NewsEditor
By Lillian M. Aleman

The modern parking gates (as shown above) are only some of the many changes that Standard Parking has made since taking over MSU parking in June 2001. Whether they will be more helpful or cause more problems will soon be known.

New Company Takes Over MSU Parking

By Lillian M. Aleman
News Editor

In anticipation of opening the universities first parking garage, Montclair State University decided to contract a professional parking firm on June 2001. Standard Parking, who has previously worked alongside MSU on a consulting basis over the past two years, has been making large and significant changes to upgrade parking equipment, lot maintenance and enforcement to parking of MSU.

One of the changes seen around campus have been the changing of old gates, whose parts were becoming increasing difficult to obtain with those "more modern and more efficient that will allow customers to contact Parking Services directly from the gates by intercom should problems arise," said John Zempare, Director of Parking Services. "Access cards will now be used to enter and exit gates in designated areas such as in lots 14 and 17 which will reduce the number of illegally parked vehicles in those lots," said Zempare.

Standard Parking will now also have access to instantly knowing what vehicles have been ticketed previously and the details of those tickets by using their software. "The sidewalks and driveways still need to be filled in and systems, which is uploaded daily with information such as tow and boot lists. Standard Parking, which is also handling parking at other colleges and universities such as Harvard Medical School, Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Boston, Towson State University in Maryland, American University and Washington College of Law in Washington and Northwestern University in Chicago, has over 73 years experience with handling parking problems," said Zempare.

"Our enforcement personnel are trained to deal with not only parking violations but can also provide customer assistance for flat or under inflated tires and dead batteries. "Standard parking will also tow or boot vehicles that are illegally parked, or parked in lots without appropriate decals. "University police will also continue to enforce parking and traffic rules for the streets and assist Parking Services with towing and ticketing. "If is satisfying to have our enforcement personnel dealing with those "more modern and more efficient that will make parking easier," said Zempare. These services, along with parking upgrades continue to be placed in the roof.

Said "Parking" On P. 4

Diner Delayed Once Again

By Valerie Harper
Assistant News Editor

By now, most know that MSU is getting its very own diner. Coming back from summer vacation there was a new, shiny building taking the place of a parking lot. The 120-seat diner already has a full staff nixed, printed menus, and most know that it will be open 24 hours, seven days a week. The questions are, what's the hold up and when do we get to eat? The diner opening was initially delayed from the start of school to Tuesday, September 25 at 10 a.m. However, that date has again been pushed back to "Mid-October," according to Assistant Director of Auxiliary Enterprises, Kevin Rakowsky. Rakowsky said that the timing for the diner's opening was not right. "Because of the events last Tuesday at the World Trade Center, it was decided that a grand opening celebration was not appropriate at this time," he said. Although the diner would not have been open for business for a couple more days, they intended to have a grand opening, "Rock the dinner" type celebration with fiddles, music, giveaways and a tour of the diner.

Rakowsky said that the diner is in the "tweaking stages", with the interior completed and the exterior near completed. The sidewalks, decks and driveaway still need to be completed. Underground plumbing still needs to be fitted in and ducts for the heating and air conditioning still need to be placed in the roof. After this happens, the Red Hawk Diner sign and neon lights can be added.

Chris Corvall, Diner Sales

US News Ranks MSU "Top Tier"

By Iliana Vasquez
Staff Writer

Montclair State University is ranked among one of the best universities in Northern New Jersey according to U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT's 2002, which was released on September 6, 2001. "We are pleased that we are again ranked among the very best universities by U.S. NEWS and WORLD REPORT," said MSU president Dr. Susan A. Cole in a recent news release.

"It is satisfying to have nation validation of our success, vitality and continued growth. From our perspective, the best indicator of how successful we are is what our students tell us about the quality of the education we provide and the subsequent success of graduates in their professions or in advanced study. U.S. NEWS method of ranking consist of criteria such as academic reputation, selectivity, faculty resources, student resources, graduation rate performance, and alumni giving ratio. "We are pleased that we are again ranked among the very best universities by U.S. NEWS and WORLD REPORT," said MSU president Dr. Susan A. Cole in a recent news release.

"It is satisfying to have nation validation of our success, vitality and continued growth. From our perspective, the best indicator of how successful we are is what our students tell us about the quality of the education we provide and the subsequent success of graduates in their professions or in advanced study. U.S. NEWS method of ranking consist of criteria such as academic reputation, selectivity, faculty resources, student resources, graduation rate performance, and alumni giving ratio. "We are pleased that we are again ranked among the very best universities by U.S. NEWS and WORLD REPORT," said MSU president Dr. Susan A. Cole in a recent news release.

"It is satisfying to have nation validation of our success, vitality and continued growth. From our perspective, the best indicator of how successful we are is what our students tell us about the quality of the education we provide and the subsequent success of graduates in their professions or in advanced study. U.S. NEWS method of ranking consist of criteria such as academic reputation, selectivity, faculty resources, student resources, graduation rate performance, and alumni giving ratio. "We are pleased that we are again ranked among the very best universities by U.S. NEWS and WORLD REPORT," said MSU president Dr. Susan A. Cole in a recent news release.

"It is satisfying to have nation validation of our success, vitality and continued growth. From our perspective, the best indicator of how successful we are is what our students tell us about the quality of the education we provide and the subsequent success of graduates in their professions or in advanced study. U.S. NEWS method of ranking consist of criteria such as academic reputation, selectivity, faculty resources, student resources, graduation rate performance, and alumni giving ratio. "We are pleased that we are again ranked among the very best universities by U.S. NEWS and WORLD REPORT," said MSU president Dr. Susan A. Cole in a recent news release.
9/24/01 - A male student reported that he parked his car in Lot 23 and returned to find his window and lock broken and car stereo missing.

9/22/01 - Clifton fire department responded to a fire alarm in Bohn Hall. It was determined that a resident smoking caused the smoke detector to activate.

9/22/01 - Little Falls fire department responded to a fire alarm at Yogi Berra Stadium. It was determined that a pull station was falsely activated in a restroom.

9/22/01 - A female Blanton resident reported that someone entered her locked room and took her purse. It was discovered with money missing.

9/20/01 - A male student reported that he parked his car in Lot 23 and returned to find it was missing.

9/19/01 - Officer discovered a male vomiting in a car in Lot 24. It was determined that he was under the influence of alcohol.

9/19/01 - Officer discovered bias writing on three walls in a second floor bathroom in the Student Center.

9/19/01 - A fire extinguisher was discharged by an unknown suspect in a sixth-floor stairwell in Bohn Hall.

9/19/01 - A visitor to MSU reported he parked his car in Lot 23 and returned to discover it was missing.

President Bush has begun preparing the American public for a prolonged and possibly bloody war against terrorist groups around the globe. Bush singled out Al Qaeda, a group led by Osama bin Laden, and said the war on terror begins with them.

The Montclarion
By Valarie Harper
Assistant News Editor

A veteran English professor, who taught at MSU for 30 years before retiring last semester, died last Wednesday due to cancer. Barry Jacobs taught in the Comparative Literature and English departments, and was also actively involved with the Honors Program since its inception in 1985. He also taught in the English department’s summer program at Siena, Italy.

Jacobs came to Montclair in 1971, after spending several years teaching at the alma mater, Harvard University.

An expert in modern drama and Scandinavian literature, Jacobs was often invited to give talks at various universities, most recently Brigham Young University.

English department faculty say Jacobs was a man of enormous teaching and counseling ability. Professor Dan Bronson was extremely close to Jacobs, and often met him for lunch and accompanied him on medical visits this past summer.

“He was a man of considerable wit and even more kindness,” said Bronson.

Jacobs resided in Montclair his whole life, but was staying with his brother in Lexington, Kentucky when he passed away. According to Bronson, Jacobs went to his brothers in mid-August; between rounds of chemotherapy, because he was feeling weak.

Jacobs was recognized last semester at the Honors Banquet. He was given a plague as a way of thanking him for his participation in the program. Students were deeply saddened by his death. Ali Fatade, a sophomore in the Honors Program, said his expertise and understanding would be missed.

“He had a special gift of communicating with his students,” he said. “You rarely find that in other teachers.”

Sophomore Robert Perriero was in Jacobs Honors Great Books and Ideas class last semester.

“He was a wonderful teacher with a wealth of knowledge that he freely shared with his students,” Perriero said.

Executive for Kullman, the company that sold the diner to MSU, said that it was not unusual for a grand opening to be delayed by a couple weeks. He also said that Kullman, Auxiliary Enterprises and other groups at Montclair are working to get the diner open.

“To try to pin any group on delaying the project would be impossible,” he said. “No one is completely at fault.”

Carvell said that many factors contributed to the delayed opening. For example, the condition of the soil had to be determined before work could be done on the diner’s foundation. Samples of the soil had to be tested to determine what the composition of the foundation would be.

“Foundation is altered based on the land it’s being built into,” Carvell said.

Issues about where the gas lines were running also had to be dealt with before the foundation could be dug. This caused a minor delay, but digging began shortly after it was determined that the lines were not in the way.

Carvell said the actual diner was built in a factory and was ready at the end of July. However, the diner was not transported until August 20, because approvals from the state stopped construction briefly during the summer, and therefore the land was not ready. He also mentioned that Sodexo, the food service at MSU, needs to prepare before the diner can open.

“For Sodexo to open its regular facilities and the diner at the same time would be a tremendous feat,” he said.

Like Rakowsky, Carvell believes the timing of the diner’s opening is important to its success.

“If you open an operation too quickly you might not be ready and hurt your perception of the business,” Carvell said.

Delayed

Continued from p. 1

Cancer Claims Life of English Professor

By Lillian M. Aleman
News Editor

MSU has been making large strides to improve its campus life by updating its parking facilities and dining services, and now, its student e-mail service.

“Mail.Montclair,” which went live September 1, has begun replacing the existing Alpha e-mail system, which is set to shut down permanently at the end of the semester.

The other Alpha services, which allow students and faculty with campus resources such as web hosting and library service, will remain the same. The server and disk storage was bought from iPlanet, a Sun and Netscape alliance.

The entire system including the server, disk storage, and consulting cost around $200,000.

The e-mail account utilizes a graphical web client to access mail through a web browser from any computer with an Internet connection, and can be accessed at www.mail.montclair.edu. It provides students with “e-mail services including sending and receiving mail, managing attachments, organizing mailbox and even managing a mailbox” as stated from online documentation.

Some of the benefits the system provides are a built in “white pages” directory to allow users to look up other users’ e-mail addresses; the ability to use any IMAP-compliant e-mail client such as Netscape Communication, Outlook Express, Entora, etc.; and also, there is no need to configure web browsers. This makes the system more flexible by offering state-of-the-art features.

Students can “activate their account by entering their registration PIN number and Social Security into a secure online form,” said Director of Systems and Security Information Technology Jeff Giacobbe.

The system will then give the user an ID, which is consisted of the student’s last name, first initial and a number, and a password, which can be changed in the future by the user.

Step-by-step documentation along with links to the secure account form can be found at www.mail.montclair.edu.

The new mail server handles approximately 15,000 student e-mail accounts and has a 15MB quota, which is more than disk storage from Alpha, Hotmail, and Yahoo combined.

There is still some room to raise this quota if necessary,” said Giacobbe.

Another plus for the system is that it doesn’t contain constant advertisements because the service is provided by the University, unlike “free” e-mail systems like Yahoo and

New Student E-mail System Now Online

Delivered

Continued from p. 1

Left: The Red Hawk Diner as it currently stands. Although the interior is completed, the exterior structure is noticeably incompletely seen with the pipes and the incompletely sided windows.

Hotmail that display advertisements because of the revenue needed. For existing MSU-IP users, current user name and passwords on the MSU-IP will be used to set the “Mail.Montclair” user name and password. Any changes to the password will affect both MSU-IP accounts and “Mail.Montclair” accounts. Also, if users do not have an MSU-ISP account, one will be created upon creating an account at “Mail.Montclair.”

As stated on the website, “Mail.Montclair” accounts will serve as the primary point of contact for correspondence with the University. Because of this, students are strongly encouraged to check this e-mail system often for notices from the University that may affect them. Information sessions are available to students regarding detailed instruction on using “Mail.Montclair.” Information on these services can be found on the website under the Training & Event calendar. Basic questions about e-mail can be answered through the Help Line at X7971.

Parking

Continued from p. 1

Information sessions are available to students regarding detailed instruction on using “Mail.Montclair.” Information on these services can be found on the website under the Training & Event calendar. Basic questions about e-mail can be answered through the Help Line at X7971.

Student decals expire on May 2002, with teacher decals expiring on August 2002. The parking regulations book distributed with each permit indicates that all parking appeals be submitted in writing to either the Office of the VP for Student Development and Campus Life for students, or the office of the VP for Facilities and Business Operations for faculty and staff members. Previously, the SGA handled all ticket appeals. “The transition was very smooth,” said Zempare. Although this year Standard Parking has transferred “everyone to a new system, so there were many more people to deal with than a regular year.”

Standard Parking is now developing an online application form to be accessed through the University’s website that should make the process of getting a permit “even smoother” said Zempare. Standard Parking, an “urban division” of APCOA (the Standard Parking “airport division”) has been a parking operator since 1951. In 1998, the two leading companies in parking, APCOA and Standard Parking merged, forming one of the largest operators for parking services for universities and colleges across the country.

Looking for a job?

Information Technology is hiring for the computer labs, the Helpline and technical assistants!

To apply, please visit:

http://edtech.montclair.edu

MSU Measures UP

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>25%</th>
<th>50%</th>
<th>75%</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Freshman Retention Rate</td>
<td>83%</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Freshman in top 25 Percent of H.S. Class</td>
<td>47%</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Average Graduation Rate</td>
<td></td>
<td>53%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Percent of Faculty Who are Full-Time</td>
<td>72%</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Classes with Under 20 Students</td>
<td>35%</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Classes with 50 or More Students</td>
<td></td>
<td>1%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
WTC Victims Remembered in Unified Rally

‘Dream Team’ Organizes Rally For Peace, Hopes to Bring MSU Together

By Tina Snyder
Assistant Feature Editor

On Monday, September 17th, MSU joined together to light a pathway for peace in the aftermath of the World Trade Center tragedy. Sophomore Amanda Gildersleeve helped host the MSU Peace Rally and Candlelight Vigil on behalf of “The Dream Team,” a group of students who came together to see what they could do to help the victims of the recent terrorist attack.

This event was held in the Blanton-Bohn Quad and was dedicated to remembering the victims of America’s September 11 tragedies as well as for making a statement for peace and unity, not violence and war in these tumultuous times.

Students were given glow sticks and school-colored candies to light. Anyone who did not support the call for peace was discouraged to wear them. After singing “The Star-Spangled Banner,” SGA Vice President Chris Fitzpatrick addressed the crowd in reporting “The Star-Spangled Banner,” “God Bless America,” “Auld Lang Syne,” and “O Beautiful for Spacious Skies.”

Everyone is helping and working with each other; by putting our differences aside, everyone has come together,” stated Jason Gowers, graduate and American Red Cross Disaster Relief helper. This is truly what we meant to happen during the course of this night. In the distance, the silhouettes of students were displayed against the night sky that this horrendous tragedy took place.

Students gathered together, taking a stand against the violence and remembering the victims. Strength was being achieved in unity, and peace was connecting everybody through this unity.

Students at the Peace Rally gather to light candles in memory of the victims of the recent terrorist violence.

Quiet Anger

by Genevieve Reuter

Some great words will fall
Imploding from the guts
And avalanching to the fingerspins
A passive and gentle weapon for emotion

It seems that here
Twelve miles so far and twelve miles too close
The silence is piercing my ears
Helplessly looking on, I, see, crumble

Had only buildings diminished?
Had humanity?
Did a mushroom cloud have to rise up?
It’s so great. So QUIT!
I can only hear the sticker of the candles
The pepping of the wax
A sizzle as it dries onto soft skin

I am of no use here
So I might retreat to my bed,
Wrapped in Stars and Stripes
And grove for life.

WRITTEN IN RESPONSE TO THE RECENT NATIONAL TRAGEDY
Graduate Assistant to Student Activities Rob Vincent called it the "ultimate student activities fair." Other students called it impressive, fun, and a time for students to shine. In a collaborative effort, that became the first annual SGA/Club/Organization Open House at MSU. Students from Class One organizations and a few Class Twos, Threes, and Fours decorated their offices and made themselves available to welcome interested students to their clubs. The activity was organized as part of Survivor September.

Vincent stated, "We thought it would be great for two reasons. First, it gives students an opportunity to see the personality of an organization. Two, it encourages community. That's what the Student Center is."

Each flag, each decoration, and each person helped to exhibit the personality and vitality of the organizations at MSU. Here are a few Class One Organizations that participated in the Open House.

COLLEGE LIFE UNION BOARD (C.L.U.B.)

The reality-based television show "Survivor" is a hit these days and the College Life Union Board (C.L.U.B.) knows it. So when it came time to think of a theme that represents the fun, adventurous activities of C.L.U.B., they knew that the "Survivor" theme was the way to go. C.L.U.B.'s "Survivor" jungle motif included green ribbons hanging from the door, green balloons displayed prominently, animal nose masks (a snout and trunk, to name a few), and animal crackers. They also offered students the chance to enter their names in a box to participate in C.L.U.B.'s upcoming "Outcast" competition, which also takes on a "Survivor" theme.

PLAYERS

"My dorm room is in this room!" quipped freshman Melissa Miller from the Players' office, which had suddenly materialized into a giant Bohn, Blanton, Bull-Freeman, Stone, or Webster Hall college dorm room where 20 plus members were living for the night. Students sprawled out on couches and on the floor, dipping into bowls of Raman soup (a college dorm room necessity) and watching Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, The Goonies, and other college dorm room classics.

"It was a good idea and it gave me something to do on a Friday night!" beamed freshman Joe Foster. "We hope other students will come join us!"

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT ORGANIZATION (I.S.O.)

How do you spell your name in a language other than English? That was the first thing members of the International Student Organization (I.S.O.) were trying to find out as they looked over each other's shoulders peering at the language the other person had written in. With the various brightly colored flags of countries such as India, China, and England, I.S.O. welcomed new potential members into a world of culture. Their goal was to open students eyes about the different societies of the world.

Said ISO President Gunjan Shah, "We're giving away free stuff, recruiting new students, and making sure this place is not only for international students, but also for American students. We want to introduce international students to American students to diversify the student body."

LATIN AMERICAN STUDENT ORGANIZATION (L.A.S.O.)

The sounds of shoes tapping with flamenco beats, merengue rhythms, and a chorus of students cheering, dancing, and singing were heard from all corners of the Student Center Annex. The Latin American Student Organization was making its presence known as one of the most active Class One student organizations at MSU. Outside, students were swaying their hips, but inside flags, dominoes, bonnies, decorations, and even hats adorned walls and table settings. By the look of happiness on students' faces, MSU definitely knew L.A.S.O. could turn any event into, as President Stalin Vallejo put it, "one big party."
Students climbing over each other and scrambling to grab candy from the floor is not the average thing you might see on a Friday night at the Student Center. But that's exactly what happened in the La Campana office when one member of the team who churns out yearbooks each year, hung a brightly colored pinata shaped to look like a music note from the ceiling. "La Campana" introduced their color theme through this pinata, and offered free face painting, tattoos, door prizes, and giveaways to celebrate the full color yearbook that had come out this year. The colors also celebrated the vibrancy that La Campana has to offer new members, which is what they hoped to gain in being a part of the open house.

Although the radio station may have looked dark from afar, that wasn't the case when one stepped into the office. Neon Christmas lights decorated the otherwise dim room. But if you didn't get to see the bright neon lights or the WMSC office, you definitely didn't miss hearing them that Friday night. The radio station was broadcast through the mobile unit so that it was heard throughout the Student Center Annex. WMSC also handed out program schedules, stickers, and applications.

The idea of Planet Earth as one big happy family sounds very ideal to the members of Conservation Club and so they decided to promote the family theme for their office/organization. Said Secretary Jackie Montegna, "We want to inform everyone about what we do on campus. We want to educate about the wonders, plants, and about the Earth. We're trying to get a family feel, which is what Conservation Club is all about. This is my home away from home." The club decorated the office with nature stickers, animal pictures, and anything else they could find about nature.

Several members of A.S.S.I.S.T. presented their offices to interested students that attended the Open House that night. A.S.S.I.S.T. also sold mugs at the event, for which proceeds will go to aid surviving victims of the WTC tragedy.

Kate Marlies, President of Class One Concerts and member Freddie Fingaz had a difference purpose in mind when showing off the Class One Concerts office to MSU students. Fingaz stated, "The purpose of our involvement at the open house is to let people know that the concert next week they thought was canceled is still on." The Class One Concerts office was decorated with posters of past concerts and flyers about upcoming events.

A.S.S.I.S.T., C.A.R.I.B.S.O, CHI ALPHA, INTERVARSITY GREEK COUNCIL, STUDENT ACTIVITIES

That night, L.A.S.O., Chi Alpha, and Intervarsity won awards for the most creative ideas. It was a fun night for all. The purpose of the Open House was also fulfilled. The organizations hoped to promote the idea that the offices were not simply business offices, but places where any student could go and have fun at any time. Director of Programming Julie Fleming was astounded by what she saw. "I was very impressed with all the organizations. They're doing a great job. Even if it does get the organizations talking, that's fine with me."

The Open House clearly did just that.
"She is such a slut!" Being the habitual eavesdropper that I am, I couldn’t help but overhear an extremely juicy conversation developing at a neighboring table during lunch. The subject here was a young girl walking by, plain looking and seemingly unaware of the reputation being built around her. SUII. It is, without a doubt, a very powerful word. Perhaps even one of the most feared words for all women on campus for it represents all that our mothers taught us not to be.

The word 'slut' in itself is hurtful on so many levels, yet as women, we conveniently find ourselves gathering, gossiping, and banding on the downfall of another woman’s reputation. Using sexual expression as a weapon against each other, we are, in reality, forming scud missiles to wound ourselves. By choosing to internalize the notion that ‘good girls don’t sleep around’, we have allowed actions and words to trap us into obedience. While an active sexual appetite may or may not represent a woman’s liberation, it does tend to要紧 us... Acting out as an uninhibited woman makes us more vulnerable to name-calling, being ostracized, and raped. In other words, our standing with sexual expression becomes synonymous with our standing in society and how we will be treated.

So, during a time where our hormones are practically jumping out of our skins, we will work overtime to practice restraint. While our male counterparts deliver smooth lines to try to ‘bed’ us, we will remain vigilant in presenting our bodies with locked legs and inviting glances (after all, being too cold could end up in being called a ‘bitch,’ another label to avoid).

As women, we buy into and enforce the idea that to be respected, we must play by the rules and become a modern day Edith Bunker: simple, ready to please, and almost asexual in a 1950’s motherly icon kind of way. Or perhaps, more true to our times, we could aspire to become a Colista Rockhart, with all the balls of a lawyer ready to stand up for her clients, but never really enough to stand up for herself. Giving young women the mixed message that it is all right to have a strong personality at the job...just don’t bring it home.

Labels are indelibly tied to our persona. No matter how strong of an individual we are, we will be affected by how other people view us. How hard is it to maintain a high sense of self-esteem when everyone around you refers to you as “the slut”, and how easy is it to fall into a preordained role? This is a part of our life where we grow into our true selves, outside of our parent’s wishes, beyond the roles we ourselves have constructed out of fear during those unbearable young teenage years. We can now choose to become women and accept each other for who we are, or we can continue to build up boundaries within ourselves and between each other. The choice is ours.

By Jessica Custer
Staff Writer

The chief glory of a woman is not to be talked of, said Pericles, himself a much-talked-of man. — Virginia Woolf

A Room of One’s Own

Philip Emeagwali

Philip Emeagwali was born in 1954 and was raised in the town of Onitsha, located in SouthEastern Nigeria. Dubbed “Calculus” by schoolmates, Emeagwali, at age 14, had mastered the subject, and could out-calculate his instructors. Then a crisis struck. He had to drop out of school because his family could not afford to send all eight children. But he continued studying on his own, and got a general certificate of education from the University of London.

At the age of 17, he was awarded a full scholarship to Oregon State University, where he majored in math. Upon graduation, he attended George Washington University and was awarded two engineering Master’s degrees: one was in civil engineering, the other in marine engineering, and the last was a Master’s in Mathematics from the University of Maryland. He later achieved his doctorate from the University of Michigan in civil engineering.

Emeagwali designed the system of parallel computers that are used by all search engines. Yahoo.com or Search.com are examples of these. But the achievement that warranted Emeagwali the most praise was The Connection Machine. The Connection Machine utilizes 65,000 computers linked in parallel to form the fastest computer on Earth. This computer can perform 3.1 billion calculations per second. This is faster than the theoretical top speed of the Cray Supercomputer. The Connection Machine, with a program developed by Philip Emeagwali, solved a 350-year-old packing problem that was considered to be one of the great-unsolved mathemati-cal problems.

The Connection Machine and Mr. Emeagwali also designed equations to explain how sperm swim, how polluted groundwater flows, how the Earth’s interior moves and causes volcanic eruptions, and finally, how to recover petroleum safer and in larger quantities.

In 1989, Philip Emeagwali won the Gordon Bell Prize for his work on The Connection Machine.

By Wittel Fanfan

Philip Emeagwali

Who is the “Bill Gates of Africa”?

This Week’s Question:
Who is the “Bill Gates of Africa”?

Date: 9-29-01
Time: 2:00-5:00pm
BBQ (BLANTON-BOHN QUAD) EXTRAVAGANZA
COME AND ENJOY YOUR AFTERNOON WITH LOTS OF STUDENT SPONSORED TALENTS.

- Live Band
- Food
- Vendors
- Student sponsored tables
- Residence Life Staff struts their stuff on stage (Maybe its your RA)

STICK AROUND FOR AN UNFORGETTABLE EVENT!!!
Connections For The Future
Internship Provides Female With Experience in Family Court

By Anne Marie Rossetti
Special to The Montclarion

Over the past four months, I have experienced much more in reference to family law than I have ever before. No, I have not been in any family disputes that have led me to a court battle. I have been an intern for the Family Division of the Superior Court of New Jersey in Bergen County. It has been quite an experience.

I am currently a senior in the Human Ecology major with a concentration in Family and Child Studies. As one of the last requirements for my concentration, I enrolled in the Cooperative Education Program. This program provided me with complete information on the important tips on how to land the knowledge I acquired when I began the process of interviewing and other actions I was considering, I eagerly accepted.

When the semester began, I started work at the courthouse. I have sat in on domestic violence proceedings, including counseling-trials and child support hearings, which allowed me to understand exactly how child support is determined. I have seen juvenile court in which children, as young as eight, are committing crimes you would never have thought possible at that age. I have interviewed supervisors and team leaders who gladly and helpfully explained the proceedings I observed in the court.

I feel I have gained something more significant than just information. This internship has taught me what it is like to have a full-time job with all of the responsibilities of the "real world". It taught me how to act professionally in my words and my actions, and I showed me what it is to work in compliance with others. Finally, it gave me a better understanding of what I would like to do with my life. Interning for the family division has sparked an interest I did not know was there. It showed me that there is a need for people like me who are interested in the way families work and how they function in the legal system. I have even given some consideration to studying law. Without this internship I never would have discovered I was so interested in this issue.

At first, I fulfilled the requirement of an internship because it was just that: a requirement. I am very happy to have had this experience. I knew that it was well worth my while when my traveling to Hackensack each day went from an obligation for credits to the dedication of learning more. I would recommend participating in the Cooperative Education Program to other students whether it is a requirement or not. It has proved to be a valuable experience for me.

EGG DONORS NEEDED!!!

THE NORTH JERSEY CENTER FOR REPRODUCTIVE ENDOCRINOLOGY AND FERTILITY CENTER IS SEEKING EGG DONORS OF ALL ETHNIC BACKGROUNDS BETWEEN THE AGES OF 21-32.

AS AN EGG DONOR, YOU CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE AND MAKE A GIFT OF LIFE - TO A CHILD THAT THEY DREAMED OF HAVING.

RESIDENTS OF NEW JERSEY ONLY. EACH CANDIDATE NEEDS TO SEND A PICUTURE WITH THEIR NAME ON IT, ADDRESS AND DAY-TIME PHONE NUMBER.

AFTER THE DONOR HAS COMPLETED AN EGG DONOR CYCLE, THEY WILL BE COMPENSATED $5,000.00.

For more information on our egg donor program call (973) 470-0303 and ask for one of our Nurses.

North Jersey Center For Reproductive Endocrinology And Fertility

EGG DONORS NEEDED!!!

THE NORTH JERSEY CENTER FOR REPRODUCTIVE ENDOCRINOLOGY AND FERTILITY CENTER IS SEEKING EGG DONORS OF ALL ETHNIC BACKGROUNDS BETWEEN THE AGES OF 21-32.

AS AN EGG DONOR, YOU CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE AND MAKE A GIFT OF LIFE - A CHILD THAT THEY DREAMED OF HAVING.

RESIDENTS OF NEW JERSEY ONLY. EACH CANDIDATE NEEDS TO SEND A PICTURE WITH THEIR NAME ON IT, ADDRESS AND DAY-TIME PHONE NUMBER.

AFTER THE DONOR HAS COMPLETED AN EGG DONOR CYCLE, THEY WILL BE COMPENSATED $5,000.00.

For more information on our egg donor program call (973) 470-0303 and ask for one of our Nurses.
Everyone has a question to ask or a problem to raise when it comes to the safety and security of this campus. Whether it is about a party that got out of hand last week or a complaint about an action done if an RA finds alcohol in a resident's room, there is always something to be answered.

This is exactly what officer Paul Giardino did in last Thursday's General Safety Meeting, fulfilling the "education" portion of University Police's new slogan: "ESP - Education, Service and Protection.

The event took place in Freeman lounge. It was organized by Phi Beta Sigma, Phi Sigma Pi, Lambda Theta Alpha Sororities and Sigma Phi Sigma Fraternities and Mu Sigma Upsilon and Lambda Theta Alpha Fraternity. The Office of Residence Life provided a forum in which students could voice any question or concern about safety rules both on and off campus.

"The purpose of this event is that you, the student body, have an opportunity to ask general campus issue questions about fires, theft, assault or anything else," said William Brown, Secretary of Sigma Phi Sigma and Phi Beta Sigma. Following Brown's opening statements, Giardino introduced himself by explaining that his role as a police officer was "to make (a student's) life hard," but simply to protect them.

After distributing information pamphlets about the basic functions of MSU's University Police to those attending, Giardino opened the floor for questions for the remainder of the event.

With tensions still high following the fight that took place out at the Student Center during last week's party, questions about what occurred at the party as well as complaints regarding the proper procedures during such a fight, quickly dominated.

Giardino responded to questions that ranged from whether it is normal policy to call on outside police forces in all fight situations, to what could have been done to prevent the fight.

"As a policy, it's not a preventable occurrence," explained Giardino.

"At these parties, while it's a good social event, people tend to get liquored up first, and then you've got a problem from the start. Maybe some people need to rethink the format of these parties."

Students, among them Desk Assistants, continued to complain that they were ordered not to allow residents enter their own Residence Halls, which they claimed both puts them in danger and raises tensions even further.

Giardino informed the students that if that if this protocol is of concern to them, the best course of action would be to bring the issue up with University Police, and that it would be addressed.

Other questions continued to be raised throughout the event, among them the procedure is when being caught with drugs or alcohol in a residence hall and how the police escorts work on campus.

To conclude the event, pamphlets discussing hate crimes were distributed, addressing the recent assaults on innocent people who appear to be ethnically or religiously threatened on this campus.

"In light of all the recent tensions involving people from the Middle East, there are students who feel threatened on this campus," said Giardino.

"Just because people's skin tone makes them seem to be from the Middle East, doesn't mean they hand anything to do with what happened. People being assaulted is unacceptable, with or without the World Trade Center.

Those who organized the event agreed that more events of this sort should take place.

"I think things like this should be held more than once a semester, especially when things happen like the fight that broke out or everything going on with the World Trade," said Damon Newman, President of Phi Beta Sigma.

"I think that the campus needs to know the specifics of the safety on this campus."

Members of the several sororities and fraternities that helped organize the event pose with Officer Paul Giardino after he responds to questions posed by MSU students.
Managing Stress After Tragedy

Ways to Help Yourself and Others in the Presence of Recent Events

- Engage in healthy behaviors such as eating well, getting enough sleep and exercising. Pursue hobbies or other enjoyable activities.
- Try not to make big life changes or decisions. It is easy to make a bad decision during stressful times.

HOW TO HELP OTHERS

Many times there is apprehension and self-doubt when reaching out to others during a time of trauma. Yet, there are many helpful things one can do:

- Take some type of action whether it is a phone call, a card or a hug.
- Help them with practical matters to get through their day.
- Be available to them. Be a good listener. Let them express their feelings.
- Avoid telling them that you know what they are experiencing.
- Don’t minimize their sense of loss or be afraid to talk about the loss.
- Allow the person to grieve for as long as needed. If they appear to need more assistance, try to help them in getting professional help.

NORMAL RESPONSES TO TRAUMA

The initial responses that people experience after a traumatic event are shock, confusion and denial. Following such a traumatic event, it is common for people to experience very strong emotional and even physical reactions. Understanding our responses to these abnormal events is essential for coping with our feelings and helping us along the path to recovery.

There is a sense of being dazed, numb and even disconnected from the situation. These reactions actually protect us and allow time to process what has happened. Once the immediate shock has passed, there are a number of different reactions that people may experience:

- Irritability, agitation and mood swings which can be accompanied by anxiety and depression.
- Inverse fear and vivid memories of the event, flashbacks or nightmares.
- Difficulty concentrating, making decisions or feelings of disorientation.
- Changes in sleep and eating patterns.
- Strained personal relationships and increased arguing.
- Withdrawing and avoiding usual activities.
- People may also experience physical distress such as:
  - Fatigue and exhaustion
  - Headaches
  - Upset Stomach
  - Chills, rapid heartbeat and sweating

It a person starts to experience difficulty breathing, chest pains or other physical problems, it is crucial to seek immediate medical attention.

Many people will have an immediate response that eases over time. Others will have more delayed and reactions.

HOW TO HELP YOURSELF

There are many steps you can take to restore a sense of control and followiing a traumatic experience including:

- Remember that you are experiencing normal reactions to an abnormal event. Accept that this will be a challenging time and let you mourn. If possible, try to limit the amount of news coverage you are viewing, since viewing gory destruction can result in greater trauma.
- Share your feelings and reactions. Get support from others. Communicate your experience with family and friends and work on processing the information together.

There are many steps you can take to restore a sense of control and following a traumatic experience including:

- Share your feelings and reactions. Get support from others. Communicate your experience with family and friends and work on processing the information together.

There are many steps you can take to restore a sense of control and following a traumatic experience including:

- Share your feelings and reactions. Get support from others. Communicate your experience with family and friends and work on processing the information together.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>OCTOBER EVENTS CALENDAR</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Sun</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>---</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

*Information in this calendar was compiled by the Office of Student Activities. For further information, please contact Rick Brown at x4404.
Homecoming 2001

"It's Time..."

Brought to you by your good friends at C.L.U.B.

Monday
- Pedestal Joust
- Hi Striker
11 am-3 pm Student Center Quad
- King & Queen Talent Show
8 pm Student Center Ballrooms
Voting to follow Talent Show

Tuesday
- Human Gyro
- Mini Golf
- Wax Hands
11am-3pm Student Center Quad
- Karaoke 9pm in the Ratt
Voting 12-4 in the SC Lobby

Wednesday
- Foam Party
8 pm Student Center Ballrooms
- Announcement of Top 5
King & Queen Finalists
Voting 12-4 in the SC Lobby

Thursday
- Human Bowling
11am-3pm Student Center Quad
- Game show
8 pm Blanton Atrium Voting 12-4 in SC Lobby and during Game Show

Friday
- Sleep Late
- Float building
8:30 pm-2:30 am
Parking Lots 22 & 23
- Class One Concerts Show
10 pm Parking Lots
- Get ready...it's time...

Saturday
- Parade
11 am- 2 pm Valley Road
- Veteran's Event
SC Ballrooms
- Football Game vs. Kean
7 pm Sprague Field
- Fireworks!!
- Announcement of King &
Queen and Parade Winners!

C.L.U.B. is a Class One Organization of the SGA, Inc.
Artists and Actors Unite to Commemorate

By James Topoleski
Assistant Arts Editor

"Rise up, come on rise up..."

September 27, 2001

The Montclarion

S

Bruce Springsteen and members of the E-Street band as "America - A Tribute to Heroes" began the telethon on Friday night. The telethon quickly thrown together to raise money for the relief effort going on in New York City and Washington DC brought celebrities from all over to sing and tell stories of heroism, sacrifice, struggle, and strength.

Carried on almost every TV station across the country and broadcast to over 100 countries around the world, the show attracted over 59 million viewers on what normally would be the worst TV night of the week. Although still unknown as of Friday night how much money would be raised, the $70 million dollars raised was raised in the two hour uninterrupted event.

The Telethon brought celebrities from both coasts and beyond to perform, speak, and answer phones. All the celebrities donated their time in the order to accommodate for the still noticeable problem of traveling by plane and were un-billed on TV. Many were asked last minute to contribute, dropping everything to show up. In order to accommodate for the still noticeable problem of traveling by plane, by air studios were set up on both the East and West coast as well as in London. Each studio was without an audience and dimly lit by candles all over, the only audience came from stars from there to answer the phones. Stars like Al Pacino, Whoopie Goldberg and Selma Hayek.

Opening up with Springsteen's "My City of Ruins," Musicians performed songs of sorrow and hope with stories recited by celebrities like Tom Hanks, and George Clooney in between. Stories like the passengers who overpowered the hijackers on the flight that went down outside of Pittsburgh, or the NYPD officer who had just retired the day before and was finishing up paperwork when the call came in that the World Trade Towers had been hit. Without thinking he went with the officers to rescue people in the buildings. He never made it out alive.

Some memorable musical performances came from Paul Simon, Alicia Keys, U2, and Neil Young. Young performed John Lennon's "Imagine" in the candle lit studio. Members of the Goo Goo Dolls and Limp Bizkit joined together to play Pink Floyd's "Wish You Were Here." Fred Durst wearing his New York Yankees cap. All the songs spread out, underlining the tragic nature in which this program was put together.

Some of the more surprising musician's to show up where Celine Dion, Pearl Jam's Eddie Vedder, and Mariah Carrie who performed for the first time since her much publicized break down after working on the movie "Glitter." Fittingly, she performed "Hero" though noticeably without her trademark octave changes.

Other surprises came when Will Smith's "I'm Just a Friend" was performed in the movie of the same name that should be out this winter. All of the performers joined in at the end in a sing along of "America the Beautiful." Led by country great Willie Nelson, they sang through all of the verses some showing happiness for the first time since the show started. In the end, the feel of the show was not of celebrity tributes we have heard in the past. This wasn't "Live Aid," or "We Are the World." This show more was much, with much less. A true feeling of hope after what we will probably go down in history as a time worse than Pearl Harbor. You being to feel at the end that we really will "rise up," again.

"...that has started to really will "rise up" again"

Bruce Springsteen was one of many musical guests who performed heartfelt renditions of original and cover songs dedicated to the tragedy.

part one of a four part story

By Chris Unstadler
Staff Writer

Friday, 3:20 P.M.

I sat there in class, rolling my eyes. My behavioral sciences teacher was launching off on this now familiar rant- how invalid is a paranoid schizophrenic, and why do all people instantly doubt whatever they say as paranoid and why do all people in the buildings. He never made it out alive

Some memorable musical performances came from Paul Simon, Alicia Keys, U2, and Neil Young. Young performed John Lennon's "Imagine" in the candle lit studio. Members of the Goo Goo Dolls and Limp Bizkit joined together to play Pink Floyd's "Wish You Were Here." Fred Durst wearing his New York Yankee cap. All the songs spread out, underlining the tragic nature in which this program was put together.

Some of the more surprising musician's to show up where Celine Dion, Pearl Jam's Eddie Vedder, and Mariah Carrie who performed for the first time since her much publicized break down after working on the movie "Glitter." Fittingly, she performed "Hero" though noticeably without her trademark octave changes.

Other surprises came when Will Smith's "I'm Just a Friend" was performed in the movie of the same name that should be out this winter. All of the performers joined in at the end in a sing along of "America the Beautiful." Led by country great Willie Nelson, they sang through all of the verses some showing happiness for the first time since the show started. In the end, the feel of the show was not of celebrity tributes we have heard in the past. This wasn't "Live Aid," or "We Are the World." This was much more, with much less. A true feeling of hope after what we will probably go down in history as a time worse than Pearl Harbor. You being to feel at the end that we really will "rise up," again.

"...that has started to really will "rise up" again"

Bruce Springsteen was one of many musical guests who performed heartfelt renditions of original and cover songs dedicated to the tragedy.

part one of a four part story

By Chris Unstadler
Staff Writer

Friday, 3:20 P.M.

I sat there in class, rolling my eyes. My behavioral sciences teacher was launching off on this now familiar rant- how invalid is a paranoid schizophrenic, and why do all people instantly doubt whatever they say as excessively lame rants?

Personally I thought that the subject deserves no more than a moment's attention. It certainly is a defensible position- like most animals, people should and in most cases do have an innate sensory perception involving danger. It is believed to be not as sharpened as the animals, but is nonetheless there. Maybe all that a percentage of paranoid people out there are merely suffering from is a highly developed sense of danger.

I raised my hand lethargically, interested rapidly ebbing from the subject. Doing this, I was something to add to the subject, Mr. Kenzel? God, he was calling me by my last name. I hated that.

"I don't think that's true, Dr. Speco"
Dysfunctional Family Picnic
92.3 FM Hosts Rock Concert at Jones Beach

By Nicole Padilla
Staff Writer

Staff Writer

Suns, Sweats, and Swearing. Add in midgets, tall naked strippers, and some of today's best hard rock acts and you have the Dysfunctional Family Picnic,
in its fifth year, the DFP is going strong, and is a top draw for K-ROCK (98.7). Amongst the requisite over priced food and water stands, was a small stage with DJ's spinning techno while the masses milled around in search of sustenance. There was also an area set aside for vendors of clothing, free samples of various sport drinks, even a recruiting booth for the Marine Corp, and the anti-smoking nazi's "The Truth" that had a prime location for spuing their propaganda.
The beach Amphitheater is a great spot to catch a show such as this, being right on the water, with awesomely clear views of where you sit. With the line up DFP had, not missing a single second would be impossible. Adema kicked off the show in the early June evening. Before anything hard rock could "Give In," they played a half hour set that left me not knowing what titled release. Little known fact: Singer Mark Chavez is also the half-brother of Jonathan Davis from Korn.
Crappy Town, known as the band that got kicked off last years Ozz Fest line up for parodying too hard, performed their special blend of hip hop and hard rock with songs like "Revolving Door," and
"Lollipop Porn" from their 1999 album The Gift of Games.
Disturbed breathed new life into the hard rock scene with their debut album The Sickness. They performed many songs from The Sickness, including "Voices" and "Stupify." Mississippi roc-kers 3 Doors Down brought the working class flavor to the event with their set of down to earth and roll. They are best known for "Kryptonite," " Wolverines" and "Be Like That." Lead singer Brad Arnold even gave a thank you to his former math professor at the University of Mississippi. Arnold had written the song "Kryptonite" while bored in his class. Linkin Park, is a great example of the fluidity that exists between hard rock, electronica and hip-hop.
Styletically, few bands can match their multi-layered sound. Their set covered all of the tracks on their early 2000 release Hybrid Theory, which such radio favorites as "One Step Closer." "In the End," and "Crawling." Brash and Poppo Roach, has been touring non-stop for the last year and a half, including the Warped Tour last summer and dates on this years Ozz Fest.
Their set included "Last Resort." the anger side" that was an unbeli-vable "pinch me" moment.
Now, if there was a band that just did not seem to fit into the line-up, it was Blink-182. Did that bother them? Absolutely not.
A mongst all the hard rock variations, their blend of so Cal Pop Punk really stood out. So Cal Punk stockings and heels rings. Complete with blond wig, make up, scarily large sunglasses, a hot pink tank top,
black shorts, stockings and dresses. Their set was too short, but it was absolutely worth it. Making their entrance all together, the more spectacular, they were introduced by none other then Howard Stern himselt. With their usual banter of potty mouthed toilet humor, Blink-182 rocked out to new tunes from their recently released Take Off Your Pants and Jacket like "Roller Coaster" and "First Date" as well as the older tunes like "Dammit," "A Shot at Love," and
"All the Small Things," and
"What's My Age Again?" Blink-182 ended their set with a display of pyrotechnics, fireworks, and concerts against the moon lit sky. A last minute addition to the d_FP line-up, Stone Temple Pilots had everyone on his or her feet. Promoting their new album Shangri-La Door Do, they flew in for a fivesong set that had everyone thrusting for more. Singer Scott Weiland appeared on tage in full drag, dressed as "Hedwig," the main char-aracter of an indie film called
"Hedwig and the Angry Inch. Complete with blond wig, make up, scarily large
sunglasses, a hot pink tank top,
black shorts, stockings and
dresses. Their set was too short, but it was absolutely worth it. Making
their entrance all at once. Though the set was short, it defiantly captured everyone's attention. STP performed "Dead and Bloated." "Vaseline," "Days of the Week," "Down" and "Sex Type Thing." To top off the night, there was a return of the original line-up of Jane's Addiction.
Big ego's aside, Perry Ferrell and Dave Navarro reunited with Eric Avery and Stephen Perkins for the first time since the late 90's. They got together, and brought the crowd down with "Mountain Song," "Been Caught Stearin-g," and "Jane Says." The Dysfunctional Family
Picnic was a fantastic show.
But it makes one wonder what K-Rock has up their sleeve for next year.

Warped Tour 2001: Sold-out Show Proves Punk Alive and Swell

By Rachel Herman
Staff Writer

This year at Warped Tour
there was something for everyone to see. In fact, it was said out.
Young adults were standing around the fence of hopes and dreams, eager to receive a ticket. There were four stages. Two main stages and two smaller ones. My friends and I mainly stuck to the two main stages and the stage known as the Viacom. Around four o'clock, we stood right in the middle of the pit, in anticipation of seeing Less Than Jake.
This would be the first time seeing them live. If you like Less Than Jake, this is the performance you didn't want to miss. They played for about an hour, absolutely the best band that I saw at warped tour. The energy from the band and from the audience was amazing. My rating 10.0
After Less than Jake played on the same stage, Papa Roach took the stage. Their new album has been a bit more popular than some of their other works, which made me kind of worried about seeing them. My friends and I were glad that they played more songs from their older album than their newer one. My rating 5.5
Me First and the Gimmie Gimmies were up next. I didn't know too much about them except that they were great to see. Nothing special but it was good. My rating
5.0
The next band that I saw were the Impossibles.
Although I previously have never heard of them before,
I took a listen, and they are pretty good. For anyone else who does not have seen them or heard of them before, be on the look out. My rating 8.0
Tours '01

Ozzfest:
The Grand Day of All Metal Concerts

By Elizabeth Moliński
Staff Writer

Thousands of metal fans of all ages, races, and walks of life gathered in Camden for one of the stops of Ozzfest. The annual tour kicked off in 1996 and created by none other than Ozzy Osbourne. Endless vendors sold everything from body jewelry to hippie clothes and empty tins used for the sunnyway concert-goer. Everyone was out for this, from the morons in the Slipknot jump suits to girls in LBD jeans and Tommy shirts to the old-school Goths kids. Sometimes it seemed like the parents had dragged the young ones to the show. People watching was entertaining, indeed.

Despite the deceptive name, the second stage was where the first performances of the day were and was actually two stages that alternated performances. The music here was lighter, featuring bands over and over again, just with different names. While the main stage performances in the amount of make-up. It all just blended together after the first band or two. One band did stand out among the muck of 14-year-olds and meatheads. Beautiful Creatures was like a breath of fresh air. They had an old-school 70's rock sound and no rapcore, no screaming, and no scratching of a DJ. Now there's something you don't hear everyday.

Eventually the silliness ended and the main stage festivities began. First up was Zak Wylde's Black Label Society. The ex-Ozzy guitarist deserved a much higher billing and was certainly one of the acts that made the price of the ticket worth it. It was like being at an 80's metal show with less make-up and still screaming and more of a southern metal feel. Crazy Town was the most its eight O'clock and the night is winding down. We have a choice. Pennysive or Rancid. I had wanted to see both of them, but we were playing on both the main stages, I picked to see Rancid. It took Pennysive three or four songs before everyone could really start to get in to it. It was amazing once they played some of their more well-known songs. My rating

9.0

The Vandals were the last band of the night, and there was promise of fireworks display. Again one of the better bands of Warped Tour during this festival, this band is definitely worth seeing. They played perfectly, what a way to end the end of the night. My rating

Although people thought perhaps was sponsorizing Warped Tour II it was going to become majorly commericialized. In some ways yes, it is commercialized because a major corporation is sponsoring the show, but on the other hand, the tickets were $25 dollars; not bad at all. The one only thing you fight on this deal is ticket master for all their insane over prices. Most of the bands that were at Warped Tour had their own booth selling merchandise, which was very reasonably priced. The only thing was that was horrible of Warped Tour was that the bottle of waters cost $4 dollars plus a tip, and there were more port-a-johns than garbage cans, by the end of the night the place was a mess.

As a whole, Warped Tour was definitely something that you shouldn't have missed.
Cyberlife

The Internet Surfer’s Music Fix

Bylamés Topoleski
Assistant Arts Editor

Ever since the web came to be seen as a way for people to communicate, music has found a place to thrive. Almost every band out there has a website, and all labels, major or indie, have a site where you can sample their artists. Almost every fan club of yore, these sites give into on the bands and some for a price; give you special access to certain Areas with pics and music. And there are many fans out there with sites that rival even the bands’ sites.

What if you don’t want to look at just one band, or you want to find an up and coming one? Enter the labels and bands do.

Almost like the fan club of yore, these sites store their radio setup an arm of the respective channels, has the latest browsers (as of this writing it still can’t run on Microkatchn7’s. even overuse flash animation and are very scattered and disjointed (much like in the way of commerical own them both. While I am not much in the fetish of bands, why I want to throw the bottles at the band when they bite (unless they are both trying to make money from

The Internet Surfer’s Music Fix

Bylamés Topoleski
Assistant Arts Editor

Ever since the web came to be seen as a way for people to communicate, music has found a place to thrive. Almost every band out there has a website, and all labels, major or indie, have a site where you can sample their artists. Almost every fan club of yore, these sites give into on the bands and some for a price; give you special access to certain Areas with pics and music. And there are many fans out there with sites that rival even the bands’ sites.

What if you don’t want to look at just one band, or you want to find an up and coming one? Enter the labels and bands do.

Almost like the fan club of yore, these sites store their radio setup an arm of the respective channels, has the latest browsers (as of this writing it still can’t run on Microkatchn7’s. even overuse flash animation and are very scattered and disjointed (much like in the way of commerical own them both. While I am not much in the fetish of bands, why I want to throw the bottles at the band when they bite (unless they are both trying to make money from

The Internet Surfer’s Music Fix

Bylamés Topoleski
Assistant Arts Editor

Visit the Sound of Music Fix, a wealth of info for users, including pleasant on the eyes) both sites have of all their works.

Another up and coming feature of most of the sites is Internet radio, I first wrote about Internet radio in my Live365 column and while some sites like Kerbango, have since died, many have flourished and come of age on the net. Internet Radio for those who don’t know is a way for a major label music to be played over the net via MP3, but without the legal risks. The latest “finding MP3” is a website using a web that allows only the owner retains the MP3’s not the people listening to the site. While some legal challenges still remain by the major labels, they continue on with no attempts at an injunction to shut down being made by the labels.

All sites pretty much need the latest browsers and decent Internet connections (ISDN or better) to make use of all the features.

Live365 (www.live365.com) Reviewed last year and winner of this year’s People’s Voice Award at the Webby’s. This site has to be one of the coolest for web broadcasted radio stations. With such a wide range of both personal and commercial radio broadcasts, you can really find more than one radio station you like. Even better, for all those aspiring DJ’s out there, it gives you easy to follow directions on how you can start your own station. Best of all, it’s free. It does require some sort of an Internet radio player, a downloadable selection of which it has for most OS’s.

Spunk7? (www.spunk7.com) - Webby Award Winner Spunk7 is MTV.com for the indie and unsigned set. While having not only radio fed., but video as well, it is the best place to find all of the up and coming artists on one site. It also has reviews and info on films, though it tends to have more indie and anime releases.

MTV.com/VH1.com (www.mtv.com, www.vh1.com) You may wonder why I am including these two sites in the same section. My reasons are they are very similar in content, not much of a surprise since the same company owns them both. While I am not much of a fan of either site, they are worth mentioning. As you would think, they both are pretty much an arm of the respective channels, MTV’s catering to the TRL and MTV2 set, and VH1’s to their shows. Both have articles and interviews, are not at all bad in their content. So why don’t I like them, you ask. Simply put, their layout SUCKS! They both overuse flash animation and are very scattered and disjointed (much like the channels themselves) there are searches on their sites and if you are looking for something specific

Cyndy Lauper, Dave Matthews, Lou Reed, Marc Anthony, Moby, Nelly Furtado, Shelby Lynne, Stone Temple Pilots, and Lanie Kazan: Radio City Music Hall

The Butches: NYU

Wednesday, October 3

Jade: Five for Fighting: Bowery Ballroom

“Metallicum” featuring Donnest Hour, Dimmu Borgir, God Forbid, Lamb of God, Napalm Death, Six Feet Under and Willowey: The World

So What’s Up Tigerify?

Hey, are you in a band? Or perhaps you work at a cool place that has a special event coming up soon off campus. Or maybe your brass ensemble is performing over in McEnihan Hall. Whatever the case is, if you’re looking for something related to the arts, we can list it here.

Tigerify only lists events for that week (from the Thursday we come out to the following Wednesday). For your event to get listed, it must reach us by the Tuesday before we come out. Be sure to include the name of the event (who’s performing) where it’s being held, a contact number for readers to get more information on the event, and the exact date happening.

Send all information to the following e-mail address: msuarts@hotmail.com

Theater Openings

The Robber Bridgework: 12 Miles West Theatre, Montclair, NJ. Running from Thursday Sept. 27 until Saturday Oct. 20. Thursdays thru Saturdays at 8 p.m., Sundays at 3 p.m.

The Robber Bridgework: 12 Miles West Theatre, Montclair, NJ. Running from Thursday Sept. 27 until Saturday Oct. 20. Thursdays thru Saturdays at 8 p.m., Sundays at 3 p.m.

The Robber Bridgework: 12 Miles West Theatre, Montclair, NJ. Running from Thursday Sept. 27 until Saturday Oct. 20. Thursdays thru Saturdays at 8 p.m., Sundays at 3 p.m.
A deeper question pulled at my mind defiant disorder, and/or mild autism.
cial personality disorder, oppositional...it would be well received in class- it would be ing... would such an interview be where... they watch... they know... mental disorders, probably including unique, and certainly the individual left. I rubbed my neck slowly, think­ can't let them find me...."
brief phrases he was mumbling in origin. As he walked past I heard bus stop, reeking of week-old scofch bus shelter as a bum, the one that ping ca rt e ch o e d  hollowly in the wondering idly where I could locate being a tta c k e d ... this indivi d u a l put under the microscope without valid guinea pig to interview and shoulders loosely at the bus stop,
I tried not to grin bitterly as I picked Caram el-colored teeth borne in a hopped back two steps when he heard me or was just pretending no ments and unsure, clothy stitched gar­ cought sight of the
do w n and stared a t his hands...
what may happen. Now if you'll let me get the tape recorder out..."
Almost do ty pically to mask my contem pt and sarcasm mood before you make it and by the time know they're there.

66 THEY'RE EVERYWHERE, THEY HEAR YOU, THEY SEE EVERY MOVE ONLY THEY KNOW IT BEFORE YOU

Ted: Calm down, calm down. How did you find out that "they" were following you?

Ted: Relax, damn it! There's no one following you, or tagging you, or keeping tabs on you. It's all in your head!

Ted: You don't know what? You know what they're up to?

Ted: Calm down now, just calm down. Do you suffer from narco­ lepsy, obsessive-compulsive disorder, or any to...

Ted: Don't let your guard down or they'll get you when you don't know and you know what they're up to. They get you don't you?

Ted: Relax, damn it! There's no one following you, or tagg­ing you, or keeping tabs on you. It's all in your head!

Ted: If it'll really make you more

Ted: Calm down, calm down. Do you suffer from narco­ lepsy, obsessive-compulsive disorder, or any to...

Ted: Don't let your guard down or they'll get you when you don't know and you know what they're up to. They get you don't you?

Ted: Relax, damn it! There's no one following you, or tagg­ing you, or keeping tabs on you. It's all in your head!

Ted: I almost burst into laughter, but I managed to choke the rufiousness down before I was just pretending no
out loud. "Absolutely, sir. I compre­ end in full the consequences of may happen. Here's what I'll do... me get the tape recorder out..."
spun my backpack off my shoulders
and began to unplug it.
"NO!" He shouted, and shot
his hand out. He squeezed my wrists slightly, and I got a vague idea of how powerful this bum was - he had a healthy grip on my arm, and he proceeded to let it go for a short while
down and stared at his hands...
something about his hands were unsettling...
something I couldn't put
my finger on...
"We can't do this here. It's not safe they're everywhere and if they find out I'm here you can't tellan­ anything worthwhile..." he rambled, starting calmly but losing what little poise he had in a single sentence. His chest was heaving at the end of his statement, and I didn't want him dying of a heart attack, so I decided to humor him.
"Okay, I said in as convincing
an understanding tone as I could must. "If it'll really make you more comfortable, we'll conduct this interview in a secure location." I tried to mask my contempt and sarcasm
as tightly as possible.
To my satisfaction, he simply nodded and began repeating- "I know a good place, I know a good place I know a good place...
With that, he began running down the street in an awkward half­
run, half-sluffle, leaving his shopping cart full of possessions behind.

Bum: You'll know soon. They're after you now.

Not what I'd call a successful first session, I thought. I was lying on my bed, playing the cassette back on my sound system. I rubbed my temples thoughtfully. The burn wasn't really exhibiting signs of any other mental instability aside from horrendous paranoia, and even more to the point, unfounded paranoia.
I couldn't recall the details over and over again.
no. I took a spill to the ground,
I almost burst into laughter, but
I managed to choke the rufi­
ousness down before I was just pretending no
out loud. "Absolutely, sir. I compre­ end in full the consequences of
may happen. Here's what I'll do... me get the tape recorder out..."
spun my backpack off my shoulders
and began to unplug it.
"NO!" He shouted, and shot
his hand out. He squeezed my wrists
slightly, and I got a vague idea of how powerful this bum was - he had a
healthy grip on my arm, and he proceeded to let it go for a short while
down and stared at his hands...
something about his hands were
unsettling...
something I couldn't put
my finger on...
"We can't do this here. It's not safe they're everywhere and if they find out I'm here you can't tellan­
anything worthwhile..." he ramb­
led, starting calmly but losing what
little poise he had in a single sentence. His chest was heaving at the end of his statement, and I didn't want him dying of a heart attack, so I decided to humor him.
"Okay, I said in as convincing
an understanding tone as I could must. "If it'll really make you more comfortable, we'll conduct this interview in a secure location." I tried to mask my contempt and sarcasm
as tightly as possible.
To my satisfaction, he simply nodded and began repeating- "I know a good place, I know a
good place I know a good place...
With that, he began running
down the street in an awkward half­
run, half-sluffle, leaving his shopping
cart full of possessions behind.

Bum: The place is good, this place is good, they can't hear here, and they can't, they can't.

Ted: Hello, this is Theodore Kenzel, concluding a tape-recorded interview of a homeless person on a potential conspiracy that takes place right under our noses. For the comfort of the homeless person, we are conducting this interview in the case of a construction site.

Bum: Humel metal poles, huge metal poles scrape the sounds,
The Montclarion
September 27, 2001

MSU Changes: For Better or Worse?

The addition of the Red Hawk Diner to Food Services, along with the changes to the parking patterns that have come with the arrival of Standard Parking to campus, are perhaps the two largest and most visible changes to land on MSU this fall semester. The question is, with a diner as yet unable to be eaten in and parking problems as yet unsolved, are these changes for better or for worse?

This is a complicated question, with the two issues being somewhat intertwined: Not only has the addition of the diner equaled the subtraction of parking spaces, its construction has at times further complicated the flow of traffic. Despite the interweaving of these issues, a fair assessment should at least begin by taking a look at them individually.

The Diner: promised to hit campus at the start of the semester, it of course is still only window dressing on the University. Kevin Rakowsky of Auxiliary Enterprises gives the events in New York City as a reason why a grand opening celebration would be inappropriate right now, but given President Cole's statements to the effect that the University should not shut down, and that we should, as possible, resume normal activity, it can be inferred that World Trade Centers intact or not, the diner was not going to open on time.

There are other issues here also. Who will eat at this diner once opened? Yogi Berra, maybe, but students with meal plans on budgets and Rt. 46 drivers with easier access to McDonalds? Perhaps not so much. That is an issue that will have to wait for the actual opening to have an answer, but we all do hope the answer turns out to be a good and successful one.

Parking. The perennial problem. The blissful summer of easily accessed parking spots has ended, and now begins the Fall of our discontent. Likely more has been written on this topic in The Montclarion than on any other three issues combined. Open an archived issue from the fifties and chances are you'll find something on the topic. From this a few things can be deduced: First, there is little that can be said on this that has not been said before. Second, no amount of assistance or analysis from an outside agency will be able to scratch the surface of the problem. It's a David and Goliath situation, but David's got no sling shot this time.

Right now, it appears that Parking Services may only have worsened the problem. Half an hour waiting times are standard for getting off campus at peak traffic hours, fees have been raised and equipment installed that causes further traffic just to get out of places like lot 14. Swiping in and out? If someone can get in without swiping, getting out will be equally effortless. Of course, there are the forms of assistance Parking Services will give to students automatically impaired, but look only to the letter in this issue concerning a student who locked his keys in his car to see how these vaunted services have worked so far. (To be fair though, a sample size of one does not make for an accurate appraisal of the job Parking Services has done so far in aiding students. The Montclarion invites letters of success stories to more accurately assess the situation).

Despite these previous comments, and towards the goal of putting pros beside the cons, Parking Services should be recognized for its efficiency in expediting parking pass requests and working towards and even better online application process. Also, while many may not like it, Parking Services and their personnel should greatly improve the efficacy of the ticketing system with the technology they have put in place. Ultimately though, this solves very little.

Let's put these minor details of the parking problem aside for a moment and with a verbal sword cut through this knot to the heart of the problem: Math. If it weren't for Math and its rules, we'd be able to fit as many cars in as few spaces as we wanted, but with Math around, it's one car per space. This means we need more spaces, a solution in progress. Once the much-hailed parking garage arrives on campus, Parking Services will have its sling shot and strike its blow. Until then, we're where we always were: whiny and frustrated.

Now we come back around to the question that prompted these ramblings: MSU improvements. Are they for better or for worse? The answer is both. For now we seem just a little worse for the hassle of enduring the process of change and inconvenience, but with time these woes will turn to betters. We need only have a little more patience and acknowledge that MSU is at least trying.

Montclarion Question of the Week:
Will you use the Red Hawk Diner once it has opened?
Log on to: www.themontclarion.com to submit your answer in seconds
Parking Services: Serving Who?

I was just one of those days. Things started bad and just got worse. I had managed to lock my keys in my car. We all have done it at some point, but why did today have to be my turn?

I had a job interview to get to, I first got in touch with the campus police but they explained to me that they no longer help students get into their cars. The reason for this was because students would complain that there was damage done to their cars and would sue. So much for that.

Campus police, trying to be as helpful as possible, told me to call Standard Parking. I was hopeful, remembering that I had heard that Standard would help students in a situation like this. So I gave them a call and I called for 40 minutes, but no one answered. I walked to Lot 24, the graduate assistant lot, knowing that there was a parking attendant there to see if he could help me.

"Could you help me, locked...he cut me off mid sentence. "I'm new, I don't know anything." I couldn't even call Standard Parking to make a complaint; nobody was there to make a complaint to.

On my way to class I ran into Vice President Karen Pennington, who offered to help, but after I explained my problem, she said there was nothing that she could really do at this point. She said that she would mention the problem to someone at the office of Security of the university to help me get into my car. I finally got into my car after someone brought me my extra set of keys from home.

Many people would say that this whole thing was my own fault and that I can't blame anyone except for myself. That may be true, but I thought maybe I could get a little help from those on campus who job it is to help students. Why are we paying $30 a year for parking and no one available to help?

---

Muslim Statement

In the Name of God the Most Merciful the Most Gracious

To Whom it May Concern:

In light of the truly tragic events that have recently occurred, the Arab and Muslim students of MSU, and of the entire area, would like to send their heartfelt condolences. From the first explosion we felt that this was in some way going to be labeled a Muslim, Palestinian, or Middle East­ern attack on the innocent people of the United States. Contrary to popular belief the aforementioned communities shared in the collective reaction of the students not associ­ated with the vil­lains of these acts. There seemed to be an overwhelming sense of fear, uncertainty, and anger at those responsible for these attacks from both Middle Easterners and Americans alike.

We understand that there is no excuse or justification for such disgusting displays of demonism that resulted in the loss of many lives. It is for this reason that we ask the people of MSU and its sur­rounding area to understand that we are in your shoes. Additionally, we ask the students of this institution for higher learning to use their better judgment and intelligence to realize that this act is not the responsibility of the students on this campus, nor do we condone or support this act in anyway. As American students ourselves we fear becoming the product of racial assault simply because we are in some way associ­ated with the villains who may have committed these crimes. We ask for your cooperation in making sure that such racial or religious discrimination does not occur.

By Moustafa Hazn, MSA Member

---

Montclarion Mailbag

Concern over Car Thefts

To the Editor:

I have been noticing a disturbing trend running rapidly through The Montclarion—stolen cars. My question is this: How is MSU printing this material with their eyes shut so tightly? (EDITORIAL NOTE: "MSU" does not print the Montclarion. It is run and managed, in content and style, entirely by the students.)

What does it say about our school and community now that I no longer feel safe parking in Lot 28? Instead of informing us of these crimes and then turning the other cheek, something needs to be done. Cop cars need to do rounds up and down the vast rows of parking lots, especially in Lot 28, on a regular basis.

It's great that they found cars on campus with broken locks that had been stolen from other towns, but that doesn't do much for the cars that are being stolen and driven off of campus. Reporting things like, "when student returned, car was missing" leaves students feeling uneasy and unsettled; at least I have experienced this myself as well with a few others I have spoken with. What was done to follow up on this? What was the result? Should I take the bus to class tomorrow?

I think that the way our campus has reacted to this problem is disappointing and insufficient. This applies to authorities as well as our student body (we need to speak up about this in order to get security tightened). I understand that security can't watch over every car every second of the day, but it would certainly help put my mind at ease if I thought that they were at least trying.

Sincerely,
Diana Martyn, sophomore Attacking Afghanistan: Maybe More Than We Bargained For?

I dropped a class from my schedule upon finding out that all of the "classroom" interaction was to take place online. I wasn't informed of the plan beforehand, and I find this, among other things, very disturbing. Upon arriving at the first session, I was informed by the instructor that we would have Wednesday nights for a lecture. There would be no Monday class and no personal interaction with the students and the professor. All "classroom" interaction and "discussion" would take place online. If we wanted to be "known" by the professor and our fellow students, we were told that a digital photograph would be taken and posted online with our name. He gave us the option of posting or not posting our digital images. He said we may want to remain anonymous as he did when he was in school.

This is not the kind of experience that I want from my college education. I would not have moved to Montclair to attend MSU if I knew that my Wednesdays would be tied up for a class I'm not taking, after classes have begun, and no notification was given to me when this was decided. I feel that the university should have told everyone to get home as best as they could when the school was closed.

I don't argue with the fact that it's important for students to learn how to write clearly and coherently, but most students already know how to do this. As he described the pros and cons of online learning, there was absolutely no mention of the importance of developing interpersonal skills. These are skills we need in the workplace, and don't get from online learning.

I think it's outrageous that no notification was given to me regarding this online learning situation. I've had to drop this course after classes have begun, and now have hundreds of dollars fed up for a class I'm not taking, and I still have been able to take the course load I want.

Online learning may be fine for those who prefer it, but it's clearly not for everyone. It's a shame to see this online learning experience take place at the expense of the actual learning experience that can only take place in the classroom. So far, I've enjoyed my personal Msu and classroom experiences of Msu, and I don't want this to change.

By Timothy J. McNally, Sophomore, Studio Arts

Opinion

Learning Online, Like It or Not

Learning Online, Like It or Not

Attacking Afghanistan: Maybe More Than We Bargained For?

Montclair Mailbag

Anger at MSU: School remains open despite events of September 11th

I dropped a class from my schedule upon finding out that all of the "classroom" interaction was to take place online. I wasn't informed of the plan beforehand, and I find this, among other things, very disturbing. Upon arriving at the first session, I was informed by the instructor that we would have Wednesday nights for a lecture. There would be no Monday class and no personal interaction with the students and the professor. All "classroom" interaction and "discussion" would take place online. If we wanted to be "known" by the professor and our fellow students, we were told that a digital photograph would be taken and posted online with our name. He gave us the option of posting or not posting our digital images. He said we may want to remain anonymous as he did when he was in school.

This is not the kind of experience that I want from my college education. I would not have moved to Montclair to attend MSU if I knew that my Wednesdays would be tied up for a class I'm not taking, after classes have begun, and no notification was given to me when this was decided. I feel that the university should have told everyone to get home as best as they could when the school was closed.

I don't argue with the fact that it's important for students to learn how to write clearly and coherently, but most students already know how to do this. As he described the pros and cons of online learning, there was absolutely no mention of the importance of developing interpersonal skills. These are skills we need in the workplace, and don't get from online learning.

I think it's outrageous that no notification was given to me regarding this online learning situation. I've had to drop this course after classes have begun, and now have hundreds of dollars fed up for a class I'm not taking, and I still have been able to take the course load I want.

Online learning may be fine for those who prefer it, but it's clearly not for everyone. It's a shame to see this online learning experience take place at the expense of the actual learning experience that can only take place in the classroom. So far, I've enjoyed my personal Msu and classroom experiences of Msu, and I don't want this to change.

By Timothy J. McNally, Sophomore, Studio Arts

Anger at MSU: School remains open despite events of September 11th

I dropped a class from my schedule upon finding out that all of the "classroom" interaction was to take place online. I wasn't informed of the plan beforehand, and I find this, among other things, very disturbing. Upon arriving at the first session, I was informed by the instructor that we would have Wednesday nights for a lecture. There would be no Monday class and no personal interaction with the students and the professor. All "classroom" interaction and "discussion" would take place online. If we wanted to be "known" by the professor and our fellow students, we were told that a digital photograph would be taken and posted online with our name. He gave us the option of posting or not posting our digital images. He said we may want to remain anonymous as he did when he was in school.

This is not the kind of experience that I want from my college education. I would not have moved to Montclair to attend MSU if I knew that my Wednesdays would be tied up for a class I'm not taking, after classes have begun, and no notification was given to me when this was decided. I feel that the university should have told everyone to get home as best as they could when the school was closed.

I don't argue with the fact that it's important for students to learn how to write clearly and coherently, but most students already know how to do this. As he described the pros and cons of online learning, there was absolutely no mention of the importance of developing interpersonal skills. These are skills we need in the workplace, and don't get from online learning.

I think it's outrageous that no notification was given to me regarding this online learning situation. I've had to drop this course after classes have begun, and now have hundreds of dollars fed up for a class I'm not taking, and I still have been able to take the course load I want.

Online learning may be fine for those who prefer it, but it's clearly not for everyone. It's a shame to see this online learning experience take place at the expense of the actual learning experience that can only take place in the classroom. So far, I've enjoyed my personal Msu and classroom experiences of Msu, and I don't want this to change.

By Timothy J. McNally, Sophomore, Studio Arts

Anger at MSU: School remains open despite events of September 11th

I dropped a class from my schedule upon finding out that all of the "classroom" interaction was to take place online. I wasn't informed of the plan beforehand, and I find this, among other things, very disturbing. Upon arriving at the first session, I was informed by the instructor that we would have Wednesday nights for a lecture. There would be no Monday class and no personal interaction with the students and the professor. All "classroom" interaction and "discussion" would take place online. If we wanted to be "known" by the professor and our fellow students, we were told that a digital photograph would be taken and posted online with our name. He gave us the option of posting or not posting our digital images. He said we may want to remain anonymous as he did when he was in school.

This is not the kind of experience that I want from my college education. I would not have moved to Montclair to attend MSU if I knew that my Wednesdays would be tied up for a class I'm not taking, after classes have begun, and no notification was given to me when this was decided. I feel that the university should have told everyone to get home as best as they could when the school was closed.

I don't argue with the fact that it's important for students to learn how to write clearly and coherently, but most students already know how to do this. As he described the pros and cons of online learning, there was absolutely no mention of the importance of developing interpersonal skills. These are skills we need in the workplace, and don't get from online learning.

I think it's outrageous that no notification was given to me regarding this online learning situation. I've had to drop this course after classes have begun, and now have hundreds of dollars fed up for a class I'm not taking, and I still have been able to take the course load I want.

Online learning may be fine for those who prefer it, but it's clearly not for everyone. It's a shame to see this online learning experience take place at the expense of the actual learning experience that can only take place in the classroom. So far, I've enjoyed my personal Msu and classroom experiences of Msu, and I don't want this to change.

By Timothy J. McNally, Sophomore, Studio Arts

Anger at MSU: School remains open despite events of September 11th

I dropped a class from my schedule upon finding out that all of the "classroom" interaction was to take place online. I wasn't informed of the plan beforehand, and I find this, among other things, very disturbing. Upon arriving at the first session, I was informed by the instructor that we would have Wednesday nights for a lecture. There would be no Monday class and no personal interaction with the students and the professor. All "classroom" interaction and "discussion" would take place online. If we wanted to be "known" by the professor and our fellow students, we were told that a digital photograph would be taken and posted online with our name. He gave us the option of posting or not posting our digital images. He said we may want to remain anonymous as he did when he was in school.

This is not the kind of experience that I want from my college education. I would not have moved to Montclair to attend MSU if I knew that my Wednesdays would be tied up for a class I'm not taking, after classes have begun, and no notification was given to me when this was decided. I feel that the university should have told everyone to get home as best as they could when the school was closed.

I don't argue with the fact that it's important for students to learn how to write clearly and coherently, but most students already know how to do this. As he described the pros and cons of online learning, there was absolutely no mention of the importance of developing interpersonal skills. These are skills we need in the workplace, and don't get from online learning.

I think it's outrageous that no notification was given to me regarding this online learning situation. I've had to drop this course after classes have begun, and now have hundreds of dollars fed up for a class I'm not taking, and I still have been able to take the course load I want.

Online learning may be fine for those who prefer it, but it's clearly not for everyone. It's a shame to see this online learning experience take place at the expense of the actual learning experience that can only take place in the classroom. So far, I've enjoyed my personal Msu and classroom experiences of Msu, and I don't want this to change.

By Timothy J. McNally, Sophomore, Studio Arts

Anger at MSU: School remains open despite events of September 11th
Students: Earn Extra Money
while raising critical funds for MSU!!!
Sign up NOW to be a caller at PHONATHON!!!

When?
Monday-Thursday nights from 5-9 p.m.
(flexible schedule)
November 5-8
November 12-15
November 26-29

Requirements?
Dependability Enthusiasm
Good phone personality

Experience?
None required, we'll train you!

Incentive?
Students paid $5.50/hour

Details?
During phonathon, students call parents of MSU students and alumni, whose donations provide funding for scholarships, research, and programming.

Call LIZ at 973-655-7472 and sign up now!
Another One Of Them Rainy Days

By Brian Cross
Humour® Editor

As we sit by our windows and look outside into a world that has been blackened by events that we will never forget, one can see the changes taking it's toll on our environment. While cars clang in America, flags waving from the antennas pass down the streets, we can see the leaves flying through the air, drifting aimlessly in the wind, like a small child to be boasted around by a wave. We can feel the cold breeze spinning around us on those days wishing we had listened to mom and put a jacket on. And as the season turns to autumn, we are back at school watching the trees turn from green, to yellow, to red, and watching the hot humid afternoons turn to cold and dreary rainy days.

It is those rainy days that are the worst part of campus life. Even days like Thursday, where you have a heavy class load, and a party to attend. The best way to beat a wave is by the splitting of water from the fluffy clouds above. When you wake up, scratch you butt, and walk to the window to see how the weather is, you'll have forgotten your umbrella and the fact that by the time you get to the nearest bus stop, where, for the next 40 minutes rain will pounce on your head like a fat guy pounces on donuts.

And God's little assistant in the Ivory tower department will be happy to bless you with a broken umbrella. At your point it skywards to stop the drowning force of precipitation, your umbrella will turn itself inside out and transform from a shield that deflects the rain from hitting you, into a large cup that will collect the water. Or rain, making your best attempt to dodge each drop as it comes racing towards you.

Finally that bus will turn the corner, and as you step off the bus and feel the soaking rain from hitting you, into a large wave of water at you, then it will conveniently come to a stop. Sopping wet, you'll climb aboard the bus and sit in the seat where some dimwit has left a puddle that will leave a big water stain on your jacket on. And as the season turns to autumn, we are back at school looking from the window. This will never forget, one can see the changes taking it's toll on our environment.

In the pouring rain, you'll point your head to avoid the waves. By the time you get to your dorm, you'll curse twice as you make a short walk to Dickson Hall. In the pouring rain, you'll point your head to the ground looking like a zombie slowly shifting your way to class. And as you continue your way to class, you'll swear at every person you see who has an umbrella that works twice in every language you know.

Then comes the worst part of the day. Showing up just 5 minutes after the class has started, you'll be forced to open the door to the classroom, gathering everyone's attention to look your way and see you soaked from head to toe. You stand there and look with contempt at the rest of the class, who by some miracle have been able to avoid the waves upon waves of raindrops that plagued you all day long.

So finally you have arrived in class, the rain can no longer bother you anymore, you are safe and sound, since the classroom has no windows, you seem to forget all these things, you look your way and see you soaked from head to toe. We can feel the cold breeze spinning around us on those days wishing we had listened to mom and put a jacket on. And as the season turns to autumn, we are back at school watching the trees turn from green, to yellow, to red, and watching the hot humid afternoons turn to cold and dreary rainy days.

September 27, 2001

Becky thought she had outsmarted the rain by attempting to blow dry the rain drops before they hit her head. Just before she was electricuted, she found out she was wrong.

To protect against brutal building, Jenny develops a controversial anti-hole dressing system... and this student's vision improved dramatically. He was forced to look for another job.

Solutions

www.montclarion.com
ARIES (March 21 - April 19): We hate to break it to you, but, well, the reason no one wants to talk to you is because of that fetus growing out the side of your face. There is an upside, though, charging people to look at you as part of a freak show will help fund the operation to remove the growth.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20): Don't even try and fight it this week. Everyone loves you, everyone wants to be with you. You will succeed with everything you try this week, you will get happy-drunk and massive-laid. You're welcome.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 21): Feel free, you're doing lots and lots of talking and absolutely no one's listening? Well, you're right.

CANCER (June 22 - July 22): Your creative juices are flowing like rivers this week, so start working on those big term papers now. Stay up all hours of the night, that second wind will feel more like a hurricane and you'll be the most productive you're going to be all semester.

Leo (July 23 - August 22): Denial ain't just a river in Egypt, Virgo. You've got a lot to deal with this week quit hiding already and face the music.

LIBRA (September 23 - October 22): Cut class all week, stay in your room and play on the computer. During a marathon session of playing the new Sims House Party, you will discover the meaning of life.

SCORPIO (October 23 - November 21): Good things come in small packages. We're not saying that bad things come in large packages, but, hey, never mind. We've been to Fatchicksinpartyhats.com.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 - December 21): You will spontaneously collapse upon yourself and become a black hole. This will provide for endless entertainment at parties.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 19): What exactly is a Capricorn anyway? Of all the zodiac signs, a Capricorn, literally half goat, half-fish, doesn't exist in real life (although in some circles, virgins don't exactly exist either). You're feeling precisely the same way this week, like you don't fit in no matter how hard you try. Stop trying. Go ahead and pledge. Instant friends! Instant social life!

AQUARIUS (January 20 - February 18): Your quick wit and sharp tongue come in handy this week as your roommate runs a marathon of B-movies so bad they rival those shown on Mystery Science Theater 3000. Unfortunately, or fortunately, this pisses off your roommate and all their friends. After the cat-fight, they do finally leave, but we'd sleep with one eye open afterwards if we were you.

PICTUS (February 19 - March 20): Remember your high school sweet heart? Remember all the good times you had? Yeah, well, don't you're over you and we suggest you do the same... and stop it with the malt liquor and Ben & Jerry's binges. It's doing horrors for your girlish figure... and your breath.
child care wanted

Childcare (P/T) needed in Wayne home by Route 23 for 9-year-old child. Weeknights from 5:00-6:30 PM. Must have car. Call 973-628-7057 after 7:00 PM.

After school care needed for 3 children ages 7 (twins) & 8, three days, 3:45-6:30 p.m. Prefer Tuesday, Wednesday & Thursday, but flexible. Walking distance to MSU. Call 201-214-0783.

Childcare - 20 hrs/week. Responsible babysitter for 3-year-old in Montclair home (15 min from MSU). Valid driver's license and references a must. Call 973-746-4079 between 9 am to 7 pm.

Kidsitter Needed - Monday through Friday, 3:15-6:15 p.m. for two children, girl age 9, boy age 7. $10-12/hour. Experience and references required. Start ASAP. 973-367-1339.

Wanted: Energetic, independent childcare provider for 3 children ages 10, 12, 16. Must be great driver with own car. M-F 2:30-6:30. References required. 973-509-0940 or 2561.

Experienced sitter wanted for 2 children in Upper Montclair one or two evenings per week. Prefer local references and own transportation. Call 973-333-0355.

Seeking competent and kind individual to care for nine and 10-year-old weekdays 3 p.m. - 7:30 p.m. in Montclair. Must be able to help with homework, make simple dinners, drive. Call 973-744-7344.

Responsible individual to care for toddler in my Little Falls home. Flexible hours - negotiable hourly wage. Please call Alisa at 973-812-7931.

Sitter Needed: Two Mondays and three Thursdays a month, 2:30 p.m. until 7:30 p.m. in our Montclair home. Responsible person with automobile. Education majors encouraged to apply. $9/hr. Call Alainia 973-783-4589.

Part time childcare needed after school for 2 children in Montclair (6 & 8 years old). 2 days/week. Must have driver's license and solid references. Call for more details. 973-529-6038.

Childcare needed for two wonderful bright boys ages 6 and 9 in Upper Montclair. Thursday eves 7-9:30 p.m. Additional eves possible. Compensation good. Call Maureen at 973-744-3270.

Responsible early bird can make easy cash. "Kidsitter" needed to take my child to Upper Montclair bus stop. M-F, 7:45-8:45 a.m. Close to MSU. Need car. Call Nancy 973-783-7408.

Pre-School teacher and teacher's aides needed. 8.27.01 openings in Fort Lee Day care. P/T and P/T positions available. Flexible for students. Must have some experience. Call 201-842-9642.

Part-time Administrative Assistant for Fairfield Real Estate Appraisal Office. Ideal for student wishing to work through school year. Very flexible work hours. Call 973-808-6240.

Attention Art Students: Nationally recognized folk artist seeks students with creative abilities to paint Santas, snowmen and more. Year round work $10-$12 hr. P/T. Minutes from college. 973-851-7649.

Part-time to work in an Optometrist office in Wayne. 2-3 evenings from 4:30 to 8:30 p.m. and weekends a must. No experience necessary. Willing to train a quick learner who enjoys helping others. Call Dina 973-256-2228.

egg donors wanted

Healthy woman of Italian descent, age 21-32. Compensation $5000. For egg donation, call Judy for information: 973-761-5600, 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Montclair State University

Limited Space
First Come, First Served

Sponsored by the Residence Hall Association
A weekend in Montreal, Canada

November 1st—4th

- Roundtrip Motorcoach Transportation
- Two nights hotel accommodations at the Hotel Maritime Downtown
- Vagabond Tours escort
- Optional sightseeing literary provided by Vagabond Tours escort

Cost—Must be a Montclair State University Student
Resident Student—$140
Commuter Student—$160
(per person, 4 person occupancy)

Montreal Weekend

Sponsored by the Residence Hall Association
A weekend in Montreal, Canada

November 1st—4th

- Roundtrip Motorcoach Transportation
- Two nights hotel accommodations at the Hotel Maritime Downtown
- Vagabond Tours escort
- Optional sightseeing literary provided by Vagabond Tours escort

Cost—Must be a Montclair State University Student
Resident Student—$140
Commuter Student—$160
(per person, 4 person occupancy)

MONTREAL WEEKEND

Sponsored by the Residence Hall Association
A weekend in Montreal, Canada

November 1st—4th

- Roundtrip Motorcoach Transportation
- Two nights hotel accommodations at the Hotel Maritime Downtown
- Vagabond Tours escort
- Optional sightseeing literary provided by Vagabond Tours escort

Cost—Must be a Montclair State University Student
Resident Student—$140
Commuter Student—$160
(per person, 4 person occupancy)

MONTREAL WEEKEND

Sponsored by the Residence Hall Association
A weekend in Montreal, Canada

November 1st—4th

- Roundtrip Motorcoach Transportation
- Two nights hotel accommodations at the Hotel Maritime Downtown
- Vagabond Tours escort
- Optional sightseeing literary provided by Vagabond Tours escort

Cost—Must be a Montclair State University Student
Resident Student—$140
Commuter Student—$160
(per person, 4 person occupancy)

MONTREAL WEEKEND

Sponsored by the Residence Hall Association
A weekend in Montreal, Canada

November 1st—4th

- Roundtrip Motorcoach Transportation
- Two nights hotel accommodations at the Hotel Maritime Downtown
- Vagabond Tours escort
- Optional sightseeing literary provided by Vagabond Tours escort

Cost—Must be a Montclair State University Student
Resident Student—$140
Commuter Student—$160
(per person, 4 person occupancy)
TRUE OR FALSE?

25% OF PEOPLE SAY THEY CAN DETECT THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN HOW EACH NOSTRIL PERCEIVES SMELL.

AMERICANS EAT APPROXIMATELY 350 SLICES OF PIZZA PER SECOND.

7 OUT OF 100 AMERICANS HAVE FLOSSED THEIR TEETH WITH THEIR HAIR.

MEN BURP 4.7 TIMES PER DAY WHILE WOMEN BURP 2.1 TIMES PER DAY.

8% OF COLLEGE STUDENTS HAVE NOT WATCHED T.V. IN THE LAST WEEK.

COLLEGE STUDENTS DRINK, ON AVERAGE, FEWER THAN ONE ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE A DAY.*

ONE OUT OF EVERY FOUR AMERICANS HAS APPEARED ON TV.

3.9% OF WOMEN DON’T WEAR ANY UNDERWEAR. 6.4% OF MEN GO COMMANDO.

*SOURCE: CORE INSTITUTE 2000

GUESS WHAT? EVERY ONE OF THESE IS TRUE. MOST IMPORTANTLY, COLLEGE STUDENTS ARE MAKING RESPONSIBLE CHOICES ABOUT DRINKING. THANKS FOR MAKING INTELLIGENT CHOICES THE NORM.

THE 200+ PUBLIC UNIVERSITIES OF THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF STATE UNIVERSITIES AND LAND-GRANT COLLEGES (NASULGC)

www.beeresponsible.com
One Last Visit to the Mound

Conway, Wurst, Allan and the 4-Year Red Hawks’ Run

By Andy Seyka
Assistant Sports Editor

When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series, more than just a season was over for the Red Hawks. Also over was the most successful four-year run in the rich history of MSU’s baseball program. Between 1998 and 2001, the Red Hawks compiled an impressive overall record of 445-188-7 in his 14 years at MSU.

“When the Red Hawks made it all the way to the national championship game in Salem, Virginia where they fell to Eastern Connecticut, two years later with the national tournament being played in Grand Chute, Wisconsin, MSU won the school’s third national title as they rebounded from a loss in the opening game of the series. The Red Hawks returned to Grand Chute this spring and were once again playing on the final day of the event.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

M arietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series was a remarkable feat for the Red Hawks. Between their four-year run in the rich history of MSU’s baseball program, Between 1998 and 2001, the Red Hawks compiled an overall record of 143-47-2. In regular season NJAC play, they were 62-10, including an unprecedented 34-2 over the last two seasons. A remarkable feat when you consider that the NJAC is considered one of the top college baseball conferences in the country.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.

“When Marietta’s Kris Burley struck out Sean Morrison for the final out of Marietta’s 3-2 win over MSU in the Division III College World Series.” Schoenig said.
Soccer continues to Play Without Much to Show

By John Montesano

On Saturday, the 22nd of September, MSU played against Worcester State and suffered a tough loss to fall back under .500 and could not obtain their second win in a row or a winning record for the first time since early this season when they start 2-0. Sean Pasieka, Steve Leonard, and Andrew Macho scored the goals in this game. Matt Caswell claimed the only assist.

Due up next for the soccer team is their second conference game, which was played on Wednesday of home and they travel to Rowan for another NJAC game, which will be played Saturday night.

So far the soccer team has shown signs of success by picking up a tie and a win, which ended their previous three game slide, but was handed a one goal loss in their last game.

Upset

Continued from p.32

Laura,” said Strunk.

“All we showed up to play and we were all on,” said Popes who leads the team with 19 points (9 goals, 1 assist).

All the scoring was done in the first half. The Lions opened up the scoring 29 minutes remaining in the half. MSU answered back three minutes later and the teams would trade goals for the rest of the half.

The second half both teams were blanked by the goats.

Sophomore Teisha Winkle made 10 saves all together, including three saves in the overtime period against TCNJ.

Two games later, the Red Hawks upped their record to 4-3 with a three-game winning streak that included a 5-1 victory over SUNY New Paltz.

Popes added three goals, while sophomore Sarah Levine added two.

Against Muhlenberg, Popes and Levine added one goal apiece for a 2-0 victory.

“We have the confidence now,” continued Popes. “We proved that we can beat anyone.”

“We’re still feeling the effects of that loss against TCNJ,” said Strunk.

Turning points last as long as your memory, Schoenig said. “Craig Conway is going to be replaced at the level that we have these last four years doesn’t come around too often.

“Everybody’s replaced,” Schoenig said. “Craig Conway is going to be replaced and Dave Wurst and everybody’s going to be replaced and there is no doubt about that.

To replace them to the degree that they produced as people and as players, that is going to be the tough part. In my mind it’s going to be a long time before those people are going to be replaced at the level they produced at.”
game, lost [the] lead and then we came back again. That's probably the most important development of us as a football team, being able to deal with that," said Head Football Coach Rick Giancola of his team responding to adversity. "I think that's an important ingredient that a good team has to face at some point in the year to be able to say 'we can come back,'" Giancola concluded. "All those things are happening to us, but we can still pull it out, get ourselves righted and then take the game back into control."

Other than a mental lapse where the MSU defense got burned by a Stockton 33-yard bomb to Minoff to give Iona some life, trailing 20-33, and a third Collins interception, the Red Hawks coasted through the rest of the game. MSU wide receiver Eric Magrini capped off an amazing performance with a 33-yard touchdown catch to put away Iona early in the fourth quarter. Magrini would add a 12th reception for 23 yards to tie his career mark for receptions in a game, and Brian Scipio's 15-year-old MSU single-game record of 197 yards receiving.

Magrini, who was unimpressive against Wilkes, has gotten back to his old self over the past two games. "Once me and Ed start clicking, we're in the zone and can't be stopped," said the cocky, but incredibly hard-working, Magrini who felt the need to showboat after almost every catch against Iona. "On offense this week, they played a lot of man-to-man on me and I knew I could beat my defender. I saw it on film [in practice]." While Magrini was having a career game, the run game continued to improve as Freer, Jamarr Buie, and Joe D'lorio combined for 164 yards on 28 carries and three touchdowns, all by Freer.

"It tells our opponents that you have to play both phases of our offense. You have to defend us with the run and the pass. You can't come into a game plan and say, 'stop Collins and the passing game and we win,'" said Giancola. "Football's a three prong sport [offense, defense, and special teams]. When one phase falts, it's critical that the other two phases pick up on that and carry it for a while. If the players learn that, which I think they do then we're going to become better and better each week. And that's what we're striving for."

---

Fleet HomeLink

Visit any Fleet branch or call 1-800-CALL-FLEET to sign up.

The Fleet Student Banking Package. Total Access To Your Money.
Sports

Freer, Buie - Off and Running

Football Run Game Finally Making Its Presence Felt

By Andy Seyka
Assistant Sports Editor

Last season, the longest run by an MSU running back was 17 yards. With just under six minutes remaining in MSU’s 46-20 shellacking of Iona, senior transfer Elijah Freer ran 24 yards for a Red Hawk touchdown.

The touchdown, Freer’s third of the game, was one for the highlight reel, as he broke three tackles on his way to the end zone.

“That was a great effort by him [Freer],” Head Football Coach Rick Giancola said. “We didn’t block that play very well. He broke some tackles and it was just a great effort.”

MSU’s senior left tackle Nick Gregorio gives all the credit to Freer.

“That play was all him [Freer],” Gregorio said. “We are definitely glad Elijah’s here.”

In three years with NJAC rival Rowan, Freer saw only limited action, carrying the ball only 51 times for 182 yards.

“During this past year [Rowan] switched their offense and if I would have stayed there I would not have had a part in their offense,” Freer said. “I just thank Coach G [Giancola] for letting me be a part of this team and I just want to help us win.”

All Freer wanted was an opportunity. He got it from Giancola and early on this season he has made the most of it.

“I told him a week before he came here that there’s no guarantees,” Giancola said. “He’s worked real hard, he doesn’t say a word in practice, he practices really hard and he’s come on to become a pretty good running back. I’ve been really pleased with his effort.”

Against Iona, with junior starting tailback Laquan Majette out with an injured neck, Freer and freshmen Jamal Buie rushed for a combined 146 yards on 23 carries.

“That is what we would like to have the tailback spot get,” Giancola said. “We would (ike that spot to get 20 to 25 carries and quite frankly it doesn’t matter which tailback is doing it. As long as they’re productive, they will get that opportunity.”

Buie, Freer’s running mate last Saturday rushed eight times for 64 yards, averaging eight yards per carry. He set up MSU’s second touchdown with an eight-yard run to the Iona six-yard-line.

“If the Red Hawks continue to prove to their opponents that they can run the ball, the passing attack can become even more potent if that happens,” Giancola said. “Other teams think that we’re just going to come after them with our throwing game.”

Collins said. “Now we can come after them and smack them in the mouth with the running game. It gives the defense something extra to think about.”

If the Red Hawks continue to prove to their opponents that they can run the ball, the passing attack can become even more potent if that happens, then the rest of the NJAC should watch out as the Red Hawks look to win their third consecutive conference championship.

“IF we keep getting better each week, we’re going to be pretty dangerous,” Gregorio said. “I’m real excited.”

Elijah Freer breaks through the Iona defense in the fourth quarter for a 24-yard touchdown surpassing last years longest run of 17 yards.
Football

Through 9/26

NJAC Overall

- TCNJ: 2-0, 3-0
- Rowan: 1-0, 3-0
- Cortland St.: 1-0, 1-2
- WPU: 0-0, 1-2
- NJCU: 0-0, 0-2
- MSU: 0-0, 3-0
- Kean: 0-0, 1-1

Men's Soccer

- NJAC Overall
  - TCNJ: 2-0, 6-0-1
  - Rowan: 1-0, 4-2-0
  - WPU: 1-0, 3-6-1
  - MSU: 0-0, 1-4-1
  - Rutgers-Newark: 0-0, 2-1-1
  - NJCU: 0-0, 1-6-1
  - Richard Stockton: 0-1, 1-6-1
  - Rutgers-Camden: 0-1, 1-3-2-1
  - Ramapo: 0-2, 0-2-5

Women's Soccer

- NJAC Overall
  - TCNJ: 2-0, 6-0-1
  - Rowan: 1-0, 4-2-0
  - WPU: 1-0, 3-6-1
  - MSU: 0-0, 1-4-1
  - Rutgers-Newark: 0-0, 2-1-1
  - NJCU: 0-0, 1-6-1
  - Richard Stockton: 0-1, 1-6-1
  - Rutgers-Camden: 0-1, 1-3-2-1
  - Ramapo: 0-2, 0-2-5

Field Hockey

- NJAC Overall
  - TCNJ: 2-0, 6-0-1
  - Rowan: 1-0, 4-2-0
  - WPU: 1-0, 3-6-1
  - MSU: 0-0, 1-4-1
  - Rutgers-Newark: 0-0, 2-1-1
  - NJCU: 0-0, 1-6-1
  - Richard Stockton: 0-1, 1-6-1
  - Rutgers-Camden: 0-1, 1-3-2-1
  - Ramapo: 0-2, 0-2-5

Tennis

- NJAC Overall
  - MSU: 2-0, 5-0
  - TCNJ: 1-0, 1-0
  - Rutgers-Newark: 1-0, 0-2
  - Ramapo: 1-0, 0-2
  - Kean: 0-0, 0-0

Volleyball

- NJAC Overall
  - Kean: 1-0, 7-2
  - Rutgers-Newark: 1-0, 4-4
  - Richard Stockton: 1-0, 6-8
  - WPU: 1-0, 3-5
  - Rowan: 0-0, 6-2
  - MSU: 0-0, 0-0
  - Ramapo: 0-0, 0-0
  - NJCU: 0-0, 0-0

---

Red Hawk ACTION

FOOTBALL

Sat. 29 @ Cortland St. 1 p.m.

MEN'S SOCCER

Sat. 29 @ Rowan* 7:30 p.m.
Wed. 3 vs Kean* 4 p.m.

WOMEN'S SOCCER

Sat. 29 vs Rowan* 12 p.m.
Mon. 1 vs FDU-Madison 8 p.m.
Wed. 3 @ Stevens Tech TBA

FIELD HOCKEY

Thu. 27 Drew 8 p.m.
Sat.-Sun. 29-30 @Wesley Tournament

VOLLEYBALL

Fri. 28 @ Rowan* 7 p.m.
Tue. 2 @ Rutgers-Newark* 7 p.m.
Fri.-Sun. 28-30 ITA's ©Williams TBA

---

Honorable Mention

Football

- Eric Magrini
  - Junior Wide Receiver
  - Hometown: Wayne, NJ
  - Magrini tied two school records with 12 receptions and 197 receiving yards. He also scored a touchdown as the Red Hawks beat TCNJ for the first time since 1980. Pope would then add 1 and 3 goals in her next two games to help MSU go 3-0 for the week.

- Ed Collins
  - Senior Quarterback
  - Hometown: Union, NJ
  - Collins threw for a new season high 384 yards and threw 3 touchdown passes. Collins also ran for 46 yards on 5 carries including a TD run of 1-yard against Iona.

- Elijah Freer
  - Senior Runningback
  - Hometown: Asbury Park, NJ
  - Freer ran for 82 yards and scored 3 touchdowns on 15 carries against Iona. Freer averages 5.5 yards per carry including a 24-yard run that ended in the endzone.

- Tiffany Aciz
  - Freshman OH/DEF
  - Hometown: Seaucus, NJ
  - Aciz had 29 kills, 17 service aces and was named to the Bridgewater (MA) Volleyball Invitational's All-Tournament Team.
MSU Upset Strikes

6th Ranked Lions

Field Hockey Defeats the Lions after 21-Year Losing Streak

By Mike Sanchez

Walking out to a field before a game with a chance to win is normal for every team. When the MSU field hockey team stepped into the field against the College of New Jersey over the last 21 years, that confidence wasn't really there.

Going into Saturday's contest at Sprague Field against TCNJ, ranked 6th in Division III, MSU stepped into the field knowing their chances were slim to defeat a team that they haven't beat since October 17, 1980.

But after the game, the team's spirit was completely different. MSU defeated TCNJ in overtime 4-3, the first time it defeated the Lions since October 17, 1980.

MSU's Andrea Ulicny leaps over a TCNJ defender in the first half of what would become a memorable day.

By Eli Gelman

Air and Ground Attack

Montclair State 46

Lions 20

i

Thunders Past Gaels

Red Hawks Defeat Division I-AA Iona

And Remain Undefeated

By Eli Gelman

Assistant Sports Editor

After a close call when Mark "Money" Hall appeared to fumble on a punt return with just over two minutes left in the second quarter, Iona was called for a 12-yard interference, so MSU retained the football. Then MSU came back and scored twice before the end of the half to go up 27-13 on a Collins quarterback keeper and a Dorsey 11-yard touchdown catch with 25 seconds left in the half. The latter was the exclamation point on a beautifully executed two-minute drill.

"We had a lead, made some bad plays, allowed them to get back in the ball..."