The SGA survey will be started yesterday by legislators and cabinet members who will be polling classes within their major, according to Sonja Lai, SGA President. The survey will continue through next Wednesday. "It is a random survey that will reach approximately 1800 people," explained Lai. "The legislators and cabinet members will read a brief introduction of the pros and cons of the issue and then distribute the two question surveys form," Lai said.

The SGA legislature will vote on the issue at its meeting Wednesday, with more meetings to follow, Lai said. "If students want to really voice their opinion, they should approach their student representatives because the legislature's vote will also have an impact on the board's decision," Lai said.

Lal feels that the survey is a good idea because of the need for student input in a decision affecting students. "The issue is being responsibly handled because the administration has no way of determining the student's viewpoint on the matter," Lal said.

Dickson also feels the board needs a wide representation of campus opinion. "It's a good idea. There is a need for student input. Students make up a major part of the campus population and there is a great need to consider their feelings," Dickson said.

Chief Rich, while having reservations about the survey, feels that the students will act responsibly. "People tend to resist change. It's human to do things the same way they were always done, but students are more open to the idea of understanding the reasons for the need to change, they won't resent the change," Rich said.

While the Board of Trustees has asked for input from the various campus constituencies, they are not bound to have their decision on those opinions, according to Dr. Elliot Minnberg, vice-president of administration and finance. "The board of trustees has every right to decide for arms even if the students and faculty are against it," he said. "But," Minnberg added, "I don't see that happening."

According to Title 2C in the N.J. Code of Criminal Justice, the governing body has the power to decide on the usage of guns and the board of trustees is the governing body of MSC, according to Dickson.

According to Chief Rich, the real issue is where should be guns on campus, but rather it is if the campus police should have guns. Rich pointed out that whenever there is a special event on campus, outside officers, from Little Falls or Montclair, are called in for protection. "Every time the college has an event on campus, the administration hires outside police. The only reason they do it is because the outside police have guns and our police do not," Rich said.

Lai also said that the campus police have received the same training that all municipal police receive and will operate under strict standards if they are armed. "Every time an officer pulls the gun out of its holster he is going to have to fill out a report and present a reason for it," Rich said.

Police training may not be enough, however, to prevent a possible abuse of firearms according to Ellison. "Police are not trained to deal with explosive situations and they receive little or no training in interaction with the public," said Ellison. "There is a need for better screening of applicants and better training needed," she said.

Students want add time

By Meryl Yourish

Student objections to the elimination of the late add program have been mounting since last week, according to Sonja Lai, SGA president. The SGA passed a resolution last week opposing the elimination of the late add program. "I feel that there are levels where student input is absolutely essential and vital," said Dickson, added, "curriculum is a faculty responsibility."

Dickson said that the issue was originally raised by faculty members who were concerned that their classes were being disrupted by students coming in late, after the semester had begun, especially sequential courses such as mathematics.

According to a 1980 FBI report, MSC had the highest percentage of cars stolen compared with other N.J. college campuses. MSC had 35 cars stolen in 1980 while Keen had 31, Glassboro 9, Monmouth and Middlesex County College had 3 and Burlington College 2.

Lz. Paige of Campus Police said that the reason MSC is a prime site for car theft is" its accessibility to New York, New Jersey and most major highways. Paige also said that colleges, like shopping malls, are a perfect place for car thieves because there are thousands of cars and nobody to watch all of them at once.

"We are short of officers," said Paige. "There are only 2 on scooters and 2 patroling in cars on a regular day. But even if there were more officers, said Paige, police who patrol the parking lots really have no way of knowing if a car is being stolen. There are so many cars and students, that you don't know if a student is getting into his own car.

There are also many sophisticated tools available that a thief can put into a type of gun into the lock and open the door in five seconds. With these tools making stealing a car so easy," said Paige. "The first day of school I was out patrolling the parking lots and a car was stolen."

Keen College has contacted the N.J. campus police because they have a large number of Toyota cars stolen. "Most of these cars are stolen during the "peak" hours; during the week and in the afternoon when most students have classes. Only 2 cars were stolen at night," said Paige.

No faculty cars were reported stolen because thieves cont. on p. 4

Center offers seminars

The Women's Center will continue its weekly programs in Room 116 of Richardson Hall, formerly the Math/Science Building, on Wednesdays at noon. The programs are of interest to everyone and all members of the college community are invited to attend.

Coffee and tea will be provided at a nominal charge and visitors are invited to bring their lunches.

The topics for the remainder of October are:

October 14: "Update on CLEP." Richard Taubald, Principal Associate, Department of Adult and Continuing Education. Discussion of the CLEP (College Level Equivalency Program) credit and examination program in 53 different topic areas which allow an individual to earn college credit for non-classroom learning.

October 21: "Assertiveness Training." Carole Oliver, Assertiveness Trainer and Consultant. Lecture will discuss the basic tenets of being assertive.

October 28: "Mental Illness: The Role of Today's Society and Its Influence On Minorities and Women." Grizel Ubarry, Executive Director of Aspira, President of the Hispanic Association in Higher Education.

The conference is being sponsored by the Governor's Committee on the Employ­ment of the Handicapped, the department of communication sciences and disorders in the MSC school of humanities and social sciences, and the Essex County Office on the Handicapped.

Spotlight was compiled by Stephen McLean and Rob Thibault. Organizations wishing to be included should send all pertinent information to Rob Thibault, copy editor.

White House Conference and plan for the next decade.

More than 500 persons are expected to attend the lecture, entitled "Crossroads: Reviewing the Past/Planning the Future."

Topics for discussion for the conference include architectural accessibility, economics, communication, social concerns, civil rights, and transportation for handicapped. It will also review the accomplishments of 1976 N.J. Conference and the 1977

At approximately 2:55 p.m. on Fri., Sept. 25, two students were involved in aparking dispute in Lot 13. As the victims exited their cars, the suspect approached them. The victims were involved in a parking dispute in Lot 13. As the victims exited their cars, the suspect approached them.

The MSC Parking Committee is now considering plans to raise the price of parking decals from $10 to $15, according to Michael Puglisi, committee chairman. Also before the committee are plans to convert the lot across from Calcia Fine Arts Building into a combination meter and visitor parking lot, Puglisi said.

By Rick Zweibel

The suspect reached the victim's car and approached the victim, who apparently were acquainted with the suspect. The victim, as did some passersby, shouted at the suspect and attempted to approach him to fall. The victim stayed on the ground while the suspect stood over him shouts. A passenger in the suspect's car tried to pull the suspect from the area of the victim, as did some passersby. The suspect then remarked to a passerby to take the victim's books. However, the victim eventually left the scene.

The need for a "premium spot" in which outside visitors to the college may park, is the main reason given by Puglisi to support the creation of a new visitor's lot. Puglisi said, lot 13, currently student parking, was chosen because it fulfilled the criteria. He added, prime parking for outsiders is vital so that the campus may "give a good host impression, and, in the long run, increase public support of the college."

Another idea which originated in the Parking committee, after being kicked around for a year, is the use of outside visitors to park. Puglisi said this alternative was chosen because "with-holding rules are making things difficult for others."

The job market is a mess. The only thing that forecasters seem to agree on is the fact that people with strong computer backgrounds will be in demand in the eighties. Contradictions abound. The federal government, for example, is supposed to be cutting back on their hiring and yet they are moving up the testing date for the P.A.C.E. examination in an attempt to make up for a shortage of eligible hires. The private sector, on the other hand, is supposed to be hiring because of continued economic uncertainty.

It is for these and other reasons that students should keep as many options open as possible until they find a job of interest. Career Services and Cooperative Education will be co-sponsoring a program designed for non-business majors who are interested in looking at business career options. It will be held on Wednesday, October 21, in the fourth floor Student Center Purple conference room from 2-4 pm. Information will be provided on corporate areas that have traditionally been open to non-business majors, and participants will be taken through exercises designed to identify skills of interest to companies. Examples will also be given about ways that non-business majors can gain corporate experience while still in college.

Upcoming Deadlines

Applications for the P.A.C.E. examination, a major federal hiring exam for graduating students with any major, will only be accepted through October 15. Foreign service examination applications must be received by October 23. Both applications are available in Career Services, Life Hall. A minority Career Expo- tion will be held at the Rutgers University Busch Campus Student Center on Saturday, October 16 from 8:30-4:30. Company representatives will be discussing summer jobs, internships, co-op opportunities, and future and present part-time and full-time job opportunities. It is strongly suggested that students bring resumes. Interested students should contact Janine Myatt in Career Services for further information. Attempts are being made to obtain transportation to the Expo.

want to hit an area where there are thousands of cars and virtually no chance of getting caught according to Paige. The faculty lots are smaller, making a theft less likely, he added.

A few years ago a car ring working at MSC was broken up in Newark, but Paige said there is no reason to believe that a ring is working at MSC now. "There doesn't seem to be a professional ring working here now because when cars are found, they're found all over, not just in one city," said Paige. "If you think your car has been stolen, contact us," said Paige. "We'll search the Campus first because sometimes the cars are just taken for a joy ride." If the car can't be found, the information will be put on a teletype which is then sent to all police headquarters in New Jersey. If the car goes into another state it can still be identified, it just will take a little longer, said Paige.

Bob Scanza was one of the few victims lucky enough to get his car back. A few days after his car was stolen it was discovered by Paramus Police in the Alexander's parking lot on Route 4. However, approximately $1250 in valuables were taken from the car and the car itself was damaged. "I had to use a screwdriver to start it," said Scanza.

One of the major issues raised during last night’s SGA meeting was the proposal to change Lot 13 (the parking lot opposite Sprague Library) to a visitor’s parking lot, with the remaining spaces open to students for a $1 per day parking fee.

Dean Michael Puglisi spoke to the legislators, explaining that the lot would free visitor’s parking during the evening hours and that students wishing to park there during the day will have to pay $5.00 to $1. He said that the lot has a total of 313 spaces that can bring in additional income and improve the college’s image for visitors. There is only one visitor’s parking lot at the present time.

Puglisi also said that an increase in the parking decal fee, from $10 to $15 is being considered. He said that the increase will cover maintenance of the parking lots.

The legislators and cabinet members were given surveys to distribute concerning the issue of arming the campus police. The surveys will be taken from today until next Wednesday.

A bill calling for the investigation of an increase in the SGA fees was passed.

The Health Professions Association was granted $975 for a health fair to take place Nov. 4.

Sonjui Lai, SGA president, reported that there will be a statewide leadership conference held by the N.J. Student Association sometime in January.

Charles Bamon, director of public relations, reported last Thursday's SGA Day a success.

told me that this was the only issue he found in his years here that was more annoying than parking,” she said.

"The issue is not closed, so this is the proper time for everyone to voice their opinions," Lai said. "Don’t consider it a lost cause."

Moore said that one reason late add/drop has become so long is so that Weekend College can be included in the session. He said that in the past, the session often did not include a weekend period, causing problems for the several hundred Weekend College students. "A short drop/add period is fine," Moore said, "but no more than a week."

The SGA legislators and cabinet members will be distributing surveys to about 1800 students this week and next concerning the parking on the campus. The matter of whether or not the police should get guns is one that has been around for quite some time, and it has caused some rather heated discussions both pro and con. While we are not going to address the issue this week, we will wait until we have finished discussing the information available. What we would like to do, however, is to urge both students and faculty to take a good look at the facts. Information is available in the president’s office in College Hall— and make some sort of educated judgement. Make your opinions known if you are not asked to complete a survey, then go to the SGA office on the fourth floor of the Student Center and ask for one to fill out. Find your department representative, or write a letter to the dean of student affairs or the college president. Somehow, someway, tell us what you think. This is a vital issue and student input is essential. We need to know what you think about this.

Don’t do this

Are you ready for this one, commuters? Forget the fact that you have to park three miles away from campus; never mind that if you can catch a shuttle bus you have to play “how many students can you fit on the bus today?” We have new twists to the same old story. Today’s chapter in the never-ending drama of parking at MSC is: will we change Lot 13, the prime student parking lot across from Sprague Library, into a visitor’s parking lot? And charge funds received from the Student Government Association of Montclair to build their precious dorm; they forced us to park so that you have to park three miles away from campus; never mind that in what I think was a self-interest politics by a few self-serving legislators is that the SGA that their advisor was by a vote in the legislature is (to be polite) pure garbage. Come on guys, if you thought Chi Alpha was such a worthy organization, then why didn’t you just vote “yes” for it in the first place? Certainly if you did, it would have saved a lot of valuable time and talk instead of just changing your minds later on and going through the same thing twice. But, I know you couldn’t want that, because that solution would have been so much better than what we have at the moment. So when it comes to Chi Alpha, I feel more than capable of writing why I think this organization should not have been rechartered.

First, it already came up once this year, and the SGA policy statement that once an organization has come up for recharterment and failed, it cannot come up again until the next year (under a new administration). What happened this year was a clear violation of the practice by the SGA itself. The idea of giving an organization “one more chance” after it has failed by a vote in the legislature is to be polite) pure garbage. Come on guys, if you thought Chi Alpha was such a worthy organization, then why didn’t you just vote “yes” for it in the first place? Certainly if you did, it would have saved a lot of valuable time and talk instead of just changing your minds later on and going through the same thing twice. But, I know you couldn’t want that, because that solution would have been so much better than what we have at the moment. So when it comes to Chi Alpha, I feel more than capable of writing why I think this organization should not have been rechartered.

Funny things at MSC

by Dennis Bloshuk

Funny things tend to happen at MSC. However, last Wednesday’s SGA meeting was not one of them.

Not only did the SGA legislature overrule an unbelievable thing, they did the unthinkable. The legislature totally reversed themselves and rechartered Chi Alpha, a religious organization. Don’t get me wrong, I’m not against religion, or religious organizations. My only concern is the specific grounds and policies used to get this particular organization rechartered.

For the past three semesters, Chi Alpha has been one of the most controversial groups on campus. Since its decharterment last December, Chi Alpha has come up three times to the legislature in an effort to become an organization again. Twice it had failed (one of those times just this semester), before the enraged members of this school kicked you with one of your own new “boots.”

Don’t do this to us. It will be the straw that breaks the camel’s back. Who’s more important to this school? Students or visitors? Never mind. We know the administration’s answer to that one.

Concern for shuttle campus wide

By Peter Macagne

We are all concerned about the campus Shuttle Bus system and the degree to which it continues to be responsive to campus needs. The following background and projections for the future might be helpful to some members of the campus community who were not here during the growth of the Shuttle Bus system.

The Shuttle Bus system was transferred from Security to the Office of the Vice President for Administration and Finance. The service is now supervised by my office and we have devoted a major part of our time to its continuing development. We quickly realized that the initial system was amateurish and probably violated many State regulations concerning safety and insurance. In late 1976, a decision was made to purchase three custom built vehicles; one designed to accommodate the handicapped; which would meet all State requirements for passenger transporting vehicles and an application was made to Civil Service for the hiring of two State licensed chauffeurs to coincide with the arrival of the new equipment. A part-time driver was later added.

At the same time, an operating policy was established, routes were regularized, stops designated, and service expanded to include the new Clove Road apartments and upper quarry parking areas. Complicated bidding procedures and an unusually severe winter delayed delivery until late Spring of 1978, so that full service was not begun until the Fall semester. It quickly became evident that a backup bus as well as an extra driver were required to provide maintenance time as well as accommodating vacations and sick time for the operators. As we look to further improvement in service, we will attempt to finance four new and larger vehicles and also add an additional driver. With this level of equipment it will be possible to operate three buses on a full schedule and a fourth will be available for peak and backup service.

The expansion into the Quarry for parking and recreation will increase our passenger load significantly and it is likely that there will be need for route changes, additional shelters, and improved communication between the drivers and our Police and Security personnel. There will be significant student input as decisions are made as to vehicle specifications, schedules, and routes. The current phase of Quarry development is nearing completion and the effects will be felt during the Spring semester. New equipment will not be in place before September 1982 at best. My office will be closely monitoring passenger loads and possible route changes and as the Spring semester approaches, we will, in concert, decide what temporary adjustments will have to be made in order to handle the increased demands brought on by our new facilities and not the least of all, the winter weather. Together with the SGA, the administration is vitally interested in continuing improvements in all phases of our bus operation. Below are the current schedules and a listing of the stops the two routes currently operating.

I try to line up at each bus stop that the service can adequately serve on a first come/first serve basis. Monday through Friday - Every 12 minutes between 7:15 am and 11 pm. Two routes with common stops at College Hall and Partridge Hall, 4 stops in Quarry and 2 stops at Clove Road.

Peter Macagne is the assistant to the vice president of Administration and Finance.

Where's the gold lined tables?

By Michele Codella and Lynn DiPaolo

A sleek, black and grey limo cut through the chilled October evening. Abigail and Charlie Bedknob sat anxiously in their formal attire sipping champagne in the back seat. Lurch, the chauffeur, frowned questioningly as he viewed the sign in front of the dinner theater ahead.

"Excuse me, are you sure this is the place?"

"Of course it is," chirped Mrs. Bedknob. "Look at the sign! Our Daughter's Wedding! Someone must be having a reception here tonight. Isn't that simply splendid, Charlie? I can't wait to thumb a to the Doocy band!"

"Yeah, I'm looking forward to that too. Abby," Charlie said, with a distant look in his eye. "Remember the last time we were here? Sipping cocktails after a splendid lobster tail dinner watching Glen Miller entertain on coast to coast radio..."

Mrs. Bedknob pulled her stole close around her as the car came to a halt. Mr. Bedknobs reached for the door handle but Lurch was there before him. He opened the door and stood stiffly at attention as the Bedknobs emerged.

"What is that banging noise I wonder?"

"Probably just sonic minor operation."

"I'll get the door, honeybunch, don't worry."

"Yeah. It's college night tonight."

"Four dollars?"

"Yes sir, unless you have a college ID - then it's S2."

"Two dollars?"

"Yeah, it's college night tonight."

"The Bedknobs paid and cautiously entered the theater.

"Where are all the gold-lined tables? The creased napkins? And the polished maitre d?"

"The dinner theater was filled with hundreds of half-dressed, gyrating young people - noticeably sedated...

"What have you just witnessed is the unexplained phenomenon we call ‘time warp.’ The Bedknobs had entered an establishment called, The Meadowbrook -- 50 years before, it had been a haven for the immortal New York bands. Located in Cedar Grove, New Jersey, it was the first dinner theater in the world."

"Today, The Meadowbrook hosts pure rock acts like Ellen Foley, the Rockers, and Our Daughter's Wedding to name a few."

The two-tiered club features five bars (and ten bartenders), a dance floor light show, and non-stop music from 9 pm to 2 am. The bands, local and popular groups, begin playing at midnight. Until then, there is a DJ to keep the beat.

"The Meadowbrook is open Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. The 1000 capacity bar is jammed on Saturday nights. The cover charge ranges from $4 to $7 depending on the band. Eggy Pop (sold out) raked in $7 person. The discoing rock fan is obviously willing to pay for a class act."

The club also caters to the struggling student. Thursday nights are college nights. Admission price is halved with a college ID, and drinks are $1 from 9 to 11 pm (in other words, you have no good reason to deprive yourself of a wild experience one night out of an otherwise dull, omnipresent week).

At its best, The Meadowbrook is like a breath of fresh air, or a cancelled midterm. It's a New York club in New Jersey for a fraction of the cost. The only complaint I've heard is that two senior citizens take up the whole dance floor rhumaging on college nights.

The Meadowbrook runs through October 31.

Actor's Cafe Theatre brings Da to life

Irish Comedy

By Ray Winkler

For those of you who are unaware, and as a reminder to some who may have forgotten, there is quality dramatic theater available in our area.

On Friday, September 25th, "Da" the Tony Award's best play of 1976, opened at the Actor's Cafe Theatre in Bloomfield. "Da", a most difficult play to produce, came to life under the direction of, and also starring, David Kennedy, the main driving force behind the Actor's Cafe operation.

The action takes place in Dublin, Ireland, and revolves around a son's need to come to terms with his relationship with his father. The play deals with youth, old age, and the wisdom it brings, family bonds of love, and self-identity for those involved.

David Kennedy, as Da, the father, gives a most exciting characterization of this fun loving character. The play opens with Charlie, the now adult adopted son, returning to his Dublin home to attend his father's funeral. While there, he is confronted by Da's flesh and blood ghost. The crisis which develops jumps back and forth in time utilizing flashback scenes based on Charlie's viewpoint of what life was like growing up with Da as his father. What results is some very warm, as well as some very cold, thoughtful insights into the traditional father-son relationship and how it affects those involved.

The play itself suffers due to the inability of certain actors to sustain the Irish brogue dialect consistently. The son Charlie, as a youth, played by John Faussoux in the flashback scenes, had a difficult time delivering his lines with any degree of volume. Since it is his character which acts out the narrative of the now adult Charlie, we lost much of the basic foundation essential to the understanding of this character's development.

Along with Kennedy as Da (who as his real name implies had no problem mastering the Irish dialect), fine performances were given by the adult Charlie played by Raymond Rothberg, Pauline Walsh as Da's wife, and Dan Manley, the standardized businessman we all learn how to love to hate. Articulate in the traditional father-son relationship and how it affects those involved.

Actor's Cafe Theatre is a regional theatre in residence at the Westminster Theatre, Bloomfield College, in Bloomfield. "Da" runs through October 31.

Barbara Schottenfeld's first Off-Broadway venture, I Can't Keep Running In Place is upbeat in the physical sense of the word: it moves you to get up out of your seats and leave the theater. The play is now the longest-running musical of the 1980-81 season. So much for postery.

Schottenfeld, who created the work for a thesis project at Princeton University, is solely responsible for the book, music, lyrics, orchestrations, and vocal arrangements. But she is only partly responsible for the failing of this musical evening. Equal blame can and should be placed on director Susan Einhorn, and on several not-too talented members of the cast.

Running In Place is set at a Soho loft where Michelle (Jill O'Hara) is conducting an assertiveness training program for women. Its goal is to teach women to stand up for themselves. The play is' not-too talented members of the cast, for the failings of this musical run (and sometimes jump) and the orchestrations (sometimes jumping for a high note that the singers couldn't reach) and the orchestrations (considerable use of the drum) sounded like a rattlesnake in heat. The others in the cast suffered from a contemptuous disapp

The 1981-1982 season will come to a powerful conclusion with Strider. This vibrant play with music thrilled audiences during its recent Broadway run. It is a heart-warming allegory of triumph and inspiration about a horse called Strider who seems to be working against the wisdom of acceptance and gay with a sympathetic insight into the foibles of mankind."

Tribe splits IM Highlights

By Al Tiero

The MSC soccer team fell to 1-3 last weekend after splitting games with Jersey City State College (JCSC) and Stockton State College (SSC). Three games and four overtime games after the season had begun. MSC finally scored a goal. When Benny Aubach converted a penalty kick in the second overtime of last Wednesday's game vs JCSC, it gave the Tribe its first victory, 1-0.

The game itself, the Indians home opener before 114 freezing fans at windy Sprague Field, seemed more like a hockey game than a soccer match. In all, six yellow cards were given out and a few and of poor selection. Poor passing and lack of communication between players kept the Indians from breaking the deadlock. Dietrich, in his third year, 3-10. Alex Banurco of JCSC, where are you?

X-country wins

The MSC women's cross country team defeated Drew University 20-35 in a dual meet held last Thursday at the Garrett Mountain Reservation. Pat Leisher finished first for MSC with a time of 10:07, with Pat Salamon following in second. Other high finishers include Dana Caruso (4th) and Beth Fallon (5th).

MSC defeats Hofstra

The MSC Field Hockey Team shutout Hofstra 2-0 last Saturday on goals by Mary Zoeller and Debbie Dietrich. Ronnie Guadzwick made 7 saves enroute to the shutout. MSC's present record is 2-3-1.

In other Hockey action, MSC tied Kings College 1-1. Dietrich put MSC ahead on a goal in the first half, but Beth Lowrie tied it late in the game with a goal of her own.

Tennis team wins

The women's tennis team lost to Drew University (DU) 5-4 in a closely played match. Winners included Carolyn O'Donnell (first singles), Gerri Masterson (fourth singles), and Tranna Myers (5th singles). DU took the final doubles match to capture the win.

Update on Pride foe

Central Connecticut lost to C.W. Post this past Saturday 2-17. The loss even their record at 2-2.

The MSC football team forced seven turnovers and turned 2 into TD’s enroute to 21-0 victory over Ramapo College (RC) last Saturday in Mahwah.

The Indian defense, which has allowed only 3 points in 4 games this season, limited RC to 183 total yards. In those four games, MSC has held the opposition to only 224 yards on the ground, an average of a scanty 56 yards per game. In pass defense, it has allowed 530 yards or an average of 132.5 per game. Add to that 11 interceptions, including 3 against RC.

The offense compiled 249 yards, 122 on the running of sophomore halfback Bob Vannoy. On offense in 4 games, MSC has rushed for 663 yards with eight TD’s. In passing, on the arm of Mark Casale, they have thrown for 664 yards and 6 TD’s.

Vannoy opened the scoring in the first quarter with a 9 yard burst. Dan Deneher kicked the extra point.

An interception by Vinnie DeMarinis led to the next TD, a 33 yard pass from Casale to wide receiver Kenny Oliver with 22 seconds left in the first half.

After a scoreless third period, MSC got its final TD in the final quarter when defensive back Joe Banaciski returned an interception 47 yards for a TD. Casale hit Oliver for the 2 point conversion.

Vannoy, with his second 100 yard game, was awarded the defensive player of the week. Banaciski won the defensive award while Mike Braun took the special team credit.

MSC, with its 4-0 record, remains tied for first place with Glassboro in the New Jersey State College Athletic Conference and a National Division III NCAA ranking of seventh.

The Indians will host Seton Hall this Saturday night on Sprague Field. It will also be the Homecoming game with pre-game ceremonies starting in the afternoon.
