Armed robbery at Stone Hall; Two suspects still at large

By John Connolly

A male MSC student was robbed of approximately 300 to 400 dollars at gunpoint by two males in his Stone Hall dorm room on Friday, Sept. 2. The two suspects are still at large and the campus police are investigating the case.

According to Debbie Newcombe, campus police officer, no one was working the front desk and the two suspects entered the dorm. At 11:30 a.m. the suspects knocked on a first floor dorm room and asked the student if his roommate was in. The student replied no. The suspects asked if he was alone. He replied yes and the two suspects proceeded to enter the room.

“One of the suspects took a handgun out of a gym bag,” Newcombe said. The student was asked where the money was and he replied he did not know. The intruders searched the room and found the 300 to 400 dollars. There was another knock at the door and shortly thereafter the suspects left the scene.

The armed suspect is described as a white male between the ages of 18 and 20, 5’10”-6’0”, 140-150 lbs., slender to medium build with dark brown hair and dark eyes.

The unarmed suspect is described as a white male between the ages of 18 and 20, 5’7”-5’8”, 150-160 lbs., medium-heavy build, medium brown hair and dark eyes.

"One of the two suspects is described as having a goatee, and the other is a clean shaven white male between the ages of 20 and 25 who is thin with dark brown hair and dark eyes. " The victim and his roommate have not reported the incident until Thursday, Sept. 8.

The campus police have given no indication that the two suspects are students at MSC.

Anyone with any information involving this case is encouraged to contact the MSC campus police at 893-5222 or 893-4325.

Teachers voting to authorize union strike set for October 4

By John Connolly

MSC's faculty, along with eight other state colleges, is voting this week to authorize a statewide teachers strike set for October 4.

The strike vote has been authorized because the council of NJ State College Locals, the faculty's union, has rejected the latest offer from the State Board of Higher Education. Dr. Catherine Becker, president of MSC's faculty union, said, “If the state administration doesn’t change its proposed plan, there will be a strike.” She said that a strike can only come about if the faculty votes in favor of it by more than a 50 percent margin.

In the August 30 edition of the “College Voice,” official publication of the union, Marcoantonio Lacatena, president of the state union, said that he opposed the following components of the state's plan:

- An inadequate salary package which is over $4 million less than the offer to other state employees.
- Withholding over $6 million in increments and replacing them with merit funds to be granted at the total discretion of the college presidents.
- No tenth step on the salary schedule has been offered to other state employees, the value of which is over $2.86 million in the third year of the Agreement.
- A 45-day layoff notice period.
- No monies for tuition reimbursement, career development and other programs.
- A decrease in sabbatical leaves, from 160 to 100 per year.

Since June 30, the union faculty has been working without a contract. The authorization vote being taken this week will be tabulated in New Brunswick, N.J. the next Friday.

"We are doing everything possible to avoid a strike," said Becker, "but if those possibilities fail, we will strike.

The campus police are searching for two white males who robbed an MSC student at gunpoint. The campus police made this composite sketch and are asking anyone with information about the incident to contact them.

Dumping in quarry begins Monday; Little Falls mayor is concerned

By Linda Weichenrieder

The Carrino Contracting and Trucking Company will begin dumping “sanitary fill” in the Quarry adjacent to the Cove Road apartments on Mon., Sept. 19, according to Dr. David W.D. Dickson, president of the college.

According to the contract Carrino and MSC have signed, Carrino will dump “household, commercial, industrial and institutional” waste in the landfill for 24 months, with an extension of up to 12 months. After their work is complete, Carrino has agreed to resurface the dump and construct an athletic field on the site at no cost to the college.

MSC accepted Carrino’s bid to fill 7.9 acres of the Quarry in 1973. The college agreed to dump from dawn until dusk, Monday through Saturday. Quinn said he doesn’t see any environmental problems with the site “if the guidelines are followed.”

Under the contract, Carrino may not dump waste chemicals, flammable liquids or solids, explosives, radioactive materials, fecal matter or other articles prohibited by state, federal or local regulations.

"We do the best we can to see that illegal substances are not dumped," Mininberg said. But obviously, we can’t examine each piece of garbage that’s dumped there.

"Dumping garbage in a residential area is absurd...I hope this site doesn't become another Love Canal.

Student Intramural and Leisure Council welcomes New Members

Be a part of SILCs newly formulated Team Point Competition. This year the student Intramural and Leisure Council is emphasizing team competition in all major sports, special events and tournaments. In order to qualify for the team competition, a complete roster must be submitted for the first SILC activity. This roster will be used for Men, Women and Co-Rec activities for the Fall and Spring semester. SILC leagues will be subdivided into three (3) divisions, which will include Housing, Independent and Fraternity/Sorority. Points will be awarded for participation, performance, and several other categories. At the conclusion of the Spring semester an overall college champion will be determined and awarded Intramural jackets.

Sprague Library allocated $270,000 for asbestos clean-up

By Mona Sehgal
Sprague Library has been allocated $270,000 for the removal and asbestos ceilings of all three library floors. But, according to Ethel France and Janet Boscalino, library employees, who filed asbestos grievances more than two years ago, the situation is not being handled efficiently.

France, Boscalino and the library staff have made four demands: the library should be kept free from excessive dust; air ducts should work properly and be serviced regularly, the stairways should be repaired immediately; and the asbestos should be removed from the library. So far, action has been taken to solve the last grievance only.

Jerome Quinn, director of Institutional Planning, said he is in the process of employing an engineer to draw up plans for the removal of asbestos from the library ceiling. The asbestos will be removed by either January or next summer, according to Quinn. France said that the situation in the library is even more serious because of the library’s poor ventilation. “This is a closed building and the air ducts and vents are not serviced properly. They often blow gritty dust into the air. There is also no fresh air coming in,” she said.

“We were promised that the air conditioning in the library would be left on every night to insure better ventilation, but I don’t think that promise is being kept. It’s 90 degrees in the library when the weather is hot,” France said.

According to Joseph McGinty, head of maintenance, the entire air conditioning system has been left on every night. “We are also utilizing two special high frequency vacuum cleaners which don’t dislodge the asbestos as much as other vacuum cleaners,” he said.

Although France agreed that the library looks a little cleaner, she also pointed out that there are dust areas in the stairwell and southwest stairwells containing asbestos were gouged out and needed immediate attention. Even after having presented Quinn and McGinty with pictures of the exposed area, no action has been taken, France said. “The complaint sounds familiar, but where it (asbestos) showed up and exactly who was supposed to take care of it, I don’t know precisely,” Quinn said. McGinty could not be reached for comments concerning the stairwells.

Quinn said, “The college has designated the highest priority to asbestos removal.” The college’s asbestos has not been removed since last summer, according to Quinn. The job took approximately the first two weeks in August and was financed by the college. The project cost MSC approximately $17,000, and was financed through dorm rent money.

Kean to visit the site. “I hope Kean will use his wise judgment and stop the dumping,” said France. The officers are very likely to be on this site,” he said.

The quarry across from the Clove Road apartments is the site where the Carrino Construction and Trucking Company will begin dumping next week.

Escort service is discontinued; campus police take over duties

It is 10 p.m., and Susan Smith is just getting out of one of her night classes at MSC. She is nervous about having to walk to her car alone. Last year she had to walk to her car alone. Previously, the campus police had employed male students to accompany any female student who felt that it was unsafe to travel the campus grounds after bus service had ended. The hired students would assist all callers so they could reach their destinations safely.

The funds that were used to pay for this service were covered by the SGA and extra revenue collected from parking decals. According to the campus police files, there was a decline in the number of overall escorts that were given. In 1980, only 180 people made use of the escort service, which amounts to about 20 per month. In 1982 there were less than 100 escorts given.

Rich said, “The program was not value effective with the decreasing number of students.”

High tech wins math/science grads and the teaching profession suffers

By Mark Hafsten
MSC, along with other colleges throughout the U.S., is experiencing a sharp decline in the number of students enrolling in the math/science teacher certification program. As a result, there has been a shortage of math/science teachers across the nation.

According to Dr. Richard Lynde, dean of math and natural sciences at MSC, the college is putting only six to 10 students through the math and science certification programs. Lynde said because high tech industries offers graduates a better starting salary, most students avoid the teaching profession. Students with a bachelor’s degree in computer science can make a starting salary of $22,000 whereas a starting teacher salary offers no more than $16,000.

“High tech wins math/science grads and the teaching profession suffers”

The salary problem is a very tough situation, Lynde said. “You can’t raise only math and science teachers’ salaries, you must raise teachers’ salaries across the board.”

In order to solve the problem, Lynde said, “Our state or federal government must offer industry incentive to hire math and science teachers during their time off. These summer jobs would increase teacher earnings by approximately one sixth.”

Another large part of the shortage problem is the lack of job quality. The teaching profession believes one way of improving job quality, thereby making teaching career more attractive, is to offer extra job training.

The New Jersey Education Association (N J E A ) recently organized a task force to study the shortage of math and science teachers. The main recommendations of the task force are:

1) creating a statewide job bank for teachers;
2) raising all teacher salaries to make them more competitive with private industry;
3) providing scholarships, grants and cancellable loans for current and prospective industry;
4) developing paid-on-site training for industry; and
5) developing paid-on-site training for industry.

New center for legal studies designed to train future law students

By David G. Tomeo

MSC's 75th anniversary marks the inauguration for the campus' new Center for Legal Studies, an addition to the School of Humanities and Social Sciences. "Our center makes MSC a uniquely attractive school for future law students," Dr. Marilyn Frankenthaler, the director of the center, said.

According to Frankenthaler, "Our program combines for the first time previously unconnected legal minors into a single unit." Included within the center's framework are: the paralegal minor, the only American Bar Association (ABA) approved program of its kind in all of N.J.'s four-year colleges; the Hispanic community internship and law; the patent and trademark/copyright specializations; and the patent agent option. The latter is a pre-law minor which has been recognized as the first such program in all of N.J.'s colleges.

The center has planned a year-long program of law-related activities. One of the main events is the first N.J. Law School Admissions Day, which will be held at MSC on October 26. Approximately 50 law schools will participate.

New Parking regulations in Effect

There are two parking and traffic changes planned that all members of the campus community should be aware of:
1. Effective Monday, Aug. 15, the portion of Webster Road that is west of College Avenue and leads into Carlisle Road was converted to one-way going down the hill. The left lane is intended for traffic continuing on Carlisle Road to Normal Avenue, and the right lane is intended for a right turn toward Clove Road and Rt. 46 East.
2. Effective Monday, Sept. 5, at 6 a.m., Faculty/Staff Lot 9 west of College Hall was converted to a compact car lot for cars 16.5 feet long and smaller.

MSC celebrates 75th anniversary with a look into the past

MSC celebrates its 75th anniversary this year with the theme "Where Tradition Meets Tomorrow." The college will make an effort to focus on MSC's history and traditions which date back to 1908, when the school was founded. There were only 187 students in MSC's first class, all of whom were interested in becoming elementary teachers. Now, MSC is the largest N.J. state college, with an enrollment of over 14,500 students and its curriculum caters to a wide variety of interests: business administration, humanities and social science, performing arts, mathematical and natural sciences and, in keeping with tradition, teaching.

Festivities officially begin on Tuesday, September 20, with a convocation in the amphitheater (or in Memorial Auditorium if it rains) at 10 a.m. Classes have been cancelled from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. so that all students may participate in the ceremony.

Dr. John Brademas, president of New York University and formerly a U.S. congressman for 22 years, will speak about education. Honorary degrees will be conferred upon Dr. Brademas, Richard J. Hughes, former N.J. governor, and Ralph A. Dungan, former N.J. chancellor of higher education. Governor Thomas Kean will also be present at a reception in the ballrooms of the Student Center immediately following the convocation.

Howard Leon declared unqualified to hold office as SGA treasurer

By Cathy Clarke

SGA treasurer-elect Howard Leon was declared unqualified to hold office at a closed SGA session yesterday. A special election for a new treasurer will be held within 20 days.

The Carrino Company will begin dumping this fall in the quarry near Clove Road. According to Dr. Jean Armstrong, vice president of student affairs, Little Falls mayor Carmen Gaita believes the dumping will pose health problems. However, Armstrong quoted Dr. Elliot Mininberg, vice president of administration and finance, as saying there is no way to stop the dumping and there is nothing MSC can do to change the contract with Carrino now.

A convocation to celebrate the 75th anniversary of MSC will be held in the amphitheater on Sept. 20. Classes will be cancelled from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

This year will also mark the revival of the defunct Pre-Law Society. The first meeting will be held on Thursday, Sept. 22, in the Student Center Annex, Room 126.

New legislators Eric Hartman, Jeff Hardgrove, Brian O'Reilly, Elizabeth Rodriguez, Adelaide Molina, Oren Zeve were appointed. John Labasso was elected president pro tempore.

Campus police report assaults and $800 typewriter theft

By Daniel Johnson

According to campus police, a male MSC student was assaulted while at a party in the Clove Road Apartments on Sept. 1. The victim was intoxicated at the time of the assault. He suffered a broken nose and was taken to the hospital. The victim did not press charges.

Another assault occurred on Sept. 11. A female resident assistant in Blanton Hall was assaulted for no apparent reason after she asked a male to leave the dorm. The male was arrested.

On Sept. 2 personal property, which included $30, car keys and a driver's license, was stolen while left unattended in the Clove Road Apartments.

On Sept. 7, a room in Blanton Hall was broken into and $17 was stolen. On Sept. 8, a typewriter worth approximately $800 was stolen from an office in Bohn Hall. A wallet that was left unattended was also stolen from Richardson Hall on Sept. 8. The wallet contained $360, along with a credit card and a driver's license.

My Big Apple summer

By Susan August

The mention of summer vacation often conjures up visions of sandy beaches, tanning bodies, and dancing in the moonlight. It’s all time for reading all those fun, urban trashy novels we don’t have time for during the school year. A time to give our hard-working brains a rest and do some of those mindless things we haven’t been able to do all semester, like go to movies and plays, play sports, or whatever our pleasures might be.

Well, my summer of ’83 did not exactly fit that picture of a relaxing vacation. It began with a bang, quite literally, when I was involved in an accident which put my car out of commission for three weeks and sent me to a chiropractor three times a week for two months. The first night I had my car again I parked it in the East Village (where I stayed for a month) only to find the next morning that it had been towed away while I slept. Two days and $100 later I called my friend in Montclair and said, “Please come and get the car, take it out of my sight.”

The following week I witnessed three accidents within two days, including seeing a van hit a little boy on his bike. I saw a fight break out in front of this restaurant where I work on MacDougal St. Bottles were crashing off the building and a chair was smashed through the rear window of a 1983 silver Porsche. On my way to work one evening, I watched a man at a red light get out of his car, step up on the hood of the car behind him and smash his foot through the windshield, all because the guy had honked his horn when the light turned green.

One night, a woman stole another woman’s wallet from her purse in my restaurant. A number of employees, including myself, followed the woman outside and confronted her. Fifteen minutes later, after trying to pull a knife on me and threatening to beat my face so I would really have something to call the police about, she reluctantly surrendered the wallet. Some say I was careless, others say I was brave. I say I was furious, and if I had anything to do with the situation, this woman was not going to get away with it.

Finally, depending on how one looks at it, I was fortunate enough to arrive on the scene of a seven car accident in West Orange a few weeks ago just after the cars had burst into flames. I was fortunate, I guess, that I hadn’t arrived a few minutes sooner.

My new week might be wondering why I’m relating all these unpleasant experiences. I could just as easily write about all the fun I had this summer. The point is that witnessing these somewhat senseless and uncontrollable events has reminded me that life is in the living. That any one of us might be hit at any given moment be no more.

Consequently, things which have seemed important or upsetting in the past now hold less significance, and conversely, things which previously seemed unimportant now hold more. I strongly believe that an explanation is needed in order to avoid similar distortions of the facts in the future.

It is stated in the SGA statutes, Article Three, under General Corporate Board, that “the Student Government Association, will absorb all costs for credits taken, and room and board for the newly elected officers during the time spent in summer session.” The reason for this is much more complex than what last week’s article (The Montclarion, Sept. 8) described as “financial remuneration.” Every executive board position demands long hours of work at a different level than that of the Class I executive board members. Our SGA is one of the best and in order to be most effective in serving the students of this campus, we have to fully know our responsibilities, duties and rights as student leaders. During the academic year, our time is limited, and we have to be most effective in serving the students of this campus, we have to be most effective in serving the students of this campus. It is stated in the SGA statutes. Article Three, under General Corporate Board, that “the Student Government Association, will absorb all costs for credits taken, and room and board for the newly elected officers during the time spent in summer session.”

The second point I wish to make is the fact that being an executive board member is a volunteer job and sacrifices have to be made. After being involved three years in SGA, I was astonished to find out that a member of a Class I Organization, like The Montclarion, would state this. Sacrifices by the executive board members are made all year long voicing the student needs, fighting for student rights, working with all the different organizations for the better cultural programming for the student body. Creating and maintaining services which will benefit the students is not an easy task. We are all doing it because we care and most of the time our academic work takes second place, let alone the almost nonexistent social life. I have come to realize that the easiest thing in the world one can do is to criticize it.

Another point I wish to make is the time where our goals for the world one can do is to participate. It is stated in the SGA statutes. Article Three, under General Corporate Board, that “the Student Government Association, will absorb all costs for credits taken, and room and board for the newly elected officers during the time spent in summer session.” The reason for this is much more complex than what last week’s article (The Montclarion, Sept. 8) described as “financial remuneration.” Every executive board position demands long hours of work at a different level than that of the Class I executive board members. It is stated in the SGA statutes. Article Three, under General Corporate Board, that “the Student Government Association, will absorb all costs for credits taken, and room and board for the newly elected officers during the time spent in summer session.”

The final point I would like to make is the one concerning the Summer Director, a position filled by the SGA president. As the chief executive of the SGA, the president has to put at least forty hours of work in over the summer months. All the services which are in function the first day of school are being decided upon over the summer. This is to ensure that the students receive the best type of service at the See SGA president p. 15

While reading last week’s article concerning the newly elected SGA executive board members, the old saying “ignorance is bliss” kept coming back to my mind. I strongly believe that an explanation is needed in order to avoid similar distortions of the facts in the future.

Will MSC’s dump turn into another Love Canal?

On Monday the Carrino Contracting and Trucking Company will begin dumping “sanitary fill” or more bluntly, garbage, in the quarry across from the Cove Road apartments. Tuesday, the college celebrates its 75th anniversary, what timing, what a birthday present. It’s a birthday present that may take two years to materialize, but when it does, it will be a big, beautiful new athletic field for all MSC students to play on.

In the mean time though, students living in the Cove Road apartments will have to put up with the smell, especially if the wind is blowing in a westerly direction. They may also have “new” neighbors, rats and seagulls. Oh yes, and while they’re waiting for the shuttle bus to take them from Cove Road to the campus they can watch the dump trucks go by, 50-100 per day, from dawn to dusk, six days a week.

But we can’t blame the MSC administrators. They’ve fought for this for over eight years. They can’t change their minds now. If the case went back to court again, the contract Carrino can’t dump waste chemicals, excepting between the hours of dawn to dusk, six days a week.

But now the case is settled and Carrino has the right to dump at the site. Elliot Mininberg said “MSC will abide by the court’s decision and insure that those rights are protected.”

What about the rights of the students living at the Cove Road apartments? When they applied for housing were they told that there would be a garbage dump across the street?

Think about it. The college catalogue could read, “MSC offers the newest in dorm landscaping...garbage chic.”

But look at the bright side. If the guidelines are followed, Carrino will only dump “household, commercial, industrial, institutional waste in the landfill. Under the the contract Carrino can’t dump waste chemicals, explosives, radioactive materials or feral matter. MSC will even have two people at the site each day to watch what kind of garbage is dumped.

Hopefully, these two individuals will take pride in their work and say, “Excuse me sir, but could you take that load of plutonium and dump it somewhere else? We only accept U.S. inspected grade A waste here.”

The recent downing of Korean Airlines flight 007 by the Soviet Union, and the subsequent loss of life incurred, raise some very serious questions for the United States and the world community. Questions not only of the Soviets motives and their general paranoia. But questions of the U.S. reaction to this latest step by the Soviets. In the eyes of the world, especially if the wind is blowing in a westerly direction, the U.S. government has portrayed itself in this tragedy, in contrast to the belligerent and murderous image we have painted for the Soviet Union.

The Soviet Union was wrong, unequivocally wrong, there is no arguing that fact. As a pacifist I value human life and detest violence and the taking of human life. The Soviets however, show no concern over the loss, or taking of life. Be it 269 innocent civilian passengers or millions of their own people they have killed since the Communist revolution. This tragic event shows their true colors to the world and shows us that the Russians play rough, by their own rules and for keeps.

Without straining our already precarious relations with the Soviet Union, I favor stronger and harsher sanctions from the U.S. in the form of trade embargos. Though the Reagan administration has indicated that it would like. I do not trust the Soviet Union, but I also do not hold them in the same paranoid light as this current administration does. The world is not filled with as many Soviet plots as we would like. I do not trust the Soviet Union, but I also do not hold them in the same paranoid light as this current administration does.

The world is not filled with as many Soviet plots as we would like. I do not trust the Soviet Union, but I also do not hold them in the same paranoid light as this current administration does. The world is not filled with as many Soviet plots as we would like. I do not trust the Soviet Union, but I also do not hold them in the same paranoid light as this current administration does.

The U.S. has branded Soviet claims and statements as lies and absurd, only to turn around and eventually confirm some of those statements. How then, can all the Soviet statements be lies? There must be some truth in them. We hear none of this, we hear only what the U.S. government wants us to hear and believe, through a compliant U.S. mass media. In continuing their propaganda war against the Soviet union, the White House has stooped to the very level of the USSR.

I must put the blame for the distortion of this event on the White House and the collective media of the U.S. Somewhere, someone must have asked these same questions I have asked. Still the silence is deafening.

For those who will look upon me as a Communist for questioning the motives behind this event, I ask you to not stress how wrong I feel the Soviet Union is in the commission of this crime. I am not a Soviet sympathizer, I do not like the Soviets, I don’t like Communism (capital-C). I only feel that there is more to this picture than meets the eye. More than the U.S. government is admitting or letting us know.

The Soviet Union is guilty of taking 269 lives and should not be allowed to walk away unscathed. The U.S. government is guilty of waging a propaganda war and continuously accuse the Soviets of, and the U.S. media is guilty for accepting this propaganda without questioning the motives behind it.

Do you feel that the recent renovations in parking lot 13 have helped or hurt the parking situation at MSC?

By Patricia Winters and Marc Seelinger

It takes longer to get out than last semester, because there are only two exits.
Sonja Verges
Sophomore/fine arts

It is about the same as last semester. I come to school about 20 minutes earlier for an eight o'clock class. I still can't get a space there.
Tom Pfister

It seems like you could fit more cars there before they changed it. I don't even bother checking for a space there.
Lauren Markham
Junior/English

It seems that fewer cars are able to park there. I don't think it's changed the situation, because most people don't get a space there anyway.
Gloria Denton

It has made matters worse. If you're trying to get out, all you are faced with is traffic blocking you.

The SGA is wasting our money

To the editor:

In response to Jim Benson's viewpoint in The Montclarion, September 8, 1983) entitled "Did someone say reward," I would like to add a few things. I agree with Mr. Benson that the $4,226 spent by the SGA for the housing and credits of their executive board was, to say the least, a frivolous, unnecessary waste of students' money. I just hope that all students remember this at referendum time. It is completely ridiculous to support an organization that is going to throw money around like this, cry poor mouth all year, and then ask the students to pay an extra dollar for their SGA fees, instead of conserving the money that they already have and spending it wisely.

It is much easier to waste all of your money and cry for more than it use your head when you spend it. Heck, if the SGA has enough money to pay for its executive board, housing and credits, then it must mean that over the summer they have too much money, so I propose a counter-referendum, one which would cut the SGA fees by one dollar a credit. This would force them to conserve, and give them a real reason to cry.

If the SGA is supposed to be a smaller version of the national government, I would say they are doing a good job of it. You know, milking the taxpayers, throwing it out the window and buying votes with their money. Crying for more has been the norm for years in national, state, and local governments, and seems to be par for the course with the SGA. If their job is to imitate these governments, congratulations on a job well done. If their job is to serve the students, they had better think twice. Once again, I would like to urge all students to remember this at referendum time and to vote with their heads.

Editorial inaccuracies refuted

To the editor:

This is in response to an editorial written by Jim Benson in the September 8th issue of The Montclarion. I would usually ignore inaccuracies made in The Montclarion, but this time the statements made were far too misleading for me to overlook.

The first point I would like to correct is the statement that nowhere in the SGA constitutions or legislation did Mr. Benson find where it said that the SGA would pick up executive housing and credits for the executive board. If he did his homework properly, he would have found that it states in Article III, Section 10, numbers 3 and 4 of the SGA statutes, "It is recommended that the newly elected General Corporate Board take up to six necessary credits during the summer session, prior to or after taking office. The SGA will absorb all costs for these credits, taken and room and board for the new officers during the time spent in summer session, these funds will come out of unappropriated surplus." Section 10 of the statutes also includes "The summer director shall be paid from unappropriated surplus minimum wage for a forty-hour week during the summer months." Not only did Mr. Benson fail to mention these necessary facts, which he should have known as a former SGA legislator, he also continued to make other fallacious comments through his editorial.

Mr. Benson stated that the bill which allocated the money, originally failed on the floor of the legislature. This is not true. The bill allowing money for housing and credits for the executive board never failed, it passed right away. The bill that failed and then passed was the bill allocating money for the credits taken by the board of trustees representative. Let's get our facts straight.

Also, Mr. Benson cannot understand why the college does not pick up costs for housing, because he thinks the college is empty during the summer. If you were around during the summer months, Mr. Benson, you would have found that there are conferences being held all summer long, and the participants are housed in the dorms and apartments. The housing facilities are far from empty, in fact the apartments were completely filled.

I would like to mention a few other important points that were also overlooked. First, just because the money was allocated to the executive board does not mean it was used. Two executive board members did not live on campus during the summer, nor did they take classes. Also, the board of trustees representative did not live on campus, nor did he take classes. Secondly, Mr. Benson failed to emphasize how much work much of the executive board has to take care of during the summer so that everything will be functioning properly by September.

Who wants to spend their summer on campus working long hours without pay and taking classes? I certainly didn't, and I had an effective vice-president. Also, he stated that just because money has been allotted in the past is no reason to make it right. Well, if you feel so strongly about this, Mr. Benson, why didn't you make the change when you were an SGA legislator during the fall semester '82?

Lynn Mesuk
SGA vice president

the needs of its people are simple and few: starting down to the Dine-Away Cafe for a cup of coffee and a donut; picking the number of jelly beans in a jar at the Hoosier Dry Goods Store; or awkwardly learning how to impress a neighbor girl. With such names as Jennie Mae, Darlene, and Luella, we know the characters are unpretentious and well-meaning, enough of a bit on the side of tragic.

An ex-preacher named C.C. Showers comes into town looking for work and befriends the boy. He has turned away from preaching because he felt an emptiness when he tried to do his work. He takes a shine to the boy, and little by little, starts bringing the boy to water. Slowly, he shows Buddy how unrealistic his fears are, and convinces him to finally go into the water. The tragedy, which is explained in the play's opening moments, is that the boy drowns. Knowing this before we actually get into the play is in itself tragic. Why do playwrights insist on ruining a good thing? Perhaps Leonard felt as the Greeks did if the audience knew beforehand what was going to happen, they could concentrate on how the story is presented. This doesn't work with The Diviners. The story isn't presented in a unique or "divine" manner. It's simple and honest. Unfortunately, our discovering things for ourselves would have proven far more interesting and effective.

Some praise must be bestowed upon certain individuals involved, both onstage and off. Michael Zeichner, as Buddy, gives a wonderful performance. He throws himself totally into the role and captivates the audience with his innocence and strong emotions during those moments when they are called for and he succeeds in projecting subtle dimensions of character. Miss Tauber portrays the boy's mother, Jennie Mae, with a sometimes obnoxious and her teenie boppers before and after school. St. John remembers, "I think I had my first 45 when I was 5 or 6 years old. My first record was Great Balls of Fire by Jerry Lee Lewis. I never consciously thought that I would like to be a DJ, but during my junior and senior years, I would volunteer to spin the records at the Rock Hops." He said.

At fifteen St. John was working in a professional studio. Before coming to WPLJ in N.Y. St. John held a disc-jockey position with its sister station in Detroit where he grew up. "My rating was good [WPLJ offered me this job because they wanted to raise their's. I've been with the station for 10 years now, and just signed another 5 year contract," the top gun said. And WPLJ has been number one for a while. Recently WPLJ has undergone a format change: As St. John puts it, "Radio has changed because music has changed. It is going back to a top 40 thing. This is not only happening to WPLJ. It is happening all over the country faster and faster. Everyday new stations are doing what WPLJ did. Only WPLJ happened to do it first. We have the advantage, though, we changed when we were at the #1 position. Until the new ARB ( Arbitron) ratings come out in October, WPLJ is still #1."

The change in the type of music we hear on WPLJ has much to do with the recent success of MTV. St. John states, "MTV has affected radio and what we listen to. When they start playing a new video it becomes popular, radio has got to pick it up and play the record. MTV has caused radio to play many different kinds of music. Possibly, if MTV wasn't so successful, we might still be playing the same kind of music."

Aside from his WPLJ duties, St. John does a minute day show entitled "Hike to talk to one person. I try to put Rock Notes." This show runs at 0:00 in the morning on WPLJ and at various times across the country on ABC radio. The Upper Montclair resident states, "I like to talk to one person. I try to put myself on the other side of the radio or talk in that type of way. For example, 'It's a great day and here is a record I think you will like.' I talk into the radio like I talk to you here. That is the art of radio communication. I am going to try to be your friend."

Woody Allen faces the critics in Zelig

By Harold Lowry

Woody Allen stoops to conquer in his new light comedy Zelig. He makes those who have called him self-indulgent and too serious look like fools by creating a movie with two faces. It is nothing more than fun—a string of one-liners set up as a phony documentary, long on message, and short on the satiric bite for which Allen is famous—but that's only one level. At the same time, Zelig is a potted panal movie, because Allen has created auble and accurate parody of the vacuously entertaining newscasts, features and documentary-styled movies with which we are inundated in the media today.

There is a strange similarity between the "craze mania" of the twenties as explosed in the movie and the "Raaf Peple" syndrome of today. In each era the inexperience of the press with its new technology caused an exaggerated interest in the bizarre. Because of this new trend, the character of Leonard Zelig would be as sought-after and pandered today as he is in the time portrayed. Allen uses the whimsicality of the twenties to show the idocy of the eighties.

Woody Allen plays Leonard Zelig; he is the man who vanishes from his New York apartment and then mysteriously turns up again and again in one place after another, as different people! Zelig walks into a speakeasy looking like a white gangster for example. Suddenly there was an extra player in the all black band. Zelig! The movie follows as Dr. Eudora Fletcher (played by Mia Farrow) tries to uncover the root of Zelig's incredible physical and mental changes. Her biggest set-back is that he won't stop being a psychiatrist.

The main character is really funny because he can become just about anyone. But most of the humor comes from the way in which the world changes. Her biggest set-back is that he won't stop being a psychiatrist.

The public goes crazy over Zelig, reading the daily accounts of his life, inventing a dance about him (the Chameleon). In the same way the critics have gone crazy over Allen's movie, saying he has gotten away from self-indulgence, (although his face is on the screen ninety percent of the time and he has alienated the audience by making from $17,000 to $23,000 a year. See if you measure up.

This is an excellent opportunity to prove yourself amongst the best and start off making from $17,000 to $23,000 a year. See if you measure up.

Get your career off to a flying start. Become a Marine aviator. If you're a college freshman, sophomore or junior, you could qualify for our undergraduate Officer Commissioning Program and be guaranteed flight school after graduation. All training is conducted during the summer. There are no on-campus drills. Plus, you receive $100 a month during the school year. Seniors can qualify for the graduate Officer Commissioning Program and attend training after graduation.

A Marine Corps representative will be in the campus Student Center September 19 thru 21st, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

For more information on Marine Corps Officer Commissioning Programs, call Captain Hills or Captain Hanning at 750-9405/9406.

lowest possible cost. The president has to review at least half a dozen different companies for each service to assure this requirement. The minimum wage salary the Summer Director receives does not even come close as a financial reward to the amount of work that one person has to do. It is impossible to hold another job like most students do over the summer. If the person who is president at the time does not spend at least forty hours a week in the office, the result will be not only detrimental to the SGA, its effect will be greater to the student body as a whole.

This year we have set many goals which will benefit the student body. The most important one is to keep you informed about everything pertaining to our rights, benefits, duties and responsibilities as students. You are all welcome to discuss with us any questions you might have, and although ignorance is bliss, I feel it's insulting, especially when it relates to the SGA, that we all pay fees for and have access for valid information at all times.

The rise and fall of Leonard Zelig is not the usual movie goers' fare, but Woody Allen fans should find Zelig another step up in the rise of the new Woody Allen.

Get your career off to a flying start. Become a Marine aviator. If you're a college freshman, sophomore or junior, you could qualify for our undergraduate Officer Commissioning Program and be guaranteed flight school after graduation. All training is conducted during the summer. There are no on-campus drills. Plus, you receive $100 a month during the school year. Seniors can qualify for the graduate Officer Commissioning Program and attend training after graduation.

A Marine Corps representative will be in the campus Student Center September 19 thru 21st, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

For more information on Marine Corps Officer Commissioning Programs, call Captain Hills or Captain Hanning at 750-9405/9406.

Big Apple seemed trivial I have to come to appreciate more fully. I may not have much control over the way certain things happen, but I do have control over how I handle them.

Everything happens for a purpose— I don't believe anything happens by chance. Witnessing all the crazy events that did this summer gave me an opportunity to remember that this is it, that the cards are already dealt and it's up to me how I play them.

lowest possible cost. The president has to review at least half a dozen different companies for each service to assure this requirement. The minimum wage salary the Summer Director receives does not even come close as a financial reward to the amount of work that one person has to do. It is impossible to hold another job like most students do over the summer. If the person who is president at the time does not spend at least forty hours a week in the office, the result will be not only detrimental to the SGA, its effect will be greater to the student body as a whole.

Get down to business faster. With the BA-35.

If there's one thing business students have always needed, this is it: an affordable, business-oriented calculator. The Texas Instruments BA-35, the Student Business Analyst.

Its built-in business formulas let you perform complicated finance, accounting and statistical functions—the ones that usually require a lot of time and a stack of reference books, like present and future value, calculations, amortizations and balloon payments. The BA-35 means you spend less time calculating, and more time learning. One keystroke takes the place of many.

The calculator is just part of the package. You also get a book that follows most calculator and classroom.

Low Down Payment. Easy Terms. Immediate Coverage.

FIELD HOCKEY

By Chris Worthington
The MSC field hockey team has started the season with a new coach, Lynn Centonze. Although Centonze has never coached field hockey before, she does have playing experience and last spring, she coached lacrosse at a Westchester high school. Co-captains for this year's team are seniors Joy Wailing and Terry Jennings.

The team opened the season in a non-conference match against Manhattanville College. The first half was relatively uneventful. MSC senior, Mary Zollen, took three shots at the goal. Sophomore Jean Brown took two shots. At the half mark, both teams had nine goal attempts and nine saves.

The second half was also uneventful until the last minute. At the 34 minute mark, both teams had three goal attempts, but neither had scored. Five seconds later, Manhattanville's Sue Brauer scored off a corner. She was assisted by Sheila Markham and Carol Lewis. Less than 30 seconds later, Manhattanville player Nancy Sadlier scored on a breakaway to take the win, 2-0.

Both teams played well and were evenly matched. Manhattanville's key players were Markham, Sadlier, Jill King, and Glenn Burgess. MSC was led by Zoller, Brown, and sophomores Linda Morganthein and goalkeeper Lisa Flyn.

Senior Sherri Woodden, a physical education major who played on the team for three years and keeps statistics this year, said the MSC players were showing good teamwork as compared to past years, and had a lot of respect for their new coach.

After the game, Centonze said, "I like Montclair. It's a good opportunity." She said it is too early to tell how the season will end, but the team has great potential. As a whole, the team was disappointed about this game. However, they have been practicing for only two weeks and had no pre-season games.

Today's match will be played at 7:30 p.m. instead of 3:30 as previously announced, against Drew University.

enough field position to give O'Riordon a chance to kick a game-winning field goal. The Seahawks moved to the MSC 32-yard line, with time running out. Wagner was forced to try a 49- yard field goal. As O'Riordon took the field, the crowd, remembering O'Riordon's two earlier successful kicks, stood quietly. As O'Riordon kicked the ball, it looked like it would be good, but to the relief of the MSC fans, the ball sailed wide and put an end to a very exciting football game.

After the game, Glancola stated that his team's enthusiasm in getting ready for Wagner "Just took away from what they were coached to do." Glancola said, "We've a much better team than we showed. We just made too many mental mistakes to beat a team like Wagner."

The mental mistakes Glancola was referring to were 12 penalties, four turnovers and numerous breakdowns in the kicking game and special teams coverage.

As for MSC's next opponent, an away game against Division II power, East Stroudsberg State College, Glancola warned, "We cannot expect to beat a team like ESSC if we play the way we did against Wagner."

The coach added that he will go through practice this week working to improve his team's consistency both on offense and defense. He said, "We just have to go through the X's and O's of the game, in order to prepare for this coming Saturday's game."
Indians tie Wagner 20-20 in last minute for second year straight

By John Rivera

The MSC football team came from behind in the last minute to tie Wagner College 20-20 for the second straight year on Sprague Field last Saturday. With a capacity crowd of 8,306 looking on, the two teams went to battle on a hot and muggy September night.

After winning the coin flip, the Indians looked a little tight on their first possession, and were forced to punt the ball away.

On receiving the ball, Wagner moved downfield effectively behind the running of tailback John Franco. The Seahawks reached MSC's 16-yard line, but the Indian defense stiffened, and Wagner, with Tom O'Riordan kicking a 33-yard field goal, broke out to a 3-0 lead after the first quarter.

After being stopped again at its own 30-yard line, MSC was forced to punt, but was given a break when the kick was fumbled by the Wagner returnman and picked up by freshman linebacker Harry Sandberg at the Wagner 33. This opened the way for Mark Casale to run 33 yards for a touchdown. With Joe Perri's extra point attempt going wide, leaving the Indians ahead by three.

On the ensuing kickoff, Wagner struck quickly with Franco, taking the ball 95 yards for a touchdown. After an offensive show in which both teams combined to score 23 points in the opening quarter, the defenses for both sides came alive and no points were scored in the second.

At the start of the third quarter, with MSC kicking off, Wagner struck just two minutes into the third quarter. With Wagner keeping the ball mostly on the ground and Franco picking up big yardage, the Seahawks found themselves on the Indians' yard line with first and goal. On its first play from scrimmage, Wagner's fullback, John Chiofalo, ran up the middle to put Wagner ahead 16-3. After the extra point, the Seahawks led 17-13.

In the fourth quarter, Wagner, with the ball on MSC's 17-yard line, looked like it would go in and score another touchdown. After three downs, the MSC defense again stopped the Wagner drive, and Tom O'Riordan kicked his second 33-yard field goal to give Wagner a 20-13 lead.

With just 3 minutes to go in the game, Wagner found itself with the ball on its own 29-yard line and a first down, beginning to feel like victory was theirs.

All-American quarterback, Mark Casale completed 18 out of 32 attempts Saturday night for 206 yards. As the home crowd began to cheer, the defense on, Wagner was gaining yardage. With just two minutes to go in the game, MSC received a huge break when linebacker Sandberg forced Wagner's Chiofalo to fumble the ball, leaving 1:50 to go. As the ball bounced around, Sandberg recovered it himself with the ball on MSC's own 42-yard line.

On MSC's first play, Vannoy, who would wind up the game with 77 rushing yards, carried the ball 22 yards to the Wagner 36. Then with 1:17 and the clock running, the play MSC fans will remember for a long time took place. Cassile fired a pass to end Ed Chavis, who caught the ball in stride at the Wagner 6. After receiving a solid hit from the Wagner secondary Chavis fumbled the ball away, but wide receiver Darin Small, who was following the play all the way, picked up the ball on the three and went into the end zone for an MSC touchdown.

As the players mobbed Small in the end zone, MSC coach Rick Giacolica had to make the decision on whether or not to kick the extra point or go for the two-point conversion and the win. After Perri successfully kicked the tying extra point, Wagner still had just :55 left to steal a victory.

Wagner desperately tried to get the ball from their own 31 into a close

Baseball team takes Ramapo in season opener by three

By Rob Stevens

The MSC baseball team defeated Ramapo College 6-4 last Wednesday, and got the fall campaign off to a successful start. The Indians offense was key, as it was the defense that made the difference.

MSC took the third-run first inning lead after Jody Tobia singled, Bob Yeager walked and John Cowans singled. MSC scored two runs, thanks to Cowans with a walk and designated-hitter Dan Olson singled.

Ramapo struck back in the bottom half of the first inning and scored four runs on three hits, including a double by a Ramapo player and a triple by Lajoie, and two MSC errors.

The Indians picked up two runs in the third inning on three Ramapo errors. The Indians scored on a lead off home run by Cowans in the fourth and a double by Bob Yeager to drive in Jody Tobia in the fifth.

In the sixth, Ramapo pulled to within one run on Lajoie's two-run homerun.

However, the Indians came back with two more runs in the eighth to secure the victory. The Indians' Andy Welter singled, Bob Yeager singled and John Cowans had his third hit of the game. Mike Lhierio doubled in two runs in his only plate appearance of the game.

The combined pitching effort of Lee Gentile and Greg Bachtin limited the Roadrunners to six runs on seven hits. Gentile, the winning pitcher, allowed just two earned runs without allowing a base on balls. He had two strike outs. Bachtin closed the door and allowed just one hit in the final three innings.

Jody Tobia went three for five, scored two runs and had one RBI. In the seventh, Toby went two for four, had one triple and one homerun, scored three runs, and had one RBI. Mike Lhierio went one for one, had one double, and had two RBIs. Ross Spadora went two for two, had one triple and one RBI.

As the home crowd began to cheer, the defense on, Wagner was gaining yardage. With just two minutes to go in the game, MSC received a huge break when linebacker Sandberg forced Wagner's Chiofalo to fumble the ball, leaving 1:50 to go. As the ball bounced around, Sandberg recovered it himself with the ball on MSC's own 42-yard line.

On MSC's first play, Vannoy, who would wind up the game with 77 rushing yards, carried the ball 22 yards to the Wagner 36. Then with 1:17 and the clock running, the play MSC fans will remember for a long time took place. Cassile fired a pass to end Ed Chavis, who caught the ball in stride at the Wagner 6. After receiving a solid hit from the Wagner secondary Chavis fumbled the ball away, but wide receiver Darin Small, who was following the play all the way, picked up the ball on the three and went into the end zone for an MSC touchdown.

As the players mobbed Small in the end zone, MSC coach Rick Giacolica had to make the decision on whether or not to kick the extra point or go for the two-point conversion and the win. After Perri successfully kicked the tying extra point, Wagner still had just :55 left to steal a victory.

Harriers begin season with new coach and a second place finish

By Kathy Szorenini

After a highly successful season last year, the women's cross country team is looking to better their performance this season under new head coach, Tim Marotti.

Marotti, who is the women's distance coach during spring track, takes over this season for former head coach, Michelle Willis, who will return in April. Marotti is a Wills assistant last season and will handle cross country, indoor track and the beginning of spring track this school year.

The team began its season Saturday with a second place finish at the Manhattan Invitational. Veterans Carla Gambill and Dana Caruso led the Indians, finishing second and fourth place respectively. Gambill, who has problem with a stress fracture last year, improved since last year, finished with a second place finish at the Manhattan Invitational. With the addition of two new young athletes, the team is looking to better their performance this season under new head coach, Tim Marotti.

Marotti was pleased with the team's performance, but feels individual improvement must be made. "The present time gap between Amy McLaugh­lin (a veteran from last season), Sarah, Liz, and Stacy must be closed up. I'm not counting out Cyndi or Marybeth. Both Marybeth and Cyndi are determined athletes willing to do the work needed, so both should do well," Marotti said.

The team practices every day for about 1 1/2 hours either at Brookdale Park, on the track, or out on the road. Marotti likes to keep practice time as short as possible to give the athletes time or themselves. He believes in putting in, and pressures the girls in practice, leaving them to determine their own goals in meets. "I don't put pressure on anyone. We need individual improvement from everyone, and the enthusiasm from all the girls will make it that much easier to achieve," Marotti said.
