Blue | Red | Green | Purple

NO. 1 SKI HAT (Flat, No Pompon)
NO. 2 SWAP HAT (Flat, With Pompon)
NO. 3 HOCKEY CAP (Square, With Pompon)
NO. 4 WATCH CAP (Bottom Turned Up, No Pompon)

NO. 1 - Ski Hat (Flat, No Pompon)
NO. 2 - Watch Cap (Bottom Turned Up, No Pompon)
NO. 3 - Hockey Cap (Square, With Pompon)
NO. 4 - Watch Cap (Bottom Turned Up, No Pompon)
Alumni Association Serves the Undergraduate

By Fran Fleischer

Mention the MSC Alumni Association and most people, logically enough, think of an organization serving MSC graduates. But surprisingly, the Alumni Association has much to offer undergraduates as well — particularly in the area of financial assistance.

"Active students who will be seniors in the fall can apply for Alumni Association scholarships," Dean Hathaway, Director of Alumni Relations, said.

The scholarships are awarded annually to students with outstanding records of academic achievement, extracurricular activity and community service. Up to $500 is awarded to each recipient to help meet senior tuition costs.

"Twenty-eight students have received scholarships in the last four years," Hathaway noted. 1976-77 winners included seniors Linda Astorino, Patti Cioffi, Denise A. Esposito, Donna Hoffman, Maryanne Preztunik, Esther Schwarzberg and Arlene Tyler.

The deadline for 1977-78 scholarship applications is Fri., March 18. Applications may be obtained at the Alumni House, 34 Normal Ave., the Dean of Students Office, the Financial Aid Office or in the Student Center.

The Charles E. Hadley Memorial Fund for Independent Student Research has just been established by the Alumni Trustees. For biology majors only, the Fund, chaired by Marie Kuhnen, biology professor, recently awarded four $50 grants to students Nancy Dorato, Stephanie Rydzaj, Norma LeFgren and John Chapman.

The Committee of Seniors PRESENTS:

The Senior Banquet

(5 hour open bar, hot & cold buffet, dancing)

Thursday, May 5th 8pm - 1am

Town & Campus, West Orange featuring "CHARISMA"

Bids- $10 each (limit: 2 per Senior w/SGA ID)

$15 each (for non-SGA Senior)

Bids Will Go On Sale AFTER Spring Recess

Class of 1977 - GRADUATION is May 26 at 3:30 pm (rain date: May 27)

Read Future Advertisements For Further Information On GRADUATION ACTIVITIES.

paid for by SGA
General Ed. Made Simpler

By Joanne Swanson

The class of 1981 can look forward to a simpler and more effective program of general education requirements.

The new system will replace the complex school and common core selections which have baffled students since 1971.

Irwin Gawley, Vice President for Academic Affairs, discussed the details of the program. He explained that all aspects have not yet been finalized.

Gawley explained that the basic difference is that there will now be three major areas of study. These include humanities and the arts, theoretical and applied sciences and social and behavioral sciences.

Students will take 12 credits from each of the three areas from a minimum of three disciplines.

School identifications have been dropped and specific disciplines instead of departments will be listed. For example, Gawley explained that a specific area might include “Drama” or “Radio and Television” rather than only a specific department or major.

The Curriculum Committee is now working on composing a list of the various disciplines within the three major areas. This has not yet been finalized.

Certain requirements will still be maintained, according to Gawley. These include the communication requirement and the physical education requirement. In addition, it will be necessary to take two courses from a single discipline. This is similar to the present sequential course requirement.

“Every student will now be given some opportunity to gain a basic knowledge in each area,” Gawley said. “He can no longer take two courses from a single discipline. This is similar to the present sequential course requirement.

Every Wednesday evening, beginning at 8 pm, the third floor of the Student Center is converted into a dimly-lighted catacomb-basement atmosphere. Free food and live entertainment satisfy the nearly 250 persons a week that have been turning out.

“I come up here for the food. I also enjoy it because there’s a good atmosphere,” Carmen Ficarra, an English major, explained.

Since CLUB has been in existence, it always provided a coffeehouse atmosphere for students to enjoy. The original Catacombs met in the basement of College Hall and provided a truly authentic “catacomb” atmosphere before moving to Life Hall. Although it was fairly successful, the crowd began to dwindle.

Joan Schulhafer, former CLUB Chairperson, revived the dying activity by bringing it to the Student Center.

By Mary Valenti

Nowadays it is very unusual to get something for nothing. But it’s even more unusual to get something worthwhile for nothing. Catacombs, a weekly coffeehouse sponsored by the College Life Union Board (CLUB), breaks the monotony of the week without putting a dent in your budget.

Every Wednesday evening, beginning at 8 pm, the third floor of the Student Center is converted into a dimly-lighted catacomb-basement atmosphere. Free food and live entertainment satisfy the nearly 250 persons a week that have been turning out.

“I come up here for the food. I also enjoy it because there’s a good atmosphere,” Carmen Ficarra, an English major, explained.

Since CLUB has been in existence, it always provided a coffeehouse for students to enjoy. The original Catacombs met in the basement of College Hall and provided a truly authentic “catacomb” atmosphere before moving to Life Hall. Although it was fairly successful, the crowd began to dwindle.

Joan Schulhafer, former CLUB Chairperson, revived the dying activity by bringing it to the Student Center.

“I think it’s a lot better than it used to be. It could use a little more diversity in the talent but the atmosphere is good,” Dave Thompson, a junior psychology major, remarked.

The performers are usually mellow acoustic acts that contribute to easy listening and the ability to converse with others.

All kinds of crowds constitute Catacombs. There are those who stay from beginning to end, those who drop in and stay for an hour or so and those who come especially to see their favorite group.

The bands consist mainly of students from MSC although often outsiders request to perform. They perform voluntarily for experience and enjoyment. Catacombs also serves as an outlet for the performers, being a midpoint from rehearsing at home to performing professionally.

“To play for an audience is great! It’s like being in heaven,” exclaimed Nick Valente, a senior humanities major and member of the popular duo “Sierra.” “I come here because there’s a crowd that listens,” he added.

“I think that Catacombs provides an opportunity for both the performers and the audience. It’s a good place to meet people and a good place to entertain in,” Mark Dacey, graduate of Canaan College and the other half of “Sierra,” added.

“It’s hard to get everything organized and running smoothly but it’s all worth it in the end. After you see people enjoying something you’ve made possible, it’s a good feeling,” Paul Hady, Chairperson of the Catacombs reflected.

Relax, unwind and enjoy. Every Wednesday is open house on the third floor of the Student Center. Between 8 pm and midnight; food, coffee, tea and live entertainment are at your disposal — and it’s all free.
Johnson's Remarks

The statements made by Educational Opportunity Fund (EOF) Director Reuben Johnson in the article "Minority Men Speak on White Women," which appeared in the February 24th issue of the MONTCLARION, have caused the controversy that now surrounds them. All people are entitled to their opinions. The question that arises is who should be the Director of this organization. Johnson is the Director and he should express his opinions privately. His opinion is considered both sexist and racist. Since he is the Director of an organization which is supposed to be fair to students of any race, his opinions shouldn't be part of the character of one in such a position.

What Johnson said is considered both racist and sexist. But are his statements worthy of the controversy that now surrounds them? All people are entitled to their opinions. The question that arises is whether Johnson, as EOF Director, should express his controversial feelings publicly.

Johnson didn't go to the Women's Center as a representative of EOF. He went merely to talk. However since Johnson is the Director no matter where he goes he reflects EOF. Being in a position of power, where he can easily make his opinions known, Johnson should have been more careful when expressing his views.

Some students, as indicated in the MONTCLARION Soapbox this week, feel Johnson should resign. They suggest that a person with this type of opinion shouldn't be Director of EOF.

The call for resignation is more emotional than it is practical. In Johnson's favor is the fact that so far there haven't been documented complaints made about the way he runs the program. He seems to have done his job efficiently and no racial prejudice has been openly discovered.

Yet since he is the Director of an organization which is supposed to be fair to students of any race, his qualifications as Director should be re-evaluated by a search committee. MSC President Dickson and the administration must take the initiative in seeing that this task is done.

Before the question of resignation is raised or the entire issue is dismissed without action, Johnson should be given a chance to prove that his personal opinions don't affect his work. If it is found that they do then action must be taken.

G. E. Made Easy

Too bad our little brothers and sisters won't be able to appreciate the bonus the College will be giving them next year. The Class of '81 will be presented with a simplified version of the General Education requirements.

Students since 1971 have struggled with the "one from Column A, two from Column B" method of selecting courses.

Commendations go to the Curriculum Committee for designing the new program. They were able to see that it is not essential for a system to be complicated in order to be effective.

STUDENTS SPEAK

Keep Your Distance?

Question: How does commuting affect you socially and academically at MSC?

By Mary Valenti and Maureen Baker

"I used to live here but now I don't. I met a lot more people when I lived here. You can get more involved when you live here because by the time you finish classes (when you commute) you don't feel like doing anything except driving home. Commuting isn't all that bad."

-- Cindy Barius

accounting/1979

"I commute. I don't dorm here. I like commuting. I don't mind it. I feel that a commuting student can get as involved as a dorm student. I found time to get involved. The only bad thing about commuting is trying to park your car."

-- Jeanne Berrian

English/1979

"I commute and I don't care. I like commuting. I don't mind it. I feel that a commuting student can get just as involved as a dorm student. I found time to get involved. The only bad thing about commuting is trying to park your car."

-- Cindy Barius

accounting/1979

"I commute and I don't care. I like commuting. I don't mind it. I feel that a commuting student can get just as involved as a dorm student. I found time to get involved. The only bad thing about commuting is trying to park your car."

-- Jeanne Berrian

English/1979

"I don't mind driving except it's a pain to come up here at night sometimes. I don't think it affects my work. I think I'd do less if I lived here because I would party much more."

-- Lois Padula

business administration/1979
Academic Freedom...
Free to Teach Lies

By Grover C. Farr

Last week Arthur Jensen was elected a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS). The position of Fellow of the AAAS is one of the highest honors which can be accorded a scientist in the US. Naturally, therefore, the election of Jensen, the main proponent of the racist theory that black people are genetically inferior to whites, is making a great many people very angry. "An act of racism" is what Richard Wallace, a black AAAS fellow, termed in his resignation letter. Margaret Mead, the famous anthropologist, agreed.

Jensen's election is all the more revealing since it comes at a time when there's a lot of pressure on everyone to renounce the use of certain derogatory terms. The AAAS is one of the organizations which has called for the use of more acceptable terms. The AAAS is also one of the organizations who have called for the use of more acceptable terms.

But that doesn't mean that there isn't any tension between the organizations. A recent survey of the AAAS membership showed that a majority of members believe that Jensen's election is a cause for concern.

This is inexusable! The presence of such tension between the organizations is a matter of some concern. The AAAS is one of the organizations which has called for the use of more acceptable terms. The AAAS is also one of the organizations who have called for the use of more acceptable terms.

Academic Freedom... Free to Teach Lies

By Grover C. Farr

Last week Arthur Jensen was elected a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS). The position of Fellow of the AAAS is one of the highest honors which can be accorded a scientist in the US. Naturally, therefore, the election of Jensen, the main proponent of the racist theory that black people are genetically inferior to whites, is making a great many people very angry. "An act of racism" is what Richard Wallace, a black AAAS fellow, termed in his resignation letter. Margaret Mead, the famous anthropologist, agreed.

Jensen's election is all the more revealing since it comes at a time when there's a lot of pressure on everyone to renounce the use of certain derogatory terms. The AAAS is one of the organizations which has called for the use of more acceptable terms. The AAAS is also one of the organizations who have called for the use of more acceptable terms.

But that doesn't mean that there isn't any tension between the organizations. A recent survey of the AAAS membership showed that a majority of members believe that Jensen's election is a cause for concern.

This is inexusable! The presence of such tension between the organizations is a matter of some concern. The AAAS is one of the organizations which has called for the use of more acceptable terms. The AAAS is also one of the organizations who have called for the use of more acceptable terms.
Soapbox

Equality Claims

To the Editor:

As a member of the executive board of the Black Student Cooperative Union (BSCU), I would like to clear up some discrepancies printed in the article "Spring Ball Dropped" in the Feb. 17 issue of the MONTCLARION. BSCU never requested formally, informally, bill form or otherwise any additional funding or a part in the Spring Ball if monies were to be allocated to the College Life Union Board.

Nor is there any "issue" between the BSCU or its executive board. Any comments or personal opinions that legislators may make should not be misconstrued as such.

It would be advisable for the MONTCLARION to check with BSCU and not with misconstrued, opinionated people concerning the functions of this organization since this is the way that facts and not misconceptions will come to light.

Deborah Boyd
English/’78

Provoke Freedom of Choice

To the Editor:

After reading the facts surrounding the non-reappointment of Robert Cherry to the economics department, I think it is imperative for all MSC students to be concerned with his case. Academic freedom means that students have the right to understand different theories and make choices on all available information. A realistic view of the economy and problems surrounding racism are among the most relevant and important aspects of society for everyone to understand.

The fact that the administration chooses to ignore Cherry's high student evaluations makes me wonder what the administration feels the purpose of these evaluations is or what the purpose of MSC is! We are no longer in primary school where administrators carefully choose our curriculum. We pay for our education and have a right to express opinions about what is relevant and should be taught in the classroom.

On March 3 the Board of Trustees will again consider Cherry's case. It is in the best interest of every student at MSC to attend and make it clear that we care about our education!

Nancy Smith Albert
sociology/’77

No Ngunjiri!

Dear Editor:

The article on the Committee Against Racism (CAR) in the Feb. 17 issue of the MONTCLARION sounds very good but I hope with all their boasting they have not lost touch with reality. All right, so they have been successful in instituting a Swahili program at MSC. What if anything are they doing about the non-retention of Ngari Ngunjiri, the only man on campus qualified to teach Swahili? What will happen to the program when he is gone?

What is anyone doing about this racist action on the part of—to whom is responsible for hiring and firing around here? Why doesn't the CAR circulate petitions demanding the reinstatement of Ngunjiri and the continuation of his courses in Swahili and African history? Let's see them in action now, when it counts. Let's see them help a good man keep a job that he needs. Keep quality on our campus!

Mary M. Johnson
English/’77

Shake Loose

To the Editor:

The Weight Reduction Club of the home economics department has once again opened up its facilities to both the student population and the local public. Under the supervision of Ruth Carol, a registered dietician and Associate Professor, students majoring in foods and nutrition will be doing the actual counseling.

This service will consist of one-to-one confidential meetings with those people interested in losing weight. Proper nutritional practices will be stressed, along with personally formulated diets. This semester the club hopes to incorporate some group counseling sessions, along with a suggested exercise program. The Weight Reduction Club, which has been operating successfully for over a year is located in the Life Skills Center in Finley Hall, room 110 and is free of charge.

Please help us to help you!! Applications are available through the home economics department. For more information feel free to stop by.

Jani Zwillman
nutrition/’77
Entertainment Presents

BEER PARTY

Thursday, March 3

8pm

Student Center Ballrooms

Admission: $1.00 w/SGA ID

FREE!!

EAT !!

DRINK !!

BE MERRY !!
Ginsberg Reads ... And Speaks

By Laurie Velger
and Thom Olsen

Renowned poet Allen Ginsberg and his brother, poet/lawyer Eugene Brooks, read to a highly appreciated audience of more than 200 people last Thursday in Ballroom A of the Student Center. The highly successful free poetry event was sponsored by Quarterly, MSC's literary magazine and the Art Forum. Ginsberg, the author of such well-known works as Howl, Kaddish, The Fall of America and First Blues, among others, was both welcomed warmly by the highly enthusiastic and appreciative audience.

Ginsberg and Brooks were introduced by Harry Rosenzweig of Cultural Affairs, who mentioned the brothers' affinity with MSC. Brooks himself graduated from MSC in 1949 and Ginsberg actually mentioned "Montclair State College" in his work Kaddish.

Each poet read for two 20 minute sets, divided by a brief intermission. Brooks began each set. Brooks' tone was subdued and philosophical, and his poems seemed of a personal and self-revelatory nature. During the first set of his own works the statement "My most recent discovery is that no one can live more than one life in one body at a time." Brooks read a striking work that featured a clock as the central image. During his second set Brooks read poems dedicated to his wife and also to his father, poet Louis Ginsberg, who passed away last year.

For his first selection Ginsberg read his well-known work "America." His delivery was, to say the least, spirited and exuberant and thoroughly delightful. Toward the end of the piece Ginsberg ad-libbed references to MSC and Timothy Leary, among others. Ginsberg gave the poem, originally written in 1956, in an in-the-moment sense of freshness and vitality. He then read "A Supermarket in California" and "Sunflower Sutra." Before the latter he explained that the work was his attempt to follow William Carlos Williams' idea of capturing the speech of the New Jersey soil. Ginsberg then moved on to his three-days-every-present-haemorrhage poem and sang a humorous tune entitled "Sickness Blues." The song bemoaned the fact that Ginsberg's drug and sexual liaison must be catching up with him. Besides demonstrating a uniquely energetic poetic delivery, Ginsberg as well demonstrated a uniquely energetic musical delivery.

During the second half, Ginsberg read his recent works, some of which were written in the last weeks. He read a very beautiful piece about his father Louis dying and another work which personified love and told spiritual evolution.

Unfortunately the event was marred by a faulty sound system, which caused the back half of the ballroom to be overendulicated with distortion. However, despite the poor physical sound, both Ginsberg's and Brooks' works came through with a great clarity of image and spirit.

Allen Ginsberg will be considerably the conditions for inspiration.

When asked about living in the moment and making oneself as clear a channel as possible for whatever is coming through, Ginsberg stated, in no uncertain terms, "Well nothing is coming through, you're just there. Coming from through from which, some other universe? You're here already. There's no being outside what's here already, anyway. There's no abstract thing that's coming through. I don't like that image, making oneself a clear channel, because it's an image derived from radio/television. Some Madison Avenue conception."

When confronted with the thought that the prophets have been considered as clear channels, Ginsberg replied "I think they were full of shit, because they were talking about God and I don't believe in God. I don't believe in another universe than the one we've got right here."

Ginsberg still believe that drugs are useful, if combined with clear open-minded meditative practices. Not Kundalini zaps or saying that "oh my chakras are opening, I see the 15th moon on the 14th planet, I hear voices." Horror. It's all euphonious, just trying to get something from the universe. Anyone who claims to have seen God, just saw his own big ego and is trying to get either love and money for it. All those God preachers, God peddlers, God-sals, cosmic unity peddlers, myself foremost among them and the most corrupt." Asked to explain himself a little more, Ginsberg said softly "It's not important. Rest your mind, it's not important. You don't have to understand me because I don't understand myself. So there's nothing to understand. Everything's clear. There's no mystery. We're already here so there's nothing to misunderstand or understand."

Ginsberg stressed his dislike of generalizations and vaguities. "Poetry is not composed of generalizations, it's composed of specific things, if anything."

Ginsberg himself, along with William Burroughs and Ron Padgett, will be teaching courses this summer at Naropa.

---Velger

Announcing The Alumni Scholarships

MSC Alumni Association invites applications for undergraduate scholarships.

If you'll be a senior in September, 1977, and have been active in campus and community programs, we want to hear from you!

Pick up an application today at the Alumni House (across from Panzer Gym), the Dean of Students Office, or the Financial Aid Office.

Questions? Call the Alumni House-893-4141
The Record Collector

New Riders of the Purple Sage
Who Are Those Guys? (MCA 2248)

One of the oldest bands in the field of country rock music is the New Riders of the Purple Sage. Their latest album, Who Are Those Guys? is an example of a group going stale.

Of the 10 songs on the LP, five are fair to good while the remainder are offensive. The worst part is that they're mixed together and you have to skip around.

What's wrong with the record is that the New Riders are erratic, the songs don't even sound like the same band is doing it. At times their harmonies are beautiful and the guitar playing by vocalist John Dawson and David Nelson excels on the rocking "Love Hurts Strange Ways." This selection along with a "New Kid in Town" sound alike. "(Just) Another Night in Reno" help to salvage the disc.

Sounding like the Eagles is no good but when the group turns around and creates the typical southern rowdy type "Red Hot Women and Ice Cold Beer" or an updated version of "Peggy Sue," that's where I draw the line. I think these guys are suffering from an identity crisis.

Perhaps the reason why the quintet is pictured in masks on the front cover is a good indication that even the New Riders can't seem to capture what is of most interest to them. The colors of his work on his MA at the end of the current semester.

The closest they come to the song romance expressed in the painting is that the painting itself, trying to create an image that would invite the viewer to enter the canvas and explore... in my more recent paintings. I have tried to concern myself with the structure of the work, trying to build a good painting rather than painting a landscape.

The artist received a BA in art education from MSC in 1969, then he spent a short time at the Art Institute of Chicago as a graduate painting major before beginning a teaching career in the public school system of NJ. At present Orlando is teaching painting, commercial art and general art at West Morris Mt. Olive High School in Flanders.

Landscapes By Orlando

By Nina Lacy

Recent landscapes by Ron Orlando will be on view in the foyer of Sprague Library, MSC, through Mon., March 21. The exhibit is open to the public without charge during library hours.

Professor Leon De Loeuw arranged the exhibit for his former undergraduate student and present graduate student, Orlando, who plans to complete work on his MA at the end of the current semester.

The artist, whose untitled landscapes decorate the walls of the gallery, concerns himself with structuring forms by means of color and values. One of the techniques he uses is the abstract expressionist uses the repetition of small forms. This has very much to do with tension arrived at by means of having areas that seem to be the same but in reality they are very different due to the immediate environment. The way he uses the colors sometimes gives an illusion that the painting itself leaves its own boundaries and stretches into the environment or, as in other works, the environment penetrates into the painting.

He paints in a signature stroke that he repeats. The colors of his works are mostly subtle with strong accents and there is a certain rhythm throughout his paintings. A viewer may also be aware of a lyrical quality of the works and some amount of romanticism expressed in them.

The artist said that the qualities of paint and color are still very important elements as is the style of application but what is of most interest to him is the structure of the painting. There are still landscapes in his mind but the image is beginning to break up. He says, "They strike me as being more like magnifications of natural objects that reveal the marvelous underlying structure that is the strength of that object."

Orlando adds, "In the past I have been very concerned with the landscape itself, trying to create an image that would go over well on the album. The flaw I find in Carolina Dreams is that I discover myself dreaming of Carolina instead of foot stompin' around the room."

- By Tony Grasso

Sex Pistols Anarchy in the UK/I Wanna Be Me (EMI 2556)

If not the best, "Anarchy in the UK" is probably the most important single of the year from England. Sex Pistols are at the vanguard of the "new wave" of British bands and their contract with prestigious EMI confirms the nihilistic/anarchistic stance most of these bands adopt.

Unfortunately, the anarchy as ecstasy theme of the single coupled with the band's appearance on a live TV show that descended in total obscenity (anarchy in the TV) caused EMI to drop the band and withdraw the record. (The TV shows have salvaged their contract with a public apology but refused, saying that to do so would have been too dishonest. If more of our "rock stars" shared such sentiments, perhaps rock would not be enduring the placid doldrums it now suffers.)

Forget the politics, which are minimal anyway and get this record while you still can. Loud, dynamic and exciting, "Anarchy in the UK" is a definition of what a rock 'n' roll 45 should be.

- By E. Jeffrey De Rome

The Arts Scene

Howard Greenblatt, a classical guitarist known professionally as Robert Greenleaf, will be presented in a faculty recital in McEachem Recital Hall, MSC, on Sun., March 20 at 4 pm. The public is invited and admission is free. Call the music department (893-5231) for further information.

The student Film Review needs original films by students for a special feature to be aired on NJ Cable TV. This is a forum for exchanged filmartists and also a chance to win prizes. Entries must be in by Fri., April 1. For further information contact the Student Film Review at 246-4590 or 541-8080.

The Marshall Tucker Band Carolina Dreams Capricorn (CFS 0180)

While The Marshall Tucker Band continues to record some fine "down home" original songs and issue very pleasant albums, they still can't seem to capture what they do live on stage or on records. Their sixth LP, Carolina Dreams, is a perfect example of this.

This album is very enjoyable. But MTB music should be foot-stompin' and hand clappin'. In concert, this is truly the case on Carolina Dreams it isn't.

The closest they come to this is the song "Life in a Song," which features some touching sax (Jerry Eubanks) and horn (guest arranger, Leo La Branche) play and the burning guitar of Toy Caldwell.

Once again, though, it is the usual MTB album. The best tunes on the LP are the Toy Caldwell originals. The other songs (three of a total seven), were penned by some combination of other band members Doug Gray (lead singer), George McCorkle (vocals), Eubanks (sax and flute) or Toy's brother, Tommy Caldwell (bass).

Toy's written a couple of smooth southern root songs that go over well. "Heard it in a Love Song" is very sentimental while "Tell it to the Devil" seems like a reformation tune as Toy promises: "I'm gonna clean my soul up, Lord." Both cut go over well on the album and are performed virtually flawlessly. But this does not seem to be what MTB really are.

Maybe the band had the right idea when they released Where We All Belong which featured a studio side along with a live side.

The flaw I find in Carolina Dreams is that I discover myself dreaming of Carolina instead of foot stompin' around the room.

- By Tony Grasso

Psychology Club

Film Festival!

Thurs. March 10
Warrendale

Thurs. March 24
Face to Face

All films shown in Russ Hall Lounge

FREE 4-6 pm / FREE
Wilder & Campus
Try For A ‘Match’

By Jeryl Ann Franco

Thornton Wilder's, The Matchmaker, directed by Jerome Rockwood, is 1977’s gala, Spring Major Theatre Series presentation.

The Matchmaker, which was made into a highly successful musical, Hello Dolly!, is a delightful and busy comedy of love and marriage provoked anywhere from a rich man’s home to a millinery shop.

The flicker of passion can be found in the crotchety Horace Vandergelder (Donald Sobolic) to his young, impressionable niece, Ermegarde (Claudia Knowles), stopping off somewhere along the way with the zany Bronx-lover, Cornelius Hackl (Robert Longstreet, who most recently starred in the Players' Company). All of this, of course, having a Cupid bound instigator, namely Dolly Levi (Susan Speidel, also of Company).

The light-hearted and hilarious saga of Ermegarde and Ambrose Kemper’s (Mark Speer) somewhat forbidden marriage (after all he’s an artist!) triggers off the calamities, coupled with Vandergelder’s steadfast decision that it is time he married. The story culminates to a happy ending preceded by the introduction of many impulsive and loveable characters.

Along with those already mentioned, the cast includes: Tony Salerno, Athena Droogas, Marc Mattaliano, Wayne Diana, Cheryl Clark, Sheila Connolly, Bruce Matthews, Patrick Christiano, John Carrington, Rita Cadorin and Lori Smith.

The cast and crew of Matchmaker have worked long, hard hours insuring it to be an exceptional and high spirited two hours of entertainment. The play will run from Wed., March 9 through Sat., March 12 in Memorial Auditorium. Curtain time is 8:30pm each evening, with a 2:30 pm matinee on Fri., March 11.

MSC Musicians Go Dutch

By Richard Galasso

MSC's second Carnegie Recital Hall concert will consist of contemporary Dutch and early Flemish music. The Sun., March 6 performance is under the patronage of the Consulate General of the Netherlands in New York.

MSC professor and New York Philharmonic violinist, Oscar Ravina, who coordinated the entire series has organized the Dutch program. “I set up the program to represent the living contemporary Dutch composers,” Ravina said.

Gerard Schwarz will again conduct the Montclair College Chamber Orchestra during Hans Kox’s “Cyclophony VIII.”

In addition to the one orchestra number and a vocal ensemble program, four MSC faculty members will perform in duos and clarinetist William Shadel will play solo. Ravina accompanied by Chaim Zemach (cello), will play Henk Beding’s “Duo for Violin and Cello.” “He is considered the father of the contemporary Dutch,” Ravina said.

In organizing the program, Ravina has reversed the format from the first Carnegie concert. This performance and the final concert on Sun., March 27 (Italian composers) is of contemporary music that holds to patterned classical forms. The music is not as modern as the first concert.

A vocal group, the Montclair College Early Music Ensemble will play and sing works by early Flemish composers. The 13 vocalists under the direction of MSC professor Brenda Fairaday will be backed by two viola players, an organist and a lute player.

“The ensemble has been formed for this specific concert but we expect to continue with it,” Fairaday said. “The composers we are playing are from the 15th and 16th centuries.” Fairaday also explained that the Early Music Ensemble performs music written before 1700.

Clarinetist William Shadel who is featured in a duet with Rosalie Pratt (harp) will also perform solo on Rudolf Escher’s “Sonata for Clarinet.”

The 11 minute composition has no key center and was chosen by Ravina. “It’s a long atonal piece written in three movements,” Shadel said.

In reference to his duet with Pratt on Henri van Praag’s “Sonatina,” Shadel said, “I’ve never played with a harpist before but I’m looking forward to this arrangement. “It isn’t a common duo but the instruments do go together.”

Shadel and the others are all anticipating their return to Carnegie Hall. The first concert was a huge success and masterfully performed. Tickets for Sunday’s show are $2 for students, $4 for others and may be obtained in the Music Building.

Montclair State College
Department of Speech and Theater
Major Theater Series

Thornton Wilder’s
THE MATCHMAKER
MARCH 9 - 12

Evenings at 8:30
Friday Matinee at 2:15

746-9120
MEMORIAL AUDITORIUM
Zinn’s Zanies Were Just ‘Zinful’

By Richard Galasso

Where has the audience gone? Or, why did Cultural Affairs promote Zinn’s Zany First and Quartet as a Ragtime jazz concert at Memorial Auditorium last Friday? A disappearing audience was strange and considerably poor. Bach’s “Toccata and Fugue” was an offbeat piece of music that became more off key when the quartet stood up, walked off the stage, came back and sat down all while holding the final note of the composition. Johann Strauss’ “Die Fledermous Overture” was the only piece of music the Zinn’s almost played straight. The light overture contained several waltz melodies between several refrains. The foursome stopped in the middle of the number, stared at the audience and continued to play as two people left the auditorium.

The last classical number was Joseph Haydn’s “Unno Bow Serenade.” As the title indicates only one bow is used in the string quartet. The Zinn’s exchanged the one bow between themselves. As the bow moved from man to man the others plucked their instruments. This did not have the audience rolling in the aisles. Two more people left.

A barber pole, a telephone and a mechanical toy monkey for exposure to agents

Stage Door 23

Thurs. night Amateur and professionals perform for exposure to agents

Fri.– Sat. night Streetdancer

Fri. 5pm–8pm ‘Weekend Warm-Up’ .25 Drafts .50 Shots

Sat. 12pm–4pm Matinee Old time movies .50 Hot dogs .25 Drafts

Sun night MSC Night Free Cold Buffet 9-10pm

Mon. night Movies

Tues. night Jerry Leopold Live variety show filmed for French Connection.

Wed. night Jamie Gacos

HOURS Every night - 6 P.M. to 2 A.M.

Route 23 South at corner of

Just south of Willowbrook

875-3044
'Mr. Billion' A Few Thousand Short

By Jeryl Ann Franco

There is a fine line between simplicity (entertainment for entertainment's sake) and simple-mindedness (trivial amusement). Unfortunately, Mr. Billion, a Twentieth Century-Fox release written by Ken Friedman and Jonathan Kaplan, goes just a hair over in the wrong direction.

Think back to the good ol' days, if you will, when you believed Frankie and Annette and Beach Party Bingo was real life college stuff. Try to imagine this ideal "American Dream" plot where boy gets girl, money, fame, happiness, national prestige, the "bad guys" and even a chance to imitate John Wayne.

Falcone, the owner of a multi-billion dollar loan association has died. John Cutler (Jackie Gleason) has been his right-hand man for years and is sure the will has to name him as the head of the firm. But (alack and alas!) it does not. Instead, Falcone has left everything to his unknown nephew still residing in Italy, Guido Falcone (Terence Hill), because "the only thing he ever asked me for was a pair of American cowboy boots."

Guido, as stated in the will, has 20 days to get to San Francisco and sign for the money or he will lose it. Thus begins the race and the chase. Cutler and his thugs doing everything they can to keep Guido from the money and Guido with goodness and justice on his side (obviously no match for murderers and kidnappers) does all he can to get to Frisco. Of course Guido, dubbed "Mr. Billion" by the US press, does not want the business for reasons of personal gain and greed. No! He wants to take from the rich and give to the poor. Along the way, to add a little sugar and spice, Guido inevitably falls in love. Rosie (Valerie Perrine) is hired at quite a price by Cutler to seduce Guido into signing a release on the firm. Of course, in the midst of all this Guido and Rosie fall in love. She decides to drop the job (risking life and limb under Cutler’s wrath) to which her male partner in crime’s (now out $25,000) response is, “Aw, Rosie, are you falling for the guy?” Gee wiz.

There are some mildly funny scenes in the movie and even some almost romantic ones. However, not enough to excuse the incredibility of the plot. It was the silliest part of each “good wins out” movie rolled into one.

Looking from a feminine viewpoint, there was Hill, noted as the father of "Spaghetti Westerns." In his first American film, Hill’s looks are very exciting. Penetrating blue eyes and all that goes with them.

Mr. Billion, a Pantheon Pictures-Kaplan/Friedman Production, directed by Jonathan Kaplan is now playing at Radio City Music Hall.

---

C.L.U.B. General Board Meeting

March 3 - Thursday 4pm
Meeting Room 1 • 4th floor S.C.

Come Help Us Decide How To Spend $30,000 For YOU !!!

---

Upcoming C.L.U.B. Events:

3/4 “Nevada Smith” starring Steve McQueen
3/11 “On a Clear Day…” starring Barbra Streisand
3/14 “Lady Sings The Blues” starring Diana Ross
3/19 Bonnie Raitt in concert
3/28 Lecture by Vincent Bugliosi - author of Helter Skelter

FREE Weekly Wednesday night Catacombs & Friday Night movies !!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!
Fierce competition continues as Women's Basketball swings through its second week.

In Monday night's action, in the Competitive Conference, the Big Figs II paced by Ria Webb and Sue Rankin, moved to within one half game of first place in Division II with a win over the Weavers. Division II leaders, Pat Marion's remained undefeated as Stephanie Silvey led them to a 57-31 win over the Clams.

In Division I, Untouchable II led by Dawn Lacey, beat the Typhoons 43-32 to maintain a one-half game lead over Wha-Cha-Ma-Call-Its who also won. In the Non-Competitive conference, in Division I, IOTA, undefeated after two games, maintains a narrow one-half game lead over three rivals. The Striders lead Division III.

An important note: All games that were cancelled on February 24 will be made up on Monday, March 14. Also, games originally scheduled for March 8 will be played on Thursday, March 10.

In the Bowling League, Division I U.S.U.K.II holds a 4-game lead over Doing It Good and Martin's Ferry. In Division II both APO and the Ten Pins remain tied for first place.

MSC's entry in the Schlitz Basketball Tournament, D.C. Land Development, advanced by beating FDU-Madison 95-80 Saturday.

The bus for the Squaws' Basketball game at Madison Square Garden on March 6 will be leaving in front of Panzer Gym at 9:30.

Sports Sidelines

The MSC Indoor Soccer Team will participate in the Drew University Soccer Tournament on Sun., Mar. 6. The competition will include the following schools: Kean College, Ramapo College, New Jersey Institute of Technology, Upsala College, William Paterson College and Union College.

The team's final practice will be held on Mar. 4 in Gym 6 of Panzer Gymnasium at 2 pm.

Bright Lights

(Cont. from p. 24)

lot more to the MSC game than their famous forward.

"A lot of people tend to overlook the fact that we have four other players who complement each other very well," she said. "Admittedly we don't have a center, but we have three forwards who can do everything well."

The Knights are more than a one player team also. In addition to Gwyn there is lanky Donna Simmons a 6-foot forward.

"Donna is a fine player who has done a lot for us," Queens coach Lucille Kyvallos noted. "She runs and jumps well."

The Knights backcourt is composed of Donna Geils and Valerie Schneider. Geils, who has been bothered lately by the flu, has 322 points in 18 games so far this season for a 17.9 average. The 5-foot-5 Schneider does the bulk of the ball-handling and play-making for Queens.

"Our season has had moments of brilliance and hours of boredom," Kyvallos kidded. "But if we got hot we could pull an upset."

LOOKOUT BLAZE! Carol Blazejowski (12) seems destined to be on the short end of a karate chop in the game against SCSC.

Student Intramural Leisure Council Survey

SILC is concerned with the effectiveness of its publicity. In order to improve our publicity, we would appreciate it if you would fill out this survey. Help us to help you. Thank you.

Male ___________ Freshman ___________ Commuter ___________
Female ___________ Sophomore ___________ Campus Resident ___________
Junior ___________ Senior ___________ Off-Campus Resident ___________

Have you ever participated in any of the following activities sponsored by SILC ? Check appropriate Answers.

Special event ___________ Tournament ___________ Trip to sporting event ___________
League ___________ Other (specify) ___________

How have you found out about SILC activities ?

Flyer ___________ SILC office ___________ Poster ___________ Montclairion ___________
Called SILC office ___________ Friend ___________ Other (specify) ___________

Have you ever missed a SILC event that you wanted to participate in because :

You were not aware that it was being held ?
You missed the registration deadline
You did not know how to register for it ?
You were too lazy to find out more information ?

What is your general opinion concerning SILC's overall publicity ?

There is too much publicity.
There is an adequate amount of publicity
There is not enough publicity.
Comments: ___________

Please list any suggestions to improve SILC's publicity.

Please Return To SILC Office
- 4th Floor Student Center
Swimmers: Tough Season

By Mary King

It's been a tough season for MSC’s women’s swimming and diving team. But, coach Kay Meyer was not making excuses for herself. She knew what she expected for the season, what she was up against and what went wrong.

What Meyer aspired to be her best season to far, turned out to be a disappointment. Although the team exhibits a dismal record (tied one meet and lost the rest), it was not the result of any lack of effort by team members according to Meyer.

“All of the girls really put out and consistently tried their best,” emphasized Meyer. “The main problem seemed to be that there were not enough swimmers in events.”

This was partly due to an abundance of sickness among team members. However, Meyer was quick to mention that no more than the usual amount of sickness had occurred this season.

A few unexpected disappointments, namely the absence of three key swimmers from last year, confirmed Meyer’s worst fears. Among them was senior Denise Kileen, who ranked high in the Easterns last year. Kileen left a void in the butterfly, an event Meyer was counting on to be one of her team’s strongest.

In addition to the loss of these swimmers, the competition that the team swam against was some of the stiffest in the sport. However, Meyer felt that by having a rougher schedule to compete against, including such teams as Rutgers, Princeton, Monmouth, Delaware and Yale, more swimmers would be attracted to the team, more experience would be gained, and the quality of the swimming and diving program would improve.

“Montclair is fairly new to swimming compared to some schools,” Meyer added. “State colleges like Montclair do not offer scholarships in swimming, as many other colleges and state universities.”

Of the swimmers left to fill the gaps this season is three-year veteran Beth Schuur, an all-around swimmer who holds four or five school records. Her best events are the breast-stroke and the individual medley. Sophomore Jeanette Wiysa, who recently came out of a leg cast, carries the backstroke, while two freshmen swimmers, Meg Leonard and Mary McKenna are counted on in the freestyle and butterfly, and the breast-stroke and freestyle, respectively.

In the developing diving competition, a ray of brightness stands out in the form of promising freshman Karen Van Schuack, who has proven herself by winning all of her competitions expect for one. She took third place in the New Jersey State AIAW Championships, ranking among top divers from schools like Princeton and Monmouth, schools well-regarded for their high-ranking divers.

Fencers To Nationals

The MSC Women’s Fencing team qualified for the National Collegiate Fencing Championships by placing second in area competition held at William Paterson College last Saturday. The Squaws finished with 19 points, two behind Fairleigh Dickenson University.

Riders Take Fourth

Montclair State College sponsored its annual collegiate riding competition, at Bear Ridge Riding Club, in Pleasantville, New York, on Sunday Feb. 27. Twenty-two colleges competed in the competition.

Montclair ranked fourth in total points, Suffolk Community College and Brooklyn College tied for first, while SUNY Stonybrook placed third.

MSC’s three first place winners were Patti Cioffi (novice horseman on the flat), Donna Ceece (Beginner Alumni on the flat), and Anne Butcher (Beginner walk-trot-canter).
MSC's Fatal Finale

"My day started when John Minenna called to tell me that he couldn’t make the trip because of root canal work. It went downhill from there," said MSC basketball coach Ollie Gelston.

In a competitive, often cut-throat situation, where the won-lost column is the only thing that matters, Gelston finds his players human feelings more important. In a small world dominated by Woody Hayes who pay lip service to the virtues of inter-collegiate athletics, Gelston carries them out in fact.

Cynics might scoff and ask, “But does he win games?” The answer is yes. Since arriving at MSC Gelston's record is 158-94, and he has won four conference titles. Not too bad for a nice guy.

Gelston’s road is less travelled for a good reason — it leaves him wide open to the critics. This season the questions will fly in light of the club’s dismal performance after the WCAC contest.

Gelston's decision may have cost some of the younger players a bit of playing time. And it didn't improve the won-lost mark. But Gelston coaches for his players — which is how it is supposed to be.

The victory clinched the NJSCAC title for the Profs who were tripped up by Glassboro State College two weeks ago, MSC coach Ollie Gelston had a decision to make.

The Indians started well, jumping out to an 8-5 lead, but because of root canal work. It was not a performance to make the thing, Gelston said in explanation. "That crap (demoting starters near the end of an unsuccessful season) is for guys on ego trips who think they win ballgames.

In two lines, Ollie Gelston has summed up his coaching philosophy.

Gelston is not in coaching to shore up his own ego, he doesn’t go to Gelston, coaches for his players — which is how it is supposed to be.

"I want to let a John Manning finish his career with dignity," Gelston offered no excuses. "We were thin. Belcher had 11 and Doug Brown added 12 for MSC. "We ran out of gas," said Gelston. "We were thin. Belcher had to play the whole game and John Manning got into early foul trouble."

The Profs took advantage of MSC problems and regained control to hammer out their second consecutive title. Gelston offered no excuses for the loss.

"It was not a performance to be proud of. We didn’t concentrate and lacked intensity after they jumped on us in the first half. We just played poorly," he concluded.

MSC’s Fatal Finale

The victory clinched the NJSCAC title for the Profs who finished the season with a 10-2 record and 5-7 in conference.

The Profs were paced by Keith Murray’s 17 tallies. Reggie Belcher had 11 and Doug Brown added 12 for MSC.

"We ran out of gas," said Gelston. "We were thin. Belcher had to play the whole game and John Manning got into early foul trouble."

The Profs took advantage of MSC problems and regained control to hammer out their second consecutive title. Gelston offered no excuses for the loss.

The Profs took advantage of MSC problems and regained control to hammer out their second consecutive title. Gelston offered no excuses for the loss.
It's now 20 victories in 22 games as MSC's women's basketball team took two more contests during the past week.

On Saturday, the Squaws defeated Southern Connecticut State College by a score of 99-83 at Panzer Gymnasium. MSC then travelled to St. John's University Tuesday night and gained a 76-60 victory. The wins extend the Squaws streak to eight straight games.

If Saturday's 38-point performance wasn't impressive enough, Blazejowski topped that effort against St. John's in Jamaica New York. She reached a total of 47 points and simultaneously collected 16 rebounds -- both obviously game leading figures.

But when Jan Ternyik came off the bench to relieve Wanda Szeremeta (foul trouble) the once comfortable lead and let Southern Connecticut get into a jam late in the game, their opponents sport a moderate 15-10 record, this game will be no cakewalk.

By Bill Mezzomo

In case you're not up on the latest official proclamations, it was proclaimed Women's Basketball Week in New York City this Tuesday. And it's no coincidence that the year's biggest women's doubleheader will be played at the Mecca of Eastern basketball, Madison Square Garden this weekend.

It is also no coincidence that the Garden staged a full-fledged press conference to announce this occasion.

The participants: Delta State College, Immaculata College, Queens College ... and yes, MSC. Just three out of the nations' four top teams.

The Squaws will face Queens College this Sunday in the first half of this twinbill starting at 11 a.m. Although MSC beat the Knights twice last season (and their opponents sport a moderate 15-10 record), this game will be no cakewalk.

"Their record isn't really any indication of how well they can play," Squaw coach Maureen Wendelken noted. "Queens lost some early games, but they're really a fine team."

Fine enough to employ the nation's leading rebounder in the country (that's women's and men's). She is 6'-foot-2 Althea Gwyn who hauls in 19 a game.

"We'll attempt to neutralize their rebounding by mixing it up with a number of defenses," Wendelken said. "We'll use a zone at times and man-to-man coverage depending upon the situation."

"We would like to fast break against Queens as often as possible, but it depends on how well we do off the boards."

Wendelken isn't worried about her team's performance in the prestigious and pressure-filled atmosphere in the Garden.

"Our game at the Spectrum (a loss to Immaculata) was a big game too, so we shouldn't be bothered by the pressure. The crowd didn't effect us then, we just committed turnovers at the end of the game."

Needless to say, the Squaws will once again be led by Carol Blazejowski and her 33-point a game scoring average. But according to Wendelken there's a leading rebounder in the country.

The culmination of the wrestling season begins this weekend and the MSC matmen are once again heading for the Nationals in quest of the Division III crown. For a preview of the upcoming action, turn to Dennis Buckley's article on page 23.

Now The Nationals

Some coaches have ego problems, but there are some coaches who turn their efforts toward the emotional welfare of their players. According to writer Matt Wilson, MSC has one of the latter. To learn more, flip over and read "On the Run" on page 23.

For St. John's, Sue Brethauer was the leading scorer. She collected 18 points for her team. Hou Lingling chipped in 12 points. St. John's drops to a very impressive 18-6.

NOTES: Last MSC lose came at the hands of Immaculata College back on Feb. 5. Next opponent is Queens College this Sunday at Madison Square Garden at 11 a.m. This game is the first half of a twinbill which includes a contest between top-ranked teams Delta State College and Immaculata. The Nationals begin next week and the Squaws are second seeded in the Regionals.

-Tony Cafiero

BASKETBALL MOUNTAIN: Wanda Szeremeta(23) and Jill Jeffrey(10) pooled for action on the opening tipoff in Saturday afternoon's contest.